TERREPORTER AND THE SERVICE DIGIT 66612

K-State discus thrower Pinkie Suggs proves with a record throw that a year off as a redshirt has made her better than ever. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Thursday January 22, 1987

Volume 93, Number 82

Kansas State University

Stadium may receive facility improvements

By DAVE WAGNER Sports Writer

KSU Stadium may soon have a different look if a plan for improvements proposed by football coach Stan Parrish is suc-

A proposal has been submitted to the KSU Foundation to begin a fund-raising campaign to upgrade locker room and weight lifting facilities at KSU Stadium, Athletic Director Larry Travis said Wednesday.

The proposed changes would include expanding the locker room and providing more space for the weight room at a cost of approximately $80,000, he said.

According to sources with the football program, Parrish also announced to his football squad at the first official meeting of the spring semester the possibility that within the next two or three years, K-State may replace the artificial turf at the stadium with natural grass.

As of yet, though, there has not been a public announcement concerning such a change.

"I don't know anything about that. Sometimes, maybe the coaches might talk about it, but we have not made any plans for changing our turf as of now,' Travis said. Parrish was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Normally, fund-raising for a project such as the weight lifting facility and locker room upgrade doesn't begin until

ed. But, to the surprise of Foundation President Art Loub, a check was received from a private donor in support of the project before he had any knowledge of the

"To some degree yes (it was a surprise)," Loub said. "Considering that this happens from time-to-time...it really isn't a complete surprise."

"We have discussed the feasibility with some donors and they were interested in helping us and wanted to get some tax breaks before the new year so they sent it in on the hope that we'll be able to get it done," Travis said.

Normal procedure for any fund-raising project at K-State is to first get approval of the administrative committee, which, among others, includes Loub and University President Jon Wefald. From there, if approved, the proposal is passed on to the Foundation's executive committee.

Initial approval from the administrative committee has been granted and the proposal will be presented to the executive committee at its Jan. 27 meeting.

"It's now up to the executive committee to cast the final judgment," Loub said. "They don't always follow our recommendations. It's made up of strong knowledgeable people who act on their own conscience.

Travis said changes Parrish had requested are necessary.

"Our locker room at the stadium is real-

See CHANGES, Page 10

Norton says King's dream still eludes blacks, nation

historical figure. "We may not yet be able to fully assess the meaning of King's achievements as only history can, but we can certainly assess the achievements of our country in moving forward his goals," she said.

By BECKY HOWARD

Staff Writer

As long as the work of Martin Luther King

Jr. remains unfinished, he will not be an icon in history as other great leaders have been, said Eleanor Holmes Norton, Georgetown

University law professor, who spoke at a University convocation Wednesday honoring

Speaking to an audience in McCain

Auditorium, Norton said because the work toward equality King began is not complete, he himself cannot be evaluated as a

the slain civil rights leader.

Norton, former chairwoman of the New York City Commission on Human Rights and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, said the establishment of the national observance of King's birthday must be seen as more than just a holiday.

"Hereafter, many people may only see King as a great man whose birthday is a national holiday," Norton said. "For sometime to come, we must wrestle with the context and the meaning of King's legacy

"One way to commemorate the King holiday is to use the occasion to examine the issue of race, especially in some of its more controversial contexts, against the American standard of freedom other Americans have experienced, to make a racial assessment of how far we have comand why."

Norton said the work accomplished by King has reached a stagnant period in comparison to the highly active era of the '60s, when many of the advancements in civil rights were made. "Presidential administrations since King's assassination have not been helpful in continuing what he began," Norton said. "Although we have come a long way, there are still many more issues, especially complex ones in racial equality to be considered and improved upon. Norton cited some of the new challenges blacks must face in a continuing quest for equality, including the importance of strengthening the black family, unemployment, poverty, the encouragement of black business and the improvement of education for blacks. "We (blacks) have to work harder to fill in the background we lack with education; that's the message that needs to be sent today," she said. "Somebody needs to tell America there is no easy way to equality. Progress in equality happened out of bitter and frustrating experience. We have to work to continue what Martin Luther King Jr.

Norton began her address with a retrospective view of racial equality

"The United States has evolved differently than other countries where the main struggles have been on equality of economic classes rather than our country, where

See NORTON, Page 5

Admiral wants further facts before deployment of SDI

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The nation's top military officer said Wednesday that more information is needed before the Reagan administration decides whether to deploy some version of a "Star Wars" anti-missile system.

The statement by Adm. William Crowe Jr., chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, came amid reports the administration is considering early deployment of the shield against nuclear attack called Strategic Defense Initiative or SDI, as Star Wars is formally known.

Crowe told the Senate Armed Services Committee that the question of deploying an SDI program was "a topic of discussion" within top-level Pentagon circles.

But he said no decision on deployment should be made "before we know more than we know now.' President Reagan announced the Star Wars research program four years ago. But SDI supporters on Capitol Hill have recently pushed for deployment of some early stages of a system, arguing that Congress is unlikely to keep paying for research much longer without a deployment decision. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger told the Senate Armed Services Committee last week that he supports deployment of SDI "as soon as possible" if the system is part of a long-range plan. Attorney General Edwin Meese III also endorsed an early deploy-

Crowe, testifying about the Pentagon's budget for the next fiscal year, was asked by several senators about the SDI deployment reports. Sen. Tim Wirth, D-Colo., said he had heard that Reagan might announce a decision in next week's State of the Union speech, but the admiral replied, "I hadn't heard State of the Union.'

Crowe said military planners are looking at the various SDI research projects to see what type of weapon can be built, but he added it will be "quite some time" before that review is finished.

"My own view is that SDI right now is a research program," he said. "I hear so much said and written that it's (like it is) out there in the parking lot and we don't know where to

When Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., asked whether it was unlikely that a deployment decision could be made this year, Crowe answered, "my personal view would be yes" that such a decision is unlikely.

Officials propose random drug testing

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Transportation Department and Congress began moving Wednesday toward requiring random drug-testing of airline and railroad industry employees, and the department said it plans to test 26,500 of its own workers as well.

Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole disclosed plans for the broad-ranging drug testing and rehabilitation program as several members of Congress said they will introduce drug-testing legislation in the coming days.

The whirlwind of activity involving random drug testing, a controversial issue for some time, came a week after the disclosure that marijuana had been used by two Conrail train operators involved in a collision with an Amtrak passenger train Jan. 4.

Sixteen people were killed and 175 injured in the accident.

"People have a right to expect and receive a drug-free transportation system," Dole said in an interview. "There's no area where a person's decision to use drugs would have a more disastrous impact than in transportation."

She said DOT plans to push for legislation requiring random drugtesting for train operators, but will move on its own through new regulations to require such testing of commercial pilots, flight crews and other aviation employees responsible for safe flight operations.

At the same time the department plans within "three or four weeks" to have in place an internal drugtesting and rehabilitation program for 26,500 DOT employees involved in safety or security related jobs, Dole

The program, which is viewed as a prototype for what the department plans to require for the rail and aviation industries, calls for preemployment drug testing, testing after an accident, random testing and periodic testing of all employees involved in security or safety-related

Drug testing of government employees under a presidential directive issued last year is under court challenge with a trial expected soon in U.S. District Court in New Orleans. Rail and aviation labor groups in the past have strongly denounced any requirements for random drug-testing, claiming it to be unreliable and a violation of an employee's constitutional rights.

Dole acknowledged that random testing "obviously is an emotional issue" that has raised controversy. But, she argued, in the case of workers involved in transportation "you look at a balance between the safety and security needs of the public and the constitutional rights of the individual."

Required random testing for certain safety-related occupations were included initially in a comprehensive anti-drug bill enacted by Congress last year, but the testing provisions were dropped before the bill was finally approved.

Dole said she anticipates the drug testing program at DOT will be in force within three or four months. The aviation industry's program must go through normal rule-making procedures and probably would not be in effect before late 1987, and then it is likely to be challenged in the conference before the All-University Convocation Wednesday in McCain Auditorium.

Eleanor Holmes Norton, Georgetown University law professor, responds to questions at a press

There are no federal requirements for testing airline employees for drugs, although many airlines conduct such tests if drug use is suspected on the part of a pilot. A year-old federal regulation allows testing for probable cause by railroads, but critics argue that it failed to detect marijuana use by the Conrail crew involved in the Amtrak accident.

As Dole announced her plans, several members of Congress said they are ready to introduce legislation calling for drug-testing of workers involved in public transpor-

Legislation offered by Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., calls for random testing of commercial pilots, flight crew and air traffic controllers as well as train operators. "It is only reasonable to expect people who have hundreds of lives in their hands to be drug-free," said Danforth.

"Unfortunately it seems to take a tragedy to move some legislation,' said Rep. E. Clay Shaw, R-Fla.

Senator proposes bill negating welfare cuts began."

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Sen. Wint Winter Jr., R-Lawrence, has drafted for introduction today in the Senate a bill to restore more than $1 million in funding for the state welfare agency which was cut from the budget last week.

Winter's proposal is modest compared to the $8.1 million restoration bill introduced in the House Wednesday by another member of the Lawrence legislative delegation: Rep. Jessie Branson, a Democrat.

"I think it's clear from statements made by members of the Senate that we should revisit these areas and restore the cuts we made last week," Winter said. "This bill would restore funding for children in need, troubled kids, and other people who have no alternatives. I hope we can be realistic about our budget problems and yet respond to the needs of the people.

Although Winter's bill is much less expensive than Branson's, both bills target the same areas: dependent children, foster care and day care.

Winter proposes returning $778,528 of the funding cut from the state welfare agency's aid to dependent children program. He wants $228,000 put back in foster care programs and $17,000 restored to day care funding.

In addition, Winter wants to give $19,000 back to the Kansas Arts Commission to reduce that agency's cut to 3.8 percent because he said it was unfair to ask the commission to swallow the 6 percent budget cut it suffered.

See RESTORE, Page 10

NATIONAL

Reagan to meet with commission

WASHINGTON - A commission investigating U.S. arms sales to Iran and National Security Council operations on Wednesday nailed down an appointment with President Reagan and won three more weeks to finish its work.

While the panel headed by former Sen. John Tower interviewed former President Jimmy Carter in Plains, Ga., White House spokesman Larry Speakes revealed that Reagan will meet with the commission next Monday.

Speakes said Reagan is expected to review White House files with counsel Peter J. Wallison before the session with Tower and two other panel members, former Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie

Speakes said Reagan is expected to review White House files with counsel Peter J. Wallison before the session with Tower and two other panel members, former Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie and former National Security Adviser Brent Scowcroft.

Air Force jets collide; 2 missing

BROWNWOOD, Texas - Two military reconnaissance jets collided and crashed in flames in a remote area Wednesday, and two of the four crew members aboard parachuted to safety, authorities said.

A search was launched for the other two crew members following the collision about 4 p.m. near Lake Brownwood, and human body parts were found among the wreckage, said Fire Capt. Donald Reiger. Airman Scott Herring, a spokesman for Bergstrom Air Force Base, refused to comment on whether the two missing crew members had been killed.

No one on the ground was injured in the accident. Witnesses said they saw three parachutes, one empty, falling to the ground after the crash, said Steve Wittenberg, a dispatcher for the Department of Public Safety.

An officer found the smoldering wreckage in a field just west of Texas Highway 279, a half-mile from Lake Brownwood, he said.

The RF4C Phantom II reconnaissance planes were from Bergstrom and are used primarily for photographic reconnaissance missions, Herring said.

INTERNATIONAL

Soviets attempt to curb birth rate

MOSCOW - Soviet authorities said Wednesday they will try to curb the birth rate in the mostly Moslem republic of Tadzhikistan despite a longstanding nationwide campaign for bigger families. A report by the official news agency Tass said the Central Asian republic's birth rate is the country's highest, with six or more children per family the norm, creating "a demographic situation which is growing complicated.'

The Central Statistical Board, in year-end figures released Saturday, said the national birth rate increased one-half percent last year, from 19.4 newborns per 1,000 people to 19.9 per 1,000. It did not give any breakdown showing where the population growth was the greatest. The population is now 281.7 million.

Current population figures for Tadzhikistan are not available, but in 1979 the republic had 4.6 million people. Tajiks formed the largest ethnic group - 2.7 million, or about 59 percent. About 395,000 Russians lived in Tadzhikistan.

In the European part of the Soviet Union, many couples have just one child because of housing problems or career choices. The average Soviet woman has six abortions, according to a 1981 world population study by the United Nations. Contraceptive devices and birth control pills are shortage items.

Incentives have long been offered for larger families, and women bearing 10 children or more are named a "Hero Mother."

TONIGHT

$DAZE$

•Open 12:30 p.m.

Saturday

Watch the Cats on the big screen.

Saturday

$2.50 pitchers

Sailing Club Party

1800 Claflin 539-9619

REGIONAL

Racetrack plans win endorsement

WICHITA - A proposal to build a $20 million to $25 million horse and greyhound racetrack near Wichita won an endorsement from the Sedgwick County Commission Wednesday.

It was believed to be the first time a city or county governing body has endorsed a track proposal since a pari-mutuel wagering constitutional amendment was adopted by voters in November, said a spokesman for Richard J. Boushka, a Wichita businessman who is co-owner of Sunflower Racing Inc., the company that wants to build

County commissioners made it clear their endorsement wasn't exclusive. They said if other developers present acceptable plans, those will also be endorsed.

The site Sunflower Racing has selected is near the Kansas Coliseum on Interstate 135 just north of Wichita.

Plans call for the greyhound, quarter horse and thoroughbred track to be situated on 100-plus acres. It would have a seating capacity of 4,600. Sunflower Racing officials said the track could generate about

The Kansas Legislature must enact legislation and the governor must appoint a racing commission before developers will be licensed to construct and operate tracks. Sunflower officials said they believe endorsements such as the one approved by county commissioners will be an advantage when the racing commission begins selecting track sites and developers.

KU officials to reduce student jobs

LAWRENCE - Rather than furlough full-time facilities operations employees, officials at the University of Kansas announced Tuesday they would reduce other operating expenses and student employment in that department.

Earlier, KU officials were reviewing budget reduction plans to decide whether furloughs would be a way to deal with more than $3 million in budget cuts the Kansas Legislature dealt to KU last week.

According to a statement released by Rodger Oroke, director of support services, 29 students have been notified that their jobs have been terminated. The University is making an effort to find them other employment, Oroke said.

Seven employees currently working on temporary or emergency appointments also will be notified that their appointments have been cancelled, he said. In addition, about 38 vacant positions in facilities operations will remain unfilled for the remainder of the fiscal year, which runs through June.

Death penalty opponents testify

TOPEKA - Besides being a cruel and archaic form of punishment, the death penalty would drain more than $50 million from essential state programs before even one execution is carried out, opponents of capital punishment told a panel of lawmakers Wednesday.

'In the five to 10 years that will be required before a single execution occurs in Kansas, our state can expect to spend millions of dollars," University of Kansas law professor David J. Gottlieb told the House Federal and State Affairs Committee.

"As a rough estimate, the figure may easily exceed $50 million before the first execution occurs.'

Gottlieb was among nine people who testified during a two-hour hearing against a bill that calls for death by lethal injection as a possible sentence for people convicted of first-degree and felony murder in the state.

Death penalty supporters, including a large contingent of law enforcement personnel, were given an hour to present their side of the argument to the panel Tuesday.

SEMESTER IN SPAIN (BEGINNER OR ADVANCED) Not just for Spanish majors only, but for everyone: beginners, "in between" students, and advanced. Put some excitement into your college career!! BEGINNER OR ADVANCED-Cost is about the same as a semester in a U.S. college:

$3,870. Price includes jet round trip to Seville from New York, room, board, and tuition complete. Government grants and loans may be applied towards our programs.

		AP-12
college you att	end yourname
your present s	treet address
city	state	ZID
	e information on future p	roorams nive
If you would like permanent add		nograms give

Live with a Spanish family, attend classes four hours a day, four days a week, four months. Earn 16 hrs. of credit (equivalent to 4 semesters taught in U.S. colleges over a two year time span). Your Spanish studies will be enhanced by opportunities not available in a U.S. classroom. Standardized tests show our students' language skills superior to students completing two year programs in U.S. Advanced courses also.

Hurry. It takes a lot of time to make all ar-

SPRING SEMESTER-Jan. 30-May 29 FALL SEMESTER-Aug. 29-Dec. 19

FULLY ACCREDITED - A Program of Trinity

Christian College. For full information - send coupon to:

SEMESTER IN SPAIN 065 Laraway Lake Drive S.E., AP-12

Grand Rapids, Michigan 49506 (A Program of Trinity Christian College)

Closed Classes — Spring 1987

			to a visitor					A	23. 64	23710	25230	20220	24910	35300	24030	31612
00210	03500	05560	07590	09040	10770	13150	14320	14540	20000			26210	29010	32320	34230	17230
00350	03510	05020	07700	09650	10780	13160	14330	14340	59110	23730	25240			32340	34470	37323
00370	33550	05630	07710	09670	10790	13170	14340	17300	50150	23790	25250	26240	29640		34630	37340
00480	03560	05990	07770	09700	10800	13180	14350	17410	20750	23840	25260	20260	30060	32360	34650	3/35C
00510	03570	06050	07780	09740	10810	13200	14360	19423	20150	23870	25276	26333	36160	15 700		37350
00760	03580	06130	07790	09750	10850	13210	14370	194 30	20810	23880	25280	26350	20510	32390	34070	37370
00800	03590	06210	07800	09760	10870	13220	14380	19440	20915	24000	25300	26360	30240	32400	34700
	03600	06240	07820	09770	10900	13230	14490	19460	20450	24050	25310	26370	30280	32410	34710	37425
00840		06270	U7830	09790	10930	13310	14520	19470	20970	24080	2533C	26410	30300	32420	34770	37421
01040	03610	06290	07840	09810	16940	13330	14530	19483	20980	24090	25350	26450	30310	32440	34790
01090	03630		07850	09820	10950	13340	14540	19490	21010	24100	25360	20451	30340	32470	34800
01300	03640	06310		09840	10960	13350	14550	19500	21040	24110	25370	26460	30350	32480	34820
01320	03650	06320	07890				14560	19510	21050	24120	25390	26540	30370	324+0	34870
01330	03660	06330	07900	09860	10980	13370		19566	21310	24210	25410	25870	36510	32500	34890
01530	03670	C6370	07910	09870	10990	13420	14590		21690	24220	25430	26880	30620	32560	35070
01720	03690	06390	07920	39830	11310	13443	14600	19580		24230	25440	26890	30750	32570	35130
01820	03700	06450	07430	U9690	11020	13450	14630	19593	21730	24240	25450	26900	30790	32580	35160
01950	03720	36470	09500	09900	11030	13460	14080	19600	21740		25460	26950	30830	32600	35210
01960	03730	06550	08380	C9910	11040	13470	14693	19620	22260	24250		27130	30880	32610	35230
01970	03740	06610	08420	04430	11050	13540	14740	19660	22270	24280	25470	27420	30920	32640	35260
01970	03800	06630	06490	09740	11130	1355C	1+810	19670	22230	24310	25480		30940	32750	35340
02020	03830	06640	08540	09960	11140	13610	14830	19710	22290	24320	25490	27440	36950	32840	3536C
02040	03880	06650	08565	10000	11150	13640	14850	19900	22300	24360	25500	28550		32850	35530
02070	04150	06780	08567	10010	11170	13660	14900	19950	22310	24400	25510	28640	30960		35560
02090	04320	06750	08579	10030	11180	13690	14916	20000	22323	24460	25580	28710	30990	32920	35580
02160	04520	06800	08580	10070	11210	13700	15320	20016	22550	24470	25590	28720	31030		35610
02260	04840	06900	08700	10100	11520	13720	15340	20020	22590	24480	25610	28730	31050	33060	35620
02330	05000	06920	08780	10110	11530	13730	15630	20030	22680	24490	25620	28731	31060	33080	35640
02340	05010	07020	08930	10150	11550	13770	15940	20050	22820	24500	25660	28760	31070	33290	36000
02360	05020	07040	08961	10250	11590	13780	15950	20080	22960	24510	25700	28770	31140	33300	36010
02430	05060	07120	09090	10260	11600	13800	15960	20100	23120	24540	25750	28780	31150	33310	36020
02460	05090	07140	09100	10270	11610	13820	15970	20120	23130	24560	25850	28740	31190	33320
02470	05100	07160	09200	10330	11630	13830	16170	20130	23150	24610	25860	28800	31200	33330	36040
02480	05120	07230	C9230	10350	11650	13670	16260	20180	23180	24630	25870	29910	31220	33350	36050
		07340	09240	10360	11790	13880	16460	20210	23270	24640	25950	28820	31240	33390	36070
02490	05130		09260	10390	11800	13950	16530	20230	23300	24730	25960	28830	31290	33400	36100
02520	05320	07350	09270	10420	11810	13970	16540	20260	23310	24750	25970	28640	31570	33410	36110
02620	05360	07360	09290	10430	11820	14030	16710	20280	23340	24830	26030	28850	31580	33470	36150
C2680	05370	07370			12020	14070	16830	20300	23380	25050	26043	28870	31640	33480	36160
03200	05380	07400	0 7310	10440		14080	17270	20310	23390	25060	26050	28930	31680	33490	30170
03320	05390	07410	09461	10500	12040		17290	20340	23430	25070	26060	28950	31950	33500	36250
03350	05400	07470	09480	10510	12410	14090	17353	20420	23440	25090	26083	29970	31960	33600	36270
03370	05420	07489	09500	10520	12480	14150		20430	23440	25100	26110	29000	31980	33040	36280
93400	U5440	07490	09510	10560	12600	14160	17383	20440	23500	25110	26120	29030	31990	33750	36590
03410	05460	07500	09520	10570	12070	14200	18310			25120	26130	29040	32040	33773	36820
03420	05480	07510	09540	10580	12760	14210	16370	20480	23520	25170	26150	29050	32050	33740	36910
03430	05490	07520	09550	10600	12773	14220	18643	20490	23550	25180	26160	29070	32080	33880	36990
03440	05560	07540	09570	10610	12800	14230	18810	20510	23510		26160	29380	32090	33910	37050
03460	05520	07550	09600	10623	12880	14250	19240	20550	23540	25190	26190	20100	32100	33930	37100
03470	05530	07560	09610	10630	13090	14260	19250	20590	23680	25200		29130	32110	33940	37120
03480	05540	67570	0.9620	10640	13130	14280	19260	20620	23590	25210	26200			33950	37210
03490	05570	C7580	115630	10740	13140	14300	19280	20650	23100	25220	59510	23200	32140	33430	210.00
034.70	2,,,,		100000											_	-

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

U-LEARN is looking for a few good volunteers for this spring. Don't waste away the spring hours — be a U-LearN volunteer. Call 532-6442 or stop

ENGLISH CONVERSATIONAL TUTORING PROGRAM, offered by the International Student Center, needs volunteer tutors. For more infor-mation, call Karen at 532-6448.

STUDENT ELECTIONS COMMITTEE: Filing deadline for SGA elections is Tuesday. Applica-tions are available in the SGS office for student body president, student senators and Board of Student Publications.

ALPHA MU ALPHA: All resumes are due Jan. 30, and members should contact Teresa Leighty. Also, there will be a field trip Jan. 30 to Hallmark. Members should contact Angie Rowland if in-

AG STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTION AP-PLICATIONS are available in Waters 120 and are

OPEN HOUSE SPECIAL EVENTS COMMITTEE: Any student or organization interested in performing as a special event for Open House '87 can contact Kathy Peirce at 539-4651 or the College of Arts and Sciences office at 532-6900.

TODAY

PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Trotter 201.

ANOREXIA NERVOSA AND ASSOCIATED DISORDERS meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 20

OMICRON NU meets at 7 p.m. in Justin 150.

GAY AND LESBIAN RESOURCE CENTER

NATIONAL SOCIETY OF BLACK ENGINEERS meets to hear a discussion on the state of blacks in engineering at 6 p.m. in Durland

GREAT COMMISSION STUDENTS will have a pro-life march at 11 a.m. beginning in front of the International Student Center. The march will end at the Union, where there will be a speaker at noon in the courtyard.

RUGBY FOOTBALL CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in

AG COUNCIL meets at 6 p.m. in Waters 137. FOREST AND PARK RESOURCE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Call 228

SAILING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208 ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at 8 p.m. in Union Little Theatre. PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union

SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF MANAGEMENT meets at 7 p.m. in Union 213.

ment of Extension Forestry.

torney general.

Moyer was sentenced Tuesday by

Riley County District Judge Jerry

Mershon to 3-10 years in prison and given probation, which will begin after the completion of the 30-day jail term, said John Bork, assistant at-Local judge sentences Moyer to 30-day term

By The Collegian Staff

A former K-State extension professor began serving a 30-day jail term in the Riley County Jail Wednesday evening after being found guilty of selling surplus government property and changing official documents for profit.

William J. Moyer, Manhattan, was found guilty of six counts of making false writings and five counts of felony theft, stemming from the unauthorized use of surplus federal equipment assigned to the Depart-

Laundry

this semester!

We do it like

memdid

a full somester

(16 weeks).

Dring on your bundry

and got your couped

24 hours later!

STUDENTS ONLY

Pick up your freshly laundered dethes

Frement Laundry,

a $9040 value for

Premium Drinks

•$2.95 AII Burgers

1115 Moro • Aggieville 776-0030

ELIGIBILITY FOR CARE AT LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

Health fees are established upon the recommendation of the Student Senate with approval by the Board of Regents.

All students who are enrolled and attending classes during a regular semester or summer session who have paid health fees are eligible for care.

Those enrolled in Special Courses, for varying periods of time, who have made previous arrangements for health care coverage at Lafene are eligible for care. (Lists of these students must be furnished prior to being seen at Lafene.)

Only students, who have paid the health fee, may elect to have their spouse also covered at Lafene; however, they must pay the spouse fee within 10 days of the time their own health fees are paid. (Children cannot be seen.)

Emergency care, prior to referral, will be given anyone who comes in.

Students enrolled in 6 hours or less, electing not to pay the health fee during the Fall or Spring semesters, who wish to be seen, will be charged $20 for each office visit. This charge continues until the full health fee has been exceeded, then that student will be afforded the same privileges as the regular fee paying student for the remainder of that semester.

Students who were enrolled in the Spring and pre-enrolled for the Fall semester but not attending summer school may pay $15 and be eligible for care during the summer. This fee may be paid within 30 days prior to summer registration and ends the day classes begin. A late fee of $20 will be accepted for the remainder of the summer.

Health fees are good until 12 o'clock the night the next semester begins.

NOTE: In addition to the above mentioned fees, there are minimal charges for certain supplies and services and the charges are subject to change without prior notice.

Advertisement

"Franchise Opportunity Night" for the Manhattan Town Center afforded Denver, the chance to point out to Jeff Casale, Overland Park, the advantages

Steven L. Hintgen, president of Dog n' Cat Pet Centers of America Inc., of having a franchise in the shopping mall which opens in November.

Companies vie for possible franchisers

By CHRIS DOLL Staff Writer

The sight of cinnamon rolls baking to a golden brown with lots of frosting and raisins appears and a voice says, "just like grandma would make." The claim is that even American apple pie is stepping aside to the "perfections."

Does it make you hungry? Hungry enough to buy the store?

Mrs. Powell's Cinnamon Rolls company used the advertisement to lure prospective franchisers to their table Tuesday night at the Holidome, part of "Franchise Opportunity Night," sponsored by Manhattan Town Center.

Interested investors had the opportunity to inquire about some of the franchises that might locate in Manhattan Town Center, now under construction and scheduled to open in November. The stores represented were Petland, Dog n' Cat, Bressler's, Cone-A-Copia, Taco Casa, Steak Break, Fan Fair, Bath & a-half, Butterfields, Mr. Bulky's and Mrs.

Powell's Cinnamon Rolls. Most people said they were there out of curiosity, but others were seriously considering buying a franchise. Nelda Andres, fifth-year senior in architecture, said she would like to open a pet store.

Books & Copies

"It would be my store," she said. "They (the store) said they would let me sell pretty much what I wanted

Andres said franchising was less of a risk than setting up her own

'This is totally set up," she said. "If I were to walk in blind and set up a business, it would cost a lot more. Others were interested in purshas-ing a store but were leary about the price. Vichai Sumangkokul and Keninternational Takada, businessmen from Kansas City, said they were looking for an investment opportunity.

"There are risks involved," Sumangkokul said. "It looks good sounds good. But it maybe a lemon." Each store had a range for a startup fee depending on floor space, equipment and inventory desired by the franchiser. The lowest unit cost was $35,000 at Cone-A-Copia and the highest was $300,000 for Petland.

Some stores like Dog n' Cat finance the buyers. Others help put together a package the franchiser could take to the bank.

The interest rate would fall between 91/2 percent and 12 percent, said Steve Johnson of Union National Bank, 727 Poyntz Ave.

Most of the franchise businesses said they had talked to area merchants interested in franchising their

'I had seven or eight people asking the right questions, which makes me believe they were interested," said Larry Childers, who is with Butterfields and Fan Fair.

He said Manhattan was a good area for businesses to locate because the rent is less than in bigger cities, and also smaller cities tend to have less competition.

Chris Heavey, general manager of the mall, said he was pleased with the turnout of both prospective franchisers and retailers.

Lindamood to move, won't seek re-election

By TODD SCHULTZ Collegian Reporter

After serving six years on the city commission and one year as mayor of Manhattan, Suzanne Lindamood, associate professor of clothing, textiles and interior design and housing, an-

Lindamood nounced Thursday that she will not run for re-election. Lindamood's husband, Sherman Hanna, has accepted the position of head of the Department of Family Resource Management at Ohio State University in Columbus, and the family plans to move within the next

When beginning her first term as commissioner, Lindamood said her primary goal was to educate the citizens of Manhattan about how city decisions are made and how these decisions affect them. Lindamood said she believes most issues are being studied rationally and that the public is well-informed.

However, Lindamood said she feels the public has not been sufficiently informed about the Manhattan Town Center mall, and wishes that alternatives for financing the mall had been studied more and explained to the public.

The city is not using the least costly alternative for financing the shopping mall, she said.

'Tax increment financing using special obligation bonds is far more expensive than general obligation financing," Lindamood said.

The commission is using taxincrement financing with special obligation bonds. These bonds pose more risk to the bond holder and therefore have a higher interest rate. General obligation financing is usually the cheapest form of financing, Lindamood said. The bond holder is guaranteed that the bonds will be paid off.

A referendum was never held on the bond issue. Lindamood said she believes the public should have voted on the mall's construction.

"The public would have been made aware of the financing alternatives and the actual public cost" if a referendum had been held, she said. Voting requires a more in-depth study of the issues, she said.

"Government has no money. They use other people's money for everything," Lindamood said. She said the commission is doing the people's spending for them.

She said she has never seen a costbenefit study and believes one has never been done. Costs have been coming in by "bits and pieces," and as costs rise, benefits are reduced,

Lindamood said. Cost vs. benefits studies should have been made available to the public to let the people decide if the benefits were worth the cost, she

"We have been using community development money to support the mall," Lindamood said. She said she believes this money should be used in low- and moderate-income neighborhoods to help the people who are living there.

Lindamood said some of the money being used for the mall is school tax

"I don't think most people would approve of helping to pay for cost overruns by using school tax money. That is tax money that would have gone to the schools had there been no cost overruns, or if we had chosen another method of financing overruns," she said.

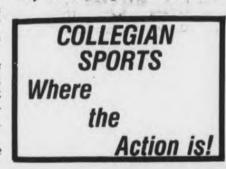

Lindamood said she doesn't believe government money should be subsidizing "big mall developers."

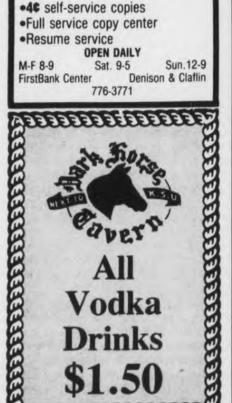

The commission is using community development money for parking lots, when the money should be going to improve living quality, Lindamood said. Over the past six years, the commission had used block grant money to buy housing around the mall area. The area has now been cleared for mall parking,

Recently, $300,000 was used to buy property that will be used as parking next to the new office building downtown, Lindamood said.

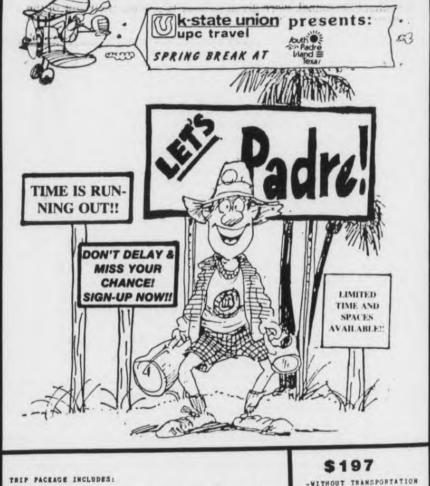

To provide incentive for expansion, the Kansas Legislature gave cities the right to make certain construction projects exempt or partially exempt from sales tax and income tax, she said. The mall construction and Aggieville both fall into this exemption.

We have to take a good look at the city's role, not only Manhattan but all cities, in the state's current economic situation," she said.

7 nights lodging at deluxe Sunchase IV Condominiums with fully equipped kitchenes, wat bar, color TV. 4 washer/dryer. The beach front resort boasts 4 tennis courts, exercise room, jacuszi, 2 pools and an attached shopping mail.

Welcome party with DJ, music and activities
Trip staff advisors
Island Club Sports package with unlimited use of sports equipment (windsurfing, snorkeling, boogie boards, volleyball, tennis & raquetball).

Chance to win one of eight drawings for 5 FREE tanning sessions!

SUN CONNECTION 7 nights lodging at deluxe Sunchase IV Condominiums

Matamoros, Mexico shopping trip Party on the Isabella Queen River Boat Matamoros, Mexico Mightolub Tour

WITHOUT TRANSPORTATION March 14-20, 1987 $289 WITH ROUNDTRIP MOTORCOACH

March 13-21, 1987 SA & MASTERCARD ACCEPTED

SIGN UP NOW! K-STATE UNION ACTIVITIES CENTER 8:00am-3:00pm

It's the Busch twelve-pack of twelve-ounce, non-returnable bottles. And it's the easiest way to take twelve, smooth, great-

Head for the Mountains. BUSCH

THE BUSCH 12-PACK

Now on sale at participating retail stores

Clubs in the Arts & Sciences College interested in being allocated by Arts & Sciences council must attend a mandatory meeting.

> Monday, Jan. 26 7 p.m. Union Rm. 208

PRE-VET CLUB

First Meeting of the Semester

TONIGHT 7 p.m. in Trotter Hall 201

Guest Speaker is Dr. Samuelson on the topic of "Human-Animal Bond"

Kansas

EDITOR Jonie Trued MANAGING EDITOR Sue Dawson NEWS EDITOR Erin Eicher

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Deron Johnson PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER Sheila Hutinett

EDITORIAL BOARD: Susan Baird, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Judy Goldberg, Ron Honig, Pat Hund, Deron Johnson, Judy Lundstrom, Scott Miller, Andy Nelson, Patti Paxson, Julie Reynolds, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Execution of criminals is not answer for state

House Federal and State Affairs Committee heard testimony from supporters of a bill which would allow the state to kill people convicted of first-degree murder. Clyde Graeber, R-Leavenworth, led the charge by claiming, "Capital punishment is the mark of a society which holds dear the lives of its citizens."

Graeber did not explain how we can value the lives of our citizens after we kill them. After a 13 year of blacks convicted of murder, hiatus, Graeber and Gov. Mike Hayden are anxious to bring the death penalty back to Kansas.

But what arguments did Graeber and other advocates of the death penalty use? They could not have argued that the death penalty is an effective deterrent to crime. The U.S. Supreme Court has analyzed 20 years of crime statistics and found the death penalty does not deter crime. Other studies have found that an increase in the crime rate occurs following executions.

not argue that it would save money. The Board of Indigents Defense Services has estimated the cost of providing public defenders will increase $2.6 million annually if the death penalty is imposed. Add to this the cost of building and maintaining death row facilities and the taxpayers will be hit with yet another burden in these already economically hard times.

Furthermore, a murder trial and the first step of the appeals process cost more than twice as much as keeping someone in prison for life. The only way around this is to do away with the killer with tax money.

Early this week, the Kansas appeals process and thus greatly increase the chances of executing innocent people. Since 1900, an average of one person per year has been executed and later found to be not guilty.

But there is still one more reason to oppose the death penalty - it is a racist form of punishment. Studies indicate that an unusally high proportion of blacks are given the death sentence. Even taking into consideration the higher percentage the percentage of blacks executed is still proportionally much higher.

A study conducted at Northeastern University in Boston examined the racial backgrounds of more than 2,000 convicted murderers sentenced to death. What this study found was shocking. Of the black offenders accused of killing blacks, 1.5 percent received the death sentence. Of whites accused of killing whites, 12.3 percent were sentenced to death. Of whites accused of killing blacks, 5.25 percent were Death penalty advocates could sentenced to death and an astonishing 89 percent of blacks accused of killing whites were given the death sentence.

Those who would give the state the right to murder did not rely on any of these arguments because they could not. They argued instead that the death penalty is a fitting sentence for people who kill people.

Graeber, Hayden and their cohorts seem to think that killing is so wrong the state should kill people to prove it. Indeed, killing is wrong and that is precisely why Kansans should not allow the state to be hired out as a contract

Addition of Washburn not feasible right now

Although the addition of selected people with "willingness Washburn University to the and courage" to address the Regents system is a good idea, now is not the time for that addition.

As the Board of Regents wrestles with Gov. Mike Hayden's mandated 3.8 percent cuts in education, the seven Regents schools currently in the system are feeling the pinch.

Budgets have been cut, some classes have been cancelled and presidents of the six universities and one technical school under the Regents umbrella have been forced to undergo a 3.8 percent cut in their salaries. The economy is hardly capable of supporting another member school at this time.

Squeezing Washburn into this fiscally strained system would cause even more of a financial drain on the limited resources of the universities faced with the difficulty of maintaining standards of quality education.

Hayden recently approved the appointment of four new members to the Board of to support the admission of Washburn. In fact, Hayden made his intentions clear by saying he the way to accomplish this.

Washburn issue.

In his campaign for governor, Hayden promised to work to make Washburn a Regents school. He said he was acting for "people who have an overriding concern about the future of higher education in Kansas."

The future of education will not be so bright if Hayden moves too quickly to bring Washburn into an overtaxed system. If other state universities are made to suffer for the sake of this one, more bad than good will be accomplished by the move.

In a time of financial security, the addition of Washburn to the system would be a positive one for Kansas education. More control could be placed on class and degree offerings to eliminate duplication of programs, and the state system would acquire a respected university with a modern campus.

Until that time, the Board of Regents must protect the in-Regents, and all four are believed terests of its current constituent universities, and adding the Washburn burden would not be

Roe vs. Wade: 14 years later

Con: Abortion leaves many victims

Today marks the 14th anniversary of Roe vs. Wade, the Supreme Court decision which legalizes abortion for any reason through all nine months of pregnancy. Abortion is one issue that affects all of us. With more than 20 million abortions having been done since 1973 and the teen-age pregnancy rate going up while the birthrate of those same teens is going down, there is a pretty good chance that someone you know or love has had an abortion. Maybe you have had an abortion.

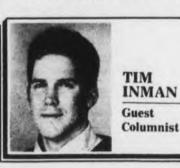

Abortion is an act that leaves many victims. One obvious victim is the baby killed by the abortion. Medical science is so advanced these days that much is known about life in the womb that wasn't known in 1973 when the Supreme Court decision was made. I primarily want to discuss the victimization of the woman who has an abortion, however.

The abortion industry has pulled the biggest sham in medical history. Patients must be told the risks and what is involved in most surgical procedures and must give informed consent before surgery can be done in every case except abortion.

Pregnant women are deliberately not shown any details concerning the development of their unborn baby, are not told any of the risks to their own health and are given a glossing over of the procedure itself. Why? Incredibly, the reason given is that they want the woman to be free from outside influence so that she is able to make her decision without any coercion. In this case, coercion means knowing what the surgical procedure actually involves, being told the risks and, of course, being told that the baby in her womb is very much human and alive.

Knowing the truth would stop women from having abortions, so it's a no-no to tell women all the facts. Abortion is, after all, very profitable to the abortionist, and women not having abortions means less money in the bank. The glossing over of these facts shows in the lingo.

A woman who is glad she is pregnant is asked when her baby is due, listens to the baby's heartbeat, is encouraged to eat right, talk to the baby, sing to the baby and pay attention to the baby's actions in the womb in order to have an indication of how he or she will act once born. She is asked if she wants a boy or a girl and names are chosen. Her unborn child is always referred to as the coming baby. If she miscarries, people offer sympathy that she has lost her baby and she goes through a time of mourning.

What happens to a woman who isn't so sure she's happy to be pregnant is an entirely different story. This woman is called upon to make decisions during a time of her life when there is deep trauma. Her child is never referred to as a baby, but as a product of conception or fetal tissue. She is told no details of its development, never hears the heartbeat and no due date is discussed.

The abortion itself is called "reestablishing her menstrual cycle" or "removing the tissue." She is told she will be relieved to end her pregnancy and her life will be ruined if she doesn't abort. She is not told of the risks of the procedure, that it may leave her with grave physical consequences, that she may, indeed, even be left sterile.

No one tells her that she is about to kill the only baby she may ever carry. And, of course, no mention is made of the fact that if she has any conscience at all she will be dealing with the guilt involved in this for years. It seems like a simple solution to a very embarrassing problem. When she does abort, there is relief that her "problem" is solved, and everyone assumes that life has returned to normal. Forget it and go on. It isn't that

The act of conception alters a woman's physical make-up, introducing into her system hormones which make her a mother. Her body knows she is a mother, and her conscience knows she is a mother. All her life she has known that pregnancy means motherhood. When she kills what is in her, she violates her own body and conscience and denies her upbringing.

Psychologists have found that a previous abortion is the most common factor in the past of women who are suicidal. Suicide attempts often come at the time of the year when the baby would have been born that's the due date no one would talk about.

She often finds herself obsessed with children who are the age her baby would have been. She may become frigid, depressed, or more often, hardened by her experience. So, even though she may not admit she has killed her own child, and though she may seem relieved immediately after the abortion, what she has done will haunt her.

Those who guide her to an abortion as the "easy" solution to her problem do her no service at all. They only give a bigger, though hidden, problem called guilt to deal with for the rest of her life. So, what can you do to help your friend, girlfriend or yourself after this has happened?

Because I am a Christian, I have to look at this from a Christian point of view. I have never seen anyone recover from the pain after the abortion without first finding out that they can somehow be forgiven. The fact that Christ can offer that forgiveness is what makes the relationship with Him necessary to the one who is suffering the guilt and the pain that come after the abortion.

In I Timothy 1:15, the Apostle Paul states that "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, among whom I am the foremost of all." Paul had many men, women and children killed before he came to Christ for that forgiveness that only He can provide. If Paul the murderer can be forgiven, so can the woman who has killed her child through abortion. The first step in the healing process is for her to accept the forgiveness for this crime against herself and her unborn child.

It is my hope that today you will honestly look at what abortion is and deal with whatever effect it has had on your life. A dead baby is the choice being offered by the pro-choice side, not a re-established menstrual period, removed tissue or a convenient end to a social problem.

On this Roe vs. Wade anniversary, why not do something for all the women and unborn children victimized by this crime? Educate vourselves and speak up for what you know in your heart is right.

Tim Inman is a junior in pre-law and business administra-

Pro: Women must be allowed choice

In the landmark case, Roe vs. Wade, the Supreme Court gave pregnant women the Constitutional right to choose whether or not to have an abortion. Therefore, those women who do choose abortion over pregnancy are protected under the law.

Before any debate of the sensitive issue of abortion can be undertaken, it is of the utmost importance for people to understand the law. I think this is where many misconceptions about abortion are formed.

In the first trimester - or first three months - of a woman's pregnancy, the states cannot regulate or ban abortion if a woman chooses to have one.

In the second trimester - the fourth through sixth months - the states can regulate, but not ban, abortion to protect the woman's health. So depending on the case, even if the woman chooses to have an abortion, she may not be able to do so legally at this stage of her pregnancy. If her health is at risk, she will then be allowed the abortion.

In the third trimester - the seventh through ninth months - the states can regulate or ban abortion unless the woman's life or health is threatened. It is at this point abortion in the third trimester — where information on the realities about abortion often becomes twisted, underhanded and simply not true.

Recently, a vocal opponent of abortion in Manhattan cited a hypothetical, if not completely unrealistic, example of his view of the abortion law. He proposed that a man could insert a knife into the womb of a woman who has gone to full term in her pregnancy, cut the baby to shreds and be protected under the law for his act.

To accentuate his example, this opponent of abortion points out that this hypothetical woman would have delivered a healthy baby the next day if she hadn't let this man stick a knife in her womb and cut the baby to shreds. First of all, it is illogical and untrue illustrations like this that perpetuate the myth that this scenario could legally occur in the United States. As stated above, the law clearly spells out that no abortion can take place in the third trimester of a woman's pregnancy unless the woman's life or health is threatened. There is no law in America that protects a man who cuts up a fetus in the womb of a woman who, as is the case of this hypothetical woman, will deliver within a 24-hour period.

PATTI PAXSON Collegian Columnist

It is medically agreed that it is not until the third trimester that the fetus first becomes viable, or able to survive outside the womb. It is because of this that the abortion law allows the state to override the decision of any woman to have an abortion during her third trimester, unless her life or health is threatened.

And indeed, it is extremely rare that a woman must have an abortion in her third trimester in order to save her life. In fact, in 1981, less than 1 percent of all abortions occurred at 21 weeks of pregnancy or later.

It is also important to point out that of the approximately 1.6 million American women who had abortions in 1981, 96 percent of them did so within 15 weeks, or just after the first trimester point. This indicates to me that the overwhelming majority of the women who choose to have an abortion do so with the greatest concern for the stage of development of the fetus.

At the point when the fetus is able to survive outside the womb - at about the onset of the third trimester - the pregnancy, as I pointed out, is approached much more sensitively and strictly by the law and most women. But before the third trimester heated debate exists whether or not the fetus is a person. In fact, those opponents of abortion who call themselves "pro-life" go as far to say that the fertilized egg is a person and thus should be saved at all costs. If this is so, then I ask: Since biologists say one of every three fertilized eggs never becomes implanted against the uterine wall, but is passed through a woman's monthly menstruation, then what is to be done with all these socalled "babies?" Also, I do not understand how these opponents of legalized abortion can call themselves "pro-life" when in their opposition to legalized abortion they are in reality supporting the murder of hundreds of women at the hands of illegal, back-alley abortionists. In 1970, before abortion was legal, 109 women died as a result of abortions performed on them. In 1981, eight years after legalization, only seven abortion-related deaths occurred.

In this land of freedom for every citizen, I find it appalling, as do most women, to have pregnancy imposed on women if they are unfit, not ready or physically unable to maintain a pregnancy and a subsequent child. I see no laws binding or restricting men to such a degree - they are as responsible for the pregnancy as the woman is.

The choice must remain in the hearts of women where this sensitive issue is concerned. I do say, however, that a woman should avoid abortion at all costs.

But for the very poor woman, the 14-yearold girl, the rape victim, the incest victim, the woman who is losing her life and many others, abortion must remain an option for them. There is already too much suffering in this country to pass it on to an unwanted child or a child that will simply not be loved or cared for.

Letters

Cecil needs help

As the president-elect of the Manhattan chapter of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Comic Strip Animals, I have a professional obligation to appeal to the students of this university and community on behalf of our friend, Cecil the dog (co-star of the Collegian comic strip "Life and Times.")

Records indicate that Cecil, who at birth weighed a remarkable 4,521 pounds, became a street dog in New York City in hopes that having to dogfight for every morsel of Chuck Wagon, with or without gravy, he could stifle his obesity, but it was not to be. A meat-andpotatoes dog, he even became a vegetarian for a while - he was that desperate.

Most unfortunately, things only got worse. An evil family, notorious throughout the East Coast region for operating a gullible-dog racket, tied him to the bumper of a car bound for the Midwest after coaxing him with a plastic, sirloin-scented fire hydrant that they purchased from a questionable mail-order

Cecil soon became the world's first truly aerodynamic dog after successfully completing the distance at highway speeds without touching the pavement. But at slower city speeds, the scenario was not so glamorous, nor the sight pretty. Clinging on tighter than the leading plastic wrap while being unrelentlessly dragged across rough surfaces, he secretly hoped to hit an oil slick head-on to help him glide easier but, in fact,

It is for these reasons that Cecil has no belly and looks the way he does. He can't help it if he looks like a walking drumstick or two heavily used Brillo pads fused together. The poor pup is not even sure whether he has one head or two, and to subject him to public scrutiny in his condition is ruthless and cruel, and one can bet Cecil doesn't like it

John Yancey fifth year senior in architecture

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters.

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Continued from Page 1

equality of race has been the biggest obstacle," she said. "In a land where hard work and white skin was the assurance of prosperity for millions, race — not class — has been one of its most intransient barriers. Nowhere else in the world has the struggle in this issue been so intense, so dynamic, so costly."

Norton said the United States is the only nation today which has been so strongly influenced by black

"Martin Luther King Jr. influenced this country as much as John F. Kennedy, but it took us three torturous centuries to put our changes in equality into action."

She said the progress that has been achieved is the hope for "ridding ourselves of the last remnants of racial division."

In a press conference before her speech, Norton spoke about other areas of equality including sex and age discrimination.

"I think the stereotyping of age has become worse than any other form of discrimination," she said. "People need to realize that the bulk of the population is now heading toward old age and that every 'body' born now is needed, which is why the improvement in education is currently so important."

Norton also stressed the importance of remembering the peaceful methods of King's work.

"By remembering King, we are not dwelling in the past; it is a positive omen that we are remembering him," she said. "Martin Luther King Jr. is a man to whom this country owes everything."

Party leader apologizes in racial dispute

By The Associated Press

CAPE TOWN, South Africa — The leader of the mixed-race House of Parliament on Wednesday apologized to President P.W. Botha for swimming at a "whites only" beach. The apology by Labor Party leader Alan Hendrickse averted a crisis that Botha said could have led to the dissolution of Parliament.

Botha made the letter public at a news conference. The president said he had told Hendrickse he must apologize or be dismissed as a Cabinet member and head of the council of ministers in the House of Representatives.

Ferguson plans to retire as manager of facilities

By JOLA MURPHY Collegian Reporter

The University will soon be forming a committee to find a replacement for Fred Ferguson, general manager of physical facilities, who will be retiring at the end of May.

The 64-year-old Ferguson, who has been general manager for more than six years, said the physical facilities system was unorganized before he arrived at K-State — a problem he has since rectified.

"I feel we've accomplished many things in the past six years," Ferguson said. "Everything is now organized and systemitized."

George Miller, vice president of administration and finance, said Ferguson will be missed.

"He has done an outstanding job," Miller said. "He is very receptive to the needs of the administration. He is a fair but firm person. It's that kind of expertise that is appreciated by all."

At K-State, Ferguson has been responsible for maintenance and operation of all campus facilities including buildings, grounds, power and postal service.

Ferguson said he has made many changes since he assumed the position six years ago.

"Before I came here, we (the facilities department) went to all the departments and asked each department head what they needed us to do as far as maintenance is concerned," Ferguson said. "As a result, we got requests that were impossible for us to follow through with. We then spent the whole year trying to explain why we didn't do what they wanted."

Ferguson said his department now follows the budget closely and determines what work needs to be done in each building, and then if a department knows of a project that should have a higher priority, it is considered.

As a result, Ferguson said the system runs more efficiently, and this allows his department to spend more time improving the physical appearance of the University.

Ferguson also said another problem he encountered when he came to K-State was a poor painting schedule for University facilities.

"When I came here, I was told we had an 18-year painting cycle which means that we get around to painting every room on campus about every 18 years," he said. "Now we have cyclic crews who continually paint on a five-year schedule. Now all the rooms are painted approximately every eight years, which I consider an acceptable length of time."

Ferguson said he feels he is responsible for a 16 percent reduction in the University's energy consumption.

"This is quite remarkable because the University keeps adding space and equipment, and the energy consumption is still being reduced," Ferguson said. "At one time, there was only one main computer on campus, but now there are thousands."

In the past two years, the facilities department has received more than $294,000 in federal and state grant money to fund the department in its drive for energy efficiency and conservation.

"The money can be used for several different things, but one of the first projects will be in Ackert Hall," Ferguson said. "We will be converting the current air conditioning system into a high-efficiency system for less energy consumption."

The department has also contracted utility consultants, who periodically inspect and advise the department on energy efficiency.

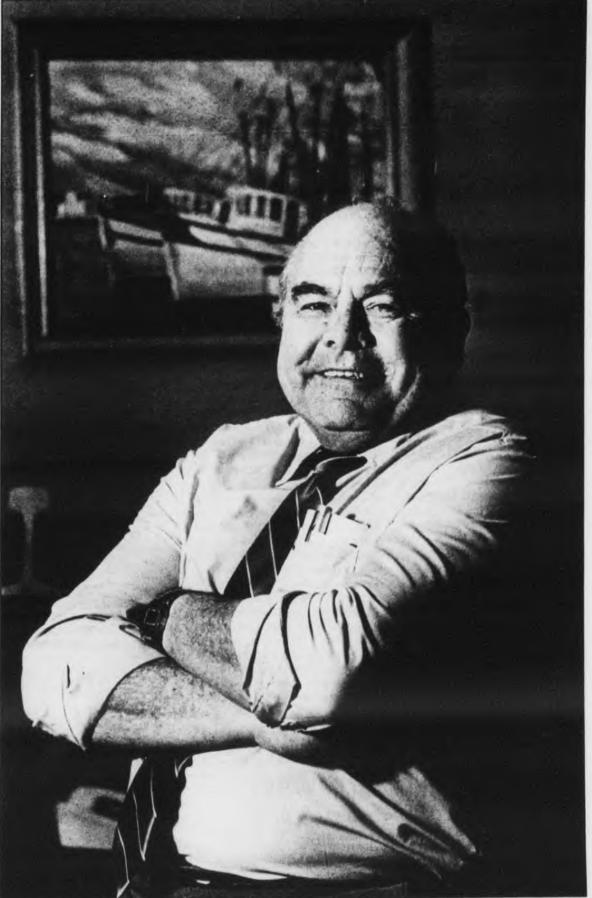

Ferguson says it has been a great revelation for him to learn how the education system works, and he has a totally different attitude about how a university is put together and what makes it run smoothly.

"I thoroughly enjoyed my work and my environment," Ferguson said. "There have been differences but nothing significant. I had a difficult time adjusting to the state being so deeply involved in the department, but I overcame (that) quickly. I feel I have done my job well."

Ferguson plans to return to Colorado with his wife, Maxine, after his retirement. He said he is an avid gardener and enjoys painting and photography.

He earned bachelor's degrees in electrical engineering from the University of Colorado-Denver and in liberal studies from the University of Oklahoma.

e A search committee to find a replacement for Ferguson is still in the planning stages. Donald Rathbone, dean of the d College of Engineering, will chair the s committee.

Staff/Steve Rasmussen

Fred Ferguson, general manager of physical facilities, will retire in May after six years at K-State. He will move to Colorado and work on hobbies including painting, a sample of which is in the background.

Manhattan

Bridal Show

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

$1.50 MIXED

DRINKS

PREMIUMS

AND SUPER

PREMIUM POURS!

EXPRESS 11 537-0886 d rice 99c) Call 53

Open 7 days a week
Free Delivery
11 a.m.-1 a.m.
Call 539-8868 or 537-0886

BRYANT CARPET CO.'S
CARPET REMNANT SALE

Room size, Dorm size, Bath size
ALL SIZES

One of the best selections in north central Kansas, at special sale prices. Save during the whole month of January at Bryant Carpet Company's January Clearance Sale.

HOURS 8:30-5:30 MON.-FRI. SAT. 9:30-4:00 BRYANT CARPET AND HOME DECORATING CENT 776-4367 Sunday, February 1
at Manhattan Holidome
doors open at 1:00 p.m.
2:00 p.m. Fashion Show
by Christine's — The Wedding Co.
and Woody's Ladies Shop
Free gifts
and drawings

Sponsored by:

Campbell's
Christine's — The Wedding Company
Crowell's Card and Party Shop
Lady Finell Cosmetics and Col

Christine's — The Wedding Company Crowell's Card and Party Shop Highfield Cottage The Palace Kansas State Travel Kistner's Flowers and Greenhouse

Kitchen's Plus KQLA/Q104 Lady Finell Cosmetics and Color Analysis University Photography Vern's Donuts and Cakes Woody's Ladies Shop

LIFT OFF '87

A Leadership Conference for Renewing Motivation in Student Groups

Speakers: Dr. Walter Woods

Mr. Steve Martin

Dr. Pat Bosco

Dr. David Mugler

January 24, 1987

9 a.m.-Noon

Big 8 Room

K-State Union

Presented by:

AG STUDENT COUNCIL

AIM HIGH

Majoring in premed?

Air Force ROTC may have good news for you. You may be eligible for a 2- or 3-year scholarship that can cover full college tuition and most textbooks, fees and $100 per academic month. Plus, you'll receive additional help in medical school. Check it out today.

Call the Aerospace Studies Department at 532-6600.
Ask for Captain John Taglieri.

Beastie Boys album raps with brash style

By ANDRE KELLEY Collegian Reviewer

As anyone knows, there is very little "good" rap music out there. In the last few years, groups such as Run DMC and the Fat Boys have brought it more to public attention and even to many white radio markets. But the Beastie Boys have had the reputation for being notoriously bad (in the classic sense) ever since their inception.

Keview

The reasons are simple. They have weak vocals; they make constant references to beer and young girls, and (even more than Prince) they are completely full of themselves. However, their newest album "Licensed to Ill" shows that there may actually be a diamond in the rough.

Though still full of the same ear-banging boastful brashness they've always been known for, the Beastie Boys have always infused a hefty dose of heavy metal to spice up their otherwise loud and abrasive style. Nowhere can this be better heard than on their current single "You Gotta Fight (For The Right To Party)." Better than the Run DMC/Aerosmith collaboration "Walk This Way," this is the ultimate in rock 'n' rap

For a good laugh, the cartoonish cut "Girls" sounds very much like the background for a

Ph: 776-6715

Bugs Bunny short. "Brass Monkey" is totally pointless but also fun in that it puts one in the mind of Bob Dylan rapping with a drum machine.

The best cut by far is "New Style." It's loud, imaginative, unpredictable, somewhat clever and, like the rest of the LP, you don't even see the fancy mouthwork coming from these three "rapateers." By the middle of this tune, the song is interrupted by a crazed "Let me clear my throat!" then it breaks down into an outrageous reggae freefor-all that is sure to take you off guard.

Any band that works this hard at being this bad (in either sense of the word) and can still hold an urban-contemporary feeling has got to have talent somewhere. With the Beastie Boys, it's either their lyrics, their arrangements or simply their unique brand of unequaled and loud irreverance to both musical styles that spawn-

While constantly referring to themselves as "brothers" and chanting about beer, this is exactly the kind of band that parents love to hate and this, in the final analysis, makes them good rock 'n' roll.

Like Prince, this band can turn out some stuff that anyone can hate but also is never uninteresting. It's now official. Heavy-metal and rap have finally married, and like it or not, these

KCC recommends bus route reduction

By KRISTI BARANCIK Collegian Reporter

The proposed cut of several Kansas bus routes by Trailways Lines Inc. has been looming over travelers since August, but so far no total abandonment of any of the routes has resulted.

The proposal would allow Trailways to cut service to 62 cities in Kansas. Twenty-two of the 62 cities have access to other bus lines, but 40 cities would be left with no bus service at all.

Trailways' lack of profitability on the Kansas routes is the cause for the proposed cuts, said Dave Owsley, Trailways district manager for the Kansas City area.

The Kansas Corporation Commission, which handles rate cases in the interest of the public, recommended Tuesday that Trailways retain most of those routes. The KCC believes these routes be reduced but not cut.

"Our proposal retains some form of service to all 40 of those communities," said Steve Menaugh, KCC director of information.

Trailways will appeal the KCC recommendation to the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the ICC has 90 days to review the case and make the final decision.

The ICC will most likely overrule the KCC recommendations, Menaugh said.

The only change occurring in Kansas so far is the reduction of service from two runs a day to one run a day on two routes. The services that have been affected are the Kansas City, Mo., to Joplin and Wichita to Lincoln, Neb., routes.

The proposed cuts have not affected the Junction City or Manhattan stops, said Vivian Bruce, assistant manager for Trailways Bus System in Junction City.

Junction City will not be notified of any permanent schedule changes until after February, Bruce said.

Owsley said the nationwide route cuts have had a small effect on Kansas travelers.

The two routes that now only run once a day may not be as convenient for all riders, but at least the routes are still available, he said.

"Obviously, you are not going to have all of the products that all of the customers want," Owsley said. "Some ridership will be hurt, but it won't be significant."

Many travelers are concerned about how the bus fare rates will be affected by the scheduling changes. "If anything, (the limited service) will hold the passengers' cost down because the routes are not unprofitable anymore," Owsley said.

Senate to discuss 3 percent charge, 2-term student body president bill

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate will meet this evening to discuss a resolution objecting to the 3 percent service charge on all transactions of the three student-owned agencies: the Union, Lafene Student Health Center and Student Publications Inc.

The resolution encourages the directors of the agencies to adjust the proposed charges with the University based on a prior agreement and services provided between the University and the agencies, said Steve Milligan, graduate student in chemical engineering and sponsor of the resolution.

The resolution also recommends that the proposed charges be withheld until an agreement is reached between the University administration and the agenices.

Student Senate will explore measures to arrange the service charge as a temporary measure and to arrange an independant audit of the three University agencies in order to account for the actual value of the services, the resolution states. Milligan said the resolution is basically a statement of objections to the administration while supporting the agency directors.

Senate will also hear a bill sponsored by Student Body President Steven Johnson and the Senate Executive Committee allowing a student body president to seek a second

A vote on Bill-30 concerning student representation will also take place. If the bill is passed, an ad hoc committee will be established to research student representation enhancement.

. Read Collegian Ads!

Collegian advertising gives you the news on everything from store sales and grand openings to meeting times for many K-State events!

PREGNANT? wonderous boys of wit, the Beastie Boys, are the result. NEED HELP?

For confidential

help, call

FREE Pregnancy Tests 103 S. Fourth 537-9180

Happy Hour 4-7 p.m. 3 Tacos for $1 99¢ Margaritas

Are You Losing The Battle Of The Books Already?

Then Take A Break At

ROCKY MOUNTAIN TONIGHT $1.50 Mixed

Drinks

333333333333333333333333333333333333 1 Like

Lee's Western Wear

on selected winter merchandise 21/2 miles east of Manhattan on Hwy. 24

(By the Sale Barn & Sale Barn Cafe)

OFF REGULAR

PRICE

Hours: Mon.-Sat. 9-5:30, Thurs. til 8:30

A PHI ALPHA THETA LECTURE "The Presidential Libraries Delivered by

Dr. John Wickman, Director The Dwight David Eisenhower Presidential Library Thursday, January 22, 1987

Union 205, 2:30 p.m.

Win With Roosevelt & Truman

AS THE PAGES TURN

Cathy, our bored student, has decided to take up volunteer work. After researching a variety of agencies, she chose the Fone Crisis Center. At the Fone, she can help others through their tough times, and by doing so, she is helping to increase her own morale. She's not bored anymore, either. If you'd like to join Cathy, please call 532-6565 immediately. Training begins soon.

Sponsored by the Fone Crisis Center

Thursday, January 22, 1987 For more information on any UPC event, call 532-6751

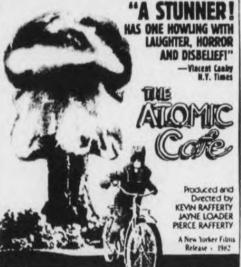

Midday Arts Tai-Chi A demonstration of an oriental Performing Art by Lee-Shih Wu Wednesday, January 28 at noon in the Union

Courtyard.

k-state union Art Rentals Need something to brighten up those drab walls? Rent an Artwork for only $1-3 a semester from the UPC Arts Committee Rentals. Available Tuesday January 27 & Wednesday, January 28 10 a.m.-3 p.m. in

Enter the 12th Annual UPC Photography Contest. Information and serves up the dark side of Cold War America in all its paranoia and confor nism Today, Little Theatre, 3:30 p.m. & information, call 532-6571

$1.75,

KSU ID required

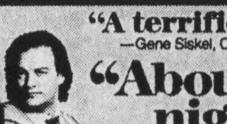

The Franco Zeffirelli directed adaptation of the Shakespearean tale of love, marriage and equality. The film stars Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton. Part of the Shakespeare Festival. Forum Hall, Mon. & Tues., Jan. 26 & 27, 7 p.m.

Photography Contest

contest rules available beginning Monday, January 26 in the Union Activities Center. 3rd floor, K-State Union. Entries accepted starting Monday. February 16-Friday, February 27. Cash prizes

the K-State Union

Courtyard.

DELPHI

"A terrific movie."

—Gene Siskel, CBS-TV, Chicago

A TRU-STAR RELEASE © 1986 Tri-Star Pictures, Inc. All Rights Reserved.

Brat Packers, Rob Lowe and Demi Moore star in this humorous look at today's dating scene. They are the reluctant lovers who try to build a serious relationship out of a one night stand.

> Forum Hall, Fri. & Sat., 7 & 9:30 p.m. $1.75, KSU ID required.

> > k-state union upc feature films

GET INVOLVED ON CAMPUS WITH THE UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

Volunteers Wanted: Individuals interested in serving for the '87-'88 year as committee chairs to coordinate social, recreational, educational and cultural programs for the benefit of the KSU community.

Union Program Council is a student volunteer organization consisting of approximately 100 students who select, plan and promote 500 programs (films, trips, entertainers and more) each academic year. UPC is broken up into nine committees: Promotions, Travel, Special Events, Outdoor Recreation, Kaleidoscope Films, Issues and Ideas, Feature Films, Eclectic Entertainment, Arts.

President—Presides over the UPC Executive Council, sits on the Union Governing Board, coordinates events and activities that involve the total UPC

nembership. Our highest leadership position Arts—Coordinates Union Art Gallery exhibitors, print sales, art rentals, the Arts and Crafts Sale, the Photo Contest and Mid-Day Arts. Eclectic Entertainment—Provides the best in live entertainment, professional comedians, singers and student entertainment

Issues and Ideas—Selects, organizes and publicizes lectures highlighting current events or popular topics of interest. Organizes the "Let's Talk About It"

Kaleidoscope Films - Selects and publicizes innovative, artistic and iternational films on Wednesdays and Thursdays in the Union. They also show weekend

Outdoor Recreation—Offers a wide variety of outdoor related trips and programs based on a cooperative wilderness adventure structure Travel—Coordinates and publicizes winter and spring break trips for the K-State community. Sells an International Student I.D. card and maintains a Travel

Feature Films—Selects and publicizes popular films every Friday and Saturday night in the Union. They also show weekend matinees and midnight films. Special Events—Selects coordinates and publicizes desired events or activities that do not fall under another committee area, including dances, the Activities Carnival. "Late Night at the K State Union" and some types of live entertainment

Promotions—Deals with the visual image of the entire council. Pastes up Collegian ads. Publishes the Programmer calender and other publications to

Applications for Leadership (Committee Chairs) are available beginning Wednesday, January 21. Deadline: 4 p.m.,

Applications may be picked up and submitted in the Activities Center. 3rd floor of the K-State Union. For more

'Explosive' Suggs sets record

By JEFF RAPP Sports Writer

Coming off a redshirt season that has given her time to hone her skills and increase her strength, three time All-American shot putter Pinkie Suggs is ready to give K-State's women's track team a scoring punch during her last season as a Wildcat.

After one meet - the Nebraska

Suggs has already posted a school and a personal record in the shot put this season with a throw of 53-1 1/4. Suggs won that meet and qualified for the NCAA Indoor Championships slated for March.

Suggs, a fifth-year senior, said she plans to better her performances while the season pro-

"I don't know, (my peformance)

Invitational Jan. 17 in Lincoln - just came easy to me," Suggs said. "Usually, I never pick up where I left off. I usually have a setback and have to build back up to it, but this year I started off where I left off. Now, it's just a matter of me taking that and going further."

K-State's track coaching staff collectively decided to redshirt Suggs last season to give her another year to progress from a great athlete to a potentially super

Assistant coach Scott Bennett, who worked with Suggs last year, said she had a few problems with her throwing technique before. Those flaws have been corrected and now she's ready to compete with the best.

"Now, I can see the best of both worlds in Pinkie," Bennett said. "She's smooth, she's quick, and she's very explosive. I think you're going to see that her marks are going to nowhere but up and up as the season goes on."

Bennett said Suggs accentuated her weightlifting program during her redshirt season. Throwing coach Ray Hansen, a former Wildcat trackster, reinforced Bennett's statement with facts and figures

Hansen said Suggs can bench press 270 pounds, squats 365 pounds and can snatch 180 pounds above her head. The 180 pounds is more than all but two members of the men's track team can snatch.

Suggs' strength allowed her to place first in nine meets during her junior season in 1985. She earned four firsts throwing discus, and in June of that year she placed 10th overall in the NCAA finals in the shot put.

With her physical stature (5-foot-9, 210 pounds) and numerous athletic achievements, Suggs could probably bully and rag. According to her coaches, the only thing showcasing her talent is her actual performance in the field

"A lot of jumpers and throwers, from an outward appearance, can be very bubbly and bouncy and wired," Bennett said.

"She's real low-key. But when it comes to the right time of exploding, she's got that capability. Sometimes you can't judge a book by its cover," he added.

Bennett said what makes Suggs a good athlete is her ability to adapt to various coaching techniques.

"I think another thing of her personality is that she's very easygoing and she listens. All good athletes that I find can listen to what a coach says, and have the ability to make their body do (what the coach says) just from either a verbal cue or a visual cue," Bennett said.

Hansen and Bennett have worked with Suggs on improving her speed during her approach to throw.

"Pinkie has always been slow in the past in the ring. She hasn't had the speed, so the first thing she's done is to get aggressive," Hansen

"She's got the strength. She's had the strength since high school. In fact, she was stronger in high school than she is now," he said.

Hansen said the reason Suggs was redshirted was that "one year of maturity makes a big difference." At first, Suggs didn't

"I thought it wouldn't because I didn't really work out as hard as I should have," Suggs said.

Mascot encourages fans to cheer 'Cats

Bring on the 'Cats!

Well, sports fans, welcome back to K-State and an exciting semester of classes and Wildcat basketball. By now everyone should have attended all of their classes at least once and two or three basketball games. A good rule of thumb to follow: attend at least as many classes as basketball games. It works for me.

I hope everyone had a great Christmas vacation. The cheerleaders and I traveled to Nashville and Kansas City to cheer on the 'Cats. After losing to No. 2-ranked North Carolina, we've rolled up five straight wins and have showed signs of being Big Eight Conference title contenders. The Lady Cats are also piling up victories toward a successful season.

I see the conference race as being wide open, with Oklahoma, Kansas and K-State getting off to good starts. Missouri and Iowa State will be close behind as Oklahoma State, Nebraska and Colorado act as spoilers. Look for at least four teams from the Big Eight to make the NCAA tourna-

It's been good to see the Big Eight get some national press coverage lately. Sports Illustrated ran a feature on Missouri's Derrick Chievous and a smaller article on Norris Coleman's return to the 'Cats and Ahearn Field House. With non- the Big Eight. See you Saturday!

WILLIE THE WILDCAT Guest

conference games against North Carolina, North Carolina State, Notre Dame, Louisville, St. John's, Temple and UNLV, the Big Eight can hopefully break away from the football conference stereotype.

Are we having fun yet at those home games? If not, go see a doctor; something is wrong. And how about the television coverage? Every time I turn around some camera has a little blinking red light saying, "Hey, Willie, you have 10 seconds to make 150,000 people happy. Go for it!"

Everyone who has attended the games deserves a pat on the back you've shown great support. Saturday is the last weekend home game this season. That means only one thing - road trip!

In case you haven't noticed, I'm having a blast at the games even if the other mascots are afraid to show up. Keep up the excitement, and let's keep K-State basketball at the top of

Oakland reunites stars for '87 baseball season

By The Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif. - Pitcher Vida Blue, a major figure in Oakland's glorious 1970s, made an emotional return to the A's Wednesday, and was welcomed by Reggie Jackson, who also has come home again.

"I really want to shed some tears, because I really am elated," said Blue, 37. "I'm really excited about getting the chance to play for the A's

The A's announced Blue's signing to a one-year contract at a news con-

Blue and Jackson, 40, are the only players still active who were prominent members of the A's rosters during the team's championship years. The club won five consecutive American League West titles from 1971 to 1975 and won the World Series in 1972, 1973 and 1974.

"It has a lot of sentimental meaning to me to come back and to get No. 14," Blue said.

Despite the emotion behind the return of Blue and Jackson, both said they came back because they believe they can help the team.

"The important thing to me is here's a guy who can still contribute," Jackson said after the conference. "I look at a guy returning as a friend, but this guy's going to contribute a lot to the ballclub and the fans.'

Jackson rejoined the A's four weeks ago as a free agent.

"That burning desire is still with me to compete on a big league ballclub," said Blue, who appeared in 28 games for the San Francisco Giants last season, compiling a 3.27 earned run average and 10-10 record.

Manager Tony La Russa, once an Oakland teammate of Blue and Jackson, said the primary reason the A's went after the pitcher was because the team needed a lefthanded starting pitcher.

"Our main intent is having him join our starting rotation," La Russa

The A's were short on left-handed starting rotation and in the bullpen, and Blue could help the team in either area.

Blue began a comeback with the Giants as a reliever in 1985 after missing the 1984 season because of drug-related problems.

Blue, Catfish Hunter, Ken Holtzman, Rollie Fingers and Darold Knowles were the top pitchers during the A's championship years. Jackson was at the heart of a batting order that also included Bert Campaneris, Sal Bando. Joe Rudi, Gene Tenace and Dick Green.

Hunter, reached at his farm in North Carolina, responded to the news of Blue's return by saying, "I'm too old to go back." But the pitcher voted into the Hall of Fame last week said no one has asked him lately if he would be interested in making a comeback at age 40.

Lady Cats steal win, 71-61

K-State shot putter Pinkie Suggs, in her first outing after being redshirted last season, broke her own school record and qualified for the national meet with a throw of 53 feet, 1 1/4 inches last Saturday at the Nebraska In-

By CHASE CLARK

Sports Writer K-State's women's basketball team has found a "home away from home" in Colorado, where the Lady Cats defeated the Lady Buffs, 77-61, Wednesday night for their third straight victory in Boulder. K-State, second in the conference race, has lost only one game in Boulder since it started playing there during the 1982-83 season. The Lady Cats, 14-3 overall and 3-1 in the Big Eight Conference, are off to one of their best starts ever. Only the 1980-81 Lady Cats, which was 15-2 after 17 games, have had a better starting record. That team, under the leadership of Coach Lynn Hickey, finished 23-11 and placed second in the conference tournament. By winning five consecutive games and nine of their last 10, the Lady Cats have earned the 25th spot in the latest Associated Press

Sooners dump O-State, 94-67

By The Associated Press

NORMAN, Okla. - Dave Sieger came off the bench to score 17 points, all but two of them from three-point range, as No. 11 Oklahoma beat Oklahoma State, 94-67, in Big Eight Conference basketball Wednesday poll. Two other Big Eight teams are ranked in the poll, Oklahoma is ranked 23rd and Missouri 22nd. The Lady Tigers are currently atop the standings in the Big Eight race.

The Cowboys played a deliberate style of offense throughout the game, but couldn't keep high-powered Oklahoma from breaking loose.

K-State built an 11-point lead against Colorado in the first half, but the Lady Buffs battled back in the last five minutes of play and went into the locker room tied at 27-27.

Sue Leiding led the Cats in scoring the first half with nine points. Carlisa Thomas, Tracey Bleczinski and Susan Green completed the scoring with six points each.

With seven rebounds, Thomas paced the team on the boards as the Lady Cats outrebounded Colorado, 18-12, in the first half. And Thomas, with three fouls, was the only Lady Cat in foul trouble at intermission.

Colorado came out strong in the second half and took its first lead of the game, building its margin to eight with less than seven minutes left in the game.

The Lady Cats turned to the full-court press, created several key turnovers and regained the lead with less than five minutes left in the game.

Behind the shooting of Bleczinski, Leiding and Green, the Cats outscored the Lady Buffs 25-9 in the last 6:03 and went on to win by 10, 71-61. Bleczinski paced the team in scoring with 17 points - 11 in the second half. Green netted 16. Thomas scored 14 and Leiding hit 13. Rounding out the scoring for K-State was Theza Fitzpatrick with seven points and

Janet Madsen with four. Thomas dominated the rebounding on both sides of the floor as she handled 16 boards in the game. Bleczinski had 11 rebounds of her own, Leiding grabbed eight, Madsen and Fitzpatrick had two each and Elyse Funk had one board in the game. With her 16 rebounds, Thomas is only 12 boards away from taking over as the all-time career rebounder at K-State. Thomas has 772 boards in her four years on the squad - 170 rebounds so far this season.

Staff/Brad Fanshier

K-State controlled the boards as it outrebounded Colorado, 43-21.

Hitting on 17 of 21 free throw attempts, the Lady Cats shot 81.9 percent from the line and netted 44.3 percent from the floor - slightly below their 45.1 percent season average.

Gretchen DeWitte paced Colorado in scoring with 15 points and rebounding with six boards. Tracy Tripp scored 14 points, Cheryl Woodford and Crystal Ford each hit 10. Erin Carson was held well below her 13.2 points per game average as she only netted eight Colorado shot 24 of 52 (46.1 percent) from the field and 13 of 17 (76.5 percent) from the charity stripe.

K-State will return to action Saturday when it hosts the Kansas Lady Jayhawks at Ahearn Field House. Tip-off time is set for 5 p.m. following the men's contest against Oklahoma.

K-STATE	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
BLECZINSKI	33	6-10	5-6	11	2	17
THOMAS	39	4-13	6-6	16	4	14
LEIDING	38	6-13	1-3	8	3	13
GREEN	26	6-12	4-5	0	3	16
FITZPATRICK	34	3-5	1-1	2	2	7
Smith	4	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Madsen	4	2-4	0-0	3	0	4
Funk	16	0-1	0-0	1	1	0
Davidson	4	0-2	0-0	0	1	0
Lane	2	0-1	0-0	1	0	0
Totals		27-61	17-21	43	16	71
COLORADO	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
DeWITTE	34	6-12	3-4	6	2	15
LAMPROS	8	0-0	0-1 -	2	1	0
WOODFORD	19	3-7	4-5	5	2	10
WILSON	23	0-1	0-0	1	3	0
TRIPP	32	6-13	2-2	1	5	14
Moore	19	2-7	0-0	4	3	4
Kosenski	1	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Carson	32	3-7	2-2	1	1	8
Ford	27	4-5	2-3	0	3	10
Starks	4	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Totals		24-52	13-17	22	20	61

Halftime score: K-State 27, Colorado 27 Turnovers: K-State 28, Colorado 21 Field goal percentage: K-State 44.3, Colorado 46.1

'Cats pound Buffaloes to hold Big Eight lead

By DAVE WAGNER Sports Writer

K-State tied a school record with 60 second-half points and maintained its outright conference lead with a 92-61 pasting of Colorado in Boulder.

The Wildcats remain the only undefeated team in the Big Eight after posting the 31-point win, extending their record to 13-3 overall and 3-0 in conference play. Colorado dropped to 6-10 overall and 0-4 in the Big Eight.

The 60 second-half points tied a school record set previously against Oklahoma State in 1975.

Norris Coleman paced the 'Cats with 23 points and nine rebounds. Three other K-Staters scored in double figures. 'Good performances by Coleman, (William) Scott and (Mitch) Richmond, got us back into the game in the second half," said K-State assistant coach Dana Altman. In the first half, K-State showed signs of lackluster play that had plagued the team in Saturday's game against Iowa State. Getting into foul trouble early in the game, the Wildcats circulated 10 players through their rotation in the first half.

This situation hurt K-State, which saw its first-half lead, slowly but surely, slip from 10 points to a scant two points at halftime. The Buffaloes entered the locker room with a renewed vigor, and K-State was in a stupefied daze with only

Whatever Head Coach Lon Kruger said to his squad during the break between

It was the combination of Coleman, Richmond and Scott who showed the Colorado crowd of 5,478 "the Kruger's 'Cats of new."

Coleman came off a lukewarm first-half performance where he collected 10 points and two fouls and scored 13 points to lead K-State in scoring.

Richmond and Scott got their games back in order and scored in double figures with 17 and 15 points, respectively. Scott displayed a little bit of his dominance from three-point land and was three of four from beyond the line.

In other Big Eight action, Oklahoma downed Oklahoma State 94-67 at Norman. K-State hosts the 11th-ranked Sooners at 3:10 p.m. Saturday.

K-STATE	MIN	FG	FG-3	FT	R	F	TP
RICHMOND	29	10-17	0-3	1-2	3	1	21
COLEMAN	27	9-14	0-1	5-7	9	2	23
BLEDSOE	19	2-4	0-0	0-2	5	3	4
SCOTT	27	6-9	3-4	0-0	2	2	15
HENSON	34	2-5	1-1	0-1	2	1	5
Meyer	11	2-4	0-0	0-0	3	4	4
Simmons	7	3-8	0-0	1-1	5	1	7
Dobbins	23	4-6	1-1	1-1	4	2	10
Nelson	15	0-0	0-0	1-2	1	0	1
Eddie	8	1-1	0-0	0-2	2	2	2
Totals		39-68	5-10	9-18	36	22	92
HOME TEAM	MIN	FG	FG-3	FT	R	F	TP
BECKER	31	2-8	0-0	0-0	5	2	4
BULLARD	34	4-11	0-0	3-4	8	4	11
WILKE	29	8-13	0-0	5-8	8	2	21
COUNTRYMAN	23	1-2	0-0	0-0	2	1	2
PENIX	30	3-9	1-2	0-0	1	1	7
Vaughan	9	0-1	0-0	0-0	0	3	0
Robinson	17	3-5	0-0	3-5	2	2	9
Nash	10	1-2	1-2	0-0	1	1	3
Totals		23-53	2-3	13-19	32	16	61

Halftime score: K-State 32, Colorado 30 Turnovers: K-State 11, Colorado 19 Field goal percentage: K-State 57.3, Colorado 43.4 Attendance: 5,478

ROTC grads face uncertain career options, Krimmer says

By TOM MORRIS Collegian Reporter

Maj. Richard J. Krimmer, assistant professor of military science, told K-State ROTC cadets there is an option to entering active military duty after graduation from college.

Krimmer spoke following the ROTC Wildcat Battalion award ceremony Wednesday afternoon in the K-State Union Little Theatre. Awards were presented to cadets based on their academic and military performance last semester.

Because of government cutbacks, Krimmer said the military is reducing the number of people who receive active duty, and many ROTC graduates are being turned down.

According to Krimmer, the National Guard and the Army Reserve are acceptable options.

"We need to show you how important it is to be a civilian soldier," Krimmer said. "We need quality people in the guard and reserves doctors, lawyers, educators...these are professional people who have chosen to serve their country in their own way.'

Krimmer said the ROTC has a tendency to "oversell active duty," but cadets should always apply for other full-time jobs as options to a full-time military career. "Things are only going to get worse, and if you haven't interviewed for a job yet, that's your problem," Krimmer said.

"You've got to keep your options open," he said. "Do not close any doors, don't close any openings and don't burn any bridges.

"What I want is a citizen soldier who is dedicated to defending their

Your gift can make a difference.

Association

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

American Heart

Superior cadet awards, given to cadets for achieving the top position in their respective military science class, were presented to Richard R. Hanes, junior in mechanical engineering; Eugene S. Johnson, junior in pre-veterinary medicine; and Mary A. Strafuss, freshman in journalism and mass communica-

country and, at the same time, is a

Awards presented to cadets included the distinguished military student award, scholastic excellence and scholastic awards, commission ribbons and color guard participation.

leader in their community."

Distinguished Military Student Award Lisa C. Creighton; John L. Hummer, Thomas W. Lloyd, William A. Martin; Eileen A. Moyer, Michael L. Rutz; Richard E. Thorp; Douglas A. Torok; and Christopher J. Wilson

Scholastic Excellence Award (3.5 GPA or above) Bryant S. Banes; Chad C. Clem; Lisa C. Creighton; Michael L. Goldsborough; Jeff M. Graef; Steven W. Hardin; Eugene S. Johnson; Thomas W. Lloyd; Robert A. Pendergast; Ann L. Reed; Lisa K. Richards; and Michael L. Rutz.

Scholastic Award (3.0 or above) Brian D. Almquist; Dana S. Bradley; John R. Caudill; Martin J. Dannatt; Jesse D. Galuan; Shannon K. Gary; Kelly A. Glew; Richard R. Hanes; Gregory M. Haug; John L. Hummer; Jerry M. Judy; James T. Knotsman; Michael A. Kupsch; William A. Martin; Eileen A. Meyer; John W. Rueger; Rick Sadat; Arnold K. Smith; Michael R. Smith; Dirk A. Stapelton; Mary A. Strafuss; Travis W. Strumpff; Gina M. Taylor; Douglas A. Torok; Brent A. York; and Esmeraldo Zarzabal. Commendation Ribbon

Brian Almquist; Jacqueline Kelsey; Robert Pendergast; Uzziel Pecina; Michael Reth; William Schaefer; Jon Beam; Kelly Demel; Steven Hardin; John Rueger; and Douglass

Color Guard Participation Douglas Torok; Richard Hanes; Gerald Loftin; Walter Coleman: David Debacker: and Uzziel

Maj. Richard J. Krimmer, assistant professor of military science, speaks to Theatre. Krimmer spoke about the importance of joining the National Guard and Army Reserves as an option to active duty.

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

ROTC cadets following an awards presentation Wednesday in the Union Little

Wash It In AGGIEVILLE

SPEEDWASH

"Free Parking" Visit our back room for special prices.

Open Sun.-Thurs. 24 Hours Daily Fri.-Sat. 4:30 a.m.-Midnight

price includes salad bar, potato & bread)

TONIGHT

All

Mixed Drinks

$1.50

Any name

Any brand

Sunset Grille

Open daily 5-9 p.m.

This Week's Special

8 oz. Filet $4.95

TAE KWON DO KARATE

Open-Free Demonstration Friday, Jan. 23, 6:30-8 p.m. Ahearn Gymnasium

*Women: self-defense, lose and control weight, self-discipline

★ Children: self-defense, coordination, self-confidence *Men: self-confidence, top physical conditioning. self-defense, agility, and coordination

Umberger Hall 317

Tuesday & Friday Classes Fee $42 6:30-8 p.m. 1 UG credit optional

Register NOW! call 532-5566 Master Chae

Instructed Sun Yi 7th degree

Black Belt Community Education Division of Continuing Education

SOCIAL WE'VE

THE ICE CREAM

1439 Anderson Student Services Center

Stop By And See Our New Store! 537-7079

AGGIEVILLE FLOWERS

SHORT STEM ROSES $1 each

> CARNATIONS $7.50 per dozen

12th & Laramie 537-9549

Mon.-Sat. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

declared unconstitutional all state laws protecting unborn children from abortion.

procedure remains legal in the United States through the nine months of pregnancy.

On this fourteenth anniversary, KSU Students for Life remembers the many victims of abortion children, women, and menand affirms again our need to respect human life.

> KSU STUDENTS FOR LIFE "A QUIET VOICE FOR LIFE"

on sale in the Union today & Friday

SAGER ASSOCIATES, DENTAL

Groups select economics professor to act as consumers' representative

By ERIN MULCAHY Collegian Reporter

A K-State professor was recently selected to represent the rights of the consumer as a member of the national Consumer Advisory Council.

Richard L.D. Morse, professor of family economics, was one of seven new members elected to serve on the council for the next three years.

Ten years ago, Congress created the Consumer Advisory Council to advise the Federal Reserve Board of the United States on a wide range of issues relating to consumer rights and responsibilities.

The Federal Reserve Board usually nominates 30 members each year, but this year there were only seven openings. Selection to the Consumer Advisory Council is based on nominations from various consumer interest groups and high-ranking officials Morse said he was nominated by the Kansas Consumer Credit Commission, U.S. Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., and several other groups.

The council meets three times a year at the Federal Reserve Board's headquarters in Washington, D.C., where Morse will attend his first meeting in mid-March.

"This is just the first decade of the Consumer Advisory Council," Morse

LIFE and Times

WHAT A FIRST WEEK OF COLLEGE!

STUCK FOR TOO BUCKS THE FIRST

DAY. THEN I MOVE INTO A HOUSE

THAT I THINK DOUBLES AS A

CONTRA TRAINING CAMP ...

WHAT'S HAPPENING DOWN THERE, MILO!

Bloom County

said. "You may question where the consumer's voice was before this time, and the fact is the consumer's voice was non-existent.'

Morse's area of special interest and expertise is in credit and savings from a consumer perspective. He said because he believes the average consumer does not understand savings, he would like to do something to educate the consumer.

'I don't run for public office, but I do have ideas. A university is an idea factory and the selling of ideas.'

-Richard L.D. Morse

"It is presumptuous of me to say I'm out in the street hearing what people say," Morse said. "I don't run for public office, but I do have ideas. A university is an idea factory and the selling of ideas.

'We have, by training and discipline, (the) ability to identify concerns people have who (they) themselves cannot identify.

The Consumer Advisory Council establishes its own agenda of important issues to research by taking a poll among council members. Items of importance to the council now stem from bank closings to deregula-

I GET GOD'S GIFT TO YOOK

FOR A ROOMATE AND NOW

MY LANDLADY HAS TIED POOR

HE'S FROTHING AT THE MOUTH! ... HE'S GOT OPUS BY THE NECK!

I THINK HE'S SAYING

SOMEWHERE ON THIS

CAMPUS THERE MUST BE A

DECENT HUMAN BEING OF

Morse said a question now affecting Kansas and other states is the issue whether out-of-state banks can own Kansas banks. For example, Japanese corporations own three banks in California, Morse said. 'We are faced with problems of change, maybe of greater opportunity, and it is about time to blow the lid on some of the systems we have," he

Morse has researched consumer understanding of terminology used in advertising and savings contracts. He drafted the Truth in Savings Act introduced in the 92nd, 93rd and 94th Congresses, and he also drafted the Department of Defense Directive on Consumer Credit.

Two concepts - Annual Percentage Rate and Periodic Percentage Rate - were developed by Morse, and he is the author of more than 100 articles, including "Check Your Interest" and "Cents-ible Interest."

Morse is a member of the Consumers Union board and president of Consumer Education and Protection for Kansas

He received his undergraduate degree in economics at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, graduate degree in economics at the University of Chicago, and doctorate at Iowa State University in 1942.

by Doug & Dick

TO ROCK AND ROLL YOU'LL ROT IN HELL FOR THAT!

By Berke Breathed

OF CAMELS

BY NOON OR

PERMANENT

PENGUIN

PATE.

By Jim Davis

DON'T FEEL

SAFE HERE

ANYMORE

MAKE IT OUT?

FRANKLY, MY DEAR, I DON'T

GIVE A DARN

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-capped accessible. (76-118)

ASK ME about Mary Kay! Janet Milliken, 539-9469.

Learn to Fly Information on ground school and flight training. Call Hugh Irvin at 539-3128 or 532-6311.

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski destinations. South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauder-dale, Mustang Island/Port Aransas, Galveston Island and Fort Walton Beach. Call Sunchase Tours Central Spring Break Toll Free Hot Line today for information and reservations-1-800-321-59111

ATTENTION

CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry, Need 100 overweight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drugs, no exercise, 100% guaranteed. Call 776-5114 or 776-

Bored with the United States? Go International for Spring Break!

MAZATLAN, MEXICO FOR $199. For more info call Shawn at 776-9533 HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT distributor. See us for

Edelaines Weddings Plus Wedding Dresses 20-50% off 421 POYNTZ

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th. Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

Buyyells

Correctable typewriters for rent on a daily, weekly or monthly basis. See us for all your typing needs. 776-9469

511 Leavenworth, across from post office GARAGE. REASONABLY priced. 1122 Vattier. 539-

Edelaine's Weddings Plus TUX SPECIAL $39.99 on tuxes ordered by 2-28-87

for any occasion-anytime 776-4498

421 POYNTZ

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM luxury duplex: Fireplace, garage

west of campus. $450. Call 539-4294 or 776-2536.

ONLY

Homestead Rental HAS ALL

YOUR RENTAL NEEDS

*Wide Selection

*Low Monthly Rates

*Instant Credit

*Immediate Delivery

*No Deposit

*Purchase Options

*Month to Month Lease

*No Hidden Costs *Home Owned

*Friendly Service

Furniture-TV-Appliances

Homestead Rental 537-8774

2332 Sky-Vue Lane

student or couple. $260/month. 539-2482 after 4

Eugene Sheffer

eanuts

arfield

MUSTACHES PO

STRANGE THINGS

TO PEOPLE

By Charles Schulz

feature

instrument

birds

21 Band

60 Pictured 20 Chair

1 Bat wood 22 Black

61 Motion

DOWN

asst.

8 Said

picture

studio

2 Tax-time

THEY MAKE SOME GUYS
THINK THEY'RE SOMEONE
THEY'RE NOT

NICE ONE-bedroom apartment. Water, trash, twothirds gas paid, laundry facility. Nice for graduate p.m. (76-86)

rossword

ACROSS 36 Show excessive 1 Teutonic CLA 4 De-rind 37 Crooked 39 Guy's date 8 Hitch-41 "Welcome" cock movie item 42 Nourished 12 Mineral 44 Hospital spring 13 Cry of events weariness 46 Cheese dish 50 Scrooge

14 Actor Jannings 51 "The 15 School passages 17 Video-52 You can't tape's forerunner

18 Actor Chaney 19 Holds a tribute 21 Monkey (with)

24 Common answer 25 Actress Merkel 26 Mousespotting cry 28 Rise 32 Ornithology concern 34 "You -(surely) fight it 56 Curtain puller 57 Lamb's alias 58 Waikiki wreath Terrible"

ROSA BLACKJACK OWE

23 Yank's foe 3 Symbol 27 Beer holder of excel 29 "I Love" lence singer 4 American 30 Beehive Indian State 5 - carte 31 Fido and 6 Beams Tabby 7 Opus of 57 Across 33 Stands up for "No way!" 35 Typewriter piece of the 9 Leave off 10 Heap 38 Arachnid 11 Shade abode sources 59 She sheep 16 Chop off 40 Khadafy, 43 Cuts into cubes 46 Paddy crop

Solution time: 23 mins. SCROD 47 Swear TOME 48 Lightly 49 Mahjong SITES ONAN Vow Radar Bluebeard owe 53 Draw 54 Fifth sign Yesterday's answer 1-22 55 Shining

22 CRYPTOQUIP 1-22

ZWPYTFIMR, ITFFG PMWX CFLSC YSJT "CYMC

QLFCY QMXWRJ ZLF CLXMG!" Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THE AUTOCRAT, DARING TO SLIP PAST ANGRY CROWD, FINALLY FLEW THE

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Q equals W

SPACIOUS THREE-bedroom nicely-lurnished, duplex, near campus. Heat, water, trash paid. No pets. 539-3085 or 539-6133. (80tf) FREE RENT in January. Large two-bedroom, nicely decorated, dishwasher, disposal. No pets. $350 deposit required, 539-1465, (76-88) ONE-BEDROOM two-bedroom apartments, furarea. Call 776-9124. (78tf)

SPACIOUS, TWO-bedroom apartment in convenient downtown location. Low utilities, air conditioned, covered garage. Private and roomy. Call 537-1072. TWO BLOCKS west of campus. Quiet, well main-smoking individual, $216. Lease. No pets, water beds. 537-9686. (82-86)

NEAR CAMPUS at nice, quiet location—two-bedroom duplex, available February 1, $270. Call 537-0152 (77-88) TWO-BEDROOM luxury apartment, block from campus. Also, five-bedroom house, block and one-half from campus. 539-4363. (77-86) ROOMMATE NEEDED, share two-bedroom (fur nished), close to campus, 350 N. 16 th. Rent reasonable. Call 539-4625 after 6 p.m. (80-33)

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS Leasing for June

 Studio, 1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments and Townhouses Close to campus

539-4447 ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month. Gas, heat, water included. Lease and deposit required. Call 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (78-88)

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294

THREE BEDROOM large furnished apartment, near city park. No pets. deposit required. $350 per nth. Call 539-7677 after 3:30 p.m. (79-83) LARGE TWO-bedroom, partially furnished basement apartment close to campus, 1411 Vista Lane. Own entrance, no pets, parking for two cars. Deposit plus rent, available now. Pay own electricity. Phone

235-3550. Topeka. (79-88) LARGE, WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five blocks from campus. No pets. $300. Call 776-0181 (7911) TWO-BEDROOMS, near city park. New carpet. $240.

bills paid. 776-0605 or 539-4226. (79-83) SLEEPING ROOM one block from campus. Reasona bly priced, 539-0410 or 539-2857. (79-83)

> 1 Bedroom close to campus new furniture new paint $270

call 539-1642 or

NICELY-FURNISHED, one half block/campus, $260 bills paid Furnished two blocks/campus, $150 plus part utilities. (month-to-month lease ok). Twofurnished, two blocks/campus, $250. Call 539-1349 (80-84)

537-4567

SPACIOUS LIMESTONE: one-two bedrooms, $225. free heat. Fifth and Osage 494-2756 evenings or 532-6873. Jim (81-83) TWO BEDROOM—close to campus. Central air place, sun porch and garage. Call 776-5925. (81-83) ADJACENT TO campus. 1224 Bertrand. Nice. twobedroom with garage washer and dryer. We pay water, trash. Asking $350 Call 537-1745 or 537-4422 (82-90)

05

FOR RENT-HOUSES

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage, west of KSU Available now $425 Call 539-4294

FOR SALE-AUTO

06 NOVA 1977, four doors, good condition. Call 776-3806 (78-83)

1968 BUICK Wildcat. Olive, white vinyl roof, full power, Engine needs work, 913-765-3889 or 765-3628 evenings. (78-82)

1980 MUSTANG, four-cylinder turbo, four-speed, 24 mpg. good condition $2,400 Call 537-3697 evenings. (79-83)

1984 FORD Escort GL. Four door, automatic, por steering, power brakes, front wheel drive, air, AM-FM, cruise, rear window defroster, cloth interior, low miles. 539-4271 (79-83) 1980 CHEVY Monza, power steering, power brakes, air, automatic transmission. Low miles, good con-dition. Call evenings, 532-3661, (80-84) 1971 FORD LTD. four door. Owner leaving town. Very good condition. $350 or best offer. Call 537-4430 or 532-5172 (81-85) 1979 VW Rabbit, AM/FM, cassette, rear window de-togger, good mpg. Runs great. Call 537-3881 after 5 30 p m (81-83) 1986 FORD F150 4 x 4, 351 V8 4B, supercab. Low mileage. Best offer 539-7409 (81-91) 1977 GOLD Volkswagan van Excellent condition.

$2,300. 238-8092 (82-85) FOR SALE-MISC

ELECTRIC ORGAN. Kimball Superstar II. Three years old, like new. Excellent condition, 913-765-2236 (78-82)

stands, $150; Sansui receiver, 250 watt. $300. Call 776-7689. (79-83) DINETTE, VERY good condition, 539-4271, (79-83) EX-60 SILVER Reed typewriter. Best offer. 539-7409.

BOSE 800 speakers, $600-one pair Atlas speaker

Hayes House of Music DOD Guitar Effects

30% Off 776-7983 327 Poyntz AKC GOLDEN retriever. Male, nine weeks, all shots, wormed. Call 539-2334. ask for Shawn. (81-83) OLD, UPRIGHT piano. Good condition, $150 or best offer. Commodore 1541 drive, monoc tor, plus extras. $200 or best offer 258-3564 evenings. (81-83)

FOR SALE. 40-gallon fish aquarium, comes fully equipped. For more information, call 776-7845. (81-HELP WANTED 13

PROFESSIONAL COUPLE in Kansas City, Missouri seeking person to care for 15-month-old. Flat laundry and preparation of evening meal. Room, board, salary, phone, T.V. Plaza location. Call collect, 816-926-2020 or 816-444-2885. (76-85) EARN $480 weekly-$60 per hundred envelopes stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed for company project stuffing envelopes and asse bling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to JBK Mailcompany, P.O. Box 25-52, Castaic, California 91310, (76-102) AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer. Career

Good pay. Travel. Call for guide, cassette, newsser vice! (916) 944-4444 Ext. #58. (76-135)

DENTAL HYGIENIST Wanted: must have a gentle touch, enjoy the people part of dental practice and be able to work as a team player in a busy dental practice. Full or part-time opportunities available. Send typewritten resume and handwritten letter of introduction to PO. Box 704, Manhattan, Kansas

WE ARE seeking a receptionist/secretary to perform general office tasks. Some typing skill needed, and must be able to work Monday, Wednesday, Friday mornings. Workstudy is a must. Approximately twelve hours per week, at $3.50 to $3.75 per hour Contact Dr. Bollman, Family Center, 532-

FASHION COMPANY is coming to Town East Center in Manhattan. We are a fast growing retail chain, featuring the newest in junior and misses name brand fashions. Full and part-time positions with flexible hours, competitive earnings, liberal dis-counts, and career advancement opportunities. ashion retail experience or education desirable. Please send your qualifications to: Fashion Company, P.O. Box 4498, Lincoln, NE 68504. (78-82)

PARTY ANIMALS to organize spring break vacations to Florida and Caribbean Earn free trip and cash Call us now at 1-800-237-8308 days or (904) 441-8687 evenings. (79-83)

THE FONE Crisis Center is now accepting volunteers for the spring semester. For additional information, please call 532-6565 or stop by our table in the Union on Friday. (81-83)

RENT FREE home to female for watching ten-yearold daughter weekday afternoons, 776-7548. (81-

STUDENT RECEPTIONIST/Word Processor, must be available to work especially Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings, approximately 20 hours per week, starting immediately, ideal job for student with strong interest in computer field. Students with employment potential of two years and experience with microcomputer application packages will be given preference. Ranking factors such as GPA, paid work experience, acquaintance with microcomputers, and longevity potential will be considered. Submit applications to Debra Hyde in Room A21, Anderson Hall. Applications will be ac cepted until Monday, January 26. 5 p.m. (82-84)

PART-TIME TO full-time bookkeeper/accountant for complete set of records. Computer skills helpful. Send or deliver resume with references to LERN, 1554 Hayes Drive, Manhattan, KS 66502. Deadline. Wednesday, January 28 (82-84)

HORTICULTURE STUDENT needed. Part-time plant clerk, 12-15 hours/week. Must be available to work Mondays a.m. Apply at Safeway Store, Village Plaza (82-84)

14

15

LOST

NOTICES

HELP! MY best friend grew legs and walked away. If you've seen an HP41CV in brown case, call Brenda at 776-5957-I'm lost without him. No questions substantial reward (81-82)

PREPARE FOR summer employment. Enroll in the Community Education Advanced Lifesaving class by Monday, January 26 and fulfill the prerequisite for the Water Safety Instructor course. The class will meet Mondays and Wednesdays from 5:30 p.m. -7:25 p.m. at the KSU natatorium until March 4. Enroll at 316 Umberger or call 532-5566. (82-83) NEED MONEY for college? Let us match you with scholarship and grant money for which you can qualify. For more information write Student Financial Aid Services. 1613 S.W. Chelsea Drive. Topeka.

KS 66604. (82-91) PERSONAL 16 ERNIE-HAPPY 19th Birthday! I hope your day is as

special as you are. Love ya-Bert. PS. You're Fascinating! (82) HAPPY ANNIVERSARY Paul! There once was a boy named Paul, who one year ago had it all. Now he only gets sex in a pan, but tonight he can prove he's a man. We only have one thing left to say. Good

Luck, Paul, getting a lei Aloha! (82) THE MEN of Phi Kappa Theta would like to bring in the New Year with a second Little Sister Rush Party this Saturday night (82)

YOU are a girl who likes to let her hair down and Party, the Men of Phi Kappa Theta would like to invite you to our second Little Sister Rush Party Saturday night (82)

ROOMMATE WANTED

TWO NON-SMOKING females to share fourtral air conditioning, large yard, low utilities and super low rent. Call 776-3069 after 5 p.m. (76-83) FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted: To share nice, clean, irnished apartment. Own room, no deposit, pool. Cico Park area. Call 537-7181 (76-83) MALE ROOMMATE needed-Across street from campus. $135/month plus utilities 776-9369 (76

NON-SMOKING female Own room/bathroom Washer/dryer, $135 plus one-third utilities, 537-1700 (78-83) ROOMMATE WANTED male/female for twobedroom house, 521 North 10th $170 month, all bills paid 537-7465 (78-83) MALE ROOMMATE wanted. Total expenses approxi-mately $225 per month. Call 537:1871. (78-82)

FEMALE ROOMMATE, non-smoking, Individual room, Campus East, Call 776-0972 (after 5 p.m.). (79-83) OWN ROOM, near campus, $125 plus utilities, 539-

NON-SMOKING female roommate to share three bedroom house. Own room, $110 plus utilities (washer & dryer), 537-7463, (79-83) FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share five-bedroom ise, one-fifth utilities, $155 month. 776-2103.

9343 (79-83)

(80.83)SOMEONE TO share two-bedroom apartment close to campus and the ville $105/month plus utilities Call 539-5560. (80-82)

NEED A place to live? Female roommate wanted. Apartment right across from campus, $120/month negotiable) plus one-fourth utilities 539-8151 (80-

HOUSE NEEDS roommate, $135. Share expenses. Laundry Call 776-9140. (80-83) WOULD LIKE to share modern, bright, spacious, three-bedroom apartment near campus with one more roommate (male or female). Rent about $200/ month. Call Theo at 532-6387 or 539-6972. (80-83) MALE ROOMMATES-across street from campus 1615 Anderson. Three bedrooms. $105/month one-third utilities. 776-0827 (81-85) MALE-TO share two-bedroom apartment with three other males. $95/month, plus utilities. Home-539-5196. work - 776-2340 after 4 p.m (81-85) WANTED, FEMALE roommate. One-half block from campus. Own large room, fireplace. $100 a month utilities paid. Must see to appreciate. 1206 Bertrand. 776-0306. (81-83)

SHARE TWO-bedroom apartment, furnished, laundry facilities, two blocks from campus. $165 plus electricity, January and February rent free, Call after 8 p.m. 776-8707 (81-85)

NON-SMOKER. OWN room, next to campus. Rent negotiable. 776-3833 before 1 p.m. or after 6 p.m. WANTED, FEMALE roommate to share house. Own bedroom and bath. $200 per month, includes utilities. Phone 776-7541. (82-84) ROOMMATE WANTED, $110 and one-third utilities Own washer/dryer. Spacious, lots of storage. 776

6739 (82-84) MALE ROOMMATE-two-bedroom, furnished, Mc-Cain Lane. Fireplace. Call 539-1157, after 8 p.m (82-

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share new apartment. Own room and $155 per month plus utilities. (82

18 SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S

Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf) EXPERIENCED TYPIST-$1.10/page. Disc storage letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537-

9205, Dorinda (78-88) TYPING/WORD processing. Data sheets, resumes letters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Burden. 539-1204. (80-89) QUALITY TYPING for $1 per page. Contact John, 539-

5839. (81-90)

SUBLEASE

SUBLEASE-THREE bedroom, one and one-half bath, central air, near Aggleville, $465. Call 537-1746. (6711)

20

Changes

Continued from Page 1

ly inhumane," Travis said. "It's too small, it's not air conditioned and in the late summertime during two-adays it is almost unbearable because there is ... very little air circulation."

Locker room expansion would involve knocking a hole in the west wall and adding a "Butler-type building" for the lockers.

Weight room expansion is necessary, according to Travis because all 14 athletic teams use the weight facility and it would also allow space for the football team to meet during halftime.

"(In the present locker room), the coaches can't even see their squad," he said. "They don't even have a chance to meet with the team at halftime together. It's just not a very good situation.'

Travis said no changes have been made at the facility since 1968, and compared with other Big Eight facilities, K-State is outdated. If natural grass was installed, K-State would be the only Big Eight Conference school with such a surface - the last school to convert to artificial turf was Missouri.

Restore

Continued from Page 1

"There are at least three areas where we can achieve savings and protect those people who are most at risk," Winter said. "I voted for the bill last week to achieve the $60 million in savings because it's something we had to do. Now, I think we have to consider restoring these funds to protect these people."

Under Branson's bill, slightly more than $2 million would be returned to public assistance programs, $5.8 million would go back to medical assistance programs and $245,000 would be restored for foster care and day care programs.

Both bills would restore the $5 per month reduction in ADC payments adopted last week, along with similar reductions in general assistance welfare payments. Branson said her bill is designed to prevent Kansas from losing $6 million in federal funds

Last week, the Legislature voted to cut $60 million from this year's budget in order to prevent a projected $13 million deficit on June 30. Gov. Mike Hayden ordered the money be cut, basically following a 3.8 percent across-the-board approach to the budget reductions.

However, many lawmakers expressed concern about cutting funds for dependent children, foster care and day care programs and vowed to find ways to save money in other areas so the welfare funding could be restored.

In a memo to Senate President Robert V. Talkington, Winter explained his bill and said lawmakers could cut by 3.8 percent the salaries of all state officials earning more than $50,000.

A major squabble between Hayden and the Kansas Supreme Court developed over the salary reduction and Winter said "pretty significant savings" would result from a comprehensive salary reduction.

1126 Moro

Also, Winter said the welfare agency could save $800,000 by reducing the rate it charges private intermediate-care nursing homes. He suggested the agency reduce its payments to last year's level, or from the current $55 per day to $45.33, over the remaining five months of the current fiscal year.

"We should also review other possible administrative savings in the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services) including a hiring freeze for all but direct care staff at the hospitals," Winter's memo said.

776-5507

Lamborghini Poster

1/2 Off reg. $5 with coupon $2.50

Expires February 28, 1987

FREE MEDIUM SOFT DRINK

with the purchase of any sub

12th & Moro-Aggieville

expires 2-28-87 with this coupon only void with other offers

HAIR SHACK

-Full service for men & women-

Shampoo/Haircut/Blowdry

Now s10

w/KSU ID

CLIP, KEEP & SAVE ALL WEEK

TOM HAWK-UNIVERSITY PHOTOGRAPHY in Aggieville Buy 2 PARTY PICS and Customer Name:

Get ONE FREE

Offer expires February 25, 1987

Not available on reorders

Speedy FREE Delivery TWO MEDIUM TWO TOPPING PIZZAS Now Featuring Noon Delivery 539-4888 "We Pile It On!" PYRAMID

Gals Warm & Gentle Apple Pectin

$30 Feels So Lively

$25 All Perms Include Cut and Style $20 Body $18 Partial

539-TAME or 539-8601

BURRITO

exp: 2/5/87 404 Humboldt

$1 OFF SMOTHE

$1 DEALS

WOW BARS 2 for $1 YUM-YUMS 3 for $1 BISMARCKS 2 for $1

Bring Nina your suggestions for new donut creations

SWANSON'S BAKERY

Open Tues.-Sat. FRONT DOOR 7 a.m.-5:30 p.m. BACK DOOR 9:30 p.m.-midnight

DEVELOPING 1/3 OFF!

426 Houston

776-4549

This coupon is good for 1/3 off developing on 110, 126, and 35 mm color film. Not valid with any other offer. (C-41)

Holiday Hours Mon.-Sat. 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Sun. 12-6 p.m.

Expires 1-31-87

2700 Anderson Manhattan, KS 66502

One coupon SECOND SET OF PRINTS

FREE! Bring your color print film for developing and get a second set of prints free! Disc, 110, 126 and 35 mm. Not valid with any

Expires 1-31-87

Holiday Hours Mon.-Sat. 9 a.m.-9 p.m.

2700 Anderson Manhattan, KS 66502

Price $3.10

Piñata Restaurante 1219 Bluemont

in Aggieville

539-3166

Offer good through 2-1-87

only at:

GLAMOUR WORLD BEAUTY SUPPLY

433 Town East East of

YOUR NUMBER

NEW HOURS: Mon.-Fri. 9:30 a.m.-8 p.m

BEAUTY STOP

Devoted Exclusively to Selling Professional Beauty Products

This coupon entitles the bearer to $10 toward the purchase of prescription glasses or contact lenses-$100 minimum purchase required. Purchases must be made on or before 2-10-87. Coupon must be presented at the time of purchase. Not valid with any other coupon or discounts, including continuing care plan discounts. Dr. Paul E. Bullock, Optometrist 404 Humboldt, phone 776-9461

M-Th 6:30 a.m.-1 a.m. F-Sat 6:30 a.m.-2 a.m. Sun. 7:30 a.m.-Midnight

99¢ Double Cheeseburgers

regularly $1.45 Limit 5

DRIVE UP WINDOW NOW OPEN EXPIRES 2/2/87

539-8888

2 Pieces of Crab Rangoon with the purchase of a meal (with this coupon)

Open 7 days

a week

Hours:

Tues.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Sat. 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Not valid with any other special promotion.

12 Sessions for $25

New Beginnings will donate $5 to the junior ass at Manhattan High School towards their prom with each $25 tanning purchase

Hours:

Dare Let your Tan

Marching

Placard-carrying pro-life demonstrators march across campus in opposition to abortion. See Page

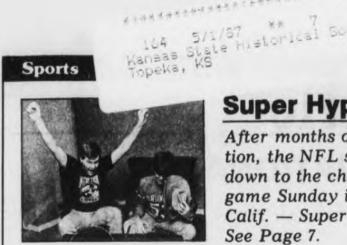

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy today, high in low to mid-20s. Wind northeast 10 to 15 mph. Cloudy tonight, low 5 to 10 above.

Sports

Super Hype

米小孙光生并不为张明并未完全为张子士及其中来关于5-DIGIT 66612

After months of preparation, the NFL season comes down to the championship game Sunday in Pasadena, Calif. — Super Bowl XXI. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Friday January 23, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 83

Final beam 'milestone' for center

By The Collegian Staff

Developers of the Manhattan Town Center mall held a "topping off" ceremony in the mall's future courtyard Thursday morning. The ceremony celebrated the placement of the last steel beam of the skeletal framework.

The topping off ceremony is a milestone worthy of celebration, said the project developer manager from Forest City Development, based in Cleveland, Ohio.

'The first milestone was when the ground was broken and the seeds were planted," he said. "The planted seeds have now matured.'

The topping off ceremony is a noteworthy milestone because the setting of the final piece of steel completes the frame of the "super structure," he said.

The next milestone will be the celebration of the grand opening, which is scheduled for October. The developers plan to open the mall to the public in November.

Following the speech, several men involved with the project left the bandstand and signed the steel beam with chalk. Then the beam was prepared to be lifted to the top of the framework. The steel beam was lifted into place by a crane and eased into its permanent position by two construction workers.

A tree and an American flag were fastened to the final steel beam. The tree is a symbol of good luck to the future occupants of the Manhattan

Town Center. Setting the last piece of steel is the first and most important step in the mall's celebration, said Rick Mann, Manhattan mayor. Mann invited the public to return and continue the celebration in October during the grand opening.

Manhattan Town Center will be the centerpiece of an extensive revitalization plan for Manhattan's central business district.

The mall will be an enclosed, single-level structure anchored by the area's only Dillard's and J.C. Penney Co. Inc. department stores.

A "Picnic Place" food court is planned for inside the mall, with one main restaurant and several smaller eating establishments.

Easy accessibility to the mall will be made available by the new fourlane arterial currently in construc-

Manhattan Town Center will feature sculpted rosette stonework. ornate green-painted steel trusses, an atrium and skylights.

Staff/Gary Lytle

Steelworkers fasten the final piece of steel to the outer structure of the Manhattan Town Center during topping-off ceremonies Thursday at the con-

No explanation given for misappropriations

By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

No explanation has been given as to why a former Department of Forestry employee gambled with, and lost, his 17-year position by misappropriating less than $10,000 in state money for personal profit.

William J. Moyer, Manhattan, secured the funds by illegally selling government vehicles and parts, and altering official reports during his last year at K-State.

Moyer was found guilty of six counts of making false writings and five counts of felony theft. He began a 30-day jail term in the Riley County Jail Wednesday night and will perform 100 hours of community service, said presiding Riley County District Judge Jerry Mershon.

Moyer resigned in June 1986 after investigation of his misdoings began, said Jay Schultz, head of the forestry department.

Schultz said Moyer's job entailed purchasing excess equipment from military installations for use at area rural fire departments.

Moyer prepared paperwork for shipment of equipment to the forestry department and eventual assignment to fire stations. The General Services Administration was the legal title holder throughout all transactions.

By altering documents, Moyer transferred vehicle ownership to himself and falsely recorded that at least one truck was not received and another was "for salvage only," court records showed. He then sold the trucks for personal profit.

Five trucks and one aerial lift were listed as items illegally obtained by Moyer.

The investigation began after Moyer could not account for a vehicle during a project review, Schultz Reviews occur sporadically, but this study was initiated as a result of Schultz's suspicion. "I had had some concern that maybe some of the vehicles were being improperly disposed of," Schultz said.

Schultz said Moyer's work had been audited before, and he did not know why Moyer began stealing Mershon said he was also unaware of Moyer's intentions.

"He just made some mistakes," Mershon said. "I think he's truly remorseful.'

Moyer said he did not wish to explain his actions. He said all the information about the case is in the newspaper "and that's where it should die.'

After he serves his community service hours, Moyer said he will look for a job in "whatever I can find." When asked if he would apply for another position at K-State he said, "Don't kid yourself."

Moyer deceived more than forestry department officials.

Lon Wilson, Weir, was cited in court records as buying a truck from Moyer. Wilson said he was told the money was going to the forestry department.

Wilson, a "junk dealer," said he purchased many trucks from Moyer and sold them to customers. He said he also paid for items he never received.

"I paid for a lot of stuff that I didn't get," he said.

Moyer's former position is currently vacant. When filled, it will be restructured to prevent a similar occurrence, Schultz said.

Senators entertain resolution on agency service charge fee

By MICHAEL MORRIS Collegian Reporter

Student Senate convened for the first time this semester Thursday night and discussed a resolution objecting to service charges being enacted by the University on gross receipts of three student-funded agencies: the Union, Lafene Student Health Center and Student Publications Inc.

One of the concerns in the resolution is that the timing of the service charge did not allow for interaction between the University administration, the Student Governing Association and the three student-funded agencies to study the impact of the service charge, review the relationship between the University and the agencies and allow the agencies to make appropriate budgetary plans.

Sally Traeger, senior in marketing and student senate chairwoman, said George Miller, vice president of administration and finance, notified her at the end of last semester that a service charge was being proposed by the administration.

Miller said the service charge was enacted so quickly because of the 3.8 percent cuts mandated by Gov. Hayden. Otherwise, it would have not been enacted until the next fiscal year, he said.

Miller also said President Wefald declared the service charge a permanent measure due to the University's lack of funds

Debate will begin on the resolution next Thursday after its second reading.

In other action, Student Senate rejected a proposal that would have established an ad hoc committee to study senate representation by a 25-15 vote.

The committee's mandate would have included examination of the current representation system while analyzing any alternative proposals.

"I just feel that the residence hall and off-campus students are more aware of the issue, and I hope it (awareness in student representation) stimulates their interests,' said Mike Kadel, senior in bakery science and one of four sponsors of the proposed bill.

"I feel that it has been a long, grown-out process, and I'm glad it's over," he said.

Kadel said although the current senate will no longer consider the measure, there is a possibility a future senate might. Senate also discussed a bill that would allow a student body president to be eligible for re-election.

The bill will go through its second reading and debate next Thursday. Although Student Body President

Steven Johnson, junior in agriculture economics, is a sponsor of the proposal, he said he has no plans to run for re-election.

Senate elected Kirk Caraway. senior in political science, as the new faculty-senate representative, replacing Susan Baird, senior in journalism and mass communications. Doug Leming, junior in business administration, was appointed as the 1987-88 coordinator of finances for student senate.

Student Senate meets each Thursday evening at 7 in the Union Big Eight Room. The meetings are open to the public.

Philippino marines open fire on crowd

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines Thousands of chanting peasants demanding free land surged into a police line Thursday and marines opened fire, killing 12 people and wounding 94. It was the bloodiest street battle of Corazon Aquino's young presidency.

Aquino, who has been in office 11 months, said in a nationwide broadcast address afterward: "There will be those who seek to exploit this tragic incident to derail our efforts to bring democracy.

Also on Thursday, her attempt to make peace with Communist rebels all but collapsed as negotiators suspended talks indefinitely because of death threats.

An estimated 10,000 people organized by the leftist Movement of Philippine Farmers marched from the downtown Post Office toward the presidential palace to demand that farm plots be given to the landless.

Presidential spokesman Teodoro Benigno said Aquino was at the Pink Sisters Convent in suburban Marikina, about nine miles from the palace, at the time of confrontation.

Benigno said the president visits the convent occasionally to pray. When she heard about the shooting Government officials suspend talks she rushed back to the palace. About 500 national police and marines lined up eight deep waiting for them at the Mendiola Bridge 300 yards from Malacanang Palace's main gate. The bridge was the site of several bloody civilian-military confrontations during the 20-year rule of ex-President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

As the front ranks of marchers approached police lines, they began chanting "Come and join! Don't be Marchers linked arms across Recto Street and began pushing against the front line of brown-uniformed troops of the Integrated National Police deployed in front of the bridge.

The police, behind long plastic shields, shoved the marchers back a few steps. But the protesters then surged forward. The police fell back about 10 yards. Stones flew from among the marchers.

Suddenly, marines in full battle dress deployed behind the police opened fire with M-16s, first into the air for about two minutes, then into the panicked crowd for three more minutes. The firing continued while people ran into the street to drag the dead and wounded out of the firing

When the firing ceased, four jeeploads of police raced forward, scattering the remaining demonstrators with volleys of tear Before the clash, Jaime Tedeo, the leader of the Movement of Philippine Farmers, exhorted the marchers to challange the forces guarding the palace.

Denouncing what he and other leftist and peasant leaders have called slow and inefficient implementation of land reform, he told a rally before the march: "Charge to Malacanang! Let's break down the barricades!"

Several young men among the marchers tore iron bars from a gate, and others carried wooden clubs with protruding nails.

Aquino recently granted land titles to nearly 6,000 tenant farmers in northern Luzon. Heherson Alvarez, the agrarian reform minister, says his ministry is preparing to distribute about 18,000 titles and more will Aquino has said the program should eventually provide up to 4 million landless peasants with their own tracts.

Aquino, who came to power 11 months ago after a civilian-military uprising forced Marcos to flee to Hawaii, expressed shock over the killings. She announced creation of a special commission under retired Supreme Court Justice Jose Feria to investigate the clash and promised to punish those responsible.

She said the military commander of the capital region, Maj. Gen. Ramon Montano, would be placed on leave during the investigation.

She referred to a Feb. 2 plebiscite on a new national Constitution seen as a "vote of confidence" in her administration.

'In the period before the plebiscite, attempts to destabilize the government and defeat our democratic aim will intensify," she said. "We are prepared for this contingency. We shall have law and order throughout our land, even as we pursue justice in this case.'

Military sources said troops remain on alert in the Manila area because of fears Marcos loyalists and dissident officers might attempt a coup to block the ratification vote.

Students reap benefit of airline's price war

By JUDD ANNIS Collegian Reporter

K-State students are reaping the benefits of an airfare price war between Eastern Airlines and other air carriers operating out of Kansas City International Air-

"This new Eastern $49 promotion, from Kansas City to 25 major non-stop markets, is aimed at Braniff," said Nancy Howse, office manager of International Tours of Manhattan.

Eastern's promotion is $49 each way in coach on a round-trip purchase. Tickets must be purchased by Saturday, and all traveling must be done between Feb. 1 and March 31, 1987.

"Now that Eastern is part of the Texas Air conglomerate, the capital is available to put Braniff out of business," she said. Eric Matson, senior in computer science, is one student who recently took advantage of the lower rates and went to Chicago for New Year's. Matson, who paid only $38 for his round-trip ticket, recommends such deals to other students who may not have previously considered air travel.

"I liked it because I was up and down and into Chicago in 50 minutes, while also saving money," Matson said. Hildy Hurren, travel agent for Kansas State Travel, agrees that the Eastern deal is by far the best at this point and has already been extremely popular. "Eastern announced these rates Monday morning," Hurren said. "We were a zoo the rest of the day.

"As it stands now, we have very few openings left because of the fixed volume of seats we are given and due to the fact that people have jumped at the chance to travel cheaply," she said. Howse said that the Eastern Airline promotion is being advertised only on Kansas City radio stations and in Kansas City newspapers, so most K-State

See AIRFARES, Page 9

NATIONAL

Student pedals airplane to record

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — A medical student pedaled the experimental airplane Eagle 37.2 miles Thursday, unofficially breaking the world record for human-powered flight.

"I feel great," pilot Glenn Tremml shouted to reporters after the 92-pound Eagle skidded to a 10:38 a.m. landing on a desert lakebed after a two-hour, 13-minute flight.

Tremml said he would have flown farther except one of his feet slipped off a pedal and he couldn't reinsert it before the craft touched down.

"As soon as I touched down I knew the race was over," he said.

Tremml, who had powered the 11-foot propeller with pedals, climbed out of the plane and was greeted with a hug and a handshake from his ground crew.

The effort was about the same as triathlon competition, said Tremml, a 26-year-old veteran amateur triathlete. However, he said that without any competition he had to motivate himself throughout the flight, during which he lost three pounds.

"What I would do in my mind is set a goal for the next turn, the next lap," he said. "The difficulty of this flight is that there's no finish line.

Reagan speaks to anti-abortioners

WASHINGTON — Encouraged by President Reagan and undeterred by heavy snow, abortion foes gathered today to protest the 14th anniversary of the Supreme Court's landmark decision legalizing abortion

Reagan told an estimated 2,000 demonstrators, gathered in a park near the White House, "Abortion is not a harmless medical procedure but the taking of the life of a living human being. This tragic and terrible toll continues at a rate of more than 4,000 young lives lost each day.

"Our national commitment to the dignity of all human life must begin with respect for the most basic civil right, the right to life," the president said via telephone hookup.

Reagan was challenged by the anti-abortion leaders to veto legislation that purportedly provides federal funds for upwards of 10,000 abortions annually in the District of Columbia.

"I'll get right on that right away to see what can be done," Reagan said.

Super Bowl could increase violence

NEW YORK — The Super Bowl could bring out the worst in a marriage, some experts in family violence believe.

Rana Lee, community education assistant at Marin Abused Women's Services in the San Francisco Bay area, says her informal research shows a marked increase in calls to women's crisis centers and hotlines from battered women on Super Bowl night.

Lee says there are more calls than usual during the football season on Sunday and Monday nights after games.

"But Super Bowl is by far the worst...I'm expecting it to be a nightmare," she said.

While the game may not cause violence directly, those who specialize in such problems say a combination of the aggressive sport, drinking, depressing winter weather and possible disappointment over a losing team can exacerbate an already abusive relationship.

"If you watch something violent and you don't work it off, you work it up," says Murray Straus, a sociologist who specializes in family violence at the University of New Hampshire at Durham. "Studies have proved that the more people watch violence, the more they themselves will be violent."

REGIONAL

EPA proposes waste site cleanup

WASHINGTON — A hazardous waste site at Hutchinson was proposed Thursday by the Environmental Protection Agency for possible cleanup under the federal Superfund program.

Known as the Obee Road site, the problem area in eastern Hutchinson is made up of contaminated ground water.

The action by the federal agency brought to two the number of sites in Kansas under consideration by the government as Superfund candidates. The other proposed site, the Furley waste dump near Wichita, was made a candidate in October 1984. Final decisions will be made later on whether they will be included on the list of 703 sites nationwide now qualifying for federal cleanup monies.

There are six sites in Kansas currently covered by the Superfund program, which was established in 1980 to clean up the nation's most serious toxic waste dumps.

The EPA said an estimated 1,900 people in suburban Obee, an unincorporated community just east of Hutchinson, had private wells that tap into the shallow aquifer as a source of drinking water. The well users have been connected to a municipal water supply system.

The agency said the state has tentatively identified a former city landfill as the source of the contamination, which includes organic chemicals such as benzene, ethylene and toulene. Local industries dumped sludges and wastes into the landfill before it closed in 1973, and the EPA said the Defense Department may have disposed of solvents at the landfill. The airport was owned by DOD until the early 1960s.

Committee endorses death penalty

TOPEKA — After only 11 minutes of discussion, the House Federal and State Affairs Committee endorsed a measure Thursday that would make death by lethal injection a possible sentence for anyone convicted of first-degree murder or felony murder in Kansas.

The committee made only one minor change in the bill before it was approved on an unrecorded voice vote and sent to the House floor. Speaker Jim Braden said he has scheduled floor debate on the proposal for Wednesday with a final vote coming the next day.

After the committee meeting, Gov. Mike Hayden praised the panel's quick action on the bill and said his long-standing support for the death penalty would not be shaken regardless of its cost.

A University of Kansas law professor told the committee Wednesday his studies show the state might have to spend more than $50 million during the next five to 10 years to finance the extra cost of capital murder litigation before even one execution is carried out.

INTERNATIONAL

Chinese government fires officials

PEKING — The two top officials of the Academy of Sciences were fired Thursday, apparently becoming the latest victims of a campaign against liberal Western ideas that began after student protests last month.

Another government announcement said a new office had been created to control the news media and publishing.

A brief dispatch by the official news agency Xinhua did not say why President Lu Jiaxi of the academy, who is in his mid-60s, and Vice President Yan Dongsheng, 68, had been relieved of their posts. It said they "were removed" by decision of the National People's Congress Standing Committee.

Eu, a chemist of world stature trained in Britain, had been president of the academy since August 1982. He was replaced by Zhou Guangzhao, 57, a theoretical physicist and one of the academy's three vice presidents.

Mae's Parlor

FRIDAY
VODKA
DRINKS
$1.50
DRAWS 75¢

75¢ Free Hors D'oeuvres

> 616 N. 12th 539-9967

Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE SATURDAY

TONIC DRINKS $1.50

$1.00

616 N.12th 539-9967

Closed Classes — Spring 1987

00210	03500	05620	01110	09700	10790	13180	14380	19361	20720	24110	25410	26890	30750	32610	35230
00350	03510	05630	07780	09740	10800	13200	14400	19410	20750	24120	25430	26900	30790	32640	35260
00370	03550	05990	07770	09750	10810	13210	14490	19420	20760	24210	25440	26950	30830	32750	35340
00480	03560	06050	07800	09760	10850	13220	14520	19430	20810	24220	25450	27130	30880	32840	35360
00510	03570	01590	07820	09770	10870	13230	14530	19440	20910	24240	25460	27420	30920	32860	35530
00680	03580	06240	07830	09790	10900	13310	14540	19460	20950	24260	25470	27440	30940	32920	35560
00760	03590	06270	07840	09810	10930	13330	14550	19480	20970	24280	25480	28550	30950	32940	35580
00800	03600	06290	07850	09820	10940	13340	14560	19490	20980	24310	25490	28640	30960	33060	35610
00840	03610	06300	07890	09830	10950	13350	14590	19500	21010		25500	28710	30990	33080	35620
01040	03630	06310	07900	09840	10960	13370	14600	19510	21040	24320	25510	28720	31030	33290	35640
01090	03640	06320	07910	09860	10970	13420	14630	19560	21050	24360		28730	31050	33300	36000
01300	03650	06330	07920	09870	10980	13440	14680	19580	21310	24400	25580		31060	33310	36010
		06370	07930	09880	10990	13450	14690			24480	25590	28731			36020
01320	03660		08200	09890				19590	21690	24490	25610	28760	31070	33320	36040
01530	03670	06380			11010	13460	14740	19600	21730	24500	25620	28770	31140	33330	36050
01720	03690	06470	08380	09900	11020	13470	14770	19620	21740	24510	25660	28780	31150	33350	36070
01820	03700	06550	08420	09910	11030	13540	14810	19660	22260	24540	25700	28790	31190	33380
01950	03720	06610	08490	09930	11040	13550	14830	19670	22270	24620	25750	28800	31200	33400	36100
01960	03730	06630	08540	09940	11050	13610	14850	19710	22280	24630	25850	28810	31220	33410	36110
01970	03740	06640	08565	09960	11130	13640	14900	19900	22290	24670	25860	28820	31240	33470	36150
02020	03800	06650	08567	10000	11140	13660	14910	19950	22300	24730	25950	28830	31570	33480	36160
02040	03830	06780	08579	10010	11150	13690	15310	20000	22310	24750	25960	28840	31580	33490	36170
02050	03880	06790	08580	10030	11170	13700	15320	20010	22550	24830	25970	28850	31880	33500	36250
02070	04150	06800	08700	10070	11180	13720	15340	20020	22590	25040	25980	28860	31950	33600	36270
02090	04320	06900	08780	10100	11210	13730	15630	20030	22680	25050	26030	28870	31980	33640	36280
02160	04840	06920	08930	10110	11530	13770	15940	20050	22820	25060	26040	28930	31990	33660	36590
02260	05000	07020	08961	10150	11590	13780	15950	20080	22960	25070	26050	28950	32040	33750	36820
02330	05010	07040	09030	10250	11600	13800	15960	20100	23130	25080	26060	28970	32050	33770	36910
02340	05020	07120	09090	10260	11610	13820	15970	20120	23150	25090	26110	29000	32080	33790	36990
02360	05060	07140	09100	10270	11630	13830	16170	20130	23180	25100	26120	29030	32090	33860	37050
02430	05090	07160	09200	10330	11650	13870	16260	20180	23270	25110	26130	29040	32100	33880	37100
02460	05100	07230	09230	10350	11790	13880	16460	20210	23300	25120	26150	29050	32110	33930	37120
02470	05120	07340	09260	10360	11800	13950	16530	20230	23310	25170	26160	29070	32140	33940	37210
02480	05130	07350	09270	10390	11810	13970	16540	20260	23340	25180	26170	29080	32300	33950	37270
02490	05320	07360	09280	10420	11820	13980	16830	20280	23380	25190	26180	29100	32340	34080	37280
02520	05330	07370	09290	10430	12020	14030	17270	20290	23430	25200	26190	29130	32360	34230	.37320
02620	05360	07400	09310	10440	12040	14070	17290	20300	23490	25210	26200	29510	32390	34470	37340
02680	05370	07410	09461	10500	12410	14080	17350	20310	23550	25220	26210	29600	32400	34630	37350
03200	05380	07470	09480	10510	12480	14090	17380	20340	23590	25230	26230	29640	32410	34650	37360
03320	05390	07480	09510	10520	12600	14150	18310	20420	23680	25240	26240	30060	32420	34670	37370
03350	05400	07490	09520	10560	12670	14160	18370	20430	23690	2525C	26280	30160	32430	34700	37420
03370	05420	07510	09540	10570	12760	14200	18640	20440	23700	25260	26330	30210	32440	34710	37421
03400	05460	07520	09550	10580	12770	14210	18800	20480	23710	25270	26350	30240	32450	34770
03410	05480	07540	09570	10600	12800	14220	18810	20490	23720	25280	26360	30280	32470	34790
03420	05490	07550	09600	10610	12880	14230	19240	20510	23730	25300	26370	30300	32480	34800
03430	05500	07560	09610	10620	13090	14250	19250	20550	23790	25310	26410	30310	32490	34820
03440	05520	07570	09620	10630	13130	14260	19260	20580	23870	25330	26451	30340	32500	34890
03460	05530	07580	09630	10740	13140	14300	19280	20620	23880	25350	26460	30350	32560	35070
03470	05540	07590	09640	10760	13150	14330	19290	20650	24080	25360	26540	30370	32570	35130
	05570	07700	09650	10770	13160	14340	19330	20660	24090	25370	26870	30510	32580	35160
03480			09670	10780	13170	14360	19360	20710	24100		26880	30620	32600	35210
03490	05580	07710	04010	10100	. 3410	14300	17300	20110	24100	25390	20000	30020	22.000	27240

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

U-LEARN is looking for a few good volunteers for this spring. Don't waste away the spring hours — be a U-LearN volunteer. Call 532-6442 or stop by Holton Hall 02.

ENGLISH CONVERSATIONAL TUTORING PROGRAM, offered by the International Student Center, needs volunteer tutors. For more information, call Karen at 532-6448.

STUDENT ELECTIONS COMMITTEE: Filing deadline for SGA elections is Tuesday. Applications are available in the SGS office for student body president, student senators and Board of Student Publications.

ALPHA MU ALPHA: All resumes are due Jan. 30, and members should contact Teresa Leighty. Also, there will be a field trip Jan. 30 to Hallmark. Members should contact Angie Rowland if in-

AG STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTION AP-PLICATIONS are available in Waters 120 and are due Monday.

BLUE KEY SENIOR HONORARY membership applications are available in Anderson 122 and are due by 4 p.m. Feb. 6.

OPEN HOUSE SPECIAL EVENTS COMMITTEE: Any student or organization interested in performing as a special event for Open House '87 can contact Kathy Peirce at 539-4651 or the Department of Arts and Sciences at 532-6900.

SUNDAY

urged to register and apply.

ALPHA TAU OMEAGA LITTLE SISTERS

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT

CENTER will be showing videotapes prepared by the College Placement Council in Holtz 107B. "Interview Preparation" and "The Interview" will be shown at 3:30 p.m. Monday, and "The Interview" and "Interview Follow-Up" will be shown

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is now posting sign-up schedules for on-campus employment interviews by Kansas, regional and national employers. All eligible candidates are

TODAY

SATURDAY

AG STUDENT COUNCIL will have an Ag Leadership Conference at 9 a.m. to noon in Union Big Eight room.

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

PHI KAPPA TAU LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9 p.m. at the house.

SHE DU'S meet at 2 p.m. at the Delta Upsilon

Reagan proposes cuts for Customs personnel

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration wants to cut in half funds for airborne drug-interdiction operations of the Customs Service and eliminate 2,000 Customs jobs at the same time officials are calling for a stepped-up war on drugs, a Senate Finance Committee source said Thursday.

The cuts were contained in the Reagan administration's budget proposal submitted to Congress earlier this month but not detailed at that time, said the source, who spoke on condition he not be named.

The Reagan proposal calls for reducing the fiscal 1987 Customs personnel budget from $830.1 million to $803 million, said the Finance Committee source.

The proposal would reduce Customs' personnel limit from 15,000 to to 13,000 by 1988, with 1,500 jobs cut in 1987 and 500 lost in 1988, the source said.

In addition to those cuts, the Reagan proposal calls for a drastic reduction in air support for drug interdiction, from $179.9 million to $86.2 million, the source said.

SUPER SUNDAY!

WATCH THE GIANTS vs. BRONCOS ON OUR 7 FT. TV!

• SUPER BUFFET
30 lbs. Crab Legs
28 lbs. BBQ Ribs
And More For $1 Plate
(while it lasts)

• 80¢ DRAWS

• FREE POPCORN

1113 Moro 776-0030

RETAIL MINIMUM

The items listed below will be auctioned to the highest bidder this Saturday from 8-05 a.m. to noon. Visit the sponsors . . . inspect the merchandise determine your bid. Keep your radio on KMAN 1350 and your hand near the phone. Just call in and bid on the KMAN auction line. 776–1333.

AUCTION DATE SATURDAY, JANUARY 31

	RETAIL	MINIMUM
	VALUE	BIDS
Case of 12 oz. cans—Diet Dr. Pepper: PEPSI OF MANHATTAN	$ 8.80	$ 5.00
Ladies SAS Leather Handbag: BROWN'S SHOE FIT	48.00	24.00
Seafood Buffet for 2: COTTON CLUB	26.00	13.00
5 Movie Passes: COMMONWEALTH THEATERS	20.00	11.00
2 Balloon Arrangements: BALLOON BOUTIQUE	21.90	10.00
$25 Merchandise Certificate: GLAMOUR WORLD	25.00	13.00
Full Service Oil & Lube: WAYNE'S QUIKLUBE	19.95	10.00
Carrite Cargo Carrier: DARRELL'S CUSTOM VANS	98.00	48.00
2-VCR & Video Cassette Rental pkg.: HOME CINEMA	22.50	11.00
$100 Merchandise Certificate: DUERFELDT'S JEWELERS	100.00	55.00
$25 Hair Care Certificate: SNIP N' CLIP	25.00	13.00
$25 Balloon Arrangements: THE PALACE	25.00	13.00
$25 Merchandise certificate: WINGS & WHEELS HOBBY HAUS	25.00	13.00
Bolt & Chain Cutters: WATERS TRUE VALUE HARDWARE	23.99	12.00
$50 Merchandise Certificate: DRAPERY WORLD	50.00	26.00
$25 Merchandise Certificate: FURNITURE CENTER	25.00	13.00
4 Piece Fireplace Set: WATERS TRUE VALUE HARDWARE	39.95	20.00
Sewing machine tune-up: WEISNER'S SEW UNIQUE	29.95	15.00
Panasonic Microwave (NE 5875): ADY'S APPLIANCE	239.00	120.00
$25 Dinner Certificate: RAOUL'S ESCONDIDO	25.00	13.00
$50 Merchandise Certificate: CAMPBELL'S	50.00	26.00
18" Strand Fresh Water Pearls: THE DIAMOND CONNECTION	85.00	50.00
Coupon Book For Four Car Washes: V.P. AUTO WASH	31.00	15.00
Dinner for four: PINATA	22.40	12.00
2-$10 Certificates on Handmade Ceramice: BALLOON BOUTIQUE	20.00	10.00
18" Single Strand Sterling Silver Beads: DIAMOND CONNECTION	66.25	39.00
Precious Moments Music Box: THE PALACE	65.00	32.00
Cook n' Look Silverstone Cookware set: HIGHFIELD COTTAGE	132.00	65.00
Child Guidance "Talk N Play": MANHATTAN HOBBIES TOYS	69.99	35.00
Storm Door, Kanal Kor-a-door: WILDCAT EXTERIORS	165.85	80.00
AND MANY MODE ITEMOU

AND MANY MORE ITEMS!!!

Director of Printing Service to stress production quality

By The Collegian Staff

The new director of K-State Printing Service said he believes his job will be an opportunity to concentrate on producing quality work.

Harv Dahl, who assumed his position Monday, said he has already noticed differences between K-State's services and those at the University of Wisconsin in Madison where he was previously employed.

In Wisconsin, Dahl coordinated a printing system that included 27 different campuses across the state. The size of the systems is the major difference between the two schools.

The printing services operate on about the same budget. However, because the Wisconsin printing service had a large area to cover and the equipment was smaller, Dahl said he didn't have the time and equipment to produce high-quality products.

Since K-State's service prints material for only one campus and the equipment is more modern, he said he'll have more time to spend on printing and will be able to use more of a variety of colors.

Dahl was looking for a new challenge when he changed jobs.

"After 16 years at Wisconsin, I was able to achieve my goals," he said. "Things started to repeat themselves, and I knew it was time for a change.

Dahl and his wife, Pat, grew up in the Midwest and wanted to return to the Great Plains. K-State's location and the opportunities the University offered brought him and his family to Service is a No. 1 priority, Dahl said, and his main goal is to make sure the Printing Service is in a position to meet the needs of the Univer-

After attending the North Dakota State School of Science in Wahpeton for two years, Dahl received a journalism degree from the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks. He has two daughters, Ginny, 15, and Ellen, 12.

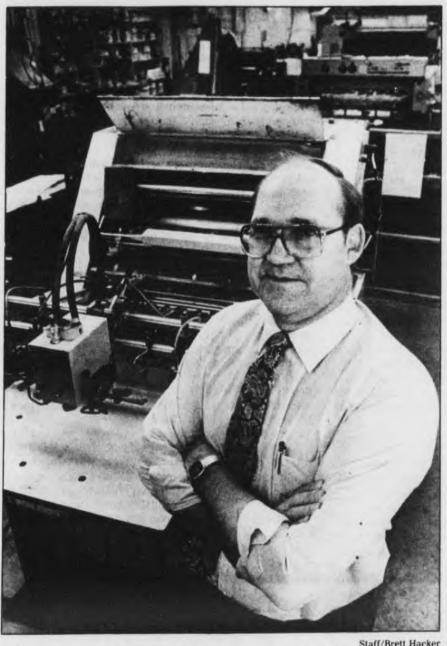

> Get Personal With a Collegian Classified!

THE ICE CREAM SOCIAL WE'VE

MOVED 1439 Anderson

Student Services Center Stop By And

See Our New Store! 537-7079

Improving service is Harv Dahl's No. 1 priority as the new director of K-State Printing Service.

WINTER CLEARANCE

ALL FALL AND WINTER MERCHANDISE

Mon.-Sat. 10-5:30 Thurs. 10-8:30 Sun. 1-5

1222 Moro Aggieville 539-6323

ONE LOW PRICE 100% COTTON DENIM LEE & ZENA BRAND MADE IN THE USA NAMES . ALL STYLES NOT IN EVERY SIZE DOWNTOWN WAMEGO (HWY 99) OPEN DAILY 9-8 P.M., SUN, 12-5 P.M. • 456-9100

Ag proposal unfair, expert says

By DERON JOHNSON Collegian Reporter

President Reagan's proposal to reduce farm subsidies over the next several years is akin to "changing the rules in the middle of the game," said a local agriculture observer. Gordon Hibbard, director of communications for Kansas Farm Bureau, said Reagan's proposed 10 percent reduction in target prices each year for three years beginning in 1988 would jeopardize farmers' gross income and the strides made by the United States in recent years to become more competitive in the world market.

A target price is a bookkeeping figure used to compute deficiency payments farmers receive when market prices are low.

"The target price...was set by Congress in the 1985 farm bill," Hibbard said. "It's a key ingredient in any farm program.'

Currently, the wheat target price is $4.38 per bushel, frozen at that price since 1984 despite annual increases in inflation. If Congress approves Reagan's cut, the target price would be cut 44 cents per bushel in 1988 and by $1.19 during the next three years

Hibbard said Reagan's proposal undermines the current government-industry agreement stated in the farm bill.

"I think one thing we've been concerned about is we're changing the rules in the middle of the game," he said.

The current farm bill, which will be replaced with a new one in 1990, is not the first to contain a target price clause.

"Target prices go clear back to 1976 to '77," Hibbard said. "They've been around for a number of years.'

Reagan's proposal comes on top of target price reductions already stipulated by the current bill, he

The deficiency payments - and thus the proposed reductions - affect nearly 80 percent of Kansas farmers, said Darrell Holaday, marketing director for Kansas Farm Bureau.

"The most recent statistics in Kansas are 79 percent (of the (armers) were in compliance last year (with the farm bill)," Holaday said. "I look for us to be over 80 percent this year.' Current deficiency payments to farmers in the nation total nearly $11 billion, Holaday said. This includes subsidies of $700 million to $800 million for milo producers, $3.5 billion for wheat producers and $6.5 billion to $7 billion for corn producers.

The Reagan administration claims the target price cuts would reduce the budget by an estimated $13 billion, although Holaday said he wasn't sure if that figure is cor-

"There's some question whether it will save that much or not," he said. "They're looking at probably saving $4 billion in deficiency payments.

The balance of the $13 billion could possibly be made up by administrative costs and money saved from the Soil Conservation Service and Farmers Home Administration budgets, he said.

Holaday said a 10 percent reduction in the target price would result in a 10 percent reduction in farmers' earnings

"It's going to affect gross income," he said.

Holaday, however, doesn't contend that farm spending should not be cut. Target price reductions just aren't the way to accomplish it, he

"Somewhere a cutback's going to occur," he said. "The fact that we need to cut farm spending everybody agrees that needs to oc-

Target prices essentially serve two purposes: to protect the farmer in times of lagging market prices and to increase U.S. competitiveness by controlling produc-

"The target prices are in place to provide an incentive to decrease production," Hibbard said. "These farm programs are inclined to

See SUBSIDY, Page 10

LIFT OFF '87

A Leadership Conference for Renewing Motivation in Student Groups

Speakers: Dr. Walter Woods

Mr. Steve Miller

Dr. Pat Bosco

Dr. David Mugler

January 24, 1987

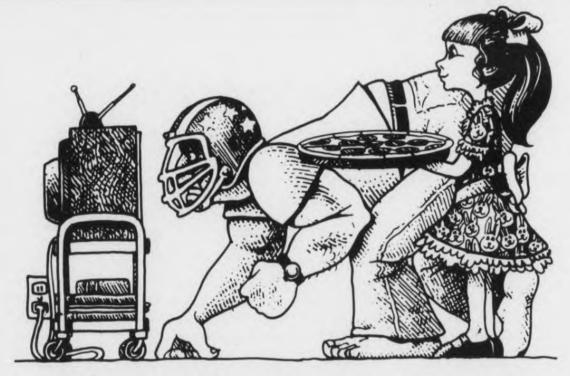

9 a.m.-Noon

Big 8 Room K-State Union

Presented by:

AG STUDENT COUNCIL

Enjoy the Super Bowl with Pan Pizza to go. Come in and pick it up or have it delivered.

For a party of two or twenty, there is nothing better for the Super Bowl than Pizza Hut® Pan Pizza.

With a light crispy crust, loads of your favorite toppings and mounds of melted mozzarella cheese. All oven-fresh and ready to go when you call ahead.

AGGIEVILLE 1121 MORO 539-7666

3RD & MORO 776-4334

WESTLOOP 2931 CLAFLIN 539-7447

For Delivery 539-7666

Pizza Huts of Manhattan 1987

Uncle's prejudice is blind, not his love

The holiday season is very important to my family. Easter, Thanksgiving, Christmas all the holidays are special. Birthdays are pretty important, too. They sometimes will last several days depending on schedules. My mother even sends cards and sometimes small gifts to her four daughters on Halloween and Valentine's Day and whatever other holiday she can think of.

It's really neat the way my family pulls together at the holidays. If we can't all be in the same place on the exact holiday, we try to make plans to be together a couple of days later. This Christmas, three of the four daughters were home on Christmas, with the fourth arriving the day after. And this year, both of my grandmothers were there.

On Christmas Eve, we all go to church, then back home to visit, eat, etc. When we were younger, we would spend time organizing all the gifts under the tree. Each one would pick a spot around the tree and stack the gifts intended for us in neat piles, one for each of us and one for Mom and Dad. And to mark the spot, we would hang our stockings on the tree with a clothespin so Santa would leave all the neat little treats in the right spot

This year we came home and watched a movie,"White Christmas," on the videocassette recorder. Rather apropose, don't you think? I loved it.

You would think that after a while the holidays might become staid and boring. But I love Christmas. The holiday season has to be one of the most special times for me. I may not always get into the spirit of things as soon as I should, but eventually I get there.

On Christmas morning, we all open our gifts. We no longer get up at the crack of dawn - we're much more sensible than that. Then we have a big family dinner, usually turkey with all the trimmings.

My mother has lived in our hometown all her life. Her mother still lives there so all of my mom's family eventually visit. In fact, an aunt and uncle live 15 miles away, and another set of relatives live 30 miles away. So Christmas dinner is usually a fairly big

Two of my sisters are married. Of course, my two brothers-in-law are now included in all the family gatherings, as is my almost-3year-old nephew. My mom wouldn't have it any other way. She's very big on family and keeping it together. I agree with her.

I'm very proud of my parents and sisters. The two who are married made fairly good choices in spouses, and all three have made good choices in careers. All are happy and content and seem to be doing well. So what does all of this have to do with

One of my sisters has an interracial marriage, which really is not the problem. The problem, and the reason for all the talk about

JEAN TELLER Collegian Columnist

Christmas dinner and family, is that the marriage is a source of irritation or anger on the part of some of my family. The immediate family has come to grips with it, and we accept Katherine's husband, Richard, as part of the family, just as we do my nephew,

It perhaps is not the match I would have liked to see my sister make. I feel like my sisters can do much better in everything -I'm very protective of them. NO one is good enough for MY sisters. But Katherine is happy. And that is the key phrase.

One set of relatives do not and will not accept the marriage. It happens to be my mother's only brother and his wife who condemn my sister for her choice of spouse. And it hurts my mother to the quick.

It all came to a point this Christmas. My aunt and uncle refused to come to Christmas dinner because my sister and brother-in-law would be there.

It didn't matter that the rest of the family was going to be there, including my maternal grandmother. It didn't matter that it was Katherine's choice and her happiness at stake. It didn't matter that the attitude continues to tear my mother apart. She hates to see the family split. But my uncle will not accept an interracial marriage — he doesn't believe blacks and whites should mix.

I have no idea what happened in the past to cause a member of my family to be so prejudiced. I know it bothers a lot of people, and won't say that the idea didn't cause me some initial trepidation. But I have since come to terms with my own reaction.

I know Katherine and Richard and their children will meet with resistance and different forms of prejudice in the years to come. But from their own family?

And the way my aunt and uncle treat my nephew is chilling. What child knows what prejudice is? No child should know the meaning of that term. And no child should be blamed for an alleged fault of his parents. He's only 3, for heaven's sake.

To me, a family is a support group. Even if all the members don't agree or condone another's actions, they should at least support each other in whatever choices are made. My sister would probably never have chosen anyone I would have considered good enough just because of my protectiveness. But she's happy.

That key phrase again. As long as she is happy and as long as she is not hurt, and as long as she can handle the problems that crop up, it's her life. She's my sister, so I'll support her. I'll accept Richard as part of the family, I'll accept and love my nephew and his brothers and sisters, I'll accept whatever she decides to do.

So where does my uncle get off on not accepting a member of MY family? Why does he think he's different or better than the rest of us? Why is he condemning my sister, a niece he has always seemed to care about, for a choice she considers to be in her best interest? Why is he splitting the family apart, hurting my grandmother, my mother and

I probably sound as intolerant as my uncle appears to be. I'm not sure what the difference is, but when it comes to a member of my immediate family, I will not tolerate anyone who causes them pain. My mother is much more accepting. Again, she will do all she can to keep the family together. She will my sister in the process?

not alienate my uncle no matter the pain he I don't have the answers. And I probably never will. But I do know that despite my initial misgivings about my sister's marriage and her life choices, she is my sister. And she deserves my support and respect for whatever choices she makes in her life. Because it is HER life, and she IS happy.

KU's label as flagship could damage K-State

The verdict is in.

Upon reviewing the version of K-State's mission statement adopted by the Board of Regents, University officials believe it's an adequate representation of K-State.

Since the major thrust of the institution is guided by its landgrant tradition, K-State's the No. 1 campus or the secondagricultural research programs place university? and extension services receive the main emphasis in the statement. Moreover, the notice recognizes the importance of the College of Education.

But is K-State a comprehensive university? Yes, but apparently not comprehensive enough.

Stanley Koplik, executive director of the Regents, said the University of Kansas most "fits the label of a comprehensive university (in the state)." With that designation, K-State has officially taken a back seat to KU.

Diehard Wildcats may scoff at the crowning of the Jayhawks, but making KU the "flagship" school of Kansas has important long-term implications for this University. If the Regents must choose between KU and K-State for a new program, will they pick

The answer is clear. When a choice must be made, K-State will almost certainly lose every time. This is not sour grapes. This is reality, and the administration should be prepared for reality's future consequences.

"The mission statement is indicative of some of the strengths of Kansas State University, and I hope it will allow the University to get stronger," Koplik said. We hope so, too, Stan.

Country loses benefits if leaders slash funds

Education Secretary William Bennett is having a nasty time of it lately. He has been cast by senators as being the fox in the used to believe that education henhouse of education.

leading the retreat — allowing President Reagan to slash federal assistance to low-income students by approximately 50 percent.

Experts predict one in every six students currently receiving tion appears with a widely federal aid would no longer be eligible and this, White House officials estimate, would "save" the nation quite a bit of money.

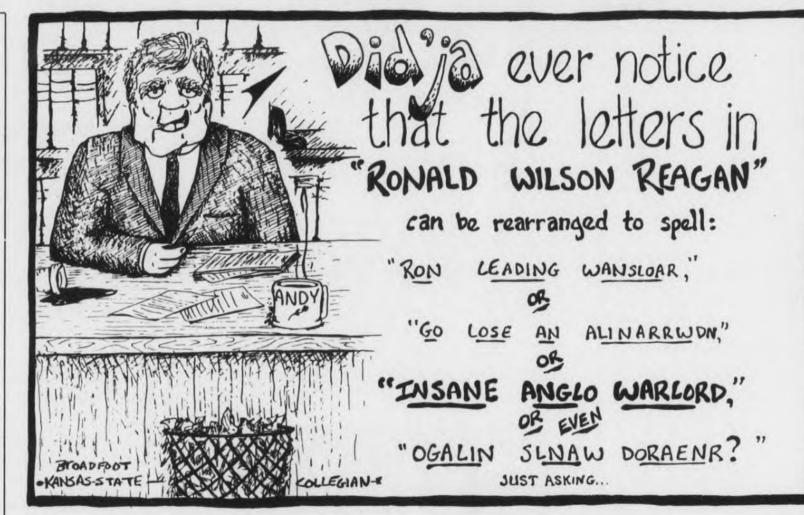

What is the old saying? Education is an investment? That is what parents, teachers, college peers and yes...the loan officers...sold us on. We were led to believe too, that it was not just a personal investment. An educated public was an investment for the nation.

Historically, federal administrators have supported assistance spending because they was an investment. NDSL, when Instead of defending federal it was first conceived, stood for education spending, Bennett is National Defense Student Loan. Leaders at that time believed an educated citizenry was the key to a secure nation.

> The ironic twist in the plot is that Bennett's support of Reagan's proposed cuts in educapublished report of how American students compare with students worldwide. It wasn't

> It seems obvious if our national security is dependent on well educated individuals both will suffer by cuts in education.

> If our nation's leaders can no longer be trusted to act in the interests of the public, students and educators will soon have to actively battle for funding.

Being organized no easy task

There comes a time in all our lives when we are forced to participate in an action far from our nature - an action we do not enjoy or condone, but one that is necessary to keep a thread of efficiency in our daily lives. I took part in such an activity the other day - I cleaned my desk. I didn't want to, but I had to. With each passing day, the search for my checkbook or car keys became a more challenging task. I realized the situation called for drastic action when I opened my top drawer and discovered its ingredients flush with the top. As I slipped my hand between the layers of "necessities," I noticed some things were not so necessary, at least not anymore. Much of the contents had outlived its usefulness and needed to be transferred to the little filing bin under my desk. Many of the objects I wanted to keep, but not in my drawer. I believe there is an adage that states something similar to, "With every decision one makes, three more arise." If there isn't such a saying, maybe I can be the originator

With the decision made to separate the good from the bad, the old from the new and the useful from the useless, I was bombarded with new problems. "What am I going to do with the stuff I wanted to keep?" "Should I throw this away or keep it another semester?" To keep from having to answer these questions too soon, I decided to line, group and pile everything on my desk and take a complete, but cautious, inventory.

I removed the contents just as an archaelogist would unearth artifacts from a burial ground, carefully examining each business card, each coupon, each mat-

I live in a fraternity and share a studyroom with two gentlemen. The room has a long desk that is divided into three sections along one wall. As my mound of materials grew, a stack of letters collapsed and slid across the boundary into my roommate's territory. My roommate eyed the assortment for a moment and returned to his work. I like people who say what they think, but I was glad he didn't.

I ruffled through the mess, separating the cancelled checks from the drop-add slips and gathered the tiny notes informing me of a phone call or a borrowed book. Then I made the permanent decision to throw some things away. I tossed last year's programmer, an expired sweepstakes entry and various letters from my adviser. I parted with an ancient Collegian, an empty envelope and a receipt from Dillon's.

I found a few items I wanted to keep as well: notes from friends, letters from sweethearts, grade cards and a ticket stub from a museum in Denver. If I ever put together a scrapbook, these are what I want in it - the everyday objects that pattern our

Luckily, I came upon a box in the top of my closet which, once emptied, served well as a depository for the memorabilia.

I guess people would call me sloppy and unorganized because I have a love for the trifle belongings in life. I don't like organized people. Well, it's not that I dislike them, I'm envious of them. Their desks are always clean and neat, their bookshelves in alphabetical order. They keep their shoes in the closet and separate the shirts from the trousers. An organized person never seems to be getting anything done, at least there is no evidence of it. No book left open to the last page read, no rough drafts scattered beneath

Neat people's lives run too smoothly. They miss out on the little exciting periods in life like being late for class and not being able to find a comb and, thus, substituting a favorite

If God ever sends a wife my way, I hope she doesn't mind magazines on the floor, feet on the coffee table or fishing equipment in the bedroom. I hope she understands about the dog hair on the sofa and the muddy overshoes on the rug. Surely she'll realize I'm terminally lazy about returning items to their proper places and will not object to rearranging the storage scheme of our house with each use of a screwdriver or coffee cup.

Maybe someday if I watch and listen enough, I will pick up on the secrets of those neat and organized people, those who come to college with a clothes iron and expect to use it. Maybe if I model my life after one of these people - study when they study, do laundry when they do laundry and throw away what they throw away - someday I will be neat and well organized. So when I reach for a pencil, it will be sharp, and all my socks will have mates.

I have a long way to go, because there are still glasses on my desk with rings of dried milk, and my fee card is history. Is it possible somehow that people like me are not cut out for the tidy, smooth-running life? Could it be we like being reminded of what we ate yesterday because it helps us decide what we want today? The more I consider the question, the more I like my lifestyle the way it is. I may have to live with old newspapers and wrinkled neckties, but my mess is mine, and it's home.

EDITOR Jonie Trued MANAGING EDITOR Sue Dawson NEWS EDITOR Erin Eicher

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Deron Johnson PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER Sheila Hutinett

EDITORIAL BOARD: Susan Baird, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Judy Goldberg, Ron Honig, Pat Hund, Deron Johnson, Judy Lundstrom, Scott Miller, Andy Nelson, Patti Paxson, Julie Reynolds, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Just stay out of it

Re: Tim Inman's guest column, "Abortion leaves many victims," in Jan. 22 Collegian. Because no religion owns my soul, I am free to look at most any issue open-mindedly. Abortion may cause guilt in some cases, but it does not in others. Like any other operation, it can be risky to the mother's health, though perhaps not as much of a risk as delivering a baby. If you could see another point of view, you might see the growth of cells you call a baby as an unwanted growth, like a tumor, a cyst or a wart (not that babies are warts, tumors or cysts.) Removal of this unwanted growth of cells is the mother's decision not yours, mine or anyone else's and if not directly involved, we should all just butt out.

> Mark Houston junior in natural resource management

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words.

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103.

Marchers join to protest anniversary of legalized abortion

Staff/Gary Lytle

In opposition to abortion, children carry a coffin symbolic of a dead child as demonstrators carry signs illustrating their point of view Thursday during a pro-life march through campus.

Clubs in the Arts & Sciences College interested in being allocated by Arts & Sciences council must attend a mandatory meeting.

Monday, Jan. 26 7 p.m. Union Rm. 208

MEN OF K-STATE CALENDARS

on sale in the Union today

By CHRIS HALL Collegian Reporter

To mark the 14th anniversary of Roe vs. Wade, about 35 people marched across campus Thursday in protest of the Supreme Court's decision legalizing abortion.

Pro-life demonstrators carried signs stating "Abortion is the ultimate child abuse" and "20 million killed since 1973."

"We want to create an awareness that abortion is legal through all nine months of pregnancy," said Tim Inman, junior in pre-law. "We hope to have our congressmen see that there are people against it, because they can change things with an amendment to the constitution to ban abortion."

Inman is committee chairman for the march and a member of Great Commission Students, the K-State student organization of Great Commission Church, which planned the event.

Members of Manhattan Right to Life and Dreamhouse Inc., a counseling center for crisis pregnancies, also marched.

"We hope to come across in a sincere manner to the women of K-State to let them know there are alternatives to abortion that would be better to them in the long-run," Inman said.

Father Norbert Dlabal, of the Catholic Campus Ministry, said he joined the marchers because, "Our whole country has to learn to respect life a whole lot more. There is a cheapening of life from beginning to end. We need to change that."

The march began at Weber Hall and wound through campus, ending in the Union Courtyard.

Brad Schroeder, senior in engineering technology and president of Great Commission Students, opened the presentation sponsored by the pro-life groups.

"The purpose of what we are doing today is to educate the students, faculty and the community of Manhattan on the issues and realities of abortion. We want them to encourage their congressmen to stop abortion," he said.

Schroeder introduced the main speaker, Dr. Lauren Welch, a surgeon from Wamego.

Welch talked about the medical aspects of abortion. He cited statistics on the number of women who have complications after the procedure. He spoke of both the physical and psychological effects.

Welch's main point was that people are not warned about the possible side effects and complications. "If people were really well informed ahead of time, they would probably change their minds," he said.

"I consider abortion medically inadvisable," Welch said.

Dan Walter, a 1978 graduate of K-State and local businessman, invited the onlookers to sign a petition against legalized abortion.

Open
HUNAM EXPRESS Fre
1116 More 537-0886 11

Open 7 days a week
Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

AUNAM Restaurant

Spend Spring Break on a Cruise Ship

Isn't it time for something different and out of the ordinary?

Sail on the Mardi Gras for 4 days. Enjoy swimming, trap shooting, table tennis, golf driving and more! Spend your evenings in the casino, bar, discotheque or arcade. The Mardi Gras will dock at Freeport and Nassau. The cruise leaves from Ft. Lauderdale on Sunday, March 15 and returns on Wednesday, March 18. Spend the next 2 or 3 days experiencing the excitement of

Ft. Lauderdale. Watch the Collegian for more details or call 776-4756 for more information.

International Tours of Manhattan

BURGER

Drive-Up Window NOW OPEN

HOURS: Mon.-Thurs. 6:30 A.M.-1:00 A.M. Fri. & Sat. 6:30 A.M.-2:00 A.M. Sun. 7:30 A.M.-Midnight

> 301 Poyntz Downtown

This is a Burger King Town

Double Cheeseburger

nocessar ge

Reg. 1.45

Limit 5

Limit one coupon per customer. Not to be used with other coupons or offers.

This offer expires 2-3-87

Good only at Manhattan, Ks.

Study finds teens sexually active

By BRUCE DOLSBERRY Collegian Reporter

While research by a pair of K-State professors found that teens are sexually active, the researchers say that teen-age expectations about relationships are the important part of their findings.

The question of teen-age sexuality was posed by David Wright and Howard Barnes, assistant professors in the Department of Human Development and Family Studies. They conducted the study in Herington.

Barnes and Wright surveyed 75 percent of the middle school and high school students and 43 percent of parents of elementary, middle school and high school students.

They discovered the majority of students surveyed are sexually ac-

By STACEY CAMPBELL

Collegian Reporter

pean Exchange Program are Jen-

ed students would like more infor- analysis, they have identified a tive. Moreover, most didn't use birth control devices the first time they had intercourse.

In addition, the research revealmation about relationships, birth control and sexually transmitted

However, Wright said the significance of the report is its findings about what teens want out of a relationship with the opposite

"What teens really want in a dating relationship is companionship, support, communication and affection," Wright said. "Among a list of 28 factors, having a sexual relationship was near the bottom in importance for both males and females."

Although Barnes and Wright are in the preliminary stages of data

Germany to be 'home' for students student in French; Susanne Leipold, graduate student in theater; Scott

Miller, junior in English; William need for teens to distinguish between sex and affection.

"Teens may have trouble separating sex and affection, Wright said. "They need to develop relationship skill. They need to learn how to say 'no.' Teens need to learn how to identify their own needs (and) learn how to meet those needs."

Students said their parents' opinions are important to them, and they value relationships with their dating partners' parents.

"Parents and teens want to talk to each other about these issues. but they're not communicating, Wright said."

Barnes and Wright said they hope to continue their research and have applied for a grant to replicate the study in other towns.

County to computerize 911 system

By LORI LINDSTROM Collegian Reporter

Riley County will see an improvement in its 911 emergency number by the end of the summer or early next fall, said Dan Harden, Riley County Public Works Director.

Harden said the 14-year-old system currently in use, an electronic device, is one of the first systems used in Kansas.

The police department receives an average of 430 emergency calls per month and the present system is not as productive as it should be, he said.

"The system is almost homemade, and so many new parts have been added to it," Harden said.

Harden said the new system, developed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, is computerized with automatic identification and automatic locating indicator devices. The new system will allow the police department to trace the address and phone number of the calling party in case they "panic and hang up the phone," Harden said.

The new computer system will also feature a notation box that will carry extra information about a company or business, not available to the police or fire departments currently, Harden said. For example, he said the new system would relay information like if room in a burning building contained toxic chemicals.

"The fire department would know to go to that certain room first. The extra information could save time at a fire or emergency," Harden said.

Interest in the new system developed when the 911 committee learned "the technology was available to solve the problems with the present system," he said.

The committee, consisting of people from the Riley County Police Department, the Riley County Fire Department, the ambulance service and consumers, knew that Sedgwick County had the new system installed and was having success with it, he

The cost to replace the old system and install the new one is $90,000, Harden said. The money for the system comes from a 1 percent telephone tax on phone bills.

The new system will serve residents on the Southwestern Bell Telephone system, Harden said. The local 911 emergency number covers those telephone numbers with the 532, 537, 539 and 776 prefixes, extending to rural and some Pottawatomie County residents, he said.

"Southwestern Bell needs time to build a data base of the phone numbers and addresses of Riley County residents and install the new system," Harden said.

Fisherman's Inn

(formerly the Tackle Box)

SATURDAY

Customer Appreciation—FREE Food 6-9 p.m.

$2.25 Pitchers 50¢ Draws

*Now under new ownership located 2 miles N. of the Blue Hills

539-6028 Shopping center at the Tubes exit

Godfather's Pizza Coupon Specials

1118 Laramie In Aggieville by Mini-Mart 539-5303

great savings! Invite the gang over for a Giant 16" a delicious Hot Slice™. You'll love the taste, and the savings. But hurry, offer ends soon!

1304 Westloop 539-8888 Order

Now's your chance to satisfy your pizza craving with special pizza loaded with toppings. Or treat yourself to

Hot Slice only 99¢

with this coupon

Dine-in or Carryout only Mon.-Fri. 11:30-1:30

Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit. Valid only at: 1118 Laramie

Offer expires 3/15/87.

Good for TWO Giant 16" special pizzas (The Super Pepperoni or The Four Topper) for only $14! Or, ONE for $9!

On Sunday, your choice: use this coupon or take advantage of our free drink offer. Sorry, can't do both! Not valid with Tapper or other promotional offers. Add $1 for delivery. Offer expires 3/15/87.

Valid only at: 1118 Laramie / 539-5303

Hot Slice only 99¢

Dine-in or Carryout only Mon.-Fri. 11:30-1:30

Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit. Valid only at: 1118 Laramie

Offer expires 3/15/87.

Most Americans consider Ger-Rees, senior in accounting; Todd Schultz, junior in journalism and many a foreign country, but seven K-State students will call the country mass communications; and Ronald Stelter, senior in German. Another "home" for a year. These students will participate in *student, Margaret Sellers, junior in civil engineering, will attend a the exchange program between university in Zurich, Switzerland. Justus-Liebig University in Giessen, West Germany, and K-State next Students participating in the Euro-

John Noonan, associate dean of the graduate school, said K-State will receive five students from Justus-Liebig next fall in the exchange.

A committee of representatives of Veterinary Medicine reviewed students' essays and interviewed those applying for the exchange, Noonan said.

"The competition was keen," Noonan said. "Through the essay, we looked for individual imagination, and through the interview, we focused on the sophistication of each student.'

The students chosen will be required to study in German, so it is important for them to be proficient in the language, he said. Good grades played a role in selecting those who circling the globe with essential supplies and detense missions equipment. As an Air Force pilot, you can have experiences most people only dream about

OFF THE GROUND

If you qualify, you can take off with Air Force ROTC We'll give you leadership training and sponsor FAA-approved flying lessons. You may also qualify for a scholarship that can pay college expenses plus $100 per academic month, tax free After graduation, you're off to the intensive and rigorous undergraduate pilot training program

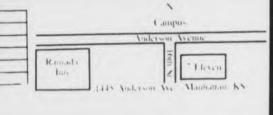

Check out Air Force ROTC today. If you have what it takes, you could wear the silver wings of an Air Force pilot. Call the Aerospace Studies Department at 532-6600.

Ask for Captain John Taglieri.

1445 Anderson Avenue

Large 22 oz. only 29¢

2 Liters only 79¢ Includes RC, Diet Rite, Diet RC, Cherry RC, Diet Cherry RC, Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Hires Root Beer, Crush-(all flavors), 7-Up, Diet 7-Up 2-Liter prices good through Sat., Jan. 24

Two Chili-Cheese Dogs and a

Super Big Gulp

only 99¢

Gulp only 99¢

offer good at Manhattan, KS store through Jan. 25, 1987

ELEVER 16 oz. Bowl of Chili (thick chili), one Chili Cheese Dog, and a Super Big

One

Denver, Giants plan on having Super game

Local experts dispute about Bowl winner

By RON RENO Contributing Writer

Since almost everyone has offered predictions on Sunday's Super Bowl matchup between the Denver Broncos and the New York Giants, it seemed only right that the Collegian ask the local "experts" members of K-State's football team - how they foresee the outcome.

Not surprisingly, the Giants favored in almost all betting circles were chosen by the Wildcats as the overwhelming favorites. Of the 13 K-State squad members surveyed, 10 selected the NFC champions to prevail in Pasadena, citing the Giants' suffocating defense as the primary reason.

"I think their defense and Lawrence Taylor are going to pound on (Denver quarterback John) Elway bad," said offensive tackle Chad Faulkner.

"Lawrence Taylor, he's the reason (New York will win)," said defensive tackle Kevin Humphrey of the Giants' linebacker, who was recently tabbed as the NFL Player of the Year.

Taylor leads a defense that has drawn several comparisons to the defense of last year's world champion Chicago Bears squad. New York completely shut down two high-powered offenses in its two playoff victories, limiting the San Francisco 49ers and Washington Redskins to a combined three points in those games.

While the Giants - who are favored by almost two touchdowns in some areas of the country - rely on their defense, the Broncos are counting on the sometimes brilliant, sometimes not, Elway to lead them to a Super Bowl title.

"I think Elway will be a big factor." said linebacker Scott White, who gave the Broncos the nod. "He'll run and scramble, and they won't be able to contain him."

"Elway's hot," said linebacker David Wallace, who also picked Denver. "I think (Denver has) a pretty diverse offense; they can run and, of course, they can pass.

While most Bronco fans are pinning their hopes on Elway's muchcelebrated right arm, Giants' fans cite numerous reasons as to why New York will come out on top.

The Giants team centers its offense on its 5-foot-6, All-Pro running back Joe Morris. Besides Morris, the Giants also have Phil Simms, who has finally proven himself to be a quality NFL quarterback and a talented offensive for Simms to

Though the Giants field an average group of wide receivers at best, Simms does have the considerable talents of All-Pro tight end Mark Bavaro to rely on.

Super Bowl XXI Sunday is a day for many K-State students to get together will battle for the title of NFL Champion and the coveted Vince Lombardi and cheer for their favorite. The Denver Broncos and the New York Giants Trophy.

K-State running back Tony Jordan is one of those who said the Giants simply have too many weapons for the Broncos to over-

"I think (New York's) defense is real stable...(and) I think they have a real good offense now that Phil Simms is playing well. I just think they're going to overpower Denver," he said.

"(New York's) on a roll right now," said offensive tackle Rockey Dvorak. "Their offense and defense is a lot better. New York has been playing well all year; they're kind of like Chicago was last year. Denver fell apart at the end of the year, and I don't think they can stay with the Giants.

Bronco diehards, however, don't buy that line. They cite the game between Denver and New York earlier in the year, which the Giants won on a last-second field goal, as evidence.

"I think Denver outplayed them in New York. I think they've got some revenge coming," said linebacker Matt Wallerstedt.

Though largely overlooked because of all the hype surrounding the Giants' defense, the Broncos also boast a respectable defense of their own led by All-Pros Rulon Jones and Karl Mecklenberg.

Wallace said Denver's defense is 'unbelievable," and then added, "with Mecklenberg and Rulon Jones, they're tough.

Though our "experts" forwarded plenty of other theories and prognostications, the majority seemed to believe Super Bowl XXI boils down to a battle between Elway and the Giants' defense.

Betting that opened big on the New York Giants has shifted as Super Bowl XXI nears, with bettors flocking to the side of the Denver Broncos as the point spread closed slightly at most legal sports books.

What once was a 10-point spread favoring the Giants dropped to nine points Thursday at most Las Vegas books - and may fall lower unless some hoped-for New York money comes in before Sunday's game.

Sports book operators say the early enthusiasm about the Giants has faded somewhat as bettors take a closer look at the game.

Football fans plan to party, enjoy contest

By BILL LANG Sports Writer

Super Bowl Sunday: a day that brings America to a virtual stand-

Some Americans will be in crammed bars in front of big-screen televisions. Others may choose to spend the game with friends in front of a smaller screen, waiting to see who will win the coveted Vince Lombardi Trophy along with the title of Super Bowl champions.

Last year, we witnessed the Chicago Bears and the likes of its radical leader, Jim McMahon, run rampant over the New England Patriots 46-10 as countless numbers attended parties wearing McMahon-style headbands and sunglasses trying to catch the atmosphere that surrounded Super Bowl XX.

As the New York Giants and the Denver Broncos prepare for battle Sunday in Pasadena, Calif., there isn't a flashy character such as McMahon or a media-dominating team such as the Bears.

But many K-State students are still preparing to at least watch Super Bowl XXI.

Terry Fairchild, Goodnow Hall resident, said nothing special is planned for Sunday at Goodnow.

"We're not going to do anything spectacular," Fairchild said. "We're just going to get together and have few snacks and a few beverages and enjoy the game."

Most fraternities contacted said they will host parties with their little sisters.

'We'll be having a pre-game party with some food and beverages," said Brian Hamilton, social chairman for the Acacia fraternity. 'We'll also be giving prizes to those who come closest to guessing the right score.

Some Aggieville businesses are attempting to cash in on the hype of the Super Bowl and will be hosting "Super Parties." Others will remain closed.

One firm chose not to do anything. The owner said, "We aren't going to do a thing, except maybe watch a little bit of the Super Bowl and then see what else is on.

One local establishment will be having an all-you-can-eat buffet. The game will be aired on a sevenfoot screen, and the room will be divided in half to accommodate Giants and Broncos followers.

So, with food in one hand, and a preferred beverage - maybe an Orange Crush would suffice? - in the other, sit back and join millions of other viewers and listeners and enjoy Super Bowl XXI.

OU to test conference-leading Wildcats

By JENNY CHAULK Sports Writer

The first sellout crowd of the season will be on hand Saturday at Ahearn Field House to watch Big Eight Conference-leading K-State men's basketball team take on Oklahoma, ranked 11th by The Associated Press and 9th by United Press International.

K-State's last victory in the series came Jan. 20, 1982 - 10 meetings ago - when K-State won 47-42, in Ahearn Field House. The Sooners have won four straight in Manhattan, but the 'Cats are 8-0 at home this season. "Ahearn's great. It will be a great game Saturday," reserve guard Mark Dobbins said. "As to having a full house, it's got to be worth something - I hope. (Our fans are) the best fans anywhere.'

Both teams are coming off im-

K-State, 13-3 and 3-0 in the con-

University of Oklahoma forward Darryl Kennedy, right, is averaging 17.1 points per game for the 11th-ranked Sooners, who will battle Big Eight leader K-State Saturday in sold-out Ahearn Field House.

ference, sits alone at the top of the Big Eight heap and rides the crest of a five-game winning streak into the 3:10 p.m. contest that will be televised by Raycom Sports.

pressive victories Wednesday night. The 'Cats defeated Colorado 92-61, while the Sooners, 13-3 and 2-1, pounded intrastate rival Oklahoma

The Sooners posted their biggest win of the season Jan. 17 when they defeated then No. 1 University of Vegas Nevada-Las Oklahoma's win over UNLV was the first ever for a Billy Tubbs-coached Sooner team over a top-ranked team.

"For us to win we have to shoot well and we've got to keep them from running and try to keep up your usual tempo," Dobbins said. "It's hard to run and keep another team from run-

Besides having identical records, OU and K-State also appear to match up well on paper.

Oklahoma averages 91.3 points per game overall and 79.5 points in conference play. K-State averages 83.1 points per game overall and 91 points in conference play.

Defensively, the 'Cats have the edge. They have allowed their opponents 70.9 points per game overall and 69.3 points in conference play. The Sooners, meanwhile, have allowed their opponets 80.8 points per game overall and 80.5 points in conference play.

K-State also has the edge in bench play. The 'Cats' bench is leading the Big Eight, averaging 26.7 points per game. Oklahoma's bench is in fourth place with an average of 19.3 points per game.

Individually, both teams have four starters who average in double figures.

State's rivals to clash in Big Eight matchup

By The Collegian Staff

Make no mistake about it, the 25th-ranked Lady Cats are on a roll and the players know it. 'We're on a winning team, and when you are on a team like this, it makes you confident," said Amy Davidson, a 5-foot-9 freshman reserve guard/forward. K-State, after a 71-61 win

Wednesday against Colorado at Boulder, has won five consecutive games and nine of its last 10. The Lady Cats, 14-3 overall and 3-1 against Big Eight Conference opponents, couldn't have picked a better time to get hot because they host intrastate rival Kansas at 5 p.m. in Ahearn Field House. Kansas, 9-9 and 2-2 in conference play, has won the last two meetings in Ahearn Field House.

But the Lady Cats have yet to lose at home this season.

Normally, a Kansas-K-State match up would attract much attention but the women's game seems to have been "lost in the shuffle" because the conferenceleading K-State men are hosting nationally ranked Oklahoma the same day

Sue Leiding paces the Lady Cats with an average of 15.2 points per game. Carlisa Thomas needs just 12 rebounds to become the Lady Cats' all-time career leading rebounder, and Susan Green needs five assists to take over fourth on the K-State career assist list.

Kansas, coached by Marian Washington, is led by three-time letter winner Jackie Martin with 10.3 an average of 10.3 points per

Manning paces Kansas by Cornhuskers, 86-65

By The Associated Press

LAWRENCE - Danny Manning scored 23 points, including 17 in the second half, as Kansas coasted to its 43rd straight victory at home Thursday night with an 86-65 rout of Big Eight Conference rival Nebraska.

The victory gave the Jayhawks a 4-1 conference record and moved them to 12-5 overall. The Cornhuskers fell to 1-3 in the Big Eight and 11-6 overall.

Manning, who scored just six points in the opening half, took control for Kansas in the first minutes of the second period. The 6-foot-11 forward scored 11 of Kansas' first 16 points in the period.

Guard Cedric Hunter hit two free throws with 7:30 left to put Kansas on top by 21 points, 71-50.

Kansas had the game well in hand early, jumping out to a 11-point lead,

Pennsylvania official commits suicide after talking to press

By The Associated Press

HARRISBURG, Pa. - Pennsylvania's treasurer, facing jail for defrauding the state, proclaimed his innocence at a news conference Thursday but said "It's too late for me," then pulled a pistol from a manila envelope, put it into his mouth and killed himself.

R. Budd Dwyer died instantly after he fired a single shot from a .357 Magnum pistol in front of two dozen horrified reporters, photographers and aides, said Dauphin County Coroner William Bush.

"No, No! Budd, don't do this!" several people gathered in Dwyer's office suite in the state Finance Building screamed just before he Moments after the shot rang out, someone cried, "Dear God in heaven.

Dwyer's son Rob, 21, said his father had given the family no indication of what he intended to do. "We're pretty broken up," he said, his voice cracking during a telephone interview. He said he heard the news at home with his mother, Joanne, 47, and sister, Dyan, 18.

On Wednesday, the attorney general's office had declared that Dwyer, 47, would be out of office as soon as he was sentenced Friday in federal court in Williamsport. Before that, Dwyer, a Republican who had been elected to his second term in 1984, had planned to stay in office on a leave of absence without pay until his appeal was resolved.

A jury in December convicted Dwyer of awarding a $4.6 million contract to a firm called Computer Technology Associates in return for a promised $300,000 payoff. No money ever changed hands.

He faced up to 55 years in prison for five counts of mail fraud, four counts of interstate transportation in aid of racketeering, one count of perjury and one count of conspiracy to commit bribery.

At the news conference, Dwyer read a rambling, half-hour statement in which he said he was a victim of the legal system.

He held up his hands when he saw some television cameramen start taking down their equipment and told them: "You don't want to take down your equipment yet."

Then, he reached into the large envelope, telling those people nearby, "Stay away, this thing will hurt someone.

Fred Cusick, a reporter for the Philadelphia Inquirer, was in the front row at the time of the shooting. "I should have run and grabbed him when he pulled out the envelope," Cusick said. "I knew that was it.'

Just before he pulled the gun, Dwyer called acting treasurer Donald L. Johnson and two other aides to his side. He handed each of them sealed envelopes that he said contained instructions for them to

Treasury spokesman Duke Hor-shock told reporters after the shooting that "the expectation was that he was using this forum to resign his position...He said he was going to give an update on his

Dwyer's 19-page typed statement made no reference to resigning. At several points he used phrases like as "it's too late for me" and "as my political career draws to a close."

In his statement, Dwyer criticized the media, acting U.S. Attorney James West, who prosecuted his case, former Gov. Dick Thornburgh and senior U.S. District Judge Malcolm Muir.

Dwyer also said he was "being punished for a crime I did not com-

West called the shooting tragic but said he stands by the government's case and the jury's verdict.

Gov. Robert P. Casey, who succeeded Thornburgh this week, said in a statement that he and his wife "are profoundly shocked and saddened. Mrs. Dwyer and her children are in our prayers."

Agronomy society presents award to professor

By ANGIE SMITH Collegian Reporter

The American Society of Agronomy honored Gerry L. Posler, professor of agronomy, as the recipient of the 1986 Agronomic Resident Education Award.

The society gives the award to the most outstanding applicant based on the many contributions a person makes through teaching, Posler

Although Polser has received many awards, he said he believes the ASA Resident Education Award is the most prestigious and exciting award in his teaching career. "The ASA Resident Education Award is represented by all your contributions and hard work with students," he said.

"Posler is an outstanding teacher and is highly regarded by his peers," said George Ham, professor of agronomy and head the Department of Agronomy. "He is very enthusiastic," Ham said. "Students have a desire to learn because they are in the classroom with him.

 4¢ self-service copies Full service copy center Resume service OPEN DAILY

5 Sun.12-9 Denison & Claffin FirstBank Center

"He deserves it. He does so much for the department; he is a real asset," said Scott Dorsch, senior in agronomy and president of the Wheat State Agronomy Club.

Posler said he was nominated by a colleague, Steve Thien, professor of agronomy. Posler's resume was sent to the ASA committee, which made the final decision on the award. He received the award Dec. 3 at the ASA banquet held in New Orleans.

Posler is also the assistant head for instruction in the agronomy department. His duties include coordinating all agronomy teaching activities, scheduling, scholarships and helping with new student programs. Posler teaches two classes: Crop Growth and Development and Forage Management.

Posler is the coach of the K-State Collegiate Crops Judging Team. He has advised many student groups including the Plant Science Club, Alpha Zeta and the Agriculture Council. He is currently the Secretary of the Collegiate Crops Contest Coach Committee.

Posler said he believes outstanding teachers must be very knowledgeable and current in subject matter, well organized, enthusiastic, able to communicate effectively, fair, and above all, "concerned" that students learn.

Posler has been at K-State for 12 years. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Missouri and his doctorate from Iowa State University.

> Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

Posler has received numerous teaching awards including the National Association of College Teachers of Agriculture Teacher Fellow and Outstanding Central Region Fellow awards in 1978.

Polser received the Gamma Sigma Delta Teaching Award of Merit in 1982, and the KSU College of Agriculture Outstanding Faculty Award in 1978, 1981 and 1986. He also received the Kansas State University Outstanding Teaching Award in 1983.

AGGIEVILLE

FLOWERS MUG BOUQUET $750

cash and carry 12th & Laramie 537-9549 M-S 10-5

ENJOY YOUR LEISURE TIME! Discover LAUNDRY LAND Drop off your laundry . . . we'll do it for you 7 days a week!

Bring us all your washables for same day wash-dry-fold laundry service. Dry cleaning and self service also available. Try our quick professional service, you'll be glad you did!

2048 N. Tuttle Creek Blvd. 776-1939

Play the game of the future at

BONKERS

Next Competition Tues. 27th Enter Your Team Now! College students enter FREE!

Call 537-9591

I.D. Required

SUPER

SUNDAY

FUN!

Party. So If You're Family, Or A Friend Of The Family Come Party With Us! Saturday, Jan. 24 9 p.m.

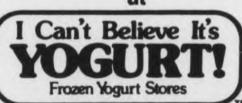

There's Going To Be A Family

Unitarian Fellowship Church BYOB $2

539-0874

GAY AND LESBIAN RESOURCE CENTER

"Purple and White" Swirl CONES and CUPS

(on purple & white swirl cones and cups excluding waffle cones)

> Saturday, Jan. 24 to Everyone Wearing Something Purple!

Enjoy the taste of Ice Cream but with one-fifth the fat and half the calories

GO CATS!

We'll be cheering you on to victory against Oklahoma

FREE SAMPLES EVERY TIME YOU COME IN

Open 11 a.m.-11 p.m. daily Noon-11 p.m. Sunday 705 N. 11th Nautilus Towers, Aggieville

"Your choice: Quarter Pound Cheeseburger or reg. Roast Beef, only

'We make our sandwiches with that good, old-fashioned taste, and now you can get them for a good, old-fashioned price."

Offer good for a limited time.

Offer good at participating Hardee's" Restaurants.

LUNCH FOOTBAL Serving Noon-8 p.m. · Homemade Grille Choices Watch The Game!

Airfares

Continued from Page 1

students don't know about it yet. Both Hurren and Howse said that most sales are directed to Florida and Texas.

Hurren said sales to older adults traveling to Las Vegas, Nev., were also up. Howse added that most students still preferred driving to flying when traveling to South Padre Island for spring break.

Each airfare package is usually accompanied by restrictions, which could pose problems for some students who can't travel on short notice or certain days.

Howse said that with some low rates, the airlines impose a 50 percent penalty for cancellation. Other restrictions could include three-day to two-month advance purchase agreements, no refund or exchange policies, and travel limited to certain days of the week and times of the day. Some air travelers do not realize that most airlines will waive penalties for legitimate emergencies such as a verified illness or death, Howse said.

> Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

LIFE and Times

I DON'T

WE'VE MET.

PILLAR D. LARRY,

THAT LIVES HERE ... ARE

YOU?

Classifieds

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-118)

ASK ME about Mary Kay! Janet Milliken, 539-9469.

ALL CAMPUS Social and Potluck

> Dinner Campus Religious Organizations

Sunday, Jan. 25, 1987 International Student Center

5:30-7:30 p.m.

Sponsor: KSU Committee on Religion

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski desti-nations. South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauder-dale, Mustang Island/Port Aransas, Galveston Island and Fort Walton Beach. Call Sunchase Tours Central Spring Break Toll Free Hot Line today for information and reservations-1-800-321-5911

THE COMPETITION has arrived! Now available on campus—Avon Beauty Products. Contact Kara, 532-3291. (83-87)

Learn to Fly

Information on ground school and flight training. Call Hugh Irvin at 539-3128 or 532-6311.

VALENTINE'S DAY is approaching! Order your gifts from Avon today. Contact Kara, 532-3291. (83-84) PEOPLE'S GROCERY Co-op, 811 Colorado, is open to everyone Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. 539-4811. (83-87)

ATTENTION

CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry. Need 100 over weight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drugs, no exercise, 100% guaranteed. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

02

HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT distributor. See us for products. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

Bundle

Correctable typewriters for rent on a daily, weekly or monthly basis. See us for all your typing needs.

776-9469 511 Leavenworth, across from post office

GARAGE, REASONABLY priced. 1122 Vattier. 539-

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM luxury duplex: Fireplace, garage, west of campus, $450. Call 539-4294 or 776-2536.

NICE ONE-bedroom apartment. Water, trash, twothirds gas paid, laundry facility. Nice for graduate student or couple. $260/month. 539-2482 after 4 p.m. (76-86)

SPACIOUS, TWO-bedroom apartment in convenient downtown location. Low utilities, air conditioned, covered garage. Private and roomy. Call 537-1072.

by Doug & Dick

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

HOW MUCH MONEY?

WELL I. UH ...

GAWD! ?!

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

DOWN

city

1 Spanish

2 Excuse

3 Western

4 City cars

5 Island

By Charles Schulz

fogger, good mpg. Runs great. Call 537-3881 after 5:30 p.m. (81-83) 1986 FORD F150 4 x 4, 351 V8 4B, supercab. Low mileage. Best offer. 539-7409. (81-91)

1979 VW Rabbit, AM/FM, cassette, rear window de-

1977 GOLD Volkswagan van. Excellent condition. $2,300. 238-8092. (82-85)

Eugene Sheffer

rossword

ACROSS 1 Beanie 4 Ailurophobe's fear 7 — mignon 12 "The 13 Pub order 48 Theater 14 Free 15 Noise 16 Western dead end 18 Nigerian native 19 "Jaws beast

20 Metallic element 22 Literary collec tion 23 — Mater

27 CIA's predecessor 29 Hobo's transporter 31 San Antonio 34 Not as landmark confined 35 Pugilism

37 Singer Yoko 38 Business VIP

39 Rower's need 4 Across

41 Tailless 45 Mideast name for God Greatest" 47 Prohibit greetings 6 LBJ, for take 52 Eggs 53 Game site 7 Criticism: collog. 54 In the manner of

8 Charged bit 55 "The 9 Actress of the Locust" 56 Dangerous snake

Myrna 10 Within: prefix 11 Decimal 57 Ending base for on 17 Fiddler, or off for one 58 City trains Solution time: 28 mins.

AS EMIL YS FILM SALUTES

DNA EEK GETUP
BIRD BET DOTE
ASKEW GAL WAT
FED BIRTHS
RAREBIT BAH
TVAN CITYHALL
CORD ELIA LEI
EWES SEEN LOT
Cesterday's approx Yesterday's answer 1-23

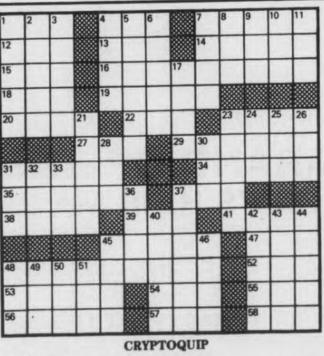

23 Math proposition 24 Watch display 25 West of

Holly wood 26 Time table abbr. 28 Ham, to Noah

30 Possess 31 Honest fellow 32 Bagel topper

33 Fire 36 Links pastime 37 Seer 21 Humorous 40 Pseudonym

42 Home 43 Fleetrelated 44 Roentgen's

1-23 PAPGPRTTK COWYLZ HM V+G -

HLXYVM - YPMALZ - XMOYOX WVM CVTZ HRAG GYOTT

YVZRK

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: SAID MERRY FISHERMAN, THAT HUGE TROUT WAS WORTH WADING FOR TODAY!"

Today's Cryptoquip clue: A equals N

CAN YOU buy jeeps, cars, 4 × 4's seized in drug raids for under $100? Call for facts today, 602-837-3401 Ext. S 744. (83)

FREE RENT in January. Large two-bedroom, nicely

ONE-BEDROOM, two-bedroom apartments, fur-

deposit required. 539-1465. (76-88)

decorated, dishwasher, disposal. No pets. $350, nished or unfurnished, (new furniture). Westloop area. Call 776-9124. (78tf)

MONT BLUE

APARTMENTS

Leasing for June

539-4447

TWO BLOCKS west of campus. Quiet, well main-

NEAR CAMPUS at nice, quiet location-two

TWO-BEDROOM luxury apartment, block from campus. Also, five-bedroom house, block and one-half from campus. 539-4363. (77-86)

ROOMMATE NEEDED, share two-bedroom (fur-nished), close to campus, 350 N. 16th. Rent rea-

ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month. Gas, heat,

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage,

THREE BEDROOM large furnished apartment, nea

LARGE TWO-bedroom, partially furnished basement

235-3550, Topeka. (79-88)

Call 539-1349. (80-84)

city park. No pets, deposit required. $350 per month. Call 539-7677 after 3:30 p.m. (79-83)

apartment close to campus, 1411 Vista Lane. Own entrance, no pets, parking for two cars. Deposit

LARGE, WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five blocks

from campus. No pets. $300. Call 776-0181. (79tf)

TWO-BEDROOMS, near city park. New carpet. $240, bills paid. 776-0605 or 539-4226. (79-83)

SLEEPING ROOM one block from campus. Reasona

NICELY-FURNISHED, one-half block/campus, $260

bills paid. Furnished, two blocks/campus, $150 furnished, two blocks/campus, $250 plus part utilities, (month-to-month lease ok). Two

ONLY

Homestead Rental

HAS ALL

YOUR RENTAL NEEDS

*Wide Selection

*Instant Credit *Immediate Delivery

*No Deposit

*Low Monthly Rates

*Purchase Options

*No Hidden Costs

*Friendly Service

*Home Owned

532-6873. Jim. (81-83)

4422 (82-90)

*Month to Month Lease

Furniture-TV-Appliances

Homestead Rental

2332 Sky-Vue Lane

SPACIOUS LIMESTONE: one-two bedrooms, $225,

TWO BEDROOM-close to campus. Central air, fire place, sun porch and garage. Call 776-5925. (81-83)

ADJACENT TO campus, 1224 Bertrand. Nice, two-bedroom with garage, washer and dryer. We pay water, trash. Asking $350. Call 537-1745 or 537-

ONE BEDROOM, furnished apartment, bills paid,

QUIET HILLSIDE setting, third floor, nice older home, private entrance, bath, kitchenette, bedroom, study room. Utilities paid, $180. prefer female/graduate, 776-3454. (83)

TWO BEDROOM apartment, partially furnished,

close to campus with air conditioning. Rent $255. Call 539-7253. (83-88)

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294.

NOVA 1977, four doors, good condition. Call 776-

1980 MUSTANG, four-cylinder turbo, four-speed, 24

1984 FORD Escort GL. Four door, automatic, power steering, power brakes, front wheel drive, air, AM-FM, cruise, rear window defroster, cloth interior, low miles. 539-4271. (79-83)

1980 CHEVY Monza, power steering, power brakes. air, automatic transmission. Low miles, good con-dition. Call evenings, 532-3661. (80-84) mpg, good condition. $2,400. Call 537-3697 eve-

05

06

FOR RENT-HOUSES

FOR SALE-AUTO

3806. (78-83)

nings. (79-83)

537-7313 or 539-8401 One-half block from campus.

free heat. Fifth and Osage. 494-2756 evenings or bly priced, 539-0410 or 539-2857. (79-83)

rent, available now. Pay own electricity. Phone

west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294

Call 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (78-88)

and water included. Lease and deposit required.

sonable. Call 539-4625 after 6 p.m. (80-83)

bedroom duplex, available February 1, $270. Call tained one-bedroom apartment for mature, non-smoking individual. $216. Lease. No pets, water

Studio, 1 & 2 Bedroom

Apartments

beds. 537-9686. (82-86)

537-0152. (77-88)

and Townhouses

Close to campus

FOR SALE-MISC

BOSE 800 speakers, $600-one pair. Atlas speaker stands, $150; Sansui receiver, 250 watt, $300. Call 776-7689. (79-83)

DINETTE, VERY good condition, 539-4271. (79-83) EX-60 SILVER Reed typewriter. Best offer. 539-7409.

> Ski the Summit over Spring Break

4 days of skiing March 17-22 $245 per person includes transportation.

3 nights lodging and lift passes. For more information call Mary Blogin at 539-8300

Plane Travel Center, Kansas City, MO.

AKC GOLDEN retriever. Male, nine weeks, all shots, wormed. Call 539-2334, ask for Shawn. (81-83) OLD, UPRIGHT piano. Good condition. $150 or best offer Commodore 1541 drive, monochrome monitor, plus extras. $200 or best offer, 258-3564 evenings. (81-83)

FOR SALE: 40-gallon fish aquarium, comes fully equipped. For more information, call 776-7845. (81-

KELSEY 12-channel mixer, $470; Mako bass guitar $180. Kustom powr amp, $200: prices negotiable, 776-1925 (83-87)

Hayes House of Music DOD Guitar Effects

30% Off

776-7983 327 Poyntz

13

HELP WANTED

PROFESSIONAL COUPLE in Kansas City, Missouri seeking person to care for 15-month-old. Flat laundry and preparation of evening meal. Room, board salary, phone, T.V. Plaza location. Call collect, 816-926-2020 or 816-444-2885. (76-85)

EARN $480 weekly-$60 per hundred envelopes stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed for company project stuffing envelopes and assembling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to JBK Mailcompany, PO. Box 25-52, Castaic, California 91310. (76-102)

AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer. Career Good pay. Travel. Call for guide, cassette, newsser-vice! (916) 944-4444 Ext. #58. (76-135)

DENTAL HYGIENIST Wanted: must have a gentle touch, enjoy the people part of dental practice and be able to work as a team player in a busy dental practice. Full or part-time opportunities available Send typewritten resume and handwritten letter of introduction to P.O. Box 704, Manhattan, Kansas 66502 (78-83)

PARTY ANIMALS to organize spring break vacations to Florida and Caribbean. Earn free trip and cash. Call us now at 1-800-237-8308 days or (904) 441-8687 evenings. (79-83) THE FONE Crisis Center is now accepting volun teers for the spring semester. For additional infor-mation, please call 532-6565 or stop by our table in the Union on Friday (81-83) RENT FREE home to female for watching ten-yearold daughter weekday afternoons, 776-7548, (81-

STUDENT RECEPTIONIST/Word Processor, must be work especially Monday. Wednesday. and Friday mornings, approx mately 20 hours per week, starting immediately, Ideal job for student with strong interest in computer field. Students with employment potential of two years and experience with microcomputer application packages ill be given preference. Ranking factors such as GPA, paid work experience, acquaintance with mi-crocomputers, and longevity potential will be con-sidered. Submit applications to Debra Hyde in Room A21, Anderson Hall. Applications will be accepted until Monday. January 26, 5 p.m. (82-84) PART-TIME TO full-time bookkeeper/accountant for complete set of records. Computer skills helpful. Send or deliver resume with references to LERN. 1554 Hayes Drive, Manhattan, KS 66502. Deadline: Wednesday, January 28 (82-84)

HORTICULTURE STUDENT needed. Part-time plant clerk, 12-15 hours/week. Must be available to work Mondays a.m. Apply at Safeway Store, Village Plaza. (82-84)

PRE-SCHOOL Instructors. The City of Manhattan needs part-time seasonal Pre-School Instructors to supervise and lead children in recreational activities. Formal educational training in early childhood education or Pre-School certification is preferred. Apply at the Personnel Office, City Hall. 11th and Poyntz. Applications taken until posi-tions are filled. EOE-M/F/H. (83)

THE KANSAS Cooperative Extension Service has an opening for student computer programmers. The position is for 20 hours per week, flexible sched-ule. Applicants should be familiar with one of the following languages: Pascal, C, or PL/I. Summer employment is a possibility depending on performance. For more information contact Dr. Steve Welch or Mary Knapp at 211 Umberger, phone 532-7019. Application blanks are available from the above individuals or in the Computer Science Office and will be taken during business hours through February 6, 1987 (83-92)

NEED EXTRA cash? Earn $100's weekly at home. Free details! Rush self-addressed stamped enve lope: Sterling Enterprises, Box 1514-C, Manhattan. KS 66502. (83-87) 14

LOST

LOST UNDER six inches of snow. Two keys attached to a wooden teddy bear key ring between Farrell and King. Please call 539-2059 after 6, if found. Thanks!! (83-84)

NOTICES

PREPARE FOR summer employment. Enroll in the Community Education Advanced Lifesaving class by Monday, January 26 and fulfill the prerequisite for the Water Safety Instructor course. The class will meet Mondays and Wednesdays from 5:30 p.m.-7:25 p.m. at the KSU natatorium until March 4. Enroll at 316 Umberger or call 532-5566. (82-83) NEED MONEY for college? Let us match you with 15

scholarship and grant money for which you can qualify. For more information write Student Finan-cial Aid Services. 1613 S.W. Chelsea Drive, Topeka. KS 66604. (82-91) ATTENTION SCALPERS. Need four KU-KSU basketball tickets for February 4. Company coming. 537 7087 (83-87)

PERSONAL TO CUTE blonde in royal blue coat entering Blue-mont Hall Wednesday about 12:30. Almost ran over you in the parking lot and again inside. We ex-changed smiles but would like to meet if available. Rup. Dark haired guy in gray RX7. (83-84)

CHERYL B. — Tonight you can finally be yourself at Bushwackers. Have your drinks on us. Your roomies, J. N. R. (83)

HEY SPANKY-Happy 24th birthday! See ya Sunday! (Love the 'stache!) - Love, Buckwheat. (83) DOUG-I can't wait to go hunting this weekend. Love, C.L. (83)

FEEL THE Phi Kap difference, Saturday night, Little

Sister Rush Party. Thousands of women surveyed, we've won the taste test. Phi Kaps-the new gen-AZD PLEDGES—From rushees which you were, to awesome pledges which you've been, the time has gone so fast, new initiates you will be at last. XI

Love, The Actives. (83) DDD LISA M.: Initiation is almost over . . . just wait until tonight! You've done a great job sweetie! I'm so glad you're my dot! I love you! Amy. (83)

DDD SUSIE-The stars and crescents will lead you tonight to a special night that you'll save in your heart. Soon your dreams will come true, as a Tri-Delta sister I will call you. Love, Mari. (83)

DDD BEAR, Congratulations. I'm proud of you'l love

DDD PLEDGES-The time has finally come, when you and Tri Delta will become one. Congratula-tions! Love, The Actives. (83)

CATHY D - Happy Birthday!!! Roses are red, violets are blue, sugar is sweet and your roomies love you! Have a wondeful day, remember nuclear frogs go boom! (83)

DAVE-HAPPY 19th! Hope this is one you'll never forget. Love, A.W. (83)

TRI DELTA Kim, Through pledgeshp you survived to reach your goal an active in Delta Tri. The best is yet to come. Love. Mom. (83)

LISA KAY, It's chance that makes us sisters, but hearts that make us friends. Enjoy this weekend!

Love big sis. Dana Marie. (83) GOLDENHEARTS: THIS Sunday's the superbowl so let's meet at the ole' fraternity, bring your pillows and join me for a brewski. We'll meet at 3:30 so don't be late; the party as always, will definitely be great! Go Cowboys! (83)

ROOMMATE WANTED TWO NON-SMOKING females to share fourbedroom, two-bath duplex. Walk to campus. Central air conditioning, large yard, low utilities and super low rent. Call 776-3069 after 5 p.m. (76-83) furnished apartment. Own room, no deposit, pool Cico Park area. Call 537-7181. (76-83) MALE ROOMMATE needed-Across street from campus. $135/month plus utilities. 776-9369 (76-

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted: To share nice, clean,

NON-SMOKING female. Own room/bathroom Washer/dryer, $135 plus one-third utilities 537-1700. (78-83)

ROOMMATE WANTED, male/female for twobedroom house, 521 North 10th, $170 month, all bills paid, 537-7465, (78-83)

FEMALE ROOMMATE, non-smoking, Individual room, Campus East, Call 776-0972 (after 5 p.m.). (79-83) OWN ROOM, near campus, $125 plus utilities. 539-

NON-SMOKING female roommate to share threebedroom house. Own room, $110 plus utilities (washer & dryer), 537-7463, (79-83)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share five-bedroom

(80-83) NEED A place to live? Female roommate wanted. Apartment right across from campus. $120/month (negotiable) plus one-fourth utilities. 539-8151 (80-house, one-fifth utilities. $155 month. 776-2103.

HOUSE NEEDS roommate, $135. Share expenses Laundry. Call 776-9140 (80-83) WOULD LIKE to share modern, bright, spacious, three-bedroom apartment near campus with one

THREE MALES-To share two-bedroom apartment $95/month, plus utilities Home-539-5196 work-776-2340 after 4 p.m (83-86) campus. Own large room, tireplace $100 a month, utilities paid. Must see to appreciate 1206 Bertrand. 776-0306. (81-83) NON-SMOKER, OWN room, next to campus. Rent negotiable, 776-3833 before 1 p.m. or after 6 p.m.

WANTED, FEMALE roommate to share house. Own bedroom and bath. $200 per month, includes utilities. Phone 776-7541 (82-84)

ROOMMATE WANTED, $110 and one-third utilities. Own washer/dryer. Spacious, lots of storage. 776-6739 (82-84)

MALE ROOMMATE(S) wanted to share a six bedroom house. Total expense about $160 per month. No

nished apartment. Close to campus with air conditioning, rent and utilities, $150. Call 539-7253, 183.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share new apartme Own room. $155 per month plus utilities 537-4347

18 SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg

Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST—$1.10/page. Disc storage. letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537-9205, Dorinda (78-88) TYPING/WORD processing. Data sheets, resumes. letters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Bur-

5839 (81-90)

WELCOMES WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza Church School 9:45 a m., Worship 8:30 and 11 a.m. Ministers. Ben Duerfeldt. 539-8685: Sue Amyx, 776-0025. Transportation to

School, 9.45 a.m. Morning Worship, 10.50 a.m. Evening Service, 6 p.m. Prayer Service, Wednesday. 7 p.m. (83) ST LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod), Sunset and North Delaware welcomes students to services. Saturday at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 8 and 10:45 a.m. Bible classes. 9:30 a.m. Sunday. Fellowship. 6 TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN-Worship Service 10:45

539-3921 (83) WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley Blvd. invites you to worship with them Sunday at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. Sunday School classes, 8:30 and 10:30 a.m. College class meets at 9 a.m. at University Inn. lower level. For College Care Cell and Bible Studies, contact 539-5369 For any additional information, call 537-7173. (83)

St. Francis Episcopal Sundays 5 p.m. Danforth Chapel (Anglican)

WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:30 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison (the white building with the two red doors). (83) WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church, 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Worship Service, 8:30 and 11 a.m. and Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. Uni-versity Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Bob Burton, reacher. Evening Service, 6 p.m. Horace Breisford.

Pastor; Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor, 537-8565. For transportation daytime call 776-0424. (83)

MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison, Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday eve-ning at 5 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:30 p.m. (83) COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church SBC, 2221 College Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a.m. Sunday Worship, 8:15 and 11 a.m. Church Training. 6 p.m. Sunday. Evening Worship, 7 p.m. Wednes-day Evening Prayer Service, 7 p.m. Phone: 537-

FIRST LUTHERAN, 930 Poyntz (537-8532). Welcome students to worship service at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday School 9:40 a.m. (83) ST. PAUL'S Episcopal Church-6th and Poyntz. Communion is celebrated on Sunday at 8 a.m. (Rite I) and at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call 776-9427 (83) BLUE VALLEY Memorial United Methodist Church

835 Church Avenue. Sunday School, 9:15 a.m. Morning Worship, 10:30 a.m. 539-8790. (83) more roommate (male or female). Rent about $200 month. Call Theo at 532-6387 or 539-6972. (80-83) MALE ROOMMATES-across street from campus. 1615 Anderson. Three bedrooms, $105/month one-third utilities 776-0827 (81-85) WANTED, FEMALE roommate. One-half block from deposit, available now. 776-9222 (83-87) ROOMMATE TO share a two bedroom partially fur

MALE ROOMMATE—two-bedroom, furnished, Mc-Cain Lane, Fireplace, Call 539-1157, after 8 p.m (82-

nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 S PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (391f)

den 539-1204 (80-89) QUALITY TYPING for $1 per page. Contact John, 539.

MARTIE'S TYPING Service Word Processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Term papers, theses disserta-tions 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. (83-85)

church - 776-8790 after 9 a.m. (83) CHURCH OF the Nazarene. 1000 Fremont. Sunday a.m., Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office,

537-0593

Foes of death penalty to present forum

By DERON JOHNSON Collegian Reporter

A forum in opposition to the death penalty will be presented tomorrow from 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the Big Eight Room of the Union, said Sally Beaman, secretary of Amnesty International of Manhattan, one of the groups that will be represented.

Other groups involved in the forum include the Kansas Coalition Against the Death Penalty, the Mennonite Church, the League of Women Voters, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the American Civil Liberties Union and the Ecumenical Campus

Continued from Page 3

However, reducing deficiency payments would destroy efforts made to increase U.S. competitiveness because less money in deficiency payments would force farmers to plant the land that has re-

"If we wouldn't produce one kernel of wheat (from now on), we'd have 86 percent of all the wheat we'll need next year (beginning June 1)," Hola-

In addition to a surplus at home,

"We've been hammered on the world market by (wheat producers

in) Australia, Canada and the South foreign producers are inheriting the market the United States once mained idle, Holaday said.

Subsidy

reduce production.

day said.

monopolized.

Ministries Inc. The purpose of the forum is twofold, Beaman said. "We'll be discussing the various points in opposition to the death penalty bill and how to go about putting forward opposition to the death penalty," she said.

One of the featured speakers will be Robert Bryan, a San Francisco attorney. Bryan is currently representing Anna Hauptman, wife of Bruno Hauptman, who was executed for the alleged kidnap and murder of the Charles Lindberg baby, in an attempt to clear her husband's name. In addition, Beaman said Bryan represents more than 100 men cur-

American countries," Hibbard said.

"And the Soviet Union and China have been able to get their produc-

Hibbard said one of the strengths of the 1985 farm bill is it allows an opportunity for a market-oriented nation. Reducing deficiency payments would force production up and com-from agriculture and say right now we're going to throw everything out into the market," Hibbard said. He said the administration is "accelerating faster than is necessary close to obtaining that com-wheat," he said, "(But) we're very close to being competitive on the world market. We've come a long

Holaday said the United States is

'We're not the cheapest price in

"We can't just pull the rug out tion up.

and fair.

petiveness down.

rently on death row throughout the United States.

Primary reasons for the groups' opposition to the death penalty include moral justification and the belief that the adoption of the death penalty will be financially burdensome for the state.

The forum comes at the time when a death penalty bill is currently working its way through the Kansas Legislature. If passed, it faces almost certain approval from Gov. Mike Hayden, a capital punishment supporter. Hayden vowed in his campaign that capital punishment would be reinstated during his term in of-

Beaman said public expression of the groups' opposition to the death penalty is essential.

K-State's Speech Unlimited competitive speakers will conduct a debate on the death penalty in February. She said "it seems strange" that in a state that is seemingly so much in favor of the death penalty, the group has had a difficult time finding anyone to speak in support of the death penalty at the February debate.

She said it took nearly three months of searching before debate organizers found a death penalty supporter willing to debate.

Operation fails to save

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA after surgeons operated for eight hours to separate the infants, who shared a heart, liver and intestines, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The second twin died at 6:30 p.m., 612 hours after the first infant died during the operation doctors had said would give only one of the twins a

The second baby's death was caused by "multiple problems relating to surgery, primarily cardiac problems," said Children's Hospital

Dr. James O'Neill, chief of surgery at the hospital, had said after the operation that everything "went as well as could be expected, and it is very questionable" whether the se-

Surgery to separate the twins, joined from breastbone to abdomen and together weighing 71/2 pounds, began at 8:20 a.m., nearly two hours after they were wheeled into the operating B's" body.

joined-at-heart twins

312-week-old boys died Thursday chance to live.

spokeswoman Patricia Unser.

cond infant would survive.

room. It was completed at 4 p.m.

Unser said "Baby A", separated from his brother at 2:30 p.m., was clinically dead at noon, less than four hours after the operation began. He was kept attached to his brother while surgeons moved the heart and liver into the proper places in "Baby

COLLEGE of EDUCATION Student Council Elections

Feb. 10-11 in Bluemont lobby

Applications may be picked up in Bluemont 013 and are due Feb. 2.

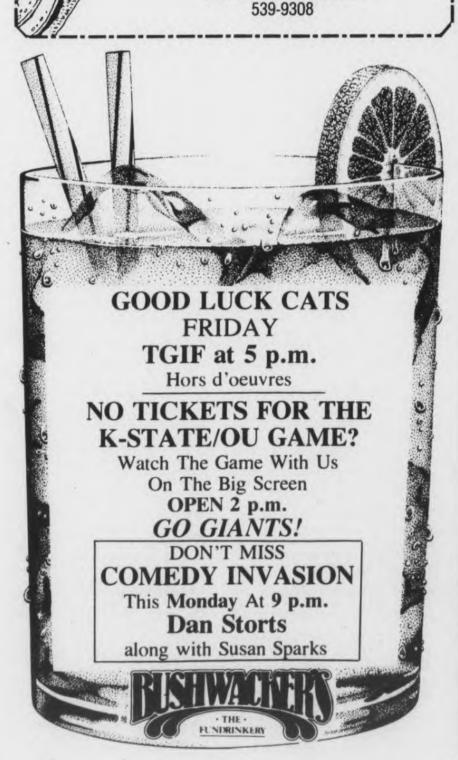

MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

Robert Nieman, Boeing representative will speak on flight instrumentation

> Monday, Jan. 26 Durland 152 7 p.m.

Everyone welcome and refreshments provided!

WATCH THE SUPERBOWL AT ROCKY MOUNTAIN BONKERS SUNDAY $2 PITCHERS FREE SANDWICH BAR COME SEE THE BRONCOS WIN!

1216 Laramie 537-9591

SUN., JAN. 25 THROUGH SAT., JAN. 31

GRAND OPENING RAY'S HAIR MAXIM

(formerly Ray's Roffler Family Hair Center)

•REG. $40 PERMS-$25 (incl. cut)

•REG. $1150 STYLE CUT-$850

•REG. $20 HIGHLIGHTING—$10

FREE BALLOONS AND A FREE GIFT FOR THE FIRST 100 CUSTOMERS

622 N. MANHATTAN AGGIEVILLE

537-8620

Local group to view photography display

By The Colllegian Staff

"Born Free and Equal: Photographs by Ansel Adams" now on display at the Nelson-Atkins Museum of Art in Kansas City, Mo., will highlight a trip by KSU Friends of Art and the Department of Art Jan. 31.

Diane Dollar, instructor of art, said Ansel Adams is best known for his Western landscapes, but this display consists of some littleknown early photographs.

Taken in 1943, the prints are Adams' personal record of the Manzanar War Relocation Center in California, where about 10,000 Japanese-Americans were interned at the beginning of World War and mess halls, said Lauren English of the Nelson-Atkins Museum of Art. It was erected by an executive order in 1942 for persons of Japanese ancestry suspected of sabotage and espionage during the post-Pearl Harbor years when anti-Japanese sentiment was strong.

Adams worked for one year to record the land and people of Manzanar. He refused any support for his photographic project fearing its labeling as propaganda. There are 50 photographs from this time, English said. The display will continue through Feb.

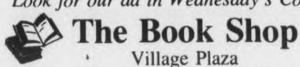

The public is welcome to join the group which will leave by bus Manzanar consisted of bar- at 7 a.m. from the Union

Special Dog Days Game Sale

Jan. 29, 30, 31

Look for our ad in Wednesday's Collegian

Mon.-Sat. 9-9, Sun. 9-8

Thanks to the 1986 Sig Ep Fite Nite Miss Knockout Candidates

Stacy Collins......Al'A Teri Ginter......ΥΩ Stephanie Boring.....ΓΦΒ Julie Horigan......KAO Tammy Cook......ПВФ Jane Hanson..... YYY

Congratulations to Teri Ginter of Chi Omega, the 1986 Miss Knockout. Looking forward to another group of GREAT CANDIDATES!

FITE NITE '87

April 5, 6, 7

VALENTINEWS BULLETIN

WE DELIVER STARTING AT 11 a.m.

Family Buffet 5-9 p.m. Mon.-Thurs. Luncheon Buffet 11 a.m.-2 p.m. Every Day

Super Bowl Pizza Delivery ALL DAY SUNDAY

Call Early for Your Party Pizzas!

Open 7 Days/Week 11 a.m. till 10 p.m. Sunday through Thursday 11 a.m. till Midnight Friday and Saturday

3019 Anderson 537-4350 Village Plaza Shopping Center 1016 W. 6th 238-6101

Junction City

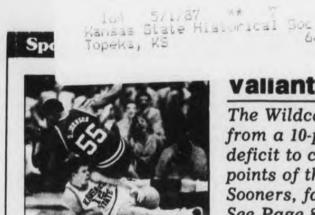

Gov. Mike Havden delivers his first State of the State address Friday at the state capitol in Topeka. See Page

Partly Sunny

Partly sunny and warmer Monday, high in mid- to upper 30s. Wind west to southwest 5 to 15 mph.

vallant Effort

حلوم المولق إداء مد الاله دو المارة

The Wildcats scratch back from a 10-point, second half deficit to come within three points of the Oklahoma Sooners, falling short 81-78. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Monday January 26, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 84

Senate to decide on proposed $6 athletic fee

By JUDY LUNDSTROM

Collegian Reporter The Athletic Fee Task Force has finally come up with a bill.

With slightly more than two weeks left until Student Senate elections and a possible student referendum on the proposed athletic fee, a $6-a-semester "non-revenue sports scholarship fee," as it may now be called, will be proposed at the Senate Operations Committee meeting at 8 tonight in the Student Governing Services office in the Union.

Task force members attended a special meeting Friday to finalize

plans for the bill. The fee would make K-State the fifth university in the Big Eight Conference to assess an athletic fee to students. The other four universition are: the University of Kansas, $ semester; Iowa State Unive $10.50 a semester; the Univers Colorado, $16.50 a semester; Oklahoma State University, abo a semester.

Doug Folk, task force chai and junior in electrical engine said he talked to Athletic Dir Larry Travis last week.

Reagan mus take action, officials say

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The chairn the Senate Foreign Relations 3 mittee said Sunday that Pres Reagan should consider militar tion in the latest kidnapping of la Americans in Beirut if the host takers carry out a threat to kil' U.S. citizens.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., Reagan should take "pretty ha action against Iran if there is "c" evidence" that Iran is behind latest kidnapping, which occur Saturday. However, Pell added, it's a group without any governn connection, then...there really is good solution.'

Both Pell and Treasury Secret James Baker also said they tl any Americans remaining in Be should leave.

'We're going to continue see Americans seized as lo as the world knows that will swap arms hostages...'

Sen. Patrick Lea

Pell, appearing on ABC-TV's " Week with David Brinkley," "there's not much" Reagan can de win the release of the three n

"I don't envy the president, situation he's in now," Pell sa "And if he can really establish a li between these terrorists and Syria Iran or any other government think he would be justified in go. after that government pretty hard

Baker, a member of the Nation Security Council, said on NBC-T "Meet the Press," that there was clear reason for the kidnapping. "We're not sure who took then he said. Actually, the Christian-controll Voice of Lebanon radio station Beirut reported early Sunday that group of pro-Iranian Shiite Mosle extremists, calling themselves the Organization of the Oppressed Earth, claimed responsibility for the kidnappings Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., in telephone interview Sunday, agree with Pell that "we've got a terrib anti-terrorist policy. It's in shambles."

"We're going to continue to s Americans seized as long as the world knows that we will swap arm for hostages, and that's exactly whe we did with Iran," said Leahy, wh was vice-chairman of the Senate II telligence Committee last mont when it investigated the Iran arm: Contra controversy.

Travis said the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics could put monies generated from an athletic fee into a restricted account, Folk told task force members. The money could then be channelled directly from the students into the restricted account, then to the Office of Student Financial Assistance. "They could even set it up to where they (the athletic department) never saw the money," Folk said.

The athletic department would also agree to ensure all of the National Collegiate Athletic Association-allowed scholarships for non-revenue sports were filled, Folk

"I was pretty happy that (Travis) would agree to those restrictions," decided to let revenue from the fee fund 40 percent of all non-revenue sports scholarships. The athletic department would "fill the gap" each year, funding the remainder of the scholarships, Folk said.

Currently, the maximum number of full scholarships allowed nonrevenue sports by the NCAA is 89.

The equivalent number of full scholarships awarded at K-State is 68.63, according to information supplied by Mike Jones, athletic department business manager.

The current cost associated with an out-of-state scholarship is $5,440 a year. An in-state scholarship is $3,525 a year, Jones said.

Fully funding all 89 scholarships based on out-of-state tuition would cost the athletic department $484,000 annually. Based on in-state tuition, the cost would be $314,000 annually.

Folk said the task force would base the athletic fee on out-of-state scholarship costs.

"Obviously, if they can afford to get the out-of-state athletes, they will do that," he said.

A $6-a-semester athletic fee, based on an average of 16,000 students, would raise $192,000 a year, about 40 percent of the required $484,000.

Summer school students should not have to pay the fee because they will not benefit from free athletic events, members decided.

The issue of how much to charge part-time students was not resolved. Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics, said fee charges generally are one-half for part-time students, but added the decision was up to task force members.

The final sentences of the bill to be read to Senate Operations Commit-

Non-Revenue Sports Scholarships

Non-Revenue Sport	No. of	Equivalent No. of	No. of Students
	Full Scholarships	Scholarships Awarded	Receiving Scholarships
	Allowed by NCAA	by K-State	at K-State*
Men's Baseball	13	10.91	20

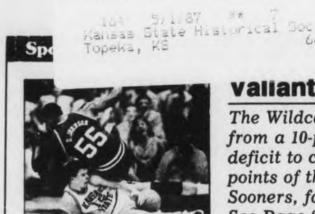

Gov. Mike Hayden delivers his first State of the State address Friday at the state capitol in Topeka. See Page

Partly Sunny

Partly sunny and warmer Monday, high in mid- to upper 30s. Wind west to southwest 5 to 15 mph.

valiant Effort

wante of the state of the color

The Wildcats scratch back from a 10-point, second half deficit to come within three points of the Oklahoma Sooners, falling short 81-78. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Monday January 26, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 84

Senate to decide on proposed $6 athletic fee

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Collegian Reporter

The Athletic Fee Task Force has finally come up with a bill.

With slightly more than two weeks left until Student Senate elections and a possible student referendum on the proposed athletic fee, a $6-a-semester "non-revenue sports scholarship fee," as it may now be called, will be proposed at the Senate Operations Committee meeting at 8 tonight in the Student Governing Services office in the Union.

Task force members attended a special meeting Friday to finalize plans for the bill.

The fee would make K-State the fifth university in the Big Eight Conference to assess an athletic fee to students. The other four universities are: the University of Kansas, $ semester; Iowa State Unive $10.50 a semester; the Univers Colorado, $16.50 a semester: Oklahoma State University, abo a semester.

Doug Folk, task force chai and junior in electrical engine said he talked to Athletic Di Larry Travis last week.

Reagan mus take action, officials say

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The chairm the Senate Foreign Relations mittee said Sunday that Pres Reagan should consider militar tion in the latest kidnapping of the Americans in Beirut if the host takers carry out a threat to kil U.S. citizens.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., Reagan should take "pretty ha action against Iran if there is "c" evidence" that Iran is behind latest kidnapping, which occur Saturday. However, Pell added, it's a group without any governm connection, then...there really is good solution."

Both Pell and Treasury Secret James Baker also said they tl any Americans remaining in Be should leave.

'We're going to continue see Americans seized as lo as the world knows that will swap arms hostages...'

- Sen. Patrick Lea

Pell, appearing on ABC-TV's " Week with David Brinkley,' "there's not much" Reagan can de win the release of the three n hostages.

"I don't envy the president, situation he's in now," Pell sa "And if he can really establish a li between these terrorists and Syria Iran or any other government think he would be justified in go after that government pretty hard Baker, a member of the Nation

Security Council, said on NBC-T'
"Meet the Press," that there was clear reason for the kidnapping. "We're not sure who took them

he said. Actually, the Christian-controll Voice of Lebanon radio station Beirut reported early Sunday that group of pro-Iranian Shiite Mosle extremists, calling themselves the Organization of the Oppressed Earth, claimed responsibility for the kidnappings. Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., in telephone interview Sunday, agree with Pell that "we've got a terrib anti-terrorist policy. It's in shambles. "We're going to continue to se Americans seized as long as the world knows that we will swap arm for hostages, and that's exactly whe we did with Iran," said Leahy, wh was vice-chairman of the Senate In telligence Committee last mont when it investigated the Iran arm Contra controversy.

Travis said the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics could put monies generated from an athletic fee into a restricted account, Folk told task force members. The money could then be channelled directly from the students into the restricted account, then to the Office of Student Financial Assistance. "They could even set it up to where they (the athletic department) never saw the money," Folk said.

The athletic department would also agree to ensure all of the National Collegiate Athletic Association-allowed scholarships for non-revenue sports were filled, Folk

"I was nretty hanny that (Travie)

decided to let revenue from the fee fund 40 percent of all non-revenue sports scholarships. The athletic department would "fill the gap" each year, funding the remainder of the scholarships, Folk said.

Currently, the maximum number of full scholarships allowed nonrevenue sports by the NCAA is 89.

The equivalent number of full scholarships awarded at K-State is 68.63, according to information supplied by Mike Jones, athletic department business manager.

The current cost associated with an out-of-state scholarship is $5,440 a year. An in-state scholarship is $3,525 a year, Jones said.

Fully funding all 89 scholarships based on out-of-state tuition would cost the athletic department $484,000 annually. Based on in-state tuition, the cost would be $314,000 annually.

Folk said the task force would base the athletic fee on out-of-state scholarship costs.

"Obviously, if they can afford to get the out-of-state athletes, they will do that," he said.

A $6-a-semester athletic fee, based on an average of 16,000 students, would raise $192,000 a year, about 40 percent of the required $484,000.

Summer school students should not have to pay the fee because they will not benefit from free athletic events, members decided.

The issue of how much to charge part-time students was not resolved. Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics, said fee charges generally are one-half for part-time students, but added the decision was

ESPN

Non-Revenue Sports Scholarships

Non-Revenue Sport

Full Scholarships Allowed by NCAA

Equivalent No. of Scholarships Awarded by K-State

No. of Students Receiving Scholarships at K-State*

Friday, January 23, 1987

Television Index

Manhattan Cable KSNT (NBC) WIBW (CBS) KLDH (ABC) KSHB (IND) 11 KTWU (PBS) 10 WGN (IND) WTBS (IND) Premium cable:

HBO, Showtime, CINEMAX, ESPN Additional cable channels not listed in guide: Manhattan cable channels 4 (NBC), 5 (CBS) and 9 (ABC) corresnond to channels 7, 3 and 2, respectively.

Fntertainment lus

EDITOR Jonie Trued ARTS EDITOR Sarah Kessinger PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER Sheila Hutinett

FRIDAY, JANUARY 23, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	нво	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00		CBS AM News	Good Morning	My Little Pony Tom And Jerry	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo,	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Reds"	"National Lampoon's	Movie Cont'd	Business SportsCenter
		Morning Program	America	Defenders	Sesame Street	Heathcliff	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	"	European Vacation"	Movie: "Operation	Bowling High Rollers
8:00 9:00 9:30	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance	Brady Bunch Mork & Mindy Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Falcon Crest	Movie: "Seven	"	Movie: "Breakt-	Pacific"	Trap Shoot Auto Racing
10:30	loonardy	Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Webster	Mary Tyler Moore	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Hillbillies Odd Couple	Women"	Not News	hrough" Van Halen	Movie: "Sylvester"	SpeedWeek SportsLook
4 4:00	Password	Of The State Yng. & Rest.	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched Soap	Ecology Ecology	H's Heroes Twilight Zone	Perry Mason	Movie: "Home From	Alive! Movie:	- "	Aerobics Getting Fit
1 7:00	News	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke Hillbillies	Sesame Street	News	Movie: "Ghost Of	The Hill"	"Reds"	Movie: "The Slugger's	College Basketball
1:00	Lives	Turns Capitol	One Life To	For Daddy My 3 Sons	Mystery!	Dick Van Dyke Andy Griffith	Zorro" WomanWatch	Movie	"	Wife',	UNC at W. Forest
2:00		Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Kitchen Painting	Beaver Bugs Bunny	Tom & Jerry And Friends	"	"	"Harvey Middleman,	NFL Films NFL Films
3:30		Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurfs	We're Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Movie: "BMX	Around The World In 80	Fireman" Movie:	PGA Golf Phoenix
4:00	Diff. Strokes	Donahue	ThunderCats	Flintstones Jetsons	Mister Rogers 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Safe At Home	Bandits" Movie:	Days Get Along	"Blood Alley"	Open Second Round
4:30	3's Company	News	G.I. Joe People's Court	Facts Of Life Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life WKRP	Hillbillies Andy Griffith	"Tender Mercies"	Movie: "A Plano For	"Where Do We	SportsLook SpeedWeek
O:00	NBC News	CBS News News	ABC News Benson	WKRP	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Jeffersons	Sanford Honeymooners	Inside The NFL	Mrs. Cimino"	Go From Here?"	SportsCente NFL Films
7:00	Wheel Fortune Stingray	Newlyweds Scarecrow	M*A*S*H Webster	Barney Miller Movie:	Wash. Week Wall St. Wk.	Movie:	NBA Basketball	Movie: "Murphy's	Brothers Shandling	Movie: "The	S. Bowl NFL Films
8:00		And Mrs. King Dallas	Mr. Belvedere Gung Ho Dads	"Yankee Doodle Dandy"	Economics McLaughlin	Skelter"	Knicks at Rockets	Romance"	"National Lampoon's	Coca-Cola Kid''	Tennis Australian
9:00		Falcon Crest	Starman	TBA	Faces Japan Market	News	Motorweek	Movie: "The Glitter	European Vacation"	Movie: "After Hours"	Open
		News	News	Late Show	Nature Profiles Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	Night Tracks - Power Play	Dome"	Van Halen Alive!	"	Magic Yrs. SportsCente
10:00	Tonight Show	Dating Game Lifestyles	M*A*S*H Ask Dr. Ruth	News	MacNeil / Lehrer	Movie:	Night Tracks	1st & Ten 1st & Ten	Movie: "Breakfast	Movie: "Melody In	NFL Films Outdoors
12:30) MTV Video) Countdown	CHiPs	700 Club	Movie: "Johnny Holiday"	Lenrer	"The Brides Of Fu Manchu"	Night Tracks	Not News Movie	Club" For Laughs	Love" Movie	World Cup Skiing

SATURDAY, JANUARY 24, 1987

On Our Cover

What's it take to make people laugh? Local amateur comedians Mike Musick and Andre Kelley tell why they love to get on their feet and find out while putting up with the hecklers and headaches of the standup comedy business. See Page 4.

> Cover Photo by Steve Rasmussen

KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	нво	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
Kissyfur	B'stain Bears	Wuzzles	Tom And Jerry	Culture	Farm Report World Tom.	Wrestling	Movie: "The Flamingo	"Any Number Can Play"	Movie: "On The Right	SpeedWeek Golf
Gummi Bears		Care Bears Flintstone	"	Seasoning	Charlando	National Geographic	Kid"	Cont'd Movie:	Track"	In The PGA Outdoors
		Kids Ghostbusters		S. Previews	People	Explorer	Inside The	"Where The Boys Are"	Movie: "Summer Of	Auto Racing R.A.C. Rally
		Pd. Puppies	And Porky Pig	-		Movie:	Movie:	"	'42" ,,	Mark Sosin Outdoors
Foofur Tom And Jerry	Circus		Puttin' On	Animals	"		"	"J. Edgar	Movie:	SpoCtr.
Universe Look At Me	Hulk Hogan	Weekend Health Show	Lifestyles	Vict. Garden	Movie:	Strain"	Marde	Hoover"	"Class Of '44"	Fishin' Hole
TBA	News College	Bandstand Rifleman	Lost in Space	Sesame Street	"The Desperado"	Movie:	"Dusty"	Movie:	Movie:	NHL Hocke
College	Basketball	Fame	Incredible Hulk	New Literacy New Literacy	"Tarzan And	"The Man Who Shot Liberty	Movie:		"	Calgary Flames at
Okla. St. at	Syracuse	PBA Bowling	Bionic Woman	New Literacy	The Slave	Valance"	"The Jewel Of The Nile"	Robin Hood	Movie:	Boston Bruins
lowa St.	Basketball	Invit.	Battlestar	Photovision	Soul Train	Animals Angler	Movie:	Movie:	"Savage Harvest"	PGA Golf
	Lakers at				Good Times	R. Martin	"Once Bitten"	"Mommie	Movie Show	Phoenix Open Third
Oklahoma at Kansas State	Mavericks	Sports	Duck nogers	Ecology	It's A Living		Movie	Dearest	Movie:	Round
Wheel Fortune	It's A Living CRS News	ABC News Illustrated	Matt Houston	GED GED	Charles Big Family		"The Flamingo	ti .	"Street Hero"	Scholastic SpoCtr.
	Mama's Family	Buddies	Throb Bio Family	All Creatures	Country At The Movies	"	Kid",	"Once Bitten"		SportsCent
Facts Of Life	Movie:	Sidekicks	Lifestyles	WndrWks.	Movie: "The Exorcist"	Movie: "Gunfight At	Movie	"	Movie: "Tuff Turf"	College Basketball
227		S. Hammer Ohara	Movie:	Austin City	"	The O.K.	Paul	Movie: "J. Edgar	"	Ga. Tech at UNC
Amen	Manhattan"	Consess For			"	n	Rodriguez	Hoover"	Movie:	Tennis Australian
Hunter	Super Night At Super Bowl	Spenser: For Hire		Bobby Jones	News		"The Jewel Of	Movie:	Protector"	Open Men
News Siskel & Ebert	News Madden's	News Movie:	M.T. Moore Movie:		Mother Daug.	Night Tracks:	The Nile"		-	Final "
Saturday	Super Bowl Road To Super	"The Swarm"	"Face Of Marble"	Nadine Gordimer		Night Tracks	Movie:	Movie:	A Window"	Rollermania
" "	Bowl '87	Difloman	Solid Gold		Tales	Night Tracks	"Pale Rider"	City Heat	"Tomboy"	Tioner main
	Kissyfur Gummi Bears Smurfs "Alvin Foofur Tom And Jerry Universe Look At Me TBA J. Houston College Basketball Okla. St. at lowa St. College Basketball Oklahoma at Kansas State Wheel Fortune NBC News Hee Haw "Facts Of Life 227 Golden Girls Amen Hunter " News Siskel & Ebert Saturday Night Live	Kissyfur Gummi Bears Wildfire Smurfs Muppet Bables "Pee-wee Teen Wolf Foofur Galaxy High Circus Universe Look At Me TBA News J. Houston College College Basketball St. John's at lowa St. NBA College Basketball St. John's at Wassetball St. John's at lowa St. NBA College Basketball Lakers at Mavericks Wheel Fortune NBC News CBS News Hee Haw Mama's Family Country Music Facts Of Life 227 Golden Girls Amen Movie: "The Muppets Golden Girls Amen Super Night At Super Bowl News Siskel & Ebert News Siskel & Ebert News Super Bowl Night Live News Super Bowl Night Live Super Bowl News Super Bowl Night Live Super Bowl Nouper Super Bowl Night Live Super Bowl Nouper Super Bowl Night Live Super Bowl Nouper Super Bowl Night Live Super Bowl News Super Bowl Night Live Super Bowl Nouper Super Bowl Night Live Super Bowl Nouper Super Bowl Night Live Super Bowl Nouper Super Bowl Night Live Super Bowl Night L	Kissyfur Gummi Bears Wildfire Care Bears Smurfs Muppet Bables Kids " Pee-wee Teen Wolf Pd. Pupples Foofur Galaxy High Circus Bandstand College Basketball St. John's at Iowa St. NBA Showboat College Basketball Lakers at Wide World Of Wheel Fortune NBC News CBS News Weekend Kansas State Wheel Fortune NBC News CBS News Buddles Country Music College CBS News Wheel Fortune NBC News CBS	Kissyfur Gummi Bears Wildfire Care Bears Tom And Jerry Kideo TV Smurfs Muppet Babies Kids " " Pee-wee Teen Wolf Pd. Pupples Pd. Puppl	Kissyfur Gummi Bears Wildfire Wuzzles Care Bears Kideo TV Algerbra Smurfs Muppet Babies Kids "Seasoning Hometime Babies Kids" Pee-wee Ghostbusters Teen Wolf Pd Puppies And Porky Pig Old House Puttin' On Motorweek Animals Universe Look At Me Hulk Hogan Weekend Health Show College Rifleman College Basketball St. John's at St. John's at Iowa St. Syracuse NBA Showboat St. Syracuse NBA Showboat St. Sports Basketball Lakers at Wide World Of Balactica Photovision Wavericks Shows State Wheel Fortune NBC News Callege Basketball St. John's at Showboat St. Sports Buck Rogers Kansas Ecology Wheel Fortune NBC News CBS News Illustrated Movie: "Duel At Limits City Express Bobby Jones Anna Karenina News Showb Over Movie: "The Muppets Shows Movie: "Face Of Marble" News Showb over Movie: "The Sauper Bowl News News Showle College Shows Movie: "The Swarm" News Showb Jones Anna Karenina News Shows News Showle: "The Swarm" News Shows Movie: "The Swarm" News Shows Movie: "The Swarm" News Showle Gordiner News News Showle College Movie: "The Swarm" News Showle College College Shows News Showle College College College CBS News News News Movie: "The Swarm" News Showle College CBS News News News Movie: "The Swarm" News Showle College CBS News News News Movie: "The Swarm" "The Swarm" News Showle College CBS News News Movie: "The College CBS News News Movie: "The College CBS News News Movie: "The Swarm" "The College CBS News News Movie: "The Callege Callege Callege Callege Callege Callege Callege Callege Callege Calle	Kissyfur Gummi Bears Wildfire Care Bears Tom And Jerry Kideo TV Algerbra Farm Report World Tom. Smurts Muppet Babies Fiintstone Kids "Seasoning Business Business Wildfire Relation Farm More World Tom. Chartando Business Wildfire Relation Farm World Tom. Seasoning Hometime Business	Kissyfur Gummi Bears Wildfire Care Bears Kide TV Algerbra Algerbra World Tom. Smurfs Muppet Babies Kide "Flintstone Babies Kide "Seasoning Hometime Business Kide "Seasoning Hometime Business Kide "Seasoning Hometime Business Kide "Seasoning Hometime Business Kide Business Kide "Seasoning Hometime Business Kide Business Kide "Seasoning Hometime Business Richard World Tom. Pee-wee Ghostbusters Pd. Pupples And Porky Pig Old House Wild Kingdom "Wild Kingdom Morlowek Animals" "The Wild World Old House Wild Kingdom "The Weekend Health Show Puttin' On And Porky Pig Old House Wild Kingdom "The Andromeda Strain" "The Juniverse Look At Me "Weekend Health Show Puttin' On Andromeda Movie: "The Andromeda Strain" "The Desperado" Movie: "The Andromeda Strain" "The Desperado" Movie: "The Man Who New Literacy Hulk New Literacy "The Man Who Shot Liberty New Literacy "Tarzan And Shot Liberty New Literacy "The Man Who Shot Liberty New Literacy "The Man Who Shot Liberty New Literacy "The Slave Girl" "Animals Angler "The Man Who Shot Liberty New Literacy "The Slave Girl" "Animals Angler "The Man Who Shot Liberty New Literacy "The Slave Girl" "Animals Angler "The Man Who Shot Liberty New Literacy "The Slave Girl" "Animals Angler "The Man Who Shot Liberty New Literacy "The Slave Girl" "Animals Angler "The Man Who Shot Liberty New Literacy "The Slave Girl" "Animals Angler "The Man Who Wide World Of Galactica Photovision Soul Train Animals Angler "The Man Who Wide World Of Galactica Photovision Soul Train Animals Angler "The Man Who Wide World Of Galactica Photovision Soul Train Photovision Soul Train Animals Angler "The Man Who Wide World Of Galactica "The Old The Movie: "The Man Who Wide World Of Galactica "The Man Who Wide World Of Galactica "The Man Who Wide World Of Galactica "The Old The Movie: "The Exorcist" "Gunfight At The Movie: "The Exorcist" "Gunfight At The Movie: "The Exorcist" "Gunfight At The Old The Wide World Of Galactica "The Wide World Of Galactica "The Wide World Of Galactica "The Old The Movie: "The Exorcist" "Th	Kissyfur Gummi Bears Wildfre Care Bears Tom And Jerry Care Bears Wildfre Care Bears Tom And Jerry Rideo TV Algebra Farm Report World Tom. Muppet Bables Flintstone Kids TV Algebra Farm Report World Tom. Muppet Bables Flintstone Kids TV Algebra Farm Report World Tom. Pee-wee Gohostbusters Teen Wolf Puppies Pd. Puppi	Kissytur Gummi Bears Wildfree Care Bears Kidoo TV Algerbra Movie: "The Flamingo Can Play' Righer World Tom. Movie: "The Flamingo Can Play' Righer Movie: "The Play Righer Movie: "The Play Righer Play Righer Movie: "The Play Righer Play Right Play Righer Play Right Play R	Kissyfur gummi Barrs B'stain Bears Gummi Barrs Mulpopet Fiintstone Bables Filintstone Bables Filintstone Bables Filintstone Filintstone Filintstone Bables Filintstone F

You can enjoy four meals for only $6. So come to your nearest Kentucky Fried Chicken store and save on chicken.

America's

favorite fried

FOR ONE COMPLETE 2-PIECE PACK

mer pays all applicable sales tax COUPON EXPIRES: March 15, 1987.

Kentucky Fried Chicken

LOTS TO LOVE 30%-60% OFF

Regular Price Winter Fashions 1312 Westloop

Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

Gov. Mike Hayden delivers his first State of the State address Friday at the state capitol in Topeka. See Page

Partly Sunny

Partly sunny and warmer Monday, high in mid- to upper 30s. Wind west to southwest 5 to 15 mph.

Topeka, KS

vallant Effort

The state of the s

Managas State Historical Soc

The Wildcats scratch back from a 10-point, second half deficit to come within three points of the Oklahoma Sooners, falling short 81-78. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Monday January 26, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 84

Senate to decide on proposed $6 athletic fee

WGN

Sunday Mass Porky Pig

Bugs Bunny

"Don't Bother To Knock"

"The Charge Of The Light

Movie:

Fame

Lifestyles

Love Boat

News

Tales Lou Grant

Charles

WGN

Bozo

Heathcliff

Falcon Crest

Hillbillies Odd Couple

H's Heroes Twilight Zone

Dick Van Dyke Andy Griffith

Beaver Bugs Bunny

G.I. Joe Transformers

Facts Of Life WKRP

National Geographic

National Geographic

Ghostbu Smurfs

At The Movies Fame

KTWU

Sesame Street

Mister Rogers Special

Sesame Street

Perkins Family

Wash. Week Wall St. Wk.

Compute

Kansas Literature

Firing Line

Communidad Espanol

Heritage

Nature

"Lost Empires

Delights TV Classics

KTWU

Special Mister Rogers

Sesame Street

Sesame Street

Literature Algebra

Nature

Sesame Street

Nature Profile McLaughlin

We're Cooking

Square 1 TV 3-2-1 Contact

Sesame Street

MacNeil / Lehrer

Planet Earth

American Playhouse

Ossie & Ruby 3 Filmmakers

Masterpiece Theatre

WTBS

Good News

West Was

"Paint Your

Wagon'

World Of

Audubon New Beaver

Comanche

National Geographic

J. Ankerberg

WTBS

Down To Earth I Love Lucy

Victory"

Centennia

Tom & Jerry And Friends

Scooby Doo Flintstones

Gilligan Rocky Road

Mountain'

National Geographi

Explorer

Explorer

Movie:

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Collegian Reporter

The Athletic Fee Task Force has finally come up with a bill.

With slightly more than two weeks left until Student Senate elections and a possible student referendum on the proposed athletic fee, a $6-a-semester "non-revenue sports scholarship fee," as it may now be called, will be proposed at the Senate Operations Committee meeting at 8 tonight in the Student Governing Services office in the Union.

Task force members attended a special meeting Friday to finalize

plans for the bill. The fee would make K-State the fifth university in the Big Eight Conference to assess an athletic fee to students. The other four universities are: the University of Kansas, $ semester; Iowa State Unive $10.50 a semester; the Univers Colorado, $16.50 a semester; Oklahoma State University, abo a semester.

Doug Folk, task force chai and junior in electrical engine said he talked to Athletic Di Larry Travis last week.

Reagan mus take action, officials say

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The chairm the Senate Foreign Relations mittee said Sunday that Pres Reagan should consider militar tion in the latest kidnapping of the Americans in Beirut if the host takers carry out a threat to kil U.S. citizens.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., Reagan should take "pretty ha action against Iran if there is "c evidence" that Iran is behind latest kidnapping, which occur Saturday. However, Pell added, it's a group without any governnconnection, then...there really is good solution."

Both Pell and Treasury Secret James Baker also said they the any Americans remaining in Be should leave.

'We're going to continue see Americans seized as lo as the world knows that will swap arms hostages...'

— Sen. Patrick Lea

Pell, appearing on ABC-TV's " Week with David Brinkley," "there's not much" Reagan can de win the release of the three n

"I don't envy the president, situation he's in now," Pell s "And if he can really establish a li between these terrorists and Syria Iran or any other government think he would be justified in goi after that government pretty hard Baker, a member of the Nation

Security Council, said on NBC-T "Meet the Press," that there was clear reason for the kidnapping. "We're not sure who took them

Actually, the Christian-controll Voice of Lebanon radio station Beirut reported early Sunday that group of pro-Iranian Shiite Mosle extremists, calling themselves the Organization of the Oppressed Earth, claimed responsibility for the

kidnappings. Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., in telephone interview Sunday, agree with Pell that "we've got a terrib anti-terrorist policy. It's in shambles." "We're going to continue to se Americans seized as long as world knows that we will swap arm for hostages, and that's exactly whi we did with Iran," said Leahy, wh was vice-chairman of the Senate Ir telligence Committee last mont when it investigated the Iran arm: Contra controversy.

Travis said the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics could put monies generated from an athletic fee into a restricted account, Folk told task force members. The money could then be channelled directly from the students into the restricted account, then to the Office of Student Financial Assistance.

'They could even set it up to where they (the athletic department) never saw the money," Folk said.

The athletic department would also agree to ensure all of the National Collegiate Athletic Association-allowed scholarships for non-revenue sports were filled, Folk

"I was pretty happy that (Travis) would agree to those restrictions," he said. "I like the idea. They're

7:00 J. Kennedy

1:30 Kan.

3:00 Champs. 3:30 Movie:

2:00 SportsWorld Figure Skating

4:00 "The Sign Of Zorro"

5:00 NBC News

6:00. Our House

7:00 Easy Street Valerie

8:00 Movie: "Return To

9:00 Mayberry

1 1:00 Lon Kruger Community

12:00 Gene Scott

MONDAY

7:00 Today

10:00 Jeopardy Scrabble

1 1:00 Password :30 Wheel Fortune

12:00 News Days Of Our

1:00 Lives 1:30 Another World

2:00 Santa Barbara

3:00 Happy Days

4:00 Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life

5:00 3's Company NBC News

6:00 News Wheel Fortune

7:00 Movie: 7:30 "The Alamo

8:00 13 Days To 30 Glory"

10:00 News Tonight Show

9:30

11:00 David

12:00 Letterman Gene Scott

9:00 Hour Magazine

8:00

KSNT

10:00 News

SUNDAY, JANUARY 25, 1987

WIBW

Jerry Falwel

76ers at

Celtics

Super Bowl Today

Super Bowl

Denver Broncos vs.

New York Giants

Hard Copy

WIBW

CBS AM News Morning

Pyramid Card Sharks

Price Is Right

Young And The Restless

Midday As The World

Guiding Light

Magnum, P.I.

Donahue

News CBS News

Kate & Allie My Sister San

News Dating Game

Night Heat

KTKA

Abb. & Cost

Wrestling

Movie: "The Dove

Fame

Movie:

Zone"

News Basketba

Mannix

Fame

JANUARY 26, 1987

KTKA

Good Morning America

Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance

Fame Fortune Webster

One Life To Live

Ghostbusters Dennis

People's Court ABC News

Benson M*A*S*H

M'A'S'H

700 Club

Ask Dr. Ruth

American Music Awards

General Hospital

Undergrads'

fund 40 percent of all non-revenue sports scholarships. The athletic department would "fill the gap" each year, funding the remainder of the scholarships, Folk said.

Currently, the maximum number of full scholarships allowed nonrevenue sports by the NCAA is 89.

KSHB

4

Superfriend: Superfriend:

Wrestling

Wild, Wild West

Maverick

Star Trek

Angel"

Their Toes'

Solid Gold

Ted Knight Check It Out!

Mama's Family Movie:

Dandy"

KSHB

My Little Pony Tom And Jerry

Mork & Mindy Day At A Time

Mary Tyler Moore

Bewitched Soap

Dick Van Dyke

Munsters Zoobilee Zoo

Flintstones

Facts Of Life Gimme Break

Barnaby Jones

Movie: "Same Time

Next Year'

Late Show

Three Stooges Movie

decided to let revenue from the fee The equivalent number of full scholarships awarded at K-State is 68.63, according to information supplied by Mike Jones, athletic department business manager.

The current cost associated with an out-of-state scholarship is $5,440 a year. An in-state scholarship is $3,525 a year, Jones said.

Fully funding all 89 scholarships based on out-of-state tuition would cost the athletic department $484,000 annually. Based on in-state tuition, the cost would be $314,000 annually.

Folk said the task force would base the athletic fee on out-of-state scholarship costs.

"Obviously, if they can afford to get the out-of-state athletes, they will do that," he said.

A $6-a-semester athletic fee, based on an average of 16,000 students, would raise $192,000 a year, about 40 percent of the required $484,000.

Summer school students should not have to pay the fee because they will not benefit from free athletic events, members decided.

The issue of how much to charge part-time students was not resolved. Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics, said fee charges generally are one-half for part-time students, but added the decision was up to task force members.

The final sentences of the bill to be read to Senate Operations Commit-

Non-Revenue Sports Scholarships

Non-Revenue Sport	No. of	Equivalent No. of	No. of Students
	Full Scholarships	Scholarships Awarded	Receiving Scholarships
	Allowed by NCAA	by K-State	at K-State*
Men's Baseball	13	10.91	20
Women's Basketball	15		13

HBO

Humor & The Presidency Movie:

Longshot'

Movie: "Mommi

Dearest

Fraggle Rock

Don Johnson's Heartbeat

Precinct 13'

"Gimme An

HBO

Movie: "Talk To Me

Not News

Line"

Movie: "Silver City"

Courage "Toby And

The Koala Bear"

Movie: "You Light Up

My Life" Fraggle Rock

Movie: "A Chorus

Movie: "Black Moon

Line"

Rising

ESPN

NFL Films

NFL Films

NFL Films

NFL Films NFL Films

S. Bowl SportsCenter

PGA Golf Phoenix

World Cup Skiing

SpoCtr. Ski World

Wrestling

Rollermania

SportsCenter Sunday

Karate

ESPN

Business SportsCenter

Tennis Australian

Golf SportsLook

Aerobics Getting Fit

Ga. Tech at UNC

CBA Basketball

La Crosse at Rockford

SportsLook Outdoors

SportsCenter College

Basketball Pittsburgh at

Basketball Mich. St. at

NW SportsCenter

One On One Fishin' Hole

Auto Racing

Tennis

Open

NFL's Greatest Moments

MAX

Movie: "The Great

Muppet Caper"

Flyers"

Dreams

Movie

Big Adventure

Movie: "Can't Stop

The Music'

Movie: "Sylvester

Movie:

Dreams'

Stranger

Movie: "Manhunt

MAX

Movie Cont'd Movie:

"The Aviator"

"Harvey

Middlem Fireman'

"Blood Alley"

Movie:

'The Gold

Harvest'

Pirates'

Movie: "Head Office"

Howie Mandel

Movie: "Turk 182!"

Movie: "After Hours"

SHOW

Movie: "Ape And

"Lady Jane"

Paper Chase

Movie

"Dune"

Van Halen

Beyond The

Poseidon Adventure

Movie: "Lady Jane

Movie:

Movie:

"Mischief"

SHOW

Blind Sunday J.'s Journey

Robin Hood

Badlanders'

Sherlock Holmes"

Movie: "Firstborn

J.'s Journey Blind Sunda

Pudd'nhead

Robin Hood

Train"

Movie: "Missing In

"Young Sherlock

Action 2: The

Movie:

"Thief Of

Movie:

Friday, January 23, 1987

Cost studies of museum

By JENNIFER LINDSEY

to start soon

Staff Writer The steering committee for the proposed University art museum met Jan. 7 to discuss the possibility of going ahead with the facility despite University-wide budget

One decision made at the meeting was to hire the Community Service Bureau Inc. to conduct the feasibility study of the museum, said Ruth Ann Wefald, steering committee chairwoman.

Wefald said this Dallas-based company was chosen over others because it is familiar with Kansas and the University. The Community Service Bureau Inc. did the feasibility study for the Fred Bramlage Coliseum.

Possible site locations were also discussed at the meeting, but no particular site was decided upon, Wefald said.

The committee, made up of interested students, faculty and community members, will have to decide between using an existing building on campus or building a new one, said Sally Traeger, senior in marketing and committee member.

"Our goal is to get the museum in an area of campus that would compliment its nature, somewhere near Nichols (Hall) or McCain (Auditorium)," Traeger said.

Final decisions will not be made, however, until the feasibility study has been completed, Traeger said.

"There hasn't been an excessive move made on it because we need to be sure it's something we can pursue," she said. The company will begin the study in February and the report is due to the committee on April 1, Wefald said. K-State's art collection consists of about 1,000 pieces, including works by Pablo Picasso, Salvador Dali and Henri Matisse.

Since there is not one area large enough to display all of these pieces, the collection is dispersed throughout campus buildings and

Many pieces are displayed on the second floor of the Union and in President Jon Wefald's office in Anderson Hall, Traeger said.

Planning a wedding?

Look for the Wedding tabloid in the Collegian on Feb. 17.

FREE MEDIUM SOFT DRINK

with the purchase of any sub

12th & Moro-Aggieville

Void with any offers Expires 2-28-87

Gov. Mike Hayden delivers his first State of the State address Friday at the state capitol in Topeka. See Page

Partly Sunny

Partly sunny and warmer Monday, high in mid- to upper 30s. Wind west to southwest 5 to 15 mph.

Topeks, KS

valiant Effort

THE RESERVE THE STRUCKS HAVE BIGHT BOOKS

Kansas State Historical Soc

The Wildcats scratch back from a 10-point, second half deficit to come within three points of the Oklahoma Sooners, falling short 81-78. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Monday January 26, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 84

Senate to decide on proposed $6 athletic fee

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Collegian Reporter

The Athletic Fee Task Force has finally come up with a bill.

With slightly more than two weeks left until Student Senate elections and a possible student referendum on the proposed athletic fee, a $6-a-semester "non-revenue sports scholarship fee," as it may now be called, will be proposed at the Senate Operations Committee meeting at 8 tonight in the Student Governing Services office in the Union.

Task force members attended a special meeting Friday to finalize plans for the bill. The fee would make K-State the fifth university in the Big Eight Cor ference to assess an athletic fee students. The other four universit are: the University of Kansas, $ semester; Iowa State Unive $10.50 a semester; the Univers Colorado, $16.50 a semester; Oklahoma State University, abo a semester.

Doug Folk, task force chai and junior in electrical engine said he talked to Athletic Dir Larry Travis last week.

Reagan mus take action, officials say

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The chairm the Senate Foreign Relations mittee said Sunday that Pres Reagan should consider militar tion in the latest kidnapping of ta Americans in Beirut if the host takers carry out a threat to kil U.S. citizens.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., Reagan should take "pretty ha action against Iran if there is "c" evidence" that Iran is behind latest kidnapping, which occur Saturday. However, Pell added, it's a group without any government connection, then...there really is good solution."

Both Pell and Treasury Secret James Baker also said they th any Americans remaining in Be should leave.

'We're going to continue see Americans seized as lo as the world knows that will swap arms hostages...'

Sen. Patrick Lea

Pell, appearing on ABC-TV's "7 Week with David Brinkley," "there's not much" Reagan can d win the release of the three i hostages.

"I don't envy the president, situation he's in now," Pell si "And if he can really establish a ! between these terrorists and Syria Iran or any other government think he would be justified in go after that government pretty har

Baker, a member of the Natic Security Council, said on NBC-T "Meet the Press," that there was clear reason for the kidnapping. "We're not sure who took then he said.

Actually, the Christian-contro Voice of Lebanon radio station Beirut reported early Sunday the group of pro-Iranian Shiite Mos extremists, calling themselves Organization of the Oppressed Earth, claimed responsibility for kidnappings.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., telephone interview Sunday, agr with Pell that "we've got a terr anti-terrorist policy. It's ir shambles. "We're going to continue to Americans seized as long as world knows that we will swap a for hostages, and that's exactly we did with Iran," said Leahy, was vice-chairman of the Senate telligence Committee last me when it investigated the Iran ar Contra controversy.

Travis said the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics could put monies generated from an athletic fee into a restricted account, Folk told task force members. The money could then be channelled directly from the students into the restricted account, then to the Office of Student Financial Assistance.

"They could even set it up to where they (the athletic department) never saw the money," Folk said.

The athletic department would also agree to ensure all of the National Collegiate Athletic Association-allowed scholarships for non-revenue sports were filled, Folk

"I was pretty happy that (Travis)

fund 40 percent of all non-revenue sports scholarships. The athletic department would "fill the gap" each year, funding the remainder of the scholarships, Folk said.

Currently, the maximum number of full scholarships allowed nonrevenue sports by the NCAA is 89.

decided to let revenue from the fee The equivalent number of full scholarships awarded at K-State is 68.63, according to information supplied by Mike Jones, athletic department business manager.

The current cost associated with an out-of-state scholarship is $5,440 a year. An in-state scholarship is $3,525 a year, Jones said.

Fully funding all 89 scholarships based on out-of-state tuition would cost the athletic department $484,000 annually. Based on in-state tuition, the cost would be $314,000 annually.

Folk said the task force would base the athletic fee on out-of-state scholarship costs.

"Obviously, if they can afford to get the out-of-state athletes, they will do that," he said.

A $6-a-semester athletic fee, based on an average of 16,000 students, would raise $192,000 a year, about 40 percent of the required $484,000.

Summer school students should not have to pay the fee because they will not benefit from free athletic events, members decided.

The issue of how much to charge part-time students was not resolved. Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics, said fee charges generally are one-half for part-time students, but added the decision was up to task force members.

The final sentences of the bill to be road to Sanata Anarations Commit

Non-Revenue Sports Scholarships

Non-Revenue Sport	No. of	Equivalent No. of	No. of Students
	Full Scholarships	Scholarships Awarded	Receiving Scholarships
	Allowed by NCAA	by K-State	at K-State*
Marie Develoll	12	10.01	20

Friday, January 23, 1987

Love That Laughter

Tickling the crowd's funnybone

By SARAH KESSINGER Arts and Entertainment Editor

"Audiences are a strange animal," local comedian Mike Musick once said. And no one knows it better than the one up there trying to make them laugh...or maybe just smile.

From the times of Roman comedy and Medieval court jesters to late nights with David Letterman, stand-up comics have taken the chance - the risk of silent rejec-

With the rise of television, and the growth of cable stations, stand-up comedy moved into the household and now more than ever proves that winning a chuckle pays off.

Local amateur comedians Musick, senior in theater, John Winningham, 1985 graduate in theater, and Andre Kelley, junior in speech, recently reflected on the business and what it takes for success. All agree that stand-up comedy is neither easily created nor performed. "You have to stimulate the audience's imagination, make sure they're smiling," Winningham said. "You have to balance the show between people laughing and sitting back and saying, 'Hmmm, that's an interesting thought."

Kelley added, "A good comic makes people think, but the bottom line is people love to laugh.'

Some people have the crossed arms "make me laugh" attitude, Winningham said. Stepping up on stage is never the same, he added, a comedian never knows what to expect.

"The audience judges what you're wearing, what you sound like, and most importantly what you're talking about," Kelley said.

"Some think if you don't get them in the first 30 seconds to the first minute you won't get them at all," he said.

Testing the waters before the show is important. Considering the region of the country, the class of people and their backgrounds is vital to each night's success.

"You can't walk up to every dog and pet him on the head," Musick said. "You have to talk to him and make sure he won't bite you on the hand." "It is crazy, definitely," Kelley said. "Robert Kline says, 'You can do the same stuff that worked the night before, and it can completely bomb.' It all depends on the attitude of your crowd and your own mood." Musick and Winningham worked a couple of comedy acts once in a male prison. The hecklers, they said, ended up stealing the "There were these loud guys on the front row, and I didn't know if they would shut up or if they were coming after me. So I started throwing insults back at them and they loved all the attention," Musick said. Attacking from a "mutual base" is usually necessary for audience approval, he said. Kelley recalled the crowd reaction when he forgot the "mutual base" during his monologue at a talent show in Topeka

"It was an audience of parents and they brought their kids. Well, they didn't want to hear about President Reagan or Madonna's armpits or anything like that...I really bombed," Kelley said.

"A lot of the comedians that tour the Midwest are from the East Coast and don't even think we have cable," Kelley said. "They may not think Midwest audiences are as sophisticated as we are but if they're smart, they'll find that out before the Musick, Winningham and Kelley all write their own material or improvise along the "Your stuff comes from current events or celebrities; it can be very personal or very general," Kelley said.

"Joan Rivers trivializes everyday things," he continued. "I think most comics try to show the brighter side of life. They show us our insecurities, our frustrations, and a good comic can make us laugh at "New York comics are well-known for opinion comedy. They say things like 'don't you hate subways, or don't you hate Jews,' and if you agree, it's funny, but if you don't you may hate them.

"New York comics are a little too rough on Midwest audiences. They don't go over too well usually," Kelley said. "But they still say if you can make it in New York you can make it anywhere."

Comedy shows come in two or three stages, the warm-up, the intermediate and the headliner, with an M.C. between acts. Musick said it's always easier for the intermediate and the headliner to have a "warmed up" crowd.

"Hopefully, your showwill be a continual build to a high point and end that way leaving it for the next performer to take it on up if he's good," Musick said.

"It's nice to be a headliner because you can feel your way before the show. You find the audience's softspot then drill," Musick Winningham continued, "It's good to have the crowd warmed up. Maybe they've had a hard day's work, and they need someone to get them into a comedy mood. It's much easier if they're already in the mood when you begin." The comic's nightmare is to open for a rock concert, Kelley said. "People come to see the band. And if they're waiting for them, the last thing they want to see is a measly comedian getting up there with a

"It's called 'paying your dues' and many agents will send you through stuff like that,"

Agents are the key to getting into the comedy business, Musick said. Personal contacts are very important to grab an agent's eye and then it's uphill from there - if you're good.

Headliners make about $350 or more a night, Kelley said, and middle acts can make upwards of $250. An appearance on any major nighttime talk show can double

Good equipment lends itself to stage show exposure. "You can put garbage with a good set, lights and effects and it'll look decent,"

Musick said.

None of the three warmed to the thought of being on the road, frowning at the mention of hotel rooms and McDonald's. However, the road may be a good way, as Kelley noted the "Saturday Night Live" cast comes from the minor leagues.

"The goals of many comics are to tour, get into film, get on cable, or act on a sitcom," Kelley said. "Most sitcoms are made up of veteran night club performers.'

The business can be discouraging, too, Kelley said. "A good show will help put you back on track. But on the flip side, a bad show will make you wonder about your profession for a long time.

"You have to love your work," he said "Like Joan Jett says, 'One hour on stage makes up for the 23 others.

"It's scary, and there's a feeling of com plete vulnerability, but there's also a warmth from the crowd," he added. The lure of an audience has apparently overcome the uncertainty of each perfor mance for these three men. They know what not to expect. "We're all lemmings, you have to be nuts," Kelley said.

There aren't any foolproof jokes to gain a crowd's affection, Winningham pitched in "The ultimate one can only be told by God. and it's so funny you die laughing.'

Staff/Steve Rasn

Gov. Mike Hayden delivers his first State of the State address Friday at the state capitol in Topeka. See Page

Partly Sunny

Partly sunny and warmer Monday, high in mid- to upper 30s. Wind west to southwest 5 to 15 mph.

valiant Effort

-لفود المولن والمدامي الالمامي الماميدية

Mansas State Historical Soc

The Wildcats scratch back from a 10-point, second half deficit to come within three points of the Oklahoma Sooners, falling short 81-78. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Monday January 26, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 84

Senate to decide on proposed $6 athletic fee

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Collegian Reporter

The Athletic Fee Task Force has finally come up with a bill.

With slightly more than two weeks left until Student Senate elections and a possible student referendum on the proposed athletic fee, a $6-a-semester "non-revenue sports scholarship fee," as it may now be called, will be proposed at the Senate Operations Committee meeting at 8 tonight in the Student Governing Services office in the Union.

Task force members attended a special meeting Friday to finalize plans for the bill.

The fee would make K-State the fifth university in the Big Eight Conference to assess an athletic fee to students. The other four universities are: the University of Kansas, $ semester; Iowa State Unive $10.50 a semester; the Univers Colorado, $16.50 a semester; Oklahoma State University, abo a semester.

Doug Folk, task force chai and junior in electrical engine said he talked to Athletic Dir Larry Travis last week.

Reagan mus take action, officials sav

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The chairm the Senate Foreign Relations 3 mittee said Sunday that Pres Reagan should consider militar tion in the latest kidnapping of the Americans in Beirut if the host takers carry out a threat to kil U.S. citizens.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., Reagan should take "pretty ha action against Iran if there is "c: evidence" that Iran is behind latest kidnapping, which occur Saturday. However, Pell added, it's a group without any governm connection, then...there really is good solution."

Both Pell and Treasury Secret James Baker also said they tl any Americans remaining in Be should leave.

'We're going to continue see Americans seized as lo as the world knows that will swap arms hostages...'

- Sen. Patrick Lea

Pell, appearing on ABC-TV's "7 Week with David Brinkley," : "there's not much" Reagan can de win the release of the three n

"I don't envy the president, situation he's in now," Pell sa "And if he can really establish a li between these terrorists and Syria Iran or any other government. think he would be justified in go. after that government pretty hard

Baker, a member of the Nation Security Council, said on NBC-T "Meet the Press," that there was clear reason for the kidnapping. "We're not sure who took then

Actually, the Christian-controll Voice of Lebanon radio station Beirut reported early Sunday that group of pro-Iranian Shiite Mosle extremists, calling themselves the Organization of the Oppressed of Earth, claimed responsibility for the kidnappings Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., in telephone interview Sunday, agree with Pell that "we've got a terrib anti-terrorist policy. It's in shambles." "We're going to continue to s Americans seized as long as t world knows that we will swap arm for hostages, and that's exactly whe we did with Iran," said Leahy, w was vice-chairman of the Senate In telligence Committee last mont when it investigated the Iran arms Contra controversy

Travis said the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics could put monies generated from an athletic fee into a restricted account, Folk told task force members. The money could then be channelled directly from the students into the restricted account, then to the Office of Student Financial Assistance.

"They could even set it up to where they (the athletic department) never saw the money," Folk said.

The athletic department would also agree to ensure all of the National Collegiate Athletic Association-allowed scholarships for non-revenue sports were filled, Folk

"I was pretty happy that (Travis) would agree to those restrictions," he said. "I like the idea. They're fund 40 percent of all non-revenue sports scholarships. The athletic department would "fill the gap" each year, funding the remainder of the scholarships, Folk said.

Currently, the maximum number of full scholarships allowed nonrevenue sports by the NCAA is 89.

decided to let revenue from the fee The equivalent number of full scholarships awarded at K-State is 68.63, according to information supplied by Mike Jones, athletic department business manager.

The current cost associated with an out-of-state scholarship is $5,440 a year. An in-state scholarship is $3,525 a year, Jones said.

Fully funding all 89 scholarships based on out-of-state tuition would cost the athletic department $484,000 annually. Based on in-state tuition, the cost would be $314,000 annually.

Folk said the task force would base the athletic fee on out-of-state scholarship costs.

"Obviously, if they can afford to get the out-of-state athletes, they will do that," he said.

A $6-a-semester athletic fee, based on an average of 16,000 students, would raise $192,000 a year, about 40 percent of the required $484,000.

Summer school students should not have to pay the fee because they will not benefit from free athletic events, members decided.

The issue of how much to charge part-time students was not resolved. Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics, said fee charges generally are one-half for part-time students, but added the decision was up to task force members.

The final sentences of the bill to be read to Senate Operations Commit-

Friday, January 23, 1987

Non-Revenue Sports Scholarships

Non-Revenue Sport	No. of	Equivalent No. of	No. of Students
	Full Scholarships	Scholarships Awarded	Receiving Scholarships
	Allowed by NCAA	by K-State	at K-State*
Men's Baseball	13	10.91	20
Women's Basketball	15	13	13

▲ Mike Musick, senior in theater

You can put garbage with a good set, lights and effects and it'll look decent.'

◄ Andre Kelley, junior in speech

'I think most comics try to show the brighter side of life. They show us our insecurities, our frustrations, and a good comic can make us laugh at them.'

John Winningham, 1985 graduate

You have to stimulate the audience's imagination, make sure they're smiling. You have to balance the show between people laughing and sitting back and saying, "Hmmm, that's an interesting thought."

Gov. Mike Hayden delivers his first State of the State address Friday at the state capitol in Topeka. See Page

Partly Sunny

Partly sunny and warmer Monday, high in mid- to upper 30s. Wind west to southwest 5 to 15 mph.

Topeka, KS

valiant Effort

the same of the same and profit pools

Names State Historical Soc

The Wildcats scratch back from a 10-point, second half deficit to come within three points of the Oklahoma Sooners, falling short 81-78. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Monday

January 26, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 84

Senate to decide on proposed $6 athletic fee

By JUDY LUNDSTROM

Collegian Reporter The Athletic Fee Task Force has

finally come up with a bill. With slightly more than two weeks left until Student Senate elections and a possible student referendum on the proposed athletic fee, a $6-a-semester "non-revenue sports scholarship fee," as it may now be called, will be proposed at the Senate Operations Committee meeting at 8 tonight in the Student Governing Services office in the Union.

Task force members attended a special meeting Friday to finalize

plans for the bill. The fee would ma fifth university in the ference to assess an students. The other f are: the University of semester; Iowa St $10.50 a semester; th Colorado, $16.50 a Oklahoma State Univ a semester.

Doug Folk, task and junior in electric said he talked to A Larry Travis last we

Reagan take act officials

By The Associa

WASHINGTON the Senate Foreign mittee said Sunday Reagan should consi tion in the latest kids Americans in Beirul takers carry out a t U.S. citizens.

Sen. Claiborne Pe Reagan should take action against Iran i evidence" that Irar latest kidnapping, 1 Saturday. However, it's a group without a connection, then...th good solution."

Both Pell and Trea James Baker also ! any Americans rema should leave.

'We're going to see Americans se as the world kn will swap hostages...'

- Sen. Pa

Pell, appearing on Week with David "there's not much" I win the release of hostages.

"I don't envy the situation he's in no "And if he can really between these terror Iran or any other think he would be ju after that governmen

Baker, a member Security Council, sa "Meet the Press," th clear reason for the "We're not sure w he said. Actually, the Chri Voice of Lebanon r Beirut reported early group of pro-Iranian extremists, calling Organization of the Earth, claimed respc kidnappings.

Sen. Patrick Leaf telephone interview with Pell that "we'v anti-terrorist police shambles.' "We're going to t Americans seized a world knows that we for hostages, and that we did with Iran," s was vice-chairman o telligence Committe when it investigated Contra controversy.

Travis said the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics could put monies generated from an athletic fee into a restricted account, Folk told task force members. The money could then be channelled directly from the students into the restricted account, then to the Office of Student Financial Assistance. "They could even set it up to where they (the athletic department) never saw the money," Folk said. The athletic department would also agree to ensure all of the National Collegiate Athletic Association-allowed scholarships for non-revenue snorts were filled. Folk decided to let revenue from the fee fund 40 percent of all non-revenue sports scholarships. The athletic department would "fill the gap" each year, funding the remainder of the scholarships, Folk said.

Currently, the maximum number of full scholarships allowed nonrevenue sports by the NCAA is 89.

The equivalent number of full scholarships awarded at K-State is 68.63, according to information supplied by Mike Jones, athletic department business manager.

The current cost associated with an out-of-state scholarship is $5,440 a year. An in-state scholarship is $3,525 a year, Jones said.

Fully funding all 89 scholarships based on out-of-state tuition would cost the athletic department $484,000 annually. Based on in-state tuition, the cost would be $314,000 annually.

Folk said the task force would base the athletic fee on out-of-state scholarship costs.

"Obviously, if they can afford to do that," he said. A $6-a-semester athletic fee, based get the out-of-state athletes, they will on an average of 16,000 students, would raise $192,000 a year, about 40 percent of the required $484,000.

Summer school students should not have to pay the fee because they will not benefit from free athletic events, members decided.

The issue of how much to charge part-time students was not resolved. Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics, said fee charges generally are one-half for part-time

ll to be mmit-

Non-Revenue Sports Scholarships

No. of Students Equivalent No. of

Friday, January 23, 1987

Hanson film mere collage of Hitchcock

Film Review

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

After only 10 minutes into "The Bedroom Window," it's clear we're in the hands of an Alfred Hitchcock fanatic. All the usual Hitchcock ingredients - the cool blonde, the crime only observed by a single person, the innocent man the police believe guilty - are present.

But while writer/director Curtis Hanson's admiration for Hitchcock seems genuine, his film is little more than a collage of other better films. The title itself bears more than just a passing similarity to "Rear Window." And the plot is a combination of "Frenzy" and "North by Northwest." In addition, Hanson has thrown in a scene reminiscent of the concert hall scenes in "The Man Who Knew Too Much" and "Torn Curtain."

"The Bedroom Window" is about as derivative as movies get, but, surprisingly, it's also fun to watch. It's the story of a young business executive, Terry Lambert (played by Steve Guttenberg), who has an affair with the boss' wife, Sylvia (played by Isabelle Huppert). While she's at Terry's apartment late one night, she witnesses, from the bedroom window, an attack upon a young woman (Elizabeth McGovern). But because Sylvia's married, she won't go to the police. Terry takes her place, memorizing everything she says about the assault, and reports the crime. But it's not quite this easy, especially when the police ask him to identify the leading suspect during a police

From here the complications multiply: He's forced to testify in court, where the defense attorney (played by Wallace Shawn) cuts him to ribbons. And now, with the police believing he lied from the beginning, he becomes a chief suspect in the recent spree of murders. In the meantime, the real killer plots to kill Sylvia, and thus get rid of the one person who can clear Terry.

Many of these scenes are real nail-biters. But the movie is handicapped by the miscasting of Gut-See WINDOW, Page 7

TUESDAY, JANUARY 27, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	Today	CBS AM News Morning	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Tom And Jerry	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Shaker Run"	Movie: "Reds"	Maxtrax Movie:	Business SportsCenter
8:00	:	Program	:	Defenders Brady Bunch	Sesame Street	Heathcliff	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	Movie:	Cont'd	"Beyond The Poseidon	Tennis Australian
9:00	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance	Mork & Mindy Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Falcon Crest	Movie: "Mark, I Love	"A View To A Kill"	Movie: "Julius	Adventure" Movie:	Open Men's Final
10:30	Jeopardy Scrabble	Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Webster	Mary Tyler Moore	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Hillbillies Odd Couple	You"	"	Caesar"	"Member Of The Wedding"	SportsLook
11:00		Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched Soap	Write Course Culture	H's Heroes Twilight Zone	Perry Mason	Movie: "Once Bitten"	Movie: "Mask"	Movie: "French	Aerobics Getting Fit
12:00	News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke Hillbillies	Sesame Street	News	Centennial	Movie:		Lesson" Movie:	College Basketball
1:00		Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	For Daddy My 3 Sons	Masterpiece Theatre	Dick Van Dyke Andy Griffith		"Murphy's Romance"	Movie: "Once Bitten"	"Just One Of The Guys"	Pittsburgh at Syracuse
2:00	Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo		Beaver Bugs Bunny	Tom & Jerry And Friends	It's No Crush,	"	Movie Show	Karate
3:00	Happy Days	Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurfs	We're Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	I'm In Love Movie:	Mom And Dad Can't Hear Me	Movie:	Fishin' Hole
4:00	Diff Strokes	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flintstones Jetsons	Square 1 TV 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Rocky Road	"Dusty"	"Peter Lundy And The	"Sweet Dreams"	Scholastic
5:00		News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Facts Of Life Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life WKRP	Hillbillies Andy Griffith	Movie: "The Jewel Of	Medicine Hat Stallion"	Movie:	SportsLook SportsCenter
6:00	News Wheel Fortune	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Jeffersons	Sanford Honeymooners	The Nile"	Paper Chase	"Carson City"	College Basketball
7:00	Matlock	Wizard	Who's Boss? Growing Pains	Barnaby Jones	Nova	Movie: "Topper"	NBA Basketball	Movie: "A View To A	Movie: "Mask"	Movie: "Silverado"	UConn at B.C.
8:00	College Basketball	State Of The Union Address	State Of The Union Address	College Basketball	Frontline	"	Philadelphia 76ers at New	Kill"	"	"	College Basketball
9:00	Iowa State at Kansas	/ Democratic Response	/ Democratic Response	Iowa State at Kansas	Tenko	News	York Knicks Movie:	Movie:	Brothers Shandling	Movie:	Villanova at St. John's
10:00		News Dating Game	News M*A*S*H	Late Show	Nature Profiles Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	"Hot Millions"	"Murphy's Romance"	Movie: "Once Bitten"	"McCabe And Mrs. Miller"	In The PGA SportsCenter
11:00		Simon & Simon	Ask Dr. Ruth Nightline	News Hitchcock	MacNeil / Lehrer	Movie:	Movie:	Paul Rodriguez	Movie:	Movie:	Tennis McEnroe vs.
10:00		"Father Knows	700 Club	Three Stooges		"Down To The Sea In Shins"	"Wait Until	Movie: "Mischief"	"Reds"	"Commando"	Wilander

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 28, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	нво	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	Today	CBS AM News Morning	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Tom And Jerry	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo _{,,}	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Eddie And	Get Along Shirley	"Pee-wee's Big	Business SportsCenter
8:00		Program	"	Defenders Brady Bunch	Sesame Street	Heathcliff	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	The Cruisers"	MacLaine	Adventure" Movie:	PGA Golf Phoenix
9:00	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance	Mork & Mindy Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Falcon Crest	Movie: "The Mortal	The Talk Show Movie:	Movie: "Crisis"	"Savage Harvest"	Open Third Round
10:00	Jeopardy Scrabble	Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Webster	Mary Tyler Moore	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Hillbillies Odd Couple	Storm"	"Critters"	Movie:	Romances Movie:	NBA Today SportsLook
11:00	Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched Soap	Literature Algebra	H's Heroes Twilight Zone	Perry Mason	Movie: "The	"Mommie Dearest"	"The Last Time I Saw	Aerobics Getting Fit
12:30	News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke Hillbillies	Sesame Street	News	Centennial	Philadelphia Experiment"	:	Paris" Movie:	College Basketball
1:00	Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To	For Daddy My 3 Sons	Nova	Dick Van Dyke Andy Griffith		Movie: "The	Movie: "A Piano For	"The Great Muppet	Villanova at St. John's
2:30	Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Heritage	Beaver Bugs Bunny	Tom & Jerry And Friends	Longshot" When We First	Mrs. Cimino"	Caper" Movie:	Bodybuilding Ms. Universe
3:00		Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurfs	We're Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Met Movie:	Get Along Magic	"Class Of '44"	Wrestling
4:00	Diff. Strokes	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flintstones Jetsons	Square 1 TV 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Rocky Road	"BMX Bandits"	Adventure	A Gospel Session	In The PGA Horse Racing
	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Facts Of Life Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life WKRP	Hillbillies Andy Griffith	"M.A.D.D.: Mothers	Movie: "Alice's	Movie: "Mrs. Soffel"	SportsLook SportsCenter
6:00	News Wheel Fortune	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Jeffersons	Sanford Honeymooners	Against Drunk Drivers"	Adventures in Wonderland"	"	College Basketball
7:00	Highway To Heaven	New Mike Hammer	P. Strangers Head Of Class	Barnaby Jones	Generation At Risk	Movie: "The Odd	Movie: "The	Movie: "Critters"	Shirley MacLaine	Movie: "After Hours"	Georgetown at Providence
8:00		Movie: "Broken	Dynasty	Movie: "Greased	Eyes On The Prize	Couple"	Hangman"	The Talk Show	Movie:	"	College Basketball
9:00	St. Elsewhere	Vows;"	Hotel	Lightning"	New Image It's Your Turn	News	Movie: "The Carey	The Hitchhiker The Hitchhiker	"Mommie Dearest"	Movie: "Mean	MSU at L'ville
10:00	News Tonight Show	News Dating Game	News M*A*S*H	Late Show	Nature Profiles Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	Treatment"	ACE Award Winner	"	Streets"	1980 Final 4 SportsCenter
11:00	David	T.J. Hooker	Ask Dr. Ruth Nightline	News Hitchcock	MacNeil / Lehrer	Movie:	Portrait Of America	"	Movie: "The Happy	Movie: "The	Skiing Fishing
10:00		"Courage And The Passion"	700 Club	Three Stooges Movie		"Prince Of Foxes"	Your Health, Your Life	"Too Scared To Scream"	Hooker" Movie	Protector" Movie	Outdoors NBA Today

USE THE COLLEGIAN COUPONS!!

Gov. Mike Hayden delivers his first State of the State address Friday at the state capitol in Topeka. See Page

Partly Sunny

Partly sunny and warmer Monday, high in mid- to upper 30s. Wind west to southwest 5 to 15 mph.

valiant Effort

ملوجي الموان والمدامية المرامية المرامة

101 5/1/87 14

Managa State Historical Goc

The Wildcats scratch back from a 10-point, second half deficit to come within three points of the Oklahoma Sooners, falling short 81-78. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Monday

January 26, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 84

Senate to decide on proposed $6 athletic fee

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Collegian Reporter

The Athletic Fee Task Force has finally come up with a bill.

With slightly more than two weeks left until Student Senate elections and a possible student referendum on the proposed athletic fee, a $6-a-semester "non-revenue sports scholarship fee," as it may now be called, will be proposed at the Senate Operations Committee meeting at 8 tonight in the Student Governing Services office in the Union.

Task force members attended a special meeting Friday to finalize plans for the bill.

The fee would make K-State the fifth university in the Big Eight Conference to assess an athletic fee to students. The other four universities are: the University of Kansas, $ semester; Iowa State Unive $10.50 a semester; the Univers Colorado, $16.50 a semester; Oklahoma State University, abo a semester.

Doug Folk, task force chai and junior in electrical engine said he talked to Athletic Dir Larry Travis last week.

Reagan mus take action, officials say

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The chairm the Senate Foreign Relations mittee said Sunday that Pres Reagan should consider militar tion in the latest kidnapping of t Americans in Beirut if the host takers carry out a threat to kil U.S. citizens.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., Reagan should take "pretty ha action against Iran if there is "c evidence" that Iran is behind latest kidnapping, which occur Saturday. However, Pell added, it's a group without any governm connection, then...there really is good solution.'

Both Pell and Treasury Secret James Baker also said they th any Americans remaining in Be should leave.

'We're going to continue see Americans seized as lo as the world knows that will swap arms f hostages...'

- Sen. Patrick Lea

Pell, appearing on ABC-TV's "T Week with David Brinkley," s "there's not much" Reagan can do win the release of the three n hostages.

"I don't envy the president, t situation he's in now," Pell sa "And if he can really establish a li between these terrorists and Syria Iran or any other government, think he would be justified in goi after that government pretty hard

Baker, a member of the Nation Security Council, said on NBC-T "Meet the Press," that there was clear reason for the kidnapping. "We're not sure who took them he said.

Actually, the Christian-controlle Voice of Lebanon radio station Beirut reported early Sunday that group of pro-Iranian Shiite Mosle extremists, calling themselves the Organization of the Oppressed c Earth, claimed responsibility for th kidnappings.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., in telephone interview Sunday, agree with Pell that "we've got a terribl anti-terrorist policy. It's in shambles.' "We're going to continue to se Americans seized as long as th world knows that we will swap arm for hostages, and that's exactly wha we did with Iran," said Leahy, wh was vice-chairman of the Senate In telligence Committee last mont! when it investigated the Iran arms Contra controversy.

Travis said the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics could put monies generated from an athletic fee into a restricted account, Folk told task force members. The money could then be channelled directly from the students into the restricted account, then to the Office of Student Financial Assistance. "They could even set it up to where they (the athletic department) never saw the money," Folk said.

The athletic department would also agree to ensure all of the National Collegiate Athletic Association-allowed scholarships for non-revenue sports were filled, Folk

"I was pretty happy that (Travis) would agree to those restrictions," he said. "I like the idea. They're fund 40 percent of all non-revenue sports scholarships. The athletic department would "fill the gap" each year, funding the remainder of the scholarships, Folk said.

Currently, the maximum number of full scholarships allowed nonrevenue sports by the NCAA is 89.

decided to let revenue from the fee The equivalent number of full scholarships awarded at K-State is 68.63, according to information supplied by Mike Jones, athletic department business manager.

The current cost associated with an out-of-state scholarship is $5,440 a year. An in-state scholarship is $3,525 a year, Jones said.

Fully funding all 89 scholarships based on out-of-state tuition would cost the athletic department $484,000 annually. Based on in-state tuition, the cost would be $314,000 annually. Folk said the task force would base the athletic fee on out-of-state scholarship costs. "Obviously, if they can afford to get the out-of-state athletes, they will do that," he said.

A $6-a-semester athletic fee, based on an average of 16,000 students, would raise $192,000 a year, about 40 percent of the required $484,000.

Summer school students should not have to pay the fee because they will not benefit from free athletic events, members decided.

The issue of how much to charge part-time students was not resolved. Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics, said fee charges generally are one-half for part-time students, but added the decision was up to task force members.

The final sentences of the bill to be read to Senate Operations Commit-

Non-Revenue Sports Scholarships

Non-Revenue Sport	No. of Full Scholarships Allowed by NCAA	Equivalent No. of Scholarships Awarded by K-State	No. of Students Receiving Scholarships at K-State*
Men's Baseball	13	10.91	20
Women's Basketball	15	13	13

THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	нво	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	Today	CBS AM News Morning	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Tom And Jerry	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Bite The	"City Heat" Cont'd	"Lost Horizon" Cont'd	Business SportsCenter
8:00	"	Program	" "	Defenders Brady Bunch	Sesame Street	Heathcliff	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	Bullet"	Van Halen Alivel	"Harvey Middleman,	Ski World PGA Golf
	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance	Mork & Mindy Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Falcon Crest	Movie: "Escape Me	Movie:	Movie: "Breakt-	Fireman" Movie:	Phoenix Open Final
10:00	Jeopardy	Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Webster	Mary Tyler Moore	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Hillbillies Odd Couple	Never"	"Troll"	hrough" Movie:	"Second Fiddle"	Round SportsLook
4 4:00	Scrabble Password	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched Soap	Write Course Culture	H's Heroes Twilight Zone	Perry Mason	Movie: "Talk To Me"	"Lady Jane"	Movie: "The Old	Aerobics Getting Fit
10:00	News	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke Hillbillies	Sesame Street	News	Centennial	Humor & The		Maid'	College Basketball
4:00	Days Of Our Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To	For Daddy My 3 Sons	Photovision Photovision	Dick Van Dyke Andy Griffith	"	Presidency Not News	Movie: "J. Edgar	Movie: "Can't Stop	MSU at L'ville
0.00	Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	New Literacy New Literacy	Beaver Bugs Bunny	Tom & Jerry And Friends	Movie: "Right Of	Hoover"	The Music"	Fly Fishing Fo Bass
3:00	"	Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurts	We're Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Way".	Around The World In 80	Movie: "Molly And	Wrestling
	Diff. Strokes	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flintstones Jetsons	Square 1 TV 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Rocky Road	Safe Harbor Movie:	Days J.'s Journey	Me" Movie:	Fishing Outdoors
_		News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Facts Of Life Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life WKRP	Hillbillies Andy Griffith	"Garbo Talks"	Free To Be You And Me	"Summer Of '42"	SportsLook NBA Today
6:30		News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller College	Sanford Honeymooners	Movie:	Van Halen Alive!	"Animals Are	SportsCenter AWA
7:00		Shell Game	Our World	Barnaby Jones	Ten Who Dared	Basketball Marquette at	Movie: "Bataan"	"Trol!"	Movie: "City Heat"	Beautiful People"	Championshi Wrestling
8:00		Simon & Simon	The Colbys	Movie: "The Pope Of	Mysteryl	Notre Dame H's Heroes	"	Movie: "Porky's		Movie: "Street Hero"	College Basketball
9:30		Knots Landing	20 / 20	Greenwich Village"	A.C. Clarke S. Previews	News	ACE Awards	Revenge" Not News	Movie: "J. Edgar	"	Duke at Georgia Tech
10:30	Moure	News Dating Game	News M*A*S*H	Late Show	Nature Profiles Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	:	Inside The NFL	Hoover"	Movie: "Young Lady	College Basketball
00		Adderly	Ask Dr. Ruth Nightline	News Hitchcock	MacNeil / Lehrer	Movie:	WomanWatch	Humor & The Presidency	Movie: "Lady Jane"	Chatterley' Movie:	Washington at UCLA
11:30		Movie: "Beach Patrol"	700 Club	Three Stooges Movie		"Viva Zapata!"	"Shuttered Room"	"Terminal Choice"	"	"Young Lady Chatterley II"	Ski World Horse Racing

Friday, January 23, 1987

Continued from Page 6 tenberg and Huppert. Guttenberg lacks the finesse of a Hitchcock hero. He's too young and too innocent-looking. And Huppert is much too petite to become the sexpot she's supposed to be. (It doesn't help any that her hair looks as if she just washed it and couldn't do a thing with it.) To top it off, she overdoes her (supposedly sexy) French accent. Huppert is indeed French, but this isn't her usual accent. She sounds as if she's imitating Catherine Deneuve.

Elizabeth McGovern fares much better as a near victim of the killer. This is her most mature role to date, but near the movie's end the screenplay forces her (as well as Steve Guttenberg) into some incredibly stupid situations. This is the movie's biggest problem. In the last half hour the improbabilities multiply until they completely undermine the movie's credibility.

"The Bedroom Window" is never a boring movie, but Hanson directs like a child showing off all the toys in his closet. The problem is none of the toys are his own.

All shows starting before 6 p.m.-all seats $2.50 Movie info. 539-1291 Tuesday is bargain night!

CAMPUS

CRITICAL CONDITION

DAILY AT 7-9 MATINEE SAT. & SUN. AT 3 AND 5 RATED R

WESTLOOP

sneaking Matinee

intó town! & Sun.

PG-13

LITTLE SHOP OF HORRORS

DAILY AT 4:30-7-9:30 MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2 RATED PG-13

THE GOLDEN CHILD

DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:20 MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2:10 RATED PG-13

CRIMES OF THE HEART

DAILY AT 4:45-7:20-9:25 MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2:20 RATED PG-13

WANTED DEAD OR ALIVE DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:20

MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2:10 RATED R

THE MORNING AFTER

DAILY AT 4:45-7:20-9:25 MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2:20 RATED R

Gov. Mike Hayden delivers his first State of the State address Friday at the state capitol in Topeka. See Page

Partly sunny and warmer Monday, high in mid- to upper 30s. Wind west to southwest 5 to 15 mph.

Partly Sunny

Kanasa State Historical Soc Spe Topeka, KS

valiant Effort

ملعهد المهلن المهامية والمساعدة

The Wildcats scratch back from a 10-point, second half deficit to come within three points of the Oklahoma Sooners, falling short 81-78. See Page 8.

Kansas State

Monday

January 26, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 84

Senate to decide on proposed $6 athletic fee

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Collegian Reporter

The Athletic Fee Task Force has finally come up with a bill.

With slightly more than two weeks left until Student Senate elections and a possible student referendum on the proposed athletic fee, a $6-a-semester "non-revenue sports scholarship fee," as it may now be called, will be proposed at the Senate Operations Committee meeting at 8 tonight in the Student Governing Services office in the Union.

Task force members attended a special meeting Friday to finalize plans for the bill The fee would fifth university in ference to asses. students. The oth are: the Universi semester; Iowa $10.50 a semester Colorado, $16.50 Oklahoma State 1 a semester.

Doug Folk, ta and junior in ele said he talked to Larry Travis last

Reagar take ac official

By The Ass WASHINGTON the Senate Forei mittee said Sunc Reagan should co tion in the latest l Americans in Be takers carry out

U.S. citizens.

Sen. Claiborne Reagan should ta action against Ira evidence" that I latest kidnapping Saturday. Howeve it's a group withou connection, then.. good solution."

Both Pell and T James Baker als any Americans re should leave.

'We're going | see Americans as the world k will swap hostages...'

- Sen.

Pell, appearing of Week with David "there's not much' win the release hostages.

"I don't envy t situation he's in "And if he can real between these terre Iran or any othe think he would be after that governm Baker, a membe

Security Council, s "Meet the Press," clear reason for the "We're not sure he said. Actually, the Ch Voice of Lebanon

Beirut reported ear group of pro-Irania extremists, calling Organization of th Earth, claimed resp kidnappings Sen. Patrick Lea telephone interview with Pell that "we anti-terrorist pol shambles."

"We're going to Americans seized world knows that w for hostages, and th we did with Iran," was vice-chairman telligence Commit when it investigated Contra controversy

Travis said the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics could put monies generated from an athletic fee into a restricted account, Folk told task force members. The money could then be channelled directly from the students into the restricted account, then to the Office of Student Financial Assistance. 'They could even set it up to where they (the athletic department) never saw the money," Folk said.

The athletic department would also agree to ensure all of the National Collegiate Athletic Association-allowed scholarships for non-revenue sports were filled, Folk

Don't forget to grab these high-kicking video rentals at Campus Rent-all!

Expires 1-29-87

Available now at your new video home

SPRING SPECIAL

Any Size Pizza

539-4888

tues

99¢

Friday, January 23, 1987

Manhattan Cable

SBUY 1

SMALL

1 TOPPING

PIZZA

BUY 1

GET 1

FREE

707 N. 12th

AGGIEVILLE

decided to let revenue from the fee fund 40 percent of all non-revenue sports scholarships. The athletic department would "fill the gap" each year, funding the remainder of the scholarships, Folk said.

Currently, the maximum number of full scholarships allowed nonrevenue sports by the NCAA is 89.

CAMPUS

RENTALL

1122 Laramie

Next to Godfather's

539-8786

The equivalent number of full scholarships awarded at K-State is 68.63, according to information supplied by Mike Jones, athletic department business manager.

The current cost associated with an out-of-state scholarship is $5,440 a year. An in-state scholarship is $3,525 a year, Jones said.

Non-Revenue Sports Scholarships

Equivalent No. of

Scholarships Awarded

Fully funding all 89 scholarships based on out-of-state tuition would cost the athletic department $484,000 annually. Based on in-state tuition, the cost would be $314,000 annually.

Folk said the task force would base the athletic fee on out-of-state scholarship costs.

"Obviously, if they can afford to

No. of Students

Receiving Scholarshine

get the out-of-state athletes, they will do that," he said.

A $6-a-semester athletic fee, based on an average of 16,000 students, would raise $192,000 a year, about 40 percent of the required $484,000.

Summer school students should not have to pay the fee because they will not benefit from free athletic events, members decided.

The issue of how much to charge part-time students was not resolved. Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics, said fee charges generally are one-half for part-time lecision was > he bill to be is Commit-> ed to be the fiting KSU if such a dent body, etermined to support nt fee, and conducted ion is the nethod of

> > SS

ue

out it does statistics on that the errent. He two states have the s on death of execu-and second homicide

nacted the irder rate

378's rate.

id's death

nconstitu-

ate subse-according Coalition.

h penalty

aken the llinois the ord to try

enses of depleted

sult, plea

g with instate.

ier was ion does purselves

when has iger? It nation in-hment is Minority,

rded and

f, Page 12

or get it. We overnor of ger.

COME OUT OF YOUR

Full Scholarships

There's no reason to be a hermit at Nautilus Fitness Club. Our specially traine staff will get you started in the most complete exercis program in the area.

There's even room to dance in our shell. Over 25 Aerobio classes every week, with video-taped classes availa to match your workout

Our Nautilus machines are designed to only take 90 minutes a week to reach your peak. Deep in our shell, beyond the free wts., dressing and shower rooms you'll find the Enter our shell this spring for only $9950.

Expires May 15 AND INTO OURS

AGGIEVILLE MANHATTAN 776-1654

elaxation of the sauna and whirlpool.

Nautilus" Total Fitness Club

Community Health Care - Think of -

*Out-patient services Surgery
DayStay Surgery
Laser Surgery
Intensive Care Level II Intensive Care nursery Birthing room, Birthing chair,

X-ray services Mammography Nuclear medicine

EMERGENCY CARE CENTER 913-776-3300 Full Physician Coverage Weekends and Holidays

Working together for a healthier you

Mon.-Thurs. 8:30 a.m.-8:30 p.m. • Fri.-Sat. 8:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

Greeting Cards Recycled Paper Products FREE Boyaton alace

tate, told dquarters ls predichis Chris-Bayarian in Social it, accorported by The two 148.8 per-> businessic Party vote, up

st slightly Vest Gerojections the vote, . Page 12

704 N. Manhattan Ave. • In Aggieville • 539-7654

Sun. Noon-5 p.m.

Gov. Mike Hayden delivers his first State of the State address Friday at the state capitol in Topeka. See Page

Partly Sunny

Partly sunny and warmer Monday, high in mid- to upper 30s. Wind west to southwest 5 to 15 mph.

Topeks, KS

valiant Effort

- 1.31 Land is not 2 to a colo

101 5/1/87  Kansas State Historical Soc

> The Wildcats scratch back from a 10-point, second half deficit to come within three points of the Oklahoma Sooners, falling short 81-78. See Page 8.

Kansas

Monday

January 26, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 84

Senate to decide on proposed $6 athletic fee

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Collegian Reporter

The Athletic Fee Task Force has finally come up with a bill.

With slightly more than two weeks left until Student Senate elections and a possible student referendum on the proposed athletic fee, a $6-a-semester "non-revenue sports scholarship fee," as it may now be called, will be proposed at the Senate Operations Committee meeting at 8 tonight in the Student Governing Services office in the Union.

Task force members attended a special meeting Friday to finalize plans for the bill.

The fee would make K-State the fifth university in the Big Eight Conference to assess an athletic fee to students. The other four universities are: the University of Kansas, $6.50 a semester; Iowa State University, $10.50 a semester; the University of Colorado, $16.50 a semester; and Oklahoma State University, about $7 a semester.

Doug Folk, task force chairman and junior in electrical engineering, said he talked to Athletic Director Larry Travis last week.

Travis said the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics could put monies generated from an athletic fee into a restricted account, Folk told task force members. The money could then be channelled directly from the students into the restricted account, then to the Office of Student Financial Assistance.

"They could even set it up to where they (the athletic department) never saw the money," Folk said.

The athletic department would also agree to ensure all of the National Collegiate Athletic Association-allowed scholarships for non-revenue sports were filled, Folk

"I was pretty happy that (Travis) would agree to those restrictions," he said. "I like the idea. They're agreeing not to touch our money and they're agreeing not to take their

"I think it's great you can put (the money) into an account where (the athletic department) can't get their hands on it," said Kirk Caraway, senior in political science. "That was our main objective."

In selecting an amount for the

decided to let revenue from the fee fund 40 percent of all non-revenue sports scholarships. The athletic department would "fill the gap" each year, funding the remainder of the scholarships, Folk said.

Currently, the maximum number of full scholarships allowed nonrevenue sports by the NCAA is 89.

Non-Revenue Sport

Women's Basketball

Men's Track-Cross Country

Women's Track-Cross Country

Men's Baseball

Women's Golf

Women's Tennis

Women's Volleyball

Men's Golf

Totals

The equivalent number of full scholarships awarded at K-State is 68.63, according to information supplied by Mike Jones, athletic department business manager.

The current cost associated with an out-of-state scholarship is $5,440 a year. An in-state scholarship is $3,525 a year, Jones said.

Non-Revenue Sports Scholarships

No. of

Full Scholarships

Allowed by NCAA

15

14

16

12

Equivalent No. of

Scholarships Awarded

by K-State

10.91

13

2.92

1.3

13.32

14.48

3.1

9.6

68.63

Fully funding all 89 scholarships based on out-of-state tuition would cost the athletic department $484,000 annually. Based on in-state tuition, the cost would be $314,000 annually.

Folk said the task force would base the athletic fee on out-of-state scholarship costs.

"Obviously, if they can afford to

No. of Students

Receiving Scholarships

at K-State*

20 13

25

22

7

11

108

*Not all full scholarships

get the out-of-state athletes, they will do that," he said.

A $6-a-semester athletic fee, based on an average of 16,000 students, would raise $192,000 a year, about 40 percent of the required $484,000.

Summer school students should not have to pay the fee because they will not benefit from free athletic events, members decided.

The issue of how much to charge part-time students was not resolved. Steven Johnson, student body president and junior in agricultural economics, said fee charges generally are one-half for part-time students, but added the decision was up to task force members.

The final sentences of the bill to be read to Senate Operations Committee tonight read as follows:

"Whereas, this is believed to be the most feasible way of benefiting KSU athletics through a fee if such a desire exists within the student body, and whereas, it must be determined if the student body desires to support KSU athletics with a student fee, and whereas, a referendum conducted during the general election is the most logical and fair method of determining this desire.'

Reagan must take action, officials sav

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Sunday that President Reagan should consider military action in the latest kidnapping of three Americans in Beirut if the hostagetakers carry out a threat to kill the U.S. citizens.

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., said Reagan should take "pretty hard" action against Iran if there is "clear evidence" that Iran is behind the latest kidnapping, which occurred Saturday. However, Pell added, "if it's a group without any government connection, then...there really is no good solution."

Both Pell and Treasury Secretary James Baker also said they think any Americans remaining in Beirut should leave.

'We're going to continue to see Americans seized as long as the world knows that we will swap arms for hostages...

- Sen. Patrick Leahy

Pell, appearing on ABC-TV's "This Week with David Brinkley," said "there's not much" Reagan can do to win the release of the three new hostages.

"I don't envy the president, the situation he's in now," Pell said. "And if he can really establish a link between these terrorists and Syria or Iran or any other government, I think he would be justified in going after that government pretty hard."

Baker, a member of the National Security Council, said on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," that there was no clear reason for the kidnapping.

"We're not sure who took them." he said.

Actually, the Christian-controlled Voice of Lebanon radio station in Beirut reported early Sunday that a group of pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem extremists, calling themselves the Organization of the Oppressed on Earth, claimed responsibility for the kidnappings.

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., in a telephone interview Sunday, agreed with Pell that "we've got a terrible anti-terrorist policy. It's in a shambles.' "We're going to continue to see Americans seized as long as the world knows that we will swap arms for hostages, and that's exactly what we did with Iran," said Leahy, who was vice-chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee last month when it investigated the Iran arms-Contra controversy.

Staff/Jim Dietz

To help his students understand the different people and cultures in Latin America, Douglas Benson, associate professor of Spanish, uses the guitar in his Spanish classes during the semester.

Guitar assists Spanish professor

By SALLY NEARY Collegian Reporter

When it comes to teaching cultural differences of Spanishspeaking countries, Douglas Benson picks up his guitar.

The associate professor of Spanish, who plays mostly Latin American music in his Spanish classes, said he hopes to help students understand the different people and cultures in Latin America and to heighten their interest in the music from these countries.

A native of Taos, N.M., Benson grew up in an environment where families played and listened to Spanish music on the guitar. He said he had always wanted to play, so when he was 15 years old, he bought his first guitar for $15 from a friend's uncle. Drawing on 10 years of piano lessons, Benson taught himself how to play. While in college at New Mexico State University and later at the University of New Mexico, Benson began playing classical guitar music from the Baroque and Renaissance periods.

Before coming to K-State, Benson taught for 11 years at Hastings College in Hastings, Neb. After two or three years there, Benson discovered he could help students understand differences between the Spanish-speaking countries by playing music from the different

See BENSON, Page 12

Opponents discuss death penalty issue

By DERON JOHNSON Collegian Reporter

Opponents of the death penalty convened Saturday on campus to discuss capital punishment and how the tide toward its adoption can be slowed. Principle speakers were David Kingsley and Bill Lucero, both of the Kansas Coalition Against the Death Penalty.

Robert Bryan, a San Francisco attorney representing more than 100 men on America's death row, was to have been the forum's featured speaker, but Kingsley said professional obligations prevented him from attending.

Although Kingsley and Lucero have both had family members die at the hands of murderers, they remain vehemently opposed to the death penalty. However, they told about 60 people attending the presentation they understand the feelings of vic-

"I've seen a member of my family suffer," said Kingsley, whose sister was killed by a man currently serving on Missouri's death row. "I know what it's like. I think society needs to be of more help to victims.

However, more stringent sentencing is the answer - not statesponsored execution, Kingsley said. He said the primary justification cited by supporters for the adoption of capital punishment is revenge.

"If there were any practical value to this other than sheer revenge...we are beginning to hear from proponents to the death penalty who say

'yes, it's not a deterrent but it does get revenge."" Kingsley presented statistics which support his contention that the death penalty is not a deterrent. He said Texas and Florida, two states with the death penalty, have the highest number of convicts on death row, the highest number of executions and are ranked first and second respectively in national homicide rates

In 1979, New Mexico re-enacted the death penalty, and its murder rate rose by 22 percent over 1978's rate. Also in 1979, Rhode Island's death penalty was declared unconstitutional, and its homicide rate subsequently fell by 20 percent, according to figures provided by the Coalition.

Furthermore, the death penalty may actually directly weaken the legal system. He said in Illinois the prosecution often can't afford to try cases because the expenses of capital punishment have depleted legal reservoirs. As a result, plea bargaining is now occurring with increasing frequency in the state.

Lucero, whose father was murdered, said execution does nothing but rekindle old anger.

"We (only) make ourselves angrier," he said. "Since when has revenge decreased anger? It doesn't.

Lucero said the discrimination inherent in capital punishment is another reason to reject it. Minority, uneducated, mentally retarded and

See OPPONENT, Page 12

German chancellor returns to control

By The Associated Press

BONN, West Germany - West German voters returned Chancellor Helmut Kohl's conservative coalition to power Sunday, but reduced their support for his Christian Democratic Party. The anti-NATO Greens made impressive gains.

Computer projections, which have proved highly accurate in the past, showed a significant drop in support for Kohl's party compared with the last national elections, four years ago. But the results showed his coalition with the small Free Democratic Party was in no danger.

Johannes Rau, who ran for chancellor under the banner of the main opposition Social Democratic Party, conceded defeat on national television an hour after the polls clos-

"We wanted a change in the government, and we didn't get it. We are the losers," Rau, the governor of North Rhine-Westphalia state, told reporters at his party's headquarters in Bonn, the federal capital.

Despite pre-election polls predicting a strong win for Kohl, his Christian Democrats and their Bavarian sister party, the Christian Social Union, received 44 percent, according to final projections reported by West German television. The two parties received a combined 48.8 percent of the vote in 1983.

The projections said the businessoriented Free Democratic Party received 8.8 percent of the vote, up from 7 percent in 1983.

The Social Democrats lost slightly from their 1983 returns. West German television's final projections gave them 37.6 percent of the vote.

See ELECTION, Page 12

INTERNATIONAL

Troops prepare for protest action

MANILA, Philippines - Troops were placed on "red alert" in Manila on Monday as thousands of people prepared to march on the presidential palace to protest last week's killing by soldiers of 12 demonstrators.

Officials of Bayan, the nation's largest leftist organization, told reporters they would meet with President Corazon Aquino before the march but vowed to go ahead with their plans regardless of the outcome of the talks.

Brig. Gen. Romeo Zulueta, who replaced Brig. Gen. Ramon Montano as commander of the Manila region, ordered troops to arrest any "troublemakers." Soldiers were put on red alert, which means they must be ready to be deployed if needed.

Montano was placed on leave until a special presidential commission completes its investigation into the shooting of the 12 demonstrators.

About 10,000 peasants and supporters of their demands for land reform marched toward Aquino's office last Thursday. At Mendiola bridge near the palace, they forced a line of police to retreat. Marines behind the police fired on the protesters, killing 12 and wounding 94.

Both left- and right-wing groups condemned the "Mendiola massacre," the bloodiest street clash of Aguino's young presidency.

The crisis comes right before a Feb. 2 plebiscite on a new constitution, which is regarded as a vote of confidence in Aquino's steward-

Passengers stabilize jet's landing

MOSCOW - When an Aeroflot jetliner's nose landing gear failed to drop, the captain ordered all 92 passengers to crowd toward the tail section in hopes of a more stable landing, Tass reported Sunday.

The Tu-154 was flying from Moscow to the southern city of Ordzhonikidze last Monday when a red warning light flight indicated a landing gear malfunction, Tass said. In-flight maneuvers failed to shake the gear loose, and fuel was running low.

"All passengers were promptly transferred to the rear compartment so that the liner wouldn't dive right after touchdown," Tass said. "Going into reverse and engaging flaps, the crew landed the plane, its nose gradually lowering and scraping off myriads of sparks on its run until the craft finally came to a screeching halt."

Rescue squads helped evacuate the passengers; who used emergency chutes, Tass said. It said there was "insignificant damage" to the plane, and "no loss of life."

Tass did not say if there were any injuries.

Police question activist, daughter

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa - Police took black activist Winnie Mandela and her daughter from their home in the black township of Soweto Sunday but released them after questioning Mandela for about 51/2 hours, her lawyer said.

The lawyer, Ismail Ayob, said he was not present during the questioning at the Protea police station in Soweto, but that Mandela told him afterward it appeared to be "routine." Ayob said that at about 5 p.m. police took her from her home in the black township outside Johannesburg, and returned an hour after that for her daughter, Zinzi. Police also took a filing cabinet filled with documents belonging to Mandela, said Ayob. The cabinet was returned, and it did not appear that any documents had been taken, he said.

Ayob said he had not talked very long with Mandela after she and her daughter were released.

NATIONAL

Racist vows politicians' removal

CUMMING, Ga. - A day after this all-white community was crammed with up to 25,000 marchers demanding racial tolerance, ministers complained Sunday that Cumming had been characterized unfairly.

But a counterdemonstrator, one of 56 people arrested in the South's largest civil rights demonstration since the 1960s, said he would work to oust the officials who welcomed the marchers.

"The politicians and system stooges are through here," said Frank Shirley, Forsyth County leader of the White Patriot Party, a militaristic white supremacist group.

"We're going to put our own candidates in the next election," he was quoted as saying in Sunday's editions of the Forsyth County

The marchers had come in response to a Jan. 17 attack by a jeering crowd of 400 Ku Klux Klansmen and their supporters who pelted about 75 marchers with bottles, rocks and mud. Televised images of that attack spurred Saturday's huge turnout that left behind some would-be marchers in Atlanta when more than 160 packed charter buses were filled.

"It looked like Forsyth County is the worst place in the world to live, and is filled with the most hateful people," the Rev. Gary Armes told his Sunday congregation at the First Christian Church. "I wanted to shake the TV and say, 'That's not so!""

REGIONAL

Legislators disagree on waste site

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. - Lawmakers from southern Arkansas disagree whether the state should withdraw from a compact with four other states to develop a central dumpsite for low-level radioactive waste.

Sen. Jim Scott, D-Warren, said in an interview that he plans to bring up, in about a week, his bill that would pull Arkansas out of the Central Interstate Low-Level Radioactive Waste Compact Commis-

That commission - comprising Nebraska, Kansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Arkansas - has outlined six sites in Dallas, Cleveland and Jefferson counties as possible dump sites.

Reports of preliminary studies of the area's geological makeup have caused controversy. Scott's pledge to introduce the legislation to pull Arkansas from the compact came at an emotion-charged public hearing on the matter in Rison recently.

Rep. Robin F. Wynne, D-Fordyce, has said he has received indications that Kansas and Nebraska are likely sites for the dump. Both Wynne and Scott have voiced opposition to putting a dump site in the area, in part because of concerns about leakage.

House debates liquor law changes

TOPEKA - House debate on a measure to reinstate the death penalty and hearings on possible sweeping changes in the state's liquor laws are expected to command attention at the Capitol as the 1987 Kansas Legislature enters its third week

Legislative supporters and opponents of capital punishment are scheduled to square off on the House floor Wednesday over a bill that would make death by lethal injection a possible sentence for anyone convicted of first-degree murder or felony murder in Kansas.

Arguments on both sides of the issue are likely to be heated, especially in view of Gov. Mike Hayden's promise to sign any death penalty bill that lands on his desk in proper form.

However, a number of key lawmakers predict passage of the measure when it comes up for a final vote Thursday.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

U-LEARN is looking for a few good volunteers for this spring. Don't waste away the spring hours — be a U-LearN volunteer. Call 532-6442 or stop

ENGLISH CONVERSATIONAL TUTORING PROGRAM, offered by the International Student Center, needs volunteer tutors. For more information, call Karen at 532-6448

STUDENT ELECTIONS COMMITTEE: Filing deadline for SGA elections is Tuesday. Applica-tions are available in the SGS office for student body president, student senators and Board of nt Publications.

ALPHA MU ALPHA: All resumes are due Friday, and members should contact Teresa Leighty. Also, there will be a field trip Friday to Hallmark. Members should contact Angie

AG STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTION AP-PLICATIONS are available in Waters 120 and are

BLUE KEY SENIOR HONORARY member ship applications are available in Anderson 122 and are due by 4 p.m. Feb. 6.

OPEN HOUSE SPECIAL EVENTS COMMIT-TEE: Any student or organization interested in performing as a special event for Open House '87 can contact Kathy Peirce at 539-4651 or the Col-lege of Arts and Sciences office at 532-6900.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT CENTER will be showing videotapes prepared by the College Placement Council in Holtz 107B. "Interview Preparation" and "The Interview" will be shown at 3:30 p.m. today, and "The Interview" and "Interview Follow-Up" will be shown at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is now posting sign-up schedules for on-campus employment interviews by Kansas, regional and national employers. All eligible candidates are urged to register and apply.

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in Union Activities Center and are due at 5 p.m

CONGRESSIONAL TEACHER SCHOLAR-SHIP PROGRAM information and applications forms available in Bluemont 017.

TODAY

BUSINESS COUNCIL meets at 4 p.m. in Union

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERIOR

HOSPITALITY MANAGEMENT ASSOCIA-

ALPHA ZETA FRATERNITY meets at 6:30

PUBLIC RELATIONS STUDENT SOCIETY OF AMERICA meets at 7 p.m. in Kedzie Library.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets at 8 p.m in Union

CREW meets at 7 p.m. in Union Little Theatre. NATIONAL SOCIETY OF BLACK

ENGINEERS meet at 6 p.m. in Durland 133. NATIONAL ORGANIZATION FOR WOMEN

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets at 8:30 p.m. in Charlie's Neighborhood Bar to discuss informa-tional pledge/active smoker for juniors and

ECONOMICS CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union

TUESDAY CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS BIBLE STUDY

GERMAN CLUB meets at 4 p.m. in Union 213.

A PHI ALPHA THETA LECTURE

"George Armstrong Custer and the Battle of the Little Big Horn." Delivered By

Joyce Thierer An Employee of the Custer National Battlefield in 1984. Tuesday, January 27, 1987 Union 208, 3:30 p.m.

How To Impress Three of Your Friends . . . (Tell them . . .)

"I have a condo lined up at Padre Island, Texas for spring break. And let me take care of the bill."

THEN LISTEN TO KMKF 101.7 FM FOR-

Win a stay in a condo for four at Padre Island . . . and $101 cash provided by Sunchase Tours and KMKF!

PLUS-THE $1,017 COLD CASH GIVE AWAY

Listen to KMKF for the "Cold Cash" sound and contest details.

Two ways to WIN from Manhattan's Best . . .

PARSONS SCHOOL OF DESIGN

Special Summer Programs

FRANCE WEST AFRICA ITALY GREAT BRITAIN JAPAN NEW YORK

International programs are offered for students, teachers and working professionals. Courses include: archaeology; architectural history; art history; clay and textile design; decorative arts; drawing; fashion; graphic design; painting and photography. Undergraduate and graduate credits are available to qualified participants. For more information, please mail the coupon below or call the Parsons Office of Special Programs: (212) 741-8975.

Parsons School of Design, Office of Special Programs 66 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10011

Please send me a brochure on Parsons Special Summer Programs.

Name

26

Falsettos PIZZA

Monday 2-For-1's Buy Any M Pizza and Receive One of Equal Value

FREE 539-3830

1127 Moro Aggieville

Gov. Mike Hayden shakes hands with lawmakers Friday before delivering his first State of the State address at the Employees to compete in revised competition

By KRISTI BARANCIK Collegian Reporter

Nine finalists for the 1987 Classified Employees of the Year have been selected from the 60 employees nominated by University faculty and staff members last fall.

In its 10th year, the program has been revised to include winners from three categories of employment rather than selecting one overall winner, said Joe Younger, program director and manager of staff training and development.

"Previously, we selected one employee of the year, but now we recognize people from their skills area so they are competing with their peers," Younger said.

The three categories from which winners will be chosen are office clerical, technical and professional, and service and skilled crafts.

The three finalists selected in the office and clerical category are Dorothy Smith, Secretary III for the office of the vice president for educational services with 14 years of service; Ronda Bokelman, Office Assistant IV for the physical facilities planning office with nine years of service: and Phyllis Mentgen, office supervisor in the controller's office with 27 years of service.

Three finalists are also chosen from the technical and professional employee category: Shirley Olson, Administrative Officer II in the office of the dean of arts and sciences with 21 years of service; James Leiker, agricultural technician at the Hays Branch Experiment Station with 26 years of service; Tim Lindemuth, Informational Writer II in the office of University Relations with 9 years of service.

The third category includes three service and skilled crafts finalists: Donald Bruns, Specialist I in grounds maintenance with 21 years of service; Bernard Wells, Animal Caretaker III for the Department of Surgery and Medicine with 24 years of service; and Gladys Zimmer, custodial worker in maintenance and utilities at the Veterinary Medical Center with seven years of service.

The Classified Affairs Committee that selected the nine finalists will interview co-workers and colleagues of each nominee. The committee will use the interview information to select the three winners prior to the awards ceremony.

Faculty response to the program has been excellent, Younger said.

On March 25, University President Jon Wefald will announce the 1987 Classified Employees of the Year during an All-University ceremony in McCain Auditorium.

Staff/Gary Lytle · THE · FUNDRINKERY

> Comedy Invasion Every Monday at 9 p.m.

TONIGHT 9 p.m.

Dan Storts

Sponsored by:

Campbell's

Christine's — The Wedding Company

Crowell's Card and Party Shop

Highfield Cottage/The Palace

Kansas State Travel

Kistner's Flowers and Greenhouse

Kitchen's Plus

KQLA/Q104

Lady Finell Cosmetics and Color Analysis

University Photography

Vern's Donuts and Cakes

Woody's Ladies Shop

along with Susan Sparks 531 N. Manhattan

539-4321

Manhattan

Bridal Show

1987

Sunday, February 1

at Manhattan Holidome

doors open at 1:00 p.m.

2:00 p.m. Fashion Show

Christine's — The Wedding Co.

Woody's Ladies Shop

Free gifts

and drawings

539-9727

Kansas State University

Univ. of Calif.—Santa Barbara Actors From The

London Stage appearing for

Pinter This Evening Readings from Harold Pinter's plays Thurs., January 29 8 p.m.-Nichols Theatre

$5 General—$3 Student/Senior

5 Exciting Days The Tempest by William Shakespeare January 30 & Janury 31 8 p.m. McCain Auditorium $8 General—$4 Student/Senior

McCain 204

Denison 220

Eisenhower 15

Nichols Theatre

Eisenhower 226

Purple Masque,

East Stadium 103

Wareham Theatre

Purple Masque,

East Stadium 103

Union 212

Nichols 008

Free Public Events In addition to te PINTER THIS EVENING and THE TEMPEST performances, there are the following happenings with one or more actors.

11:30 Music and Dance in Elizabethan Theatre

11:30 Discussion, Pinter's THE DUMBWAITER 1:05 Comic Acting in THE TEMPEST SPECIAL EVENT!

"English Verse, American Verse." Sarah Berger and Bruce Alexander will be reading from the poetry of John Milton and from poems of students in Advanced Poetry Workshop of Jonathan Holden

9:30 Shakespeare's Characters, THE TEMPEST 1:30 Acting Styles

8:00 W.H. Auden's "The Sea and the Mirror," read by Trevor Baxter. Sponsored by the Manhattan Civic Theatre. Auden's poetic commentary on characters of The Tempest.

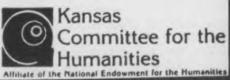

Nichols Theatre 10:30 "Jack and the Priest," the love and religious poetry of John

Donne, read by Bruce Alexander 11:30 Directing Shakespeare

SPECIAL EVENT! 'It Works: Minimalist Staging & Theatrical Magic in THE TEMPEST." Lecture by guest scholar Alan Dessen, University of North Carolina.

12:00 Problems in performing THE TEMPEST: "The Lovers." KCH Humanities Seminar with Sarah Berger, Tom Mannion and Trevor Baxter.

> For Tickets Call 539-6398 Ion.-Fri. 12-5 p.m.

"If you'll look at what revenues By JUDY LUNDSTROM are available in the state of Kansas, I Collegian Reporter think that overall the recommenda-Recommendations made by Gov. tions represent a major step forward," he said. Mike Hayden in his first State of the Because "there isn't that much State address Friday in Topeka are a "major step forward" for K-State, money the governor has to work with," Wefald said Hayden "made University President Jon Wefald the best of a very meager situation." said Sunday. The Board of Regents had recom-Hayden said his first priority is ensuring the state's finances are sound. mended an 8 percent increase in faculty salaries. Wefald said he To do that, he said, the state must hold off on his campaign promise of agreed the faculty need an 8 percent salary increase. restoring to Kansans the $140 million it may receive as a refund due to "We need 8 percent, there's no federal tax reform. As a result, Kancome taxes. While most programs on Hayden's budget received similar news of cuts or minimal budget increases, the six Kansas universities fared much bet-sans may be paying more state inter, Wefald said. One of Hayden's major recommendations affecting K-State was that of restoring the $3.06 million to the base budget, Wefald said. The $3.06 million was K-State's share of the 3.8 percent state-agency budget cuts mandated by Hayden Nov. 19, 1986.

"We had to get that $3 million back," he said. "That was the number one thing we had to have."

Hayden also recommended that all unclassified employees at the six universities be eligible for 2.5 percent salary increases. Though some university presidents expressed disappointment at the size of the salary increases for faculty, Wefald

Kansans may see more taxes doubt about that," he said. "Our faculty, to remain competitive, need at least 8 percent this year and 8 percent next year."

That kind of money simply is not available, he said. If it was, Hayden and the key legislators would support 'hefty increases for faculty

Another of Hayden's education proposals would implement a financial aid program aimed at cutting back on the "brain drain" of the state's top scholars, an issue that became the focus of legislators last

The proposal would forgive up to $4,000 in loans for each year the recipient comes back to work in Kansas after graduating from a Regents

In 1985, there were 77 National Merit Scholars in Kansas. K-State has signed about 49 National Merit Scholars for $2,000 scholarships for the fall of 1987, Wefald said. Of those 49, 32 are "pretty well committed," which is twice the number of merit scholars as were here last fall.

"We all want to do everything we can to keep the best and brightest (students) here in Kansas," he said.

Another plus for K-State is Hayden's recommendation to change the enrollment corridor, which bases a university's budget on its enrollment from the previous two years, Wefald said.

If the enrollment corridor is not changed, K-State would lose more than $1 million on July 1, 1987, Wefald said, due to enrollment declines of two years ago. If the Legislature adopts Hayden's recommendation, K-State would lose only

See STATE, Page 12

"Around the World in 80 Days"

An All New Musical Revue

Thursday, January 29, 1987 8:00 p.m. Tickets and information (913) 532-6428 MasterCard/VISA accepted

ELIGIBILITY FOR CARE LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

Health fees are established upon the recommendation of the Student Senate with approval by the Board of Regents.

2. All students who are enrolled and attending classes during a regular semester or summer session who have paid health fees are eligible for care.

Those enrolled in Special Courses, for varying periods of time, who have made previous arrangements for health care coverage at Lafene are eligible for care. (Lists of these students must be furnished prior to being seen at Lafene.)

Only students, who have paid the health fee, may elect to have their spouse also covered at Lafene; however, they must pay the spouse fee within 10 days of the time their own health fees are paid. (Children cannot be seen.)

Emergency care, prior to referral, will be given anyone who comes in.

Students enrolled in 6 hours or less, electing not to pay the health fee during the Fall or Spring semesters, who wish to be seen, will be charged $20 for each office visit. This charge continues until the full health fee has been exceeded, then that student will be afforded the same privileges as the regular fee paying student for the remainder of that semester

Students who were enrolled in the Spring and pre-enrolled for the Fall semester but not attending summer school may pay $15 and be eligible for care during the summer. This fee may be paid within 30 days prior to summer registration and ends the day classes begin. A late fee of $20 will be accepted for the remainder of the summer.

Health fees are good until 12 o'clock the night the next semester

NOTE: In addition to the above mentioned fees, there are minimal charges for certain supplies and services and the charges are subject to change without prior notice.

Advertisement

State

EDITOR Jonie Trued MANAGING EDITOR NEWS EDITOR EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR CAMPUS EDITORS

PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR BUS./AGR./GOV'T. EDITOR Julie Reynolds FEATURES EDITOR

SPORTS EDITOR Tom Morris
ARTS/ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR Sarah Kessinge COPY EDITORS

Valerie Johnson STAFF WRITERS

Chris Doll Judy Goldberg Becky Howard Jennifer Lindse

SPORTS WRITERS Jennifer Chaulk Chase Clark Jeff Rapp David Wagner REVIEWERS

Judy Lundstrom Chad Sanborn

Ron Honig Scott Miller Patti Paxson Jean Teller CARTOONIST Richard Broadfoot PHOTOGRAPHERS Rob Squires Chris Stewart Brad Camp Jim Dietz John Thelander Julie Thompson Brad Fanshier Brett Hacker John LaBarge Jeff Tuttle Kevin Loeffler Jeff Weatherly

Kirk Caraway

EDITORIAL BOARD Susan Baird Scott Miller Andy Nelson Jim Dietz Patti Paxson Julie Reynolds Judy Goldberg Ron Honig Pat Hund Chris Stewart Teresa Temme

ADVERTISING MANAGER ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER

CAMPUS ACCOUNTS/TEARSHEET REP. SALES REPRESENTATIVES Kim Greenwood Bill Sherbert Barry Steffen Bill Todd Mark Holly ADV. GRAPHIC ARTISTS Greg Crawford

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35, semester, $20, summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Apartheid strips many of fundamental rights

Imagine, for a moment, that you are a student living in and attending school in South Africa. You are black. Your weekend activities include staying alive while protesting a national campaign of discrimination directed at you.

At school, you must either adhere to a dress code determined by white school officials, which does not allow T-shirts of any kind, or you must risk suspension from school possibly jail and certainly suspicion from authorities.

Your behavior is constantly evaluated for signs of defiance, and authority figures keep tabs on the friends you keep and their activities.

The system that allows these violations of your basic human rights is called apartheid - a word known worldwide which labels the injustice happening in South Africa. Yet after the first few stories about it appeared in newspapers and on television and the first action was taken on it by American legislators, there seems to have been an overwhelming surge of apathy.

After the first wave of rage at the injustice in South Africa, apartheid appears to have become just another political system - something happening in another country which is sad, but unstoppable. And in the word "apartheid," the injustice is lost because we can call the system a name far removed from the national campaign of discrimina-

By calling it apartheid, we can forget people are fighting against human indignity and a system of rule that says blacks are at the most second class citizens and often not believed to be worth consideration.

We had our own system of apartheid not long ago. We called it slavery. If we, as Americans, forget about the people suffering because of the apartheid system, we are betraying our heritage and ourselves. We must not forget to look behind the labels and we must not allow our compassion and rage to wither while others are denied rights we consider only right.

Veto of Water Act bill will hurt Reagan, U.S.

A showdown is brewing between the president and the new Congress, and the outcome could be an indicator of how the Reagan administration will fare its last two years with a Democratic-controlled Congress.

The issue in question is the Clean Water Act. This legislation would provide $20 billion over a number of years to help clean up the nation's water supply. Under the terms of this bill, Kansas would receive $21.91 million the first year.

This issue started last year when the old Congress unanimously passed the bill and sent it to the president for him to sign. President Reagan exercised a pocket veto by not signing it and allowing it to expire after Congress had adjourned for the session. Using the pocket veto also forced Congress to pass an entirely new bill.

This new bill, identical to the old one, was passed by both houses last week, with a vote of 93-6 in the Senate and 406-8 in the House. Reagan has threatened to veto this bill again, calling it a though, Congress will have a chance at a veto override, which Congressional leaders claim to obtain.

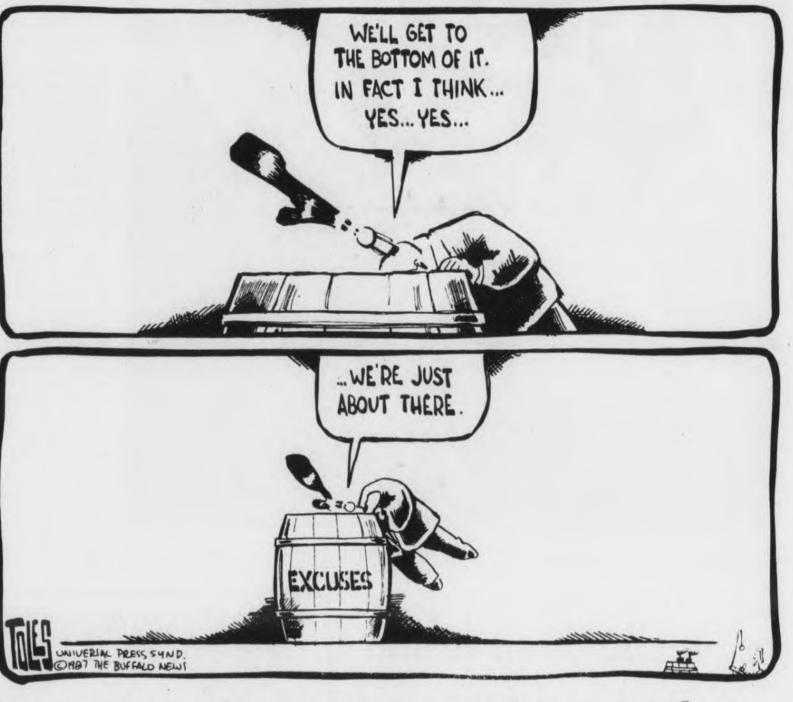

President Reagan hasn't given the bill the priority it deserves. It is imperative the bill is passed into law, and Congressmen obviously believe otherwise.

In fact, it is obvious that Congress thinks it's anything but a "budget-buster." Some people like to believe that clean water is more important than SDI or Contra aid. Human life cannot exist without clean water, and it arguably would be much better without Reagan's own "budgetbusters."

The president needs to think twice before vetoing this bill, for two reasons. First, he needs to fully comprehend the importance of the bill and consider the ramifications of it being rejected.

Second, he needs to fully comprehend the consequences of what a veto override would do to his effectiveness in office. If Congress puts him through the embarrassment of a veto override, his presidency will be damaged even further.

It is apparent the president no longer can push his policies off to "budget-buster." This time, a Congress willing to give carte blanche approval. His Teflon armor has sustained too many chinks, and now Reagan must have more than enough votes to fight on the same level as the rest of the legislators on Capitol Hill.

Iranscam may promote apathy

The recent Iranscam affair seems destined to determine the course of history much like the Watergate scandal affected the '70s. Many of these effects are contingent upon exactly who is involved and the degree of that involvement. The worst scenario is that the President was fully informed of the entire operation. A more palatable scenario is that Oliver North was a special operations genius and only the National Security Council needs to be scrutinized.

And yet the power of the Fifth Amendment is making the process of uncovering all the relevant information difficult. Protecting people's rights never was meant to be efficient, just effective. So while the justice system moves on with no deadline, the legislative branch is under the deadline of November 1988, the next presidential election. The outcome of those elections might very well be determined in large part by this one event.

Thus the scene is set, some might say, for the voters of this country to bury their heads in the sand of apathy. This prediction seems logical when you consider many voters still recall Watergate. Some historians believe Watergate was responsible for the end of student activism as it was known in the '60s. It had seemed many of these wounds were healed. Even student activism, though portrayed as more conservative, has started to re-emerge on college campuses. It appears this scandal could prompt political apathy once again. Can such an occurrence be

With all the proposed scenarios, it appears Ronald Reagan is in some part responsible for this entire incident. Whether intentional or through neglect, this incident occurred while he held the highest office. But, unless he is criminally involved, he will not have to answer to the public. However, his successor will have to prove he or she is above the manipulation or neglect that caused this situation. This successor should not be handed the prize by a small apathetic electorate. It will be the determination of Reagan's successor who could prevent a distrust of government and the ensuing apathy.

PATRICK MUIR Collegian

This optimism lies in the understanding that the Watergate Scandal and this Iranian Scandal are fundamentally different. Watergate was perceived as occurring because of professional politicians overstepping the bounds of the law. Therefore, the fast-thinking reactionary voters gave the people the least professional politician of our age, Jimmy Carter. The party that nominated Carter gave the people what they were asking for.

The Iranian Scandal is being perceived, in either of the scenarios, as Reagan and his chosen advisers not understanding foreign affairs. If they did break any laws, it was because their ignorance precipitated such arrogance. And therefore the electorate, if it examines the situation in its reactionary manner, will look for the next president to be not only a communicator but also a debater.

Such a candidate will need to prove during the course of the campaign that he or she does possess a complete understanding of not only foreign policy but also domestic and economic policy. It will not suffice to only know the best advisers. The press and the parties will be forced to allow such a forum if they realize the electorate demands it.

The media have a preoccupation with the candidates' style over the understanding of issues. In a study of the 1976 presidential election by J.R. McClellan, it was found "by a ratio of more than four to one, both print and broadcast media stressed the personality and campaign events over issue discussion." It should be noted that Watergate did magnify the desire of the public to know the personality of their next president. But the proportion of such news demonstrates the press's influence. By centering on personality it becomes apparent how "such choices become plausible.

The situation Reagan finds himself in today can force this country to do some massive rethinking. The electorate should not tolerate another Madison Avenue TelePrompTer addict. This scandal has already prompted such a realization. The "great communicator" is having a hard time getting the story to be believed. And George Bush, the party heir-apparent, is drastically slipping in the polls for the Republican nomination. The stage is set for the emergence of the Reagan antithesis in both

If the press has made our choices seem plausible in the past, then the Iran Scandal can make choices such as Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., and Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., plausible in 1988. Both types of men were too professional for the mood of 1976; Dole knows this all too well. And both men are almost too intelligent to be nominated under the perennial political climate. But Dole and Nunn are of the caliber to lead the United States after this crisis. Their Senate experience has proved they are fully prepared to deal with foreign, domestic and economic policy. One cannot imagine Dole would desire an Oliver North in his administration. At the same time, it is difficult to think of Nunn as being pacified by not being fully aware of what his operatives are doing in Iran.

This country believed Reagan and his patriotic theme was a good prescription after Carter. We watched with interest, not contempt, as he "communicated" through press conference after press conference. Reagan does have noble goals and he is a great communicator. But in the capacity as president, that is not enough. If we didn't realize it before now, we can before the next election.

So to those who feel discouraged as they watch this scandal unfold, remember there is a way to deal with it and it is not apathy. This next election has the potential for the electorate to position itself so that it can make a real choice between individuals of presidential and intellectual caliber.

Enough is enough

Since the Roe vs. Wade decision, a lot of opinions about the abortion issue have been generated. Well, I've done some thinking on it as well. I think abortion should be a federal law, not preventing but requiring it. Considering the population explosion being experienced in many impoverished nations, this law becomes quite reasonable. Why create children domestically when there are plenty worldwide to go around?

If every childless woman in this country were to adopt or sponsor a less fortunate child from one of these nations, we could wipe out world poverty altogether. OK, so you're offended by my demented opinions. Well, I'm sorry. I really don't mean it

I'm just very, very tired of the abortion issue. Members of both sides have been screaming at each other for 14 years. Since then, they have not been able to consolidate their ideas into a constructive solution.

In this day and age, the world is being faced with many more serious problems, such as war, terrorism, world starvation, dwindling resources and disease. When you think about the magnitude of these international problems, the abortion issue becomes quite trivial. Get your priorities straight!

My plea to the concerned students of K-State is this: Either work together and find a real and tangible solution to the problem, or drop it. Stop using the Collegian as a

Randy Crain senior in electrical engineering

'Yes' to salary cuts

Economic woe is a startling reality that the state of Kansas is being forced to face. As a whole, Kansas is looking at a huge cut of $60 million. As individuals, all Kansans are looking at cuts that will affect their lives.

Individual responsibility will be an important part of the struggle that Kansas has begun to restore economic stability. The 3.8 percent salary cuts for the presidents of the Regent-run state universities are such a responsible step.

The Collegian editorial of Jan. 20, "Kansas won't benefit by regent-imposed cut," would argue differently. It called the action "asinine," as if denying the troubles that exist in this state. Monies must be cut where it is feasible to do so. Is there an argument to be made that presidential salaries are not such a place? I don't believe so.

There is no doubt that the presidential cuts, which would save the state nearly $11,000, amount to little more than a symbolic gesture; indeed, they are .014 percent of the $60 million action of the state legislature. Yet does their size make them any less of a correct step? If the editorial board does not think the cuts amount to much, perhaps they would suggest larger

An increase of such "measly" (to use the editorial's description of the regents action) cuts would, perhaps, break the spirits and lower the morale of the university presidents. Consequently, they would quit their positions as chiefs of the educational foundations of Kansas because of pay cuts. Or, perhaps they would responsibly accept the individual measures, which thousands of other Kansans are similarly facing. For-response to the matter. Indeed, the reactions of people across this state will determine the condition in which Kansas will come out of its economic battle. The Collegian editorial speaks of the "brain drain" which is occurring in Kansas today. Many people, a majority of whom are college graduates, leave this state to pursue a career

tunately, the latter would seem to be the case, as indicated by President Wefald's

That is one's own decision, of course, but I believe that individuals who care about the state of Kansas would choose to remain here when given a choice. In such a time of despair as exists today, this state deserves even more so to have the talents and contributions of its people working for it. Tom Hoisington freshman in electrical engineering and mathematics

Senate dependent on students

Are you someone who wonders if Student Senate really does anything? Well, contrary to popular belief, it is more than a resume builder. Student Senate has addressed many issues that directly affect the student body, and it has had the foresight to approach issues of concern at K-State.

- Senate is currently examining the issue of the administrative charge to be levied on seven auxiliary and local fund agencies. Three of these are, for the most part, student-funded organizations: the Union, Lafene Student Health Center and Student Publications Inc. Because all students subsidize these groups, student leaders are concerned about the effect this charge will have on student fees in the future.

- During the spring semester, the Finance Committee spent a considerable amount of time allocating nearly $800,000 in student fees to campus groups.

Thursday, Senate will hear a report from the Athletic Fee Task Force. One recommendation will be to levy a support fee from students for scholarships to nonrevenue sports. If the athletic fee is passed in Senate, students will have the opportunity to vote on it during the Feb. 10-11 elections.

If you have an opinion or concern, or even want to know more about the details of any campus issue, call the Senate Hot Line (532-7777) and speak to one of your senators.

- The Hot Line is one of the tools that we hope will create better communication between students and Senate. Senate Communications Committee also utilized visitations, newsletters and SGA Week to make it as easy as possible for students to be aware of the issues.

To prevent another Aggieville disturbance, Senate worked with city and University officials to reach a workable solution for the future. Senate also wrote a letter to the editor which made its way into many Kansas newspapers, in an effort to clear the name of K-State students who took the brunt of the negative publicity.

- This Senate has also focused on recruitment efforts at the University. In the final weeks of this term, we will be sending a personal letter to almost 2,500 prospective high school students who indicated an interest in student government on the ACT. We feel this is a target audience that we could influence.

CANDY LEONARD Guest Columnist

Through the Student Affairs and Social Services Committee, we addressed the need for a crosswalk at the corner of Denison Avenue and College Heights Road. Brett Bromich's committee spent one day last fall doing its own count of pedestrians and vehicles. Their efforts prompted city officials to conduct a survey. Reports indicate that three of the nine qualifications for a crosswalk are met, and the crosswalk has been added to long-range capital improve-

Early in the term, Senate passed a resolution in opposition to the financial aid cuts in Gramm-Rudman-Hollings and forwarded it to our federal legislators. With the help of Associated Students of Kansas, our lobbying efforts have far-reaching effects in Washington and Topeka.

The Senate Operations Committee met its goal of modifying the SGA Constitution and By-laws, allowing Senate to operate more effectively.

Senate spent several weeks in review of the Representation Enhancement Referendum. Though it's difficult for any group to review itself, I personally wanted to see this examined further because of the long-term effects of better representation.

More than half of the senators sit on University committees outside of Senate, including the Council on Religion, Basketball Ticket Sales, Utilization of Long-term Parking, Convocations and search committees.

So, we as student senators do attempt to make a difference at K-State. Senate relations established with University and community leaders ensure cooperation and that students' opinions will be recognized.

It is vital that this tradition continues. And the only way is for interested students to serve on the next Student Senate. Tomorrow is the deadline to file for election. I urge you to pick up a filing form, available in the SGS office in the Union. It is simply a statement of your intention to run, and it should be turned in to the Dean of Student's office in Holton

Elections for Student Senate (49 seats), Student Body President and Board of Student Publications (4 positions) are Feb. 10-11.

As a senator, you are required to attend Senate meetings held Thursday nights at 7 (yes, you miss "The Cosby Show") in the Union Big Eight Room. Other responsibilities are working with a standing committee and serving one office hour each week. This allows for someone to always be available to walk-in students and to answer the SGA Hot Line.

So, this is your last chance. Not for fame and fortune - but to make a difference at this University, working for student's rights. Candy Leonard is a junior in home economics and mass communications and is chairwoman of the Senate Communications Committee.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters.

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Letters

Beginning of life

When does life begin? "The majority of our group could find no point in time between the union of sperm and egg, or at least the blastocyst stage, and the birth of the infant at which point we could say that this was not a human." From the first International Conference held in Washington, D.C., in October

The conference had gathered the most distinguished scientific meeting in recent years that considered this question. The group was composed of biochemists, professors of obstetrics and gynecology geneticists, etc.

This is my two cents on the topic of abortion which the Collegian has been printing. I think this is great that people get out in the open and talk on the issue and don't push it under the rug. People need to shed their feelings on the issue until it is settled and abortion is abolished.

The comments made by the Mark Houston proved how uninformed and how mislead he is. First of all, referring to the baby as an unwanted growth, like a tumor, cyst or wart, is a very immature statement. He has no proof that any of these growths biologically can become a human body at birth.

I've heard the fetus called a blob of flesh, a type of cancer. What's this? Does the woman have a cancer for nine months and it's gone all because she had intercourse? Ha!

Second, there is no proof that the fetus is not a human. Read up buddy, read the facts. Can a wart can feel pain, taste, suck its thumb and have a heartbeat eight weeks after conception? I didn't know a wart had a heartbeat. I'll remember not to use Compound W on my next wart.

Also, they can tell what sex a baby is with a sonogram. I also didn't know that a tumor had a sexual identity.

Third, women do have a right over their body but not over another human life! The courts have given them the right, without the babies' permission, to kill them off. Sort of like the Jews in Germany during World War

If we don't stand up to this, who will? And how many more future doctors, policemen, football stars and friends will be killed?

Matt Wasko sophomore in physical education

Great double irony

What a couple of great examples of irony we have been presented with in the past few weeks. First, we have the Manhattan City Commission, which met to discuss methods of promoting the city of Manhattan as a place that is ideal for businesses to locate, yet it was held in Kansas City. (Isn't Manhattan the proper place to hold such a meeting?)

Then, during the time when so many celebrations are being held in honor of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and his ideals, K-State sees fit to cancel not just one, but two English literature courses that were devoted to the study of literature by minority

While I can offer no explanation for the action taken by the Manhattan City Commission, K-State has financial problems as the reason for its action. It is understood that this monetary crisis is causing a great deal of strain on an already barebones budget, but there seems to be a loss of priorities in those individuals who make the decisions on which classes are to be cut.

It's a sorry commentary on the part of the school administration when upper level literature courses are cut and yet the system finds the money for classes such as bowling, volleyball, aerobics and other such classes. Apparently, these classes are considered to be more important to the overall development of the student.

Redgy Nail senior in education

No Pain, No Gain?!? Not with Chiropractic!

Regain your health without pain: call 537-8305 Dr Mark Hatesohl 3252 Kimball Ave.

Wichita Pramily Planning Inc.

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours. 3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

BREAK SPRING

This year you could be on

WAIKIKI BEACH HAWAII

(5 days/4 nights for 2 adults) May 1987 Graduates Qualify Weekly WINNERS will be announced in Monday's Collegian. For Entry Form CALL

537-8717

Mon.-Fri. 1-9 p.m. WINNERS

Paul Lammert

MDI

Tammy Verkler Shirley Buttinger

cbn

Clubs in the Arts & Sciences College interested in being allocated by Arts & Sciences council must attend a mandatory meeting.

> Monday, Jan. 26 7 p.m. Union Rm. 208

Congratulations Kappa New Initiates

Welcome to the Home of the Blue and Blue!

COMPANY PHOTO

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER! for processing your film through our laboratory

100 rolls of Kodak film 10 rolls processed Free 35 mm Weston WX7 Camera

> 3 day vacation for two Life time Membership

With Carrying Case

Call Now 776-1477 For information ONLY $3995

> plus postage on camera

Official says campuses test religious freedom

By CHAD L. SANBORN Staff Writer

Religious freedoms at state universities are constantly being tested, said Charles Reagan, assistant to the president, at a potluck dinner Sunday.

The dinner, sponsored by the KSU Committee on Religion, was held at the International Student Center and concluded a weeklong observance of the death of civil rights leader Martin Luther King Comprising representatives of various religions, including Christianity, Islam, Judaism and Baha'i, the committee works to maintain religious freedom on campus and to keep communication open between different religions, said Don Fallon, coordinator of religious activities.

The balance of religious freedoms on campus with the laws and requirements imposed on state institutions is constantly tested, Reagan said.

"But it is not easy to decide what is permissible and what is not," he

For example, Reagan said the University allows religious groups to meet in campus buildings, whether the meeting is a discussion or a worship service.

But there are limits on religious freedom. K-State does not allow door-to-door soliciting of religious material in the residence halls, he

In addition to speaking, Reagan answered questions about issues concerning religious freedoms on

One question raised dealt with a student's right to refuse to answer test questions contrary to his beliefs. Reagan said the question confused learning with believing. "You may think Freud's theories on sexual developement are off the wall. But the professor is not asking you if you believe them or not," he said. "He is only concerned as to whether or not you know them." Reagan said. "Furthermore, going to a university is a way of life, not just some place you go for a couple hours a day. It would be absurd to with the feeling of ownership about

K-State, the more our programs will be improved, the more our university will be enhanced, but most importantly, the more weight our degrees will hold in the business world," she said. "That is important to me and

I'm sure it is important to every stu-marketing, also filed for student

Brett Bromich, senior in Bromich, a member of Student

Senate for three years, said Student

Senate has been given the privilege of allocating money as a courtesy dent enrolled at Kansas State.'

body president on Friday.

eliminate the presence of various religious groups on campus."

However, Reagan said it is possible to bar from campus religious groups which take advantage of the University's "liberal rules."

The majority of these are cults, he said. A cult is defined by the processes by which the group recruits people and to what they subject

Even though the issues can become tense, Reagan said that isn't completely bad.

"To accomplish a balance between religion in the public sector and religion in the private sector, you have to have tension," he said. "If the balance is to be maintained, the tension can't be removed."

made into a contract so that the students have a permanent voice in how the money is allocated," he said.

he wants the contract to be made giving the Student Senate the legal right to allocate money. He would also like to see the individual college councils work together when allocating

Currently, each individual college council allocates money in different ways, and Bromich said he would Bromich said he would also like to like to see this made uniform.

As far as changes go, Bromich said

Search process begins for Stamey's successor

By The Collegian Staff

University Provost Owen Koeppe announced Thursday the 12 members who have been selected to the search committee that will find a new dean for the College of Arts and Sciences

The committee will choose a replacement for Dean William L. Stamey, who is retiring after 18 years at K-State.

Nine of the 12 members are from the College of Arts and Sciences. The remaining three members come from the dean's office, the graduate school and the Department of Agronomy.

A graduate student and an undergraduate student will be named to the committee early next week to fill two remaining positions. The committee will have its first meeting today at 3:30 p.m. The committee will be soliciting applications for the soon-to-bevacated position as soon as possible, Koeppe said.

"We hope we can complete the process by the end of the semester," Koeppe said.

Enjoy smooth, creamy

Frozen Yogurt

that tastes like Ice Cream

but with 80% less fat!

-- FREE SAMPLES--

Can't Believe It's

YOGURT

Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

Shrimp

Night

Every Monday 4-7 p.m.

Shrimp

$1 a dozen

2 dozen per drink order

75¢ draws

The

0

Michie, associate professor of political science and director of the South Asian Center; Wayne Nafziger, professor of economics; Carol Oukrop, head of the Department of Journalism and Mass Communications; Donald Setser, professor of chemistry; Robin Smith, professor of philosophy; Mary Ellen Sutton, associate professor of music; and Elizabeth Unger, professor of computer science.

The committee consists of the following members: Burton Kaufman, professor of history and committee chairman; Bettie Dale, academic adviser in the dean's office; George Ham, head of the agronomy department; Terry

Johnson, professor and director of the Division of Biology; Robert

Kruh, dean of the graduate school and associate provost; Aruna

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian

Classifieds

Be FREE

Laundry

Frement Laurdry, 304 Frement,

memdidl

a full somester (16 weeks).

and get your coupe

this semester!

We do it like

$90 40 value for

Brung on your bundre

Pick up your freshly laundered dethes 24 hours later!

STUDENTS ONLY

Race for student body president begins

By JULIE REYNOLDS Business/Government Editor and CHRIS HALL Collegian Reporter

The race has begun — two students filed for the position of student body president Friday.

Getting freshmen and off-campus students more involved in student government is one of the goals Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics, hopes to accomplish if she is elected student body president.

Benoit announced her candidacy for the office at a press conference at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Benoit, who is a student senator, said she believes the student body should get away from "the idea of just electing a person for the position and start thinking of it in terms of electing a set of ideas and philosophies that would be put into effect to best serve the University."

"As far as my ideas and philosophies are concerned, I think it is very important to get as many people as we possibly can involved with different campus activities - to get more students to really feel a part of the University," she said.

Developing a Freshman Student Council to get freshmen involved in student government and getting the Off-Campus Council active again are two ways she plans to accomplish

Benoit would also like to have a section in the Collegian once a week devoted to what is going on in student government.

The section would tell what the issues are and explain them. The article would be written by the student body president or Student Senate chairman.

If possible, Benoit would also like to have a half-hour program once a week on KSDB-FM to explain the issues. Students would be encouraged to call in with questions they might have. Restructuring the cabinet of the student body president is another thing Benoit would do if elected. She hopes to more fully utilize the people in these positions by appointing liaisons between herself and the administration, student government, the Manhattan community and other

"Through my interaction with a lot of students from a number of different living groups and colleges, I have seen the importance of getting everyone involved, for these are the individuals that will take on a feeling of ownership toward K-State.

"These are also the people that will stay enrolled at our university and they are also the ones that will promote K-State," Benoit said. "This is of great consequence when considering the fact that our university has lost more than $8 million during the past few years simply because of our declining enrollment.

"The more individuals we can get

 4¢ self-service copies •Full service copy center

Resume service

OPEN DAILY M-F 8-9 Sun.12-9 Sat. 9-5 776-3771

given by the University president. see the image of K-State as an "I would like to see this courtesy academic institute improved. LAFEMME (GYN/FAMILY PLANNING)

Available Services:

- Birth Control Information & Prescriptions
- *Pregnancy Counseling & Referrals
- *Pregnancy Testing
- *Routine Gynecological Exams
- *Self Breast Exam Instruction
- *Sexuality Information
- *Sexually Transmitted Disease Information (must come into clinic to make appointment)

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER "Your Medical Facility"

Auntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Monday HIGH ROLLERS

Any Call or Premium Drink only

$1.75

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Dr. Paul E. Bullock Optometrist Come in with brown eyes walk out with blue Now Available-Soft Contact Lenses-that let you change from brown to baby blue in a wink of an eye. •Our newly opened eyeglass department has a large selection of the latest style frames. •Eyeglasses warranted against breakage for one year.

·As always, we provide professional care and management of the contact lens patient.

 Most contact lenses available same day.

"See your Eyecare Professional Annually" Payment Plans Available 404 Humboldt Prof. Bldg. Manhattan, KS 776-9461 local

Toll Free 1-800-432-0036

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

Clinic and Hospital...... 532-6544 Mental Health..... 532-6550 532-6554 532-7758 Sportsmedicine Clinic 532-7880 Physical Therapy..... 532-7880 Health Education..... 532-7755 532-7755 532-7759

and Sign Up Party

Thursday 6:30 p.m. at Brother's FREE PIZZA!

K-State orchestra performs at gala

400 dancers enjoy big-band varieties at musical benefit

By The Collegian Staff

The K-State Union Ballroom was alive with music Friday as nearly 400 people donned formal attire for an evening of dancing with the Kansas State Orchestra.

Dance Gala II featured a wide variety of selections ranging from Strauss to contemporary rock.

Tables decorated with pine cone centerpieces and candles surrounded the dance floor. Streamers and banners encircled the ballroom, and the orchestra stand was decorated by a variety of greenery.

"The Dance Gala went terrific, it was a big success," said Adrian Bryttan, orchestra conductor. The performance emphasized a variety of music styles, including polkas and '50s tunes, in an effort to attract a crowd of all ages, he said.

"We tried to play something for everyone," Bryttan said. "People enjoy going to events with a big band sound.

This year the orchestra has broadened musical selections beyond the usual classical arrangements to include contemporary tunes and Frank Sinatra songs.

Sponsored by Golden Key National Honor Society, Dance Gala II is the only fund-raiser for the orchestra. Many previous orchestra performances were benefits or free public appearances.

Orchestra members include music and non-music majors, qualified high school musicians and members of the Manhattan community.

Staff/Brad Fanshier

And Much

Kathleen Adams and Jess Cunnick dance to the music of the Kansas State Orchestra Friday in the Union Ballroom.

The orchestra was recently asked to perform a concert to precede Gov.

Mike Hayden's inaugural ball. Bryttan said credit for the gala's success should go to the members who organized and put up most of the decorations, setting the event into 'The orchestra works hard to prepare for a different program the whole year, the credit goes to the students," he said.

We're A Full Line Brazier Dairy Queen now!!

Serving:

- Brazier Burgers Cheese Burgers
- Pork Fritters
- · Chili Dogs
- · BBQ Beef Hot dogs

Dairy

Manhattan

Chicken Breast Sandwich

12th & Moro

Aggieville, Manhattan

1015 N. 3rd

KANSAS CITY STAR & TIMES

STUDENT

Mail this coupon with payment to:

K.C. Star Student Publications Kedzie Hall 103 Manhattan, KS 66506 (913) 532-6555

Delivery will begin upon receipt of payment.

THE KANSAS CITY STAR AND TIMES

SEMESTER RATE

DM

TAX INCLUDED • EVENING • SUNDAY

MORNING

to full time students of this university or college. It is made only to areas where delivery is made by a carrier or agent of The Star.

I agree to subscribe to The Kansas City Star and Times for the full semester at the special rate of $20.80. This price includes consideration for nondelivery when classes are suspended for holidays, fall, winter, or spring breaks and other periods when service is not requested. The offer becomes effective the day of registration and expires the last day of finals. Delivery to begin upon receipt of

DATE: NAME: ZIP ADDRESS: PHONE: STUDENT I.D. # UNIVERSITY: SIGNED:

Travel provides fun, credit

By TIM STALEY Collegian Reporter

Students who traveled to England over Christmas break were able to receive class credit for a European vacation.

Although Dwayne Lively, sophomore in English, traveled to England for class credit, it was not his only reason.

"I'm getting the credit because it's available now, but it was a vacation, just a fun trip," Lively

Lively was one of 36 participants in "Topics in English: Literary Britain," a two-credit hour intersession class held in London from Dec. 27 to Jan. 11.

The class was offered through the Department of English and included some members from the Department of Art.

Ben Nyberg, associate professor of English and co-coordinator of the trip, said seven students took the class for English credit, while the remaining participants took the trip as a vacation.

Nyberg said the group followed a tight schedule, visiting several theaters, museums and famous British sites.

The group visited Westminster Abbey, the British Museum and the National Gallery. The students saw performances of "MacBeth" and "Les Miserables," which played to sold-out crowds at the National Theater in London. The casts included Vanessa Redgrave, Anthony Hopkins and Derek Jacobi, a famous British actor.

Nyberg described London as "the culturally rich center of Britain." He said he told the students to see everything they could see while they were in London, and sleep when they returned home.

London "really is the hub of things," said Ludwig Villasi, assistant professor of clothing textiles and interior design. "London is my favorite," Villasi said. "If I ever have a chance to retire or be independently wealthy where I live, it would be London." While the group spent most of its time in London, the trip also included a three-day excursion to Bath, a city about 21/2 hours from London. "I enjoyed the three days at Bath," Lively said.

"(Bath) had a different character to it. It was more of what you picture England as," he said.

Although the course was planned by Nyberg and Gary Clift, instructor in English, art students and Diane Dollar, instructor in art, accompanied the group on the trip.

Dollar said the three art students who went on the trip had already graduated and took the trip as a

She said the British museum in London has many antiques, and "that's a real source of art experience that you can't see anywhere else. Actually, all of the galleries have things you can't see any place else.

'I think (the students) really have the opportunity to see something they can't get in class," Dollar said. She said the students also had the chance to find out firsthand that what they were taught in school actually is true.

"You can read (about art) in the books, but it doesn't carry half the impact of being able to see the (original)," she said.

"You have to have a premiere artistic experience to really understand what art is and how significant art can be," she said. "The kids were impressed. They were delighted to have the opportunity to see this and know that nobody lied to them when they were in class."

If he goes back to England, Nyberg said, "I'll go to London first, because that's where the plane lands.'

Godfather's Pizza Coupon Specials

1118 Laramie In Aggieville by Mini-Mart 539-5303

Now's your chance to satisfy your pizza craving with great savings! Invite the gang over for a Giant 16" special pizza loaded with toppings. Or treat yourself to a delicious Hot Slice™. You'll love the taste, and the savings. But hurry, offer ends soon!

Hot Slice™only 99¢

with this coupon

Mon.-Fri. 11:30-1:30 Dine-in or Carryout only

Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit. Valid only at: 1118 Laramie

Offer expires 3/15/87.

Good for TWO Giant 16" special pizzas (The Super Pepperoni or The Four Topper) for only $14! Or, ONE for $9!

On Sunday, your choice: use this coupon or take advantage of our free drink offer. Sorry, can't do both! Not valid with Tapper or other promotional offers. Add $1 for delivery. Offer expires 3/15/87.

Valid only at: 1118 Laramie / 539-5303

Hot Slice only 99¢

with this coupon Dine-in or Carryout only

Mon.-Fri. 11:30-1:30

Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit. Valid only at: 1118 Laramie

Offer expires 3/15/87.

'Cats lose Big 8 game 'Sooner' than expected

By DAVE WAGNER Sports Writer

It seemed like no matter what the Wildcats tried to do Saturday, it just wasn't their day and a victory was not meant to be.

K-State was handed its first conference loss in a telltale Big Eight Conference matchup against the nationally ranked Oklahoma Sooners in Ahearn Field House

The Sooners, now 14-3 overall and 4-1 in conference play, downed the Wildcats, 13-4 and 3-1, 81-78 in a nailbiting contest.

"We had a rough time keeping them from scoring," said K-State head coach Lon Kruger. "McCalister answered every time he needed to...we were pretty much effective offensively as far as getting the shots that we wanted, (but) we got some tough rolls that didn't go down."

"It was an excellent ball game," said Oklahoma mentor Billy Tubbs. "We knew they had a good ball team coming in and that they could shoot the ball well, but we were just hoping to take them out of their bali game." And that they did.

Led by 6-foot-3 senior guard Tim Mc-Calister, Oklahoma's top scorer with 34 points, the Sooners controlled the tempo throughout the ball game. William Scott and Norris Coleman shared K-State's top scoring honors with 24 points each.

In the early going of the ball game, K-State found itself down by six points as the Sooners jumped out to an 8-2 lead with 18:15 left in the half. It wasn't until Scott, the Wildcats' outside shooting ace, received his wakeup call with 17:18 to go that the 'Cats were able to get back into the game.

It was the hot hand of Scott, who hit four of four from three-point range and finished the half with 20 points, that kept K-State alive.

It was Scott's three-point shot that tied the game at 16-16 with 12:27 left in the period. From then on, it was a seesaw battle as the half ended with the Sooners leading by three,

K-State's Coleman and Mitch Richmond were kept quiet in the half, with Coleman only scoring six points and Richmond four. Richmond also collected three fouls and spent much of the latter part of the first half on the bench.

"(Richmond and Coleman were) rushing just a touch...I think that we were a little sped up the first half," Kruger said.

The 'Cats came out flat in the second half, which allowed Oklahoma to build a 10-point lead midway through the period. K-State, which has been praised this season for being a team that fights off comebacks, suddenly found the tables turned as it fought to regain lost ground.

"We were looking up with 10 minutes left in the ball game and really wondering how we were still in it," Kruger said. "We really got outhustled and yet we were still there with a

It was two consecutive slam dunks by Coleman with a little more than five minutes left which got K-State and the capacity crowd of 11,220 back into the game.

Coleman's hook shot and Charles Bledsoe's bucket from underneath brought K-State to within one, 79-78, with 1:09 left to play.

It was to no avail, though, as Oklahoma collected two points from the charity stripe off a Mitch Richmond foul. This gave the 'Cats the ball with 16 seconds to play and nothing but the three-point shot on their Kruger's strategy was plain and simple. "We wanted to give Will a shot," Kruger said. "We picked for him twice and they switched on to him both times."

Staff/John Thelander

they scramble for a loose ball during the second half of the Big Eight Conference game Satur- sellout crowd.

University of Oklahoma forward David Johnson lands on top of K-State guard Steve Henson as day in Ahearn Field House. The 11th-ranked Sooners defeated the Wildcats 81-78 before a Oklahoma read the strategy well and followed Scott all the way. Scott, the secondbest three-point shooter in the nation, was able to get a shot off from beyond the 19-foot-9-inch stripe under heavy contention and off his heel, but it didn't fall.

OKLAHOMA	MIN	FG	FG-3	FT	R	F	TP
GRANT	37	6-12	0-0	0-0	8	2	12
KENNEDY	40	4-9	0-0	3-4	9	4	11
JOHNSON	37	3-12	0-0	7-8	9	4	. 11
GRACE	20	1-4	0-0	2-2	3	3	4
McCALISTER	40	12-22	2-7	8-8	5	1	34
Sieger	25	3-6	1-4	0-0	4	1	7
Watson	1	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	1	0
Totals		29-65	3-11	20-22	38	15	81
K-STATE	MIN	FG	FG-3	FT	R	F	TP
RICHMOND	21	5-15	0-6	3-4	2	5	13
COLEMAN	38	10-23	0-0	4-4	14	0	24
BLEDSOE	23	3-6	0-0	0-2	6	3	6
HENSON	36	3-6	0-0	0-2	6	3	6
SCOTT	36	9-12	4-6	2-2	3	3	24
Dobbins	18	3-6	0-1	0-0	3	0	6
Meyer	13	1-4	0-0	0-0	4	4	2
Simmons	11	0-1	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Nelson	4	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	0	. 0
Totals		32-71	5-15	9-12	35	18	78
-100	Malahama	90 W	Ctata	20

Halftime score: Oklahoma 36, K-State 3 Turnovers: Oklahoma 12, K-State 12 Field goal percentage: Oklahoma 44.6, K-State 45.1 Attendance: 11,220

Henson's disappointment after OU game proves losses are harder for competitors

By JENNY CHAULK Sports Writer

Saturday's game between K-State and Oklahoma had it all

Oklahoma, ranked pinth by United Press International and 11th by The Associated Press, took on the Big Eight Conferenceleading Wildcats in front of a capacity crowd at Ahearn Field House. And for those who were unable to purchase tickets, television coverage was provided by Raycom Sports Network.

The stage was definitely set for a great performance and a Wildcat win.

Instead, a last-second, three-point shot by Will Scott that would have tied the game bounced off the rim, and the 'Cats were handed their first conference loss in four outings, 81-78.

Perhaps no one was more disappointed from the loss than K-State guard Steve Henson. If "dejection" had an illustration besides its definition in the dictionary. Henson's face after the game would be

Henson played 36 minutes, dished out nine assists and made two steals. He came out of nowhere with 7:30 left in the first half to block Ricky Grace's layup attempt.

However, he scored only three points, six below his conference average of nine. Down by one with 18 seconds left in the game, he was charged with a turnover. Officials said Henson was the last to touch the ball which rolled out-of-bounds in front of Oklahoma's bench.

"I did hit the ball, but I'm not real sure if anyone hit it after me," Henson said.

Henson has become the Wildcats' quarterback on the court. Some might say it's a great accomplishment for a freshman from McPherson. Some might even say losing to a nationally ranked team with great individual players like Tim McCalister and Darryl Kennedy

See HENSON, Page 9

K-State leads Big Eight at 4-1

Lady Cats win overtime thriller against rival Kansas, 71-65

Staff/Chris Stewart

K-State guard Janet Madsen hugs forward Tracey Bleczinski following the Lady 'Cats 71-65 overtime victory over the Kansas Jayhawks. Bleczinski sank two free throws to send the game into overtime, where she scored five of her 16 points.

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER Sports Writer

K-State's women's basketball team has made a habit of falling behind early in its games this season. It's a habit that K-State head coach Matilda Mossman would like to

But the Lady Cats also have another habit that Coach Matilda Mossman finds a little easier to live with - their recent habit of Against cross-state rival Kansas Saturday in Ahearn Field House, the Lady Cats showed no signs of breaking their old habits as they fell behind early but managed to pull out a 71-65 overtime victory against the Lady Jayhawks.

Mossman said she would rather have her team be more in control of the game and not fall behind early, but as long as the Lady Cats continue to win, she is willing to make a little sacrifice.

"We've been doing it all year," Mossman said. "We seem to fall behind, and then are forced to battle back. But, hey, as long as we come out on top in the end, it really doesn't

The victory, K-State's ninth straight at home this year, moved the Lady Cats' record to 15-3 overall and 4-1 in Big Eight Conference play. Kansas fell below the .500 mark at 9-10 and is 2-3 in the conference.

As in most close basketball games, the final outcome was decided at the free-throw line. K-State sank its last 11 free throws, including seven in the overtime period. The Lady Cats shot 90 percent from the line for the game, hitting 25-of-28 attempts. Kansas was not quite as fortunate from the charity stripe, but that could have been due to its inability to get there. Kansas only converted three of its eight chances and was outscored by 22 points from the line.

"Earlier in the year, we couldn't make anything from the line," Mossman said.

"But it just shows you how hard our girls have been working."

It was all K-State in the overtime period as the Lady Cats outscored Kansas, 13-7. K-State jumped out fast in the extra stanza with four quick points on free throws from Susan Green and Tracey Bleczinski. Kansas managed to pull within one, 62-61, with 3:30 remaining, but Bleczinski was fouled as she hit a six-footer from the baseline. The 5-foot-8 sophomore canned the free throw to put K-State up by four, 65-61

Carlisa Thomas then hit teammate Sue Leiding underneath with a nifty pass, and Leiding hit the easy layup for the eventual winning points.

'We've been doing it all year. We seem to fall behind, and then are forced to battle back. But, hey, as long as we come out on top in the end, it really doesn't matter.'

Coach Matilda Mossman

K-State was forced to play catch-up the entire game. It outscored Kansas 8-2 in the last four minutes of regulation to tie the game. It was Bleczinski again from the line, as she canned both ends of a one-and-one situation with 19 seconds left in regulation to force the overtime period. After calling timeout with 13 seconds remaining, the Lady Jayhawks had one last chance to win the game in regulation play, but freshman Lisa Braddy, who had been Kansas' sparkplug most of the night, was unable to connect on her 16-foot jumper from the key. Kansas center Jackie Martin rebounded the miss, but was immediately tied up by Bleczinski with one second showing on

The possession arrow pointed toward K-State, and the Lady Cats were content on going into overtime as they held onto the ball after inbounding.

"I felt good going into the overtime," a worn-out Mossman said afterward. "We really had the momentum late in the game, and I think the girls really felt confident going into the overtime.'

Bleczinski led the Lady Cats with a gamehigh 16 points and also pulled down eight rebounds. Thomas added 15 points and also grabbed a team-high nine rebounds to move her into second place on the K-State career rebounding list. The 5-9 senior needs only three rebounds to break the all-time career rebounding record. Leiding also reached double figures in scoring for K-State with 10 points.

Kansas was led by Martin in both scoring and rebounding with 12 points and 13 re-

The Lady Cats lead the Big Eight Conference, with the Missouri, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Colorado tied for second

MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
39	6-11	0-3	13	4	12
24	3-8	0-0	2	4	6
22	4-9	0-1			8
27	4-8	0-0			8
32	3-10	3-4			9
14	2.5	0-0			4
24	3-7	0-0	7	2	6
32	6-14	0-0			12
11	0-2	0-0	0	0	11
	31-74	3-8	39	26	65
MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
42	6-12	3-3			15
38	4-10	8-9		2	16
41	4-5	2-2	5	2	10
31	2-8	5-6	2		9
33	3-7	2-2	4	2	8 2
3	1-1	0-0	0	1
1	0-00	0-0	0	0	0
23	2-3	2-2	1	2	6
13	1-3	3-4	0	1	5
	39 24 22 27 32 14 24 32 11 MIN 42 38 41 31 33 3 1 123	39 6-11 24 3-8 22 4-9 27 4-8 32 3-10 14 2-5 24 3-7 32 6-14 11 0-2 31-74 MIN FG 42 6-12 38 4-10 41 4-5 31 2-8 33 3-7 3 1-1 1 0-60 23 2-3	39 6-11 0-3 24 3-8 0-0 22 4-9 0-1 27 4-8 0-0 32 3-10 3-4 14 2-5 0-0 32 6-14 0-0 11 0-2 0-0 31-74 3-8 MIN FG FT 42 6-12 3-3 38 4-10 8-9 41 4-5 2-2 31 2-8 5-6 33 3-7 2-2 3 1-1 0-0 1 0-00 0-00 23 2-3 2-2	39 6-11 0-3 13 24 3-8 0-0 2 22 4-9 0-1 5 27 4-8 0-0 1 32 3-10 3-4 5 14 2-5 0-0 2 24 3-7 0-0 7 32 6-14 0-0 0 11 0-2 0-0 0 31-74 3-8 39 MIN FG FT R 42 6-12 3-3 9 38 4-10 8-9 8 41 4-5 2-2 3 3 3-7 2-2 4 3 1-1 0-0 0 1 0-00 0-0 0 23 2-3 2-2 1	39 6-11 0-3 13 4 24 3-8 0-0 2 4 22 4-9 0-1 5 5 27 4-8 0-0 1 5 32 3-10 3-4 5 3 14 2-5 0-0 2 1 24 3-7 0-0 7 2 32 6-14 0-0 0 2 11 0-2 0-0 0 0 31-74 3-8 39 26 MIN FG FT R 42 6-12 3-3 9 3 38 4-10 8-9 8 2 41 4-5 2-2 5 2 31 2-8 5-6 2 2 33 3-7 2-2 4 2 3 1-1 0-0 0 0 23 2-3 2-2 1 2

23-49 25-28 36 15 71 Halftime score: K-State 25, Kansas 30 Turnovers: K-State 29, Kansas 27 Field goal percentage: K-State 46.9, Kansas 41.9 Attendance: 2,850

Simms scores Bowl records, gives NY championship title

By The Associated Press

PASADENA, Calif. - The New York Giants vs. John Elway? How about the Denver Broncos vs. Phil Simms?

The Giants won their first NFL championship in 30 years Sunday, scoring 30 points in the second half to beat the Broncos 39-20 in their first Super Bowl.

The Giants' victory was earned primarily in two areas: the highly publicized defense and the underpublicized Simms, who ran a distant second to his blond Denver counterpart in the pre-game hype.

All Simms did was complete 22 of his 25 passes - a Super Bowl record 88 percent. He threw for 268 yards and three touchdowns to be named MVP of the game.

Simms also set a Super Bowl record with 10 consecutive completions during the third and fourth quarter, when the Giants turned a 10-9 halftime deficit into a 33-10 lead without allowing as much as a first down to Denver.

"Our offense had a lot to prove coming in to it," Simms said. "When I was warming up I told everyone, 'I've got it today.' I was throwing real well."

said they did what they do best - knock people's heads off - and they coasted to a 39-20 Super

"In the first half, we tried to read everything Elway and the Denver offense were trying to do," Taylor said. "We can't do that. We have to go out and be

New York did that for almost all of the second half and at one point outgained Denver 200-2 in Giants linebacker Harry Carson said the defense was very tentative in the first half, partly physical and run into people."

Bowl victory Sunday.

total yardage.

"I think that ought to dispel any myth about Phil Simms," Giants Coach Bill Parcells said of his quarterback, frequently booed during his eight years in New York. "He was absolutely magnificent today. That's as good as he has ever played."

New York's second-half surge started innocently enough.

Three plays netted 9 yards, and the Giants' punting team ran onto the field to punt from its own 46. Suddenly, the Giants shifted out of punt formation, and Jeff Rutledge, the second-string quarterback, came up behind center.

The ball was snapped and Rutledge snuck for 1 yard and a first down.

Six plays later, Simms hit tight end Mark Bavaro for 13 yards, the Giants led 16-10 and the rout was

"It was about two feet," Parcells said of the fourth-down play. "You know, you're trying to win the game. This is for the world championship. It's not for faint-hearted people. He's either going to go for it or take a delay. If it's not there, I'll take the delay. He looked over at me. I nodded my head to him, and he went for it.'

Denver Coach Dan Reeves lamented: "We just didn't have enough to make it interesting. They certainly are a great football team and they played a great game. In the first half, we should have scored about 10 more points

"We knew going into the game if we didn't take advantage of every opportunity, we'd be in tough shape," Reeves said. "The field position in the third quarter really killed us. We were backed up to our 15-yard line the first three times we touched the ball. We felt going in we couldn't get in a scoring contest with them."

Most of Simms' handiwork came after a first half in which Denver outplayed the Giants, who were favored by 10 points, going off with a 10-9 lead that easily could have been 20-7 or 20-9. Early in the second quarter, New York held Denver without a point after the Broncos had a first-and-goal from their 1 and Rich Karlis missed field goals from 23 and 34 yards for

So dominant was Elway in the second period that he accounted for 200 yards on his own - 187 passing and 13 rushing.

Oklahoma forward Darryl Kennedy goes up for a shot, but K-State center Ron Meyer gets a hand on the ball and a hand on Kennedy during the Sooners 81-78 win. Meyer was called for a foul on the play.

Tigers dump Buffs for win No. 1,000

By The Associated Press

Missouri's victory was the school's 1,000th win in 81 years. It was the 370th for Coach Norm Stewart.

"It has taken a lot of great players and a lot of support from people," Stewart said after the home court victory. "It's pleasing to be here this particular night and see it get done."

The Tigers, 3-1 and 13-7, used a press to force Colorado into 13 turnovers in the first half. Missouri defeated Colorado 77-56.

"It's the same old story," said Colorado Coach Tom Miller after the Buffaloes lost their 20th consecutive Big Eight game. "When we work hard and attack the press correctly, it doesn't affect us. When we hesitated, then it hurt us. We handle the press one time, but we don't the next and turn the ball over.'

Oklahoma State won its first Big Eight game for Coach Leonard Hamilton. The Cowboys are 1-3 and 5-12 while Iowa State fell to 2-2 and 10-7 after losing at home.

Danny Manning scored 30 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to carry Kansas past the Wolfpack. It was the eighth straight victory for the Jayhawks at Kansas City, the last one coming when they beat North Carolina State in the finals of the NCAA Midwest Regional last year.

'I was able to turn, square up and take what the defense gave me, especially in the first half," Manning said. "We wanted to come in here and play well, but we also wanted to have fun. This was out of conference, but it means a lot because it's on national television and everybody is watching you."

North Carolina State made just 28 percent of its shots.

"Danny Manning is a great player, but that was probably our worst performance since I've been at North Carolina State," said Wolfpack Coach Jim Valvano. "We just didn't play well in any phase of the game."

Manning scored 30 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to power unranked Kansas to a 74-60 victory over No. 20 North Carolina State in a non-conference game at Kemper shouldn't upset him too much. After all, he's got three years left in his collegiate basketball career. But Henson is a competitor. And to a competitor, losses are tough to

Henson

Continued from Page 8

"After a loss," Henson said, "it usually takes me a while to get ready to go again. I think I take losses a little bit harder than some of the other people. But I'm sure by tomorrow, I'll be ready to go and get ready for the next game.

Henson said he wasn't intimidated by playing against the likes of Mc-Calister, who moved into fifth place on the all-time Big Eight scoring chart Saturday with an output of 34

"I think we were all ready to play," Henson said. "We were fired up and ready to go. I was real ex-

McCalister and the Sooners, however, didn't want to let Henso get too pumped up for the game. "I don't like to get dogged by freshmen, so I had to put the pressure on him," McCalister said.

NFC champs to Bowl victory a lot of dumb things. I had a By The Associated Press The Giants lined up in punt forpenalty. Lawrence had an PASADENA, Calif. - For 30 unsportsmanlike penalty and we minutes, the New York Giants' put them in position to score. "We felt that in the first half, defense tried to finesse their way

Taylor, Giants' defense guides around John Elway and the we just didn't play Giants' defense. We shut down the run, Denver Broncos. but then let them get a couple of That ended in the second half long gains, and that's not our when the Giants did what linebacker Lawrence Taylor

Carson said there was no panic in the Giants locker room at halftime, but he said they knew they had to stop Denver's offense early in the third quarter.

"We felt we were a better ballclub and if we played 30 minutes of good football, we would be the world champions. We knew we had to get them three and out (punt)." The play itself was simple, a 2-yard quarterback sneak by second-string quarterback Jeff Rutledge early in the third quarter, but it gave the Giants the first down at their own 48-yard line that started the rout. out of concern for Elway. "Elway made a couple of big The Giants had taken the plays because we didn't contain second-half kickoff and were in a him," Carson said. "We also did fourth-and-1 situation at their 46, mation, but Rutledge was in the blocking back position, not Gary Reasons, who's usually deployed

The Giants shifted into a T-formation with Rutledge kneeling under center and punter Sean Landeta going in motion from his spot some 15 yards behind center Bart Oates.

As the 30-second clock came close to running out, Rutledge took the snap and plowed slightly to his right for the first down. "We thought we really had to go after them offensively, not play conservative," Parcells said. "It's a gut feeling. "We've been doing that same little punt deal all season. We've been practicing it for about 15 weeks. There are three or four things we do out of it. "Rutledge is really heady guy. If he thinks it's there, he's going to run it. If he doesn't, he's going to take the delay of game. He looked over at me and I nodded

my head."

NOW FEATURING

1102 LARAMIE AND 2706 ANDERSON OPEN 24 HRS.

PERFORMANCE GASOLINE CONTAINS NO ALCOHOL

Attention KSU Employees

FLEXIBILITY

With A Waddell & Reed Tax Sheltered Account

Ease of Investing: You can easily establish your Waddell & Reed TSA in two different ways:

- 1. You can establish automatic salary reductions with your employer which are added to your TSA each month, or
- 2. If you have another 403(b) Plan, you can conveniently transfer the assets to a Waddell & Reed TSA with no tax penalty.

Call today 537-4505

to see what your TSA could have earned with us last year

Bill Ballew, Ken Andrew, Don Harcum, Rene Radil, Barbara Heid, Fred Freeby, Elizabeth Verschelden

> 445 E Poyntz, Manhattan, Kansas 66502 (TOWN EAST SHOPPING CENTER)

MEET OUR NEW STAFF AT THE ANNUAL MEETING

Tuesday, Jan. 27 Room 206, K-State Union, 7 p.m.

Faculty, staff and retired members of the KSU Federal Credit Union are urged to attend the annual meeting. Come meet the new staff of Marla Mann, manager; Brenda Moffitt, assistant manager; and Greg Boynton, teller. Vote for colleagues who will be filling vacancies on the Board of Directors and the Credit Committee. A summary of the credit union's 1986 business and financial condition will be presented. Use this opportunity to voice suggestions for improvements and new services.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants

Wet weather prevents wheat planting

By STACEY NANNINGA Collegian Reporter

The wet weather of late fall and early winter last year has many farmers worrying about their wheat crop - not about the crop they have in the ground, but about the seeds that didn't get planted.

Jim Shroyer, extension agronomist, said the area hardest hit with this dilemma is the eastern third of the state, the worst being in southeast Kansas. Farmers in this area also had a hard time getting their wheat in the ground in the fall of 1985, he

The wheat producer can still plant winter wheat, but it needs a cold spell after germination to change from a vegetative stage into the reproductive stage for grain products, a process known as vernalizaShroyer said yields are going to be 40 to 60 percent lower if winter or spring wheat is planted now, and the farmer should be aware of this.

"A farmer who plants wheat now needs to realize that by maturing in the warm weather, the wheat is reduced in test weight and yield.

"K-State researchers have grown winter wheat and barley after planting in the last week of Febuary, but it resulted in lower yields," he said. 'The weather in spring will dictate yields when planting after Febuary

"Seeds take longer to germinate in the cold soil. They also need more time to head out because wheat is a cool-season plant and it will be maturing in warm weather," Shroyer said. "A plant that does not go through the vernalization process will not head out."

Before the grain is formed, the wheat heads must emerge and go through a flowering stage, known as the heading process, that allows grain production to occur.

"Planting late in the spring also increases the risk of leaf diseases, more greenbug attacks and lower test weights," Shroyer said. "It also requires higher seeding rates. "The spring of 1986 was ideal for such plantings and also for planting spring wheat. In some cases, farmers got yields of 25 to 30 bushels per acre, considered pretty good for the circumstances. Farmers must understand that wheat. He said it is not too late to plant spring oats and barley.

they do not have to plant winter

If a farmer is receiving deficiency payments from the government, Shroyer said he should contact the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office to see if he still needs to plant a wheat crop on his land to maintain the base acreage for the deficiency payment program.

Farmers receive deficiency payments to compensate for a market price that is lower than the government target price.

There is still some indecision as to what crops the farmer will be required to plant to maintain his base acreage, he said.

The ASCS office has a form that can be filled out by the farmer who didn't get a crop planted. The form is called a preventive planting request, and Shroyer said it will protect the base acres on the farm so the farmer can maintain his present level of deficiency payments.

brightest high school students in Kansas have attended universities outside of the state. The University's Scholarship Day program is an effort to reverse this > "Basically, it's a day to help stop the brain drain on the state of Kansas," said John Flemming, assistant director of admissions.

By The Collegian Staff

In past years, some of the

On Thursday, selected high school students will be awarded scholarship certificates from the Putnam, University, KSU Foundation or the new President's scholarship funds.

In addition to receiving scholarships, students will be able to interact with faculty members through activites such as a robotics demonstration by Donald Rathbone, dean of the College of Program tries to end Kansas 'brain drain' Engineering, and Brad Kramer, assistant professor in industrial engineering, Flemming said. Assuming the acceptance rate for the Putnam, University and Foundation scholarships is 60 percent, the total amount awarded would be $126,000, he said. An additional $5,500 from the President's scholarship fund will be awarded to the finalist of the National Merit Scholarship contest. Also, a semi-finalist is guaranteed to receive $2,000 from the fund, said Larry Viterna, director of student financial assistance.

"It's to show them that Kansas State University can offer them as good an education as anywhere else in the United States and that we can do it at a lower cost by providing them with the academic scholarship money to be able to afford a good education."

Student organization raises money for refugees

By KARI COMPTON Collegian Reporter

By selling Guatemalan handcrafts at the Arts and Crafts Festival last semester, Students in Solidarity with Central America raised more than $700 for Guatemalan refugees. The handcrafts were of Guatemalan design and included such items as blouses, handbags, belts and purses. A group of 20 Guatemalan refugees living in the Manna House of Prayer, a sanctuary founded by the Sisters of St. Joseph, made the handcrafts. Other Guatemalan refugees living in the United States and Mexico donated handcrafts to provide more income for those living at the sanctuary near Concordia, said Sister

Betty Suther of St. Isidore's Chapel. Refugees have been staying at the sanctuary for two to four years, with new refugees constantly arriving, she said.

Because the refugees are illegal aliens, they have been unable to sell their handcrafts for fear of being arrested and deported. Suther was contacted about the problem and requested SISCA's assistance, said Steve Milligan, graduate in chemical engineering and SISCA vice president.

In existence for about four years, the Manna House gives refuge to people illegally in the United States because of persecution in their homeland, Suther said.

Suther said government intervention into the sanctuary movement is always a concern.

"There is a lot of public opinion there (favoring the refugees in Concordia), and we feel that favors us,"

IN AGGIEVILLE USA

TONITE

$2.50 Pitchers

75¢ Draws

TOMORROW

"Quote Nite"

Win a Keg

Compliments of Southern Sun!

Applicants must be of age

The Manna House can support the refugees when they first arrive, Suther said, but once the refugees are settled, the staff encourages finding jobs or selling handcrafts. The refugees plan to use the $753 to pay for living expenses and them to become self-supporting by maintenance of the sanctuary, she

The main goals of SISCA are opposition to all government aid and involvement to Central American countries, and expressing this opposition to the community through educational programs and demonstrations, Milligan said.

* Complimentary Full Breakfast * Complimentary

Cocktail Hour * Indoor Jacuzzi

A fresh idea in lodging. 1-800-CLUB INN

TOPEKA - 10th at Wanamaker

WORK FOR YOURSELF

As a campus rep you'll be ponsible for placing edvertising sterials on bulletin boards and ing on marketing programs clients such as American Express, the Navy, CBS and pus recruiters. Part-time rork, choose your own hours. No sales. Many of our reps stay with us long after graduation. If you are self-motivated and a bit of an entrepreneur, call or write for 1-800-221-5942 (Central Time), merican Passage Network, 6211 W. Howard Street, Chicago, IL 60648.

WANTS

... AS A VOLUNTEER!

Volunteers make U-LearN the service run by students. for students. We're looking for dependable, energetic people who enjoy helping others. Just a few hours a week can give you the opportunity to meet new people and enhance your resume. You're just the person we need! Call 532-6442 or stop by Holton Hall, Room 02, today!

A personal invitation to get involved in a student government position!

Run for a student government position. Elections will be February 10 & 11. Filing forms may be picked up now in the SGS office, ground floor of the Union.

> Filing deadline is Jan. 27 at 5 p.m. in Holton Hall 102.

These positions are open:

Student Body President Student Senate: Education—3 Engineering-8 Agriculture—5 Human Ecology—3

Architecture & Design—2 Veterinary Medicine—1 Arts & Science-12 Graduate School-4 Business Administration—8

Any full time K-State student is eligible to run in the college in which he or she is enrolled.

Board of Student Publications-4

JAN.26-FEB.7 k-state union bookstore

with Campus Marketing

YOUR BEST DEAL TO FLORIDA

YOU DRIVE (TO THE PARTY)

135 (Four Per Room)

WE DRIVE (THE PARTY STARTS HERE)

$215 (Four Per Room)

INCLUDES:

- Round trip motor coach transportation to beautiful Daytona Beach (WE DRIVE Packages Only). We use nothing but modern highway coaches.
- Eight Florida days/seven endless nights at one of our exciting oceanfront hotels. located right on the Daytona Beach strip. Your hotel has a beautiful pool, sun deck, air conditioned rooms, color TV, and a nice long stretch of
- A full schedule of FREE pool deck parties every day.
- A full list of pre-arranged discounts to save you money in Daytona Beach.
- Travel representatives to insure a smooth trip and a
- Optional side excursions to Disney World, Epcot, deep sea fishing, party cruises, etc.
- All taxes and tips.

SPEND A WEEK - NOT A FORTUNE

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION AND SIGN UP

> Call Ron at 1-800-282-6221 (Campus Representative positions also available.)

Sponsored by Campus Marketing "EXPERIENCED PROFESSIONALS IN COLLEGE TOURS"

-Inn On The Beach

-Pagoda Motel

EARN $480 weekly-$60 per hundred

Good pay, Travel, Call for guide, cassel vice! (916) 944 4444 Ext. #58. (76-135)

taic. California 91310 (76-102)

stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed to company project stuffing envelopes and assem bling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed en velope to JBK Mailcompany, PO Box 25-52, Cas

AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer, Career

STUDENT RECEPTIONIST/Word Processor must be available to work especially Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings, approximately 20 hours per week starting immediately Ideal job for student with strong interest in computer field. Students with employment potential of two years and experience with microcomputer application packages will be given preference. Ranking factors such as GPA, paid work experience, acquaintance with microscopic parts of the property of the property

crocomputers, and longevity potential will be con

Room A21, Anderson Hall, Applications will be ac cepted until Monday, January 26, 5 p.m. (82 84)

PART-TIME TO full-time bookkeeper/accountant for

HORTICULTURE STUDENT needed. Part-time plant clerk, 12-15 hours/week. Must be available to work Mondays a.m. Apply at Safeway Store. Village

THE KANSAS Cooperative Extension Service has an opening for student computer programmers. The position is for 20 hours per week, flexible sched-ule. Applicants should be familiar with one of the tollowing languages: Pascal, C. or PL/I. Summer employment is a possibility depending on performance. For more information contact Dr. Steve Welch or Mary Knapp at 211 Umberger, phone: 532-

7019. Application blanks are available from the above individuals or in the Computer Science Office and will be taken during business hours through February 6, 1987 (83-92)

NEED EXTRA cash? Earn $100's weekly at home

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT at Camp Lincoln/Gamp

Lake Hubert — Minnesota resident summer camps. A strong commitment to working with children required, along with activity skills and feaching experience. Specific job information and applications are available at Career Placement Office—Holtz Hall Sign up, in advance, for personal interviews to be held on campus, Tuesday February 3rd, and Wednesday. February 4th, 1987

LOST UNDER six inches of snow. Two keys attached to a wooden teddy bear key ring between Farrell and King. Please call 539-2059 after 6, if found.

JANUARY 16 N E parking lot-a set of keys on a brass hook. If found, please call 532-6429. (84-85) LOST GOLD chain necklace with angel charm, if

NEED MONEY for college? Let us match you with scholarship and grant money for which you can qualify For more information write Student Finan-cial Aid Services, 1613 S.W. Chelsea Drive, Topeka

Courtesy Demonstration

by Appointment

9:30-5:30 Menday-Saturday

merle norman

ATTENTION SCALPERS. Need four KU-KSU basketball tickets for February 4. Company coming, 537 7087 (83-87)

TO CUTE blonde in royal blue coat entering Blue-you in the parking lot and again inside. We ex-changed smiles but would like to meet if available reply via personals. Dark haired guy in gray RX7 (84)

DENISE ANN - Happy Birthday This will be the best one yet Love Always - Mike and TC (84)

KAPPA KERRY- As a piedge you've been our favor ite one, but as an active, the best is yet to come! L. and L. Tracy & Tract. (84)

SHOTGUN SUSIE D.—I can't believe you're 22. No one would if they knew you'r For four years you've haunted KSU. Next year Aggle won't know what to do From partying prowling, deserted herds. Mariatt Hail hot tubs and sidewalks—you've had arough time. But I miglad you re a friend of mine

DEAR KAPPA's and Megan. Thanks for everything

LISA JANEL—I am so proud of you. May all of you Dreams Bloom like Daisies in the Son. Love. Mardi

KAPPA MARIAN. May all of your dreams bloom like daisies in the sun! Much love and congratulations

MALE ROOMMATE needed-Across street from

MALE ROOMMATES—across street from campus 1615 Anderson Three bedrooms, $105(month)

THREE MALES -- To share two-bedroom apartment negotiable, 776-3833 before 1 p.m. or after 6 p.m. (81-85) NON-SMOKER, OWN room, next to campus. Rent

WANTED. FEMALE roommate to share house. Own bedroom and bath $200 per month, includes utili-

ROOMMATE WANTED $110 and one-third utilities

MALE ROOMMATE-Iwo-bedroom, furnished. Mc

MALE ROOMMATE(S) wanted to share a six bedroom house Total expense about $160 per month. No deposit, available now, 776-9222 (83-87)

ROOMMATE TO share a two bedroom partially fur

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share new apartment

Own room. $155 per month plus utilities. 537-4347

MALE ROOMMATE across street from campus at 1230 Vattier. Ground floor, private room, washer

FEMALE ROOMMATE to share very nice two-

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in

EXPERIENCED TYPIST-$1 10/page Disc storage

TYPING/WORD processing. Data sheets, resumes letters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Burden, 539-1204, (80-89)

QUALITY TYPING for $1 per page. Contact John, 539-

MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processor, 1011

Juliette, 537-3314. Term papers, theses, disserta-letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537-ties. 776-3134. Michelle (84-85)

Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f)

9205. Dorinda. (78-88)

Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf)

tions. 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. (83-85)

bedroom apartment. Reasonable rent, low utili dryer, fireplace, $135/month, plus utilities, 776-nished apartment. Close to campus with air cond tioning, rent and utilities, $150. Call 539-7253 (83-

Own washer/dryer. Spacious, lots of storage 776

Cain Lane Fireplace Call 539-1157 after 8 p.m (82)

campus $135/month plus utilities 776-9369 176-

17

18

Happy Birthday. - RAS (84)

The Naked Carpetlavet (64)

ROOMMATE WANTED

one-third utilities 776-0827 (81-85)

work - 776-2340 after 4 p m (83-86)

ties. Phone 776-7541 (82-84)

6739. (82-84)

9369 (84-93)

SERVICES

Land L. Patty (84)

found, please call Debi at 537-1570 (84-88)

Free details! Rush self-addressed stamped enve

ope: Sterling Enterprises, Box 1514-C. Manhattan

Wednesday, January 28 (82-84)

Plaza. (82-84)

KS 66502 (83-87)

LOST

Thanks!! (83-84)

KS 66604 (82-91)

308 Poyntz

PERSONAL

complete set of records Computer skills helpful

Send or deliver resume with references to LERN 1554 Hayes Drive. Manhattan, KS 66502. Deadline

Submit applications to Debra Hyde in Teams participate in judging

By STACEY CAMPBELL Collegian Reporter

While many K-State students spent Christmas break skiing, working or catching up on sleep missed during the fall semester, students participating on the animal science judging teams were preparing for the 1987 National Western Intercollegiate Judging Contest in Three K-State judging teams livestock, meats and wool - participated in the contests.

"We had an extremely tough contest," said David Nichols, assistant professor of animal sciences and industry and livestock judging team coach. "We placed sixth out of 28 teams, but I know we can do better."

"We judged 12 classes of livestock and gave eight sets of (oral) reasons," said Matt Wineinger, junior in animal sciences and industry. "There were three classes of hogs, four classes of sheep and five classes of cattle."

Oral reasons are given to a panel of judges and are the individual student's reasons for placing the class the way they did.

The livestock judging team's individual placings were: Wineinger, third in beef cattle; Lance Huck, junior in animal sciences and industry, eighth in sheep and sixth in reasons; Brad Krebs, junior in milling science and management, sixth

LIFE and Times

DERRICK? WHEN YOU SAID,

I'D ASSUMED WE WERE GOING TO TAKE A DRIVE.

UIEW DON'T

GET NO BETTER

LET'S CHECK OUT THE VIEW,

WE'RE AT A BAR!

in beef cattle and eighth in reasons. Dana Cecrle, junior in agriculture education, and Susan Reid, junior in radio-television, also participated in the National Western contest. Alan Johnson, junior in animal sciences and industry, and Howard Woodbury, junior in animal sciences and industry, were alternates for the con-

"Last fall, we (team members) took a class where we learned the basics of performance, judged classes of livestock and gave reasons," Wineinger said. "The stock show was a chance for us to apply the knowledge we learned in class."

The meats judging team, coached by Michael Dikeman, professor of animal sciences and industry, placed second in the overall competition at Denver.

"The National Western meats judging contest is the most difficult junior-level contest that I've experienced," Dikeman said.

The meats judging team placed first in reasons and specification cuts, third in beef grading and lamb judging, fourth in pork judging and fifth in beef judging, he said.

Individual results and members were: Daryl Yarrow, junior in agriculture education, high individual overall, high individual in reasons, second in lamb and beef judging, and fifth in beef grading; Deborah Lyons, sophomore in

WELL, FIRST OF ALL, I DON'T DRINK MUCH, AND SECONDLY I'M NOT OLD

ENOUGH TO GET IN.

NO PROB'

high individual overall and fifth in specification cuts; Mark Frisbie, sophomore in animal sciences and industry, ninth high individual overall, third in lamb judging and fourth in specification cuts; and George Lorette, sophomore in animal sciences and industry, first in specification cuts.

Alternate team members who attended the contest were: Michael Dinkel, senior in animal sciences and industry; Kim O'Brien, sophomore in general agriculture; Melanie Mainquist, freshman in animal sciences and industry; and Lana Hammer, junior in agricultural economics.

"It was a challenging contest because it was our first," Yarrow said. "But we had intensive preparation during intersession."

Clifford Spaeth, associate professor in animal sciences and industry, coached the wool judging to a third-place finish at the National Western judging contest.

"We were the most consistent team as far as scoring goes," Spaeth said. "We missed first place by only eight points."

The wool team members graded 15 fleeces, evaluating each fleece on six components which reflect the commercial value of the wool, Spaeth

SACKSON?

ISN'T EVEN

by Doug & Dick

MY PARENTS

HAD A LOUSY

assifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad. ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-118)

ASK ME about Mary Kay! Janet Milliken, 539-9469.

Buyella

Correctable typewriters for rent on a daily, weekly or monthly basis. See us for all your typing needs. 776-9469

511 Leavenworth, across from post office

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski destinations. South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauder-dale, Mustang Island/Port Aransas, Galveston Is-land and Fort Walton Beach, Call Sunchase Tours Central Spring Break Toll Free Hot Line today for information and reservations - 1-800-321-59111

THE COMPETITION has arrived! Now available on campus—Avon Beauty Products. Contact Kara, 532-3291. (83-87)

VALENTINE'S DAY is approaching! Order your gifts from Avon today. Contact Kara, 532-3291. (83-84)

Ski the Summit over Spring Break

4 days of skiing March 17-22 $245 per person includes transportation. 3 nights lodging and lift passes.

For more information call Mary Blogin at 539-8300

Platte Travel Center, Kansas City, MO

PEOPLE'S GROCERY Co-op, 811 Colorado, is open to everyone Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m. -5 p.m. 539-4811 (83-87)

ALOHA-CHECK display ad in this issue for free Waikiki stay. Seniors only (84)

ATTENTION

TO GIVE AWAY: FREE MONEY The $1,017 Cold Cash Giveaway

Listen to KMKF 101.7 FM

CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry. Need 100 over weight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drugs, no ex ercise, 100% guaranteed. Call 776-5114 or 776-

The first step to professionalism is to become a professional and the first step to becoming a professional is

Alpha Kappa Psi Professional Business Fraternity

Informational Pledge/ Active Smoker

> TONIGHT 8:30 p.m.

Charlie's Neighborhood Bar Juniors & Seniors Majoring

In Business & Economics

NEPFX

Eugene Sheffer

HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT distributor. See us for products. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

FOR RENT-MISC RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and non-

SUMMER IN Europe $299. Lowest Scheduled Fares

to all of Europe from St. Louis. Call (314) 727-8888

correcting. Typewriter ribbons for sale. available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413 (27tf)

FOR RENT-APTS

beds. 537-9686. (82-86)

TWO BEDROOM luxury duplex: Fireplace, garage west of campus. $450. Call 539-4294 or 776-2536

NICE ONE-bedroom apartment. Water, trash, two-thirds gas paid, laundry facility. Nice for graduate student or couple. $260/month. 539-2482 after 4 p.m. (76-86)

FREE RENT in January. Large two-bedroom, n decorated, dishwasher, disposal. No pets. $350, deposit required. 539-1465. (76-88) ONE-BEDROOM, two-bedroom apartments, furnished or unfurnished, (new furniture). Westloop area. Call 776-9124. (78tf) TWO BLOCKS west of campus. Quiet, well maintained one-bedroom apartment for mature, non-smoking individual. $216. Lease. No pets, water

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS Leasing for June

•Studio, 1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments

and Townhouses Close to campus

NEAR CAMPUS at nice, quiet location—two-bedroom duplex, available February 1, $270. Call

539-4447

537-0152 (77-88) TWO-BEDROOM luxury apartment, block from cam

pus. Also, five-bedroom house, block and one-half from campus, 539-4363. (77-86) ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month. Gas, heat and water included. Lease and deposit required

Call 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (78-88) TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, gara west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294. (78tf)

LARGE TWO-bedroom, partially furnished basement apartment close to campus, 1411 Vista Lane. Own entrance, no pets, parking for two cars. Deposit plus rent, available now. Pay own electricity. Phone 235-3550, Topeka. (79-88)

LARGE, WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five blocks from campus. No pets $300 Call 776-0181 (79tf)

ONLY

Homestead Rental HAS ALL

YOUR RENTAL NEEDS

*Wide Selection

*Low Monthly Rates

*Instant Credit *Immediate Delivery

*No Deposit *Purchase Options

*Month to Month Lease

*No Hidden Costs *Home Owned

*Friendly Service

Furniture-TV-Appliances Homestead Rental

537-8774 2332 Sky-Vue Lane

NICELY-FURNISHED one-half block/campus, $260 bills paid. Furnished, two blocks/campus. $150 plus part utilities, (month to-month lease ok). Two bedroom, furnished, two blocks/campus. $250 Call 539-1349 (80-84)

ADJACENT TO campus, 1224 Bertrand Nice, twobedroom with garage, washer and dryer. We pay water, trash. Asking $350. Call 537-1745 or 537-

ONE BEDROOM, furnished apartment! bills paid. 537-7313 or 539-8401. One-half block from campus.

TWO BEDROOM apartment, partially furnished.

close to campus with air conditioning. Rent $255. Call 539-7253. (83-88)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294 FOR SALE-AUTO

1980 CHEVY Monza, power steering, power brakes. air, automatic transmission. Low miles, good con dition. Call evenings, 532-3661 (80-84)

1986 FORD F150 4 x 4, 351 V8 4B, supercab. Low mileage Best offer 539-7409 (81-91) 1977 GOLD Volkswagan van Excellent condition

$2,300. 238-8092 (82-85)

FOR SALE-MISC

EX-60 SILVER Reed typewriter Best offer 539-7409.

Hayes House of Music DOD Effects

30% Off 327 Poyntz

FOR SALE 40-gallon fish aquarium, comes fully equipped. For more information, call 776-7845. (81-

776-7983

KELSEY 12-channel mixer. $470; Mako bass guitar. $180; Kustom powr amp. $200; prices negotiable. 776-1925. (83-87) Bored with the United States?

Go International for Spring Break! MAZATLAN, MEXICO

Call Shawn at 776-9533 Informational Meeting

FOR $199.

Tonight 7 p.m. at Kite's Video tape to be shown TYPEWRITER; SEARS Commentator 1, erase ribbon good condition, $150, 539-9281, (84-86)

DRAFTING TABLE 42" long, white plastic laminate top, pencil stop. Regular price $129; bought for $99; yours for $90. Sorry, no personal checks. Less than one week old—over budget, must sell—extra sharp! John, 532-2082. (84-85)

WOMEN'S WEDDING band found by Ackert Hall. Call 776-2146 after 5 p.m. to identify (84-86) HELP WANTED

926-2020 or 816-444-2885. (76-85)

FOUND

READY FOR graduation? We compose/type re-sumes, data sheets and letters. Resume Service

PROFESSIONAL COUPLE in Kansas City, Missouri

5839 (81-90)

1211 Moro, Aggieville, 537 7294 (84-86) WANTED TO BUY 22

THREE JUDO gi's, sizes 3-4. Call 532-2251 (84-85)

seeking person to care for 15-month-old. Flat laundry and preparation of evening meal. Room, board, WANTED: JUDO gi suit. call 532-4802 ask for Ri salary, phone, T.V. Plaza location. Call collect, 816

Yesterday's answer 1-26 52 "Pea soup" 53 WWII area

11 French scrap baby 58 Bar 16 Billy legally 59 Self Williams 20 Ana's DOWN aunts 1 Hardwood 21 Coarse

22 Ferber or org. 3 Fled Millay 4 Bundling 23 It's also called 5 Turned inside out amole 27 Chart

6 Kindred 29 Father 7 Japanese 30 Leap or city 8 Edible fiscal 32 Chinese mushrooms wax 34 Famous 9 Bath need naval battle Solution time: 23 mins. 37 Wrinkle 39 Kind of grass 42

10 Sacred

image

Standish 44 Chum 45 London district

46 On -(equal to)

50 Tiny · socialist? 51 Anger

EKMRPF'N

1-26

KREXFKEMPHN

Today's Cryptoquip clue: K equals A

1. 11:36

By Jim Davis

36 Rice or bond

38 Through

40 Macaw

41 Pulpy

fruit 43 Sweet or

45 Italian

47 Ohio

sausage

college

48 WWII org.

shrubs,

54 - Solo, of Scarlatti

town

49 Trees,

etc.

"Star

Wars'

55 Slow, to follower

rossword

ACROSS

1 Swiss river

4 Straw broom

9 Lobster

12 Health

resort

13 Dispatch

the hole

feature

17 Reiner of 18 Goddess

of 21 Take

24 Letter

25 Hulla-

26 Jewel

31 Break

33 Ending

35 French

silk comedy

healing

19 Chemical offense

balloo

28 Pert and saucy suddenly for scan or van compound

before ba boat

15 Bicycle

14 - in eater's protector

56 Decay

57 Table

2 Psych.

CRYPTOQUIP PRJ

HXXJXJ Yesterday's Cryptoquip: UNUSUALLY GIFTED PROSPECTOR-TURNED-CRITIC STILL PANS FOR GOLD TODAY

GOT YOU ANID. 4

YOUR HEAD

Garfield

GRANOLA IS COMING ALONG.

SALIVATING

WE WERE WATCHING A

Jpponent

Continued from Page 1 brain-damaged people often are at the mercy of a legal system that favors the wealthy

'Oftentimes we're not executing innocent people," he conceded. "We're executing the poor SOBs."

He said supporters of a death penalty measure are not considering that they may someday be victims of the law for which they pushed. This is because many murders are committed in the heat of a fight or argument - a situation which Lucero said could face anyone at any time.

"The potential murderer in Kansas is not likely to be the person who drives down from Michigan and goes on a spree and murders four in Colby," he said.

Another reason against the adoption of the measure is the economic burden it will place on the state, which already is bending under the weight of budget cuts.

Lucero said it will cost $9 million to build the state's death row, $2 million for five or six new judges and $250,000 for legal defense. He said the defense estimate is a very conservative one.

"(Lawmakers) don't want the taxpayers to know what it will cost them," he said.

Although Gov. Mike Hayden is committed to the adoption of capital punishment, Lucero said Hayden will not be responsible for authorizing the killing of a convict.

"Mike Hayden will never sign a death warrant," he said. "It will be 10 years before we execute anybody, minimally."

Lucero said the way Kansans can defeat the measure is by writing to legislators and newspapers, although he said the press tends to be sensationalistic concerning capital punishment. "There seems to be more of a shaping of opinion by the news media than a reflection of news reports," he said.

Despite a majority of citizens and legislators who support the measure, Lucero said he is confident it will be

"We have an excellent chance of stopping this bill in the state senate."

He has played for junior highs, high schools and universities in Nebraska and Kansas, as well as for church groups and weddings. He is scheduled to play for the K-State international activities group in Benson is married, and he and his wife have two sons at home. The Spanish professor said he would like to retire in the near future and go out

Benson practices for a half hour to "My family actually gets tired of hearing me play, so I play in the on the road to perform.

an hour a day.

Election

Continued from Page 1

down from 38.2 four years ago. The projections showed the Greens with 8.2 percent of the vote, well up from the 5.6 they got in 1983. The increase is expected to greatly strengthen the party's hand in Parliament. A few independents picked up the remaining votes.

Kohl, speaking at his party's headquarters in Bonn, said the results for his Christian Democratic Union-Christian Social Union coalition were 'gloomy and marked a painful loss."

'It is certainly disappointing, but we will not let ourselves be discouraged," said Christian

Hayden also recommended a 5 percent increase in other operating expenses, including instructional equipment and library books, Wefald

Hayden's budget recommendations showed "incredible courage" to use the $140 million federal windfall to build up the reserve accounts for

"If he hadn't used that windfall,

the state, Wefald said.

Continued from Page 3

State

$350,000, he said.

Democratic chairman Heiner Geissler, also speaking at the party headquarters.

Among the biggest losers in the voting was Bavarian Governor Franz Josef Strauss, head of the Christian Social Union.

Projections showed the Christian Social Union lost some six percentage points of the vote in Bavaria, which would give the party its worst showing in the conservative state since 1953.

Kohl had been riding high in public opinion polls before Sunday's vote for parliament, buoyed by a healthy economy and an upbeat national

He blamed some of the lost votes on rainy, cold weather that kept tur-there would have been no recommendations of any kind for any of the universities," he said.

Hayden made it clear in his address that education would be his top priority, Wefald said, pointing out that other state agencies only received a 1 percent increase in their

"I think education is going to fare well under this administration," he said

Wefald said he was optimistic about the future. The adoption of Hayden's recommendations would be "a tremendous plus" for K-State, he said.

According to ARD, whose projections in the past have proven highly accurate, the business-oriented Free Democratic Party received a projected 9.0 percent of the vote, a full two percentage points increase over

Many experts had predicted the Greens, with their anti-NATO and pro-environment stances, would benefit greatly from two major environmental disasters last year: the nuclear power plant accident at Chernobyl in April in the Soviet Ukraine and the November spill of toxic chemicals into the Rhine river.

ARD projections showed the Greens with 8.2 percent of the vote, well up from the 5.6 percent they got in the 1983 voting. The increase is expected to greatly strengthen the party's hand in Parliament.

The Social Democrats gained slightly over their 1983 returns. ARD television's projected returns gave them 38.8 percent of the vote, a 0.6 percent increase

Kohl, 56, a conservative who appeals to strong family values, campaigned under the slogan "More of

Rau was hampered throughout the campaign by divisions between the left and right wings of his Social Democratic party.

Rau, also 56, failed to stimulate voters with his calls for a gradual end to nuclear power plants and the removal of U.S.-built nuclear missiles throughout Europe.

Benson

Continued from Page 1

Benson often uses a map to point out the countries as he plays music from the respective areas. He also demonstrates a country's origin by playing music with influences from Africa or from the Andes Mountains.

While in Hastings, Benson was familiar with a classical guitarist in residence who taught him more about the techniques of playing classical guitar.

When playing classical guitar music, as opposed to American folk music, Benson plays with his fingers rather than a pick.

"American folk music is much more straight forward," he said. "There is a greater variety of rhythms, for instance, in music from Latin America.'

Benson's interest in music is wide and varied. He plays flamenco, contemporary, rock and bluegrass

"There was also a time when I even played some Beach Boys music," he said.

There is no one kind of music that appeals to Benson, and he does not concentrate on one style for too long.

"I listen to Madonna's music one minute and to Indian music the next," he said. "I think those who only play or listen to one kind of music are shutting themselves out."

Besides playing for his Spanish classes, Benson has played for three of the styles classes in the music department. He performs about five concerts a year, and his performances contain music from various backgrounds.

COLLEGE of EDUCATION Student Council Elections

Feb. 10-11 in Bluemont lobby

Applications may be picked up in Bluemont 013 and are due Feb. 2.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

Robert Nieman, Boeing representative will speak on flight instrumentation

> Monday, Jan. 26 Durland 152 7 p.m.

Everyone welcome and refreshments provided!

Spring Break in the Sunny South!

South Padre Island

$169 room only $279 with transportation

Daytona Beach

$139 room only $219 with transportation

For more info call Rick McKenzie 776-7521

Ft. Lauderdale

$219 room only $319 with transportation

The Bus Stop Tours, Inc.

Play the game of the future at

BONKERS

Next Competition Tues. 27th 9 p.m.

Enter Your Team Now College Students Enter FREE!

TONIGHT—$2 PITCHERS

Call 537-9591

I.D. Required

*Pharmacy *Outpatient Clinic *Lafemme (GYN) Clinic

*Allergy Clinic

*Mental Health Clinic

*Laboratory

*Physical Therapy Department

*X-Ray Department

*Dietary Counseling

*In-patient Hospital

*Sports Medicine Clinic

*Wart Clinic

*Clinic Hours: 8-11:30 a.m. 1-4:30 p.m. *24 hour, 7 days a week health care services *Time-saving Appointment System

"WE CARE" about your health

Call 532-6544 for an appointment

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"Your Medical Facility"

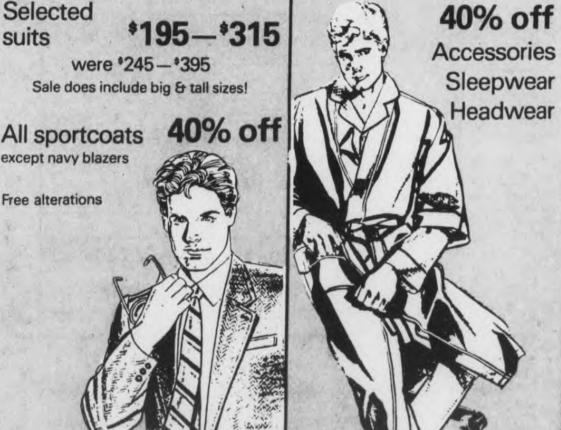

If You've Never Heard Of It, Ask Your Folks.

If They Won't Tell You About It, Then You Know It Must Be Great.

Purple Passion. Out of the bathtub, into the can, and onto the shelves of your favorite store. Discover it for yourself.

BORCK Brothers WINTER CLEARANCE SALE FURTHER REDUCTIONS

1100 Westloop Place 913-537-8636 Westloop Shopping Center

All Fall sportwear 40% off All outerwear
(Exclude Trench Coats)

50% off 40% off Fall slacks

Mon thru Sat 9:30-5:30 Thurs 9:30-8:30

Mostly Sunny

Mostly sunny today, high 40 to 45. Winds westerly to northwesterly 5 to 15 mph. Fair tonight and Wednesday, low mid-20s.

Inside

Committed

Three K-State students have developed a program for high school students which emphasizes self-confidence and its relationship to student organizations. See Page

Topeka, KS

Record Breaker?

casters respect experience - DAGI G6614

164 5/1/87  7 Kansas State Historical Soc

Lady Cats forward Carlisa Thomas is three rebounds away from breaking the K-State record. See Page 6.

Kansas

Tuesday

January 27, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 85

Reagan breaks silence, answers questions on arms scandal

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan, silent for weeks on the Iran arms sale scandal, answered "all questions" Monday from an investigative committee about authorizing secret weapon shipments to Tehran, the White House said.

Reagan met for 76 minutes with the three-member committee he named Nov. 26 to probe the actions of the National Security Council staff following disclosure that profits from secret arms sales to Iran were diverted to Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

It was the first time Reagan had discussed the Iran initiative with any outside group.

"In the course of the meeting the president answered all of the panel's questions," a White House statement said. "The wide-ranging review included the development of policy in relation to Iran, the factual history of the president's role in the Iran initiative and the U.S. foreign policy process in general."

The statement said the group, known formally as the Special Review Board, will meet again with Reagan at his invitation.

It was not known whether the president cleared up confusion resulting from contradictory statements by current and former White House aides about when he first authorized arms shipments to

Robert C. McFarlane, Reagan's former national security adviser, has told Congress that the president had given prior approval for the first Israeli shipment of U.S. arms to Iran in August 1985.

However, White House chief of staff Donald T. Regan has said Reagan did not approve the shipment in advance, and Attorney General Edwin Meese III said the president approved it only when he learned of it after the fact.

At the Capitol, meanwhile, Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said there was a link between the latest kidnappings in Lebanon and Reagan's arms sales with Iran.

"When the administration engaged in exchanging weapons for hostages it started down a very slippery slope indeed, because it showed if people took hostages they might get something beneficial to them for doing that," Pell said.

Reagan has denied that the arms sent to Iran were part of a swap for Americans held hostage in Lebanon. Instead, he has argued that the shipments were intended to help reopen contacts with a strategically important nation and that release of hostages was only a secondary goal.

Reagan has made no public mention of the Iran-Contra affair since before Christmas and has not answered any questions since a Nov. 19 news conference.

The three-member review board, headed by former Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, did not make a verbatim record of the president's testimony, on grounds that would be beneath the dignity of the office.

Board spokesman Herbert Hetu said the group's report, due Feb. 19, probably would not contain details of Reagan's comments.

Klansmen

fling rocks

at Stephan

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Kansas Attorney

General Robert T. Stephan said Monday he has never seen the kind of hatred he saw on the faces of some people in Cumming, Ga., where he participated Saturday in a

"brotherhood march" protesting the

"I wasn't prepared for what happened," Stephan told his staff and reporters during a briefing in the

"I nave never seen the face of hate as I saw that day. It was unbelieveable. The black people who are the real targets have to face that when the situation nearly turned ugly in late afternoon Saturday as some 20,000 demonstrators marched into

Cumming and were met by obscenity-shouting Ku Klux

"It was frightening," Stephan said. "I can tell you I was scared because I didn't know what was going to happen next. At that point, it was hard for me to believe I was still in this wonderful United States of Stephan was struck on the right shoulder blade by a rock about the size of a large hen egg. He said he assumed it was hurled by someone from behind the Forsythe County

Courthouse while the crowd of white and black demonstrators gathered

Stephan said, because he was wearing a padded jacket which absorbed

However, Stephan said he became concerned enough about the rock throwing that he placed his gloves inside a stocking cap he took with him and put the gloves and cap on his somebody's throat," Stephan said.

However, the marchers had been cautioned against letting anything

"It was hard not to respond to peo-

Stephan said he didn't hear of any

See STEPHAN, Page 8

other elected public officials atten-ple like that," Stephan said, "but I provoke them to violence.

did what the leaders told us."

"What I wanted to do with it (the rock) was take it and cram it down on the front side of the courthouse. The rock didn't hurt much,

Klansmen and their sympathizers.

Stephan admitted to being afraid

Kansas Judicial Center.

all the time.

America."

the blow.

head to protect it.

ding the march.

all-white status of Forsythe County.

Gunmen seize more hostages

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Gunmen kidnapped two men believed to be foreigners from a store in Moslem west Beirut, dragged them by their hair to a getaway car and sped off. A store employee said the victims spoke broken English and might be

Most universities and high schools in the Lebanese capital staged a oneday strike to protest the abduction of three Americans and one Indian from Beirut University College on Saturday by gunmen disguised as Saturday's abductions raised to 23 the number of foreigners missing after being kidnapped in Lebanon, including eight seized since Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite arrived in Beirut on Jan. 12 to seek the release of hostages.

Waite remained out of sight for a seventh straight day Monday, the longest he has been underground in five trips to Lebanon. He was thought to be negotiating for the release of two American hostages held since

The Reagan administration, in a statement read by White House spokesman Larry Speakes in Washington, condemned the latest wave of kidnappings as a declaration of war against civilization, but told Americans to get out of Lebanon, warning "there's a limit to what our government can do" for them.

Police said four gunmen grabbed two men from an office equipment store in the Sanayeh residential district at 11:30 a.m Monday. Police said they believed the victims were foreigners but did not identify them

A Lebanese woman who works at the store said she thought the victims were Polish although she did not know their names.

"They are familiar to me," she said. "They used to pass by us to photocopy documents. They always spoke broken English."

"I knew them for a while as Poles. I cannot recall exactly why but assume they were first introduced to me as Poles," said the woman, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

She said she saw four gunmen in civilian clothes drive up to the shop, and two of them entered the store. "Each of them grabbed one of the foreigners by the hair and dragged them out, bundled them into the Mercedes and sped away."

The abduction was so quick that two policemen guarding a Western news agency office next door did not notice, she said.

The employee and a second witness said one victim was blond with blue eyes and the other had dark hair. Both victims seemed to be in their early 20s

About 1,000 Beirut University College students demonstrated outside

See HOSTAGES, Page 8

Committee accepts fee for non-revenue sports

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Collegian Reporter

The $6-a-semester athletic fee proposal went through Senate Operations Committee with little discussion as three Athletic Fee Task Force members answered committee questions Monday night in the

The Senate Operations Committee makes grammatical recommendations and corrections to legislation prior to its introduction onto Senate floor.

First readings of the "Non-Revenue Sports Scholarship Referendum Proposal" begin at the Student Senate meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Big Eight Conference Room of the Union.

Before discussing the athletic fee proposal, the committee approved wording of a bill that would regulate the athletic fee under Senate by-laws if the fee is assessed.

The bill, sponsored by Task Force Chairman Doug Folk, junior in electrical engineering, and Kirk Caraway, senior in philosophy, requires a two-thirds Senate vote to create or change any fee under Senate jurisdiction. Senate laws currently cover only the student activity

The bill was written to protect students from any "reactionary fee legislation," Folk said.

"We want to get this in before the athletic fee comes up," Caraway said. "This will keep a little bit of stability in the system. We don't want, all of a sudden, to be hit with an increase."

"It's pretty much a clarification," Folk said. "Probably, that's what (Senate) wanted to say in the first

The athletic fee proposal, which is still unsponsored, states the greatest benefit to the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics would be the ability to offer to K-State athletes the total amount of non-revenue sports scholarships allowed by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Athletic department ministrators have agreed to maintain the allowed amount of scholarships for non-revenue sports while the fee is in effect, the bill states.

The proposed amount of the fee was derived from 40 percent of the cost of the allowed 89 scholarships calculated at an out-of-state tuition rate of $5,440 a year.

Monies generated from an athletic fee would be placed in a restricted account, then channeled directly to the Financial Aid Office to be used solely for non-revenue sports scholarships.

A referendum conducted during Senate elections Feb. 10-11 is the "most logical and fair method" of determining students' desire for an athletic fee, the bill states.

The bill reads as follows:

Be it enacted that: - Members of the Student Governing Association (all tuition-paying students) be permitted to vote "yes" or "no" on the following question during the SGA general election Feb.

See FEE, Page 8

Staff/Andy Nelson

Barnyard bale out

After a hard day of mousing at the Horse Teaching and Research Center Monday, a barnyard cat relaxes on a bale of hay, oblivious to sweeping done by Clarke Jackman, junior in agricultural economics.

New lecture series travels across state

By TOM DENZEL

Collegian Reporter

Kansas high school and community college students and teachers will have the opportunity starting this spring to hear some of K-State's most stimulating professors and researchers speak in classes and President Jon Wefald began laying the foundation for the new Presidential Lecture Series shortly after his arrival on campus last July.

"This is not being viewed as a recruiting tool but as source of sharing information, a by-product of the traditional recruiting methods," said Marilyn Trotter, director of new student programs and coordinator of the lecture series.

The main goal of this lecture series is to bring the university way of learning to the students, Trotter said.

"We want the students to get the feel and excitment of university learning," said Wefald, who will speak on "One Person Can Make a Difference," as part of the series.

Requests from high schools and community colleges for guest speakers had been received by Trotter's office prior to the formation of the lecture series, she said.

College deans and department heads nominated professors from each department for the lecture series. The names were then given to Trotter, who contacted the faculty member and asked them if they school or community college audience.

Because the funding for this program will be provided by the KSU Foundation, which is supported by donations, the program will not be affected by state budget cutbacks,

Trotter said. Brochures will be mailed in the coming weeks to high schools and community colleges in Kansas and the Kansas City, Mo., area with a schedule of topics and featured speakers. "With an opportunity like this, I'll be very surprised if we don't have a large amount of requests," Trotter

While the series is not geared would like to speak in front of a high specifically toward attracting students, Hermann J. Donnert, professor of nuclear engineering, said he believes the lecture series will be an effective recruiting tool. In the past this was done by word of mouth, now it is being done on a more formal level with a wider publicity campaign and better organization, said Donnert, who will present "Chernobyl and Three Mile Island - The True Story," in the series.

'This is a great opportunity for K-State to explore," said Robert Hollinger, professor of finance, who will speak on "Time, Value and Money." Topics in the lecture series include leadership, personal motivation, careers and design.

INTERNATIONAL

Ministers join protesting Filipinos

MANILA, Philippines - President Corazon Aquino sent Cabinet ministers to join 15,000 protesters marching on the presidential palace Monday, defusing some of the wrath over last week's shootings and proving her control over the military.

She overruled military officers who said they could not ensure her

Aquino lifted barricades around Malacanang Palace and kept soldiers away to allow students, workers and peasants to march to condemn the killings of 12 leftist protesters by marines last Thurs-

She dispatched at least eight of her ministers to lock arms with demonstrators Monday and lead them peacefully to the palace gates. Her action softened the anger of both left- and right-wing groups, who said her administration could not control the military and was responsible for a street clash bloodier than any during the 20-year Marcos era.

Soviets rescue fishermen from ice

MOSCOW - Emergency crews rescued 1,200 Latvian fishermen from drifting ice floes in the Gulf of Riga that had been ripped from shore by hurricane-force winds, Tass said Monday.

The official news agency reported that the last of the castaways was rescued Sunday evening and that the rescue operation was declared "successfully completed" on Monday when no other survivors were found. At least some people were pulled from the water.

However, the government newspaper Izvestia said there were some deaths in the ice break at Jurmala, a resort on the Latvian coast. It gave no further details.

An official of the Sea Rescue Society in Jurmala told The Associated Press by telephone earlier in the day there were no fatalities or serious injuries.

Tass said the rescue operation began Sunday after the ice fishermen ignored posted warnings and loudspeaker announcements to stay off cracked ice extending from the shore. The rescue official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the fishermen had gone onto the ice for weekend ice fishing, a favorite

"A small crack in ice along the shore was detected Sunday morning," Tass said, quoting Janis Robez, chief of the rescue operation. "Special signs were put up - 'Be careful, dangerous for life.' Staffers of the seaside rescue station warned of possible danger over loudspeakers. Signal flares were fired into the air. But many ice fishing enthusiasts dismissed all this as overcautiousness.'

Soviet pastime.

REGIONAL

Mayor plans 'Fountain of Justice'

TOPEKA - Topeka Mayor Doug Wright announced Monday funding has been secured through private donations and construction will begin as soon as weather permits on a "Fountain of Justice" to be built in front of the Kansas Judicial Center.

Original plans for the Judicial Center, located immediately south of the Capitol and opened in 1978, called for such a fountain, but it was scrapped because of lack of funding by the Legislature.

"It will be a reality," Wright said at a ceremony in the Judicial Center. "It is a gift to the people of Kansas in honor of those who have carried out the battle for justice in our state and those who will

A May 1 completion date is hoped for, in time for the annual observance of Law Day.

Falsetto's

We have expanded to serve you quicker and better

FREE DELIVERY

2 Large One-Topping Pizzas

$14

2 Med. Two-Topping Pizzas

$12.25 Plus a FREE Quart of Pepsi

Buy a 10" Supreme, Receive One FRFF!

1127 Moro

NATIONAL

American released from Managua

WASHINGTON - Sam Hall, an American arrested last month in a restricted military area near Managua who later claimed he was on a spy mission, will be released for health reasons to the custody of his brother, Rep. Tony P. Hall, the Nicaraguan embassy announced Monday.

The decision was taken after a medical checkup and clinical reports on the 49-year-old prisoner determined he had a condition that could not be cared for properly in Nicaragua, said the embassy spokeswoman, Sarali Porta.

The ailment was not described.

Hall, who was arrested Dec. 12, said at a news conference in Managua 10 days later that he was spying on military installations on behalf of three men code-named Tinker, Evers and Chance.

He also claimed in a CBS-TV interview that he was the only remaining member of the Phoenix battalion, which he described as a counter-terrorist paramilitary organization.

LaRouche announces candidacy

CONCORD, N.H. - Fringe candidate Lyndon LaRouche, accusing President Reagan of "digging himself deeper and deeper into the political mire," on Monday announced his candidacy for the 1988 Democratic presidential nomination.

In a prepared statement, LaRouche said he was "accelerating my own presidential campaigning" because of President Reagan's troubles with the Iran arms deal.

LaRouche was in Europe and did not attend the news conference. His supporters also said his safety in New Hampshire could not be

A four-time presidential candidate and native of Rochester, N.H., LaRouche now lives in a fortified estate in Leesburg, Va.

Until adequate security is supplied by the Secret Service, LaRouche will not campaign in person in New Hampshire, the state with the earliest presidential primary, his supporters said.

LaRouche espouses bizarre theories of world conspiracies. He has accused the Queen of England of being involved in the drug trade, says the United States is headed for economic collapse and that the Friends remember Dwyer as 'hero'

MEADVILLE, Pa. - State Treasurer R. Budd Dwyer was buried Monday after being eulogized as a hero who took "desperate action" to bring attention to the criminal justice system he believed had wronged him.

About 700 mourners crowded into services at the First Baptist Church in a quiet square of Dwyer's northwestern Pennsylvania hometown. Later, his dark brown wooden casket was taken to Blooming Valley Cemetery, about 10 miles away.

'Today I can say without equivocation, he did nothing wrong and he died an innocent man," said Roger Richards, an attorney and family friend who delivered the eulogy.

"Mr. Dwyer's suicide was a desperate act of one who loved the system so much that he would even take desperate action to promote its healing. Those in power would listen to nothing else," said the church's pastor, the Rev. William J. Minser.

Dwyer put a gun in his mouth and shot himself to death at a news conference in his Harrisburg office Thursday, a day before he was to be sentenced on charges he took part in a bribery conspiracy in the awarding of a state contract. He had been convicted on the charges last month and faced a maximum 55 years in prison.

Former state Republican chairman Robert Asher, convicted with Dwyer, is to be sentenced Tuesday.

HUNAM EXPRESS

Open 7 days a week ? Free Delivery

1116 Moro 537-0886

(No

539-3830

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

How To Impress Three of Your Friends . . . (Tell them . . .)

"I have a condo lined up at Padre Island, Texas for spring break. And let me take care of the bill."

THEN LISTEN TO KMKF 101.7 FM

Win a stay in a condo for four at Padre Island . . . and $101 cash provided by Sunchase Tours and KMKF!

PLUS-

THE $1,017 COLD CASH GIVE AWAY

Listen to KMKF for the "Cold Cash" sound and contest details.

Two ways to WIN from Manhattan's Best . .

Campus Bulletin

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS BIBLE STUDY

GERMAN CLUB meets at 4 p.m. in Union 213.

AMERICAN INDIAN SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING SOCIETY meets at 4:30 p.m. in

NATIONAL AGRI-MARKETING ASSOCIA-TION meets at 7 p.m. in Union 207

PHI UPSILON OMICRON meets at 7:30 p.m. in HORSEMEN'S ASSOCIATION meets at 7:30

ALPHA PI MU meets at 7 p.m. in the Industrial

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN will have a table in the Union from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Dale Alexander Neeck at 12:30 p.m. in Bluemont 368. The dissertation topic will be "Structure,

SOCIETY OF MANUFACTURING ENGINEERS meet at 6:30 p.m. in Durland 163.

7 p.m. in Throckmorton 313.

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO ACT meets at 6:30 p.m. in the Union.

Management and Interventions: The St. John Model Applied to Saint Mary's Academy and Col-

U-LEARN will have a table in Union from 9

COLLEGIATE FFA meets at 8:30 p.m. in

SOCIETY OF WOMEN ENGINEERS meets at 6:30 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

GERMAN TABLE meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union

WHEAT STATE AGRONOMY CLUB meets at

AG TELEFUND TEAM CAPTAINS meet at a.m. to 2 p.m. to sign up volunte

Notices

The Department of Art and ticipants will be required to pay a KSU Friends of Art are still taking reservations for a trip to view "Born Free and Equal: Photographs by Ansel Adams" now on display at the Nelson-Atkins Museum of Art in Kansas

A bus will leave at 7 a.m. Saturday from the Union, said Diane and Board of Student Publica-Dollar, instructor of art. Par-tions.

$20 registration fee.

Filing deadline for Student Governing Association elections is today. Applications are available in the Student Government Services office for student body president, student senators

MEET THE CALENDAR

MEN

OF K-STATE

Autograph Party at

Brother's

9 p.m. Wednesday

Calendars on sale

at the door

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

Clinic and Hospital 532-6544 Mental Health..... 532-6550 532-6554 532-7758 Sportsmedicine Clinic..... 532-7880 Physical Therapy..... 532-7880 Health Education..... 532-7755 Administration 532-7755 532-7759

RAY SUN., JAN. 25 THROUGH SAT., JAN. 31 GRAND OPENING RAY'S HAIR MAXIM (formerly Ray's Roffler Family Hair Center) •REG. $40 PERMS—$25 (incl. cut) •REG. $1150 STYLE CUT-$850

REG. $20 HIGHLIGHTING—$10

FREE BALLOONS AND A FREE GIFT FOR THE FIRST 100 CUSTOMERS

622 N. MANHATTAN AGGIEVILLE

537-8620

ENJOY YOUR LEISURE TIME! Discover LAUNDRY LAND

Drop off your laundry . . . we'll do it for you

7 days a week!

Bring us all your washables for same day wash-dry-fold laundry service.

Dry cleaning and self service also available.

Try our quick professional service, you'll be glad you did!

UPC offers art rental

By The Collegian Staff

Artwork varying from framed laser photos to reproductions of well-known paintings will be available through the Union Program Council Arts Committee art rentals program this week.

Students, faculty and staff may rent pieces for the spring semester from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday in the Union Courtyard.

The art rental program is at least 15 years old, said Marilyn Woodward, adviser of the Arts Committee. The program has been fairly successful, although some art pieces have been lost in the past, Woodward said. She stressed that the art rentals program is a service for the students, faculty and staff and not a moneymaking process.

Woodward said rent cost is determined by the artwork's value and size. Rent for one piece ranges from $1 to $4.

In order to rent, a person must sign a contract accepting responsibility for the artwork. In the case of damage to the artwork or frame, there will be a charge for the repair fee. If the artwork is stolen or lost, the rentee will be required to pay the minimum replacement fee of $50 or full assessed value of the work.

Workshop to encourage young leaders

By TODD SCHULTZ Collegian Reporter

Three K-State students have initiated a program to help high school students develop leadership and communication skills.

The program, "Commit To Excellence." is designed to help students understand their talents and how they can apply them to their organizations.

Kim Buethe, junior in animal sciences and industry, Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics, and Stacey Campbell, junior in agricultural journalism, give workshops for youth groups on personal communication and leadership skills, team organization, public speaking, goal setting and parliamentary procedure.

"We all had had the opportunity to work with young leaders in FFA, when we served as state officers (in Future Farmers of America)," Campbell said.

While Campbell and the other two students who developed the program enjoyed interaction with the high school students, he said they realized a need for some type of program that would help students believe in themselves and their abilities.

To help reach that goal, the workshops emphasize group participation. Some include skits, but they all focus on audience input, Buethe said.

"Our goal, as a team, is to instill members for their organizations as well as themselves," Benoit said.

"It is the greatest feeling to go out and interact with students while doing the workshops," Campbell said. The workshops may begin slowly, but soon the students are laughing and responding to questions, he said.

Most of the workshops have been for FFA chapters, but the program is designed to meet with any high school student councils, Future Homemakers of America chapters, 4-H clubs and other high school vocational organizations, Campbell said.

"We work on building the individual and helping each realize their talents and abilities. We then show them how to use these talents to 2048 N. Tuttle Creek Blvd.

Manhattan⁴

Bridal Show

1987

Sunday, February 1

at Manhattan Holidome

doors open at 1:00 p.m.

2:00 p.m. Fashion Show

Christine's — The Wedding Co.

Woody's Ladies Shop

Free gifts

and drawings

Christine's — The Wedding Company

Highfield Cottage The Palace

Crowell's Card and Party Shop

enthusiasm and excitement in make their organization better," Buethe said. The goal is to show students how to use their talents to help the group, she said.

When implementing the program last summer, Campbell said they asked for sponsorship from local businesses. One business donated some money, but the rest of the financing came from the three students, he said.

Campbell said the program which is scheduled for Thursday at Buhler will be the biggest challenge that the group has yet to face.

"Our previous workshops have consisted of about 35 students, and at Buhler we are looking for 350 (seventh and eighth grade students)," Campbell said.

776-1939

Musical review to open McCain series

By The Collegian Staff

The Young Americans, a group of singers aged 15 to 21, will kick off Mc-Cain Auditorium's performance series of the semester Thursday.

"One thing about the Young Americans I believe some people didn't realize, is that they are doing a musical review instead of just a choral performance," said Stephen Riggs, director of McCain. "It is a full-blown production."

The Young Americans will present an all-new musical version of

"Around the World in 80 Days." featuring songs and dances from many countries. The performance is presented by Columbia Artists Festival Corp. and will begin at 8

The group was founded in 1962 by Milton Anderson, director, in an effort to give the nation and the world a realistic picture of youth in this country. The Young Americans was one of the first choral groups to dance to the music it sings.

Performance revenues help pay for the group's activities, including ing, room and board, and costumes

The Young Americans has a cast of 45 members and has appeared on 28 television shows on ABC, NBC and CBS networks, as well as Japanese, Australian and Korean networks.

Recently, The Young Americans received an Oscar for a full-length documentary feature with Columbia

"This is the first (performance) this semester," Riggs said. "Tickets tours abroad, stage and dance train- are going fast, and it's really starting to pick up this week."

Tickets for the performance are $6 to $10 for students and senior citizens, and $10 to $14 for the general public. Tickets may be purchased at McCain Box Office.

Immediately following the performance, all students are invited by the McCain Development Board for a post-performance gathering to meet the members of The Young Americans. The reception will be in Leavengood Court in the McCain

Council recognizes publications for excellence

By The Collegian Staff

Two K-State publications received awards for achievements in writing during a Jan. 14 district awards competition in Lincoln, Neb.

"Perspectives," edited by Cheryl May and designed by Valerie Spicher, graphic designer for University Relations, won an award for excellence in special audience magazines from the Council for the Advancement and Support of Educa-

The magazine, published four

Mixed Drinks

$1.50

Any name

Any brand

539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

RIB • IT

EVERY TUESDAY NIGHT ALL YOU CAN EAT

just $3.95 BBQ BEEF RIBS & FRIES BAKED BEANS

times a year, contains stories relating to campus research ac-

"Winning the CASE award shows that 'Perspectives' is indeed a topnotch publication," May said.

"Unfortunately, due to budget cuts, many other really good publications weren't able to be entered," she

"Bring the Garden to Life," a pamphlet written by Rusty Andrews, director of communications for the KSU Foundation, won an award for exceptional achievement in fundraising appeals.

The pamphlet was printed to raise money to establish a horticulture garden at K-State. The fund-raising goal is $100,000, and $75,000 to $80,000 has been raised, Andrews said.

"We're sending the brochure and letter nationwide to companies with an interest in horticulture," he said.

To be considered eligible for the CASE competition, publications must be written by a staff member of a university.

Hansen Nutrition Center Across from Village Plaze . WEIDER BODY BUILDING PRODUCTS . ALL MAJOR BRANDS OF NATURAL FOODS . DRIED FRUIT NUTS & SEEDS . NATURAL DIET AIDS BOOKS ON NUTRITION

* STOP BY TODAY * 537-4571 3112 Anderson HOURS: Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m Oh Thank

1445 Anderson Avenue

Catch the Wave!

Buy One Coke 2-Liter for 99¢ and Get a FREE MAX CUP!

2 Chili Cheese Dogs and a Super Big Gulp only 99¢ onions and sour cream) and one Large

One Frito Pie (Fritos covered with chili, cheese,

only 99¢

Offer good at Manhattan, KS store through 2-3-87 | Offer good at Manhattan, KS store through 2-3-87

Kansas State Travel Vern's Donuts and Cakes Woody's Ladies Shop Kistner's Flowers and Greenhouse

Sponsored by:

Kitchen's Plus

KQLA Q104

Lady Finell Cosmetics and Color Analysis

University Photography

MEET OUR NEW STAFF AT THE ANNUAL MEETING

Tuesday, Jan. 27 Room 206, K-State Union, 7 p.m.

Faculty, staff and retired members of the KSU Federal Credit Union are urged to attend the annual meeting. Come meet the new staff of Marla Mann, manager; Brenda Moffitt, assistant manager; and Greg Boynton, teller. Vote for colleagues who will be filling vacancies on the Board of Directors and the Credit Committee. A summary of the credit union's 1986 business and financial condition will be presented. Use this opportunity to voice suggestions for improvements and new services.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

A service for faculty, staff and qualified graduate assistants

 Tacos for lunch & dinner

•$1.25 Margaritas (that's $1 off!)

1115 Moro 776-0030

Studying abroad allows understanding

K-State's International Coordinating Committee has a saying that it has on its logo: "Be international." ICC, an arm of the Student Governing Association, coordinates funding and activities for international organizations at K-State.

The importance of the saying "be international" cannot be stressed enough. Developing an international attitude and outlook on life can change your life forever. It did mine.

When I was an undergraduate, I was very fortunate to be offered the opportunity to study abroad. At the time, my undergraduate alma mater, State University of New York, offered, among many others, an overseas study program at the University of Siena in Siena, Italy. When I read about the program while glancing through a university catalog, I knew I had hit on something very exciting. But the opportunity to study abroad did not come knocking at my door - I had to find it.

Like many situations in life (especially the ones you want more than anything), getting accepted to an overseas study program took a bit of time and filling out lots of paperwork. I knew the Siena program very possibly was not the right program for me and certainly not the only overseas study program offered. I searched through dozens of brochures and compared the various programs and realized that the Siena program was still the one for

Though my undergraduate degree was not in art history, Italian or the study of contemporary Italian society, this is what the Siena program offered. I had gotten many of my core courses out of the way during my first two years of college, and so I experienced no problem academically by taking many of my electives and required humanities courses in Italy. Most degree programs require some language instruction, literature, history, etc. so I said to myself, "Why not in Italy?"
On the basis of good grades and having the financial resources to go, off I went to school in Italy for my junior year of study.

Being a "foreign student" gave me such a different view of life. I felt the same insecurities that foreign students undoubtedly felt at my big, impersonal New York university. Knowing very little Italian, I sat in the classes of this small but prestigious Italian university, surrounded by European students who spoke not only Italian but several languages. There were many times when I could have crawled under the table in the student cafeteria after asking for someone to pass what I thought was the salt, but instead asked for something that cannot be mentioned here.

Living with an Italian family, all of whom spoke no English, cured my ignorance of Italian real quick. They treated me like royalty while I lived in their home, as the Italians do all their guests. Needless to say, my Tuscan "mama" fed me night and day with those little pieces of heaven I call "Italian food," so I easily put on 15 pounds while a student there.

PATTI PAXSON Collegian Columnist

While not in school, which, with some American ingenuity, could easily total four out of seven days a week, I traveled the length and breadth of Italy. I experienced everything from Venetian glass, to Botticelli's "Birth of Venus," to Michelangelo's Sistine Chapel, to the ruins of Pompeii and the Greek temples of Sicily.

Ah, and the beauty of the character of the Italian people! Meeting and getting to know the Italians was the best part of living in Italy. Italians are so alive, full of zest and imagination. They truly know how to live life to the fullest. The character of the Italian people as a whole is reflected in their artwork, their mastery of leatherworking, their finesse with food and their perfection of the winemaking business.

When I had to leave Italy to finish my senior year at home in New York, I was indeed sad to leave, but I brought back with me experiences that would continue to help me in my dealings with people the rest of my life.

I found that people are really the same everywhere you go. Their color, race or religion make no difference as you go from country to country and truly study the character of the people. I have traveled and lived in a few different nations of the world and I found this to be true. People everywhere love and hate, laugh and cry, and hope and dream the same. What makes us different are those things that dictate our lives — our individual environments.

When you think "internationally" and have experienced "being international," you have reached a level of understanding about humanity that you otherwise would never experience. This is essential to have in today's world because geographic boundaries do not a people make. And if you are American, it should almost be required to have an "intermost diverse melting pot of nationalities, but they are the least understanding of those nationalities.

I know, not everyone can afford to travel the world, but Americans are blessed with that old "American ingenuity" I mentioned before. Those blessed student loans, grants and scholarships (for however long President Reagan will allow us to have them) will pay for an education abroad almost as easily as it will here in the United States if you find the right overseas study program.

In Eisenhower 14A, any K-Stater can get information about overseas study programs. It doesn't matter what your major is, because I have seen information on programs abroad in virtually every possible field of study. Or you may save up all your electives for your junior year and go to Europe or Africa or South America to meet your academic requirements.

Once you've become "international" you'll see a depth and beauty in life you have never seen before. Understanding the ways of the country of that foreign student sitting next to you in lab can make a positive difference in how you get along with that student and others like him or her.

Meese makes it clear: Miranda is next target

Court decision that requires police to inform criminal suspects of their legal rights. Meese is reportedly looking for the Supreme Court so that a review of the 1966 Miranda vs. law that officers had to inform people." the accused of his or her rights upon arrest.

Meese and law enforcement officials contend that police are hindered from obtaining confessions and other important information from suspects because of this law.

Inevitably, suspects will go free because of a technicality, but of the state, and Miranda was what is the alternative? Evidence obtained would be used in court in direct violation of the Fifth Amendment right against selfincrimination.

Meese finds justice flawed because criminal suspects who innocent mindset.

example of ignorance and bigotry

all-white town of Cumming, Ga.,

Saturday was to protest an attack by 400 Ku Klux Klansmen on a group of Martin Luther King Jr.

supporters Jan. 17. That the atcommon some 20 years ago.

Now that Ed Meese has had his are informed of their rights upon fill of pornography, the attorney arrest can refuse to answer quesgeneral is looking to tackle tions without the presence of a another "infamous" aspect of lawyer - a major advance in American society - the Supreme protecting individuals from police coercion. An internal Department of Justice report which Meese fully supports stated that overturning Miranda the "right case" to come before would be "among the most important achievements of this administration - indeed, of any ad-Arizona decision may be under- ministration - in restoring the taken. Miranda established the power of self-government to the

> How this move would restore self-government to the people is unclear. There is no reason constitutionally guaranteed rights should be kept secret from the criminal suspects they were designed to protect.

> There are limits on the power designed to make sure citizens are aware of these limits. Miranda provides essential protection for individuals from becoming the victims of an overzealous state with a guilty-until-proven-

In the wake of the Rev. Martin judice could have existed this of the world. It is scary to think how many other areas of this nation share the thoughts of the

For the sake of those involved, residents of Cumming.

Letters

U.S. arms fuel war

Editor,

The rulers of Iran are rejecting all calls for peace from the U.N. Security Council and other international organizations. The U.S. government decided to send arms and spare parts as a signal of goodwill. This action by the U.S. government and other countries is counter-productive to the cause of peace in the region. In fact, the delivery of arms to the fanatic Mullahs has encouraged them to continue their aggressive policies against Iraq and other countries in the Arab Gulf and made them persist in their intransigence by refusing a cease-fire and a negotiated settlement of the dispute.

The Arabs and all the peace-loving people in the world share the American people's concern over this change in the U.S. policy and question the wisdom of such a policy which is contrary to the neutrality declared by the U.S. government and its alleged attempt to bring an early end to this bloody war. The supply of arms and spare parts to the Iranian aggressors will undoubtedly prolong the war and increase the suffering of innocent victims. The last offensive launched by Iran against Iraq, which started Jan. 9, 1987, is a good indication for that.

The Iraqi government has made its position clear on several occasions. Iraq has accepted all the resolutions of the U.N. Security Council and other international organizations for an immediate cease-fire and a negotiated settlement of the dispute. The Iraqi call for peace and a negotiated settlement does not stem from a position of weakness. The Iraqi army and all the people of Iraq, under the leadership of President Sadam Hussain, have proven over the past six years that they are capable of not only defeating the Iranian aggressors who outnumber the Iragis by more than three to one, but also can

> Abbas M. Lafta graduate in horticulture

The news of the past months revealed more details about the secret arms shipments to Iran by the U.S. government and Israel. The irony is that the U.S. government has repeatedly branded the rulers of Iran as the sponsors of terrorism in the region, yet these sponsors of terror received U.S. arms from the U.S. government.

It is well known all over the world that the Khomeini regime has expansionist dreams in the region. The rulers of Iran provoked the armed conflict with Iraq by staging more than 941 violations against Iraq during the period February 1979 to September 1980. The Iraqi government, which sought a peaceful settlement of the dispute, protested to the Iranian government through the diplomatic channels and notified the U.N. Secretary General, the Organization of Islamic Conference, the Non-aligned Movement and the Organization of the American States, protesting the Iranian provocations on more inflict heavy losses on the Iranians.

Wrong solution

H.L. Mencken is reputed to have said: "For every problem there is one solution which is simple, neat and wrong." In Kansas this winter, one solution blowing in the wind is capital punishment — the ultimate penalty that backfires.

It is more than ironic that the United States and the Soviet Union are among the handful of nations which still employ the death penalty. Some claim that capital punishment is a society's "mark of compassion for its citizens." They forget that violence begets

For taxpayers, the bad news is that the death penalty is expensive. The estimated cost is $1 million per execution - perhaps twice the cost of life-long incarceration, which currently costs about $10,000 a year. To set up a death penalty option, indigent legal services could cost the state $2.6 million, according to authoritative estimates. County prosecutors would require a similar amount.

And for what? To promote a state-operated death industry in Kansas doesn't deter crime any more than our current system. At a time when our state faces a fiscal crisis so severe that essential food, shelter and health care are being sharply curtailed to children and the elderly? It seems both unwise and unjust to set up an expensive way to execute the poor on death row while wealthy murderers beat the rap.

If presented with alternatives, such as mandatory sentencing for serious offenders with no opportunity for parole, a majority of Kansans would not choose the death penalty. I urge Collegian readers to write their state legislators soon.

Dave Redmon instructor of English

Murder is wrong

Re: Patti Paxson's column, "Pro: Women must be allowed choice," in the Jan. 22 Collegian. As a Catholic, I feel it is my responsibility to respond to the opinion of Patti Paxson set forth in her recent article. Yet, not only as a Catholic, but as a person who believes in freedom do I write this letter in response.

Murder is wrong. It violates the freedom of life. It doesn't make the crime less wrong if the victim is unable to speak as we speak, unable to hear as we hear or unable to do all the things we "normal" people are able to do. The right to life of a born person who is deformed and unable to voice his/her defense is not questioned. Nor should the right to life of the unborn who are not capable of voicing their rights.

In her column, Paxson states that in the third trimester of a woman's pregnancy, abortion is not allowed unless the woman's life or health is threatened. By this ruling it can be assumed that those who made the law felt that in the third trimester there is a life within the mother's womb. Exactly how did this life come about, and could there have been life at six months and 29 days or is it only a life after the full seven months? Life begins with the first beat of the heart, and this happens long before the seventh month the beginning of the third trimester.

We opponents of legalized abortion properly call ourselves pro-lifers. It cannot be reasonably thought that our opposition to legalized abortion supports "the murder of hundreds of women at the hands of illegal, back-alley abortionists," as stated by Paxson. By supporting pro-life does not mean we support illegalized abortion. It can never be assumed that our hopes of getting a law passed banning abortion supports illegal abortionists as long as they are able to get away with it. This is a gross error.

It is not my idea that pregnancy is "imposed on women." As Paxson says, the woman is in part responsible for the pregnancy. Pregnancy is not imposed; it is allowed. If the pregnancy is not planned, should the unborn baby suffer the consequences? Abortion in these circumstances is a way out, an escape from responsibility, a solution to the "inconvenience" for which the murdered baby was never responsible.

To say that after the birth the child will be unwanted and uncared for is to say that we know the future of the child. Who has this ability? Children are longed for by those unable to have children, and these people long to care for these children. The supporting idea for abortion that Paxson uses of already having too much suffering in our world is totally irrelevant.

In support of freedom, of the right to life, I write this letter. I urge anyone who now believes in the legalization of abortion to think about their decision to allow legalized murder, because abortion is murder.

Chris Koetting sophomore in accounting

Set record straight

Usually when I read yet another plea from the pro-life activists for everyone to come around to the right point of view, I simply ignore it. After all, I thought this controversy was settled years ago. However, a letter to the editor by Dan Walter in the Jan. 21 issue of the Collegian contained some statements which were so ludicrous as to require some serious reply.

Walters asserts that a woman may obtain an abortion on the day before she would deliver that child. I would hope that this is as ridiculous to everyone else as it is to me, but it is just such hysterical, emotional misinformation which fuels the fires of ignorance. Therefore, let us examine the Supreme Court case on which all the abortion laws are supposed to be based.

Roe vs. Wade, Jan. 22, 1973 - in this decision, the court declared that a woman has the right to choose whether or not she will avail herself of an abortion without coercion or interference from any party, including the state, up to the end of the first trimester of pregnancy. In the court's opinion, these rights are guaranteed under the First, Fourth, Fifth, Ninth and 14th amendments to the Constitution

The court further concluded that there is no historical or legal basis for considering the unborn fetus to be a person with rights under the Constitution. The only basis for such a consideration the court was able to find, after extensive and exhaustive research on the matter, was religious.

As we all know, religious matters are left to the individual in this country, thus it is left to the mother to decide whether or not she believes the fetus she carries is a person with rights. After the first three months of the pregnancy, when an abortion poses a threat to the life of the mother, the state which has a vested interest in protecting her life may intervene in the process. (United States Supreme Court Reports. Lawyer's Edition. Volume 35: pp. 150-155. Available in Farrell

I know of no state which permits arbitrary abortions beyond the end of the first trimester, except in such cases as when the carrying of the pregnancy to full term will, in the opinion of qualified physicians, endanger the life of the mother.

Now for some propaganda of my own. Prolifers are so concerned with life. What about the quality of life? Forcing unwanted pregnancies to term creates a select environment for child abuse and neglect. Don't we have enough of these tragedies already? Making abortions illegal will not stop abortions any more than prohibition stopped the consumption of alcohol.

It will make abortion elitist; only those with the money to grease the right palms in the right places will be able to avail themselves of abortions. What about population control? There are already too many of us on this tiny little planet (with migration to another planet not yet assured) and more of us every day. Why add the unwanted child to

And finally, what about plain old American freedom? The government already intrudes into too many areas of my life where I believe it has no right to be. Roe vs. Wade was an important stepping stone in the elimination of this unwarranted government interference in the privacy of citizens; let us not take a step backwards for we have to far

Christian J. Clowers junior in biology

Kids and coffins

I wonder what Dan Walter learned in his years of study here at K-State. He obviously learned how to evoke emotion from the public by parading sign-bearing kindergarteners carrying a coffin through campus. He also learned how to equate stabbing a child to death in a hospital with performing an abortion.

He didn't learn, however, that by emotionalizing the issue, that issue only becomes harder to resolve. Tactics of this sort serve only to cloud people's views of the facts they need to solve a problem.

He apparently failed to realize that with his type of campaign, he makes it impossible to recognize any gray area between the battle lines which have now been drawn. K-State evidently also failed to teach him the importance of free debate, flexibility and com-

I could not support Walter in a campaign of such strategy - even if he were marching in favor of sliced bread. I can only hope that if he insists on dealing with issues in this manner, his support will dwindle until he mar-

> Judd Annis junior in microbiology

Georgia racial attack

reflects ugly mentality

Those who think racial and accept blacks for who they discrimination is a thing of the are - human beings no different has reared its ugly head, and the Luther King Jr.'s birthday, it is scenario is not unlike actions difficult to believe the town's pre-

The march of nearly 25,000 civil long without being influenced by rights demonstrators through the the changing thoughts of the rest tack happened at all indicates the it is hoped the demonstration town still possesses the blind helped to reform the antiquated narrow-minded perceptions attitudes of the Forsyth County many people held two decades segregationists. If nothing else, it ago. Cumming is a town time and reminded the rest of the nation enlightened attitudes forgot, a that the battle against town afraid to admit its faults discrimination is not over.

past better think again. Another from anyone else.

EDITOR Jonie Trued MANAGING EDITOR Sue Dawson NEWS EDITOR Erin Eicher

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Deron Johnson PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER Sheila Hutinett

EDITORIAL BOARD: Susan Baird, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Judy Goldberg, Ron Honig, Pat Hund, Deron Johnson, Judy Lundstrom, Scott Miller, Andy Nelson, Patti Paxson, Julie Reynolds, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 920) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Students eligible to compete for cash, demonstrate safe driving abilities

By STEVE LAWRENCE Collegian Reporter

Students will have a chance to test their driving skills behind the wheel of a 1987 Dodge Daytona Shelby Z with the chance of winning a $5,000 scholarship and personal use of the car for one year.

The National Collegiate Driving Championships, sponsored by the Dodge Division of Chrysler Motors, will be hosted by the K-State chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers March 26-27. Students not only learn about the importance of using safety restraining systems but also the dangers of drinking and driving, said Sherry Ledgerwood, national media director of the NCDC program.

Ledgerwood said the competition is on college campuses because statistics show that the 18- to 25-yearold age group is most affected by drinking and driving problems. She said the competition is a way to relay the dangers of drinking and driving to young adults.

K-State is the only Kansas school scheduled to have the competition. "We've been to K-State in the past and we always get a good response there," Ledgerwood said.

Last year, 502 students participated in the competition at K-State, while more than 40,000 participated nationwide, Ledgerwood

Mark DeCou, senior in mechanical engineering and vice president of the K-State chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, said ASME is setting a goal of 500 students this year. He said the society is working on making the competition flow more smoothly this year, which will increase student par-

The contest challenges students to drive a serpentine-shaped rally course marked by pylons. The drivers are scored by the time it takes them to drive the course with one second added for each pylon knocked down.

Each school will award one winner to be flown to Daytona Beach, Fla., to represent their school in the finals at the Daytona International Speed-

A location for the competition here at K-State has not been determined. "We're going to try and keep it on campus," DeCou said. Last year, the competition was held in the West Stadium parking lot.

"The scholarship goes toward continuing the students education," Ledgerwood said. Three scholarships and three Daytona Shelby Z's will be awarded at the Grand Finals.

The first prize in the Grand Finals is a $5,000 scholarship and the use of a Dodge Daytona Shelby Z for one year; second prize is a $3,000 scholarship and the use of a Shelby Z for one year; and third prize is a $2,000 scholarship and the use of a Shelby Z for one year. Fourth through sixth place prizes are sets of Goodyear tires.

After one year of use of the Shelby Z, the winners can return the car or negotiate to buy it, Ledgerwood said. The competition will run from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. March 26-27.

Any student 18 years old with a valid driver's license is eligible for the competition. Students from surrounding universities and colleges are also eligible to compete.

The winner from K-State last year was Scott Kirkham, junior in business administration.

tarmers get FACTS Crisis service helps

By CHRIS HALL Collegian Reporter

Located in a small room in Waters Hall is a service that assists farmers, ranchers and agribusinessmen from across the state.

The Farmers Assistance, Counseling and Training Service, which began operation on July 1, 1985, is designed to help the agricultural community in avoiding or alleviating the problems and stress of the current agricultural economic crisis, said Kimberly Williams, family therapist and FACTS staff worker.

The FACTS office maintains a tollfree hotline number staffed by professionally qualified specialists and supplemented by a statewide network of cooperating agencies and programs capable of providing direct assistance.

Since its beginning, the program has expanded, trying to offer more services while continuing to maintain the purpose of answering the hotline. "We now provide a mediation service to the farmers as an option. This is where a mediator will sit down with a farmer and his creditor and they will try to come up with solutions to the economic problems facing them," Williams said. The staff of FACTS has grown from five employees to 12 in the past year and a half.

The calls coming into the hotline have remained about the same, Williams said.

"People call wanting to know - is it getting better, getting worse, or plateauing - but we don't know," she said. "We also hear - I never thought it would get this bad."

Overall, the program pursues three main goals, Williams said.

The first is to help Kansas farmers, ranchers agribusinessmen save the family farm or business whenever humanly

The second goal is to help families cope with the stress and other problems that result from living under today's economic conditions. And, when absolutely no way can be found to save the farm, ranch or business, to help families make a successful transition to other

FACTS also provides confidential information, counseling, assistance and referrals for financial and legal problems, employment and retraining needs, personal or family crisis and basic family needs

About 10 new callers and 20 repeat callers are dealt with each day.

"I do about three hours of therapy a day," Williams said. "Of these calls, usually one is someone saying they are or know of someone who is potentially harmful to themself or others."

Charlene Henton is the hotline's family needs specialist. She deals with the callers who are having trouble paying bills and buying clothes and food. Many farmers with these problems are not eligible for welfare or food stamps because land - even if it is mortgaged - is considered an Henton first encourages the families to find out if they qualify for Social Rehabilitation Services. They also may be eligible for commodity foods such as honey, rice, cheese and flour. These foods are from the government and are distributed through local organizations such as the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Salvation Army.

"Churches are starting to set up food pantries, and thrift stores are good places to get clothes," Henton "Some will barter instead of charging money. One had a man come in and trade a 50 pound bag of lima beans for some clothes."

If the family has children under 5 or the wife is pregnant, they may qualify for the Women, Infants and Children program. This is through the local Health Department which gives vouchers for certain foods, she

"Willie Nelson Farm Aid money is also available through churches. This is a big help for paying utility and medical bills. One of the first things these people cut is medical insurance and there is a big need for money to buy medicine," Henton

"The people having trouble in the rural areas are not only geographically isolated, they are informationally isolated." she said. "Our program is here to use as a resource, to let them know there are opportunities for help and they should check them out.' The program is funded by the Kansas State Board of Agriculture and works in conjuction with the Cooperative Extension Service, Williams said. Williams received a master's degree in marriage and family therapy from K-State in December 1986. She has been with the hotline since it started.

> Get Personal With a Collegian Classified!

Try Chiropractic... For the HEALTH

Call 537-8305 Dr. Mark Hatesohl 3252 Kimball Ave.

 4¢ self-service copies •Full service copy center Resume service OPEN DAILY

Sun.12-9 Denison & Claflin FirstBank Center 776-3771

AUntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Tuesday Import Beer Night

Featuring bottles of Mae's favorite beers from across the seas.

Only

616 N. 12th 539-9967

TONITE $2.25 Pitchers "Quote Nite"

Best quote of the evening receives a keg courtesy of Southern Sun!

Last week's winner 'It takes intelligence to be stupid."

-Mare-

Play the game of the future at

BONKERS

Competition Tonight

9 p.m. Enter Your Team Now College Students Enter FREE Tonight—$1.25 Imports Call 537-9591 ID Required

LAFEMME (GYN/FAMILY PLANNING)

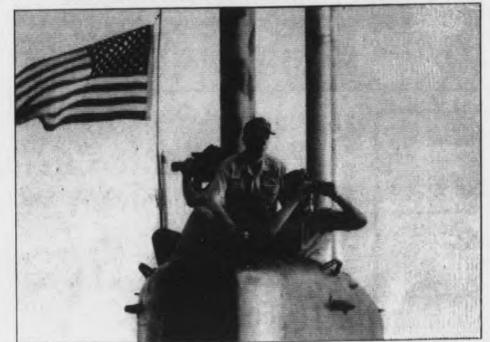

Available Services:

- *Birth Control Information & Prescriptions
- *Pregnancy Counseling & Referrals *Pregnancy Testing
- *Routine Gynecological Exams
- *Self Breast Exam Instruction
- *Sexuality Information
- *Sexually Transmitted Disease Information (must come into clinic to make appointment)

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"Your Medical Facility"

PROPEL YOUR CAREER TO THE TOP IN NUCLEAR PROPULSION.

Officers in today's Navy develop their talents working with some of the most sophisticated equipment in the world. The Navy operates over half of the nuclear reactors in the U.S. Being the best in nuclear engineering takes a lot of talent and the hands-on experience the Navy provides.

Ask Randy Summervill, Randy Lewis, or other KSU nuclear propulsion officer candidates how you can earn $1,000 a month starting your junior year of college. Plus you get a $4,000 bonus upon acceptance and enlistment into the program, and another $2,000 when you complete your Navy

After college graduation, you receive a year of graduate-level education along with the responsibility, respect and experience that can take you to the top of one of America's high-tech industries.

As a Navy officer, you get exceptional benefits and a solid salary that can grow to $44,000 after

To qualify, you must be working toward, or have earned, a bachelor's degree and be a U.S. citizen between 19 and 25 years of age. You must also have completed a minimum of one year each of calculus and calculus-based physics with an overall GPA of 3.4, Seniors 3.2 (Required only for nuclear propulsion program). Start your career at the top and lead the adventure as a Navy Officer. Call Navy Management Programs at 1-800-821-5110 or send transcripts to:

NAVY RECRUITING DISTRICT

2420 Broadway Kansas City, MO 64108-2488

NAVY 4 OFFICER.

LEAD THE ADVENTURE.

Party is TONIGHT not Thursday Party with Lynn & Brenda Tonight at Brother's! 6:30 p.m.

Information & sign up for Daytona Beach trip

★ FREE Bud Light visors to the first 50 people

★ FREE Pizza from Falsetto's

Package

$129₊$99

3371737733

ding color TV, air conditioning, private telephone, pool and sun deck.

All of our hotels are located directly on the beach.

ete schedule of free pool deck parties and optional activities.

Campus Programs trip participants.

Optional excursions available — deep sea fishing, Hawaiian luau, party cruise, scuba diving, Disney World, EPCOT Center, and more. Computenzed central reservation system to insure accuracy and organization.

All taxes tips and service charges included. or call Lynn or Brenda at 776-5957

in AP poll

By The Associated Press

Despite winning 15 games in a row, many in dominating fashion, North Carolina Coach Dean Smith still isn't convinced his top-ranked team could beat any other team in the nation.

The Tar Heels, now 17-1 after an early season loss at UCLA, returned to the top of The Associated Press' college basketball poll Monday, replacing Iowa, which held the position for one week.

"People shoot at you more when you're ranked No. 1, but because of the parity, that doesn't mean you're really any better than the team ranked 18th," Smith said. North Carolina received 59 firstplace votes and 1,236 points from the nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters to easily outdistance the Hawkeyes, who suffered their first loss Saturday to snap a school-record 18-game winning

K-State, after whipping Colorado 92-61 and losing to nationally ranked Oklahoma 81-78, received 18 votes in this week's poll. The 'Cats received 21 votes in last week's AP rankings. Oklahoma vaulted into the top ten this week and Kansas regained a spot in the top 20.

Iowa received two first-place votes and 1,141 points after a week of drastic up and downs

The Hawkeyes beat then-No. 5 Purdue on the road 70-67 and followed that with another Big Ten Conference victory, 101-88 over Indiana, the first time a Hoosier team coached by Bob Knight allowed more than 100 points. They couldn't hold the homecourt momentum, however, as Ohio State beat the Hawkeyes 80-76 at Iowa City.

Nevada-Las Vegas, 18-1, received the remaining first-place vote and 1,127 points to take third. The Runnin' Rebels, who were fourth last week, won all three of their Pacific Coast Athletic Association games

Alabama, 15-2, jumped from 13th to ninth with 666 points, just one more than Oklahoma, 14-3, which improved one place from last week.

Men's Top 20

These are the Top Twenty teams through Jan. 25 in The Associated Press' men's college baskethall poll. First-place votes are in parentheses, followed by season records, points and last week's ranking. Big Eight Conference schools are in boid face.

L. N. Carolina (34)	17-1	1,263	2
2 Iowa (2)	18-1	1,141	1
3. UNLV	18-1	1,127	4
4. Indiana	15-2	968	3
(tie) Purdue	15-2	968	5
6 Syracuse	17-1	902	7
7. Temple	18-2	788	8
8. DePaul	16-1	761	6
9. Alabama	15-2	666	13
10. Oklahoma	14-3	665	11
11. Georgetown	14-2	596	15
12. Illinois	14-4	585	9
13. Duke	14-3	564	12
14. Clemson	17-1	504	10
15. St. John's	13-3	348	14
16. TCU	16-3	299	19
17. Pittsburgh	14-4	228	16
18. Auburn	11-4	196	17
19. Florida	15-4	123	-
30 Vanens	12.5	79	17

Other teams receiving votes and their points North Carolina State 66; Navy 36, New Orleans 34: Ohio State 28; Kansas State 18; Cleveland State 17; UCLA 16; Virginia 15; Memphis State 10; Middle Tennessee 6; Michigan 5; Providence Seton Hail 5; Kentucky 3; Oregon State 3; Tulsa 3; Arkansas-Little Rock 2; Marist 2; Houston 1: Niagra 1.

UNC grabs top ranking K-State's women recall loss at OSU Thomas leads the Lady Cats in Stillwater, the Lady Thomas leads the Lady Cats in Stillwater, the Lady Thomas leads the Lady Cats in Stillwater, the Lady Thomas leads the Lady Cats in Stillwater, the Lady Thomas leads the Lady Cats in Stillwater, the Lady Thomas leads the Lady Cats in Stillwater, the Lady C

By CHASE CLARK Sports Writer

Remembering last year's narrow defeat to Oklahoma State, K-State's women's basketball team - No. 1 in the Big Eight Conference race - will look for revenge Tuesday when the Lady Cats play the Cowgirls at Stillwater, Okla.

"We've got to remember what Oklahoma State did to us down there last year," said Coach Matilda Mossman. "We can't get too overconfident with the number of games we've won so far and our standing in the Big Eight Conference right now."

Tip-off is set for 7:30 p.m. and the game can be heard on WIBW-radio,

Last year in Stillwater, the Lady Cats were defeated when OSU hit two free throws with one second left on the clock to close the door on the Lady Cats 60-58.

> and goes into Tuesday's contest with a six-game winning streak on the line. Oklahoma State is coming off consecutive victories against Oklahoma and Iowa State. The Cowgirls are 12-6 for the season with a 3-2 Big Eight mark. "They've been playing pretty

K-State, 15-3 overall, leads the conference race with a 4-1 record

well and I would think their win over Oklahoma would help them out a lot," said K-State senior forward Carlisa Thomas. "This game and Missouri are going to be the two tough road trips we have to get to stay up at the top of the Big Eight," she added.

Mossman said aggressive rebounding will be a key to defeating Oklahoma State, and she has the ideal player to dominate the

Thomas leads the Lady Cats in rebounding with an average of 9.9 boards per game. She needs just three more rebounds to take over the spot as the Lady Cats' career rebounding leader. In her four years at K-State, Thomas has recorded 781 rebounds. Sue Leiding paces the Lady Cats in scoring with 15.2 points per game but only had 10 points against Kansas. Not far behind is Susan Green with an 11.9 points per game average and Thomas averages 11.1 points per outing.

Top scorers for Oklahoma State are Clinette Jordan with 21.5 points per game and Jamie Siess 16.5 points per game. Jordan and Siess also pace the team in rebounds with 9.5 and 6.8 boards per game, respec-

The Lady Cats will wrap up their road trip Saturday at Columbia, Mo., when they face the Lady Tigers in what could be a key game in the conference race. Missouri is tied for second in the Big Eight with

Senior Lady Cats making tracks on basketball records

By CHASE CLARK Sports Writer

Making their marks in the K-State women's basketball career record books are Carlisa Thomas and Susan Green - two senior members of the Lady Cats basketball squad.

Carlisa Thomas, the 5-foot-9 inch forward from Jacksonville, Fla., has grabbed 781 rebounds in her four seasons at K-State and needs only three boards to take over the top spot as the Lady Cats' career rebounding leader.

Eileen Feeney, a Lady Cat from 1976-80, currently holds both the career rebounding record (783 rebounds) and the career scoring cord (1.670 points) at K-State. Thomas has averaged approximately 10 boards a game this season and should take over the top spot during the Lady Cats game Tuesday night against the Cowgirls at Stillwater, Okla.

Thomas, whose main love on the court is rebounding, said she has strived for the record since last

"After they told me how close I was after the season last year, I made that one of my goals - to be the all-time leading rebounder," Thomas said.

Hoping to break the record at home in last Saturday's game against rival Kansas, Thomas gave it her all. But after the game was over and the stats were totalled, it was discovered she was three rebounds shy.

"I would have loved to do it at home," she said. "I was pretty upset, because of that (falling short of the record). I had heard the game before that I only needed 12 (boards). I guess I just fell short."

Thomas is third on the team in scoring with 11.2 points per game, paces the team in steals with 79 on the season and also leads the team in the assists department with 87 so far this season.

Even though some of her stats don't reveal it, "Carlisa is a very unselfish person," said Coach Matilda Mossman. "as you can tell by her number of assists and also by her number of turnovers.

"She gets a lot of her turnovers simply because she's trying to get the ball to someone else for a better shot, and quite often they are expecting her to shoot the ball," Mossman said.

Still, it's the team's performance this season and not individual efforts that Thomas is concerned

"I think if everybody can stick together and keep their heads in it and not get cocky, then we can do pretty good," Thomas said. "We have the people that want to win and as long as we keep that attitude we'll be OK."

Green is also hoping to reach a record herself in Tuesday's game. She needs three assists to take over fourth place in the Lady Cats' career assists leaders record book.

The 5-8 guard from Anthony ranks second on the team behind Thomas with 2.6 assists per game and is the second-leading scorer for the Lady Cats, netting 11.1 points

"I think it's a real tribute to Susan - first of all because she's played out of position every since she has been here," Mossman said. "She's basically a shooting guard, but we have had to play her at point quite a bit."

K-State forward Carlisa Thomas needs three rebounds to break the Lady Cats' career record of 783 held by Eileen Feeney, who played from 1976-80. Thomas could break the record tonight against Oklahoma State.

Announcing Spring Semester Weight Control Classes

Choose an 8 a.m. or 3:30 p.m. class on Wednesdays. First sessions to begin January 28th. Classes will meet in Dietary Department of Lafene Student Health Center.

Paid student health fees required.

SKYDIVE

Info Meeting Thursday 7 p.m. Union 206 Club Meeting at 7:30 p.m. MEMBERS WHO WANT TO JUMP THIS SEMESTER MUST ATTEND AND PAY DUES. Party this Friday-attend meeting for location Hurry, Offer Ends Saturday!

AL-BASHA

GREEK & MEDITERRANEAN FOOD

537-7533 1209 Laramie FREE Delivery for orders of $10 or more after 4 p.m.

50¢ OFF:

Sale ends January 31, 1987

DEADLINE TODAY!

Run for a student government position. Elections will be February 10 & 11. Filing forms may be picked up now in SGS office ground floor of the Union. Filing deadline is today at 5 p.m. in Holton Hall 102.

Panhellenic Council

announces

Open Rush

February 8-23, 1987

The participating sororities are: ALPHA CHI OMEGA ALPHA GAMMA DELTA ALPHA XI DELTA KAPPA DELTA SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

* Register with Greek Affairs in Holton Hall 203 by Feb. 6.

$5 Registration Fee

$1,300. Travel to Europe for 11 days; includes airfare, meals, sightseeing and lodging. Leaving Kansas City May 18. Call right away for more information. 539-2883. (85-89)

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

Buyyells

Correctable typewriters for rent on a daily, weekly or monthly basis.

776-9469

511 Leavenworth, across from post office

FOR RENT, two-bedroom mobile home, $200 month

TWO BEDROOM luxury duplex: Fireplace, garage west of campus, $450. Call 539-4294 or 776-2536

NICE ONE-bedroom apartment. Water, trash, two-

FREE RENT in January. Large two-bedroom, nicely decorated, dishwasher, disposal. No pets. $300.

ONE-BEDROOM, two-bedroom apartments, fur-

TWO BLOCKS west of campus. Quiet, well main

NEAR CAMPUS at nice, quiet location-two-

TWO-BEDROOM luxury apartment, block from cam

ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month. Gas, heat

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage west of KSU. Available now $425. Call 539-4294

LARGE TWO-bedroom, partially furnished basement

apartment close to campus, 1411 Vista Lane. Own entrance, no pets, parking for two cars. Deposit plus rent, available now. Pay own electricity. Phone 235-3550, Topeka. (79-88)

MONT BLUE

APARTMENTS

Leasing for June

539-4447

LARGE, WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five blocks

ADJACENT TO campus, 1224 Bertrand. Nice, two-bedroom with garage, washer and dryer. We pay water, trash. Asking $350. Call 537-1745 or 537-4422. (82-90)

ONE BEDROOM, furnished apartment, bills paid, 537-7313 or 539-8401. One-half block from campus

TWO BEDROOM apartment, partially furnished close to campus with air conditioning. Rent $255 Call 539-7253 (83-88)

ONE-BEDROOM apartment, five minutes from campus. $250 per month. Call 537-7968 for details. (85-86)

SMALL ONE-person apartment, off Denison, $135.

SPACIOUS LIMESTONE: one-two bedrooms. $225,

NEAR KSU guiet, clean, one-bedroom, furnished.

QUIET HILLSIDE setting, third floor, nice olde home, private entrance, bath, kitchenette, bed room, study room. Utilities paid, $180, prefer

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage

1986 FORD F150 4 x 4, 351 V8 4B, supercab. Low

EX-60 SILVER Reed typewriter. Best ofter 539-7409

FOR SALE: 40-gallon fish aquarium, comes fully equipped For more information, call 776-7845 (81-

KELSEY 12-channel mixer, $470; Mako bass guitar

$180; Kustom powr amp, $200; prices negotiable 776-1925. (83-87)

Haves House of Music

mileage. Best offer. 539-7409. (81-91) 1977 GOLD Volkswagan van Excellent condition

west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294

06

07

female/graduate. 776-3454. (85-88)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

FOR SALE-AUTO

$2,300, 238-8092, (82-85)

FOR SALE-MISC

laundry, air conditioning, parking. Available June 1. Call 776-7814 or 539-3803 (85-104)

free heat. Fifth and Osage, 494-2756 evenings or

Call 539-9842 or 776-8093, ask for Tim. (85-88)

532-6873. Jim. (85)

02

from campus. No pets. $300. Call 776-0181. (79tf)

Studio, 1 & 2 Bedroom

Apartments

and Townhouses

Close to campus

Call 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (78-88)

and water included. Lease and deposit required

bedroom duplex, available February 1, $270. Call 537-0152. (77-88)

pus. Also, five-bedroom house, block and one-half from campus. 539-4363. (77-86)

nished or unfurnished, (new furniture). Westloop area. Call 776-9124. (78tf)

tained one-bedroom apartment for mature, non-smoking individual. $216. Lease. No pets, water deposit required. 539-1465. (85-88)

beds. 537-9686. (82-86)

thirds gas paid, laundry facility. Nice for graduate student or couple $260/month. 539-2482 after 4 plus deposit. 537-7622. (85-93)

FOR RENT-APTS

p.m. (76-86)

See us for all your typing needs.

FOR RENT-MISC

Conference recognizes professor's dedication

By SALLY NEARY Collegian Reporter

A K-State professor received an award for his involvement in the enhancement of multicultural education in professional roles last Friday night in Kansas City, Kan.

James Boyer, professor of curriculum and instruction and specialist in multicultural studies, received the Martin Luther King Jr. Multicultural Educator Award at the third annual Martin Luther King Jr. Education Conference. The conference was hosted by the Urban Education Center of Kansas City,

The award honors a teacher who contributes to the broad understanding of the principles for which King lived and died.

"Dr. Boyer was selected because he exemplifies in every day life the techniques and philosophies of Martin Luther King Jr. and the CUTE (Cooperative Urban Teacher Educator) program," said James W. Abbot, director of CUTE. "He is committed to others, is fair and practices equity and justice for all."

The program, based in Kansas City, Kan., has existed since 1969. The program prepares student teachers to teach in urban schools and also coordinates a master's degree program with K-State. Boyer has been a

I'VE ONLY BEEN HERE

TEN MINUTES ... AND

I'M ALREADY SICK

DERRICK.

THE BAR SLENE,

member of the program for 10 years. "I think my work was cited because of my energies poured into the collaboration of urban experiences for primary and secondary teachers," Boyer said.

Boyer's involvement includes numerous efforts within teacher training on multicultural education. He teaches three courses a year in Kansas City. Additionally, he has provided similar training to other role groups which include the Kansas Highway Patrol Training Center, the Kansas Social Workers' Group, the Educators of the Gifted in Kansas and numerous church groups concerned with equity.

'I am deeply honored by such an award which represents all that I focus on," Boyer said.

David Byrne, dean of the College of Education, said he was not surprised that Boyer received the award.

"The award is given with reference to the work done by Martin Luther King Jr., and there isn't anyone that exemplifies those principles more than Dr. Boyer," Byrne said. "He has a lifelong commitment to freeing people from the effects of poverty and discrimination through liberation of the mind." The citation was presented at the annual banquet at the Holiday Inn in Kansas City with about 150 people in

assifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not after the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised
FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

> Let your opinions be known with a letter to the editor

by Doug & Dick

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

MY COAT.

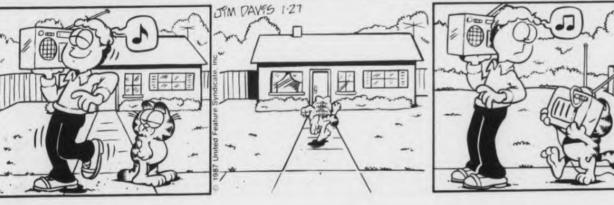

jarfield

By Jim Davis

eanuts

ACROSS

centers

Women"

8 Droops

12 Philippine termite

14 Seed coat writing

18 Secreted monk.

often gashes

24 Mountain

21 Narrow lake

public

26 Revolvers

movement

30 Theater

sign

31 Sonata

often

25 Makes

17 Split

19 Like a

13 Lubricate 49 Palm leaf:

15 Ordinary 50 Central

1 Fruit

38 Mexican dish

41 Kind of

42 Minute

43 Tennis

var

tree

51 Ems and

52 Sweet

53 Storm

DOWN

Baden

potato

— Joey"

of Cadmus

2 Daughter 16 Towel

exam particle stroke

48 Rail bird

American

3 Sun-

bather's

4 Spectacles goal

5 Frog's cousin

6 Come in first

7 Experienced

8 Dorothy workers

Lamour's

garment

9 Parched

10 " ... - me

by heat

liberty...

(Henry)

11 Cutter or word

coaster

By Charles Schulz

Party this Friday

Eugene Sheffer

rossword

HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT distributor. See us fo ANNOUNCEMENTS products. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98) ENGLAND, SCOTLAND, and Ireland for under MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour prod ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-118)

ASK ME about Mary Kay! Janet Milliken, 539-9469.

CORRECTION Daytona Beach

trip information party will be

TONIGHT not Thursday at Brother's 6:30 p.m.

> Ski the Summit over Spring Break

4 days of skiing March 17-22 $245 per person includes transportation.

3 nights lodging and lift passes. For more information call Mary Blogin at 539-8300 Platte Travel Center, Kansas City, MO.

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski desti-nations. South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauder-dale, Mustang Island/Port Aransas, Galveston Island and Fort Walton Beach, Call Sunchase Tours Central Spring Break Toli Free Hot Line today for information and reservations—1-800-321-59111

> TO GIVE AWAY: FREE MONEY The $1,017

Cold Cash Giveaway Listen to KMKF 101.7 FM for details

THE COMPETITION has arrived! Now available on campus-Avon Beauty Products. Contact Kara,

Sub of the Week

The Best Submarine Joint in Aggieville

AL'S DE South of Baskin Robbins

PEOPLE'S GROCERY Co-op, 811 Colorado, is open to everyone Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m.-1 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. 539-4811 (83-87)

ATTENTION

CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry. Need 100 over weight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drugs, no ex-ercise, 100% guaranteed. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

SKYDIVE

Info Meeting Thursday 7 p.m. Union 206

Club meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Members who want to jump this semester MUST ATTEND AND PAY DUES.

Attend meeting for location

DOD Effects 30% Off 327 Poyntz

776-7983 TYPEWRITER: SEARS Commentator 1, erase ribbon good condition, $150, 539-9281, (84-86) DRAFTING TABLE. 42" long, white plastic laminate top, pencil stop. Regular price $129, bought to $99, yours for $90. Sorry, no personal checks. Less than one week old—over budget, must sell—extra sharp! John, 532-2082. (84-85) FOUND 10 WOMEN'S WEDDING band found by Ackert Hall

Call 776-2146 after 5 p.m. to identify (84-86) HELP WANTED PROFESSIONAL COUPLE in Kansas City, Missouri seeking person to care for 15-month-old. Flat laundry and preparation of evening meal. Room, board, salary, phone, T.V. Plaza location. Call collect, 816-926-2020 or 816-444-2885. (76-85) EARN $480 weekly-$60 per hundred envelopes stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed for company project stuffing envelopes and assembling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to JBK Mailcompany, PO. Box 25-52, Castaic, California 91310. (76-102) SUMMER EMPLOYMENT at Camp Lincoln/Camp Lake Hubert — Minnesota resident summer camps. A strong commitment to working with chil dren required, along with activity skills and teaching experience. Specific job information and appli cations are available at Career Placement Office-Holtz Hall. Sign up, in advance, for personal interviews to be held on campus, Tuesday, February 3rd, and Wednesday, February 4th, 1987 THE KANSAS Cooperative Extension Service has an opening for student computer programmers. The position is for 20 hours per week, flexible schedule. Applicants should be familiar with one of the following languages: Pascal, C, or PL/I. Summer employment is a possibility depending on per-formance. For more information contact Dr. Steve Welch or Mary Knapp at 211 Umberger, phone: 532 7019. Application blanks are available from the through February 6, 1987. (83-92)

AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer. Caree Good pay, Travel. Call for guide, cassette, newsser vice! (916) 944-4444 Ext. #58. (76-135)

NEED EXTRA cash? Earn $100's weekly at home. Free details! Rush self-addressed stamped enve lope: Sterling Enterprises. Box 1514-C. Manhattan

KS 66502 (83-87) BABY-SITTER WANTED for 18-month old, our home Monday-Friday, 8-1 p.m. Own transportation, non smoker, Lee school area, 539-8349 (85-86)

JANUARY 16 N.E. parking lot-a set of keys on a brass hook. If found, please call 532-6429 (84-85) LOST: GOLD chain necklace with angel charm. If found, please call Debi at 537-1570. (84-88)

NOTICES

NEED MONEY for college? Let us match you with scholarship and grant money for which you can qualify. For more information write Student Finan-cial Aid Services, 1613 S.W. Chelsea Drive. Topeka KS 66604. (82-91)

LATE NIGHT with COLLEGE LIFE featuring CRAIG GREENWOOD Tonight at 10 FarmHouse Fraternity 1830 College Heights

ATTENTION SCALPERS. Need four KU-KSU basket ball tickets for February 4 Company coming 537 7087. (83-87)

Sponsored by

Campus Crusade for Christ

PERSONAL

16 GUANABANA LOVER Costa Rica sure was fun, but it was you that made it so special. Glad you're back-DE (85)

nose and good teeth for two-day relationship-TO MY "Dawnie" — Congrats on Miss Manhattan-K-State You truly are "More than Wonderful" Love

SEEKING LEFT handed male companion with nice

You! Lee (85) SKYDIVERS KAREN, Mike and Ed-Congratulations on national competition. The Parachute Club. See Announcements. (85)

TO CUTE blonde in royal blue coat entering Bluemont Hall Wednesday about 12:30. Almost ran over you in the parking lot and again inside. We exchanged smiles but would like to meet it available reply via personals. Dark haired guy in gray RX7.

TO STEPHANIE Dawn with Love. Just once in a life time the right one comes along. The feeling is immortal you know that you belong Just once in a lifetime, you see her honest face, you touch her loving hand you feel her warm embrace. Just once in a lifetime, everything feels right, you see her shining face and your darkness turns to light. Just once in a lifetime—the feeling is so new to say three words and mean them. The words are I Love

THETA CARRIE D. Last night was very special! Enjoy this week! I'm so proud of you. Theta Love. Sam. (85)

PHI DELT Chris M. See you at the Union; at 11:00 we will go. We hope that KSU won't miss your show Sing it right the first time don't let your house down. (85)

TO DARK-haired guy in gray RX7: Am flattered but don't remember you. Please introduce yourself. Cute blonde in royal blue coat. (85-86) SORRY PAUL "Fred," it won't work. Give back or I'll tell "Wilma" (85)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

MALE ROOMMATE needed - Across street from campus. $135/month plus utilities 776-9369 176 MALE ROOMMATES-across street from campus

1615 Anderson. Three bedrooms, $105/month one-third utilities. 776-0827. (81-85) THREE MALES - To share two-bedroom apartment $95/month, plus utilities Home-539-5196 work - 776-2340 after 4 p m (83-86) NON-SMOKER, OWN room, next to campus. Rent negotiable 776-3833 before 1 p.m. or after 6 p.m. (81-85)

MALE ROOMMATE-two-bedroom, furnished. Mc-Cain Lane Fireplace Call 539-1157, after 8 p m (82

MALE ROOMMATE(S) wanted to share a six bedroom house. Total expense about $160 per month. No deposit, available now, 776-9222, (83-87)

ROOMMATE TO share a two bedroom partially furnished apartment. Close to campus with air condi-tioning, rent and utilities, $150. Call 539-7253, 183.

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share new apartment Own room, $155 per month plus utilities, 537, 4347

MALE ROOMMATE across street from campus at 1230 Vattier Ground floor private room washer, dryer, fireplace $135/month plus utilities 776 9369 (84-93) FEMALE ROOMMATE to share very nice two bedroom apartment. Reasonable rent. low utilities 776-3134. Michelle (84-85) FEMALE TO share two-bedroom apartment. Lots of room! $130/month—split utilities Call 776-5265 after 6.30 p.m (85-88) MALE ROOMMATE wanted $133 plus utilities, own room, quiet, nice home 776-1986. Ask for Lee (85-

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted-two-bedroom apart ment. For more information, call 776-0972 after 5

18 SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test Confidential Call 537-9180 103 S Fourth St. Suite 25. (11f) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716 (39tf)

EXPERIENCED TYPIST-$1 10/page Disc stora letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537-9205, Dorinda. (78-88)

TYPING/WORD processing. Data sheets, resumes letters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Burden, 539-1204 (80-89)

> Courtesy Demonstration by Appointment 9:30-5:30 M. nday-Saturday

MERLE NORMAN

308 Poyntz

776-4535 QUALITY TYPING for $1 per page. Contact John, 539.

5839 (81-90) MARTIE'S TYPING Service Word Processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Term papers, theses, dissertations. 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. (83-85) READY FOR graduation? We compose/type resumes, data sheets and letters. Resume Service. 1211 Moro, Aggieville. 537-7294. (84-86) WANTED TO BUY 22

WANTED: JUDO gi suit. call 532-4802 ask for Ri

THREE JUDO gi's, sizes 3-4. Call 532-2251. (84-85) above individuals or in the Computer Science Of-fice and will be taken during business hours WANTED: TWO tickets, KSU-KU game. Call 537 9249, ask for Bruce (85-86)

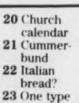

33 Publicity releases 35 Chancel part 36 Ascend 37 Swiss mountain song

Yesterday's answer

1-27 47 Ruby or of horse? 24 French 26 Domestic servant 27 Employed of the Rose 29 Zoo attraction 31 Disturb

34 Theater

28 "The

offerings 35 Fuss 37 Longhaired BIB 38 Soviet agency guessing

- king 45 Lawyer's EGO 46 Egg drink

Sandra

1-27

YDCV W HCJE OAWDOR CYHJDL Yesterday's Cryptoquip: TAILOR'S OLD STORE

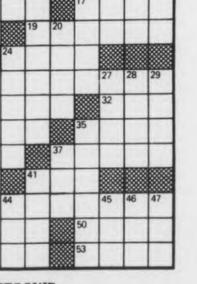

CRYPTOQUIP

GRWQV, PWEJHART TJRBRQ

GRJLAB

NEEDED ALTERATIONS.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: E equals M

He defended his trip to Georgia, saying he considered it important for officials to let people know where they stand on such a critical issue as racial bigotry.

However, he said his office received two telephone calls Monday morning, both critical of him for going to Georgia. He got no calls in support,

"You know you're not going to change the minds of those racists in Cumming, but you pull together the good people to take a stand," Stephan said. "I think, in that sense, there was a clear message given.

"I really think the commitment has to be made by elected officials. They need to be in that front line so they really know what the hatred is

Fee

Continued from Page 1

Shall a fee of $6 a semester for full-time students and $3 a semester for part-time students be implemented beginning in the fall semester 1987 for the use of scholarships for non-revenue intercollegiate sports?

No student monies will be collected until athletic department officials have signed an agreement stating the funds will be used only for non-revenue sports scholarships, and that the full amount of allowed scholarships be maintained as long as the student fee is being collected.

- The Student Affairs and Social Services Committee shall review statements from the University controller, Financial Aid Office and athletic department to ensure the terms of the agreement are being fulfilled.

Another constitutional change the committee heard was a proposal to give more privileges, including speaking rights, to Senate interns.

'This will give them a better sense of belonging," said Sally Traeger, senior in marketing and Senate chairwoman. "They'll feel like they're getting what they're putting

Task force members meet at 3:30 today in the Student Government Services office in the Union to prepare for first readings in Senate.

Spend Spring Break on a Cruise Ship

Isn't it time for something different and out of the ordinary? Sail on the Mardi Gras for 4 days. Enjoy swimming, trap shooting, table tennis, golf driving and more! Spend your evenings in the casino, bar, discotheque or arcade. The Mardi Gras will dock at Freeport and Nassau. The cruise leaves from Ft. Lauderdale on Sunday, March 15 and returns on Wednesday, March 18. Spend the next 2 or 3 days experiencing the excitement of

Ft. Lauderdale. Watch the Collegian for more details or call 776-4756 for more information.

of Manhattan

Hostages

Continued from Page 1 Prime Minister Rashid Karami's office a few blocks from the store to protest the weekend kidnapping of the four teachers. The American educators were Alann Steen, 47, of Arcata, Calif., an instructor in communication arts: Jesse Turner, 39, of Boise, Idaho, visiting professor of mathmatics and computer science; and Robert Polhill, 53, of New York, a lecturer in accounting. The Indian was Mithileshwar Singh, a visiting professor of finance who is a U.S. resident alien.

Moslem and Christian Lebanese professors at the college led the demonstration, in which students held posters bearing a single word:

Universities and nearly all high schools joined in a one-day suspension of classes. Beirut University College said its classes would remain suspended until the teachers return-

THE ICE CREAM

SOCIAL

1439 Anderson

Student Services Center

Stop By And

See Our New Store!

537-7079

WE'VE

MOVED

"The abductions have crippled our institution. Each of the victims teaches four to five courses at least," said a college official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Ferial Polhill, 45, a Lebanese, appealed to the captors to give her husband medicine. "Please treat him well. Robert is diabetic," she said.

The Christian-owned Voice of Lebanon radio on Sunday said two anonymous callers claimed the kidnappings on behalf of the Organization of the Oppressed on Earth, a group of pro-Iranian Shiite Moslems. The calls could not be authenticated.

The callers threatened to kill one or more captives unless West Germany released suspected Lebanese hijacker Mohammed Ali Hamadi or if the United States provided support for Iraq, at war with Iran since September 1980.

Hamadi was arrested in Frankfurt, West Germany, on Jan. 13. The United States wants him extradited to face charges of air piracy and murder in the June 1985 hijacking of a TWA jetliner to Beirut in

Ohmmin

BURGER

BASH

Every Tuesday 4-7 p.m.

25¢

H.P. Burgers

which a U.S. Navy diver was killed. In London, the Church of England said Monday that Waite was in "good hands" and pursuing his negotia-

He was believed to be conducting secret talks with Islamic Jihad, captors of Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press; and Thomas Sutherland, acting dean of agriculture at the American University of Beirut.

There was no word Monday on the activity of Bernhardt Fischer, a West German believed to be an emissary of the Bonn government who arrived at the Defense Ministry on Sunday.

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

KSU Horsemen's Association meeting TONIGHT 7:30 p.m. in Call Hall Rm. 204

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--

> I Can't Believe It's YOGURT! Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

A PHI ALPHA THETA LECTURE

"George Armstrong Custer and the Battle of the Little Big Horn." Delivered By

Joyce Thierer An Employee of the Custer National Battlefield in 1984. Tuesday, January 27, 1987 Union 208, 3:30 p.m.

PILOT MAKES NOTE-TAKING ACADEMI

LATE NIGHT COLLEGE LIFE

Featuring . . . The Comedy and Magic of

CRAIG GREENWOOD

One hour chocked full of a cornucopia of amazing, tantalizing tid-bits of magic, illusion and deception. (He might even fool you.)

TONIGHT AT 10

FARMHOUSE FRATERNITY 1830 College Heights

Sponsored by Campus Crusade for Christ

Kansas State University Univ. of Calif.—Santa Barbara

Actors From The London Stage

appearing for 5 Exciting Days

Wed., Jan. 28 Trevor Baxter in W.H. Auden's "The Sea And The Mirror" Wareham Theatre-8 p.m. FREE ADMISSION

Thurs., Jan. 29 Pinter This Evening Readings from Harold Pinter's plays Nichols Theatre 8 p.m.-$5/$3

The Tempest by William Shakespeare McCain Auditorium 8 p.m.-$8/$4

Fri. & Sat.—Jan. 30 & 31

For Tickets Call 532-6398 Mon.-Fri. 12-5 p.m.

All You Can Eat

Penciller Ball Point Pen 89° Whatever the assignment, Pilot has the formula for writing comfort and precision. Pilot's Better Ball Point Pen, in medium and fine points, lets you breeze through long note-taking sessions. In fact, we've made writer's fatigue a thing of the past! This crystal barreled veteran of the campus has a ribbed finger grip for continuous comfort and is perfectly balanced for effortless writing. Best of all, you'll never throw it out because it's refillable The perfect teammate to the Better Ball Point Pen is Pilot's Pencilier 0.5mm mechanical pencil. It has a continuous lead feed system and a cushion tip that helps eliminate the frustration of lead breakage. The Pencilier's jumbo eraser does the job cleanly while the ribbed grip offers the same comfort as the Better Ball Point Pen. PILOT

Pick up the Pilot Team at your campus bookstore today...The Better Ball Point Pen and The Pencilier.

Tuesday, January 27, 1987

For more information on any UPC events, call 532-6571.

Cover up that bare wall--come rent an artwork from the Union Program Council Arts Committee. For only $1-$4 you can hang a reproduction of a fine painting in your own semester. Come browse and rent-today and tomorrow, January 28 in the K-State Union Cour-KSU ID required.

k-state union

Art Rentals

home for the entire spring tyard from 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

February 2-20.

0 SKI YOUR HEART OUT

Includes ski rental, refreshments, and how-to demonstration by an experienced teacher.

Jan. 28: Sign-up for K-State Students only

Time: 12:00 noon - 5:00 PM

SIGN-UP

Jan. 28 - Feb. 12, 1987 Union Activities Center 8:00 - 4:00

k-state union

WARNER PARK

F€B. 14. 1987

INFO MEETING

Tonight Jan. 27 Union Rm. 208

Jan. 29 - Feb. 12: Students and General Public

GET INVOLVED ON CAMPUS WITH THE UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL Volunteers Wanted: Individuals interested in serving for the '87-'88 year as committee chairs to coordinate social, recreational, educational and cultural programs for the benefit of the KSU community Inion Program Council is a student volunteer organization consisting of approximately 100 students who select, plan and promote 500 programs (films, trips, entertainers and more) each academic year. UPC is broken up into nine committees: Promotions, Travel, Special Events, Outdoor Recreation, Kaleidoscope Films, Issues and Ideas, Feature Films, Eclectic Entertainment, Arts.

President-Presides over the UPC Executive Council, sits on the Union Governing Board, coordinates events and activities that involve the total UPC membership. Our highest leadership position.

Arts-Coordinates Union Art Gallery exhibitors, print sales, art rentals, the Arts and Crafts Sale, the Photo Contest and Mid-Day Arts. Eclectic Entertainment-Provides the best in live entertainment, professional comedians, singers and student entertainmen Issues and Ideas-Selects, organizes and publicizes lectures highlighting current events or popular topics of interest. Organizes the "Let's Talk About Kaleidoscope Films-Selects and publicizes innovative, artistic and international films on Wednesdays and Thursdays in the Union. They also show weekend matinees and midnight films.

Outdoor Recreation-Offers a wide variety of outdoor-related trips and programs based on a "cooperative wilderness adventure" structure. Travel-Coordinates and publicizes winter and spring break trips for the K-State community. Sells an International Student I.D. card and maintains a

Saturday night in the Union. They also show weekend matinees and midnight Special Events-Selects coordinates and publicizes desired events or activities that do not fall under another committee area, including dances, the Activities Carnival, "Late Night at the K-State Union" and some types of live

Feature Films-Selects and publicizes popular films every Friday and otions-Dea' with the visual image of the entire council. Pastes up Collegian ads. Pi ishes the "Programmer" calendar and other publication

Applications for Leadership (Committee Chairs) are now available. Deadline: 4 p.m. Friday. February 6th.

Applications may be picked up and submitted in the Activities Center, 3rd floor of the K-State Union. For more information, call 532-6571.

SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL

THE Taming

MACBETH

This is director Roman Polanski's adaptation of the great Shakespearean tragedy. It contains all the classic tragic elements of murder, guilt, and revenge. Wednesday, January 28,

7:30 p.m., Forum Hall; & Thursday, January 29, 3:30 p.m., Little Theatre & Forum Hall, 7:30 p.m.; $1.75 admission.

k-state union

Enter the 12th Annual UPC Photography Contest

Photography Contest

EXHIBITS

"The Patterns of My Home" by Ann

Carter, January 26 through February 6.

"Retrospective Prints and Lithographs" by

James Butler, K-State Union Art Gallery

Second Floor Showcase, K-State Union.

Information and contest rules available now in the Union Activities Center, 3rd floor, K-State Union. Entries accepted starting Monday, February 16-Friday, February 27. Cash prizes will be given.

Fine Wine

Wine snobs would rather you not know how easy it is to choose and appreciate good wines. See Page 7.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy and windy today, high 45 to 50. Winds southerly increasing to 15 to 25 mph and gusty.

.... amuraı pattle

Third Floor Marlatt tops First Floor Moore, 52-34, in intramural basketball action. See Page 11.

Kansas

Wednesday

January 28, 1987

Volume 93, Number 86

Reagan regrets arms deal, sets term agenda

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

By The Associated Press

Kansas State University

WASHINGTON - President Reagan told the nation Tuesday night that he now regrets his failed risk in selling arms to Iran but, despite the continuing furor, "will not sit idly by if our interests and our friends in the Middle East are threatened."

He said he did not want to see an America that had become "so obsessed with failure that we refused to take risks that could further the cause of peace and freedom in the

The president delivered his sixth State of the Union address as the Pentagon shifted its overseas naval forces in what one source described as a response to recent hostagetakings in Lebanon.

Reagan said relatively little about the situation in Lebanon and used the bulk of his remarks to lay out the agenda for the last two years of his presidency.

In introducing wide-ranging remarks involving America's competitiveness overseas, its relations ings with Iran have cast a long problems at home, he said, "Now, ladies and gentlemen of the Congress, why don't we get down to Democratic congressional leaders, responding to the president in their own televised remarks, said they were willing to cooperate with Reagan, but that he must first answer questions about the sale of arms to Iran and whether he intended to swap arms for hostages.

"The administration's recent deal-with the Soviet Union and its budget shadow over this country," said Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia. "The sale of arms to Iran - in direct contradiction to our stated foreign policy raises real questions about trust."

"The administration has the obligation to tell the American people exactly what led to the arms-forhostage deal - and what happened to accountablility in the White House," Byrd said.

The president's speech was broadcast live from the chamber of the House of Representatives before a joint session of Congress. Smiling and looking fit, Reagan was applauded warmly as he returned to the public eye after a month's absence following the holidays and recuperation from prostate surgery,

The House chamber was dotted with Nancy Reagan's favorite color - red. But his wife, sitting in the gallery, chose to wear purple for the speech.

Reagan said it was not wrong to try to establish contact with a nation of strategic importance and "certainly it was not wrong to try to secure freedom for our citizens held in barbaric captivity."

He added, "But we did not achieve what we wished, and srious mistakes were made in trying to do so." Reagan said his administration had made progress on many fronts but "I have one major regret. "I took a risk with regard to our action in Iran. It did not work and for that I assume full responsibility,' Reagan said.

Protest group demonstrates

in peace vigil

By JUDY LUNDSTROM

Collegian Reporter

A peace vigil staged Tuesday in front of the Manhattan Post Office,

500 Leavenworth St., turned out to be

Post office patrons barely gave a second glance to the group of about 15 who quietly distributed a brief statement explaining their position and displayed a banner that read "17,000

Nicaraguans killed within the last five

Sponsored by the Manhattan Pledge of Resistance, the vigil was conducted in protest of President Reagan's proposed request for increased aid to the

The Manhattan Pledge of Resistance is a chapter of a national movement aimed at stopping the war against Nicaragua, said chapter

President William Draves, Manhat-

The organization has several

The purpose of the demonstration was to illustrate that the majority of Americans are opposed to Contra aid,

"We feel the war is both wrong and unwinnable, and that peaceful negotiations are the way to go," he

Draves said two-thirds of

"We're not trying to convince Kan-

The official total of Nicaraguans, including Contras, killed in the war in the past five years is 17,000, said John

Exdell, member of the group and associate professor of philosophy. Ex-dell was one of the 17 Kansans who recently accompanied Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan., on a tour of Central

Before the trip, Exdell said Slattery was regarded in Congress "as a potential swing-vote." Now, however,

Slattery will probably never support sans - we're trying to tell

Americans already oppose aid to the Draves said.

Contras.

America.

Contra aid, he said.

Washington," he said.

chapters in Kansas, and many have been conducting similar vigils in Wichita and other cities, Draves said.

revolutionary Contras in Nicaragua.

exactly that - peaceful.

While mentioning mistakes,

See ADDRESS, Page 12

Athletic fee task force accepts $6.50 proposal

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Collegian Reporter

Scratch the $6-a-semester athletic fee. It went up Tuesday to $6.50.

Five of the nine Athletic Fee Task Force members put their signatures on the revised bill during the group's final discussion before the "Non-Revenue Sports Scholarship Fee Referendum Proposal" proceeds to Student Senate for first readings Thursday.

Sponsors are Doug Folk, task force chairman and junior in electrical engineering; Roger Haymaker, junior in business administration; Jennifer Leeds, sophomore in political science; Steve Ligon, senior in animal sciences and industry; and Sandy Marihugh, sophomore in business administration. Becky Svaty, sophomore in education, is also expected to sponsor the

A survey to determine students' attitudes toward all fees was abandoned when Leeds told the group she had received only 50 of the 500 questionnaires.

"I don't think the survey is really going to affect anything at this point," Folk said.

One problem with the $6-a-semester proposal was that, based on fall 1986 enrollment figures, the monies generated would not be enough to fund 40 percent of the 89 scholarships currently allowed non-revenue sports by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, as was decided last week.

Full-time student enrollment last fall was 13,754, while part-time enrollment was 3,933, said Kelly Lamborn, senior in journalism and mass communications. Using those figures, a $6 fee would raise about $165,000 annually from full-time students and a $3 fee would generate nearly $24,000 a year from part-time students, for a total of $189,000. That figure is short of the $193,000 previously anticipated.

"The $6 fee isn't going to cut it," Lamborn said. "Theoretically, it isn't accurate."

The revised $6.50 full-time student fee and $3 part-time student fee, based on fall 1986 enrollment figures, would generate over $193,000 annually.

Folk said he was concerned about the $3-a-semester fee for part-time students.

See FEE, Page 12

Charles Perkins, left, Manhattan, holds an anti-Contra banner in front of the Manhattan Post Office while Dr. Sam Lacy, Manhattan, passes out literature during a vigil Tuesday protesting President Reagan's support of the Contras in Nicaragua.

if Congress passes aid cuts By PATTI PAXSON Collegian Reporter

Enrollment reduction likely

A cut in federal student aid could drastically reduce K-State's enrollment and force students to work full time while attending "If this were to go in effect (proposed cuts in federal student aid), close to 30 percent of our students would not be able to be in school," said Larry Viterna, director of Student Financial Assistance. Moreover, if Congress approves President Reagan's proposed cuts in financial aid, the late 1980s could very easily find students having to work full time and going to school only part time, Viterna said. Currently, about 65 percent of students attending K-State receive financial aid, he

According to Reagan's recently submitted budget, student aid would be cut by 45 percent for fiscal year 1988 - almost $2.42 billion less than what was requested for fiscal year 1987. Therefore, many students would have to consider giving up their fulltime student status and find a job, Viterna

According to a recent article in "The Chronicle of Higher Education," the administration's plan would "eliminate grants to all but the neediest college students and require the remainder of those who need financial help to borrow more and pay higher interest rates than students pay now. Several other higher-education programs, including money for facilities and graduate students, would be abolished."

"It's especially going to be hard on the single parent," Viterna said of the effect of the proposed financial aid cuts.

Though it's not quite time to panic over the possible loss of student funding, Viterna said students still need to be very concerned with the proposal

'Reactions from members of Congress

See AID, Page 12

Nation commemorates anniversary of Challenger tragedy

The space shuttle Challenger exploded 73 seconds into flight one year ago today, killing all seven astronauts aboard and stunning the nation.

From Staff and Wire Reports

NASA workers will observe 73 seconds of silence, schoolchildren will launch a small rocket, and a statue made partly from donated pennies will be dedicated today as Americans recall the Challenger disaster one year ago.

Relatives of the seven shuttle astronauts will mark the sad anniversary by joining in public memorial services or grieving privately. But the family of Ellison S. Onizuka plans a happier observance on Saturday, gathering in Houston for a Hawaiian-style luau.

"We promised Ellison a luau when he got back, with some of his friends, and the luau never occurred," said Claude Onizuka, his younger brother. "So we made a promise to the NASA people that on the one-year anniversary we'd come back and put that luau back on."

On Tuesday, the astronauts' families issued a joint "Letter to America" in which they said they would raise money for space learning centers around the country, "places where children, teachers, and citizens alike can touch the future."

Some ceremonies were scheduled to coincide with the time on Jan. 28, 1986, that Challenger lifted off from Launch Pad 39B.

Just 73 seconds later, the shuttle exploded, killing mission commander Francis R. Scobee, pilot Michael J. Smith, teacher Christa McAuliffe, Hughes Aircraft industry engineer Gregory Jarvis and crew members Judith A. Resnik, Ronald E. McNair and Onizuka.

Many observances are scheduled in schools, since children across the country, planning to take part in McAuliffe's lessons from space, watched the tragedy on televsion.

Manhattan Mayor Rick Mann declared today "Reach for the Stars" day in honor of all astronauts killed in the NASA program.

Manhattan Middle School will have special homeroom activities in memory of the Challenger accident, and several students were chosen to participate in a paper airplane contest, said William Warner, eighthgrade science teacher at the middle school.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration sent packets with suggestions on how to handle the observance in schools to all teachers who applied for the citizenin-space program, he said.

Warner and Nancy McClanathan, reading and global issues teacher at Manhattan Middle School, were two of several Manhattan applicants for the citizen-in-space program. Warner said if he was given the chance to go on the shuttle again, he would take it.

"I'm sure NASA is safe overall," he said

McClanathan agreed with Warner and said she would still be willing to apply for the program.

In Los Angeles, 800 elementary pupils on Tuesday released colorful, helium-filled balloons and laid paper flowers at the base of a mural painted in memory of the crew.

'We must always reach for the stars by always doing our best," said Emmanuel Munoz, 11-year-old student body president.

NASA, at its 10 centers, will observe 73 seconds of silence today at the launch time of 11:38 a.m. Flags will be lowered to half-staff, and President Reagan will address NASA employees by a satellite television hookup later in the day.

There also will be a moment of silence at the Seattle Center Flag Pavillion, in the shadow of the Space Needle; at Morton Thiokol's Wasatch Operations in Utah, where

See SHUTTLE, Page 12

By The Associated Press

INTERNATIONAL

Military, rebels clash in Manila

MANILA, Philippines — Government troops and supporters of Ferdinand E. Marcos clashed outside a walled television station where mutinous soldiers held out Tuesday after President Corazon Aquino announced she crushed their revolt.

The coup attempt was the most serious effort by disgruntled soldiers to grab power since Aquino became president in February.

More than 160 rebel soldiers, about 50 pro-Marcos civilians and a few police held the complex housing Channel 7 and radio station DZBB. It was taken over in a pre-dawn coup attempt that included attacks on five military garrisons in which one rebel was killed and 16 were wounded.

Defense Minister Rafael Ileto said 271 conspirators had been arrested and at least 70 remained at large.

Military chief Gen. Fidel V. Ramos said the mutineers were supporters of ex-president Marcos who wanted to destabilize the country before Monday's nationwide plebiscite on Aquino's proposed constitution, which guarantees her a six-year term. About 300 Marcos supporters gathered on EDSA boulevard late Tuesday near the broadcast center, where they built bonfires, hurled stones at police and shouted, "We want Marcos, we want Marcos." Troops fired tear gas and smoke bombs at the crowd several times. The crowd fell back, only to regroup and continue taunting police and troops. Reporters saw at least six Marcos loyalists taken into custody.

Soviets continue space programs

MOSCOW - In the year since space shuttle Challenger's explosion halted manned U.S. space exploration, the Soviet Union has forged ahead with an ambitious program of endurance missions, space construction and inauguration of a second orbiting station.

While failures in the Kremlin's space program have often gone unreported, 1986 appeared to be a successful year. The state-run media have predicted 1987 will be another busy one, beginning with a mission to the new Mir space station.

No date for the launch has been announced, but the Tass news agency reported Jan. 16 that the Progress-27 cargo vessel had been sent to the Mir station to take fuel and supplies for a manned mission

REGIONAL

Senate begins work on liquor bill

TOPEKA - The Senate Federal and State Affairs Committee began work Tuesday on drafting a proposal to overhaul the state's liquor laws and implement the liquor-by-the-drink amendment approved by voters in November.

Sen. Ed Reilly Jr., R-Leavenworth, chairman of the committee, said he hopes to have a bill ready by the end of this week and plans to hold only one day of hearings next week.

Although the committee took no formal action on a set of recommendations from the Kansas Liquor Law Review Commission, members did discuss proposals to include in a liquor-by-the-drink

Reilly said he wants to draft a "clean" bill designed only to put the constitutional amendment allowing the sale of liquor by the drink in public places into effect. Other changes should be handled in separate legislation to make it easier to get the liquor-by-the-drink bill through the Legislature.

Reilly said he expects the Senate to act quickly on the measure, although he expects slower going in the House.

"Obviously, this is not going to pass quickly," Reilly said. "This isn't going to be a perfect piece of legislation."

Dog Days Spectaculars!

$17.98 Compact Discs

$13.98

Thursday, Friday & Saturday

NATIONAL

Inmates set fires, fight in prison

PITTSBURGH - Inmates evacuated from their cells because of an accidental fire set blazes throughout the prison Tuesday, battled guards and each other and then barricaded themselves inside an auditorium where they started a major fire, authorities said.

At least 25 inmates and three guards were injured from fighting or suffered smoke inhalation before all the fires were extinguished, said Thomas Seiverling, spokesman for the State Correctional Institution at Pittsburgh, also called Western Pen.

All the inmates were stripped, searched and returned to their cells by early afternoon, officials said

A fire official said bricks were hurled at firefighters from an outdoor exercise yard where guards had held 700 to 800 inmates, many dressed in bedclothes, for eight hours in 4-degree cold after the first fire broke out in a storage area.

"There was nothing easy about today," said the fire official, Assistant Chief Charlie Dickinson.

There was no indication that the disturbance was planned or in any way a direct result of conditions at the 105-year-old, maximumsecurity prison. About 1,600 inmates are crowded into two main cellblocks designed to hold 1,100, Seiverling said.

"It appears the initial fire was an accident," he said. "Some inmates were willing to take advantage of the situation."

The prison, built in 1882, is undergoing a $20 million renovation, including the construction of new cell blocks.

Navy moves into Mediterranean

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration has ordered the Navy to extend the deployment of the aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy in the Mediterranean Sea.

The move maintains two carrier battle groups in the Mediterranean indefinitely, the Pentagon said.

Informed sources who asked not to be named said the order was issued as a precaution in response to the recent wave of hostagetaking in Lebanon and reports that Anglican church envoy Terry Waite was missing.

A source, who spoke only on condition of anonymity, stressed Tuesday the Navy had not been given any instructions to prepare for a military strike in Lebanon or elsewhere. But the source agreed the two carriers would begin moving eastward toward the Middle East "as a precaution, to be prepared for any contingency."

The sources also disclosed that the Navy had issued orders to its Mideast Task Force to move some smaller warships deeper into the Persian Gulf. The Navy has no carriers in the region, but does have five smaller combat ships assigned to the gulf.

The order to the ships in the gulf was described as a U.S. sign of support for the Organization of Islamic Conference that got under way Tuesday in Kuwait. The conference opened despite vows by pro-Iranian terrorists to disrupt it.

PEOPLE

Liberace's illness linked to anemia

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. - Liberace is gravely ill with anemia, emphysema and heart disease, a publicist said Tuesday, one day after his manager denied a report he had AIDS and insisted the pianist simply was anemic from dieting.

The flashy 67-year-old showman, known by the trademark candelabra atop his piano, was under the care of doctors at his home here, according to a statement issued by publicist Denise Collier in New York.

SAFEWAY

222 N. Sixth 3011 Anderson (Village Plaza)

New Store Hours 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. 7 days a week

OFFER GOOD 1/28-2/3

Ground I	Beef	000	11.
5 lb. chub	pack	894	ID.

El Toro Burritos 4/$1 Assorted varieties....

Sunkist Navel Oranges 15/$1

Coors 6 pack $2.49 Regular and light.....

The All-Campus Leadership Workshop is coming

Saturday, Jan. 31st is the day for . . . Leadership: Accept the Challenge K-State Union Little Theatre 8:30-11:55 a.m.

Programs Include:

Delegation Motivation Attitudes Burnout

Goal Setting Leadership Styles SGA Funding Campus Issues

Everyone Welcome

Sponsored by Student Governing Association, University Activities Board, Mortar Board

NOTICE:

STUDENT HEALTH FEE

Entitles you to all the services available at a reduced cost at Lafene Health Center.

NOTE: The student health fee is not a substitute for health insurance. A minimal user charge will be assessed for some services.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CONTACT

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"Your Medical Facility"

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

U-LEARN is looking for a few good volunteers for this spring. Don't waste away the spring hours — be a U-LearN volunteer. Call 532-6442 or stop by Holton Hall 02.

ALPHA MU ALPHA: All resumes are due Friday, and members should contact Teresa Leighty. Also, there will be a field trip Friday to Hallmark. Members should contact Angie Rowland if interested.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is now posting sign-up schedules for on-campus employment interviews by Kansas, regional and national employers. All eligible candidates are urged to register and apply.

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in Union Activites Center and are due Feb. 6 at 5

CONGRESSIONAL TEACHER SCHOLAR-SHIP PROGRAM information and applications forms available in Bluemont 017.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION STUDENT COUNCIL applications are available in Blu 13 and are due Monday.

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3.

U-LEARN will have a table in the Union from 9

STUDENTS IN SOLIDARITY WITH CEN-TRAL AMERICA meets at 12:30 p.m.

UNIVERSITY FOR MAN will have a table in the Union from 10 a.m to 2 p.m.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Lynn Marie Firestone at 1:30 p.m. in Bluemont 368. The dissertation topic is "Teachers 368. The dissertation topic is "Teachers Knowledge and Attitudes about Child Abuse and Neglect: A Case Study.

UNITED NATIONS meets at 7 p.m. in Union 205. Anyone interested in attending the model United Nations in Nebraska is invited.

MINORITY ASSEMBLY OF STUDENTS IN HEALTH meets at 8 p.m. in Union 20

THURSDAY

AG AMBASSADORS meet at 6 p.m. in Waters

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL ENGINEERS meets at 1:30 p.m. in Ackert 120.

ALPHA MU ALPHA meets at 4 p.m. in Union

SAILING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208

Falsetto's PIZZA

2 Large One-Topping Pizzas $14

2 Med. Two-Topping Pizzas $12.25 Plus a FREE Quart of Pepsi

Buy a 10" Supreme, Receive One FREE!

We Have Expanded to serve you quicker & better.

FREE DELIVERY 539-3830

1127 Moro-Aggieville

Grill Open

Til 1 a.m.!

TONIGHT

Mexican Beer $1.25

Tequila $1.25 Draws 80¢

Well Drinks $1.50 Wine $1

McCain Auditorium

The Young Americans

"Around the World in 80 Days" An All New Musical Revue

Thursday, January 29, 1987

Telefund to target alumni donations

By STACEY CAMPBELL Collegian Reporter

In the coming months, students will have an opportunity to help finance scholarships for fellow classmates by placing telephone calls to K-State alumni.

Throughout February and March, participants in the K-State Telefund will raise money by telephoning alumni and asking for contributions.

The KSU Foundation works with each college in organizing the Telefund, said Gordon Dowell, assistant director of communications for the Foundation.

'We contact people in the colleges and they select others to serve as Telefund coordinators," Dowell said.

Each college's administration decides how to use the money raised by the Telefund, he said. Usually the money is used for college scholarships, educational materials or supplies.

For example, coordinators in the College of Agriculture select four team captains for each night the college must call, and each captain recruiting students to work and the is required to find 10 people to call alumni for that team's night.

Each night a 30-minute orientation session will be held to teach students how to respond to alumni questions and help them become comfortable during the calling session, Dowell said.

"Each year we try to increase the level of each alumni's giving," he said. "For example, if an alumni gave $50 last year, we might ask for $75 this year.'

Students do not use high-pressure sales tactics. Instead, the telephone acts as a facilitator for alumni who want to donate, Dowell said.

The first Telefund, held in 1979, raised $110,000 from donations of more than 4,000 K-State alumni.

Last year's Telefund raised $410,000 - $65,000 more than the previous year. Some of the increase in donations was due to the College of Veterinary Medicine participating for the first time and raising $25,000, Dowell said.

"The increase is due to us (the Foundation) doing a better job, the colleges doing a better job of increased giving of alumni," Dowell said.

The goal for this year's Telefund is to meet and beat last year's totals, Dowell said. To ensure that the goal is reached, the Foundation has implemented some new incentives for this year's Telefund.

"We are expanding publicity about the Telefund by having the colleges include information about the Telefund in the publications they send to alumni," Dowell said. "This year students who call will receive gifts. These gifts go to the students who have the most pledges over a five-evening period.'

The grand prize will be a stereo system. Other prizes include a symphonic video cassette recorder, a portable television and complimentary dinners at local restaurants, Dowell said.

"Our objective is to get the top callers of each college to come back," Dowell said.

In addition, the Foundation will award college-level prizes. These will be given to the person in each college who has the highest onenight pledge total over the time period the college is calling.

Nightly prizes will be given to students having the most pledges each night of the Telefund.

The College of Agriculture uses student leaders to help organize teams for the agriculture Telefund, said John Riley, assistant director of resident instruction for the College of Agriculture.

The fund-raiser is an experience in leadership development for those students involved," Riley said. "I'm pleased with the enthusiasm of the students that do participate. Many times these students act as the link between the University and alumni.'

"The K-State alumni are very supportive," Dowell said. "Twentytwo percent of our alumni support K-State. This is almost four times greater than the 6.2 percent of alumni that support Oklahoma State University.

The information collected by the Council for Financial Aid to Education shows the national average for alumni supporting their university is about 15 percent, Dowell said.

Senate votes on bills for permits, insurance

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - A proposal to require senior citizens to pay for motor vehicle permits when visiting state parks on weekends and holidays was killed Tuesday in the Kansas Senate after it was described as "bad legislation."

The measure failed on a 20-20 vote in the 40-member Senate. Another bill, which would prevent insurance salesmen from writing "brother-inlaw deals" on property and casualty insurance policies, cleared the chamber 40-0 and was forwarded to the House for consideration.

Sen. James Francisco, D-Mulvane, led the effort to reject the campingfee bill, saying it was unfair to senior citizens to charge them for visiting state parks that often are empty on weekends.

The bill would have eliminated a current senior citizen exemption to the fees charged campers using state parks. There are about 18,000 special permits issued each year for senior citizens who park their mobile homes and recreational vehicles in campgrounds at state parks.

Sen. Gus Bogina, R-Lenexa, said the Parks and Resources Authority estimated the bill would generate about $142,000 by charging the senior citizens who now camp free on

ROARING

TWENTIES

Every Wednesday

shelled peanuts & popcorn

(on the floor please)

(win a meal)

Join the Fun

4-9 p.m.

$1.50 drinks

25¢ dawgs

meal of fortune

"This would provide better utilization of our parks."

Francisco rejected the argument, however, and cited a number of state parks which he said are empty on weekends during the summer camping months. He said placing fees on the senior citizens would further discourage use of the parks.

Neil Arasmith. Sen. R-Phillipsburg, said the insurance bill would allow the insurance commissioner's office to strictly police commercial lines of property and casualty insurance policies written by companies operating in Kansas.

The most important thing about this bill is that it would do away with brother-in-law deals," Arasmith said, referring to policies written by insurance salesmen for their friends which have special provisions or discounted rates not available to the general public. The insurance commissioner would be able to set specific rates and give him the power to reject rating plans not meeting his standards. The bill stems from summer study which revealed the commissioner lacked legal power to regulate deviations from rate filings.

NIGHT

On Wed!

Well Drinks

Chicken Fry

Steak Special

$1.50

$5.95

Concern for missing envoy rises; reports differ

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Fears grew Tuesday for Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite, last seen eight days ago when he left for secret talks with Shiite Moslem kidnappers to seek the release of hostages.

One report Tuesday said Waite was still negotiating. Another said he was placed under house arrest by the Moslems he went to bargain with.

Archbishop Robert Runcie of Canterbury said in London he was "greatly concerned" about Waite's Waite arrived in the Lebanese capital on Jan. 12. Since then, 11 more foreigners have been abducted in Beirut. The latest, a Saudi Arabian, was grabbed by gunmen Mon-

Police evacuated eight French teachers from Moslem west Beirut to Christian east Beirut on Tuesday. A police official said the French were taken across the capital's dividing Green Line at the request of the French government. The eight had been teaching for some time at three schools in west Beirut, said the official, who refused to be further identified.

The evacuation came after the spate of kidnappings sent the number of foreigners missing in Lebanon soaring to 26 - eight Americans, six Frenchmen, two West Germans, two Britons, two Saudis, an Irishman, an Italian, a South Korean, an Indian and two as yet unidentified foreigners. Three gunmen grabbed Khaled Deeb, a Saudi Arabian, in the predominantly Shiite Maramel neighborhood on Beirut's airport highway at 10 p.m. Monday, police

They said they have no further in-

Radio stations operating in Lebanon reported a frenzy of rumors about Waite, Runcie's personal emissary. They variously reported Waite in Beirut, outside Beirut, kidnapped, under house arrest or continuing negotiations. They had various groups involved in the negotiations with him. The Christian Voice of Free Lebanon radio said Waite was "continuing tough negotiations with the hostage-holders in Beirut." The radio, with a history of inaccuracies about Moslem-related matters, gave no attribution.

Kuwait's official news agency KUNA said Monday night that the kidnappers bargaining with Waite had placed him under house arrest in a secret location.

The agency quoted unidentified sources close to the negotiations as saying, "They (the kidnappers) dehabitation after his attempts to reach a quick agreement were snarled."

Runcie, commenting on Waite's longest underground mission in Lebanon since 1985, said he had "no direct evidence" to confirm the Kuwaiti version.

Druse warlord Walid Jumblatt's Progressive Socialist Party, whose militia has been responsible for Waite's security, refused to com-

Waite was last seen Jan. 20 evening as he left his seaside Riviera Hotel, reportedly to negotiate with Islamic Jihad, a pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem group.

Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, holds Terry A. Anderson, 39, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press; and Thomas Sutherland, 55, of Fort Collins, Colo., acting dean of agriculture at the FREE HAPPY HOUR a reciprocal club HORS D'OEUVRES "Where the excitement 5-7:00! is building" 1115 Moro • Aggieville downtown 418 Poyntz 776-0030

NOW FEATURING

AT 1102 LARAMIE AND 2706 ANDERSON OPEN 24 HRS.

PERFORMANCE GASOLINE CONTAINS NO ALCOHOL

539-3854

THE DIAMOND DIFFERENCE

Choosing where to buy your diamond is as important as choosing the actual stone. Familiarize yourself with the Holiday Jewelers' difference and you'll see why that is the only choice to make.

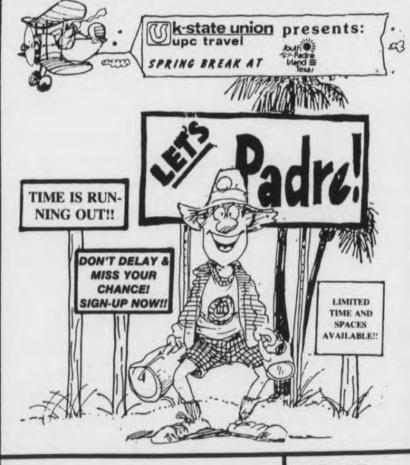

QUALITY Our diamonds are expertly graded. We will give you a complete analytical appropriate of your diamond and show. you why your diamond is FINANCING

PRICE tively priced every day We don't have to entice you with percentage off sales TRADE IN POLICY and will allow the full retail price if you are trading for a diamond of greater value CONFIDENCE Plan protects you against loss or damage for one year Our experts will inspect your

"East of Holidome"

mounting and clean your diamonds at no extra charge If you buy your diamond here we will do eyerything diamond in its setting for five STORE HOURS 9:30-8:00 Thursday

5 POYNTZ MANHATTAN 913-776-7821

Hayes House of Music

Guitar and Bass Guitar Lessons Available

327 POYNTZ, MANHATTAN

7 nights lodging at deluse Sunchase IV Condominiums with fully equipped kitchens, wet bar, color TV, & washer/Gryer. The basch front resort boasts & tennis courts, exercise room, Jacuzzi, 2 pools and an attached shopping mail. Welcome party with DJ, music and activities Trip staff advisors Island Club Sports package with unlimited use of sports equipment (windsurfing, snorkeling, boogie boards, volleyball, tensis & raquetball). Chance to win one of sight drawings for 5 PREE tanning sessions! CONNECTION

Matemores, Mexico shopping trip Party on the Imabelia Queen Siver Boat Matemores, Mexico Sightelub Tour

$197 -WITHOUT TRANSPORTATION March 14-20, 1987

$289 WITH ROUNDTRIP HOTORCOACH THANSPORTATION March 13-21, 1987 ISA & MASTERCARD ACCEPTED

SIGN UP NOW! K-STATE UNION ACTIVITIES CENTER

8:00am-3:00pm or CALL 832-8671

Kansas State

EDITOR Jonie Trued MANAGING EDITOR Sue Dawson NEWS EDITOR Erin Eicher

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Deron Johnson PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER Sheila Hutinett

EDITORIAL BOARD: Susan Baird, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Judy Goldberg, Ron Honig, Pat Hund, Deron Johnson, Judy Lundstrom, Scott Miller, Andy Nelson, Patti Paxson, Julie Reynolds, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Free expression rights on trial in court case the U.S. Supreme Court which significant. has the potential to erode the constitutionally freedoms of student journalists in a most serious way.

The high court recently agreed to hear a case involving censorship of a high school paper in the St. Louis suburb of Hazelwood. It is the first such case the court has agreed to hear, and a ruling is expected in the spring of 1988.

The incident involved the school's principal pulling two stories from the paper, one describing student experiences with pregnancy and the other dealing with the impact of divorce on children.

suit, losing in federal district newspapers are often produced in court in St. Louis. However, a federal appeals court ruled for the students and rejected the schoolers trying to put one over protection.

now is to determine whether the was founded. paper is a public forum or simply

There is a case pending before court agreed to hear the case is

It could mean it is poised to guaranteed overturn previous rulings on student freedom. This is a distinct possibility considering the conservative slant of the court and that by simply refusing to hear the case it would have reaffirmed the students' rights.

However, the court's hearing of the case could signify an intent to strengthen student rights by chiseling a facet previously unaddressed.

Regardless of the court's rationale, a ruling against the students would seriously impede student expression and would generate repercussions nation-In 1983, three students filed wide, including at colleges where class situations.

This is not just a case of high district court's claim that the on authority figures. It is a case newspaper wasn't considered a which will put on trial the "public forum" and thus was not freedom of expression, the guaranteed First Amendment discussion of important issues in a legitimate forum and the prin-The question facing the court ciples upon which this country

We hope the court fully apa class project susceptible to ad- preciates the magnitude of the ministrators' censoring. That the case and rules accordingly.

MR. SHULTZ, IS IT TRUE YOU HAVE A TIGER HAD YOU BEEN INFORMED ABOUT IT ? TATOOED ON YOUR BUTTOCK ? WILL THE GEE! HAS HAVE YOU WILL YOU INVESTIGATION THIS BEEN BE PRESENTING BEEN ABLE GET TO THE GROWING THE EVIDENCE TO SEE THE BOTTOM TO CONGRESS OUT OF ALL EVIDENCE OF THIS ? PROPORTION? OR THE YOURSELF PRESIDENT? RECENTLY? FOGGY BOTTOMGATE @1987 THE BUFFALO NEWS

Blue Key 'honor' questionable

Last week, I received a letter from Blue Key, an honorary fraternity describing itself "a service organization." The letter began with "Dear Student" and then informed me that my nomination for consideration for membership was "a tremendous honor."

After reading the entire letter, however, I decided against joining — partly because I don't want to wear a blue suit to Landon Lectures and partly because I found a few objectionable (read discriminatory) items in Blue Key's statement of purpose.

The letter informed me that "Blue Key members accept as their purpose: Their belief in God will be perpetuated and intensified, the government of the United States will be supported and defended and the established institutions of society and principles of good citizenship will be preserved."

What's so objectionable about that? For starters, there's that bit about belief in God. If the statement of purpose is to mean anything, and I assume it does, then agnostics and atheists cannot join Blue Key without first compromising their beliefs or their honesty. Technically, polytheistic believers might also have trouble with belief in a "God," rather than gods.

The University's Notice of Non-Discrimination states: "The University is committed to a policy of non-discrimination on the basis of race, sex, national origin, handicap or other non-merit reasons..." Since Blue Key fancies itself as a service organization, I fail to see how one's religion - or lack thereof - should have any bearing on membership.

Of course, that is my reading. I'm sure the folks at Blue Key have their reasons for writing a statement excluding atheists and agnostics from their ranks. The question is, are those reasons justifiable?

I also consulted the General Catalog's explanation of the University's Affirmative Action program, which was a bit more specific: "The Affirmative Action Office is available to students on matters of equal opportunity in all areas, including admissions, access to programs and activities and employment. The University is committed to a policy of equal educational opportunity regardless of race, sex, religion, national origin, age or handicap.

SCOTT MILLER Collegian Columnist

That's great, but someone apparently forgot to inform those "individuals of allaround ability" at Blue Key. The point is not whether Blue Key will allow atheists, agnostics or polytheists to join. The president of Blue Key assured me that no one would be asked to take an oath. The point is that by joining an organization which specifically seeks to intensify the belief in one god, one must de facto cease to be an atheist, agnostic or polytheist.

Next, there is the spiel about supporting and defending the government of the United States. Note, Blue Key does not necessarily support and defend the U.S. Constitution, but the U.S. government. So what exactly does it mean to support and defend the U.S. govern-

Does it mean one must approve of this nation's history of intervention in Latin America - a history which continues today as the present administration wages its proxy war against the people of Nicaragua? Does it mean one must approve of this government's cooperation with the Israeli regime in its endeavor to destroy the Palestinian people?

Or how about this country's position as the only member of Western society that still executes its own citizens? Or, does it mean one must applaud Congress' genocidal campaign against the people of Big Mountain, Ariz., a forced removal of more than 10,000 native Americans from land both legally and traditionally theirs? Do these sound like the "principles of good citizenship" Blue Key members have in mind?

In all fairness, however, I assume Blue Key is willing to overlook these minor details and offer their support and defense to the U.S. government because of the ideals which it claims to represent - ideals like TRUTH, FREEDOM and EQUALITY. Yet, if that is the case, then I'm left wondering how an organization can talk about TRUTH when it is apparently so insecure about its own ASSUMPTIONS masquerading as TRUTH, that it discriminates against ideas like atheism, agnosticism and polytheism.

Indeed, how can the folks at Blue Key talk about FREEDOM and EQUALITY, when they imply in their statement of purpose that people of certain political and religious persuasions need not apply? Why, the whole thing smacks of hypocrisy, and perhaps that is why Blue Key has chosen to defend and support the government of the United States rather than the Constitution.

Again, the point is not that only anarchists might be barred from membership in Blue Key, for surely one could lie and say that he or she supports the U.S. government. No, the point is that one can either hold certain political opinions or one can lie to appear that one holds those political opinions - a Catch-22 for anyone with liberal leanings and a shred of integrity.

Then, as if to contradict everything it has just stated about its required belief in God and support and defense of the U.S. government, the letter adds that its members have "an ambition for intellectual attainment." It would seem that "intellectual attainment" does not include discussion of diverse opinions, critical thinking and honesty - in short, REAL education.

But for all the contradictions and seeming violations of the University's commitment to non-discrimination, I'm sure there can be some sort of compromise worked out. Either Blue Key can eliminate the belief in God and the support and defense of the U.S. government as elements of its statement of purpose, or the University can change its policy on non-discrimination to accommodate Blue

A year after disaster, NASA faces new start a.m., the solid rocket boosters on cy refused. the space shuttle Challenger ignited and seven astronauts died NASA forgot that it should also be in a fiery inferno.

In the past year, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the American people should have learned much from this disaster. Before it, shuttle launches were taken for granted, and there was a belief that NASA and the country were invincible. Neither is.

NASA made some terrible mistakes. Half a billion dollars in spending was cut on safety testing, design and development from the time the shuttle program began to when the Challenger exploded one year ago. Government auditors and aerospace experts implored NASA not to cut testing and other and all they stood for.

One year ago today, at 11:38 development work, but the agen-

In its concern to save money, concerned with protecting lives. Faulty welds were performed on the Challenger and then concealed through falsified X-rays to avoid the cost of repair. NASA was spending billions of dollars on shuttle equipment that had not been thoroughly tested.

All of these money-saving tactics were not worth the lives of seven Americans. NASA took a gamble, and it paid in the worst

NASA is starting over again and it is hoped the next shuttle flight - planned for early next year - will be enveloped in all the precautions as the first. On this day, Americans should remember the seven astronauts

Letters

Keep kids out of it

Re: pro-life's march and the subsequent picture appearing in the Jan. 23 Collegian. I applaud Manhattan Right to Life and Dreamhouse Inc., as well as everyone who participated in Thursday's march against the 14-year-old Roe vs. Wade decision. The first amendment to the U.S. Constitution protects its citizens' freedom of speech and their right to peaceably assemble. I urge all mature and well-informed people to participate in such activities, as there are many worthy public issues which should be openly discussed and debated.

However, I strongly object to the use of children in delivering this particular group's message. They should not have carried signs or the coffin as pictured in the Collegian. I personally viewed the demonstration and was disturbed with the children's role.

I doubt these children are fully aware of all the implications and complicated issues involved in abortion. I am rather dubious that all of these children have had the "facts of life" explained to them by their parents, let alone the controversial issues of birth control and abortion. They should not have had to walk in Thursday's frigid weather displaying signs such as "Choose Chastity, Not Annihilation." I would be quite interested in this young girl's opinions on chastity as well as abortion.

Parents, please continue to publicly express your views, but let your children mature and form intelligent, well-informed opinions before they again accompany you in a march across campus.

Geoff R. Andersen graduate in agricultural economics

Not enough space

I was somewhat entertained, but mainly disappointed by the "free advertising" offered by the Collegian to the students running for Student Senate. I have no problem with having my name and picture in the paper. However, I do have a problem with being forced to answer two important questions about my candidacy with 25 words or less - approximately 21/2 lines of print here.

What entertained me so much was that while reading over the questions, I realized they were up to 30 words long. Then I realized with a sudden fear that my picture was going to be a lot more important in this forum of expression than how I felt about important issues. I panicked even more when I discovered that any responses I wrote had the significance of the brand of underwear I use and how often I wash it. I felt it would have been just as important to tell what I had for dinner - in 25 words or less, of course.

It seems that this exercise has little purpose except to briefly introduce the candidates to the students. That is not a bad purpose, except the emphasis seems to have been placed more on appearance than on opinions. It's not that I'm ugly, I think, but I would rather have had the Collegian leave out the picture for a more thorough explanation of my position on the issues.

I felt the newspaper could have better informed the students on their possible future representatives with a different format that lent more to a discussion of the issues. I would dislike winning mainly because of my picture, but I would regret losing because of

By the way, my underwear is mainly J.C. Penney, generic white and is washed after every wearing.

Douglas L. Oetinger junior in general business

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included.

Condom ads rejected by hypocritical media been putting up quite a resistance use of condoms. of late regarding the advertiseperiodicals in this country. Only a have allowed condom commercials to be aired.

This streak of stubborness and "Victorianism" on the part of the media is denying the American - if not life-saving - information. AIDS researchers have pointed out time and time again have performed a valuable ser-

The American media have AIDS besides abstinence is the

The media have no case in their ment of condoms on television opposition to the advertising of and in the more well-known condoms, especially when advertisements dealing with sanitary handful of television stations napkins, douches, spermicidal suppositories, foams and jellies have all graced the pages of America's leading magazines and the screens of America's television stations. If the advertising of condoms public access to very important on television and in the more popular magazines saves one life, then the American media will that the best protection against vice to the public.

K-State student wins $7,000 Amoco award

By PATTI PAXSON Collegian Reporter

For his academic excellence, a student has been awarded $7,000 to pay for his expenses for the 1986-87 year through a grant from the Amoco Foundation Inc.

Paul Johnson, graduate student in mechanical engineering and recipient of the award, said this is the first year the Amoco Master's Fellowship has been offered at K-State. The mechanical engineering department is trying to arrange for the fellowship to be offered every year to a graduate student in the department, he said.

The criteria for choosing the Amoco fellowship recipient is based on outstanding academic performance and the student's potential for success in the engineering profession, said Paul Miller, head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering.

But Johnson said he was chosen because his research on transmissions is very similar to the type of research Amoco is doing.

"I'm interested in researching oils and fuels and the automotive market in general," Johnson said. Johnson, who is from Sedgwick, said he used to work as a test engineer at Funk Manufacturing in Coffeyville after he graduated from K-State in 1984. His undergraduate degree is in mechanical engineer-

Funk Manufacturing donated the transmission on which Johnson is doing his research at K-State, he said. Funk Manufacturing makes industrial-sized, constructionrelated engines. The results of Johnson's research will actually be used by Funk Manufacturing when he graduates with his master's degree in May 1987, he said. "My adviser (Ralph Turnquist, professor of mechanical engineering) and I are hoping to publish a technical paper as a result of this research," Johnson said.

Not only did Amoco award him with a fellowship, but Johnson is being offered a job with Amoco as well. He is scheduled to interview for the job in Chicago, he said. The interview, which will be in February, is for a research position at an Amoco facility just outside of

In addition to his research at K-State, Johnson is active in the Society of Automotive Engineers.

The program's goal is to help in-

The K-State division of the Single seven counties in which it operates.

Parent/Displaced Homemaker Program is a member of the displaced homemakers network, the only organization in the country working at a local, state, regional and national level.

Department of Health low on vaccine supply

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - A statewide whooping cough outbreak - coupled with a national shortage of the diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis vaccine - has exhausted the Kansas Department of Health and Environment's supply of the vaccine.

Bob Moody, health and environment spokesman, said the agency is hoping local county health departments have enough DTP vaccine in stock to tie them over until the state can find a new supplier of the vac-

"We are out," Moody said of the vaccine. "We supply local county health departments and we don't have any at all. Our problem was exacerbated by the pertussis outbreak we've had. Earlier this month, we ran out of the vaccine, although most counties still have some on hand."

Moody said the agency normally distributes 90,000-100,000 doses of the vaccine each year, or an average of 7,500 doses each month. He said the state health agency tries to keep a month's supply in stock.

"The shortage problem is being dealt with in a number of states, Moody said. "I understand Iowa has no DTP vaccine and Missouri is running low.'

The state agency is exploring several ways of alleviating its shortage. It can negotiate with other states to acquire part of their inventories, change the immunization schedules now in effect to conserve the vaccine or seek congressional approval to begin distributing DTP vaccine it has stored in an emergen-

Hopefully by mid-February there will be more vaccine available," Moody said. "Meanwhile, we're trying to find some on a temporary basis. However, we have not changed our recommendation of immunization schedules.'

The normal schedule calls for children to receive three shots and then two later "booster" shots to provide maximum protection against the three diseases.

The Kansas health department gets its DTP vaccine from the Centers for Disease Control.

Program benefits first-time job hunters

By LAUREN BRUNO

Collegian Reporter

As college students face the problems of securing employment after graduation, people from small Kansas communities are attempting to enter the job market with the help of a University-sponsored program.

The Single Parent/Displaced Homemaker Program has been initiated to help single parents and other people trying to gain employment, said Joan Goins, program coordinator of the program.

"The program is targeted toward single parents and people entering the work force for the first time or returning after several years," said Goins. But anyone is welcome.

Last summer, a special class offered by University For Man was held for college students. The students found the class to be especially helpful for techniques in resume writing, she said.

Students are also welcome to attend classes held in the community, she said.

The program was initiated six years ago by Evelyn Hausmann, associate professor of the Department of Adult and Occupational Education.

The program is currently serving seven counties in the surrounding area: Clay, Geary, Marshall, Pottawatomie, Riley, Wabaunsee and Washington counties.

The program aids people by offering classes to individuals who are interested in entering the job market. The class offers vocational and occupational guidance, individual supportive counseling, personal development training and information on how to write a resume and prepare for a interview.

During a class session, guest speakers from businesses in the community conduct interviews with participants to help them develop selfconfidence, Goins said.

The program is funded by the state dividuals in all 62 communities in the Department of Education in the Vocational Education Division and co-sponsored by the College of Education. All classes and materials are free to anyone interested.

"Our program at (the University) is unique in that it is the only rural outreach program where services are provided directly in the communities," she said.

Goins teaches classes in each community. Classes are offered during the spring, summer and fall, and enrollment varies from five to 15 people in the community.

'Most of the people we help have a high school level education.

"Since September, 39 percent of the participants were farm families," Goins said. As a result of the severe crisis, many farm families recently suffered, and farmers' wives are entering the work force for the first time, she said.

MEIGHBORHOOD BAR TONIGHT $2 Pitchers Thursday SDAZES Saturday Magnum PI night 16 oz. Coors/Coors Lt. cans Tom Selleck

> 1800 Claffin 539-9619

lookalike contest

AGGIEVILLE

Wednesday 75¢

> Draws $1.50

House drinks $2

Blended drinks $1

Wines 616 N. 12th 539-9967

CHILDREN: THE MOST IMPORTANT ASSET

YOU'LL EVER HAVE

· We are licensed by the

All our teachers have degrees in ECE and/or

Elementary Education

NOW ENROLLING FOR

SPRING SEMESTER

AND SUMMER CARE

Convenient Location

state of Kansas

Kiver

Panhellenic Council

announces

Open Rush

February 8-23, 1987

The participating sororities are:

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

ALPHA XI DELTA

KAPPA DELTA

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

* Register with Greek Affairs in Holton

"Twisters" Wed.... Thurs..... Male Strippers "Sheer Delight" ."Reel Features"

Sat..... "Reel Features"

 Cover charge & ID required Next to Tuttle Creek Dam

537-9877

Leadership focus of SGA seminar

Routson said the topics are geared for both students involved in campus activities and those who aren't. The topics include attitudes, burnout, delegating authority, setting goals,

leadership styles, motivating

Other discussion sessions are

"This workshop is held at the time of year when students are interested

There will be a mandatory session for candidates running in the SGA general election Feb. 10 and 11. Can-in an SGA leadership position," targeted at students interested in members and SGA funding.

becoming involved in SGA.

By The Collegian Staff

Students who want to "Accept The Challenge" of being leaders can attend the All-Campus Leadership Workshop Saturday in the K-State

Sponsored by Student Governing Association, the workshop is open to students involved in campus activities and those wanting to become involved in campus organizations or to learn the fundamentals of leader-

"It's important to know that anyone can come to the workshop," said Sally Routson, coordinator of student activities. "There are a variety of sessions for individual students who want to tone up their personal development skills."

BLAFLIN

Books & Copies

OPEN DAILY

IN AGGIEVILLE USA

TONITE

Ladies Night

$2 Pitchers

$1.25 Coolers

Thursday

ONE NIGHT ONLY!

The

Verandas

539-9064

Sun.12-9

Denison & Claffin

•4¢ self-service copies

Resume service

FirstBank Center

•Full service copy center

didates will draw for positions on the ballot and receive information about election rules and procedures, spending guidelines and literature and Routson said.

posting regulations.

In addition, the workshop will include sessions about campaign strategies and campus issues. Steven Johnson, student body president, will moderate a panel discussion on the athletic fee and the effects of the statewide budget cuts on the Univer-

The workshop will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the Union Little Theater with Robert Krause, vice president for institutional advancement, giving the welcome and opening remarks.

Sessions will be held on the hour beginning at 9 a.m. and will continue through noon. Routson said students may attend as many sessions as they wish or come and go when conve-

Kansas State University

Univ. of Calif.—Santa Barbara

5 Actors From The London Stage appearing for

5 Exciting Days

Wed., Jan. 28 Trevor Baxter

in W.H. Auden's "The Sea And The Mirror" Wareham Theatre—8 p.m. FREE ADMISSION

Thurs., Jan. 29

Pinter This Evening Readings from Harold Pinter's plays Nichols Theatre 8 p.m.—$5/$3

Fri. & Sat. Jan. 30 & 31

The Tempest by William Shakespeare McCain Auditorium 8 p.m.-$8/$4

For Tickets Call 532-6398 Mon.-Fri. 12-5 p.m.

Kansas Committee for the Humanities

COMMUNITY HEALTH CARE

Out-patient services

DayStay Surgery

Laser Surgery

1120 Moro

•Intersive Care

 Obstetrics Level II Intensive Care nursery Birthing room, Birthing chair, Pediatrics X-ray services Mammography

Rooming-in

Nuclear medicine C.T. scanning Respiratory Therapy

 Physical Therapy Durable Medical Equipment Center

EMERGENCY CARE CENTER 913-778-3300

Full Physician Coverage Weekends and Holidays

Working Together for a Healthier You

SUNSET AVE. AT CLAFLIN RD., MANHATTAN, KS

Hall 203 by Feb. 6.

* $5 Registration Fee

LEARNING AND Large Fenced Playground CHILD CARE CENTER 1811 BROWNING 776-4444

MANY LEARNING PROGRAMS AVAILABLE

 Pre-school-3-year-old classes and 4-year-old · Full-and half-day care

Drop-in care

Before and after school care (we bus to Amanda

Arnold and Marlatt) Hot Lunches and Snacks LOW FEES-ROFESSIONAL CARE

FULL DAY CARE

$7.95 PER DAY

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Take This Coupon To Wendy's

99¢ SINGLE SPECIAL

412 N. 3rd Street

3006 Anderson

Local election filing deadlines prompt candidates

By JUDD ANNIS Collegian Reporter

The decision not to run for reelection by three veteran members of the Manhattan-Ogden school board has led to the most wide-open race of recent times.

Only one incumbent was among the seven candidates who filed for the four, four-year terms on the USD 383 School Board before the filing deadline noon Tuesday.

Opting not to run for re-election were three K-State faculty members: Frank Tillman, head of the Department of Industrial Engineering; Charles Thompson, professor of psychology; and Bob Newsome, area extension director.

Three of the candidates who filed for the four-year terms have K-State connections: Jim Lindquist, director of Riley County Extension; Mary Nichols, temporary instructor of speech; and Bob Shoop, professor of educational law.

A longtime area resident, Lindquist has lived in Manhattan since

Nichols, a former high school English teacher, has served as school board observer for the League of Women Voters.

Shoop was named one of four outstanding teachers of K-State in 1976-77, as well as serving on the Mc-Cain Auditorium Board of Directors.

Other candidates are Shirley unsuccessful in the attempt. Bramhall, Joleen Hill, Flordie M. Pettis and Barbara Withee.

Bramhall is a district parent with a child at each level - elementary, middle and high school.

Hill, wife of the late school board member Don Hill, previously applied for the remainder of her husband's term after his death in 1985, but was

Pettis, a Manhattan resident for 23 years, is currently an eight-county area manager for the state's Depart ment of Social Rehabilitation Ser-

The only incumbent running, Withee has already served three full four-year terms. She has been a member of the board since 1975.

Commission candidates face spring primary

By The Collegian Staff

Eight area residents competing for three City Commission seats will have to first participate in a primary election on March 3.

The candidates will be competing

Lindamood and Mayor Rick Mann.

Lindamood and Mann announced they will not be running for reelection. Denning, president of a local marketing and advertising firm, will be seeking her second Joining incumbent Denning will

Bob Newsome, area extension director with K-State and 16-year veteran of the Manhattan school board.

Recreation Board, co-chairman of the Quality of Life bond issue campaign and K-State graduate.

Roger Maughmer, supervisor for the local Southwestern Bell office and graduate of Washburn Universi-

Walt Gatsche, local private investigator and bail bondsman.

Richard Hayter, associate professor and director of engineering extension at K-State.

High School, resident of Manhattan since 1942 and K-State graduate.

- Stanley Crowder, K-State Union clerk, a Manhattan resident for 10 years and U.S. Army retiree.

would, at least once a week, eat at the residence halls to make myself accessible to the students who live in Maintaining visits to clubs and liv-

Bradley would also like to set up a peer evaluation team," consisting of students. The team would enter a ing groups is important, he said.

the halls," Bradley said.

Due to the death of Hill, a two-year unexpired term needs to be filled. This seat is separate from the other four spots available because Hill died while serving as a school board member.

Filing for the two-year unexpired term are: Rudy Clarenburg, professor of anatomy and physiology; Beverly E. Eversmeyer, the only teacher to file for the school board; Allen Nesbitt, a Junction City car dealership sales representative; and Gary Turner, a district supervisor for True Value Harware.

If more than twice as many candidates file as there are positions available, a primary election is held to reduce the number of candidates, said Eileen Colbert, of the Riley

Although no primary will be required for the seven candidates for the four, four-year terms, a March 3 primary will be held to reduce the number of candidates for the twoyear term to two. The general election is April 7.

classroom activities and conduct an

Students would be able to openly discuss problems they are experiencing with a certain class, the evaluation would be given to the instructor, and class improvements could be

"This is a way for students to have made immediately, Bradley said.

open discussion with the students.

Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--I Can't Believe It's YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores

Enjoy smooth, creamy

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

"Make A Splash" Aggieville-Manhattan

County Clerk's Office. for the seats currently held by com-- Kent Glasscock, president of - Ruth A. Schrum, American missioners Nancy Denning, Suzanne Kansas Lumber Co. Homestore, history teacher at Fort Riley Junior chairman of Manhattan Parks and

By JULIE REYNOLDS

Business/Government Editor

The role of the student body president, communication between the student body president and students, and new ideas concerning K-State were discussed by two candidates in separate news conferences.

Brett Bromich, senior in marketing, announced his candidacy Monday, and Kent Bradley, junior in nutrition science, announced his candidacy Tuesday.

"The majority of the student body president's time is spent representing the students to various organizations," Bromich said. "The president can get the most accomplished in these committees."

PREGNANT?

FREE Pregnancy Tests

SAGER

NEED HELP?

For confidential

help, call

"The role of the student body president is representing students' views and concerns to the faculty, administration, Board of Regents and Legislature," Bradley said.

Bromich said in the past the president has been concerned with "dollar-oriented projects," and the president does not have authority to accomplish projects which require

A major project Bromich would like to accomplish is getting a guarantee from the administration stating students will always have control over student monies.

Bromich would also like to see the image of academic programs improved.

"We have some excellent pro-

Hansen

Nutrition Center

Across from Village Plaze . WEIDER BODY-BUILDING

PRODUCTS

ALL MAJOR BRANDS

OF NATURAL FOODS

. NATURAL DIET AIDS

. BOOKS ON NUTRITION

537-4571

Two students announce presidential candidacies grams here," he said. "Many colleges are accredited, and K-State has a few degrees that are only offered

> "The programs need to be talked about within the University and to high school students, potential K-State students," Bromich said. 'By improving the overall image of K-State, you enhance desirability to come here.'

> By increasing the image of K-State's academic programs to potential employers, Bromich said a K-State degree takes on a greater

Bradley said the student body president must be accessible to the

"As student body president, I classroom, at the teacher's request, a direct voice in the quality of educacomplete a written survey of the tion they receive in the classroom."

Get Personal in Collegian Classifieds

THE ICE CREAM SOCIAL WE'VE MOVED

1439 Anderson Student Services Center

Stop By And See Our New Store! 537-7079

We at Hair Westloop are happy to announce that Marcia Khaledy has joined our staff. Marcia is formerly of Crimpers and invites both regular and new customers to call her for an appointment.

539-6001 1318 Westloop

103 S. Fourth 537-9180 Is there life after breath? Zmile enhancement by the professionals

514 Humboldt Plaza Hygiene Department 913-537-8823

Teeth cleaning from $20 ASSOCIATES. DENTAL

7:00 a.m. Pinstripes 7:00 p.m. Sedgefield[®] Jeans Remember not so long ago, when people would look at you and say, "That boy is going to set the business world on fire!" (Your favorite activity at the time was recess.) Now, you're a man well on the way to making his first millionbut you still take your leisure time very seriously. Some preferences never change. Sedgefield® Jeans. Comfort. Fit. Fun. "Now appearing at" 1100 Westloop Place Westloop Shopping Center 9:30 5:30 M SAT TILL 8:30 THURS

FRUITS of the VINE

Me, thee and a great American Chablis

Wine snobs have kept a good thing to themselves long enough.

Many people believe a knowledge of "good" wines is a sign of ultimate sophistication and that wine connoisseurs have some exotic and secret chromosome that allows them to call themselves experts — oenologists — those who study wine making.

Americans in particular are subdued, even awed, by the Frenchman's or the Italian's ability to choose the perfect dinner wine.

But while the experts are debating acidity, residual alcohol content and the effects of old or new wood on red wines, you don't really have to know all the details of wine making in order to enjoy drinking it.

What wine connoisseurship does NOT require is exact wine tasting techniques, a huge budget, command of a foreign language or time to memorize a list of wineries and vintages that continues to enlarge every year.

The first topic of decision for the beginning wine enjoyer is what taste is generally considered to be "good" by the individual. Wine comes in all flavors — sweet, sour, dry, fruity, full-bodied, light — whatever your favorite taste there is undoubtedly a wine to match it. And it is YOU, not an "expert" who should decide what wine tastes good to you.

Perish the notion that only imported wines are any good. Several states including California, Oregon, Washington, Arkansas and even Oklahoma have been producing premium wines for years and the selection only becomes better as more wineries compete for championship titles and American viticulturists become more knowledgeable.

By avoiding the import duties, which recently became even stiffer by mandate from President Reagan's office, the need for a huge budget to appreciate fine wine is abolished. On the average, tourists who pay $4 a bottle for a wine in France will pay nearly $20 for the same wine in the United States.

Those who insist on paying $20 for a $4 wine simply because it appeals to their snob complex will be missing out on a great made-in-America deal. Some unbeatable American-produced wines can be purchased for $4-$7. It is usually only the older vintages or the difficult-to-find bottles that command a higher price.

Another place where Americans are fleeced for cheap wine is in restaurants. Jerry Mead said in the February issue of "Wine & Spirits" magazine that there are several reasons why wine is so expensive in restaurants. They include state monopolies, taxes, the number of middlemen involved in the process of getting the wine to the table, greed and "an attitude on the part of many to charge what the traffic will bear..."

While some restaurants have a sliding scale on wine markups — that is, higher-priced wines are marked up a little less than less expensive wines — most restauranteurs will take a standard 300 percent to 400 percent increase.

So restaurants are out for those who want to increase their palate knowledge but also live within a budget.

Neither does wine have to be drunk only with a meal. There are plenty of wineries producing products that make delightful "Let's curl up on the couch and watch 'Saturday Night Live" sipping wines. The perfect accompaniment for wine is whatever or whomever you choose.

Americans seem to have fallen for the "if you don't drink the whole bottle in one sitting the wine will spoil" myth. It was probably made up by a wine maker failing at the business.

The main objective, when not intending to drink a whole bottle in one evening, is to reseal the bottle as tightly as possible — red wines in particular go flat after prolonged exposure to air — and store it away.

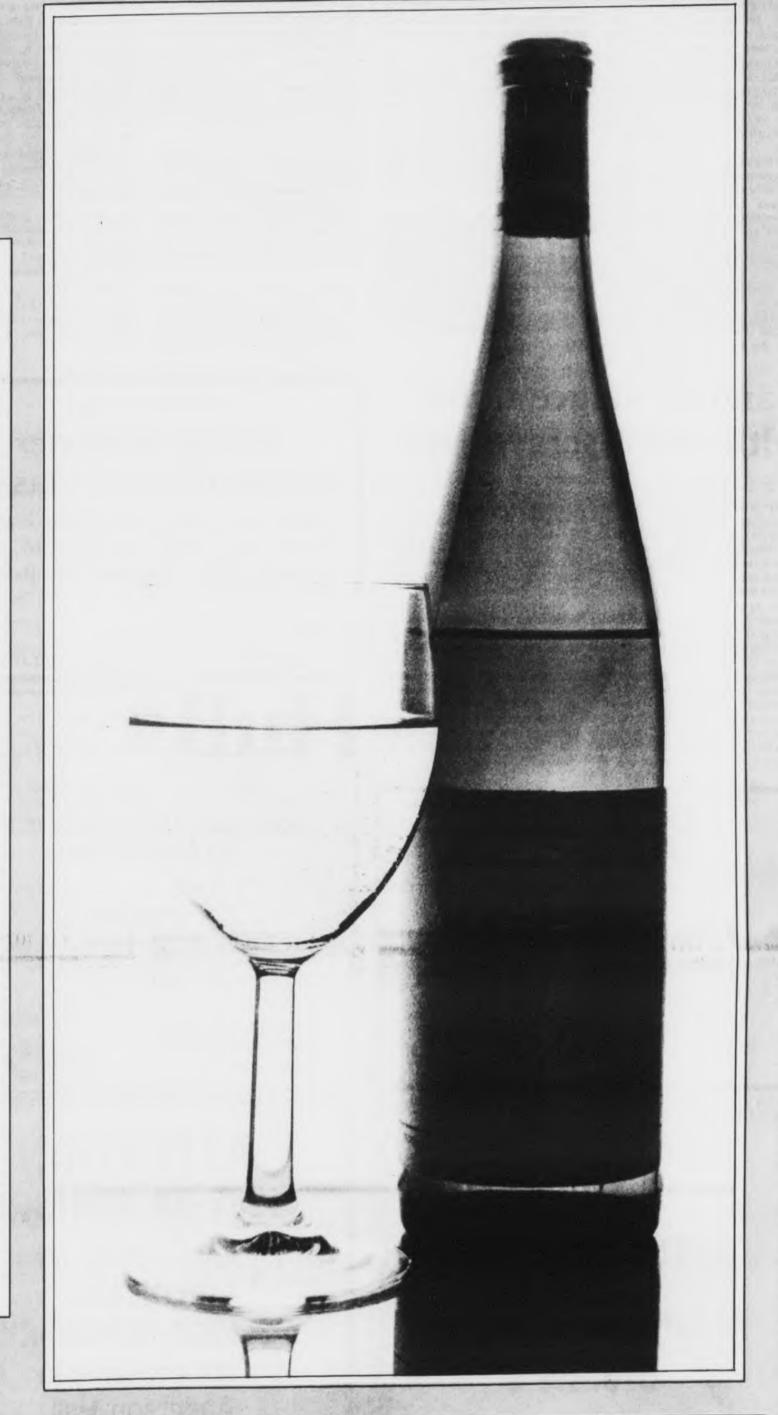

The color of the wine tells the beginning wine connoisseur many things. Generally, red wines (Pinot Noir, Burgundy) taste best at room temperature and therefore should be stored that way. Reds are also heavier, more full-bodied wines and are commonly served with heavier meat dishes like beef or lamb.

White wines taste best very cold (adding ice is acceptable and, depending on the wine, sometimes recommended) and are commonly served with lighter dishes of fish and chicken.

This is not to say you cannot drink Chablis with beef stew or Pinot Noir with fish. Wine connoisseurs can match any combination they want to. There are no rights or wrongs to appreciating wine — whatever experience tells you is best.

Illustration by Gary Lytle Story by Jonie Trued jargonistic wine labels

Even novices can decode

Wine labels, especially those of Europe, often contain a myriad of confusing and irrelevant information. However, in recent years, California vinters have adopted a form of labeling which eliminates much of the confusion.

Following is a list of the most important items to look for on a label when selecting a wine:

VINEYARD, WINERY OR BRAND NAME: The most prominent part of most California wine labels, this supplies the basic information about the source of the wine. Since some Californian wineries, such as Gallo or Masson, are huge operations, their name on the label may not be altogether meaningful. However, in the case of medium and small operations, this part of the label can impart a valuable reference for future purchases.

REGION: The label should contain a reference to where the wine was produced. In California, common references are to areas of the state (for example, North Coast), specific counties (Napa, Sonoma, Monterey, etc.) or specific geographic regions within counties (Alexander Valley, for instance). Regulations are currently being formed to tighten the regional labeling of wines. Usually, the region on the label indicates the grapes were grown there.

GRAPE VARIETY: The key to a Califirnia label. Unlike most European operations, California vinters have adopted varietal labeling for most of their premium wines. When the grape variety appears on the bottle, it means that by law at least 75 percent of the grapes must be of that variety. Most Caifornia wineries use 100 percent of the grape specified. (See accompanying table for the most common varietal wines.

GENERIC TYPE: Blended wines from California often use the European region which most resembles the blend as the name for the wine. Thus, Chablis and Burgundies abound among California labels. In recent years, vinters have taken blending more seriously and some blended wines can be quite good. (See accompanying table for the most common generic types.)

YEAR: The year that appears on the label is the vintage year - that is, the year the grapes were harvested, not the year the wine was bottled or released. Especially in the case of reds, such as Cabernet Sauvingon or Pinot Noir, the vintage year can be important in determining if the wine has matured to the proper age for drinking. However, the vintage year is not as important in California as in Europe. Since California's climate is less tempermental, its wines vary less from year to year and tend to be consistently drinkable - if less outstanding ALCOHOL: U.S. law requires that alcohol by volume must appear in the label.

Taken from "Mastering Wine" by Either generic or varietal, each bottle has character

GENERIC TITLES
Titles for blended wines which may appear on California labels:

Burgundy
Claret
Chablis
Champagne
Hock
Malaga
Madeira

Moselle Port Rhine Sauternes Sherry Tokay

These names are permitted by law but are not used in practice. The label must include the place of origin.

COMMON VARIETAL CALIFORNIA WINES

Cabernet Sauvignon: perhaps the greatest of California reds, the Cabernet Sauvignon produces wines with fine dark red color developing fruitiness as it matures. This is the classic variety for red in Bordeaux.

Chardonnay: the classic variety for the whites of Burgundy, produces wines which are highly perfumed, high in alcohol, and with great character.

Chenin Blanc: makes white wines, both sweet and dry, with marked acidity and fruitiness which age well.

Gamay: the grape used in Beaujolais, the Gamay results in a light red with intense color. It has high acidity and should be drunk younger than other reds.

Gewurtztraminer: a very aromatic variety, which produces a dry white wine with unmistakable boquet and penetrating taste.

Merlot: one of the main grapes of Bordeaux, this variety has come late to California. It produces reds full in color and often rich in alcohol.

Pinot Noir: is the classic grape of Burgundy where it produces reds vivid and deep in color, aromatic in bouquet, and rich in complexity. California Pinot Noirs lack some of the acidity and finesse of their European cousins, but are still very enjoyable and complex wines.

Reisling: or Johannesberg Reisling or White Riesling in California, makes fine, dry whites in the classic German tradition.

Sauvignon: often referred to as Fume Blanc in California, when ripened properly produces a very full-bodied white, spicey wine. If these grapes are improperly cared for, the wines may become highly acidic and loose character rapidly.

Zinfandel: a variety developed in California, it results in reds of two types: one light and highly fruity and the other often very alcoholic and tannic.

From "Drinking Wine: A Complete Guide with Ratings" by David Peppercorn, Brian Cooper and Elwyn Blacker, 1979.

House committee approves lottery bill

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - A proposal to implement a state-run lottery to provide needed funds for economic development, prison construction and statewide reappraisal hit the jackpot in the House Federal and State Affairs Committee, highlighting action Tuesday in the Kansas Legislature.

Without dissent, the committee endorsed the bill on an unrecorded voice vote and sent it to the full House, where it will be debated next

The bill creates a five-member lottery commission to oversee operations of a new state agency, called "Kansas Lottery," which would operate the $1 ticket instant winner gambling and other, more sophisticated computerized games.

Creation of a state-run lottery was approved by Kansas voters in the Nov. 4 general election as the electorate legalized gambling on the lottery and pari-mutuel wagering on dog and horse racing. Prior to the vote, the Kansas Constitution prohibited gambling on anything other than bingo games operated by nonprofit and charitable organizations.

Harley Duncan, secretary of revenue, has estimated the state can expect $100 million in ticket sales and $35 million in profits in a full year of operations.

Under the bill, 45 percent of all ticket sales would be returned to the public in prizes and 35 percent would be kept by the state mainly to fund economic development projects. The remaining 20 percent would be used to operate the game - including printing tickets, advertising, paying a 5-6 percent commission to retail outlets and operating the lottery commission.

Other facets of the bill would prohibit the sale of lottery tickets to anyone under age 18 and would automatically hold back lottery prizes of $5,000 or more whenever the winner owes child support, back taxes to the state or has committed welfare fraud. Elsewhere in the Statehouse Tues-

R-Clay Center, accused Democrats of trying to publicly embarrass him in a dispute over the names of two major committees. Braden changed the names of the tax and budget committees and Democrats tried to override that decision and restore their original names.

Donna Whiteman, D-Hutchinson, led the effort citing the $7,000 cost of the name change. However, her attempt failed, 77-44, on a party-line vote.

-The House Governmental Organization Committee was told the state can't effectively handle serious water pollution problems because it lacks the manpower.

Joseph Harkins, director of the state water office, told lawmakers the state Department of Health and Environment is critically understaff-

Harkins said the state currently does not face a pollution crisis. However, he said he is worried about isolated incidents of water contamination, such as groundwater

-House Speaker Jim Braden, contamination from salt mines near

-Rep. Keith Roe, R-Mankato, introduced in the House a bill that would ban the burial of radioactive waste anywhere in Kansas. The bill is similar to one already before the Legislature which would prohibit storage of radioactive waste in the salt mines near Lyons.

Roe said the bill is a response to fears that a regional radioactive waste facility might be located in his

"One of the hottest issues of the 1987 session may become disposal of low-level radioactive waste in the state," Roe said.

In fact, Roe predicted the Legislature will consider withdrawing from the five-state Central Interstate Low-Level Radioactive Waste Compact before the session adjourns in April.

North-central Kansas is considered a prime location for a regional radioactive waste dump,

Shakespearean company to give last performances

Come hear the presidential candidates discuss the current campaign issues!

Sunday, Feb. 1st

8 p.m.

Putnam Hall Living Room

Co-sponsored by KSUARH and Putnam Hall

MANAGEMENT

DEVELOPMENT

ANALYSTS AND INTERNS

The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City is seeking qualified candidates with business-related majors for positions as full time management development analysts and summer

Qualified candidates should enjoy working in a project-oriented environment and demonstrate good oral and written communications skills, strong analytical and leadership ability, creati-

We will be available for campus interviews:

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 24

For more information,

please contact your placement office or:

Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City

Attention: Personnel

925 Grand Avenue Kansas City, Missouri 64198

(816) 881-2463

WINTER DOG DAYS

Jan. 29, 30, & 31

Chicago 2

Farged Fork

Kitchen Fork

Lg. Turner

Sm. Turner

Pie/Cake Server

Kitchen Turner

12" Spatula

10" Spatula

61/2" Spatula

4" Spreader

Carving Set

Am. Chef Cutting Board

Handi Baskets

Sm. Serving Board

3 pc. Knife Set

100S Parer

Cleaver

Cutlery

While

Quantities

Last

Reg.

33.50

13.00

18.00

16.00

11.00

13.00

15.00

11.00

9.50

8.00

30.00

35.00

10.50

9.10

41.84

7.97

(in fashion colors, assorted sizes and shapes, and lids are available)

Sale

17.99

6.99

9.99

8.99

6.50

7.99

7.99

6.50

5.99

4.99

17.99

19.99

5.99

4.99

26.00

5.99

interns.

vity and initiative.

STUDENT BODY

PRESIDENTIAL

DEBATE

By The Collegian Staff

Members of the Royal Shakespeare Company will end their weeklong residency at K-State with two plays from their native Great Britain on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"Pinter This Evening," a selection of readings by the British playwright, Harold Pinter, will be at 8 p.m. Thursday in Nichols Theatre, said Lewis Shelton, associate professor of speech. Tickets are $5 for general admission and $3 for students and senior citizens. One of Pinter's most recent plays, "Betrayal," will be read.

"The Tempest," believed to be the last play William Shakespeare wrote, will be staged at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in McCain Auditorium, Shelton said.

"The Tempest" will be presented in a "minimalist staging," Shelton said, meaning the actors will be wearing modern dress and no props will be used. Tickets are $8 for general admission and $4 for students and senior

Vandals deface home with racist scrawlings

By The Associated Press

HUTCHINSON - A week after she coordinated Hutchinson's celebration of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s life, Martha Rawlins received a graphic reminder that King's dream has not been completely realized vandals had scrawled racial epithets across three sides of her home.

Rawlins, who has lived in Kansas since 1945, said, "There's so much racism in the state of Kansas. It was always here. But it took something like this to give rise to the chance for someone to show that feeling."

Rawlins is sure there's a connection between the King holiday observance and the vandalism discovered early Sunday. One message referred to her as a radical, apparently in response to a local news story describing her as "an activist, if not a radical." Detective Richard Wickliffe of the Hutchinson Police Department said recent televised news coverage of residents of Cumming, Ga., assaulting civil rights marchers there may have played a part.

"Someone probably jumped on the bandwagon for the Klan movement," he said. "It finally trickled down to Hutchinson.'

Authorities have no leads in the case and are hoping the local Crime Stoppers program will generate a

In the meantime, Rawlins isn't intimidated. She has received support from businesses, individuals and

Announcing Spring Semester Weight Control Classes

Choose an 8 a.m. or 3:30 p.m. class on Wednesdays. First sessions to begin January 28th. Classes will meet in Dietary Department of Lafene Student Health Center.

Paid student health fees required.

Business 715 N. 12th

Electronic Compact Typewriter SILVER REED EZ 20

NOW YOU CAN GO FIRST CLASS ON BUDGET FARE!

Automatic Correction

Quick Response Time

Quiet Performance

Regular $199

Now $179 Through Feb. 4, 1987

MEET THE CALENDAR MEN OF K-STATE

SKYDIVE

Info Meeting Thursday 7 p.m.

Union 206

Club Meeting at 7:30 p.m.

MEMBERS WHO WANT TO

JUMP THIS SEMESTER

Party this Friday-attend meeting for location

MUST ATTEND AND PAY DUES.

Autograph Party at Brother's 9 p.m. Tonight

Calendars on sale at the door

ATTENTION 1987-88 SENIORS

Applications for BLUE KEY

are available in Anderson Hall, Room 122 and are due by 4 p.m.

SENIOR HONORARY

Friday, February 6

Ben Franklin

discontinued and a few things that just have not sold like we had hoped and have

Fabric

Ribbon

Posters

Books

THE BOSS SAYS:

CLEAN HOUSE!"

25% OFF OR 50% OFF OR EVEN 75

Baskets

Flowers

Models

Floss

Wood

Thursday through Saturday While The Dogs Last! Yarn Westloop Center, Manhattan, 776-4910

marked them . . .

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-9 p.m., Sat. 9 a.m.-7 p.m., Sun. 1-6 p.m.

Sale is limited to current stock only. Some items are limited in quantity. All items are subject to prior sale. "We're more than a Hardware Store"

Other sizes available at special prices

624 Tuttle Creek Blvd. 776-9454 Manhattan, Kansas

Woody's 1225 Moro Aggieville

Mon.-Sat. 9:30-5:30 Thurs. Eve. till 8:30

Extra Merchandise

Brought in for Dog Days

Drastic Discounts

on all games and game accessories D&D Books Included

The Book Shop

Village Plaza Mon.-Sat. 9-9, Sun. 9-8

STOREWIDE SAVINGS

50% off regular price

$$

PURSES

FUR COATS

20% OFF

FALL AND WINTER SPORTSWEAR

up to 50% OFF

HOLIDAY DRESSES

30% OFF

323 Poyntz, Downtown Manhattan

The Jean Station

Levi's

501 Shrink To Fit $14.88

Thursday, Friday and Saturday Aggieville-Manhattan

WINTER DOG DAYS

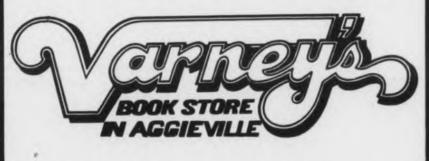

★ Decorative Calendars

50% off

★ K-State Sportswear

25% and 50% off

★ Our Top 10 Hardcover Bestsellers 25% off

Mon.-Sat. 9-9 Sunday 12-5

Phone 539-0511

DOG DAYS SPECIAL

50% OFF

FALL & WINTER MERCHANDISE

SALE STARTS THURSDAY DOORS OPEN AT 10:00

Buy 2

Get 1

FREE!

SUPER CLOTHING SALE

10-8:30

THURSDAY

OPEN 1-5 SUN.

1208 Moro in Aggieville

* FOR GALS

LEE JEANS......... 1/3 to 1/2 OFF SELECTED JEANS......... $999 SWEATERS...... 1/2 OFF BLOUSES...... 1/2 OFF

* FOR GUYS

WINTER COATS..... 1/3 to 1/2 OFF SPORT COATS....up to 70% OFF SLACKS......20% to 50% OFF LEE JEANS..... $1699 FASHION JEANS ONE GROUP, 1/2 PRICE FASHION JEANS & CORDS... 999 SWEATERS.....up to 1/2 PRICE PLUS OTHER SPECIAL PRICES

Buy two items and get the third item of equal or less value FREE!

NOT VALID WITH ANY OTHER OFFER

FAMOUS LABELS FOR LESS

DOWNTOWN 331 POYNTZ MON.-SAT. 9:30-5:30

Pryor's latest movie has very weak pulse

By ANDRE KELLEY Collegian Reviewer

Richard Pryor hasn't had the best of luck with films lately. "Critical Condition" is sure to be his third straight bomb in two years. His well-intentioned remake "Brewster's Millions" rattled like loose change, his semi-autobiographical "Jo Jo Dancer" was met with lukewarm box-office action, and now he's definitely hit bottom with his new hospital-comedy.

Film Review

To give you an idea of how lame this script is, the film opens with Pryor's character (Eddie Lannehan) in a sex shop looking for a mafia loanshark to give him $50,000. In the process he bumps into a blind man who automatically says, "'Scuse me, brother." Before meeting with the mafia gangster he turns to the blind man and says "How do I look?"

He then finds he's stumbled upon an undercover police bust and winds up in jail. Since the authorities believe he's tied to the mobster, Eddie sees his only way out is an insanity plea where he stands on a table and attempts one of the worst see-how-crazy-Iam acts ever.

Well, the judge is convinced. Eddie is sent to a psychiatric ward, and soon after a hurricane hits. During all the confusion, blackouts, flooding, plus a botch-

Wichita _

Family Planning Inc.

ed escape attempt, Eddie is mistaken for a visiting physician and thus becomes Dr. Eddie Slattery. From there the film goes from bad to worse.

"Critical Condition" is a typical formula hospital comedy. It's full of stale, predictable stunts and slapstick stock. It uses everything from exploding blood pressure kits to rubber organs in jars. Incredibly, they somehow managed to forget the whoopee cushion and itching powder.

Of course a hospital comedy wouldn't be complete without a seductive patient dressed in only two very tiny scraps of cloth as she utters, "Doctor, I hurt all ovvver." She wasn't the only one.

And for an added bonus, the film throws in (surprise, surprise, surprise) a pregnant woman about to give birth. And they didn't even have to boil water.

Not only is the script dull and lifeless, so are the characters who help out the good doctor. The film stars Randal Tex Cobb as a fellow psych patient who believes he's black, Rachel Ticotin as Pryor's whiney love interest, "Saturday Night Live" veteran Garret Morris, and Puerto Rican singer Ruben Blades as an orderly named (surprise again) Luis. There's really no excuse for a film like this. Pryor is 10 times funnier on talk shows while promoting this film. There's just no cure for this comatose flick.

If ever an argument was needed for euthanasia, this film is it.

Video depicts distress of farm children

By STACEY NANNINGA Collegian Reporter

The crisis in rural America has posed many economic and emotional problems for the farm family. But only recently have researchers and specialists realized the psychological difficulties affecting rural children.

"Heartache in the Heartland" is a videotape designed to inform people of the emotional effect the rural crisis has had on children. The videotape was put together by the Division of Cooperative Extension and the College of Education.

Chuck Smith, extension specialist in human and family development, said the goal of the videotape is to inform neighbors and friends within the rural community of the need to listen to the children and to let them know they care.

The issue came to light when the Kansas National Education Association conducted a survey among rural school teachers. Smith said the KNEA survey came up with alarming results concerning children from farm families.

Many teachers were worried about children from farm families because they were aware the rural crisis was

HUNAM EXPRESS

1116 Moro 537-0886

(eggroll & fried rice 99¢)

affecting the children's performance, and they wanted to know how to help.

KNEA contacted Richard Hause, professor of curriculum and instruction in the College of Education, to formulate a plan of action.

As the need for a program to assist these teachers was realized, plans were begun to initiate an informational program for the teachers. Hause said the teachers wanted to know how to recognize and deal with distress signals.

The goal was to have a tool to send to schools to help teachers understand the needs of the students. Hause said that once faculty members began making plans for production, they realized that there was a need to not only inform teachers, but also to inform significant leaders within the community, such as 4-H organizations and church leaders.

"The parents are busy enough," Smith said. "They are working two jobs trying to make ends meet. They don't realize that the children are hurting because they are hurting themselves

"Many of these parents are in a desperate struggle. They forget to talk to their children; they just have too many other things on their minds.' 'The children want people to understand how they are feeling, not just their teachers and friends, but also urban and city people," Smith said

He said children want to have the rural crisis explained to them because they do not fully understand why their parents are hurting and why they are losing the farm. He said this was another concern expressed by the KNEA.

The video was first aired over the satellite network at K-State on Dec. 4. 1986. The honesty of the people in the program was shocking to some of the viewers, Smith said.

He said the program is a real motivator, while it helps create a lot of interest in what is going on and how the children are being affected emotionally.

Smith said "Heartache in the Heartland" will be broadcast on Channel 11 of Topeka at 7 p.m. on Feb. 5. After this showing the video will be made available for other cable companies.

•13 Varieties of Submarine Sandwiches Grilled Philadelphia Steak Sandwiches 12th & Moro . Aggieville DINE-IN . CARRYOUT

Introducing new tinted soft contact lens that actually will change your eyes to any color. Yes, even brown to blue.

Call 537-1118 for your free consultation and trial fitting.

Drs. Price, Young, Odle, and Horsch, P.A.

1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan, KS 66502 (913) 537-1118

ROCKY MOUNTAIN

Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Open 7 days a week

TONIGHT

WELL DRINKS

FRIDAY & SATURDAY NIGHTS DOW JONES & THE INDUSTRIALS

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours. 3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Midwest's Favorite Haircutters

$1 OFF World's Greatest HAIRCUT

SC Only $5

also, $1 OFF Under 12 KIDS KUT $5 Only $4 with Coupon

SNIPN'(LIP

JUST DROP IN VILLAGE PLAZA 539-4043

Rt. 5

TONIGHT $2 Pitchers

On Tap

Coors Light-Budweiser-Old Milwaukee Light

"YOUR DISCOUNT BEER BARN"

Go North on Tuttle Creek Blvd. then on the back road to the Rocks The Finest Little Tavern by a Dam Site!

537-3133

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help. Comprehensive Health can help with free, confidential pregnancy testing and safe, affordable abortion services by qualified physicians. We offer birth control, gyn exams and treatment for sexually transmitted diseases.

No age requirement. We accept insurance, as well as Comprehensive VISA and MasterCard. A Kansas licensed facility, Comprehensive Health has been providing quality health care to women since

Health Associates

4401 West 109th (1-435 & Roe)

Overland Park, Kansas

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400

Wednesday, January 28, 1987

For more information on any UPC event, call 532-6751

MIDDAY ARTS PRESENTS Tai-Chi

A demonstration of an Oriental Performing Art by Lee-Shih Wu. TODAY in the Union Courtyard!

ART RENTALS Need something to brighten those drab walls? Rent a piece of artwork for only $1-$4 a semester.

Rentals available today 10 a.m.-3 p.m. in the K-State Union Courtyard PHOTOGRAPHY CONTEST Enter the 12th Annual UPC Photography Contest

Information and contest rules available now in the Union Activities Center, 3rd Floor, K-State Union. Entries accepted starting Monday, February 16-Friday, February 27. Cash prizes will be awarded!

k-state union

All movies $1.75; KSU ID required;

*Unless otherwise stated.

MOVIES

Today 7:30 p.m. Forum Hall and Tomorrow 3:30 p.m. Little Theatre, 7:30 Forum Hall

This is director Roman Polanski's adaptation of the great Shakespearean tragedy. It contains all the classic tragic elements of murder, guilt and revenge.

Saturday 2 p.m. and Sunday 2 p.m. & 7 p.m., shows $1.50, Forum Hall

Ferris Bueller is no ordinary student, and the day that Ferris takes off from school is no ordinary day!

FERRIS BUELLER'S

One man's struggle to take it easy.

FRIDAY & SATURDAY 7 & 9:30 p.m., Forum Hall.

THE SNOBS AGAINST THE SLOBS.

FRIDAY and SATURDAY Midnight! Forum Hall

Caddyshack

Bushwood Country Club, bastion of the well-to-do, regularly hosts a hilarious array of eccentric members and zany employees.

k-state union upc feature films

WARNER PARK

SIGN-UP Today through Feb. 12 in Union Activities Center 8-4 K-State students may sign up today. Tomorrow-Feb. 12 sign-up is open to students and general public.

k-state union upc outdoor rec.

OSU poses 'distinct problems' Briefly In Sports

By JENNY CHAULK Sports Writer

Oklahoma State, under first-year head coach Leonard Hamilton, has had a tough go of it so far this season. But the Cowboys garnered one of their biggest wins this season Saturday by snapping a six-game losing streak in defeating Iowa State 73-71

"I didn't come here to lose. I came here to make this program competitive on a national level," said Hamilton, who was an assistant at basketball powerhouse Kentucky for 14 seasons under Joe B. Hall and Eddie Sutton.

With that in mind, K-State's men's basketball team - coming off a tough 81-78 loss at home Saturday to Oklahoma - will try to get back on the winning track Wednesday in Stillwater, Okla.

The 'Cats, 13-4 overall and still in the chase for the Big Eight Conference title at 3-1, will meet upsetminded Oklahoma State, 5-12 and 1-3, in a USA Network televised game.

Tipoff is scheduled for 7:35 p.m. K-State Coach Lon Kruger said he isn't worried about his team being overconfident about playing the Cowboys - seventh in the Big Eight in team offense (70 points per game) and team defense (79.5 points per

"Oklahoma State is pumped up after a win at Iowa State. Our players know they won at Ames. That got their attention. Plus, coming off a tough loss to Oklahoma, we'll be ready to go," Kruger said.

The Cowboys, Kruger said, are generally a zone defense-oriented

"OSU is pretty conservative," Kruger said. "They play a pretty compact defense. We'll want to spread that out and shoot the ball

According to the Wildcats' firstyear head coach, Oklahoma State has "an interesting mixture of players who all pose distinct pro-

Todd Christian, a 6-foot-6-inch junior guard from Newton and a twoyear starter at Hutchinson Com- physical. munity College, is the Cowboys' coleading scorer with an average of 13.6 points per game.

"Christian can shoot so well from the outside," Kruger said, "as can Sylvester Kincheon (12.7 points per game) inside. Jay Davis (8.7 points per game) also provides good leadership at the point."

Other probable Oklahoma State starters are Ray Alford (13.6 points per game) and Royce Jeffries (2.8 points per game.)

Probable starters for K-State are Mitch Richmond, Norris Coleman, Charles Bledsoe, Will Scott and Steve Henson. Kruger said he has been satisfied with how his players have accepted their roles.

"We ask different things of different individuals," Kruger said. "Everyone now has a pretty good idea of what we expect of them. We need to get a little better play out of Lance (Simmons) coming in off the bench, and I think we'll get it. Charles (Bledsoe) and Ron (Meyer), our pivot people, need to be more

One of the Wildcats' tough road tests of the season will be Wednesday when they play in Gallagher Hall - a 6,700-seat arena that many refer to as the "barn."

"Now, it really becomes important to play well on the road," Kruger added. "Stillwater's a tough place to NOTES: Howard Bonser, a 6-11 freshman redshirt center from Manhattan, has reportedly quit the team. K-State coaches neither confirmed nor denied the rumor...K-State leads the series with Oklahoma State 56-22, but OSU has won 10 of the last 13 meetings...The 'Cats are on their way to setting a record for season scoring average. K-State averages 82.9 points per game, and the current mark, set by the 1952-53 team, is 81 points per game...K-State reserve guard Lynn Smith is "coming along slowly," Kruger said, in recovering from stretched ligaments in his right ankle. He will be out for "a couple more games.'

Prep QB to sign with 'Cats

High school quarterback Paul Watson announced Tuesday that he has decided to sign with K-State.

Watson, a 6-foot-2, 185-pound quarterback, passed for more than 5,000 yards and 52 touchdowns as a three-year starter for Park Hill (Mo.) High School. Last season he threw for 1,422 yards and 14

Watson returned Monday from a visit to Florida State and said he'd decided to cancel trips to Missouri, Kansas and Minnesota. He said he will sign with the Wildcats Feb. 11, the first day high school seniors can sign national letters of intent.

Bleczinski receives Big Eight honor

The Lady Cats' Tracey Bleczinski was named the Big Eight Player of the Week for her efforts in K-State's wins against Colorado and Bleczinski, a 5-foot-8 forward, leads the Lady Cats in scoring during conference games with 14.0 points per game. She paced conference-leading K-State to a 71-61 win against Colorado with 17 points and her 16 points was a team-high in the Kansas game.

Against Kansas, Bleczinski nailed two free throws in the final 19 seconds to send the game into overtime and scored five points in the extra period. K-State eventually outlasted the Lady Jayhawks 71-65.

Comeback efforts miss as taller O-State squad drops Lady Cats, 75-67

By CHASE CLARK Sports Writer

According to Lady Cats' Coach Matilda Mossman, "it was bound to happen sooner or later.' K-State's women's basketball team couldn't come from behind in this case and fell prey to the overpowering height of the Oklahoma State Cowgirls Tuesday at Stillwater, 75-67

The Lady Cats had seemed to be making it a habit to come from behind to win throughout the season, but were not able to make up a 10-point second half deficit against the Cowgirls.

'We may have gotten a little bit too confident in being able to come back after being behind," Mossman said. With the loss, K-State fell to 15-4 overall, and its Big Eight Conference record dropped to 4-2, creating a five-way tie for the conference lead between Oklanoma, Ol State, Missouri, Nebraska and the Lady

"It's anybody's race right now in the Big Eight," said Oklahoma State Coach Dick Halterman. "Every single game from now on really counts." K-State started out strong and built an eight-point lead late in the first half, mainly because the Lady Cats shot 65.1 percent from the field, compared to Oklahoma State's 44 percent. But the Cowgirls fought back with several key outside shots and a pair of free throws to tie the game at the half, 36-36. Tracey Bleczinski and Sue Leiding were the driving forces for the Lady Cats in the first half, scoring 10 points each. Carlisa Thomas collected four defensive rebounds in the half, moving her into the top spot on the Lady Cats' career rebounding chart.

Foul trouble plagued K-State throughout the game as Theza Fitzpatrick went into the locker room with three personal fouls and Sue Leiding followed suit by picking up her third foul in the starting moments of the se-

K-State finished the game with 22 fouls, compared to 15 for the Cowgirls.

Oklahoma State scored on the first possession of the second half and stole the lead from the Lady Cats. K-State came back, and by the midway point had built a six-point lead, but things fell apart from there.

With 8:43 left in the game, O-State tied the game at 53-53 and never looked back. Maintaining their lead, which climbed as high as 10 points, the Cowgirls dominated the floor and the boards, and didn't allow K-State to pull any closer than five the rest of the game.

Oklahoma State packed its defense in tight and forced the Lady Cats to 34 percent shooting from the field the second half. Shelia Hughes, a 6-foot-4 center for Oklahoma State, blocked six shots in the

"At the end of the first half their defense really started to dictate what we could do offensively," Mossman said. "They made some changes that we didn't react to very well and forced us to rush our shots a little

The eight-point "run at the end of the half definitely got us going," Halterman said. "We felt we weren't getting the easy shots to fall. So at halftime I told my kids to stick with the game plan and things would turn

Top scorers for K-State were Bleczinski and Leiding with 15 points each. Susan Green, Elyse Funk and Thomas each pitched in eight, followed by Fitzpatrick with seven. nkski led the Lady Cats in rebounding with nine boards. Leiding hauled in six and Fitzpatrick collected five. Oklahoma State outrebounded the Lady

Cats 41-32. Jamie Siess paced the Cowgirls with 10 boards, Shelia Hughes grabbed nine and Clinette Jordan had seven. Jordan led the Cowgirls on offense with 23 points. Siess collected 16 points and Alisa

Duncan, Dahrenda James and Hughes each scored eight. K-State will next see action Saturday when the Lady Cats play Missouri at Columbia. Big Eight Commissioner Carl James is currently reviewing reports filed by Missouri and Oklahoma on a brawl that broke out following a conference game in Columbia on

MIN	FG	PT	R		11
33	4-8	0-0	5	4	8
30	5-12	5-7	9	4	15
			6	4	15
			1	2	8
			5	3	8 7
				1	0
				2
				0	8
					0
				9	2
0
	28-61	11-14	32	22	67
MIN	FG	FT	R		TF
40	8-16	0-1		2	16
40	8-15	7-10	7	3	_ 23
5	0-1	0-0	1	0	0
24	3-7	0-0	5	3	6
		2-2	3	0	6 8
			1	1	6
			1	0	0
			9	4	8
				2	8
1					0
					75
	30 34 32 30 1 13 18 1 8 MIN 40 40	30 5-12 34 6-12 32 3-9 30 3-7 1 0-0 13 2-4 18 4-7 1 0-0 8 1-2 28-61 MIN FG 40 8-15 5 0-1 24 3-7 29 3-8 18 2-4 6 0-0 20 3-7	30 5-12 5-7 34 6-12 3-4 32 3-9 2-2 30 3-7 1-1 1 0-0 0-0 13 2-4 0-0 18 4-7 0-0 1 0-0 0-0 8 1-2 0-0 28-61 11-14 MIN FG FT 40 8-15 7-10 5 0-1 0-0 24 3-7 0-0 29 3-8 2-2 18 2-4 2-3 6 0-0 0-0 20 3-7 2-2 17 3-5 2-3 1 0-0 0-0	30 5-12 5-7 9 34 6-12 3-4 6 32 3-9 2-2 1 30 3-7 1-1 5 1 0-0 0-0 0 13 2-4 0-0 2 18 4-7 0-0 0 8 1-2 0-0 0 28-61 11-14 32 MIN FG FT R 40 8-16 0-1 10 40 8-15 7-10 7 5 0-1 0-0 1 24 3-7 0-0 5 29 3-8 2-2 3 18 2-4 2-3 1 6 0-0 0-0 1 20 3-7 2-2 9 17 3-5 2-3 3 1 0-0 0-0 0	30 5-12 5-7 9 4 34 6-12 3-4 6 4 32 3-9 2-2 1 2 30 3-7 1-1 5 3 1 0-0 0-0 0 1 13 2-4 0-0 2 2 18 4-7 0-0 0 0 8 1-2 0-0 0 2 28-61 11-14 32 22 MIN FG FT R 40 8-16 0-1 10 2 40 8-15 7-10 7 3 5 0-1 0-0 1 0 24 3-7 0-0 5 3 29 3-8 2-2 3 0 18 2-4 2-3 1 1 6 0-0 0-0 1 0 20 3-7 2-2 9 4 17 3-5 2-3 3 2 1 0-0 0-0 0

Halftime score: O-State 36, K-State 36 Turnovers: O-State 13, K-State 13 Field goal percentage: O-State 48.0, K-State 46.0 Attendance: 350

Staff/Gary Lytle

High flyer

Tony Coleman, freshman in pre-professional business administration, flies through a barrage of hands during an intramural basketball game Tuesday at the Chester E. Peters Recreation Complex. Coleman's Third Floor Marlatt team beat First Floor Moore, 52-34.

Presidents' Commission to study issues

Replacing legend not an easy chore

There is a man in Manhattan whose feet are getting larger and larger by the week.

As each basketball game elapses, and Lon Kruger's Wildcats turn in solid performances, K-State's first-year head coach comes closer to filling the shoes of the legendary Jack Hart-

Kruger was a safe bet for Athletic Director Larry Travis to select as the Wildcats' coach when Hartman announced his resignation last year. Travis had other options, but only Kruger had been selected twice as the Big Eight Conference's Player of the Year and played on two K-State teams which won conference crowns.

None of the other candidates had worked five years under the seemingly immortal Hartman either.

JEFF RAPP Sports Writer

"If I can have anywhere near the success that (Hartman) had in the last 16 years, I'll feel extremely fortunate," Kruger said before the 1986-87 campaign.

Let's face it, Kruger is patriotic. He bleeds purple. He's not some roundball guru from the East who has tried to create a basketball biography called "How I Switched To Streetball and Won!"

See COLUMN, Page 13

By JENNY CHAULK Sports Writer

In professional athletics, one always hears about player suspensions, arbitration proceedings and player-coach conflicts. Collegiate athletics are often considered to be immune to such problems.

They aren't. The National Collegiate Athletic Association has the task of maintaining order in collegiate sports. It does this through the work of committees, councils and an annual convention, which was held Jan. 6-10 in San Diego. Robert Snell, head of the Department of Civil Engineering, is K-State's faculty representative to the NCAA, and, according to University President Jon Wefald, "speaks for the University" on matters concerning the NCAA. Snell attended the January convention, at which 1,200 delegates acted upon 152 amendments to NCAA rules. A major decision to come out of the convention was the the NCAA's Presidents' Commission decision to hold a special conference.

The 44-member Presidents' Commission will study "...those issues that relate to containing the costs of intercollegiate athletics programs and to maintaining a proper balance between intercollegiate athletics programs and other institutional programs, such issues to include the areas of recruiting, coaches' compensation, playing and practice seasons, coaching staff size and financial aid."

Snell said Wefald is not a member of the Presidents' Commission. K-State and other Big Eight schools will be represented by University of Nebraska Chancellor Martin Massengale at the June conference

An article in the Jan. 14 issue of The Chronicle of Higher Education said some delegates at the annual convention viewed the special Presidents' convention as "...one more step by presidents to control college sports.

K-State athletic director Larry Travis disagreed with this state-

"I don't think they want to take control of the direction of college sports," Travis said. "It's more of wanting to be further involved in some of the decisions that are coming down in regard to athletics. Our president should know and be involved with decisions involving our athletic programs.'

Snell regards the statement in The Chronicle of Higher Education from a different light.

'Athletics is no different than any other department in the University, Snell said. "The president should be in control. The administration of the University has to be in the hands of the administrator. He can then delegate authority to whomever he chooses. Snell said amendments and rulings passed at the convention - such as the decision to cut scholarships in men's basketball (from 15 to 13) and football (from 30 to 25 for incoming freshmen) - which are scheduled to go into affect August of 1988, may not necessarily stand up.

According to Snell, the Presidents' Commission has the power to set up proposals they want acted upon or revoted on at next year's convention.

"The presidents can set an agenda and have a significant influence on what happens," he said.

The program used by the presidents at the special convention will contain rulings passed at the annual convention. Snell said the presidents could not make those rulings more severe. They could not, for example, decide to revote and cut the number of men's basketball scholarships to 12.

Snell, who was part of an NCAA sub-committee that studied recruiting, said the committee recommended the recruiting period for men's basketball and football be cut from eight or nine months to a little more than four months. Snell said the convention approved this recommendation.

John Slaughter, chancellor of the University of Maryland and chairman of the Presidents' Commission, said in the article in The Chronicle of Higher Education that "the special summer convention will be a continuation of the Presidents' commission's reform effort that began at the 1985 special convention.'

See NCAA, Page 13

Aid

Continued from Page 1

have been that this (the proposed education cuts) is ridiculous," he said.

"Congress can say, 'We are not buying any of that,' and that's what I think will happen," Viterna said. "But this is the third time the president (Reagan) has proposed this.

"We have to let Congress know we're scared and we don't want this to happen."

Under the proposed funding cuts, the College Work Study program, the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant, the State of Kansas Scholarship program and the National Direct Student Loan would no longer be available to K-State students, Viterna said.

To fill the financial void left by the cuts, the government is testing a program at 10 institutions called the Income Contingent Loan program, he

"The ICL program isn't a whole lot different from the Guaranteed Student Loan program. It is similar, except the money would come from the federal government and not from a lending agency," Viterna said.

The ICL program "might be somewhat of a nightmare to implement," he said. "It doesn't make sense to wipe out these good programs.'

One of the primary options students will have if financial aid is reduced is scholarships.

K-State awarded about 2,600 individual scholarships last year, Viterna said. The Office of Student Financial Assistance offers students a listing of hundreds of available scholarships totaling nearly $1.5 million in awards. About 80 percent of K-State's scholarships are awarded on the basis of merit, or academic achievement, alone. Viterna said now more than ever it may be necessary for students to keep their grades high enough to have the option of receiving scholarships in case of decreased financial aid.

Speaking to a group of eighth graders at Manhattan Middle School, Viterna said their parents would have to start putting aside about $4,000 to $5,000 a year in order to have enough money to finance their child's education at K-State.

Viterna estimated that by the time these eighth graders are freshman in the 1991-92 school year, it will cost them about $12,500 a year to attend

Viterna said students might consider getting a job or a scholarship in the next year or two in case the proposed student financial aid cuts are enacted. Students could also consider such options as ROTC or becoming a reservist with one of branches of the military, he said.

Another alternative, Viterna said, was to join one of the branches of the military first, then obtain an education afterward, with the federal government supplying a substantial portion of the funding.

Fee

Continued from Page 1

Under a contract to be signed with the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics in the event a fee is assessed, part-time students would not be eligible for reduced student ticket prices, but would be admitted free to non-revenue sports, Folk said.

"I think we have to respect the fact that on this issue particularly, there will be the biggest difference of opinion between part-time and full-time students," Folk said.

Since part-time students have the potential to benefit from the fee, Folk said, they should have to pay some amount. However, he proposed that it be decreased to $1.50 or $2.

Not all task force members agreed. "I don't see your justification in that," Ligon said. In the past, fees for part-time students were onehalf the amount assessed full-time students, he said.

"I'd rather see them pay all of it, or none of it," said Kirk Caraway, task force member and senior in

"If we're going to decide not to assess a fee to them, I don't want to see them get into the games free," Ligon said. "Then the full-time students would get cheated."

Decreasing the part-time student fee would have to be offset by an increased fee for full-time students,

Bill Majerus, task force member and graduate student in agronomy, said the majority of his constituents do not want to pay any more than they have to.

The athletic department currently funds 66.83 of the allowed 89 nonrevenue sports scholarships, which is about 77 percent. If the athletic fee funded 40 percent of those scholarships, as is now planned, the athletic department would have to pay the other 60 percent, relieving 17 percent of its obligations.

Majerus also questioned whether the fee, if assessed, could be rescinded. "I have a feeling this will be a permanent fee," he said.

Ligon said the fee could be rescinded, but added it had never happened before. "I doubt it will happen now," he said.

Task force members decided to change the student referendum question to include the fact that summer school students would be exempt

The first reading of the athletic fee bill will take place in Student Senate Thursday in the Big Eight Room of the Union.

Your gift can make a difference.

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

Address

Continued from Page 1

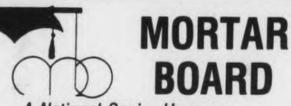

Reagan did not say he, specifically, was guilty of any. Unlike his earlier statements on the subject, Reagan in a single sentence - linked the effort to open contacts with Iran with trying to win the release of the hostages. The administration insisted previously that release of hostages was merely a byproduct of establishing a relationship with 'moderate" elements in Iran.

Reagan did not offer any new revelations about the arms sale. While pledging to find out the facts and take any necessary action, Reagan said that "in debating the past, we must not deny ourselves successes of the future. Let it never be said of this generation of Americans that we became so obsessed with failure that we refused to take risks.

"Much is at stake here and the nation and the world are watching - to see if we go forward together in the national interest, or if we let partisanship weaken us," Reagan said.

He added: "Let there be no mistake about American policy: we will not sit idly by if our interests or our friends in the Middle East are threatened, nor will be yield to terrorist blackmail."

A National Senior Honorary

All juniors with a 3.3 grade average and above are eligible for Mortar Board. Applications are available in the activities center.

Informational reception Feb. 8, 1:30 & 3:30 Union 207 (RSVP by Feb. 5. Call 776-0356)

Applications due Friday, Feb.6, 5 p.m. Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union Shuttle

Continued from Page 1

the shuttle's solid rocket boosters are made; and at Rockwell International Corp. in Downey, Calif., manufacturer of orbiter components.

The National Air and Space Museum will show continuously "The Dream is Alive," which was shot during three shuttle flights. Resnik, Scobee and McNair appear

A memorial service is scheduled in the Fort Myer Chapel in Virginia, adjacent to Arlington National Cemetery, where Smith and Scobee are buried.

NASA Administrator James C. Fletcher will speak. Representatives of the families, with the exception of McAuliffe's, are expected to attend.

Concord, N.H., where McAuliffe taught high school social studies, is keeping its observances private. There will be an assembly at her school but no public ceremonies.

"I feel the same way I felt at this time last year, and every day since," Barbara Morgan, runner-up in the teacher-in-space program, said Monday. "But you've got to look

A statue showing McAuliffe gazing up to the sky, made in part with more than 1 million pennies donated by schoolchildren, will be dedicated today in West Virginia. Bill Hopen melted some of the coins into the bronze for his $13,000 statue, which will be displayed at Charleston's Sunrise Museum.

"Anytime children see it they will be reminded that tragedy can happen, anything can happen, but that shouldn't stop you from reaching for the stars," said Melanie Vickers, a Kanawha County elementary teacher who organized the project and was a teacher-in-space finalist.

At the University of Colorado, a ceremony will honor Onizuka, who earned bachelor's and master's degrees there.

In Denver, an American flag recovered from the wreckage will be presented by a Boy Scout honor guard during a candlelight obser-

In Auburn, Wash., Scobee's former school, renamed Dick Scobee Elementary, will hold a memorial. Seattle elementary pupils will launch a small rocket.

A 9-foot monument of polished black granite will be dedicated in Albany, Ga., to honor Challenger's crew and the three astronauts who died 20 years ago in the Apollo 1 fire.

Godfather's Pizza Coupon Specials

1118 Laramie In Aggieville by Mini-Mart 539-5303

Now's your chance to satisfy your pizza craving with great savings! Invite the gang over for a Giant 16" special pizza loaded with toppings. Or treat yourself to a delicious Hot Slice™. You'll love the taste, and the savings. But hurry, offer ends soon!

Hot Slice only 99¢

with this coupon

Dine-in or Carryout only Mon.-Fri. 11:30-1:30

Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit. Valid only at: 1118 Laramie

PLUS

Offer expires 3/15/87.

Good for TWO Giant 16" special pizzas (The Super Pepperoni or The Four Topper) for only $14! Or, ONE for $9!

On Sunday, your choice: use this coupon or take advantage of our free drink offer. Sorry, can't do both! Not valid with Tapper or other promotional offers. Add $1 for delivery. Offer expires 3/15/87.

Valid only at: 1118 Laramie / 539-5303

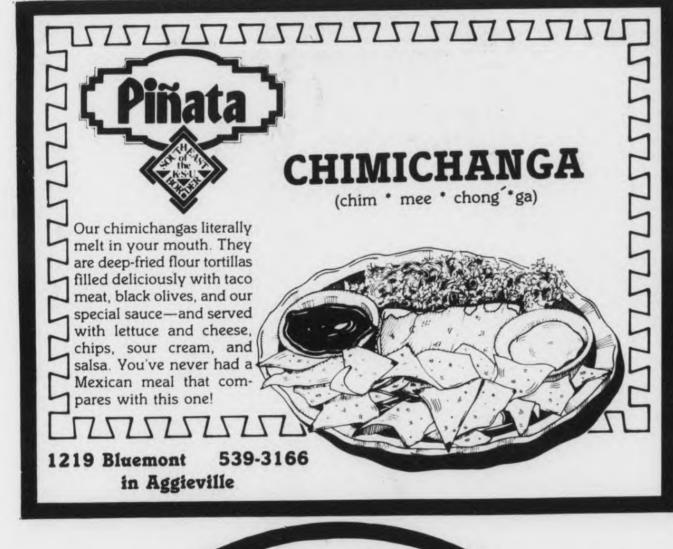

Hot Slice™only 99¢

with this coupon

Dine-in or Carryout only Mon.-Fri. 11:30-1:30

Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit. Valid only at: 1118 Laramie

Offer expires 3/15/87.

MID WEEK COMMUNION

GATHER WITH US AT NOON EVERY OTHER WEDNESDAY FOR COMMUNION AT DANFORTH CHAPEL

The Presbyterian Church (USA), The United Methodist Church, The United Church of Christ, The Church of the Brethren

TODAY AT NOON

Column

Continued from Page 11

The 'Cats haven't been a team characterized by rambunctious and disorderly play. Under Kruger they have played the kind of basketball Wildcat fans are used to - sensible, calculated (maybe a little more exciting than under Hartman), but most importantly, winning basketball.

So, keeping in mind that recruiting is just as important as actual coaching in today's major college basketball climate, Kruger has my somewhat premature vote for the Big Eight's Coach of the Year.

academics on the other hand."

Snell said good communication and understanding exists between academic and athletic personnel at

TAXIDERMY

SCIENCE.

Bloom County

THE SCHWARTZENEGGER

CHEST EXPANDER

EXPONENTIALLY

INCREASE CHEST

Garfield

HERE I AM FALLING ASLEEP

eanuts

rossword

ACROSS

5 - cat

8 Light

(VIP) fabrics

12 Emerald

13 Personal-

pests

17 Monster

18 Spanish

man

21 Capone

24 Irish

25 Credit

28 Opera

card

gentle-

19 Seasoned

feature

sea god balance

heroine

Bunker,

30 Eternity

33 - Baba

34 Archie

35 Before

36 Soviet plane defense

37 Skunk's

ity part

15 Large sums of cash

Isle

14 House

1 Mr. Arnaz

38 Con-

39 Crow

cerning

41 Reddish-brown

43 Stanley's wife

46 Narrow

50 River

groove

duck

51 The top brass

stew

55 Japanese

56 Fencing

57 Cleanse

check

58 Diner

sword

54 Spicy

HI, MY NAME IS LINUS

DESK IN FRONT OF YOU.

I SIT HERE IN THE

FACE POWN IN A BOWL OF FOOD

0

0

SIZE AND SEX APPEAL

WHAT'S ?

LIFE and Times

SO SEFFREY.

WHAT'S

MAJOR?

Kruger still has a few plateaus to the integrity of the University's basketball program. And last, he must stay here long enough to coax the ghosts of basketball dynasty from the rafters of Ahearn Field House to the freshly installed acoustic tiles of the Fred Bramlage Coliseum. We've all heard of the "Ahearn

He first must keep raising his Second, he has to keep on the recruiting trail while maintaining team's intensity level to elevate it to the once traditional Big Eight Tour-Tradition." Kruger will have the opportunity to create the "Bramlage Tradition."

Let's hope Kruger can coax those

"I think at the present time we NCAA have an excellent relationship between our administrators and the athletic department," Snell said. "We have hired several new young Continued from Page 11 coaches in the last 18 months or so to "Our responsibility as presidents reach.

nament frenzy.

give us new enthusiasm and new and chancellors is to establish and direction." maintain programs on campus," Ira "However, an on-going difficulty Heyman, chancellor of the Universiwith our program is money," Snell ty of California at Berkeley, said. said. "We compete in a conference "Our concern is to deal with the where everybody spends more money than we do. We have to be exbalance, and here, what we're talking about, in the perspective of tremely careful of how we spend our students, is athletics on one hand and money because we have less of it." Snell said all Big Eight faculty representatives, athletic directors and presidents will be meeting March 6-8 in Kansas City, Mo.

THIS IS IT. I'VE REACHED THE PINNACLE OF LAZINESS AND GLUTTONY... HOW DEPRESSING

VE BEEN SITTING

HERE ALL YEAR

59 High

DOWN

port

3 Portent intimate question?

8 Soap plant 32 It

4 Most

5 Marsh

7 Trifles

9 Sequoias

field

16 Grampus

mounted

SAGS

11 Germ

IDHOODED

20 Dis-

vegetable 10 Farmer's

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterday's answer

6 Rude

tableland

1 American socialist

22 Surroun

23 Severity

25 Female

27 Large

29 Philip-

31 Table

scrap transactions

Moslem

precedes classic

Cotton

34 Rose or

38 National hymn

40 The God

42 Ninny

44 Tissue

43 Pack

of Islam

45 Border on a cowboy

47 Work as

48 Followers of isms voyage

apple

cider

53 Sailor

"sweet as

49 On a

52 She's

2 Great Lake 26 Yale man

ded by parent

0

AREN'T YOU KIND

OF OLD FOR ME?

ISN'T IT?

THE STUDY OF

MOUNTING OF

THE STUFFING AND

GAME ANIMALS FOR

PRESERVATION AND PRESENTATION.

lassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20

cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25

cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30

cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli ent has an established account with Student Publi

Deadline is noon the day before publication noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, eligion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi-

PEOPLE'S GROCERY Co-op, 811 Colorado, is open to everyone Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. 539-4811. (83-87)

PLANNING A spring wedding? Quality photographs

HOW INTERESTING

Local resident with chest hair mysteriously

ripped out

THERE'S NO PLACE TO GO AFTER YOU'VE REACHED THE TOP

JPM DAY95128 .

found unconscious

at affordable prices, done the way you want. Call Brad for more information. 776-3785. (86-87)

by Doug & Dick

By Berke Breathed

By Jim Davis

0

By Charles Schulz

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive

Classified advertising is available only to those Student Publications will not be responsible cents per word over 15.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

capped accessible. (76-118)

MY DAD MADE

$20000 FOR

STUFFING

A HORSE

ONCE.

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski desti-nations. South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauder-dale, Mustang Island/Port Aransas, Galveston Island and Fort Walton Beach. Call Sunchase Tours Central Spring Break Toll Free Hot Line today for nformation and reservations-1-800-321-59111

THE COMPETITION has arrived! Now available on campus - Avon Beauty Products. Contact Kara, 532-3291. (83-87)

Bored with the United States? Go International for Spring Break! MAZATLAN, MEXICO FOR $199.

Call Shawn at 776-9533 Informational Meeting Tonight 7 p.m. at Kite's Video tape to be shown gram needs more tutors! Please call 776-6566 if you are willing to volunteer to help a child on Thursday evenings. (86-90)

HELP CHILDREN learn. The Friendship Tutoring Pro-

ONE CHOIR scholarship available for tenor voice. Call First Lutheran, 537-8532. (86-88)

ATTENTION

CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry. Need 100 overweight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drugs, no exercise, 100% guaranteed. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT d'stributor. See us for products. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

ENGLAND, SCOTLAND, and Ireland for under $1,300. Travel to Europe for 11 days; includes airfare, meals, sightseeing and lodging. Leaving Kansas City May 18. Call right away for more information. 539-2383. (85-89)

TO GIVE AWAY: FREE MONEY The $1,017

Cold Cash Giveaway Listen to KMKF 101.7 FM for details

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS!! Overcoats, field jackets, camouflage clothing, wool gloves and socks, cold weather boots, Carhartt workwear, much more!! Just 28 miles east on highway 24. Open Monday--Saturday, 9-5, St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437-2734. (86-95)

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th. Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

Buyyells

Correctable typewriters for rent on a daily, weekly or monthly basis. See us for all your typing needs. 776-9469

511 Leavenworth, across from post office

FOR RENT, two-bedroom mobile home, $200 month plus deposit. 537-7622. (85-93)

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO BEDROOM luxury duplex: Fireplace, garage, west of campus, $450. Call 539-4294 or 776-2536.

NICE ONE-bedroom apartment. Water, trash, twothirds gas paid, laundry facility. Nice for graduate student or couple $260/month. 539-2482 after 4 p.m. (76-86)

FREE RENT in January. Large two-bedroom, nicely decorated, dishwasher, disposal. No pets. $300, deposit required. 539-1465. (85-88)

ONE-BEDROOM, two-bedroom apartments, furnished or unfurnished, (new furniture). Westloop area. Call 776-9124. (78tf)

TWO BLOCKS west of campus. Quiet, well maintained one-bedroom apartment for mature, non-smoking individual. $216. Lease. No pets, water

TWO-BEDROOM luxury apartment, block from cam-pus. Also, five-bedroom house, block and one-half from campus. 539-4363. (77-86)

ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month. Gas, heat, and water included. Lease and deposit required.

Call 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (78-88) TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294.

ONE BEDROOM, furnished apartment, bills paid, 537-7313 or 539-8401. One-half block from campus.

(83-87) TWO BEDROOM apartment, partially furnished, close to campus with air conditioning. Rent $255. Call 539-7253. (83-88)

ONE-BEDROOM apartment, five minutes from campus. $250 per month. Call 537-7968 for details. (85-86)

Eugene Sheffer

LARGE TWO-bedroom, partially furnished bas apartment close to campus, 1411 Vista Lane. Own entrance, no pets, parking for two cars. Deposit plus rent, available now. Pay own electricity. Phone 235-3550, Topeka. (79-88) LARGE, WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five blocks from campus. No pets. $300. Call 776-0181. (79tf) ADJACENT TO campus, 1224 Bertrand. Nice, two-bedroom with garage, washer and dryer. We pay water, trash. Asking $350. Call 537-1745 or 537-4422. (82-90) MONT BLUE

APARTMENTS

Leasing for June Studio, 1 & 2 Bedroom

Apartments and Townhouses Close to campus

539-4447

NEAR KSU, quiet, clean, one-bedroom, furnished. laundry, air conditioning, parking. Available June 1. Call 776-7814 or 539-3803 (85-104)

QUIET HILLSIDE setting, third floor, nice older home, private entrance, bath, kitchenette, bedroom, study room. Utilities paid, $180, prefer female/graduate, 776-3454. (85-88)

1 Bedroom close to campus new furniture new paint

call 539-1642 or

NICE TWO-bedroom apartment, furnished, laundry facilities. Near campus. Free February rent. 776-8707 (after 8 p.m.). (86-88)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage, west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294. (78tf)

SHARE THREE-bedroom house close to campus $113 plus low utilities. 776-2450. (86-88)

FOR SALE-AUTO 1986 FORD F150 4×4, 351 V8 4B, supercab. Low mileage. Best ofter. 539-7409. (81-91)

1976 GRAND Prix, excellent condition, power brakes, steering, locks, windows, sun roof. 537-9282 after 6 p.m. (86-90)

FOR SALE-MISC

EX-60 SILVER Reed typewriter. Best offer. 539-7409.

KELSEY 12-channel mixer, $470; Mako bass guitar, $180; Kustom powr amp, $200; prices negotiable, 776-1925. (83-87) TYPEWRITER; SEARS Commentator 1, erase ribbon, good condition, $150, 539-9281. (84-86)

ELEVEN-PIECE drum set for sale. Slingerland 11cw. nine toms, one kick, snare and hi-hat. Five cymbal stands. Includes cases for everything. Also one AKG D12E bass drum microphone, one Sure

SM58, and one Sure PE 75L. 776-2446 - Darren. (86-JVC CAR stereo, digital, auto reverse, fader $120, or best offer. Call Bob, 776-0234. (86-88)

WOMEN'S 10 speed bicycle, $60. Jens Pedersen, Cardwell 301 Call 532-6782, or F31 Jardine Tel

race. (86-87)

CORONA PC, dual disks. 128K, IBM compatible, SC-3, multimate. Priced to sell. 537-7226. (86-90)

COMMODORE 1541 disk drive, used about six months. Excellent condition. Offer. Contact Leon,

532-4886. (86-88)

RCA 13 Inch, black/white T.V. 537-9629. (86-88)

Hayes House of Music DOD Effects 30% Off

776-7983

327 Poyntz

CENTREX STEREO complete with speakers, turntable, AM/FM, cassette player. 537-9629. (86-88) SHOTGUN-FOX 12-gauge, double-barrel, side-by Excellent condition. Case included. $250.

Call 539-1371. (86-88) FOUND

WOMEN'S WEDDING band found by Ackert Hall. Call 776-2146 after 5 p.m. to identify. (84-86)

FOUND-SET of keys on a Bon Zilla key chain. Call to identify or claim. 537-4113. Ask for Deanne. (86-

HELP WANTED

taic, California 91310. (76-102)

EARN $480 weekly-$60 per hundred envelopes stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed for company project stuffing envelopes and assem-bling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed enope to JBK Mailcompany, P.O. Box 25-52, Cas-

AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer. Career! Good pay. Travel. Call for guide, cassette, newsser-vice! (916) 944-4444 Ext. #58. (76-135)

THE KANSAS Cooperative Extension Service has an opening for student computer programmers. The position is for 20 hours per week, flexible schedule. Applicants should be familiar with one of the following languages: Pascal, C, or PL/I. Summer employment is a possibility depending on per-formance. For more information contact Dr. Steve Welch or Mary Knapp at 211 Umberger, phone: 532-7019. Application blanks are available from the above individuals or in the Computer Science Of fice and will be taken during business hours through February 6, 1987. (83-92)

NEED EXTRA cash? Earn $100's weekly at home. Free details! Rush self-addressed sta lope: Sterling Enterprises, Box 1514-C. Manhattan, KS 66502. (83-87) SUMMER EMPLOYMENT at Camp Lincoln/Camp

Lake Hubert-Minnesota resident summe camps. A strong commitment to working with children required, along with activity skills and teach-ing experience. Specific job information and appli-cations are available at Career Placement Office—Holtz Hall. Sign up, in advance, for personal interviews to be held on campus, Tuesday, February 3rd, and Wednesday, February 4th, 1987 (84-90)

BABY-SITTER WANTED for 18-month old, our home, Monday-Friday, 8-1 p.m. Own transportation, non smoker, Lee school area. 539-8349. (85-86)

NEED PART-TIME/full-time help at Kaw Valley Greenhouses. Call 776-8585 between 2:30-5:00 p.m. on Thursday, January 29. (86)

WAITRESSES, MUST be 21, at Bonkers, 1216 Laramie, 537-9591. (86-90)

STUDENTS WANTED to help with facilities maintenance of Throckmorton Greenhouses. 4-12 hours each per week. Apply in person and be prepared to take a competency test (30-45 minutes). Test score will determine who is called for an interview. Work schedule is four-hour time blocks only (all morn-hour time blocks only (all morn-hour time). ing or all afternoon only). A few hours every fifth weekend is required. Apply in person at D 107 (old dairy barn north of Throckmorton Hall). See Tammy or Tom. (86-87)

necticut, one hour from New York City. Choose from carefully screened families. Assist with childcare, light housekeeping. Good salary, free room and board, transportation paid, 12 month stay Care for Kids, 203-852-8111. P.O. Box 27, Rowayton, CT 06853, (86)

MOTHER'S HELPERS. Live in beautiful seaside Con-

CITY OF Manhattan's Parks & Recreation Depart ment is seeking to fill numerous full and part-time spring and summer positions. Positions include sports, arts/crafts, special population, and swim instructors; scorekeepers, umpires, day camp counselors; lifeguards, pool and concession work ers: laborers; qualified theatre director, piano accompanist, vocal coach, puppet theatre staff, set designer and stage, sound and lighting techni-cian. Applicants should be 16 years old for most positions. Applications will be taken until posi tions are filled. 1986 employees are encouraged to re-apply. For full listing and application come to the Personnel Office, City Hall, 11th & Poyntz, Manhattan. EOE—M/F/H. (86)

LOST

LOST: GOLD chain necklace with angel charm. If found, please call Debi at 537-1570. (84-88)

ORANGE BACKPACK containing assorted text-books. Lost January 27 on road between KSU Un-ion and Aggieville. If found, please call Jeff at 776-0203. (86-90)

15 NOTICES

NEED MONEY for college? Let us match you with scholarship and grant money for which you can qualify. For more information write Student Financial Aid Services, 1613 S.W. Chelsea Drive, Topeka KS 66604. (82-91)

ATTENTION SCALPERS. Need four KU-KSU basket ball tickets for February 4. Company coming. 537 7087. (83-87)

SKYDIVE

Thursday 7 p.m. Union 206 Club meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Members who want to jump this semester MUST ATTEND AND PAY DUES.

Party this Friday Attend meeting for location vice, 1-494-2388. Drive a little and save money. (86-

PERSONAL

JORD-TODAY'S the day, but tomorrow you'll pay

We'll dance all night and hang all day. Have a great B-day, but no dancing on tables! Love, Ug. (86) TO THE pups of Dog: How much would you pay for those doggies in the frame? Be ready to bark at 5:30. No milkbones about it. The Dognappers. (86)

ter See Announcements. (86) "FLASH FUDD" Warning: To all men 6'2" or taller

21st. Bordewick!! Da-huh-huh-huh. (86) SHANNON-WHO'D ever thought there would be a day, that I would be playing for Miss Manhattan-K-State! There's only one reason, you know it's true, i want to be there to cheer for you! Congrats, buddy!

HEY! JUST a note to say! Hey. Danny "Marcos." you're a wing! Jorns, you better study this semes-ter, I'm gonna beat you! P.S. A good mood forever

(Remember that?) And the most important of all, to Shannon, you're the best and I love you!!! Sin cerely, Willie Wildcat. (Alias Bill). (86)

17 ROOMMATE WANTED MALE ROOMMATE needed-Across street from campus. $135/month plus utilities. 776-9369. (76-work - 776-2340 after 4 p.m (83-86) MALE ROOMMATE-two-bedroom, furnished, Mc

MALE ROOMMATE(S) wanted to share a six bedroom house. Total expense about $160 per month. No deposit, available now. 776-9222. (83-87)

ROOMMATE TO share a two bedroom partially fur nished apartment. Close to campus with air cond tioning, rent and utilities, $150. Call 539-7253. (83-

Own room, $155 per month plus utilities. 537-4347.

MALE ROOMMATE across street from campus at 1230 Vattier Ground floor, private room, washer dryer, fireplace. $135/month. plus utilities. 776-9369. (84-93)

room! $130/month-split utilities. Call 776-5265 after 6:30 p.m. (85-88)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted-two-bedroom apartment. For more information, call 776-0972 after 5 p.m. (85-86) ROOMMATE-RENT negotiable, own room, laundry

NONSMOKING FEMALE-large house, sundeck washer/dryer. Utilities paid, own room. $175/ month, 539-6628. (86-95)

18 SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537-9205. Dorinda. (78-88) Courtesy Demonstration by Appointment 9:30-5:30 Menday-Saturday

MERLE NORMAN

776-4535 TYPING/WORD processing. Data sheets, resumes, letters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Bur

QUALITY TYPING for $1 per page. Contact John, 539-5839. (81-90) READY FOR graduation? We compose/type resumes, data sheets and letters. Resume Service.

1211 Moro, Aggieville, 537-7294. (84-86) QUALITY TYPING at economical prices. Disserta-

SUBLEASE 20 SUMMER SUBLEASE—three-bedroom, one and one-half bath, close to campus, $465. Call 776-

22 WANTED: JUDO gi suit, call 532-4802 ask for Richard. (84-88)

WANTED: TWO tickets, KSU-KU game, Call 537-9249, ask for Bruce. (85-86)

HELP!! NEED one KU.-K-State ticket. Call Mike at 539-0905 (86-90)

33 CRYPTOQUIP

VTZQ YXJ Today's Cryptoquip clue: Z equals L

1-28 YKZE RFNZZMKZ AYNR VTKZQO'A RYEFX QEOVXJ TMM Yesterday's Cryptoquip: WEARY, FAMISHED DIE-TER HAD ONLY A SLIM CHANCE OF LOSING WEIGHT.

Info Meeting $270 537-4567

VW REPAIRS done right the first time. J & L Auto Ser-

TO DARK-haired guy in gray RX7: Am flattered, but don't remember you. Please introduce yourself. Cute blonde in royal blue coat. (85-86)

SKYDIVERS-GRAVITY works, even during the win-you will be experiencing visual and physical as-sault for the next 24 hours. She's now legal. Happy

THREE MALES—To share two-bedroom apartment $95/month, plus utilities. Home—539-5196

Cain Lane. Fireplace. Call 539 1157, after 8 p.m (82-

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share new apartment

FEMALE TO share two-bedroom apartment. Lots of

MALE ROOMMATE wanted: $133 plus utilities, own m, quiet, nice home. 776-1986. Ask for Lee. (85 facilities, next to campus Call 776-3833, keep try ing. (86-90)

Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf) EXPERIENCED TYPIST-$1.10/page. Disc storage

308 Poyntz

den, 539-1204. (80-89)

tions, Resumes, Theses, etc. Call Caron at 532-6294 or 776-2279. (86-95)

5379. (86-90) WANTED TO BUY

Double Your Savings On All Manufacturer's "Cents Off" Coupons Up To And Including 50¢ In Value.

-Bonus Special-Gaylord Frozen

Concentrate 12 oz. Can Additional Purchases 69¢

Limit 1

With

Coupon

-Bonus Special-Fresh Ground Additional Purchases

95¢ Lb.

Super Gonbour 1 12 oz. Can Concentrate Gaylord Frozen

Orange Juice

With This

Conbour Enber

Limit One 5 Lb. Chub Please. Limit One Coupon Per Customer. Coupon Good Jan. 28 Thru Feb. 3rd, 1987. Not Included In Double

Coupon Program.

Ground Beet

With This

Coupon

5 Lb. Chub Fresh

-Bonus Special-

Food Club

Additional Purchases

Limit 1 With Coupon

Limit One Can Please. Limit One Coupon Per Customer. Coupon Good Jan. 28 Thru Feb. 3rd, 1987. Not Included In Double Coupon Program.

-Bonus Special-

10 Lb. Bag Colorado Red McClure

Sabay

Limit One Bag Please.

Limit One Coupon Per

Customer. Coupon Good

10 Lb. Bag Colorado Red McClure Potatoes

Conbour

Limit One Doz. Please.

Limit One Coupon Per

Jan. 28 Thru Feb. 3rd,

1987. Not Included In

Double Coupon Program

Customer. Coupon Good

Food Club U.S.D.A. arge Eggs

With This

Coupon

79¢

Limit 1 With Coupon

Jan. 28 Thru Feb. 3rd, 1987. Not Included In Double Coupon Program.

Top Frost Frozen

-Bonus Special-

Whole Kernel Corn, Green Beans, Mixed Vegetables, French Cut Green Beans or Cut Green Beans

-Bonus Special-Food Club

-Green Tag Special-Coca Cola Classic

Limit 1

With

Coupon

Diet Coke, Cherry Coke, Coke, Caffeine Free Coke, Caffeine Free Diet Coke, Sprite, Diet Sprite, Diet Cherry Coke, 2 Liter Btl.

... Now Available

Navigator"

Embark On A Fun-Filled, Fast-Paced Journey Of Fantasy And Adventrue As David Takes Off On The Flight Of A Lifetime!

From Our Deli ...

-Bonus Special-

"For Your Main Course Or Sandwiches"

Virginia Baked Ham

-Bonus Special-

Deli Fresh Cherry Pineapple Dessert Hot Dogs, Polish Sausage 35° & Hot Links Ready To Eat, Fully Cooked

-Bonus Special-

Swiss Sandwich Cut

From Our Seafood Shoppe...

Fresh Boned

8-9 oz. Average

-Bonus Special-Fresh West Coast

Lb.

-Bonus Special-

Mako Shark Steaks Shell-On Shrimp 51-60 ct. Uncooked Headless LD. $339 LD. $599

From Our Flower Shop ...

-Bonus Special-Hand Painted

Kansas Day Mug Arrangement

Prices Effective January 28th Thru February 3rd, 1987. (Ad Not Effective In Pittsburg, Ks.) Limit Rights Reserved.

Dillons Salutes Our Great State of Kansas in Kansas Day, Jan. 29, 1987.

Martial Art

The Chinese martial art of tai chi combines silent rhythm and meditation. See Page 8.

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy and windy today, 20 percent chance for showers, high in the 40s. Mostly clear tonight.

Fast Mover

164 5/1/57  7 Tansas State Mistorical

Jeff Reynolds has his main goal in track set — be one of the top 10 sprinters in the world. See Page 9.

Kansas State

Thursday

January 29, 1987

Volume 93, Number 87 Kansas State University Merchants form 9-point crowd control plan

By TIM STALEY Collegian Reporter

In an effort to prevent another Aggieville disturbance, a plan to control pedestrian traffic into Aggieville may be enforced following halftime of the K-State-University of Kansas football game this fall.

This is one of the recommendations members of the Aggieville Merchants Association will present in a finalized form at the March 3 meeting of the Manhattan City Commission. The association presented preliminary plans to the commission in December, providing the basis for final recommendations.

Ellie Brent, president of the association and owner of Woody's Ladies Shop, 1225 Moro St., said the recommendations as they stand will serve as a base, but there will be a great deal of elaboration before the March 3 meeting.

"We talked a long time with the police chief," she said. "We have a long way to go on working out the details with him and the legalities of everything. "This is our base," Brent said. "We feel this is the direction we should take, but we'll have to work out a lot of details." "The Aggieville group that is working to settle the problem is only an advisory group," said Jim Schot-tler, owner of The Casual Encounter, 1208 Moro St. "We sifted through all the information, and we tried to find the feasible alternatives.

"We went to the police department. We went to the University. We talked to people in Michigan; we talked to people in Dallas, and we sifted through all of the possibilities that we could come up with."

The association came up with nine recommendations

'We will present these points to the city commission, and it's their decision whether to implement them or to go some other direction," Schottler said. "We feel that (the city commission) will support us and follow our guidelines.'

The nine recommendations are: Closing Aggieville streets to automobile traffic no later than halftime of the K-State-KU football game, including posting "No Parking after 2 p.m. Tow Zone" on Moro Street between 11th Street and North Manhattan Avenue.

Establishing controlled access talked to people in New Orleans; we for pedestrians into Aggieville, no later than halftime of the game, to prevent people from carrying any beverage containers into the area.

Establishing a citywide ordinance prohibiting non-authorized access to roofs of all commercial

- Placement, by March 1, of clear, permanent signs in Aggieville detailing city regulations concerning possession of open containers quoting both the ordinance and the Encouraging the K-State administration and student judicial board to review University policy outlining disciplinary measures for student misconduct, and urging them to set a strong tone in dealing with acts of violence and property destruction.

 Strongly supporting Riley Coun Police Department efforts to strictly enforce current laws and ordinances of the city, county and

 Strongly encouraging parents of underage children to keep them out of the Aggieville area that evening and to adhere to Manhattan's curfew

- Requesting that the University sponsor or promote a major entertainment event or other activities to provide alternatives to the Aggieville area that Saturday evening.

 Developing a coordinated effort to clearly communicate these measures to the public well in advance of the game.

Schottler said although the executive committee decided on the final presentation, all of the Aggieville merchants contributed to the recommendations.

"The merchants down here did a lot of the suggesting," he said. "I'd say 75 percent of what was used came directly from the merchants down here, who said 'We have to control the crowd on the street. We've got to do this, and we cannot allow the beer in containers to be carried around."

Schottler also said much of the responsibility for the success of next year's game rests with the students.

"We need their support, their active involvement and especially their mature behavior," Schottler said. "We're trusting in them to show they are proud to be K-Staters; they are proud they have Aggieville to use

Launch memorial

LEFT: Scott Rutherford, Manhattan, launches a model of the space shuttle Wednesday to commemorate the anniversary of the Challenger explosion. ABOVE: Rutherford guides another rocket onto the platform he was using while launching his models on the intramural fields of the L.P. Washburn Recreational Area.

Rebel troops leave Manila broadcast complex

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines - About 200 rebel troops agreed today to end their two-day occupation of a broadcast complex after progovernment soldiers called off an assault, said Defense Minister Rafael Ileto.

"I'm glad to announce we have ended another episode in the history of disturbances that have plagued us these many months," said Ileto at a news conference also attended by air force Col. Oscar Canlas, leader of the mutineers.

The announcement was made following a two-hour meeting at Camp Aguinaldo, the armed forces headquarters, between Canlas and top pro-government military officials including Ileto and military chief of staff Gen. Fidel V. Ramos.

Canlas refused to call the lifting of the Aquino vows to administer full punishment siege a surrender, saying "we never left the armed forces.'

He was accompanied to the meeting at Camp Aguinaldo by 13 fellow mutineers, all armed with M-16s. He was wearing blue jeans, a blue T-shirt and brown civilian jacket.

There was no indication that the mutineers had begun leaving the studios of Channel 7 television and radio station DZBB, which they had occupied since early Tuesday.

But private radio station DZRH reported that buses had been sent to pick up the mutineers. It said rebel soldiers and pro-Marcos civilians were still in the building. Ileto said the question of punishment for the mutineers, who the government linked to ex-President Ferdinand E. Marcos, "would be discussed later.'

Ramos said President Corazon Aquino was "perfectly satisfied with what was accomplished" and he was sending her a full report.

Aquino vowed Tuesday to punish "to the fullest extent of the law" hundreds of rebel soldiers who attempted to take over major media and military facilities in the capital.

Pro-government troops surrounding the television and radio complex fired about a dozen tear gas cannisters shortly after a late Wednesday deadline expired, but did not at-

Jose Magno, military adviser to Aquino, said military chief of staff Gen. Fidel V. Ramos ordered a halt to operations against the rebels after a five-hour meeting with 200 officers ranging in rank from lieutenant to colonel

Participants in the meeting told The Associated Press that they did not agree with the goals of the mutineers, and Magno said none of them actually refused to fight.

However, officers said they believed an attack would threaten the unity of the military, and they interceded with Ramos because they were friends and classmates of some of the rebels.

One of the officers who met with Ramos, Col. Gregorio Honasan, said he and his comrades "were just hoping to keep the AFP

See MANILA, Page 12

See MERCHANT, Page 12

By The Associated Press

House rejects approval of injection bill

TOPEKA - Capital punishment supporters were stunned Wednesday when the Kansas House failed to give tentative approval to a bill that would make death by lethal injection a possible penalty for people convicted of premeditated murder.

A motion to advance the bill for fi passage failed on a vote of 59-60 after nearly 41/2 hours of debate. Speaker Jim Braden said the measure remained under consideration on the House Calendar and could be brought to another first-round vote later.

An aide to Braden said Wednesday night the speaker was "strongly leaning" toward bringing the bill to another vote Thursday. Braden said earlier he doubted the matter would be raised again until Monday but added any move to send the bill to a final vote could trigger another round of lengthy debate.

Six of the 125 House members either were absent or were off the floor when the unrecorded vote was taken. Braden and two primary sponsors of the bill, Reps. Clyde Graeber and Martha Jenkins, both R-Leavenworth, said the missing lawmakers could have cast pivotal votes.

A commotion broke out on the floor after the results were announced, but Gov. Mike Hayden, who has promised to sign any death penalty bill that reaches his desk in proper form, said afterward he was not disturbed.

"I'm not angry at all," Hayden said. "I understand the process. I have full confidence in the speaker - that the leadership will get a favorable vote on it in both houses.

Graeber said the additional costs of prosecuting and defending capital murder cases coupled with the state's troubled financial condition may have led to an erosion of support for the bill.

"I am surprised," Graeber said. "I did feel as if enough people would hang in there to give us 63 votes. But I anticipated for a couple of days that the vote would be a great deal closer than people had expected." A capital punishment measure garnered 80 votes last year when it faced a certain veto from former Gov. John Carlin, But House

Majority Leader Joe Knopp said Hayden's pledge to sign a death penalty bill played a

See PENALTY, Page 12

Reagan's speech sparks protest from students

By The Collegian Staff

In response to President Ronald Reagan's Tuesday night State of the Union address, Students in Solidarity with Central America demonstrated Wednesday in front of the K-State

See related story Page 5

"We wanted to take an opportunity early in the semester to show there is opposition to Reagan's foreign and domestic policies," said Justin Palmer, senior in philosophy and president of SISCA. "We also wanted to make our organization known so people would realize they had this avenue to express their feelings." Various speakers talked about the Iran arms sale, the diversion of funds to the Contras in Nicaragua, the increasing defense budget and the Strategic Defense Initiative. 'We're here protesting Reagan's policies around the world and especially in Central America," said Kale Baldock, senior in modern

'We want to get people to wake up to the fact that Reagan is inept at his job and that he has been lying to us for a long time," Baldock said. "If there is more awareness, hopefully, once Reagan is out of of-

See SISCA, Page 12

Athletic fee figure creates confusion

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Collegian Reporter

Some Athletic Fee Task Force members were confused when they read the Collegian Wednesday mor-

When the task force meeting ended Tuesday afternoon, the Non-Revenue Sports Scholarship Fee had been raised to $6.25. Thirty minutes later, the Senate Executive Committee, which discusses proposed legislation, talked about a $6 fee.

When all was said and done, however, the fee had been raised to $6.50 for full-time students. The $3-a-semester fee for part-time students will remain the same. Kirk Caraway, senior in political science and task force member, said he attended the Senate Executive Committee meeting in another room of the Student Government Services Office after the task force meeting adjourned.

Committee members discussed a $6-a-semester fee, Caraway said. "I left the task force meeting at 4:30 (p.m.), went to Senate exec at 5 (p.m.), and didn't find out about the $6.50 until I saw it in the Collegian (Wednesday) morning," Caraway said.

Because proposing an athletic fee bill was a majority opinion of the task force members, Caraway said he believed it was unfair to change the fee after the meeting without consulting all members.

Two of the six sponsors of the bill were absent at the time of the decision, Caraway said. They were Jennifer Leeds, sophomore in political science; and Becky Svaty, sophomore in education. Both had signed the bill for a $6-a-semester

Leeds said she found out about the increase Wednesday morning.

"I was a little surprised, but not too worried, since I wasn't at the whole meeting," she said.

Student Body President Steven Johnson, junior in agricultural economics, said he was "a little confused" when he read the Collegian Wednesday.

"I attended the last part of the Senate Executive Committee meeting, and we talked about a $6 fee," he said.

Doug Folk, junior in electrical engineering and task force chairman, said the executive committee should have known the fee had been He said he went directly from the task force meeting and informed Jenny Johnston, secretary for student activities, about the change. "It wasn't that we changed our idea," Folk said. "We knew we

See FEE, Page 12

INTERNATIONAL

Police probe possible terror ring

MERZIG, West Germany - Police found an explosives cache after arresting a Lebanese terrorism suspect's brother and are investigating whether he ran a terror ring from West Germany, officials said Wednesday.

The cache was hidden in a field six miles from the apartment in Merzig of Ali Abbas Hamadi, 28, a naturalized West German citizen arrested Monday night at the Frankfurt airport. His brother is Mohammed Ali Hamadi, 22, an alleged hijacker of a TWA jetliner in 1985, who was arrested at the airport Jan. 13.

West Germany's ZDF television network said Tuesday night that Ali Abbas Hamadi may have led a terror ring responsible for several bombings in France last year and a June 1985 bombing that killed three people at the Frankfurt airport.

Federal officials in Bonn, speaking on condition of anonymity, said police were probing the possible link. "All of these things are being investigated. I can't tell you any more," one said.

Ali Abbas Hamadi was arrested because police suspected he was involved in the abductions of two West Germans in Beirut after his younger brother was arrested.

REGIONAL

Liquor bill begins to take form

TOPEKA-A bill to implement liquor by the drink in restaurants began to take shape Wednesday in the Senate Federal and State Affairs Committee with decisions to allow sale of liquor on Sundays and election days in liquor establishments, including restaurants and

The decision to expand the liquor implementation bill sparked debate on the committee and angered at least one member, Sen. Neil Arasmith, R-Phillipsburg.

Arasmith objected to the bill containing anything other than specific language needed to implement and regulate establishments which will serve liquor by the drink to the public. The legislation is needed before a constitutional amendment adopted by voters in November can take effect.

"I'm just trying to get a simple bill drafted to implement liquor by the drink," Arasmith said. "It should include licensing fees and call for regulation by the (alcoholic beverage control)."

However, Sen. Ed Reilly, R-Leavenworth and committee chairman, said the liquor implementation legislation should contain a number of provisions which would enact sweeping reforms of current state liquor laws, including revision of the existing tax system and distribution network.

Dole, Hayden to speak at dinner

TOPEKA - U.S. Sen. Bob Dole and Gov. Mike Hayden are featured speakers for Kansas Republicans' annual Kansas Day dinner Saturday night at the Downtown Ramada Inn here.

The state party's annual celebration of the state's entry into the union usually features an outside speaker. But this year, with Dole in the limelight as a leading contender for the party's presidential nomination in 1988 and Hayden the party's first governor in eight years, the GOP went with its homegrown talent.

Other highlights include the formal announcement Friday night by the Native Sons and Daughters of Kansas of the selection of George Nettels Jr. of Pittsburg as the Kansan of the Year and a meeting Saturday afternoon of the Republican State Committee to elect Fred Logan as new state party chairman and Jack Ranson as a member of the GOP National Committee.

Dog Days Special!

Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Jan. 29-30-31

Just tell one of our friendly employees,

"Charles and I love

frozen yogurt!" and receive a small,

medium or large cup or cone of ICBIY's

French Vanilla

Frozen Yogurt

(Charles' favorite) at

50% Off

11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily

Nautilus Towers

NATIONAL

Engineer denies using drugs in cab whose locomotive caused the fatal Amtrak train crash Jan. 4, denies brakeman Edward Cromwell, a longtime friend. Gates added, "What Blood tests taken from Cromwell and Gates after the accident showed both had traces of marijuana in their systems at the time of the crash. Federal investigators have said there was "a sufficient amount" of marijuana to indicate recent or chronic use.

In his first interview since the accident that killed 16 people, the 14-year veteran engineer said a psychiatrist has been helping him

Gates and Cromwell were operating the three linked locomotives which skidded through a crossover switch into the path of a highspeed Amtrak train carrying more than 600 passengers. More than 170 people were injured.

But he essentially stood by earlier accounts that a initial track signal told him to slow down and proceed through an upcoming switch. He also said he knew nothing about a muted cab whistle that would have alerted him to a second track signal telling him to stop.

BOSTON - A jury Wednesday found the ousted president of Westfield State College innocent of sexually assaulting a student. The Suffolk Superior Court jury deliberated 81/2 hours before ac-

Pilecki faces a second trial on two charges stemming from an alleged sexual assault of a second student. Each charge carries a Pilecki hugged his wife Juliana and their son and daughter after the verdict was read.

time of the alleged assault, could have rebuffed the president's advance or left the room when Pilecki, 52, asked him to disrobe and

The former student declined to comment on the verdict.

Shultz calls for federal prosecution

Wednesday to piece together the Iran-Contra puzzle, while Secretary of State George P. Shultz said people responsible for channeling Iranian arms sales proceeds to Nicaraguan rebels should be prosecuted.

Budget Committee, Shultz acknowledged that U.S. anti-terrorist policy around the world has been thrown "slightly off stride" by the revelations of recent weeks, while the White House said President Reagan is sending national security adviser Frank Carlucci on a Central American fact-finding tour.

While there were continuing recriminations about a series of clandestine sales of American weapons to Tehran, the former commander of U.S. military forces in Central America painted a bleak picture of chances that the Contra counterrevolutionaries will topple the leftist Sandinista regime.

BALTIMORE - Rick Gates, the 39-year-old Conrail engineer smoking marijuana in the cab that day. "No!" Gates said when asked whether he smoked in the cab with

I do on my own time is my own business." He declined to elaborate.

deal with the guilt of surviving the worst accident in Amtrak history.

Gates declined to comment specifically about his actions Jan. 4.

Jury acquits president of assault quitting Francis J. Pilecki of two charges of indecent assault and maximum penalty of five years in prison.

The case, which was moved across the state following intense publicity, prompted statewide investigations into the use of college funds after it was disclosed that a student was secretly given a $10,000 payment from college funds in connection with the sexual assault charges.

Pilecki's attorney argued during the trial that the student, 21 at the then grabbed his buttocks.

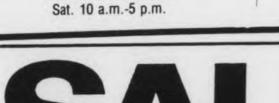

WASHINGTON -- A federal judge empaneled a grand jury Answering questions during an appearance before the House

BARBIZON cuddleskin gowns J CHRISTOPHER nightshirts MISS ELAINE robes & gowns

50% OFF

Selected teddies, bras, panties

THURS.-FRI.-SAT.

You Name It . . . We've got it!

It's Dog-gone Good Stuff!

Charles, a West Highland White Terrier, is one of our regular customers. His owners, Bonnie and Larry Hansen of Manhattan, treat him to ICBIY's

I Can't Believe It's

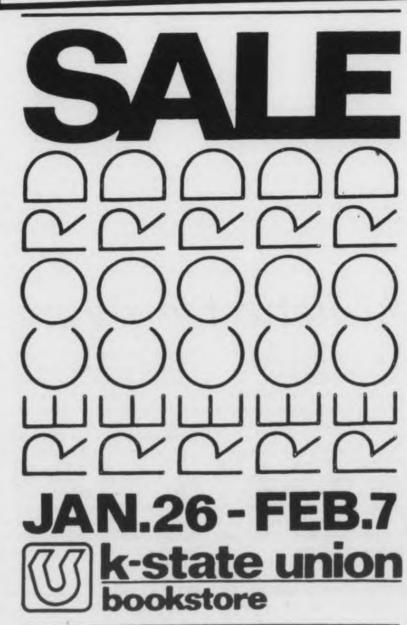

frozen yogurt every evening.

Find out how you can get it. Information on the re-organization of a 57-year-old KSU Fraternity.

> Tuesday, Feb. 3, 7 p.m. Room 207 K-State Union

> The New Fraternity of Alpha Kappa Lambda

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

U-LEARN is looking for a few good volunteers for this spring. Don't waste away the spring hours — be a U-Learn volunteer. Call 532-6442 or stop

ALPHA MU ALPHA: All resumes are due Fri-day and members should contact Teresa Leighty, Also, there will be a field trip Friday to Hallmark. Members should contact Angie Rowland if in-

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in Union Activities Center and are due Feb. 6 at 5

CONGRESSIONAL TEACHER SCHOLAR-SHIP PROGRAM information and applications forms available in Bluemont 017.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT WILL be showing tapes prepared by the College Place-ment Council in Holtz 107b. Today's tapes will be "Interview Preparation" and "The Interview" at 3:30 p.m. "The Interview" and "Interview Follow-up" will be shown at 3:30 p.m. Friday.

FACULTY AND STAFF MEMBERS are invited to attend a reception honoring Darwin D.
Liverance for his leadership of Personnel Services at the University. The reception will be from 2 to 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Union Sunflower

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION STUDENT COUNCIL applications are available in Bluemont 13 and are due Monday.

TODAY

AG AMBASSADORS meet at 6 p.m. in Waters

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL

ALPHA MU ALPHA meets at 4 p.m. in Union

ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at 8 p.m. in Union Little Theatre.

PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION STUDENT COUNCIL will have a reception for anyone interested in participating in the council at 4:30 p.m. in Bluemont 106.

SPEECH UNLIMITED meets at 4 p.m. in

SAILING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union 208.

THETA XI LITTLE SISTERS meet at 7 p.m. at

NATIONAL SOCIETY OF ARCHITECTURAL

GOLDEN KEY NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

DEPARTMENT OF SPEECH will host five ac-

PARACHUTE CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union

ANOREXIA NERVOSA AND ASSOCIATED

TAU BETA PI meets at 7 p.m. in Durland

RODEO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Ackert 221.

ALPHA MU ALPHA meets at 4 p.m. in Union

DISORDERS meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union 205.

tors from the London Stage presenting "Pinter This Evening" at 8 p.m. in Nichols Theatre.

ENGINEERS meets at 4:30 p.m. in Union Forum

GRAIN SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY meets at 6:30 p.m. in Shellenberger 311.

ARTS AND SCIENCES AMBASSADORS meet

RISHWATER

ANY BRAND

TONIGHT ALL MIXED DRINKS ANY NAME

BAR 539-9727

531 N. Manhattan

OFFICE 539-4321

McCain Auditorium

The Young Americans

"Around the World in 80 Days" An All New Musical Revue

Thursday, January 29, 1987 8:00 p.m. Tickets and information

Area north of Union may get facelift

By TOM PERRIN Collegian Reporter

Two University presidents and 25 years later, Bob Page may finally have the support he needs for his pet project of revamping the island between the K-State Union and Seaton Hall.

Page, associate professor of landscape architecture, and Richard Forsyth, associate dean of the College of Architecture and Design, chose 12 designs for the proposal from projects completed by two of their design classes and displayed them last December in the Union.

Some of the drawings include plans to totally relandscape the area from Ahearn Field House to Anderson Hall, while other projects do not cover so much space. The elements in some of the plans are a new auto arrival area, a garden area, a fountain, an amphitheater and covered eating areas.

'Part of the concern is that the area is one of the most visible places on campus," said Page, who was a K-State student from 1961-65 and has been a professor since 1971. "Practically every visitor to the campus sees the area. It's a key area...I think it's a great opportunity to create a positive image."

In addition, President Jon Wefald visited the class and said he wants to see the project become a reality before his tenure ends.

"I think it would be a really nice thing to do," Wefald said. "George Miller (vice president for administration and finance) and I looked over the student projects and they all looked great. Any one of them would be good."

The one stumbling block is the estimated cost of the project - $1.5 million. That translates to about $15-20 per square foot, Page said.

"The most expensive part will be the paved areas. It costs more to tear up paving than to put down new paving," he said. "There will be quite a bit involved in demoli-

How the money for the project will be raised has not yet been determined. However, a possibility exists that a fund-raising movement may be organized by this spr-

"The money probably won't come from capital improvements, although it could if it was put on the priority system," Page said. "There are two more ways it could happen. One is through a major fund drive, similar to what's been done on the dairy barn. Another way is a student referendum another fee increase.'

While Wefald said he is enthusiastic about the project, it is not too high on the priority list. Undertakings such as an art museum, other building and capital improvement projects and raising additional scholarship money are higher priorities, he said.

Page had presented proposals to former University presidents James A. McCain and Duane Acker. Now with Wefald, Page said he is more optimistic than ever that the project will come about.

"The president seemed really enthusiastic about the physical appearance of the campus when he was hired," Page said. "I asked him if he would like to see the project done and he said, 'Yes."

Page's students have worked on the project as a class assignment each year for the past 15 years.

"We use it for two reasons - it's very handy and it's a real-life situation that we can study every day,"

As long as the Union has been in existence, the area's appearance has remained essentially the same.

"It looks the same as it did 25 years ago when I was in school here, except now there are barricades (to keep cars out)," Page

Mark Taussig, University landscape architect, is another who likes the possibilities of the pro-

"I'm really excited about the potential." he said. "I can't say enough good things about the pro-

Americans remember anniversary of tragedy

By The Associated Press

With monuments and memorial services, Americans mourned the seven Challenger astronauts Wednesday on the first anniversary of history's worst space disaster.

Thousands of workers at 10 National Aeronautics and Space Administration centers around the nation observed 73 seconds of silence, the length of Challenger's final flight, at 11:38 a.m., the time the shuttle roared off an icicle-draped launch pad at Cape Canaveral. Wednesday also was cold, with a low of 33 degrees, a reminder of the conditions that contributed to Challenger's loss

President Reagan, in taped remarks played at NASA centers, said school teacher Christa McAuliffe and her six fellow astronauts had taught a "lesson of courage, spirit and love to America's children, and now it is for all of us to learn the lesson from them.'

Vice President George Bush met in his office with relatives of three of the astronauts.

At the Kennedy Space Center at Cape Canaveral, where the Challenger took off on its last flight, some employees cried openly, other fought back tears and several hugged one another, and tourist buses stopped in their tracks at 11:38 a.m.

"A lot of people just wanted to be with themselves," said Terry Eddleman, a spokesman for the Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala. "It is not a happy day."

Killed in the accident were Cmdr. Dick Scobee, Pilot Michael Smith. McAuliffe and crew members Judy Resnik, Ronald McNair, Ellison Onizuka and Greg Jarvis.

Jarvis' widow, Marcia, shunned any public appearance on the anniversary. "I'm going to spend that day quietly on a trail somewhere...because we always did things outside," she said. Junior high school students paused for 90 seconds at 11:38 a.m. at Lake City, S.C., McNair's hometown. Onizuka's family planned a happier observance Saturday, gathering in Houston for a Hawaiian-style luau. 'We promised Ellison a luau when he got back ... and the luau never occurred," said Claude Onizuka, his younger brother.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements designated Jan. 28 as "Challenger Memorial Day" in his state. Oklahoma Gov. Henry Bellmon joined about 100 school children and others in 73 seconds of silence at the state Capitol.

The Washington state Senate unanimously adopted a resolution honoring the "bravery and citizenship" of Scobee, a Washington native, and Minnesota Gov. Rudy Perpich announced plans for an endowed scholarship in memory of McAuliffe, with a goal of $9 million in public and private money.

For some, it was a day to remember two disasters in the nation's space prorgram.

About 90 people attended the dedication of a granite monument at the Michigan Space Center in Jackson, Mich., to Jarvis and to Roger Chaffee, who died in the Apollo I launch pad fire 20 years ago Tuesday. Both were Michigan natives.

"I think each of us lost something on that day a year ago," former astronaut Jack Lousma, commander on the third shuttle flight, said at the dedication.

Project revitalizes older dwellings

Design classes create housing program

By The Collegian Staff

For many people, owning a house in Kansas City is only a dream, but a program designed by K-State architecture professors and students could increase the possibility.

Last semester, two K-State architecture professors and 28 students designed an affordable housing program that could revitalize older residential sections in Kansas City while allowing more people to own a

Bob Burnham, head of the Department of Architecture, and Ray Streeter, assistant professor of architecture, challenged their students in design studio to develop affordable housing designs to blend in with existing homes in older neighborhoods.

Burnham said he developed the idea for the project because he is concerned about the rising costs of housing during the last 15 years.

While various people and groups have shown interest, Burnham said he doubts any construction firm will adopt the program as developed by the design class.

"I think there are good principles (in the project) that people will look

The professors developed basic

"When we received the project, I don't think anyone said it couldn't be done, but the feeling was that it would be very hard to do it and still remain within the ground rules," said Mike Smith, senior in architecture and member of the design team.

"By creating our own design criteria, we created our own problems," Smith said.

The students were forced to adhere to a strict budget for cost and space considerations, something that they did not have to do in previous design classes, he said.

The designs had to be cost-efficient enough to be within the purchase power of a household earning $22,560, which was the goal targeted in the initial calculations on affordability. The size of the design houses had to be practical for average-sized lots typical of the areas of Kansas City being considered for the projects.

"It was a different project than we were used to and a challenge to deal with the cost and space limitations as opposed to 'the sky is the limit attitude' on some other projects," said Diane Fox, senior in architecture and member of the design team.

"We couldn't always use the materials and construction we were used to," Smith said. "The design ground rules for the project and defined the guidelines for the class to had to be less elaborate, yet still seem big and remain elegant. Normally, we have free reign to do what we want as far as space and materials are concerned."

After many weeks of cautious progress, a variety of designs began to emerge. Four different styles of homes, each paired with a rental unit, were the result.

The concept was formulated so the purchaser of the home would be able to lease the other unit. This would help relieve their financial burden brought on by the purchase of a hous-

AGGIEVILLE

FLOWERS

SPRING

FLOWER

BUNDLE

$4 EACH

cash and carry

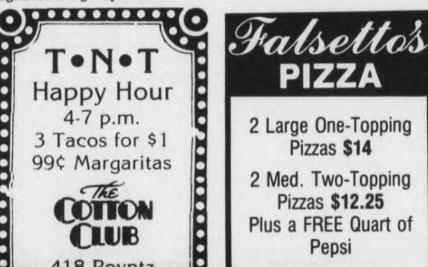

12th & Laramie

537-9549 M-S 10-5

Burnham said he hopes such designs can be used as a pilot program in Kansas City so that other cities will see it working and and consider the benefits it may hold for their respective communities.

Although he said he's not surprised by what the team accomplished, Smith said he is happy with the final "It just shows what you can do with a little creativity, a good imagination and good professors."

COTTON CLUB 418 Poyntz

Downtown • Our APPOINTMENT SYSTEM will save you time and provide you with more effective and efficient care. Emergencies or

> CALL 532-6544 FOR YOUR NEXT CLINIC APPOINTMENT

immediate health needs can be taken care of on a walk-in

LAFENE STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

Your KSU Health Service Center

PIZZA 2 Large One-Topping Pizzas $14

2 Med. Two-Topping Pizzas $12.25 Plus a FREE Quart of Pepsi

Buy a 10" Supreme, Receive One FREE!

We Have Expanded to serve you quicker & better.

FREE DELIVERY 539-3830

1127 Moro-Aggieville

AII Premium Drinks

•$2.95 AII Burgers

1115 Moro • Aggleville 776-0030

KANSAS CATHOLIC COLLEGE STUDENTS

Convention: Feb. 20-22, 1987 Interested? Want more info? Informal social meeting for information and registration

Sunday, Feb.1, 6 p.m. Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison

Bring your dinner if you want and your friends too!

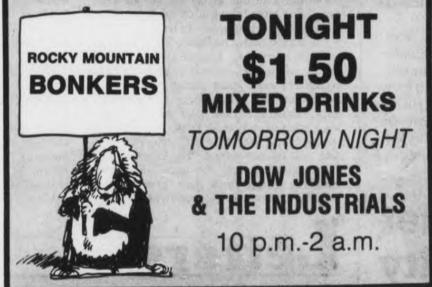

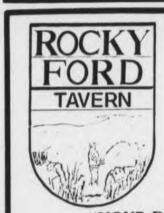

We have a great offer for you! 50% off reg. salon price of Haircuts to introduce you to our new salon!

Ask for Karen or Kellie to receive this offer. Reg. price men $14 ladies $16 (includes shampoo-cut-style) good through Feb. 537-9825

1140 Westloop Place

Westloop Shopping Center

Old Milwaukee Light Night $1.75 Pitchers Old Milwaukee Light and Pickled Eggs

> It Just Doesn't Get Any Better Than This!

"YOUR DISCOUNT BEER BARN" Go North on Tuttle Creek Blvd. then on the back road to the Rocks The Finest Little Tavern by a Dam Site!

Rt. 5

537-3133

DAYTONA

we $229 you $149

Sign up and receive 3 FREE tans from Southern Sun (must be used by 2/28/87)

- · Round trip transportation to beautiful Daytona Beach via modern highway motor coaches.
- Seven nights accommodations at Dayton's Holiday Inn Surfside. · Free pool deck parties with music and refreshments.
- Special discounts from Daytona Beach Merchants. Special car rental prices for all students 18 years and older.

All taxes & tips included.

Call Tom at 539-5499 or Rex at 776-8060. Sponsored by Designers are a continuous and a manage processing and a state of the continuous and the continuous and the continuous and

Kansas

EDITOR Jonie Trued MANAGING EDITOR Sue Dawson NEWS EDITOR Erin Eicher

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Deron Johnson PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER Sheila Hutinett

EDITORIAL BOARD: Susan Baird, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Judy Goldberg, Ron Honig, Pat Hund, Deron Johnson, Judy Lundstrom, Scott Miller, Andy Nelson, Patti Paxson, Julie Reynolds, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Compromise enables group to produce bill

In its long consideration of an athletic fee, the Athletic Fee Task Force has seen several variations on how such a levy would be imposed and exactly who would benefit from it. The latest — to which it has given its approval — is clearly the most workable, and the result of the task force's commitment is a bill There was a perception that that will be presented to Student once in the Athletic Department's Senate tonight.

measure, and Student Body President Steven Johnson doesn't veto it, it will come before students for approval during the Student Governing Association elections Feb. 10-11.

That the bill has made it this far is a considerable achievement. It took a significant amount of concession by the task force as well as Athletic Director Larry Travis before a version of the bill could even be placed long enough. It's time to give it to before Senate.

Although Travis maintains the fee has always been intended for non-revenue sports, task force members have said that's not always been clear. Furthermore, if it was understood the fee was to be for non-revenue sports, there was some doubt about whether that would always be the case.

hands, the money could be used If Senate approves the as administrators saw fit. Provisions in the proposal before Senate guarantee that will never happen.

Although there is considerable debate remaining over whether the fee is justified and whether students will lend their support to it, it is encouraging that at least students will be able to vote on it, provided Senate passes the bill and Johnson doesn't veto it.

This bill has been discussed the students.

Dwyer's suicide poses grisly ethics dilemma

R. Budd Dwyer, facing a jail term for defrauding the state, called a news conference Jan. 22 to proclaim his innocence. He television then pulled a pistol from a manila newspapers which used that picenvelope, put it in his mouth and killed himself in front of 12 reporters and photographers.

vided a graphic record of the suicide, and the incident produced a dilemma for newspaper and ing to think others may do the television news editors.

any, of the pictures of Dwyer such a morbid public display, preparing to commit or actually been used? Two Pennsylvania television stations chose to show ing to the floor, as did several must be made within minutes. newspapers across the country.

thousand words, but the picture and those who chose to use the taken immediately after Dwyer pictures of Dwyer ending his own pulled the trigger was not life made the wrong decision.

Pennsylvania State Treasurer necessary to the public's understanding of the story and, in fact, its rejection was warranted by its graphic nature. Those stations ture violated standards of taste.

Dwyer created a news story by killing himself at the news con-The cameras in the room pro- ference he called. In a sense, he used the media to tell his gruesome story, and it's disturbsame in the future. Although it is The question was: Which, if impossible for anyone to prevent news organizations should choose committing suicide should have not to use the graphic pictures which may result.

Yes, questions such as these Dwyer shooting himself and fall- often face editors and decisions But editors are presumed to know It's true a picture can tell a when such images are justified,

Gov. Hayden's budget positive for University

Granted, there is room for improvement.

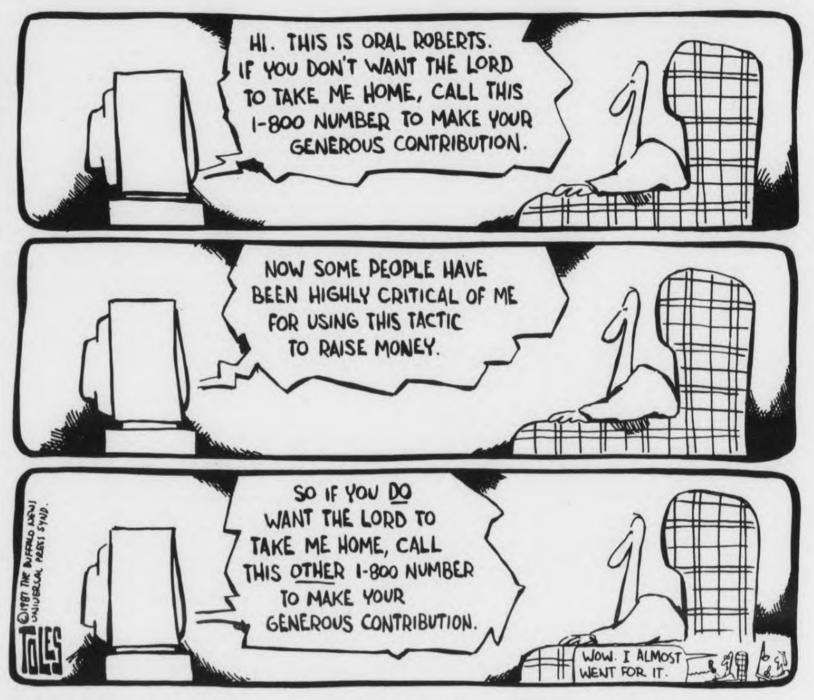

But, budget recommendations made by Gov. Mike Hayden in his first State of the State address Friday left Kansas universities practically unscathed when compared with other state agencies. A major recommendation Hayden made was that of restoring $3.06 million to the base budget of the University.

The money was K-State's share of the 3.8 percent state agency budget cuts mandated by Hayden in November 1986. Those cuts were "a serious quality blow" to the University, according to President Jon Wefald. Their restoration was "the No. 1 thing" the University had to have to maximize its service to the students, he said.

Also recommended was a change in the enrollment corridor, a regulation that bases a university's budget on its enrollment from the previous two years. Under the current regulations, K-State stands to lose more than $1 million on July 1, 1987, Wefald said. With the new recommendation, that amount would be decreased to about $350,000.

Hayden's proposals, if approved, will prevent at least $4 million in cuts at the University next year, Wefald said.

Hayden doesn't have much money to work with. At a time when cuts and minimal budget increases are becoming daily occurrences, it is refreshing to know our governor shows some commitment to higher education.

Repression exists in America

When one hears about political prisoners, they usually associate this subject with repressive countries such as South Africa, El Salvador or the Soviet Union. Being imprisoned for political beliefs is a fact of life people in these and many other countries must face every day.

In the past, I have written about a few of these repressive regimes, expressing my disgust for their policies. My columns have centered mostly on those countries supported by the United States. This isn't to imply there is not repression on the other side of the fence, but I believe it to be important to clean our own house before we start criticizing someone else's housework. It is extremely contradictory for the United States to criticize the Soviet Union for human rights violations when 50,000 civilians in Guatemala have been murdered in the last six years with the support and blessing of the U.S. government.

But in my fervor to expose these gross violations of human rights by U.S. client states, I may have overlooked an important issue. Does the United States oppress its own citizens for their political beliefs? Are there political prisoners in the United States? Is there an Orwellian-style big brother government that "silences" political dissent from the American public?

In 1978, Andrew Young, then U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations and currently mayor of Atlanta, remarked that "hundreds, perhaps thousands" of people were in U.S. prisons because of their political beliefs and not because of the crimes they were charged

What could Young be talking about? This is America, the land of the free. How could something like this go on before our very eyes? But after taking a closer look at the facts, the assertion seems to be true.

The United States has had a long history of political repression. Eugene Debs and hundreds of other socialist and radical organizers were jailed during World War I and during the well-publicized raids of Attorney General Palmer after the war. There were mass arrests of socialists and pacifists during World War II and the Korean War. And let us not forget the thousands of Japanese-Americans who were put into internment camps and their property expropriated because of questions of their

KIRK CARAWAY Collegian Columnist

"loyalty." Try asking why German-Americans were not interned also

There were also scores of people arrested under the Smith Act. This Act, passed by Congress in 1940, forbade the teaching or advocacy of a revolutionary doctrine. Then, there were the people who were jailed for refusing to cooperate with the communist "witch hunts" of Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

And the list goes on. U.S. prisons today hold many political prisoners, including members of groups such as the Black Liberation Army, the Black Panthers, the Republic of New Africa, MOVE, the American Indian Movement and the FALN. Scores of other Black, Chicano, Puerto Rican and Indian activists have also been jailed in recent years.

Perhaps the most oppressed group of people are the American Indians. Throughout history, we have seen Indians being massacred, forcibly relocated and deprived of their land. The U.S. government has broken every treaty it has ever made with the Indians, and to this day the government is trying to exterminate these native Americans. A Government Accounting Office study unearthed some horrifying evidence of massive involuntary sterilization programs being conducted against Indian women. It was estimated that perhaps onefourth of Indian women of childbearing age were sterilized under these programs. Soon there may be no Native Americans left to op-

Then there is the case of Russell Means. Means, a leader of the American Indian Movement, has survived four assassination attempts, most of them occurring while under 24-hour FBI surveillance. He was charged with several trumped-up charges and was finally sentenced to four years in prison for failing to stand when the judge entered the courtroom where Means was attending a trial of another AIM leader.

There also seems to be evidence "Big Brother" is alive and well and living in America. There are at least 20 different federal agencies that carry out surveillance of American citizens. It is estimated the U.S. government spends $10 million a year on intelligence operations. This a rough estimate, for the Central Intelligence Agency refuses to disclose its budget, even to Congress.

The CIA actually owns several businesses and uses the profits to fund covert operations. It can spend this money any way it wants and could even keep the president in the dark about the way it spends its money. It is a dangerous situation when an agency as powerful as the CIA can achieve such a degree of self-sufficiency that cannot be controlled by any branch of government. Add to this an executive order signed by President Reagan in 1981 allowing the CIA the freedom to spy on American citizens inside the country and images of George Orwell's "1984"

There is a pattern to the political repression in this country. Those groups who press for changes in our economic system are singled out, while right-wing extremists are given an OK, if not direct support, to carry out violence against leftist or civil rights organizations.

For example, in 1979 in Greensboro, N.C., Ku Klux Klan and Nazi members fired on a non-violent rally organized by the Communist Workers Party, killing five people. Even though they were filmed by a television news crew, the murderers were found innocent by an all-white jury. Further investigations revealed that federal and local police agents organized the attack and provided automatic weapons to the attackers.

Adam Smith, who is known as the father of capitalism, once said government was "instituted for the defense of the rich against the poor." James Madison, the fourth president of the United States and signatory of the Constitution, expressed this very idea in Federalist Paper No. 10. Using this kind of thinking, is the U.S. government really a majority rule democracy, or an aristocratic regime that protects the wealthy elite from the poor majority? According to these ideas, anyone who campaigns for redistribution of wealth is an enemy of the state and must be eliminated. Now that's some kind of political freedom.

Letters

Voice your opinion

Editor,

I do not believe the issue of the representation enhancement referendum is dead yet. This week, there is a table in the Union for the petition drive. We are collecting signatures to put the referendum back on the

By signing the petition, you are not enforcing the referendum. All you are doing is seeing that the referendum is put back on the ballot where Senate originally put it. As a student at this University, you are entitled to voice your opinion on how you are represented. Don't let anyone take that right

> Eirene Tatham senior in construction science

Why kill people?

Very soon we may expect the state Legislature to debate a bill to reintroduce the death penalty as a method of punishment for first-degree murder. The arguments against the death penalty as an effective method for dealing with violent crimes are many and often backed with reliable evidence:

-The death penalty does not deter crime. It cannot be proven that a state which passes a death penalty bill will show a reduction in its murder rate.

-The death penalty is subject to human fallibility just as all legal practices are. Since 1900, at least 25 innocent people have been executed.

-Evidence strongly indicates a racial bias in the application of the death penalty, with the killers of whites being far more frequently convicted than those who kill blacks.

-Studies of other states clearly show that the reinstatement of the death penalty costs many millions of dollars beyond the cost of a non-capital punishment system. The Legislature is debating the bill without any cost analysis by the state, even though evidence has been provided suggesting a figure in excess of $50 million before a single execution takes place.

Can Kansas afford - morally or financially - to reintroduce such legislation on the basis of an emotional desire to exhort retribution on behalf of the victim? To the very best of my knowledge, that is the only argument put forward in favor of reinstating the death penalty.

Yes, society needs to overcome the tragic consequences of violent crime, and yes, people should be able to conduct their lawful business protected from such despicable

It is vitally important that senators and representatives are made aware of the facts. After all, why do we kill people who kill people to show people that killing people is

Roger Beaman post-doctoral research associate Department of Chemistry

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included.

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

DREAM House provides help for unwed mothers in need

By KRISTI BARANCIK Collegian Reporter

While most people have dreams, few have the ability or opportunity to turn their dreams into reality. Billye Martin is doing just that through Dream House Inc.

Martin's DREAM - Delivering Refuge, Encouragement and Assistance to Mothers in need -Dream House Inc., is a non-profit organization which helps unwed mothers through counseling and continuing education programs.

"Our dream is to help (unwed mothers) through, see more babies born and help the mothers fulfill their dream to continue their education with a guilt-free conscience," Martin said.

"We have plans to be in operation within two months," she said. The exact opening date will not be set until office facilities are secured. Martin's vision of the Dream

House is "a sorority-type situation that is a maternity home for collegeage women." Dream House will not have an actual residence for unwed mothers immediately. The board of directors is working on the fine points of the counseling and educational systems which will be available in an office

"We want to set up our own classes because it is uncomfortable to be in a class of glowing young couples when you're trying to do this on your own," Martin said. Counseling will be available in prenatal care, natural childbirth and postnatal care.

Dream House is an alternative to abortion, she said.

"We know (abortion) happens, and we forget to take it seriously. We become numb," Martin said. She said statistics show about 4,000 reported abortions every day in the United States.

"We all have our lives to live," she said, "but we have to leave a small wound open so that we remain sensitive to the situation."

"Dream House is a visible option to young women," said Chaplain Norbert F. Dlabal, of St. Isidores Catholic Church. Dlabal is a member of the board of directors of Dream

"As soon as we have a place of operation, we are going to start advertising as aggressively as our money will allow," Martin said. "We want to compete with anti-life advertising and balance the scale as much as we can.'

"Hopefully, funding will be pretty broad-based, not just local," Dlabal said. Funding will be based on personal contributions and grants.

"We intend to depend primarily on the pro-life Christian community," Martin said

Martin said she was active in prolife organizations in Hutchinson until she moved to Manhattan 21/2 years

"I wanted to carry on pro-life activities here. There wasn't a mainstream Right to Life organization here so I organized one in January 1986." She began plans for Dream House, a separate organization, in April 1986.

Dream House is currently taking applications for volunteer workers in its counseling services, she said.

Dream House is governed by a board of directors, including David DeShazo, family life pastor at Westview Community Church, and Glenda Gould, member of the Assembly of God Church, along with Martin and Dlabal.

Although Dream House is separate from other organizations in Manhattan, members can refer people to Birthright shepherding homes in which families volunteer to house

"We aren't trying to duplicate any services," Martin said. "We are just trying to work with the other services and fill in the blanks.'

unwed mothers.

Protesters face surveillance, investigator says

By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

While peaceful protesters marched in front of the Union Wednesday afternoon, an investigator for the K-State Police Department took pictures of the event.

Investigator Richard Herrman said the police department records most campus events where crowds

"It's nothing new," he said. "We always take pictures of anything of protest - peaceful or not." About 30 members of Students in Solidarity with Central America marched in response to President Ronald Reagan's State of the Union Address, aired Tuesday night. Members expressed their discontent with Reagan's stand on issues including aid to Nicaraguan Contra rebels, increased military spending and the Strategic Defense Initiative.

Herrman said photographs are taken of participants and audience members at organized protests and Landon Lectures. University basketball and football games are also recorded on videotape, he said. "It's just an investigative procedure," he said. "If violence erupts, we have a record of those involved.' While videos of games are taped over after the event ends, photographs are kept on file.

Pictures in the "intelligence file" are for future use if a related incident occurs, Herrman said.

Photos are dated and titled for each event but subjects are not identified unless necessary, he said.

Although he could not recall any occurrences where photographs were used to identify someone after a protest, Herrman said they would be beneficial if, for example, an audience member began harassing a protester. With a description of the agitator, the photo could be used to confirm his identity.

Pictures did help the police department identify two or three illegal aliens who attended a Landon Lecture given by Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani in 1983, Herrman said.

He said the department's reason for taking photographs has nothing to do with its opinion of the demonstrators.

"They've got their right to demonstrate, and there was nothing wrong with that protest today."

Senate to scrutinize $6.50 athletic fee bill

By MICHAEL MORRIS Collegian Reporter

The non-revenue sports scholarship fee referendum will go through its first reading tonight at Student Senate.

If the bill is enacted, the student body will vote during general elections Feb. 10-11 on the athletic fee, increasing full-time student fees by $6.50 a semester and $3 a semester for part-time students.

The resolution also states that no student monies will be collected until Department of Intercollegiate Athletics officials sign an agreement stating the fees will only be used for non-revenue sports scholarships.

Senate will also complete its discussion and vote on the proposed resolution objecting to the service charge on the gross receipts of student-funded agencies.

The resolution is being proposed because of the University's announcement of a 3 percent service charge on the K-State Union, Student Publications Inc. and Lafene Student Health Center.

The directors of the three agencies, Walt Smith of the Union, Dr. Robert Tout of Lafene and David Adams of Student Publications will attend tonight's meeting.

If the resolution passes, Senate will then encourage the directors of the agencies to adjust the proposed changes with the University, based on a prior agreement between the University and the agencies

The resolution recommends that the proposed changes be withheld until an agreement is reached between the University administration and the agencies.

Senate will explore measures to arrange the service charge as a temporary measure and to arrange an independent audit of the three agencies in order to account for the actual value of the services, the resolution states.

Also on the agenda, Student Body President Steven Johnson, junior in agricultural economics, is a sponsor of a proposal that would allow a student body president to be eligible for re-election.

SGA releases official list of candidates

By The Collegian Staff

The Student Governing Association released Wednesday the official list of candidates seeking election to Student Body President, the Board of Student Publications and Student Senate.

Seeking the Student Body President position are: Bill the Cat (Stephen Bell, sophomore in nuclear engineering); Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics; Kent Bradley, junior in nutrition science; and Brett Bromich, senior

We're Fighting For Your Life.

Association

THE ICE CREAM

SOCIAL

American Heart

Four file for student body president

Open 7 days a week

Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8868 or 537-0886

HUNAM EXPRESS

537-0886

Board of Student Publications candidates are: Wes Alexander, junior radio-television; Allerheiligen, junior in journalism and mass communications; Jim Dietz, junior in journalism and mass communications; Laura Johnson, freshman in math education; Mike Riley, senior in political science; and Judi Walter, junior in journalism and mass communications.

Eleven students in the College of Agriculture filed for five seats.

Three students in the College of Architecture and Design filed for three

The College of Arts and Sciences has 12 seats, and 29 students filed for those positions.

In the College of Business Administration, 19 students filed for

Restaurant

304 Westloop 539-8888

Five students in the College of Education filed for three seats.

The College of Engineering has eight seats, and 18 students will run for those positions.

Two students filed for six seats in the Graduate School.

The College of Human Ecology has six students filing for three seats. One student in the College of Veterinary Medicine filed for one

Student elections are Feb. 10 and

CHILDREN: THE MOST IMPORTANT ASSET YOU'LL EVER HAVE

· We are licensed by the state of Kansas

 All our teachers have degrees in ECE and/or Elementary Education

Convenient Location

NOW ENROLLING FOR SPRING SEMESTER AND SUMMER CARE

LEARNING AND Large Fenced Playground CHILD CARE CENTER 1811 BROWNING 776-4444

MANY LEARNING PROGRAMS AVAILABLE

 Pre-school-3-year-old classes and 4-year-old

Full-and half-day care

Drop-in care

Before and after school care (we bus to Amanda Arnold and Marlatt)

Hot Lunches and Snacks LOW FEES— PROFESSIONAL CARE FULL DAY CARE $7.95 PER DAY

Catch

COMMUNITY HEALTH CARE

Think of

Out-patient services

Surgery

 DayStay Surgery · Laser Surgery

•Intersive Care Obstetrics

Level II Intensive Care nursery Birthing room, Birthing chair, Rooming-in Pediatrics

 X-ray services Mammography Nuclear medicine

·Respiratory Therapy Physical Therapy Durable Medical Equipment Center

C.T. scanning

MEMORIAL

EMERGENCY CARE CENTER 913-776-3300

Full Physician Coverage Weekends and Holidays

Working Together for a Healthier You

SUNSET AVE. AT CLAFLIN RD., MANHATTAN, KS

2 Chili ELEVEN Cheese Dogs and a Super Big Gulp only 99¢

One Frito Pie (Fritos covered with chili, cheese, onions and sour cream) and one Large

only 99¢

Offer good at Manhattan, KS store through 2-3-87 | Offer good at Manhattan, KS store through 2-3-87

'Dear teacher': Excuses run gamut

"Some of them were obviously made up by students," said Richard

Carter, assistant principal of Leesville High School. But most, he said, were probably legitimate excuses written by parents in the rural

In these samples, names were

One parent appeared to have taken replaced with either Fred or Mary to protect innocent and guilty alike.

northwest Louisiana parish.

Jan Massad, teacher's aide at Emporia State University, will have her works displayed at the Ambry Art Gallery in West Stadium through Feb. 12.

By The Associated Press

under the doctor's care and should not take P.E. today," one parent

That death sentence was inadvertently recommended in a note which a parent who was in a hurry or possessed of an uncertain vocabulary wrote to excuse a child's wrote. "Please execute him."

LEESVILLE, La. - "My son is 'Different' art vessels on display

By The Collegian Staff

Round, rust-colored clay vessels with sprinkles and coils of various earth tones sit on display platforms throughout the tiny Ambry art gallery at the north end of West Stadium.

Ceramic artist Jan Massad, graduate student in art at Emporia State University and creator of the vessels, set up her display Tuesday afternoon. She said her ceramics are done "pretty much with the investigation of the inner and outer relationship of vessels with space." Inspiration comes through "strong introspection of we ourselves and our relationship to the space around us," Massad said.

The pieces were completed last fall and don't follow a distinct pattern but come from four, five or six different directions, the artist said.

"This exhibit is something different from what I've done in the past, this doesn't even look like what I was doing a year ago," Massad said. "I've enjoyed having the chance to put it up at K-State.'

Massad presented a talk to art students at the opening of her display. Much of the inspiration for her ceramic pieces, she said, has come from working with Angelo Garzio, K-State professor of art.

The vessel display, sponsored by the Department of Art, will be on display through Feb. 12.

Nicaraguans release accused spy

By The Associated Press

MIAMI - Sam Nesley Hall, a self-styled soldier of fortune accused of spying in Nicaragua, flew home to the United States today after telling the Nicaraguan people he was sorry he "tried to ambush them.'

He left Nicaragua this morning and stopped in San Jose, Costa Rica, before arriving in Miami about 12:25 p.m.

Hall departed the plane with several men and was led quickly to a waiting van, which then drove away. Hall did not acknowledge shouts from numerous reporters crowded behind a fence near the

Rep. Tony Hall, D-Ohio was in Miami today to greet his brother, said Michael Gessel, a spokesman in the Ohio congressman's office. Gessel said he did not know the brothers' plans afterward.

Airport spokeswoman Joanne Fabatino said she understood

Hall's brother was waiting for him in the van.

Earlier, Hall had delivered a parting message to Nicaragua. 'I just have one thing to say to the Nicaraguan people," the 49-year-old Hall told reporters before boarding a flight to Costa Rica this morning after being released from custody. "I'm sorry I tried to ambush them.

Hall, who has been held since his arrest Dec. 12, said he was not mistreated during his detention, adding, "Prison authorities were terrific. They treated me like a human being. Asked how he felt about going home, he said, "Terrific."

The Sandinistas say Hall was released because he is mentally unstable. He was brought to Sandino International Airport this morning and put aboard a flight for Costa Rica on the Nicaraguan national airline, accompanied by family lawyer Gary Froelich of Dayton, Ohio, who arrived in Managua on Monday night.

Froelich said Hall's family was trying to arrange for him to receive a complete medical examination in Miami before going on to Dayton.

Hall was arrested in a restricted area of the Punta Huete air base, 13 miles northeast of Managua. Authorities said they found maps and sketches of military targets, crudely drawn on hotel stationery, stuffed in his socks, and threatened to try him for espionage.

But Javier Chamorro Mora, deputy foreign minister, told a news conference Tuesday night that Hall was being released "so he may be taken to the United States and receive adequate treatment at a specialized institution.'

He said a psychiatrist and a clinical psychologist had found Hall to be "a very unstable personality...inclined to carry out acts that could end his own life."

As a result, he said, Hall had been "declared exempt from responsibility.

Senator wants investigation of low-level waste agreement

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Sen. Paul Feleciano, D-Wichita, Wednesday asked Attorney General Robert T. Stephan to study the Central Interstate Low-Level Radioactive Compact and see what it would take for Kansas to drop out of the five-state agreement.

In a letter to the attorney general, Feleciano said he was concerned Kansas would be picked to host a low-level radioactive waste dump for the five states which are members of the compact - Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

"First, I request that you determine whether low-level radioactive wastes are considered hazardous wastes under Kansas law and, if so, whether the ban on the below-ground disposal of hazardous wastes precludes the below-ground disposal of low-level radioactive wastes in Kansas," Feleciano told Stephan in the letter.

"Second, I would like to know if it is possible for Kansas to prohibit the 'disposal' of low-level radioactive waste in the state, but allow for the 'storage' of such wastes without coming into conflict with the com-

"Finally, I would like to know the fiscal impact, both short-term and long-term, of Kansas withdrawing from the compact."

Feleciano's action follows by one day the introduction of a bill in the House which would ban the burial of radioactive waste anywhere in the

Rep. Keith Roe, R-Mankato, sponsored the bill, which is similar to a bill already before the Legislature that would prohibit storage of radioactive wastes in the salt mines near Lyons.

The bills and letter, reactions to a recent disclosure of studies being conducted for the compact, have made it clear north-central Kansas is the most likely location for a regional radioactive waste dump.

Feleciano is particularly upset that the compact will not make the final decision over which state will host a low-level radioactive waste dump. The final decision will be left to private developers who will contract with the commission to run the

"To allow the developer to select the site, independent of the political process, is to nullify the fundamental processes for decision-making in a Democratic society," Feleciano said. "I am also concerned about the technology to be used to 'dispose' of low-level radioactive wastes. Since there are no proven methods for the disposal of such wastes without environmental damage, we must be very cautious about the technology we accept for management of lowlevel wastes.

Feleciano asked Stephan to assign the investigation "top priority" because of the pending decision on a host state for the dump and the possible need to enact legislation prior to the end of the 90-day legislative ses-drastic action: "Please excuse Mary absence from school in Vernon for being absent. She was sick and I Duplicated copies of some of the had her shot." Another had a more comprehenparish's more astonishing excuse sive request: "Please excuse Fred notes were given out at a School for being. It was his father's fault." Board meeting this month.

The five states signed the compact agreement in 1982.

•13 Varieties of Submarine Sandwiches

 Grilled Philadelphia Steak Sandwiches 12th & Moro . Aggieville DINE-IN . CARRYOUT wrote a parent who lives by an unusual calendar. "Mary was absent from school yesterday as she was having a on Jan. 28, 29, 30, 31, 32 and 33,"

"Please ackuse Fred being absent gangover," wrote one who apparently expected the school to be tolerant of social follies. In a confusion of office work and medical terms, one parent wrote: "Please excuse Mary from Jim vesterday. She is administrating." And several had a racier tone:

"Please excuse Fred for being absent. He had a cold and could not breed well.'

ENJOY YOUR LEISURE TIME! Discover LAUNDRY LAND

Drop off your laundry . . . we'll do it for you 7 days a week!

Bring us all your washables for same day wash-dry-fold laundry service. Dry cleaning and self service also available.

2048 N. Tuttle Creek Blvd. 776-1939

Try our quick professional service, you'll be glad you did!

Thursday, January 29, 1987 For information on any UPC event, call 532-6571

All they wanted was their chance to be men... and he gave it to them.

JOHN WAYNE & (THE) COWBOYS

A John Wayne Classic! In this movie, Will Anderson (John Wayne) Hires local boys to drive cattle to the market. On the harrowing drive, the boys are transformed into men.

Saturday, January 31st, 2 p.m., and Sunday, February 1st, 2 & 7 p.m. All shows in Forum Hall $1.50; KSU ID Required; Unrated Ferris Bueller is no ordinary student, and the day that Ferris takes off is no ordinary day! Stars Matthew Broderick.

Tomorrow and Saturday, 7 & 9:30 p.m., Forum Hall $1.75; KSU ID Required; Rated

One man's struggle to take it easy.

PG-13 - A PARAMOUNT PICTURE k-state union upc feature films

GET INVOLVED ON CAMPUS WITH THE UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

Volunteers Wanted: Individuals interested in serving for the '87-'88 year as committee chairs to coordinate social, recreational, educational and cultural programs for the benefit of the KSU

Union Program Council is a student volunteer organization consisting of approximately 100 students who select, plan and promote 500 programs (films, trips, entertainers and more) each academic year. UPC is broken up into nine committees: Promotions, Travel, Special Events, Outdoor Recreation, Kaleidoscope Films, Issues and Ideas, Feature Films, Eclectic Entertainment, Arts.

President-Presides over the UPC Executive Council, sits on the Union Governing Board, coordinates events and activities that involve the total UPC membership. Our highest leadership position

Arts-Coordinates Union Art Gallery exhibitors, print sales, art rentals, the Arts and Crafts Sale, the Photo Contest and

Eclectic Entertainment-Provides the best in live entertainment, professional comedians, singers and student entertain-

BETH

Shakespeare Festival This is director Roman Polanski's adaptation of the great Shakespearean tragedy. It contains all the classic tragic elements of murder, guilt, and

Today, 3:30 p.m. in Little Theatre, and tonight, 7:30 p.m. in Forum Hall, $1.75, KSU ID required, unrated

k-state union upc kaleidoscope

Issues and Ideas-Selects, organizes and publicizes lectures highlighting current events or popular topics of interest. Organizes the "Let's Talk About It" series.

Kaleidoscope Films-Selects and publicizes innovative, artistic and international films on Wednesdays and Thursdays in the Union. They also show weekend matinees and midnight

Travel-Coordinates and publicizes winter and spring break trips for the K-State community. Sells an International Student I.D. card and maintains a Travel Resource Center.

Feature Films-Selects and publicizes popular films every Friday and Saturday night in the Union. They also show weekend matinees and midnight films.

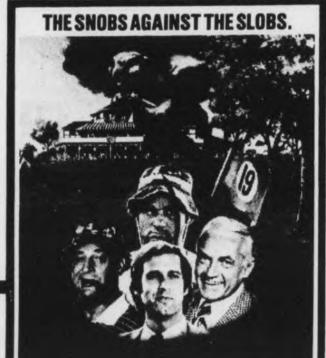

Special Events-Selects coordinates and publicizes desired events or activities that do not fall under another committee area, including dances, the Activities Carnival, "Late Night at the K-State Union" and some types of live entertainment.

Promotions-Deals with the visual image of the entire council. Pastes up Collegian ads. Publishes the "Programmer" calendar and other publications to promote UPC.

Outdoor Recreation-Offers a wide variety of outdoor-related trips and programs based on a "cooperative wilderness adventure "structure.

Applications for Leadership (Committee Chairs) are available now. Deadline: 4 p.m. Friday, February 6th.

Applications may be picked up and submitted in the Activities Center, 3rd floor of the K-State Union. For more information,

Caddyshack

"CADDYSHACK"

CHEVY CHASE-RODNEY DANGERFIELD TED KNIGHT · MICHAEL O'KEEFE M BILL MURRAY "Carl

Original Songs by KENNY LOGGINS - Music Composed by JOHNNY MANDEL Written by BRIAN DOYLE-MURRAY & HAROLD RAMIS & DOUGLAS KENNEY Executive Producer JON PETERS - Produced by DOUGLAS KENNEY Directed by HAROLD RAMIS TENERGOM

SOUNDTRACE AMALABLE ON COLUMBIA RECORDS & TAPES

k-state union upc feature films

Bushwood Country Club, bastion of the well-to-do, regularly hosts a hilarious array of eccentric members and zany employees. It really becomes a free-for-all when Rodney Dangerfield arrives!

Tomorrow and Saturday, Midnight, Forum Hall $1.75; KSU ID Required; Rated R

By The Collegian Staff

Back from a visit to Central America, Manhattan residents spoke Wednesday at a rice and beans dinner sponsored by the Manhattan Alliance On Central America.

As a result of the trip, MACA began a sister city relationship with Nindiri. Nicaragua, through the Friendship Cities program.

"Nindiri is unofficially our sister city," said Cia Verschelden, a delegate from the Friendship Cities project. "It is a totally non-political, non-partisan arrangement, and has no administrative affiliation.

"This is important because people really want to get involved, but shy away from getting into the political aspect of all of this.

"We try very hard to provide cultural exchanges with the people, not the government," Verschelden

Verschelden said MACA's monthly meetings were important because the forum helps bring people with mutual interests together.

"Our goals are to raise people's awareness of the Central American issue," she said. "We also provide the means for people to react, to take part in political lobbying, and to actually do something about the situa-

Denise Grimm, senior in economics and the only K-State student who went on the Nicaraguan trip, attended the dinner.

Grimm, a member of Students in Solidarity with Central America, said she and other members of the group will be speaking at various living groups in the next few weeks.

"We will be taking our slides we took while in Nicaragua," Grimm said, "and we'll try to educate the student body on exactly what is happening."

The dinner at St. Isidore's Catholic Church had its biggest turnout since MACA's organization two years ago.

"There is no doubt that the recent trip and the slide presentation are of interest to the people," said Margaret Conrow, treasurer of

Communists expel top-ranked leaders

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW - The Communist Party expelled two old guard stalwarts from its highest ranks Wednesday and gave Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev greater control of the powerful secretariat, but it did not make some reforms he proposed.

The two-day general assembly of more than 300 Central Committee members did not fulfill the rumors of dramatic leadership changes, and its results suggested disagreement over some programs Gorbachev included in his lengthy speech Tuesday.

It endorsed Gorbachev's insistence on accelerated economic change and more openness in Soviet society, however. A final resolution said, "there is nowhere we can retreat."

No mention was made in the resolution of the 55-year-old leader's call for more than one candidate and secret ballots in elections for the regional party committee, which indicated lack of unanimity on such a significant change in party practice.

Removal of the former Kazakhstan party leader, 74-year-old Dinmukhamed A. Kunaev, from the ruling Politburo eliminated one of the last Brezhnev-era leaders from the national leadership.

The Central Committee, which groups the top party members from Moscow and the 15 Soviet republics, also retired 72-year-old Mikhail S. Zimyanin from the party secretariat

"for health reasons."

Kunaev's ouster was considered a foregone conclusion after his dismissal Dec. 16 as party chief of Kazakhstan, a Central Asian republic the state-run press had called a hotbed of corruption and mismanagment.

Replacement of Kunaev, a Kazakh, with Gennady Kolbin, an ethnic Russian, prompted student riots in Alma Ata, the Kazakhstan capital.

Alexander N. Yakovlev, propaganda chief of the Kremlin, was elevated to candidate membership of the Politburo.

No successor to Kunaev's full membership was named and the Politburo now has 11 full, voting members. Kunaev joined the Politburo in 1972 during the regime of Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Vladimir V. Shcherbitsky, party boss of the Ukrainian, is the leading representative of the old guard still on the Politburo. Although his removal has been rumored for some time, he not only survived the general assembly but delivered a speech Tuesday. The official news agency Tass said the Central Committee chose two new party secretaries, alternate Politburo member Nikolai N.

Slyunkov and Anatoly I. Lukyanov. Those appointments, along with Zimyanin's removal, mean all party secretary posts now are held by Gorbachev appointees.

STUDENT BODY

PRESIDENTIAL

DEBATE

Come hear the presidential candidates discuss the current campaign issues!

Sunday, Feb. 1st

8 p.m.

Putnam Hall Living Room

Co-sponsored by KSUARH and Putnam Hall

Saturday, Jan. 31st is the day for . .

Leadership: Accept the Challenge

K-State Union Little Theatre

8:30-11:55 a.m.

The All-Campus

Leadership

Workshop

is coming

Programs Include:

Rolling Thunder's Biggest Ever

Announcing Rolling Thunder's biggest 30-Hour Sale beginning at 9 a.m. tomorrow morning. 30-hours of bargain prices on home hifi components by Luxman, JVC, Mission, Sony, American Acoustics, Onkyo and more. 30 hours of really small prices on Alpine, Sony & Coustic car stereo components and Alpine car burglar alarms plus special deals each hour for 30 hours. Pick your own payment plan: MasterCard, Visa, American Express. Lay-away and financing to qualified buyers. $20 holds any item.

Only at Rolling Thunder of Manhattan, 1126 Moro in Aggieville.

9-10 a.m. Fri., Jan. 30

/LPINE Car Equalizer

Reg. $130 All 29 Hours $119.95 1 HOUR ONLY $99.95 1-2 p.m. Fri., Jan. 30

Digitrac 280E

Replace Your Old Needle Now with a New Diamond Tip Reg. Price $69.00 All 29 Hours $45.00 1 HOUR ONLY $29.95

5-6 p.m. Fri., Jan. 30 American Acoustics Digital Loudspeakers

1 HOUR ONLY $125 ea.

9-10 a.m. Sat., Jan. 31

12 in. Woofer Pump Inside this 3-way Speaker Reg. Price $135.00 each All 29 Hours $122.50 each

1 HOUR ONLY $99.00 each 1-2 p.m. Sat., Jan. 31

American Acoustic D-2500 American

Acoustics

Digital Ready 2-way Loudspeaker Reg. Price $190.00 each All 29 Hours $150.00 each

1 HOUR ONLY $88.00 each

5-6 p.m. Sat., Jan. 31

6x9 2-way Car Speakers Reg. Price $80.00 All 29 Hours $69.95 1 HOUR ONLY $59.95

11-12 a.m. Sun., Feb. 1

Full Front Din Digital-Auto Eject-Auto Reverse

Reg. Price $370 All 29 Hours $359

1 HOUR ONLY $297

Argonaut

ILPINE, 7172

10-11 a.m. Fri., Jan. 30

Chrome Bias 90 min. tape Reg. Price $3.00 All 29 Hours $2.39

1 HOUR ONLY $1.88 ea. 2-3 p.m. Fri., Jan. 30

/LPINE

Model 8007 Head Unit Alarm Interface Burglar Alarm Systems for your car Reg. Price $250 All 29 Hours $219 1 HOUR ONLY $149

> 6-7 p.m. Fri., Jan. 30 SONY SRF-202

Credit Card Size FM stereo radio Reg. Price $80 All 29 Hours $74.95 1 HOUR ONLY $49.88

10-11 a.m. Sat., Jan. 31 ILPINE 3510

Car Steren Power Amp 4x18=72 Watts Power Reg Price $130.00 All 29 Hours $120 00

1 HOUR ONLY $105.00

2-3 p.m. Sat., Jan. 31

ONKYO DX120

All 29 Hours $269

1 HOUR ONLY $219.95

6-7 p.m. Sat., Jan. 31

Reg. Price $229.95 All 29 Hours $209.95 1 HOUR ONLY $189.95 11-12 a.m. Fri., Jan. 30

Semi Automatic Compone Reg. Price $100.00 All 29 Hours $89.95

3-4 p.m. Fri., Jan. 30 SHERWOOD EQA280

1 HOUR ONLY $68.88

मंगवंबमांच

Car Stereo Graphic 7 Band Equalizer with Hi Reg. Price $100.00 All 29 Hours $90.00

1 HOUR ONLY $74.44 7-8 p.m. Fri., Jan. 30

AM-FM Cassette In-dash Auto Reverse Reg. Price $130 All 29 Hours $109 1 HOUR ONLY $89.88

11-12 a.m. Sat., Jan. 31 COBRA 3100

Radar Detector Super Hot Design Reg. Price $170.00 All 29 Hours $150.00 1 HOUR ONLY $127.77

3-4 p.m. Sat., Jan. 31

SONY XR27 Automotive Entertainment System

Digital-Auto Reverse-AM/FM Car Cassette Deck Reg. Price $229.95 All 29 Hours $209.95

1 HOUR ONLY $179.95 7-8 p.m. Sat., Jan. 31

WILD CARD HOUR

ANY PREVIOUS HOURLY SPECIAL PROVIDED WE HAVE IT IN "STOCK"

Noon-1 p.m. Fri., Jan. 30

Hi Power-Auto Reverse, Fits any car-AM/FM Cassette Deck

Reg. Price $159.95 All 29 Hours $145.00

1 HOUR ONLY $129.95 4-5 p.m. Fri., Jan. 30 SONY WM-F75

Reg. Price $169.95 All 29 Hours $159.95 1 HOUR ONLY $139.88

8-9 p.m. Fri., Jan. 30

ONKYO TA2017B

Home Cassette Deck with Dolby B/C Reg. Price $160 All 29 Hours $152 1 HOUR ONLY $129.95

Noon-1 p.m. Sat., Jan. 31

Car Stereo Booster/Amp 50 Watt Total Power Reg. Price $75 All 29 Hours $63

1 HOUR ONLY $48.88 4-5 p.m. Sat., Jan. 31 Luxman P-406

Save 1/2 on this Tracking Turntable Reg. Price $270.00 All 29 Hours $230.00 1 HOUR ONLY $135.00

8-9 p.m. Sat., Jan. 31 ILPINE 6393

Car Audio System Alpine Best 6x9 100 watt Reg. Price $220 pr. All 29 Hours $180 pr. 1 HOUR ONLY $139 pr.

1-2 p.m. Sun., Feb. 1

Mission s Magnificent 70 Compact Loudspeaker

Reg. Price $125 ea. All 29 Hours 7$109 ea. 1 HOUR ONLY $99.95 ea.

4-5 p.m. Sun., Feb. 1 CHITACHI TRK76204

Portable Boom Box with woofers Reg. Price $199.95 All 29 Hours $169.95 1 HOUR ONLY $139.95

HOLDS ANY ITEM ON SALE 1126 Moro, Aggieville

776-5507 All items may not be exactly as pictured. All on a first-come, first-serve basis and limited to store stock.

Delegation Goal Setting Leadership Styles Motivation SGA Funding Attitudes Campus Issues Burnout Everyone Welcome

Sponsored by

Student Governing Association, University Activities Board, Mortar Board

by MISSION OUR BEST Reg. Price $1500 pr All 29 Hours $1389.00 1 HOUR ONLY $995.00

2-3 p.m. Sun., Feb. 1

Reg Price $130 00 pr All 29 Hours $119.95 pt 1 HOUR ONLY $89.95 pr 3-4 p.m. Sun., Feb. 1

3 way 6x9 Hi power Car Speaker

Noon-1 p.m. Sun., Feb. 1

SONY XS-697

Compact Disc Player 3 Beam System

Reg Price $330 00 All 29 Hours $299 95 1 HOUR ONLY $249.95

By ERIN MULCAHY Collegian Reporter

Lee Shih Wu moved in silent rhythm and meditation Wednesday in the Union Courtyard during her tai chi demonstration, the first in a series of Union Program Council Midday Arts presentations.

Wu has been demonstrating the Chinese martial art, tai chi (pronounced tie jee), for six years. A native of Taiwan, Wu has been a resident of Manhattan for four years.

"One thousand years ago the exercise (tai chi) began for a healthy concern," Wu said. "It brings back nature."

The leaders of the Taoist Movement began practicing tai chi nearly 1,000 years ago to emphasize total physical control of the inner body. Chang San-Feng is the founding father of tai chi, Wu said.

The words tai chi refer to the Chinese symbol yin yang, she said. The yin yang is a circle parted in the middle with a serpentine line. One half of the circle is dark and represents femininity, a negative connotation. The other half is white and represents masculinity, a positive connotation. The two necessary and complementary parts of the symbol help bring one back to nature, Wu said.

Tai Chi requires no music or words. It is neither a dance nor a performing art. Tai chi is a total body exercise combined with self-defense, she said.

"You have no weapons for defense," Wu said. "Your collective inner energy makes a more powerful defense because you're in tune with your body.'

Unlike most jazzercise and aerobic workouts, tai chi requires no strenuous calisthenics. The exercise stresses extreme slowness, silence and one continual movement from beginning to end without breaks or pauses, she said. Wu compared the entire movement to an ocean tide.

'Whatever benefits you want out of tai chi you can get," Wu said. "It (tai chi) develops humans' inner soul to live a more rigorous and healthy life.'

Lee Shih Wu demonstrates tai chi, a Chinese martial art, in the Union Courtyard Wednesday at the Union Program Council Midday Arts program.

Chinese practice tai chi in parks, homes and large outdoor squares at least twice a day. Wu exercises mornings and nights for 30-40 minutes.

"The more slow, the more (your body) benefits," she said. Tai chi benefits both the young and "It is very good for the elderly because it is soft," Wu said. "It is very good for the young because it establishes balance. Balance helps In Wu's native country, the younger (children) gain power."

There are 108 forms in tai chi, she said. The forms are repetitions or variations of 37 basic movements. The forms have names such as "stork spreads wings," and "hit tiger at right" to describe movements.

Wu taught a tai chi course through University For Man last semester. She didn't offer the course this semester, but continues to meet for recreation with other tai chi enthusiasts every Tuesday night in

Chamber modifies its stance on possible uses for windfall

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - The Kansas Chamber of Commerce and Industry has modified its stand on whether state government should return to taxpayers all of the revenue windfall the state stands to gain as a result of federal income tax reform.

KCCI's board of directors previously advocated returning all of the windfall - estimated at between $100 million and $150 million - to taxpayers.

However, the board recently adopted a resolution which advocates adjusting both individual income tax rates and corporation income tax rates "to remain competitive with surrounding states."

Bud Grant, vice president of KCCI. said today that means the state chamber believes the state can keep some of the windfall, but should give some of it back to the taxpayers who pay it in order to make Kansas' tax structure more competitive with those of Missouri, Oklahoma, Colorado and Nebraska.

Kansas will see its income tax revenues increase if it doesn't adjust its tax rates or amend its exemptions and deductions to match the new federal tax code. Without the adjustments, Kansas taxpayers will pay less in federal taxes, meaning they will have less of a deduction on their state tax returns and thus will have a higher state tax liability.

Gov. Mike Hayden, in his proposed Fiscal Year 1988 budget delivered to the Legislature last Friday, built a $129 million general fund balance by retaining all of the federal tax windfall in the state treasury. He estimated the windfall at $143 million, meaning if all the windfall were returned to taxpayers, his budget would have a $14 million deficit.

Hayden said during his successful campaign for governor last year that he advocated giving back all of the windfall except for modest amounts needed to exempt Social Security income from state taxation and to expand the mineral severance tax exemption to cover more stripper oil

"Kansas, in most respects, is a high-tax state in the region, especially in competition with Missouri, so economic development considerations suggest taking a serious look at lowering effective tax rates," KCCI said in its "Tax Letter" mailed to members this month.

Grant said Kansas' corporate tax rate of 6.75 percent is "significantly higher" than the average 5 percent rates of surrounding states, and that Kansas' top individual income tax rate of 9 percent is "somewhat higher" than those of neighboring states.

"We're not necessarily saying the money that comes to the state as a result of the windfall should be returned dollar-for-dollar to the people who pay it - mainly those making $50,000 and above," Grant said.

"What we're saying is they should use this windfall prudently to enhance the business climate of Kansas, both from a personal and corporate income tax position.

"We were violently opposed, and still are, to the 'booster tax.' If you spend this windfall, you're simply imposing another booster tax on

Kansas taxpayers. "We've simply got to address these economic development issues, and our board feels we've got to do something positive with this money and not simply have it disappear into the state general fund."

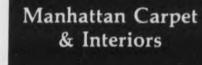

The booster tax was the name applied to a tax change the Legislature put into effect for tax years 1984 and 1985. It generated about $45 million a year additional income tax revenue by limiting the amount of federal income taxes which Kansas taxpayers could claim as deductions on their state returns.

 4¢ self-service copies •Full service copy center

 Resume service OPEN DAILY Sun. 12-9 Sat. 9-5 Denison & Claffin 776-3771

This area's largest and most complete floor covering center CARPET

REMNANTS

ALL SIZES

Hours: 8:30-5:30 weekdays 8:30-4:00 Saturday

2613 Anderson 539-5941

200 ROLLS CARPET IN STOCK

WHY"HELGA" PIS

'Cats outgun OSU Cowboys, 88-77

By JENNY CHAULK Sports Writer

Confidence and composure down the stretch helped K-State's men's basketball team garner its second Big Eight Conference victory on the road by defeating Oklahoma State, 88-77, Wednesday in Stillwater.

Free throw shooting was the vital factor in the Wildcats' win. The 'Cats were 34 for 40 from the charity stripe, while Oklahoma State was 8 for 16 from the line. K-State's 85 percent shooting from the line overshadowed a career-high 23-point performance from OSU's Jay Davis and the Cowboys' 60.8 percent shooting from the field.

K-State guard Will Scott continued his record-setting pace, going five for five from the line. He has made 27 straight free shots and has not missed a free throw attempt since the Wichita State game Dec. 13.

stretch," said Assistant Coach Dana Altman. "If you're going to shoot free throws well, it makes it awful tough on teams.'

The Cowboys, however, were tough on the 'Cats for a short while in the second half. They battled back from a 15-point deficit in the first half to tie the game at 50-50 with 13:03 left in the game.

It was all K-State, though, for almost the entire first half. Mitch Richmond hit two three-pointers and Scott hit one to propel the 'Cats to an early 9-0 lead.

Hot outside shooting pulled Oklahoma State out of its zone defense and into a manto-man, which hampered the 'Cats. K-State battled the tough Cowboys' defense and took a 36-29 lead into the lockerroom at halftime.

"We've got to learn to respond to physical play a little bit better," Coach Lon Kruger double- and triple-teamed for most of the period and finished the half with just six points. But freshman guard Steve Henson stepped in and scored 11 points to pick up the slack and finished the game with a careerhigh 19 points.

The second half saw the Cowboys slowly nibble at the Wildcats' lead. K-State was outscored, 21-14, in the first seven minutes of the period. Todd Christian, Oklahoma State's leading scorer, came alive and scored 17 second-half points after scoring just two in the first half. So did the "Sarge," who led the 'Cats with 22 points.

"At that point (when Oklahoma State tied the score), everybody was looking around, wanting someone to pick them up," Kruger said. "Norris really did an excellent job of stepping forward and getting a couple of

K-State pulled ahead for good, 55-54, on a three-point shot by Will Scott. After a technical foul was called on the Oklahoma State coach Leonard Hamilton, the Cowboys scored seven unanswered points to pull within two, 64-62. Eighteen straight free throws by the 'Cats ensured the 11-point vic-

"Any time you go on the road and get ahead, it's likely it'll be close at some point," Kruger said. "I'm really pleased with the way we pulled away when we had to."

With the win, K-State improved its record to 14-4 overall and 4-1 in conference play. Oklahoma State dropped to 5-13 overall and 1-4 in the Big Eight.

K-State's Ron Meyer did not suit up for the game. He has a bruised thigh and Kruger said his status for Sunday's game with Missouri is questionable.

RICHMOND BLEDSOE SCOTT HENSON Nelson Simmons Totals 25-54 25-54 4-9 34-40

MIN FG FG-3 FT
24 2-4 0-0 0-1
15 1-3 0-0 0-0
4 0-2 0-0 0-0
28 8-13 3-4 0-0
33 8-9 4-5 3-6
14 2-6 0-1 0-0
9 1-2 0-0 0-0
21 4-5 0-0 3-6
32 4-5 0-0 3-6
32 4-5 0-0 2-3
18 1-2 0-0 0-0
2 0-0 0-0 0-0
31-51 7-10 8-16 O-STATE ALFORD KINCHEON DAVIS Patton Manuel Gaffney

Halftime score: K-State 36, O-State 29 Turnovers: K-State 16, O-State 19 Field goal percentage: K-State 46.3, O-State 60.8 Attendance: 6,750

Dallas star hits 10,000 in 5th year

By The Associated Press

DALLAS - Mark Aguirre's 10,000th NBA point came on a hustling play which the temperamental forward might not have made in the Washington's Charles Jones stuffed a shot back in the Dallas Mavericks' face in the first quarter of Tuesday night's 118-113 victory for the Bullets.

Aguirre fought for the ball again then put it in the basket over the bewildered Jones.

In just five short years, Aguirre, a former All-American at DePaul, had become the first player on the expansion Mavericks to reach the 10,000 point plateau.

Referee Earl Strom stopped the game as the 17,007 fans in Reunion Arena applauded Aguirre and gave the ball to Dallas Coach Dick Motta for safekeeping.

The loss took out most of the joy for Aguirre, who was named this week to the Western Conference NBA All-

Star team for the second time. Aguirre said "getting 10,000 points doesn't mean an awful lot at the moment. I wish we'd gotten all that garbage — the 10,000 points and All-Star team - over sooner. To me, it's a distraction and I'm glad it's over with.' Aguirre has taken on a business-like demeanor this season. His celebrated feuds with Dallas Coach Dick Motta have been put on the back burner.

As a result, the Mavericks are leading the Midwest Division and were 11 games over .500 at midseason.

"I'm very relaxed and dedicating myself to concetrating on my main goal - winning games and getting into the NBA championship series,"

Aguirre said. Aguirre averaged 24.4 points per game over 406 games to reach the 10,000 point goal.

He has been Dallas' scoring machine since his rookie year when he averaged 18.7 points per game as he broke into Motta's system, which keys around scoring by the small forward.

There was talk Aguirre might be traded in the offseason but owner Don Carter interceded and has proven to be a settling influence.

Injury won't slow sprinter Reynolds

By JEFF RAPP Sports Writer

Jeff Reynolds, one of the bright spots in K-State's men's track squad during its first indoor meet this season, is down but not out.

Reynolds, a transfer sprinter from Butler County Community College in El Dorado, won the 500-meter dash Jan. 17 at the Nebraska Invitational in Lincoln.

For Reynolds, originally from Akron, Ohio, it was quite a debut as a Wildcat because he defeated a defending Big Eight Conference champion in that race.

Reynolds, however, sustained a groin injury in practice that will keep him out of action for at least 10 days. The determined Reynolds said the injury, although very painful, will inspire him to train even harder for the remainder of the

"I want to be world class. I want to work hard to eventually be one of the top 10 in the world," Reynolds said. "Being injured is not helping me achieve that goal at all."

Assistant coach Darryl Anderson said Reynolds has the right kind of personality to achieve such lofty

"He's a real determined and hard-working kind of guy, and he does just about everything you tell him to do. He's one of the most dependable guys on the team," Anderson said.

It's not difficult to believe what Reynold's said about being worldclass. After all, his brother Harry "Butch" Reynolds - a sprinter at Ohio State University - recently set a world record in the 600-meter

Reynolds said his brother's achievement is a great inspiration.

"That's very exciting. That gives me the momentum, the drive, the enthusiasm to work that much harder. Because if he can do it, I know I can, too," Reynolds said.

Anderson agreed, but also gave Reynolds credit for his own

"One of the things that's affected his personality is striving to be as good as his brother and the other thing is his own strong desire to be successful," Anderson said.

Anderson tried to convince both brothers to be Wildcat sprinters, but Harry opted to attend Ohio State. That left Jeff to make the transition from Butler County, (where both of them were tracksters), to K-State. "What made me come to Kansas State is Coach Anderson and Coach (John) Capriotti. You see, at the time K-State didn't have a head track coach. But once they hired head coach Capriotti, he started talking to me and that just boosted me even more to come here," Reynolds said.

Reynolds' coach at Butler County was John Francis. Before moving to Pratt Community College this year, Francis had guided the Grizzlies to several appearances in the NJCAA indoor and outdoor championships in track. Reynolds said Francis had some input in his decision to become a Wildcat.

'I want to work hard to eventually be one of the top 10 in the world.'

- Jeff Reynolds

"He told me that Kansas State would be a better school, as far as academics and track to succeed, than Ohio State would be,' Reynolds said.

Francis, in agreement with Anderson, said Reynolds was a joy to work with.

"He's probably one of the best kids that I've coached talent-wise," Francis said.

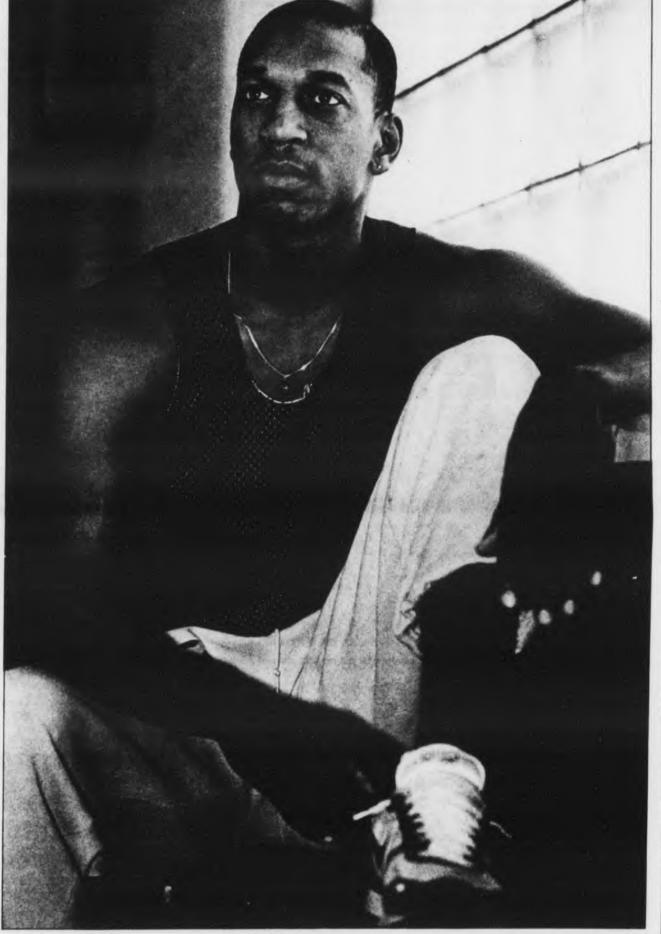

"He was a good person that worked hard and he was always one of the first guys to arrive at practice and one of the last guys to leave."

Reynolds said he is glad he made the decision to stay in Kansas to further his education as well as his athletic career. "I like the campus, I like the classes and I like the atmosphere here. It's not all that noisy here and sort of laid back. That helps me get my books in order," he said.

Reynolds said the typical 'dangers' of college are still present in Manhattan, though.

"You can slip and go down to Aggieville and party and drink. But I'm not going to slip.'

Staff/Jim Dietz

Despite a recent injury, Jeff Reynolds, a sprinter on the K-State track team, has been training with determination in an effort to reach his goal of being among the top 10 sprinters in the world.

QB reflects on feeling that goes with losing

By The Associated Press

HONOLULU - John Elway has had a chance to reflect on that empty feeling that goes with being a Super Bowl loser. "It's like we were never even there," the Denver Broncos quarterback said.

And "It's like the Giants are the only football team there is. Still, Elway also learned that even after the 39-20 loss to New York in Pasadena,

Calif., last Sunday, the world went on spinning. "I was happy to see that the sun still came up Monday morning," Elway said with a smile. "I rehashed the game afterward, thought of the things I could've done differently, but you do that with every game.

"It was such a buildup for a game," said Elway, one of five Denver players in Hawaii for Sunday's Pro Bowl.

'We would like to have won, of course, but you never know what to expect. "It was disappointing for us and for our fans back in Denver, but we still had a great season, and we'll have the chance to

"If we improve in some areas, we can play with anybody," he said. Elway, blossoming in his fourth pro make it back to the Super Bowl again."

season, actually played very well in the Super Bowl.

He wound up with 22 completions in 37 attempts for 304 yards, with one interception. He threw for one touchdown and ran for another.

But although he passed the Broncos down the field on four of their first five possessions, they came away with just 10

In the second quarter, the Giant defense held Denver three times after the Broncos had first-and-goal at the New York 1, then Rich Karlis missed a 23-yard field goal.

Later in the period, after Elway had been sacked in the Denver end zone for a safety, he came back to lead the Broncos to the New York 16. But, after the drive stalled, Karlis missed again and Denver led just 10-9 at halftime.

The New York defense then stiffened in the second half, and quarterback Phil Simms, passing almost flawlessly, led the Giants to 17 third-quarter points as they took command.

"It really hurt us when we couldn't get the ball into the end zone when we had it first-and-goal down there," Elway said.

Elway said he'd like to finish the season on a winning note, with an AFC victory over the NFC in Sunday's all-star game.

Tigers halt Huskers, 87-71

By The Associated Press

Derrick Chievous had 26 points as Missouri held off a late Nebraska rally to take an 87-71 win in a Big Eight Conference game Wednesday night. The Tigers led by as many as 10 in the first half, but a Nebraska rally tied the game at 30 points. Missouri took a narrow 37-35 lead into the locker room. With Chievous scoring 10 of Missouri's first 12 points in the second half, the Tigers took a six-point lead just after intermission. Nebraska cut into that lead several times in the second half, closing the margin to four points with just over seven minutes to play. But Missouri went on a 8-0 run in the next two minutes to clinch the win. Poor free-throw shooting hurt Nebraska, as the Huskers hit only three of 17 shots from Chievous was joined in double figures by Lynn Hardy with 21 points and Lee Coward with 14 points.

Nebraska was led by Brian Carr with 16 points. Anthony Bailous and Henry Buchanan each added 14 points.

Missouri is now 14-7 overall and 4-1 in the Big Eight. Nebraska drops to 11-7 and 1-4 in

Florida 90, Alabama 80, OT

Senior forward Joe Lawrence hit two 3-point field goals to open the overtime period and No. 19 Florida pulled away to a 90-80 victory over ninth-ranked Alabama Wednesday night.

Florida grabbed a share of the College Basketball Roundup

Southeastern Conference lead and ended the Crimson Tide's 12-game winning streak

Lawrence's two long jumpers in the first 1:30 of overtime gave the Gators an 80-74 lead. Florida, 16-4 overall and 8-1 in the conference, then made eight of 11 free throws to hold off Alabama, 15-3 and 8-1.

Florida guard Andrew Moten finished with 25 points to lead the Gators. Indiana 69, Illinois 66

Dean Garrett scored the go-ahead basket with 1:35 to play, then had a key blocked shot and made a free throw as No. 4 Indiana edged No. 12 Illinois 69-66 to take over first place in the Big Ten basketball standings Wednesday night.

Garrett, who finished with 20 points, made the first shot of a 1-and-1 situation with 11 seconds left to close the scoring. The Illini then had Doug Altenberger and Ken Norman miss 3-point shots with Norman's desperation jumper bouncing off the rim as time ran

The victory gave Indiana a 16-2 overall record and made it 7-1 in the conference, good for a one-half game lead over Iowa and Purdue. Illinois fell to 14-5 and 5-3.

North Carolina 108, Clemson 99 Kenny Smith scored a career-high 41 points as No. 1 North Carolina rallied from a 12-point halftime deficit to defeat No. 14 Clemson 108-99 in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game Wednesday night.

The Tar Heels outscored Clemson 22-5 over a six-minute span in the second half to erase a 78-73 lead and take a 95-83 lead with 2:49 left. Smith, whose previous high was 23 points, had eight points during the run as the senior guard scored 27 points in the final 20: minutes

The Tar Heels, who improved to 18-1 overall and 7-0 in the ACC, 21/2 games ahead of the Tigers and Duke. North Carolina has now defeated every ACC foe once this year.

Clemson is 18-2 and 4-2. How the top 15 teams in The Associated Press' college basketball poll fared Wednes-

1. North Carolina (18-1) beat No. 14 Clemson 108-99. 2. Iowa (18-1) did not play. 3. Nevada-Las Vegas (19-1) did not play. 4. Indiana (16-2) beat No. 12 Illinois 69-66. (tie)

Purdue (15-2) did not play. 6. Syracuse (17-2) did not play. 7. Temple (19-2) did not play. 8. DePaul (17-1) did not play. 9. Alabama (15-3) lost to No. 19 Florida 90-80, OT. 10. Oklahoma (15-3) did not play.

11. Georgetown (14-3) lost to Providence 82-79. 12. Illinois (14-5) lost to No. 4 Indiana 69-66. 13. Duke (15-3) did not play. 14. Clemson (18-2) lost to No. 1 North Carolina 108-99. 15. St. John's (14-3) did not play.

Students, senators discuss campus issues on SGA hotline

Speedy FREE Delivery

TWO LARGE

TWO TOPPING PIZZAS

GLAMOUR WORLD

BEAUTY SUPPLY

By ERIC BARNHART Collegian Reporter

The number of callers using a hotline established to increase communication between members of Student Senate and their constituents has been less than expected, said Sally Traeger, senior in marketing and Senate chairwoman.

call an hour and around 10-15 calls a political science and hotline worker. "The main issues we have been hearing about are the (Student Senate Representation Enhancement) Referendum and the Athletic Fee Task Force," he said. "I think that once we get some advertising the number of calls will increase." "All that we're getting now is "We have been averaging about a prank calls from friends because the line has not been advertised day," said Ken Paulie, junior in enough," said Sally Routson, coor-out and people know we have this, dinator of student activities. Routson said a request will be made to Senate tonight for hotline advertising money.

Students with concerns or complaints about campus issues can talk to a student senator by calling 532-7777. Senators are also available to take calls from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Students wishing to speak with a senator in person can also visit the Student Government Services Office

NOW FEATURING NOON DELIVERY

Mark Land Mokee

Town East

Center, just

Food 4 Less

on the ground floor of the Union, where a senator will be available from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily.

The program is designed to get more students involved in government and to keep senators in touch with their constituency.

"It's kind of like the U-LearN line - the students can call in and ask questions," said Candy Leonard, junior in home economics and mass communications and Student Senate Communications Committee

"We Pile It On!"

NEW HOURS:

9:30 a.m.-8 p.m.

9 a.m.-5 p.m.

chairperson. "But with this line, they can air their complaints or thoughts, whether they are aimed at student government or not.'

The hotline is funded through the office of the vice president of institutional advancement. The concept of a hotline came to mind last semester through the Communications Committee, but due to a lack of time the hotline did not go into action until this semester. "The idea stemmed from the thought that senators need to keep in touch with the people who elected them to this position," Traeger said. Senators participated in a mini training session provided by the Manhattan Crisis Center. Senators learned how to handle questions and any emergencies that may occur.

A future project SGA has in mind for the hotline is having the student body president candidates answer phones during their campaigns to take questions from callers.

CLIP, KEEP & SAVE

New Beginnings will donate $5 to the junior class at Manhattan High School towards their prom with each $25 tanning purchase.

1107 N. 3rd, 537-1003

(with coupon)

BUY ONE AT THE REGULAR PRICE, AND GET ONE FREE

Offer good through 2-8-87 only at:

Piñata Restaurante 1219 Bluemont in Aggieville 539-3166

> One coupon per visit

26 Moro 776-5507 Offer expires Feb. 1, 1987 1126 Moro

Speedy FREE Delivery

TWO MEDIUM

TWO TOPPING PIZZAS

Feels So Lively $25 All Perms Include Cut and Style

539-TAME or 539-8601

404 Humboldt

Guys

Curly

Partial

exp: 2/5/87

FREE MEDIUM SOFT DRINK

with the purchase of any sub 12th & Moro—Aggieville expires 2-28-87 with this coupon only void with other offers

OLSON'S

 Ladies' Heel Repair. $1 off reg. $4.50

Men's Heel Repair.

Offer valid without coupon

Expiration 2/14/87

$2 off

Open 7 Days a Week Free Delivery 7 days a week 11 a.m.-1 a.m. 1304 Westloop 539-8888 Buy 1 Entree get 1 of equal or less value for 1/2 Price

HAIR SHACK

-Full service for men & women-

Shampoo/Haircut/Blowdry

Now s10 w/KSU ID

·Walk-ins welcome/Appt. appreciated

776-7421 415 N. 3rd

(between Red Cross & Wendy's)

Hours: Tues.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Sat. 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Winter Dog Days Savings

$1 OFF ANY $5 PURCHASE

Good Thursday, Friday and Saturday Jan. 29, 30, 31 only

NOVELTIES & GIFTS

1128 Moro, Aggieville

upen 10-6

SELF-SERVICE COPIES

high-quality copying reductions & enlargements flyers & newsletters transparencies resume service > typing & editing spiral binding

OPEN 7 DAYS

3 LAFLIN

Books & Copies

10 FREE COPIES

Bring in this ad

FirstBank Center

1814 Claflin

776-3771

for 10 FREE 81/2×11

SELF-SERVICE COPIES

Expires Feb. 8, 1987

JOE WEIDER TWIN UNIPRO LABS

MEGA FORCE

10% OFF (with coupon)

PACK IT ON or PEEL IT OFF

MANHATTAN HEALTH FOODS 300 N. 3RD

BURGER

Hours: M-Th 6:30 a.m.-1-a.m. F-Sat 6:30 a.m.-2 a.m.

Sun. 7:30 a.m.-Midnight

99¢ Double Cheeseburgers

regularly $1.45 Limit 5

DRIVE UP WINDOW NOW OPEN EXPIRES 2-9-87

2-For-1 Thursdays

Bring in a friend and split the cost of a Design Cut on Thursdays with this coupon. Mon.-Fri. 8-8, Sat. 8-5

10% off

any repair work or maintenance on your car with this coupon expires Feb. 28, 1987

GOETSCH-IRV CHRYSLER-PLYMOUTH-SUBARU

4th Leavenworth 776-4875 Downtown Manhattan

04

Group claims responsibility for abduction of 4 in Beirut

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - A group calling itself Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine claimed responsibility Wednesday for the abduction of three Americans and an Indian professor from a west Beirut campus

In London the Church of England said the Archbishop of Canterbury had received assurances that his envoy, Terry Waite, was safe and continuing his mission to free foreign captives in Lebanon.

"These assurances have been conveved to the Church of England from leaders of the Druse community who are Mr. Waite's hosts during his mission to Lebanon. These leaders held conversations today with leaders of the Shiite community," a church statement said.

The four professors were "conspirators under the pretext of education," said the handwritten Arabiclanguage statement delivered to the west Beirut office of a Western news agency. The group had not been heard from before.

The statement was accompanied by a Polaroid picture of one of the hostages, American professor Robert Polhill, 53, of New York City, a lecturer in accounting.

Polhill and three others were seized Saturday at the campus of Beirut University College by gunmen posing as Lebanese riot police.

The other hostages are Alann Steen, 47, of Arcata, Calif., a communications instructor; Jesse Turner, 39, of Boise, Idaho, a visiting professor of mathematics and computer science; and Mithileshwar Singh, 60, a visiting professor of Singh is a native of India and resident alien of the United States.

The group said in its statement: "The Islamic Jihad Organization for the Liberation of Palestine, as it announces its debut, declares responsibility for the abduction of four Americans who are conspirators under the pretext of education.

"They have been using the facade of teaching to carry out American intrigues at Beirut University College," the statement said.

The Beirut newspaper An-Nahar said it received the same claim of responsibility along with a Polaroid picture of Singh.

It could not be determined whether the group is related to Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, the pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem extremist faction that holds American and French hostages kidnapped in west Beirut in 1985.

The fate of Waite had been uncertain following unconfirmed reports by the official Kuwaiti news agency that he was placed under house arrest by Shiite Moslems who have held two Americans hostage since 1985. Waite vanished Jan. 20 after leaving his hotel to negotiate with the captors.

In other developments: - U.S. Embassy chief of security Jim McWhairter said Lebanese police escorted an American, whose name he would not reveal, out of west Beirut so he could leave Lebanon from the Christian port of Fewer than half a dozen American men remain in west Beirut. An estimated 50 American women are there, most of them married to Lebanese Moslems.

Jounieh.

In Washington, the State Department announced restrictions on travel to Lebanon in an effort to force U.S. citizens to leave and discourage other Americans from coming here. He said he also supported "acts of kidnapping carried out to exert pressure aimed at defending the causes of Islam, including the abduction of the two (West) Germans to obtain the release of a Moslem arrested in Germany, which wants to hand him over to America."

by Doug & Dick

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

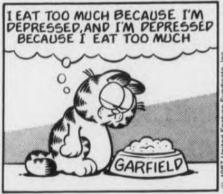

Garfield

By Jim Davis

Peanuts

By Charles Schulz

DOWN

1 Battle

2 Hearty

3 Like a

D.C.

office

4 Refuses

5 Like an glass?

7 Imple

one 9 Crystal runners

ment

6 Longevity

8 Repenting line rock

optimist's

memento

12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

SM58, and one Sure PE 75L. 776-2446 - Darren. (86-JVC CAR stereo, digital, auto reverse, fader. $120, or best offer. Call Bob, 776-0234. (86-88) on tuxes ordered by 2-28-87

421 POYNTZ

ossword

ACROSS 39 Succor 1 Did stable 40 Director Howard work 5 Bowler or 42 Overrun 45 Light bonnet benders 8 Hair-do 49 "Ja" undoer 12 Grotto 50 Doc's org. 13 "Long and Far 52 Sticky stuff Away' 53 Crucifix 14 Droplet 54 Balder-15 TV's dash Thicke 16 Stellar cat 55 Bull or boar 17 Gymnast 56 Motel's Korbut fore-

18 Kind of map or 57 Ultimate 10 Fury pitcher 20 Came down 22 Santa's helper 23 OK

24 Robbers' foes 27 Golf goal 32 Actress Gardner 33 Grant's foe 34 Some amount 35 Stock share pric 38 Noted art deco Yesterday's answer artist

58 Hymn end 11 Mouthward 37 Affix Solution time: 26 mins. EON 44 Merit ERE 46 Bridge animal - every thing! 1-29 51 Witticism

38 Mystery 41 Choice word 42 Cross inscrip 43 Light gas

19 City train

affirm

21 Naval

24 Lid

25 Eggs

26 Air mail

tion

28 New, ir

29 Forest

tract

30 Certain

31 Bread

36 Bits of food

colonist

inscrip-

Nuremberg

coup 47 Canyon 48 "Now I've 1-29

CRYPTOQUIP

VKNV BUH. IQOXUP XYSKOYVC: "Y SQPVV

CBB OKRN." BRP Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THIS SKILLFUL HULA DANCER COULDN'T SHAKE OFF HER COLD.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: B equals ()

plus deposit. 537-7622. (85-93)

deposit required. 539-1465. (85-88)

TWO BEDROOM luxury duplex: Fireplace, garage west of campus, $450. Call 539-4294 or 776-2536. (69tf)

FREE RENT in January. Large two-bedroom, nicely

ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month. Gas, heat,

and water included. Lease and deposit required Call 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (78-88)

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage, west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294.

MONT BLUE

APARTMENTS

Leasing for June

539-4447

LARGE TWO-bedroom, partially furnished basement

apartment close to campus, 1411 Vista Lane. Own entrance, no pets, parking for two cars. Deposit plus rent, available now. Pay own electricity. Phone 235-3550, Topeka. (79-88)

LARGE, WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five blocks

ADJACENT TO campus, 1224 Bertrand. Nice, two-

ONE BEDROOM, furnished apartment, bills paid,

TWO BEDROOM apartment, partially furnished,

1 Bedroom

close to campus

new furniture

new paint $270

call 539-1642

or

537-4567

NEAR KSU, quiet, clean, one-bedroom, furnished, laundry, air conditioning, parking. Available June
1. Call 776-7814 or 539-3803. (85-104)

NICE TWO-bedroom apartment, furnished, laundry facilities. Near campus. Free February rent. 776-8707 (after 8 p.m.). (86-88)

ROOMMATES WANTED-share nice apartment

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage, west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294.

SHARE THREE-bedroom house close to campus

1976 GRAND Prix, excellent condition, power

TOYOTA PICKUP, 1984, clean, excellent condition,

five-speed, long bed, topper. 776-0529. (87-93)

1967 MUSTANG-very good condition-make offer.

FOR SALE, 1976 Ford Maverick. V-8, automatic, air, reclining seats, 50,000 miles. 1-485-2268. (87-88)

1981 DODGE Omni for sale. Four-door, yellow. Call

CAN YOU buy Jeeps, cars, 4 x 4's seized in drug raids for under $100? Call for facts today. 602-837-3401. Ext. S 744. (87)

EX-60 SILVER Reed typewriter. Best offer 539-7409.

KELSEY 12-channel mixer, $470; Mako bass guitar, $180; Kustom powr amp, $200; prices negotiable.

Edelaines Weddings Plus

Wedding Dresses

20-50% off

ELEVEN-PIECE drum set for sale. Slingerland 11cw, nine toms, one kick, snare and hi-hat. Five cymbal stands. Includes cases for everything. Also one AKG D12E bass drum microphone, one Sure brakes, steering, locks, windows, sun roof, 537-9282 after 6 p.m. (86-90)

07

$113 plus low utilities. 776-2450. (86-88)

mileage. Best offer. 539-7409. (81-91)

FOR RENT—HOUSES

FOR SALE-AUTO

Call Jim, 537-4211. (87-88)

FOR SALE-MISC

532-3818. (87-89)

776-1925. (83-87)

421 POYNTZ

1986 FORD F150 4 x 4.

across from Ford Hall. $125/month and few utili ties. 1230 Claflin, apartment three. Call 537-0857.

close to campus with air cor Call 539-7253. (83-88)

7313 or 539-8401. One-half block from campus

bedroom with garage, washer and dryer. We pay water, trash. Asking $350. Call 537-1745 or 537-

from campus. No pets. $300. Call 776-0181. (79tf)

Studio, 1 & 2 Bedroom

Apartments

and Townhouses

Close to campus

decorated, dishwasher, disposal. No pets. $300,

FOR RENT-APTS

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli ent has an established account with Student Publi-Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Display Classified Rates One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-118) ASK ME about Mary Kay! Janet Milliken, 539-9469.

K-STATE GREEK Newspaper Staff will meet Thursday, January 30th at 4 p.m. in Stateroom #2. Everyone plan to attend. (87)

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski desti nations. South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauderdale, Mustang Island/Port Aransas, Galveston Island and Fort Walton Beach. Call Sunchase Tours Central Spring Break Toll Free Hot Line today for information and reservations-1-800-321-59111

THE COMPETITION has arrived! Now available on campus—Avon Beauty Products. Contact Kara, 532-3291. (83-87)

> TO GIVE AWAY: FREE MONEY The $1,017

Cold Cash Giveaway Listen to KMKF 101.7 FM for details.

PEOPLE'S GROCERY Co-op, 811 Colorado, is open to everyone Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m.-1 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m. 539-4811. (83-87) PLANNING A spring wedding? Quality photographs at affordable prices, done the way you want. Call Brad for more information. 776-3785. (86-87) HELP CHILDREN learn. The Friendship Tutoring Pro gram needs more tutors! Please call 776-6566 if you are willing to volunteer to help a child on hursday evenings. (86-90)

ONE CHOIR scholarship available for tenor voice Call First Lutheran, 537-8532. (86-88) 02 ATTENTION

CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry. Need 100 overweight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drugs, no ex-100% guaranteed. Call 776-5114 or 776-

HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT distributor. See us to products. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

Info Meeting Tonight 7 p.m. Union 206

Club meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Members who want to jump this semester MUST ATTEND AND PAY DUES.

Party this Friday Attend meeting for location

ENGLAND, SCOTLAND, and Ireland for under $1,300. Travel to Europe for 11 days; includes air-fare, meals, sightseeing and lodging. Leaving Kan-sas City May 18. Call right away for more informa-tion. 539-2883. (85-89)

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS!! Overcoats, field jackets, camouflage clothing, wool gloves and socks, cold weather boots, Carhartt workwear, much more!!
Just 28 miles east on highway 24. Open Monday--Saturday, 9-5. St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437-2734. (86-95)

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

Edelaine's Weddings Plus TUX SPECIAL $39.99

for any occasion-anytime

776-4498

Hayes House of Music DOD Effects 30% Off 327 Poyntz 776-7983

WOMEN'S 10 speed bicycle, $60. Jens Pedersen Cardwell 301. Call 532-6782, or F31 Jardine Terrace. (86-87) CORONA PC, dual disks, 128K, IBM compatible, SC-3, multimate. Priced to sell. 537-7226. (86-90)

COMMODORE 1541 disk drive, used about six months. Excellent condition. Offer. Contact Leon,

RCA 13 inch, black/white T.V. 537-9629. (86-88)

SUN N CONNECTION 5 sessions for $15 LARGEST TANNING SALON IN MANHATTAN

1126 Laramie 776-2426

CENTREX STEREO complete with speakers, turntable, AM/FM, cassette player, 537-9629. (86-88) SHOTGUN-FOX 12-gauge, double-barrel, side-by-side. Excellent condition. Case included. $250.

BASKETBALL-SEASON ticket, best offer. Call 537-

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

Call 539-1371. (86-88)

YAMAHA 225, three-wheel ATV. Electric start, shaft full suspension, good condition. $800. Call 539-3807. (87-90) FOUND

FOUND-SET of keys on a Bon Zilla key chain. Call to identify or claim, 537-4113. Ask for Deanne. (86-

HELP WANTED

EARN $480 weekly—$60 per hundred envelopes stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed for company project stuffing envelopes and assem-bling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to JBK Mailcompany, P.O. Box 25-52, Castaic, California 91310. (78-102)

ONE-BEDROOM, two-bedroom apartments, fur-nished or unfurnished, (new furniture). Westloop area. Call 776-9124. (78tf) AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer. Career! Good pay. Travel. Call for guide, cassette, newsser-vice! (918) 944-4444 Ext. #58. (76-135)

THE KANSAS Cooperative Extension Service has an opening for student computer programmers. The position is for 20 hours per week, flexible schedule. Applicants should be familiar with one of the following languages: Pascal, C, or PL/I. Summer employment is a possibility depending on permance. For more information contact Dr. Steve Welch or Mary Knapp at 211 Umberger, phone: 532-7019. Application blanks are available from the above individuals or in the Computer Science Office and will be taken during business hours through February 6, 1987. (83-92)

NEED EXTRA cash? Earn $100's weekly at home Free details! Rush self-addressed stamped envelope: Sterling Enterprises, Box 1514-C, Manhattan. KS 66502. (83-87)

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT at Camp Lincoln/Camp Lake Hubert-Minnesota resident summer camps. A strong commitment to working with chil dren required, along with activity skills and teach-ing experience. Specific job information and appli-cations are available at Career Placement Office-Holtz Hall. Sign up, in advance, for per sonal interviews to be held on campus. Tuesday February 3rd, and Wednesday, February 4th, 1987

WAITRESSES, MUST be 21, at Bonkers, 1216 Lara

mie, 537-9591. (86-90) STUDENTS WANTED to help with facilities mainte nance of Throckmorton Greenhouses. 4-12 hours each per week. Apply in person and be prepared to take a competency test (30-45 minutes). Test score will determine who is called for an interview. Work schedule is four-hour time blocks only (all morn ing or all afternoon only). A few hours every fifth weekend is required. Apply in person at D 107 (old dairy barn north of Throckmorton Hall). See Tammy or Tom. (86-87) TYPIST NEEDED, 50-55 words per minute, knowledge of Wordstar preferred. 10-15 hours per week, $3.35-$3.75 per hour. Work study preferred. Call Dora at 532-6842. (87-90)

LOST

LOST: GOLD chain necklace with angel charm. If found, please call Debi at 537-1570. (84-88) ORANGE BACKPACK containing assorted textbooks. Lost January 27 on road between KSU Union and Aggieville. If found, please call Jeff at 776

CAMOUFLAGE WALLET, Wednesday in Union T.V. room. Important IDs. Reward offered. Call Britt, 784-3180. (87-88)

15

NOTICES

NEED MONEY for college? Let us match you with scholarship and grant money for which you can qualify. For more information write Student Finan cial Aid Services, 1613 S.W. Chelsea Drive. Topeka, ball tickets for February 4. Company coming. 537 7087 (83-87) VW REPAIRS done right the first time. J & L Auto Ser vice, 1-494-2388. Drive a little and save money. (86

ATTENTION SCALPERS. Need four KU-KSU basket

PERSONAL

TO CUTE blonde: Anytime this weekend. You name the time and place. Dark-haired guy in grey RX7

KISSIFUR: YOU'RE 22 and I love you!! Happy Birthday. Shelly. (87) SPENCER-HEY of timer! Happy 22nd Birthday, I hope this day and all the rest to come are special: Love Ya! Linda. (87) PARACHUTE CLUB: Super Dave says "We are due for a party. This Friday-come to the meeting for lo cation. (87)

JACKIE-CONGRATS on your "scoop." I'm really proud, but not surprised. I always had faith in you and always will. I.L.Y. —Johnny Impossible. (87)

ROOMMATE WANTED

MALE ROOMMATE needed—Across street from campus. $135/month plus utilities. 776-9369. (76-

MALE ROOMMATE(S) wanted to share a six bedroom house. Total expense about $160 per month. No deposit, available now. 776-9222. (83-87)

ROOMMATE TO share a two bedroom partially furnished apartment. Close to campus with air conditioning, rent and utilities, $150. Call 539-7253. (83-

MALE ROOMMATE wanted to share new apartment Own room, $155 per month plus utilities. 537-4347.

MALE ROOMMATE across street from campus at 1230 Vattier. Ground floor, private room, washer/ dryer, fireplace. $135/month, plus utilities. 776-

FEMALE TO share two-bedroom apartment. Lots of room! $130/month—split utilities. Call 776-5265 after 6:30 p.m. (85-88) MALE ROOMMATE wanted: $133 plus utilities. own room, quiet, nice home. 776-1986. Ask for Lee. (85-ROOMMATE—RENT negotiable, own room, laundry facilities, next to campus. Call 776-3833, keep trying. (86-90) NONSMOKING FEMALE—large house, sundeck. washer/dryer. Utilities paid, own room. $175/ month, 539-6628, (86-95)

RESPONSIBLE MALE to share two-bedroom house in Keats (8 miles west of Union). $100 deposit, $100 rent, one-half utilities. 539-8541 after 7 p.m. (87-91)

SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf)

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf) EXPERIENCED TYPIST—$1.10/page. Disc storage letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537

9205, Dorinda. (78-88) TYPING/WORD processing. Data sheets, resumes letters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Burden, 539-1204. (80-89)

> Courtesy Demonstration by Appointment 9:30-5:30 Monday-Saturday

MERLE NORMAN

308 Poyntz 776-4535 QUALITY TYPING for $1 per page. Contact John, 539-

QUALITY TYPING at economical prices. Disserta tions, Resumes, Theses, etc. Call Caron at 532-6294 or 776-2279. (86-95) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Term papers, theses, disserta-tions. 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. (87-89)

SUBLEASE 20

SUMMER SUBLEASE—three-bedroom, one and one-half bath, close to campus, $465. Call 776-5379. (86-90) WANTED

WANTED: A few good KSU men to share a unique ex-perience. The re-organization of Alpha Kappa Lambda. Room 207, K-State Union, 7 p.m., February 3. (87-91)

22 WANTED TO BUY WANTED: JUDO gi suit, call 532-4802 ask for Richard. (84-88) HELP!! NEED one KU-K-State ticket. Call Mike at 539-0905. (86-90)

Penalty

Continued from Page 1

role in the proposal's defeat.

"It forced a lot of people to look at the issue a lot closer," said Knopp, R-Manhattan, who added he believed some of the missing legislators would have voted against the

A leading opponent of the death penalty, Rep. John Solbach, D-Lawrence, said he was pleased with the outcome, which he claimed might lead to a greater public understanding of the proposal.

"I think this is a great victory for the people of the state of Kansas." Solbach said. "I think this sends a message out that this is a very complex and costly issue."

Braden blamed the outcome on an alleged plan by Democrats to vote en masse against the bill in order to gain leverage to restore some of the $11.7 million in welfare cuts the Legislature passed during the first week of the session.

"The votes are there," said Braden, R-Clay Center. "Apparently some people are playing games with the death penalty."

Another key reason for the defeat, Braden said, was that the vote wasn't recorded. He claimed Democrats were instructed at their caucus meeting Wednesday morning to vote against the bill, while he told GOP lawmakers to vote according to their consciences.

House Minority Leader Marvin Barkis, D-Louisburg, denied he had given marching orders to the Democrats at the caucus but he said there was some sentiment among legislators from his party to use the death penalty vote as a negotiating tool for restoration of the welfare

Rejection of the bill was especially surprising after lawmakers voted 68-50 during debate to turn down an amendment that would have removed all references to the death penalty from the bill and would have inserted a requirement that convicted murderers serve 30-year minimum prison sentences.

At least three dozen legislators spoke during the marathon debate and of nine proposed amendments to the bill, four were adopted.

A change narrowing the scope of the bill to cover only premeditated murder was adopted 63-54. That amendment, offered by Rep. Dale Sprague, R-McPherson, deleted language that would cover murders committed without forethought during the commission of most felonies.

Under that language, the only instances in which prosecutors would not have to prove premeditation in order to gain a capital murder conviction would be in connection with killings committed during kidnappings, rapes or sodomies.

A second change, which was approved 57-56, would require an entirely new jury be empaneled for the sentencing stage of a capital murder trial. As introduced, the bill called for jurors to first determine the guilt or innocence of a defendant and then, during a second proceeding, decide whether a guilty defendant should receive the death penalty or life imprisonment.

Rep. Bill Roy Jr., D-Topeka, who successfully promoted the amendment, said the effect would be to allow death penalty opponents to serve on juries that hear the first stage of a capital murder trial.

Roy said he was sure the provision would increase the costs of capital murder trials. An estimate released Wednesday from the Legislative Research Department showed even without the new language requiring the second jury, capital murder trials would consume an extra $10 million in state and local tax money each year.

The bill provides that sentencing juries must find one of seven "aggravating circumstances" exist and that they are not outweighed by mitigating factors before recommending a death sentence. The recommendation could be overturned by the trial judge and the conviction would be automatically reviewed by the Kansas Supreme Court.

Other changes in the bill the House approved Wednesday included language that would permit those accused in capital murder cases to select the Kansas attorney of their choice to defend them - at state expense - as well as to donate their organs after they are convicted and the sentence is carried out.

Kansas had capital punishment by hanging until a 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision struck it down along with the death penalty statutes of all other states.

The high court reinstated capital punishment with a 1976 decision. The Legislature has passed four capital punishment measures since 1978 only to see them vetoed by Carlin.

Sisca

Continued from Page 1

fice, people will take more responsibility for what the government is doing around the world and in our country," he said.

Picket signs were numerous, including two that stated "Student Aid, not Contra Aid" and "War is the Real Enemy."

Merchant

Continued from Page 1

and enjoy and we trust that they will show their responsibility as adults when they come down and enjoy themselves in Aggieville.

"I think (the students') main involvement is to act responsibly and show leadership," he said. "Aggieville has been adopted by the students for years. We cater to the students' needs. Whenever there's a fund-raiser, the Aggieville merchants are the first ones they ask, and we try to support them as much as we can.

was raised to $6.50.

"We're here to show our opposition to what Ronald Reagan describes as the State of the Union. His perspective on it is full of lies," said Steve Milligan, graduate student in chemical engineering and vice president of SISCA.

As the demonstration wound down. two students walked out of the Union one wearing a Reagan mask, the other waving a "Ronbo" poster.

Striding across the courtyard, the Reagan supporters yelled, "Go, Ronny, go!"

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream

but with 80% less fat!

-- FREE SAMPLES--I Can't Believe It's YOGURT! Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

"As far as I know, Doug (Folk) raised the fee," Lamborn said. Bill Majerus, graduate student in agronomy and task force member, said he found out about the $6.50 fee Wednesday. The fee was still $6.25 when the meeting was adjourned, he A $6 fee for full-time students and a $3 fee for part-time students would have been about $4,000 short of the estimated $193,000 needed to fund 40 percent of the non-revenue athletic sports scholarships.

Based on fall 1986 enrollment figures, the extra 50 cents a semester would generate about $9,700 more than the estimated amount needed.

"The people who made the decision to raise the fee another 50 cents are screwing up the whole issue," Caraway said. "We were closer to the 40 percent figure when we were $4,000 short than we are at $10,000

Tonite $2 Pitchers

The VERANDA'S

Friday Free TGIF Sandwich Bar

$39.95 $25.00

34.95 20.00

34.95 20.00

27.95 18.00

8:30 a.m.-8:30 p.m.

Fri. & Sat.

8:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

Sun. 1-5 p.m.

Selection of Racquetball racquets

Wilson Racquetballs

Leather basketballs,

men's and women's

Selection of

Tennis Racquets

Manila

Continued from Page 1

(Armed Forces of the Philippines) intact." Honasan was formerly security chief to ex-Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and played a key role in the February military revolt against Marcos which propelled Aquino to Honasan was allegedly linked to the aborted coup against Aquino last November which led to Enrile's dismissal.

Up to 1,000 heavily armed soldiers, marines and riot police took positions around the walled broadcast center in suburban Manila. It was the last position held by rebels who had attempted a pre-dawn coup Tuesday, the most serious challenge by right-wing military men since Aquino came to power 11 months

Heavily armed troops wearing gas masks moved toward the station in a five-truck convoy. Marines in civilian clothes and wearing yellow armbands - the color of Aquino's "people power revolution" against Marcos - were on standby to move

The deadline passed, and five teargas grenades were fired near the station wall as warnings. There were no reports of fire by the mutineers.

During a lull in the tear gas volleys, an unidentified woman inside the broadcast center issued a defiant warning over DZBB that the mutineers would not give up. The woman was among about 50 pro-Marcos civilians who joined the estimated 190 mutinous military

"Why are you doing this to us, Mrs. Aquino?" she asked in an emotionchoked voice. "We are not moving out of here. It will be sweeter for us if you kill us with bullets rather than tear gas."

Ramos had ordered the rebels to surrender during a 45-minute meeting outside the station with Canlas before dawn Wednesday.

Canlas told reporters Wednesday afternoon he was ready to surrender but wanted time to arrange details. Authorities feared he was stalling in hopes that pro-Marcos reinforcements would come to his aid.

Canlas denied any links to Marcos and claimed the takeover was aimed at dramatizing the Communist threat and ther military grievances. Some military officers have criticized Aquino's peace overtures toward Communist rebels. The government has negotiated a cease-fire with the Marxists and has held peace talks to end the 18-year-old insurgency.

At his home in exile in Honolulu on Tuesday night, Marcos answered, 'No, no, no, no," when asked if he directed the rebellion.

Fee

Continued from Page 1

were going to have to raise the fee when we talked at the meeting. I thought everybody understood that."

Folk said he did not see what the problem was because the members who were complaining were not sponsors of the bill.

In addition to Folk and Leeds, sponsors of the bill attending the task force meeting were Roger Haymaker, junior in business administration; Steve Ligon, senior in animal sciences and industry; and Sandy Marihugh, sophomore in business administration.

Svaty, the sixth sponsor, did not attend the meeting.

Kelly Lamborn, senior in journalism and mass communications and task force member, said the task force meeting was over when the fee over.'

SKYDIVE

Info Meeting Tonight 7 p.m. Union 206 Club Meeting at 7:30 p.m. MEMBERS WHO WANT TO JUMP THIS SEMESTER MUST ATTEND AND PAY DUES.

Party this Friday-attend meeting for location

"THE ROAD LESS TRAVELED"

Study/Discussion Group 9:45 a.m., Sundays DANFORTH CHAPEL

This is a six-week discussion group focusing on Scott Peck's popular book with emphasis on the sections of Love and Grace. In view of our own experiences we will explore the myth of romantic love, dependency, love as risk, discipline, separateness and mystery. We will also concern ourselves with the nature, the mystery and power of frace, biblically and in personal growth.

EVERYONE WELCOME!

Sponsored by Lutheran Campus Ministry 1021 Denison, Don Fallon, campus pastor, 539-4451

Kansas State University

Univ. of Calif.—Santa Barbara

5 Actors From The London Stage

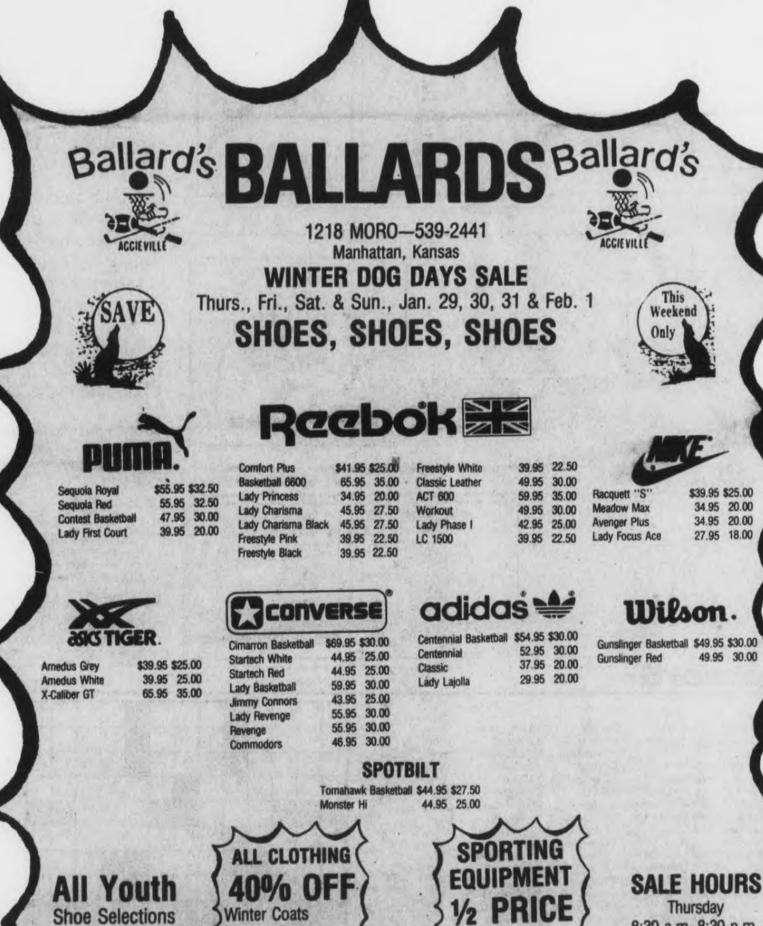

Thurs., Jan. 29 Pinter This Evening Readings from Harold Pinter's Plays Nichols Theatre

8 p.m.-$5/$3 Fri. & Sat., Jan. 30 & 31

The Tempest by William Shakespeare McCain Auditorium 8 p.m.—.$8/$4

Fashion Fleece

Fashion Warm-ups

Assortment Ski Hats

Tube Socks

Russell National

Rugby Pants

Stirrup Pants

(all shoes sold while quantity lasts)

Stage Presence

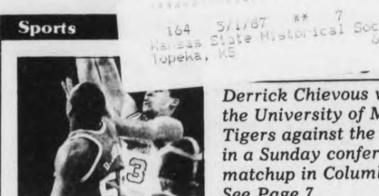

Five actors have been on campus sharing their expertise and knowledge of Shakespearean theater. See Entertainment Plus.

Mostly Sunny

Mostly sunny today, high in the low to mid-50s. Winds variable 5 to 10 mph. Increasing cloudiness tonight.

Derrick Chievous will lead the University of Missouri Tigers against the Wildcats in a Sunday conference matchup in Columbia, Mo.

See Page 7.

THE ASSESSMENT OF DEAL SOCIAL

Kansas

Friday January 30, 1987

Kansas State University

Volume 93, Number 88

Student Senate approves athletic fee measure

Senators debate nearly four hours on issue

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Collegian Reporter

The Non-Revenue Sports Scholarship Fee Bill is on its way to a student referendum. A special orders vote during first readings of the bill in Student Senate just after midnight Thursday made it possible to skip second readings next Thursday and send the bill directly to a referendum vote during Senate elections Feb. 10-11.

Nearly four hours of discussion and debate preceded the vote, with the greatest amount of dissension coming from senators representing department's business manager, the graduate school.

"You have the right to reject this proposed bill, and I strongly en-courage you to do so," said Ron Student Governing Association in the Hughes, graduate in curriculum and event the fee is assessed. instruction.

A law may be passed by a referendum if one-third of the student body votes and one-half of those voting concur, or if two-thirds of those voting concur, regardless of the total number of votes cast, according to the Senate Constitution.

A law passed by referendum may be repealed by a three-fourths majority vote of the total membership of Senate or a subsequent referendum.

Larry Travis, director of the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, and Mike Jones, the answered questions about the contract to be signed between the

Under the contract, the revenue from the fee will be placed in a restricted account and will be channeled directly to the Office of Student Financial Assistance to be used solely for non-revenue sports scholarships.

Students will be admitted free to all non-revenue sports events if the fee is assessed, the contract states.

A concern of several senators was a clause in the contract stating if any of the conditions were not met, the fee would be terminated.

The Kansas Board of Regents has the final say as to whether a fee will be assessed or not. In a memorandum attached to the contract,

See FEE, Page 10

Directors criticize agency service charges

By The Collegian Staff

Senate passed a resolution proposal Thursday night objecting to service charges imposed by the University on receipts of three student-funded agencies. The three agencies being considered under the proposal are the Union, Lafene Student Health Center and Student Publications Inc.

David L. Adams, director of Student Publications, said his agency gives back its service charge in services it provides to students. Dr. Robert Tout, director of Lafene Student Health Center, and Walt Smith, director of the Union, agreed.

The directors also said if the service charges are implemented, it is possible that increases in services for students would occur in order to offset the 3 percent service charge.

All three agencies plan to pay for the service charge through their reserve accounts.

In the proposal, Senate requests the service charges be enacted for this ficsal year as a temporary measure to assist in the University's current financial difficulties.

However, George Miller, vice president of administration and finance, said President Jon Wefald has stated the service charge would be a permanent measure.

Senate encourages the directors of the three student-funded agencies to withhold payment of the proposed charges until a agreement is negotiated between the University administration and the agencies.

Athletic Director Larry Travis was available to Student Senate Thursday evening to answer questions concerning the non-revenue scholarship fee referendum.

"Put it before the students. If they don't want it, then they will vote it down. Let them make the decision," Travis said.

After more than three hours of debate, Senate passed the referendum, 36-4. Senate also postponed action on the constitutional revision that would allow the student body president to run for re-election. In other action, Senate unanimously passed a commendation to Kelly Welch, senior in agricultural economics, for receiving the prestigious Rhodes Scholarship.

Committee locates Iran-Contra money

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Senate Intelligence Committee has traced Iranian arms sales profits, apparently intended for Nicaragua's Contra rebels, to a secret Cayman Islands bank account, the panel's chairman said Thursday.

But Sen. David Boren said a newly written committee report has not yet determined "the ultimate resting place of this money." The report, released Thursday night, said information regarding the flow of money was in part "based on sources of unknown reliability," whose statements could not be independently verified by the commit-

Boren said the report includes "no direct evidence that would state" that President Reagan knew of the diversion or "that he directed the diversion of funds" to the Contras.

"You cannot finally resolve that question when you don't have the testimony of North and Poindexter and others," Boren said of two departed administration figures, Vice Adm. John M. Poindexter and Lt. Col. Oliver L. North.

Across the Capitol, sources said the House panel investigating the Iran-Contra connection had notified independent counsel Lawrence mittee completed its initial in-Walsh that it might have to make a decision on granting limited immunity to witnesses sooner than he wishes.

These sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the panel notified Walsh of its feelings in a letter. "The House has to make its own ed by Richard Secord, Thomas judgment," said one source, noting that while Walsh may take many months to complete his work, the committee's charter expires in Oc-

Walsh had earlier written the panel that a grant of limited immunity might create barriers to possible prosecution. Poindexter and North have refused to answer questions, citing their constitutional rights against self-incrimination.

Boren said the Senate Intelligence Committee report reveals that Reagan met a number of times with North, then a deputy on the National Security Council staff, generally with others present.

The White House denied last year that Reagan ever met alone with North over the past two years.

Of the Iran-Contra money connection, Boren said: "We take it one more step, the Cayman Islands account. The creation of that, of course, is tied to the ultimate beneficiary being in some way the Contras. But in terms of showing the final trail in terms that absolutely nail down the fact that they received the funds,

In the past the Contras have used Cayman Island bank accounts - protected by bank secrecy laws in that small island nation - for transfers of funds to pay for military operations in their war against the leftist Sandinista government in Managua.

The report said that after the comvestigation last Nov. 28, the panel received information "indicating that profits from Iranian arms sales were deposited in account(s) in a Swiss bank called Credit Fiduciere Services (CFS) and that such accounts were opened and-or controll-Clines and Theodore Shackley. CFS then transferred money to its sub-

See PROFITS, Page 10

Staff/Steve Wolgast

Tongue and cheek frightened by Dan Breese, a Hawaiian warrior, during The Young Thursday in McCain Auditorium. The 45 singers are 15 to 21 years old.

Dominic Fortuna, center, and Torry Mathews, right, portray vacationers Americans' show, "Around the World in Eighty Fun, Wonderful Days,"

Police apprehend 22 for drug possession

By The Collegian Staff

Twenty-two people had been arrested as of Thursday afternoon on charges related to the possession, sale or distribution of illegal drugs in four area counties, but none have been identified as K-State students, said Capt. methamphetamines. Larry Woodyard of the Riley County Police Department.

Woodyard said none of the people arrested in Riley, Pottawatomie, Geary or Clay counties were listed as K-State students on arrest reports.

All but one of the arrests stemmed from eight months of investigation by a federal Drug Enforcement Administration task force, he said. The task force is law enforcement agents. Woodyard said 12 of the people arrested had been indicted by a grand jury on federal charges and nine were arrested on state warrants issued by the Riley County District Court. One person was arrested on a 1986 state warrant.

The drug charges were for illegal substances including cocaine, marijuana, LSD and

Woodyard said the task force is still in pursuit of drug distribution suspects, but did not say how many people they were looking

"Legally, I can withhold that (information) because I feel that it may affect the outcome of our abilities (to arrest the suspects),"

Jerry Weis, associate professor of biology, said he heard some made up of state, local and county materials stolen from the Division of Biology over Christmas break might have been recovered in the arrests.

Abductors threaten murder if attacked

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Moslem kidnappers said Thursday they will kill four men seized last weekend if U.S. military forces attack Lebanon, and they released a picture of an American captive with two automatic rifles held to his head.

Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite remained out of sight for the 10th day. He is negotiating with the captors of two Americans held since

The hostages threatened with death Thursday are three Americans and an Indian abducted Saturday at Beirut University College.

In Washington, a Reagan administration official said: "We hold the captors responsible for the safety of the hostages. We call for the immediate release of all hostages. We do not speculate on any course of action the United States may or may not take.'

Defense Department sources said 11 kidnappings in Moslem west Beirut in less than two weeks prompted the United States to hold the airAmerican captives held at gunpoint craft carrier John F. Kennedy and its 11-ship battle group in the Mediterranean Sea. They called the action precautionary and one said: 'The current posture of our forces is not a threat to anyone.

The USS Nimitz, scheduled to relieve the Kennedy, also is in the Mediterranean.

Robert Sims, chief Pentagon spokesman, said the naval movements would "ensure that the president has all options available to him that he might choose." He would not say what military options President Reagan was considering but dismissed speculation that Navy ships were preparing to evacuate Americans.

The United States declared Lebanon off-limits to its citizens and told the estimated 1,500 Americans still here that their passports would be revoked if they did not leave within 30 days. Many of them are of Lebanese descent or dual nationals.

A previously unknown group calling itself Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine made the death threat in a handwritten Arabic statement delivered to a Western news agency in west Beirut. Accompanying it was a photograph of hostage Robert Polhill with two automatic rifles pointed at his head.

Polhill, 53, of New York City, is a certified public accountant who lectures at the college.

On Wednesday, the group claimed responsibility for abducting the four men, declaring in a statement that they used "the facade of teaching to carry out American intrigues.'

Secretary of State George P. Shultz said in Washington that all organizations involved in the 11 kidnappings have strong ties to Iran.

Seized with Polhill on Saturday were Alann Steen, 47, of Boston, communications instructor; Jesse Jonathan Turner, 39, of Boise, Idaho, visiting professor of mathematics, and Mithileshwar Singh, 60, visiting professor of finance since 1982. Singh has resident alien status in the United States

Thursday's statement from the abductors said: "After it was ascertained for us that the United States harbors the intention to attack Lebanon with the help of other Western nations, the Islamic Jihad Organization for the Liberation of Palestine declares it will execute the four American hostages as an initial countermeasure upon the occurrence of this aggresssion. Other operations will follow in adequate places."

It claimed U.S. Ambassador John Kelly was meeting with ambassadors of Western European countries in Christian east Beirut about plans for a military attack on Lebanon. Embassy spokesmen declined to comment.

Shortly before the statement was delivered, students of Beirut University College burned tires and blocked traffic in west Beirut's streets in another protest of the abductions.

By The Associated Press

INTERNATIONAL

Soviet attacks leaders in article

MOSCOW - A top Soviet commentator has published stinging personal attacks on two former Kremlin leaders, saying Leonid Brezhnev became a "monument to himself" and Nikita Khrushchev betrayed the hopes of a generation.

The article by former Brezhnev protege Alexander Bovin appears in the latest issue of the state-run New Times weekly, which goes on sale Friday. A summary was carried Thursday by the Tass news agency.

The article contains the harshest personal criticism ever to appear in the Soviet Union of Brehznev, who headed the nation's Communist Party from 1964 until his death in 1982.

Police charge third man in fire

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico - Police on Thursday arrested a Dupont Plaza Hotel bartender on charges of arson and 96 counts of murder. He was the third person accused of involvement in the New Year's Eve fire at the hotel.

Jose Francisco Rivera Lopez, 40, of Carolina, Puerto Rico, was held Thursday night at the Rio Piedras State Penitentiary in San Juan when he was unable to post $2.4 million bail set by San Juan Superior Court Judge Carlos Rivera Martinez.

He was arrested while driving through a working-class section of The Dupont Plaza blaze, the second-worst hotel fire in U.S. history, killed 96 people and injured 140.

The commonwealth charged Rivera Lopez, a bartender at the hotel for the past two years, with 96 counts of murder and with arson, the same charges facing the other two suspects.

Rivera Lopez was also indicted by a federal grand jury, whose sealed indictment was opened Thursday in U.S. District Court in San

The federal indictment alleges Rivera Lopez "did knowingly procure" the setting of the blaze, but does not elaborate on the charge.

REGIONAL

House introduces marijuana tax

TOPEKA - A bill that would tax marijuana and other illegal drugs in a manner similar to alcohol and tobacco was introduced Thursday in the Kansas House.

One of the bill's sponsors, Rep. Robert H. Miller, R-Wellington, said the proposal was modeled after a Minnesota law that requires payment of an excise tax for all illegal substances in the state.

The bill would consider anyone who possesses more than 421/2 grams of marijuana or seven grams of other controlled substances to be a "dealer," who would have to obtain state tax stamps to place on

Under the bill's terms, dealers would have to pay a tax of $3.50 per gram of the marijuana to the Kansas Department of Revenue. In return, the department would issue stamps that must be placed on packages of marijuana.

For other controlled substances, the tax would be $200 per gram, or for controlled substances not sold by weight, $200 for each 50 dosage

Miller said neither he nor the co-sponsor of the bill, Rep. Ed Rolfs, R-Junction City, meant the proposal as a joke. Instead, Miller said, the bill would provide an additional charge for people arrested for possessing or selling illegal drugs. "It seems to be working in Minnesota," Miller said. "At this point there are over 100 stamps issued and people are being prosecuted for not having these stamps."

RESTAURANT

Try One Today!

537-3200

When It

Comes to

1101 Moro

Aggieville

537-3200

Upstairs

1st Bank Center

Denison & Claflin

Polish

Dogs . . .

Ours Is

Top Dog!

537-3200

NATIONAL

Three airlines initiate 'fare wars'

NEW YORK - Three of the nation's biggest airlines fired the first shots of a fare war Thursday, announcing a new type of sharply discounted fare that analysts warned could mean more financial woes for the industry.

Continental and Eastern airlines, both subsidiaries of Texas Air Corp., led off by introducing "MaxSaver" fares discounted up to 40 percent from the already cut-rate "supersaver" fares.

The new fares apply to a limited number of seats on all Eastern and Continental routes within the 48 contiguous states. MaxSaver tickets can be bought up to two days before a flight, but there is no refund in the event a customer cancels travel plans.

Supersaver fares, which are about 70 percent below regular coach fares, have a 30-day advance purchase requirement and a 50 percent cancellation penalty.

United Airlines announced later it would match the fare cuts where it had the same amount of scheduled flights, although a spokesman declined to give the amount of seating affected by the fares. Spokesmen for Dallas-based American and Atlanta-based Delta said their companies were reviewing the situation.

Nurses vacating profession in U.S.

CHICAGO - The percentage of vacant nursing jobs in U.S. hospitals more than doubled in the past year, and the shortage is especially serious because it involves all types of nurses in all regions of the country, the American Hospital Association said

Declining enrollments in nursing schools, a negative image of nursing in the media and women's increased access to other professions are to blame, said Connie Curran, a nurse and a vice president of the Hospital job openings for registered nurses jumped from 6.3 percent of all such jobs to 13.6 percent between Dec. 1, 1985, and Dec. 1, 1986, the association said.

"Some hospitals are better prepared than others," Curran said, adding that some use pools of part-time nurses to help fill the gaps and some hire nurses through temporary employment agencies.

PEOPLE

NBC news anchor to leave post

NEW YORK - Network news anchor and reporter Roger Mudd said Thursday he's leaving NBC for public television because network news is becoming too much of a ratings game.

Mudd's departure had been rumored since he sharply criticized NBC News for canceling the prime-time news magazine show "1986" that he co-anchored.

He said he was leaving NBC because of the offer to join the esteemed, Washington-based, PBS news show to report on politics and government and because of his reassignment at the network.

He said news management has changed over the years and no longer views the news as public service, but as "a promotable commodity that helps the ratings."

He said he was joining Robert MacNeil and Jim Lehrer on their show because "I think they regard news and information and fact and opinion with a reverence and respect that really is admirable, and I think it's a marvelous place to be right now.'

Mudd is the second high-profile network news figure to depart for public TV in recent months. CBS commentator and correspondent Bill Moyers left that network in November to produce documentaries for PBS.

HUNAM EXPRESS 1116 Moro 537-0886

(eggroll & fried rice 990)

Open 7 days a week Free Delivery 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Restaurant Call 539-8888 or 537-0886 (10% off with KSU ID)

1304 Westloop 539-8888

NOW FEATURING

AT 1102 LARAMIE AND 2706 ANDERSON OPEN 24 HRS.

PERFORMANCE GASOLINE CONTAINS NO ALCOHOL

THE RESERVE AND ADDRESS OF THE PARTY OF THE

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

U-LEARN is looking for a few good volunteers for this spring. Don't waste away the spring hours — be a U-LearN volunteer. Call 532-6442 or stop

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is now posting sign-up schedules for on-campus employment interviews by Kansas, regional and national employers. All eligible candidates are urged to register and apply.

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in Union Activites Center and are due at 5 p.m. Feb.

CONGRESSIONAL TEACHER SCHOLAR-SHIP PROGRAM information and applications forms available in Bluemont 017.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT will be showing tapes prepared by the College Place-ment Council in Holtz 107b. Today's tapes will be "The Interview" and "Interview Follow-up" at

FACULTY AND STAFF MEMBERS are invited to attend a reception honoring Darwin D. Liverance for his leadership of Personnel Services at the University. The reception will be from 2 to 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Union Sunflower Recept

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION STUDENT COUNCIL applications are available in Blu 13 and are due Monday.

DEPARTMENT OF SPEECH will present five actors from The London Stage performing "The Tempest" at 8 p.m. today and Saturday in Mc-Cain Auditorium.

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS OF KANSAS will hold an information session for prospective stu-dent senators and student body president can-didates 2 to 3 p.m. Sunday in Union Big Eight

INTER-VARSITY CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at 6 p.m. at south door of Union.

FRIDAY FOCUS ON WOMEN meets from noon to 1 p.m. in Union Stateroom 3

COLLEGIATE 4-H meets at 7 p.m. at Kenby Clawson's apartme

SUNDAY

ORTHODOX CHRISTIANS ON CAMPUS meet

NEWMAN meets at 6 p.m. at St. Isidore.

ACACIA LITTLE SISTERS meet at 10 p.m. at

ALPHA GAMMA RHO LITTLE SISTERS meet

NATIONAL AGRI-MARKETING ASSOCIA-

STUDENTS AGAINST MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS meets at 8:30 p.m. in Union 202.

S. Africa censors ads, imposes further limits

By The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa A judge nullified one of the police commissioner's press restrictions Thursday and the government responded hours later with new emergency rules allowing him to ban "any matter" he chooses.

An attorney who represents news media, Paul Jenkins, said Police Commissioner Johan Coetzee had been "elevated to the country's chief censor.'

The commissioner used his new authority within two hours, issuing an order at 1 a.m. Friday prohibiting publication of advertisements

'which defended, praised or endeavored to justify unlawful organizations' campaigns, projects, programs or actions.'

Judge H. Daniel of Rand Supreme Court in Johannesburg invalidated an order Coetzee issued Jan. 8, the day after 22 newspapers published advertisements urging legalization of the African National Congress.

Although Coetzee's order Friday morning referred only to advertisements, the one struck down by the judge also had prohibited news reports and comment that explained, defended, supported or might enhance the public image of any banned organization.

AGGIEVILLE FRIDAY VODKA DRINKS DRAWS 75¢

Free Hors D'oeuvres

616 N. 12th 539-9967

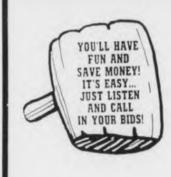

AGGIEVILLE SATURDAY

TONIC

SCHNAPPS $1.00

> 616 N.12th 539-9967

> > MINIMUM

The items listed below will be auctioned to the highest bidder this Saturday from 8.05 a.m. to noon. Visit the sponsors . . inspect the merchandise determine your bid. Keep your radio on KMAN 1350 and your hand near the plane. Just call auction Date saturday, January 31

BIDS VALUE Case of 12 oz. cans-Diet Dr. Pepper: PEPSI OF MANHATTAN $ 8.80 $ 5.00 Ladies SAS Leather Handbag: BROWN'S SHOE FIT 24.00 Seafood Buffet for 2: COTTON CLUB 26.00 13.00 20.00 11.00 5 Movie Passes: COMMONWEALTH THEATERS 10.00 21.90 2 Balloon Arrangements: BALLOON BOUTIQUE 13.00 $25 Merchandise Certificate: GLAMOUR WORLD 25.00 10.00 Full Service Oil & Lube: WAYNE'S QUIKLUBE Carrite Cargo Carrier: DARRELL'S CUSTOM VANS 98.00 48.00 11.00 22.50 2-VCR & Video Cassette Rental pkg.: HOME CINEMA 55.00 $100 Merchandise Certificate: DUERFELDT'S JEWELERS 100.00 25.00 13.00 $25 Hair Care Certificate: SNIP N' CLIP 25.00 13.00 $25 Balloon Arrangements: THE PALACE $25 Merchandise certificate: WINGS & WHEELS HOBBY HAUS 25.00 13.00 Bolt & Chain Cutters: WATERS TRUE VALUE HARDWARE 23 99 12.00 $50 Merchandise Certificate: DRAPERY WORLD 50.00 26.00 $25 Merchandise Certificate: FURNITURE CENTER 13.00 4 Piece Fireplace Set: WATERS TRUE VALUE HARDWARE 39.95 20.00 Sewing machine tune-up: WEISNER'S SEW UNIQUE 29.95 15.00 239.00 120.00 Panasonic Microwave (NE 5875): ADY'S APPLIANCE 25.00 13.00 $25 Dinner Certificate: RAOUL'S ESCONDIDO $50 Merchandise Certificate: CAMPBELL'S 26.00 18" Strand Fresh Water Pearls: THE DIAMOND CONNECTION 85.00 50.00 Coupon Book For Four Car Washes: V.P. AUTO WASH 31.00 15.00 22.40 Dinner for four: PINATA 12.00 2-$10 Certificates on Handmade Ceramice: BALLOON BOUTIQUE 10.00 18" Single Strand Sterling Silver Beads: DIAMOND CONNECTION 39.00 Precious Moments Music Box: THE PALACE 65.00 32.00 Cook n' Look Silverstone Cookware set: HIGHFIELD COTTAGE 132.00 65.00 Child Guidance "Talk N Play": MANHATTAN HOBBIES TOYS 69.99 35.00 Storm Door, Kanal Kor-a-door: WILDCAT EXTERIORS 165.85 80.00

AND MANY MORE ITEMS!!!

OPEN SUNDAYS We are celebrating our Third Anniversary; to show our appreciation for your patronage we are offering 1/2 OFF on all full priced Haircuts and Styling Conveniently located on Northwest Corner Products of KSU Campus - coupon-1/2 OFF any full priced Haircut and style with coupon. Offer good four days only.

January 31, February 1, 2, 3.

A Cut Above

FULL SERVICE SALON

537-3200

537-3200

537-3200

537-3200

Mon.-Thurs. 9-9 Fri. & Sat. 9-5

Sundays 1-5

Shultz says 'no deal' to Beirut kidnappers

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Secretary of State George P. Shultz said Thursday there are "strong ties" between Iran and the kidnappers of three Americans in Beirut and he ruled out any deal to win the captives' freedom by dropping prosecution of a Lebanese terrorist suspect.

Shultz said of the shadowy groups claiming responsibility for abducting three Americans and eight other foreigners in Beirut: "It is our basic information that with whatever names may emerge they are to a substantial degree linked together."

"And we also observe some very strong ties to Iran," he add-

Shultz's comments, in a satellite news conference with reporters in Europe, Israel and Japan, supported a White House official who said Wednesday on condition he not be identified that the latest round of kidnappings are the work of a cell within Hezbollah, or Party of God, a militant Moslem group with acknowledged ties to Iran.

Officials had said previously they were not sure who was behind the latest abductions.

Shultz's spokesman, meanwhile, brushed aside a threat by the group holding the three Americans to kill the captives if the United States retaliates with military force.

"We hold all captors, whoever they may be, responsible for the safety and well-being of the hostages," said State Department spokesman Charles E. Redman. "Our position concerning terrorism and hostage-taking is firm. We're not going to negotiate, make concessions, give in to terrorists' demands."

As for whether the administration has decided to retaliate if the hostages are killed, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said There are many options that are certainly available to us, but I would not comment on any of them, particularly that one."

The Pentagon said U.S. naval forces have bolstered their visibility in the Mediterranean Sea and Persian Gulf as a show of support to "our friends in the region."

Chief Pentagon spokesman Robert Sims added that the ship movements are needed to ensure that President Reagan "has all options available to him that he might choose."

Three American instructors at Beirut University College, Alann Steen, Robert Polhill and Jesse Turner were among the captives taken this month after West German authorities arrested Mohammed Ali Hamadi, a Lebanese under indictment in the United States on charges of hijacking a Trans World Airlines jetliner to Beirut in 1985.

During the hijacking, Robert Stethem, a U.S. Navy diver, was killed, and 39 Americans were held hostage for 17 days.

The West German government still has not acted on a U.S. request for Hamadi's extradition and a reporter in London asked Shultz if the United States might consider dropping its demand for Hamadi if such a move could help win the release of the hostages.

The secretary, who has been critical of the administration's hostage negotiating efforts, responded with a sharp, "No."

"Our efforts and request for extradition stands," he said. "I am certain it will continue to stand."

"If somebody is indicted and there is evidence of complicity in a dire crime, the hijacking of an airplane and the murder of one of its occupants and the virtual torture of others, in a civilized society we must follow through and punish such crimes," Shultz said.

Aquino orders prosecution of Filipino troops

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines - President Corazon Aquino on Thursday ordered the prosecution of soldiers and civilians who took part in an attempted coup and said the "gravity of the crime" was not lessened by their peaceful surrender.

The government also said it thwarted an attempt by former President Ferdinand E. Marcos to return to the Philippines from his exile in Hawaii.

One Cabinet minister linked Marcos to the coup plot.

"While we continue to cherish the virtue of compassion, we shall have justice in this case for we must have respect for the law," Aquino said, a few hours after about 250 rebellious troops and civilians surrendered at a downtown television station.

The mutineers were the last holdouts from about 500 rightist soldiers who tried to take over key communications and military installations around Manila on Tuesday. It was the most serious challenge to Aquino's government since she took power last February.

She has faced down other rebellions, the most serious of which was a coup bid last November by soldiers linked to then-Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile. Some of her supporters have criticized what until now has been an apparent willingness to pardon the plotters, saying it could foster mutinous tenden-

Except for the group at the studios of Channel 7, the rebels were quickly neutralized, with one rebel soldier killed and 16 others wounded in a brief battle at an Air Force base adjacent to the Manila airport.

"The gravity of the offense is not lightened and the damage inflicted on persons and property is not diminished by the perpetrators' change of heart," Aquino said She said she had ordered Defense Minister Rafael Ileto to begin courtmartial proceedings against the the soldiers and instructed Justice Minister Neptali Gonzales to charge the civilians with rebellion before the civil courts.

Trade Minister Jose Concepcion, interviewed from Manila on NBC's "Today" show was asked if he believed Marcos was behind the coup attempt.

"Probably so, because you cannot have three simultaneous attacks in three different places without any master plan," he said.

Dean says research needed on new food ideas

By KARI COMPTON Collegian Reporter

K-State's mission in food processing research is to look at the processes and factors that limit its development, said Walter Woods, dean of the College of Agriculture, at a seminar Thursday.

But Woods said it is not the department's role to make better products. "As we deal with people today, one of the things we are very definitely pressured upon is (that) somehow we ought to come out with a new sandwich or something that will make for an increased demand for some of our agricultural products,"

Woods' seminar,"The Role of a Land-Grant University in Economic Development," was presented to an audience of about 40 in the Union.

Woods said he agreed with increasing the use of agricultural products. However, Wood said the research program must be concerned about the limitations of these products and finding solutions to use the products more effectively. "I'm saying we should do the kind of research that allows somebody else to pick up and develop the final project," he said.

What we ought to have, as a landgrant university, is an aggressive commitment to research," Woods said. "What is seen is a tremendous ripple effect, by attracting companies to that center of activity."

role in a land-grant university's participation in economic development, education also plays a key role, he

Woods said land-grant universities educate people at undergraduate and graduate levels so they have the skills to be competitive in the professional job market.

"The challenge before us is to make sure we develop the talents required for tomorrow, rather than looking at those talents we thought they needed vesterday," Woods said.

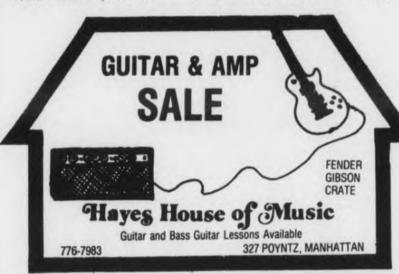

Woods said another responsibility

Although research is an important of a land-grant university important to economic development of the state is providing leaders that will "get the job done.'

Another role of the land-grant university is the transfer of technology, Woods said.

"Somehow, we need to be helping people synthesize information to make it manageable for them," he

"As a land-grant university, we should lead, we should be responsive and we should interact (with other institutions)," Woods said. "We should be an advocate of research and education.'

WORSHIP 11 a.m. SUNDAY DANFORTH CHAPEL

"The Mexican Connection"-The Rio Grande Valley Epiphany: Good News for the Poor HOLY COMMUNION

EVERYONE WELCOME! Sponsored by Lutheran Campus Ministry 1021 Denison

Falsetto's PIZZA

2 Large One-Topping Pizzas $14

2 Med. Two-Topping Pizzas $12.25 Plus a FREE Quart of Pepsi

Buy a 10" Supreme, Receive One FREE!

We Have Expanded to serve you quicker & better.

FREE DELIVERY 539-3830

1127 Moro-Aggieville

MANAGEMENT DEVELOPMENT ANALYSTS AND INTERNS

The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City is seeking qualified candidates with businessrelated majors for positions as full time management development analysts and summer interns.

Qualified candidates should enjoy working in a project-oriented environment and demonstrate good oral and written communications skills, strong analytical and leadership ability, creativity and initiative.

We will be available for campus interviews:

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 24

For more information, please contact your placement office or:

Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City Attention: Personnel 925 Grand Avenue Kansas City, Missouri 64198

SUNDAY SUPPER

Feb. 1

5:30 p.m.

PROGRAM

"The Reality of Aids"

(50¢ donations or free if needed)

1021 Denison Avenue

the building with the two red front doors

Sponsored by CUMENICAL

HRISTIAN

NISTRIES

(816) 881-2463

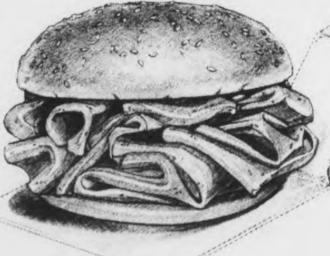

"Your choice: Quarter Pound Cheeseburger or reg. Roast Beef, only

"We make our sandwiches with that good, old-fashioned taste, and now you can get them for a good, old-fashioned price."

Offer good for a limited time.

Offer good at participating Hardee's* Restaurants.

Future has few — albeit unclear — hopes

I've been thinking about the future lately, mainly my own, but also how the world will be changing in the next 50 years. I wonder what will be different and what will be the same. I'm sure if I dug through enough journals and magazines I could find some scientific predictions concerning economics, high technology and nuclear physics, but I'm more concerned with the people, their attitudes and the effect of the future on their lifestyles

I don't like change, at least too much change too fast. I look forward to the future with a hope of reliving the past. I'm not ready for new innovations because I'm still trying to figure out old problems. However, I usually look forward to tomorrow because I'm planning to do what I should have done yesterday.

Am I ready to program a computer when I can't even adjust the picture on my television? Do I want to attempt to carve a pot roast with a laser when I usually pinch myself on a can opener? I hope I will survive in such a world.

New technology usually makes life easier for us, but I have doubts whether society will be able to handle the need for increased technical understanding. What types of jobs will people like me have? People who can't even go through a door without pushing when they should pull?

It scares me to think that life as I know it may be totally different. I have a great many questions concerning the future and a few

Will children still grow up the same, or will laser-tag replace kickball? Will kids still use the pencil sharpener as an excuse to get out of their seat? They might have to make up a new one like, "Teacher, I just coughed up on my keyboard," or "Uh-oh, I think I accidentally started a war."

I believe young students should get experience working on a computer, but I hope it never replaces the puppy. Surely companies won't let shoelaces be replaced by velcro so the next generation grows up not knowing how to tie a knot.

I hate to imagine inflation in the years to come. I'm sure everything will increase at basically the same rate — except my salary and I hope candy bars will still cost enough to keep me from eating them every day.

I think about transportation and can only wonder if we will be using shuttles to shoot us up to a space station or drop us off at work. I think about how some of my friends drive and question if I would trust them with a

Will I need to know how to overhaul a shuttle when I can't operate a dishwasher? Traveling in space would no doubt be incredible, but I have some traveling on this planet I want to do first. Besides, I hate to think about cleaning a spaceship. I bet the wax job would take all weekend.

The clothes I wear are important to me, thus I would like clothes in the future to be made more of cotton, wool or leather, and less of polyester and plastic. It would be nice if we could afford to buy them, too, but I doubt that will change.

The attitudes of people have changed a great deal in this century as America moved into the cities. I sincerely hope the future holds a civilization that still uses words like "please" and "thank you." I hope men will still open doors for ladies and "yes, sir" will not fade out of our vocabulary. With a lot of luck we will discover cures for cancer and AIDS. Maybe we can even find a way to make medical bills reasonable. Hopefully people won't sue each other so much because we won't give each other so many reasons to.

If I had a time machine, it would be to the past that I would travel, not the future. I would go back to a time when wilderness could still be found and there was still something wild to live there. A time our grandparents knew and a time we can still see in their eyes and in their hands. Hands that chopped wood, built homes and baked

I want to go to a period in history when men were not afraid to fight for their country. A time when men ran to enlist instead of hide, even if they thought the cause was wrong. Will the future hold a generation of young people who stand behind their leaders instead of electing them and deserting them when the situation gets tough?

I'm sure people who lived 60 years ago would kill to live in the luxurious society of today. I bet they would be overwhelmed with the ease in which we can travel from place to place or cook a meal. However, with our luxury we created problems. We created acid rain, nuclear fallout and drug problems in extreme proportions.

Is our comfortable way of life worth the problems? I don't believe it is, but everyone has to make that decision. Unfortunately, we can't go back in time. We can pretend by spending a week in the mountains, but we can't escape reality. Thus, we either try to take care of the problems or let the problems take care of us.

Like a historian, it's the past I'm searching for. I'm looking for a time when I won't have to deal with problems I can't see or understand. I look for that time in books, pictures, museums and people. I can never find it, not really. I can only imagine and dream that I have. This is what my future holds - the nine USG Acoustical Products nant women for that matter. plants in eight states has left cigarette-using employees — not to mention the Tobacco Institute smoking mad.

Company's regulation smacks of Big Brother

The company told employees on Jan. 21 that they would have to kick the habit — on the job and at home - or punt their jobs. The measure, however, will not apply to workers at USG's corporate offices in Chicago. Between 1,500 and 2,000 workers will have to take lung tests to make sure they are not lighting up.

"Did I wake up in the Soviet Union this morning?" one worker asked after learning of the measure. Considering USG's actions, such a question is not unwarranted.

The company has, however, found it in its hollow heart to sponsor a six- to eight-week stop smoking clinic for employees, followed by a one-week grace period for those having a tougher time quitting.

plemented the plan for health reasons, maintaining smokers

A move by the management of have more sick days. So do preg-

Although opponents are questioning the legality of the measure, the company may have a case by the book.

Before company ministrators attempt similar actions, however, they should first realize the ramifications. Firms which have these kinds of restrictions could ultimately be faced with a severe shortage of valuable employees. Even nonsmokers should ask if they really want to work for an employer who can control their private

One probably wouldn't read certain material at work, yet feel comfortable doing so at home. It is a good thing some employers haven't figured out a test to determine if an employee is reading potentially psychologically damaging literature.

A man's home used to be his USG officials said they im- castle. Now, some employers want to make it Big Brother's branch office.

... OF COURSE IN AN HOUR WE'LL BE HUNGRY AGAIN DON'T GO AWAY HUNGRY, UZRIAL PRES SAN JUST GO AWAY

Emotional immaturity

Definition, causes are unclear

As an alleged mature person, I have difficulty with people around me who exhibit signs of immaturity. I suppose it's a personal quirk since the word "immature" isn't defined in terms of emotional development.

Webster's New World Dictionary defines "immature" as "not completely grown or developed; not finished or perfected; incomplete." Nothing is included in the definition concerning characteristics of a supposed immature human being. The only reference is in terms of age - an immature human is younger and a mature individual is older.

So from the dictionary definition, we all are immature in one way or another. My question is, how do we define an immature individual who may be older? Am I more mature at 30 than my fellow students at the ages of 20-23? Or does the 10- to sevenyear span of time make a difference in maturity level?

I am inclined, right now anyway, to believe age does make a difference in the level of maturity. Undoubtedly this view is due to my own prejudices but it's my opinion nevertheless

The differences in the perception of the world around us is a considerable part of maturity. A more mature student would (should?) perceive the world in one manner - probably as an integrated whole of various parts - while an immature person would perceive the world in fragments.

We each view those around us differently. My particular view is filled with a fair amount of tolerance (even in respect to immaturity) but those around me sometimes seem to be extremely intolerant of others. And I do find my tolerance level waning at times, depending on the circumstances.

Priorities also seem to indicate the level of maturity. Either priorities are non-existent or as a friend reminded me recently, the priorities may be too stringent. She was referring to younger members of her class in law school. They all seemed to be too serious about school and forgot the necessity of relaxation and stress management.

I'm not quite sure how I define an im-what I perceive to be immature behavior.

mature person. It varies as to the aspect of a person's personality I consider to be immature. Even when it pertains to myself.

For instance, I consider myself immature when it comes to social situations. In the area of meeting new people in new situations, I am very inhibited and immature. My development of social skills is sadly lacking. Somewhere along the way, I missed the lessons on small talk and social graces. I never know what to say to someone I've never meet - especially in a social (read party) atmosphere and particularly with members of the opposite sex. On the other hand, I consider myself very mature in terms of responsibility and work situations. I handle stress well, I am organized most of the time, I am able to relate to people on various (other than social) levels, and I have the ability to communicate to a variety of people through a variety of means. But those points still may not define a mature person. Does a mature person think of others first? Does a mature person tolerate another's views and idiosyncrasies? Does a mature person put the past behind and concentrate on the present? Does a mature person focus on the world as a whole, another person as an individual? Does a mature person weigh what is about to be said before saying it? Does the behavior of members of a group running through a neighborhood after midnight, yelling at the top of their lungs, constitute immaturity? What about the fraternity across the street which insists on its members waking the entire neighborhood at 6 a.m. by yelling and beating on pots and pans? Are these incidents signs of immaturity or bad manners? My basic problem with those around me is

Those who gripe about things they don't have control over, never had control over and never should have had control over irritate me. I believe in letting things go and working from the moment. What is past is past. What is important is what comes now and what will happen in the future.

If that makes me a mature individual, fine. If it indicates my immaturity or the immaturity of those around me, then that's the way it is.

So, you ask, what is my point?

Other than indicating to those around me that I consider some of them immature, I wanted to point out the abstractness of the term "maturity."

Maturity, like beauty, is in the eye of the beholder. There are undoubtedly people who consider me immature - I even consider myself immature at times. I tend to open my mouth on occasion when I should keep it shut. You would not believe some of the statements I've made and then wished I could retract.

What is important is that we behave with tolerance and understanding. All of us, no matter the age and level of experience, are immature in one respect or another.

It's something I need to remember when my nerves start to fray because of the complaining and behavior of people I associate with. It is also something I had not come to grips with until I started writing this column.

My perceptions of immaturity have not changed. I still consider those around me to be immature in some respects but I have to remind myself that I was once at that stage. And I am still at a level which some people would consider to be a stage of immaturity.

I have to remember that people change from day to day. We each grow, learn and experience things every minute. We change levels of maturity as the growth process continues. We are not the people we were yesterday or will be tomorrow. And that change makes the definition and perception of maturity or immaturity irrelevant.

Monetary investments keep students in state

University and state officials are taking important steps to reaffirm the state's commitment to higher education as an investment in the future.

University Scholarship Day, held Thursday, brought about 150 of Kansas' top high school students to K-State to be awarded scholarships. University President Jon Wefald said 32 of the state's National Merit Scholars are "pretty well committed" to accepting $2,000 scholarships from the University.

Efforts to reverse the state "brain drain" have also been proposed by Gov. Mike Hayden. In his State of the State address Jan. 23, Hayden mentioned a financial aid program which would forgive up to $4,000 in student loans for each year the recipient works in the state after graduation. The proposal would be invaluable in the retention of graduates.

If K-State's efforts to maintain standards that will provide these students with a well-rounded, quality education match the efforts being made to attract them, the University will be set for better times ahead.

Kansas legislators are realizing that one of the best resources this state has is its young people and that it can't afford to lose them. Offering them a monetary incentive for staying is a step in the right direction.

If the state economy is prepared to offer graduates competitive job opportunities as well, these efforts will put a stopper in the brain drain. And such a stopper will significantly increase the state's competiveness.

Kansas

EDITOR Jonie Trued MANAGING EDITOR Sue Dawson NEWS EDITOR Erin Eicher

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Deron Johnson PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER Sheila Hutinett

EDITORIAL BOARD: Susan Baird, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Judy Goldberg, Ron Honig, Pat Hund, Deron Johnson, Judy Lundstrom, Scott Miller, Andy Nelson, Patti Paxson, Julie Reynolds, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 920) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Rally 'round Ron

Should President Reagan be impeached? According to the laws which govern this land, yes.

But let's be real for a minute. This is America, and I'm an American. Thus, I think not (pun intended). After all, the president is the major authority figure of America, the man in charge, our leader.

If one is cruel to oneself and is realistic, one knows that major authority figures are often no more than figures. They may not be reasonable, nor knowledgeable, nor competent - but so what? They're still our leaders.

To impeach President Reagan would deal too grand a blow to the American fairy tale we grew up believing in about the president being perfect and his thus being the representative figure of American perfection in general as compared with all those backward foreigners we keep having to bail out of the wars they start.

So please, let's "rally 'round Ron," as the president's streamline conservative faithfuls are urging. If he goes down, we all go down. America has had a record of perfection up to now. Let's not spoil it.

Kale Baldock senior in modern languages

Cavalier attitude

Re: Mark Houston's letter "Just stay out of it" in the Jan. 23 Collegian. Houston's cavalier attitude toward defenseless people would be astounding if it were not so common. It is astounding anyway.

Why is an unborn child "a growth of cells" and a child after birth not? Or should we assume that Houston is also "a growth of cells" that has not yet been removed? Can a few hours or days of maturity make that much difference? Maybe Houston himself is not yet fully mature.

Or is it that the unborn child takes nutrition

State College, where his sister went to school, added: "I don't think they should go ahead and do anything else

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has put the space program on hold and has said no ordinary citizen would be on any of the next five shuttle flights and perhaps not on any of the first 20, said Edward Campion, a spokesman

"They're not going to put a civilians on until we are comfortable with the design changes that have

The astronauts were told a risk was involved in space flight, said

for the moment, if ever.'

in Washington.

been made," he said.

and oxygen directly into his or her bloodstream instead of eating and breathing? Then we should not waste money on intravenous feeding and heart-lung machines because the application of these technologies turns people into a "growth of cells" that can be removed at the whim of the benefactor.

Most astounding is that Houston's major is listed as "natural resource management." Does he care more about trees and animals than people? Children are a natural resource; killing them is what is artificial.

No, I am directly involved. All people are responsible for safeguarding the rights of the handicapped, the sick, the blacks, the Jews, the very young. If Houston saw some whites beating a black person or a woman being raped or a child being abused by his parent, would he decide he was "not directly involved...(and) just butt out" or would he do the humane thing and come to the rescue?

If Houston wants to leave the decision to just the people involved, he should at least consider the other person. That "growth of cells" certainly has an opinion in the question of whether he or she lives or dies. We have clinical evidence that unborn children are not suicidal; they prefer to come out when they are ready.

It looks to me like Mark Houston needs a little religion in his soul. His mind is so open his brains have fallen out.

Tom Pittman assistant professor of computer science

Free expression

I am in my fourth year as a student at K-State, and in those four years I have never had occasion to voice my opinion - positively or negatively - in a letter. A problem, though, has come to my attention which I find upsetting.

Recently I discovered that according to Student Governing Association rules, only recognized campus organizations may post fliers or advertisements on campus. To me, this seems unfair. We, as students, support this University through our tuition and fee payments, and I think it is only right that the kiosks on campus be available to the entire student population.

I am more than willing to consent that the fliers be approved for tact or taste, but they should not be restricted completely. The same policy should be maintained for residence halls as well. A university should be an open forum in which students can exchange information, and as long as this University is student-supported in any way it should not be allowed to censor the free expression of its benefactors.

Tom Lawrence senior in restaurant management

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Teacher's brother says NASA exploits citizens

By The Associated Press

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. - Christa McAuliffe's brother accused NASA on Thursday of exploiting his sister for the sake of publicity and called on the government to abandon for now programs to put everyday people into space.

"They shouldn't be using the public for something that's mainly for the government," said Christopher Corrigan, whose sister was chosen to be the first private citizen in space.

Corrigan also said he feels his sister was used by the space program "because she thought it was wei

Tyı

wor

for more safe than it was ! His comme almost com relatives schooltea with six shuttle C after lifto Corriga ments newspape for his s parents s

They hav the acc daughter He saic morale o way the said he st cy took a I think it publicity ordinary space sor if NASA issues tha plosion a focus tur military But C compute

Corriga

ca Do

Dip

We're A Full Line Brazier Dairy Queen now!!

Serving:

 Brazier Burgers Cheese Burgers

Pork Fritters

Hot dogs

Dairu Oueen

• Chili Dogs

· BBQ Beef

Aggieville, Manhattan 1015 N. 3rd Manhattan

We at Hair Westloop are happy to announce that Marcia Khaledi has joined our staff. Marcia is formerly of Crimpers and invites both regular and new customers to call her for an appointment.

)spec-

O

A Viewer's Guide to Leisure Arts - A Weekly Feature of the Collegian

Friday, Jan. 30, 1987

Live from London

See Page 4

Rally 'round Ron

Editor.

Should President Reagan be impeached? According to the laws which govern this

But let's be real for a minute. This is America, and I'm an American. Thus, I think not (pun intended). After all, the president is the major authority figure of America, the man in charge, our leader.

If one is cruel to oneself and is realistic, one knows that major authority figures are often no more than figures. They may not be reasonable, nor knowledgeable, nor competent — but so what? They're still our leaders.

To impeach President Reagan would deal too grand a blow to the American fairy tale we grew up believing in about the president being perfect and his thus being the representative figure of American perfection in general as compared with all those backward foreigners we keep having to bail out of the wars they start.

So please, let's "rally round Ron," as the president's streamline conservative faithfuls are urging. If he goes down, we all go down. America has had a record of perfection up to now. Let's not spoil it.

Kale Baldock senior in modern languages

Cavalier attitude

Re: Mark Houston's letter "Just stay out of it" in the Jan. 23 Collegian. Houston's cavalier attitude toward defenseless people would be astounding if it were not so common. It is astounding anyway.

Why is an unborn child "a growth of cells" and a child after birth not? Or should we assume that Houston is also "a growth of cells" that has not yet been removed? Can a few hours or days of maturity make that much difference? Maybe Houston himself is not yet fully mature.

Or is it that the unborn child takes nutrition

and oxygen directly into his or her bloodstream instead of eating and breathing? Then we should not waste money on intravenous feeding and heart-lung machines because the application of these technologies turns people into a "growth of cells" that can be removed at the whim of the benefactor.

Most astounding is that Houston's major is listed as "natural resource management." Does he care more about trees and animals than people? Children are a natural resource; killing them is what is artificial.

No, I am directly involved. All people are responsible for safeguarding the rights of the handicapped, the sick, the blacks, the Jews, the very young. If Houston saw some whites beating a black person or a woman being raped or a child being abused by his parent, would he decide he was "not directly involved...(and) just butt out" or would he do the humane thing and come to the rescue?

If Houston wants to leave the decision to just the people involved, he should at least consider the other person. That "growth of cells" certainly has an opinion in the question of whether he or she lives or dies. We have clinical evidence that unborn children are not suicidal; they prefer to come out when they are ready.

It looks to me like Mark Houston needs a little religion in his soul. His mind is so open his brains have fallen out.

Tom Pittman

assistant professor of computer science

Free expression

Editor,

I am in my fourth year as a student at K-State, and in those four years I have never had occasion to voice my opinion - positively or negatively - in a letter. A problem, though, has come to my attention which I find upsetting.

Recently I discovered that according to Student Governing Association rules, only recognized campus organizations may post fliers or advertisements on campus. To me, this seems unfair. We, as students, support this University through our tuition and fee payments, and I think it is only right that the kiosks on campus be available to the entire student population.

HBO

SHOW

I am more than willing to consent that the fliers be approved for tact or taste, but they should not be restricted completely. The same policy should be maintained for residence halls as well. A university should be an open forum in which students can exchange information, and as long as this University is student-supported in any way it should not be allowed to censor the free expression of its benefactors

Tom Lawrence senior in restaurant management

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Teacher's brother says NASA exploits citizens

By The Associated Press

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. - Christa McAuliffe's brother accused NASA on Thursday of exploiting his sister for the sake of publicity and called on the government to abandon for now programs to put everyday people into space. "They shouldn't be using the public for something that's mainly for the government," said Christopher Corrigan, whose sister was chosen to be the first private citizen in space.

Corrigan also said he feels his sister was used by the space program "because she thought it was more safe then it was almost con relatives

His comme

schooltea

with six shuttle C

after lifto

ments

newspape

for his s

parents s

They hav

the acc

daughter morale o

way the

said he st cy took a

I think it

publicity Corrigan Corrige ordinary space sor if NASA issues tha plosion a focus tur

and awa

military;

compute

ministrat

Rol

car Do

· Chi

· Dip

Sa

Po

reli

But Co

He saic

Corriga

State College, where his sister went to school, added: "I don't think they should go ahead and do anything else for the moment, if ever.'

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has put the space program on hold and has said no ordinary citizen would be on any of the next five shuttle flights and perhaps not on any of the first 20, said Edward Campion, a spokesman in Washington.

"They're not going to put a civilians on until we are comfortable with the design changes that have been made," he said. The astronauts were told a risk

We're A Full Line Brazier Dairy Queen now!!

Serving:

- Brazier Burgers
- Cheese Burgers Pork Fritters
- · Chili Dogs
- Chicken Breast Sandwich And Much More!

 BBQ Beef Hot dogs

Dairy

Oueen

12th & Moro 1015 N. 3rd

We at Hair Westloop are happy to announce that Marcia Khaledi has joined our staff. Marcia is formerly of Crimpers and invites both regular and new customers to call her for an appointment.

MAX

"Richard Pryor

"Frank And I"

"Code Of Silence"

MAX

"Head Office"

Beyond The

America's Cup

Race One

ESPN

Rental' Movie:

Movie: "Thief Of

Hearts'

SHOW

Don Johnson's Heartbeat

Movie: "Iron Eagle

HBO

SuperSonics at Warriors

Night Tracks -

Power Play Night Tracks

WTBS

'The Bees'

WGN

was involved in space flight, said

Friday, January 30, 1987

Television Index Manhattan Cable KSNT (NBC) WIBW (CBS) KLDH (ABC) KSHB (IND) KTWU (PBS) WGN (IND) WTBS (IND) Premium cable: HBO, Showtime, CINEMAX, ESPN Additional cable channels not listed in guide: Manhattan cable channels 4 (NBC), 5 (CBS) and 9 (ABC) correspond to channels 7, 3 and 2, respectively.

Fntertainment

EDITOR Jonie Trued ARTS EDITOR Sarah Kessinger PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER Sheila Hutinett

On Our Cove

Five British actors, Trevo ter, George Raistrick, Berger, Tom Mannion and Alexander, from various th companies in London arriv campus this week to share t and tastes in literary cl through acting workshops, performances, lectures and sessions. See Page 4.

> Cover Photo by Brad Fanshier

FRIDAY, JANUARY 30, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	4SHB	OD C	WGN	WIDS	ПВО	011011	Wirox
7:00	Today	CBS AM News Morning	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Tom And Jerry	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "You Light Up	Movie Cont'd Suzy's War	Movie Show	Business SportsCent
8:00		Program	"	Defenders Brady Bunch	Sesame Street	Heathcliff	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	My Life" Movie:	Soldier's Home	Movie: "Outlaw	College Basketball
9:30	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance	Mork & Mindy Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Falcon Crest	Movie: "Johnny	"The Flamingo Kid"	Movie: "Any Number	Blues"	washington at UCLA
10:30		Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Webster	Mary Tyler Moore	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Hillbillies Odd Couple	Belinda"	Flashback	Can Play"	Movie: "That's	SpeedWeek SportsLook
11:00	Password	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched Soap	Ecology Ecology	H's Heroes Twilight Zone	Perry Mason	Movie: "Mommie	Movie: "Summer	Dancing!"	Aerobics Getting Fit
	News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke Hillbillies	Sesame Street	News	Centennial	Dearest"	Rental" Movie:	Movie: "Turk 1821"	College Basketball
1:00	Lives	Turns Capitol	One Life To	For Daddy My 3 Sons	Mystery!	Dick Van Dyke Andy Griffith	"	Movie:	"Dune"	. "	Duke at Georgia Tec
2:00		Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Kitchen Painting	Beaver Bugs Bunny	Tom & Jerry And Friends	"Iron Eagle"		Movie: "She Wore A	Drag Racing Bodybuildin
3:30		Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurfs	We're Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Survival	Movie: "Ape And	Yellow Ribbon"	Men's Com
4:00	Diff Strokes	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flintstones Jetsons	Square 1 TV 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Safe At Home	Movie:	Super-Ape" Suzy's War	Movie Show	Waterskiing
5:30		News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Facts Of Life Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life WKRP	Hillbillies Andy Griffith	"Shaker Run"	Movie: "Lullaby Of	Movie: "On The Right	SportsLook SpeedWeek
6:00	News	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Jeffersons	Sanford Honeymooners	Inside The NFL	Broadway"	Track"	SportsCente America's
7:00		Scarecrow And Mrs. King	Webster Mr. Belvedere	Barnaby Jones	Wash. Week Wall St. Wk.	Movie: "The Train	Movie: "Escape From	Movie: "Nightmare On	Brothers Shandling	Movie: "Outlaw	Cup Top Rank
7 .00		This interitant			Francisco	Oakhass"	Earl Brayo"	Elm Street"	Movie:	Blues"	Boxing

McLaughli

Faces Japan Market

KTWU

KSHB

Solid Gold

JANUARY 31, 1987

M"A"S"H

700 Club

Ask Dr. Ruth Nightline

Falcon Crest

9:00 Crime Story

10:00 News Tonight Show

1 1:00 MTV Video

KSNT

		a	B	99	a	•
	7:00	Kissyfur Gummi Bears	B'stain Bears Wildfire	Wuzzles Care Bears	Tom And Jerry Kideo TV	Culture Algebra	Farm Report World Tom.	Wrestling	Movie: "Murphy's	Movie: "Crisis"	Movie Cont'd Movie:	SpeedWeek Golf
	8:00		Muppet Babies	Flintstone Kids	"	Wild Palette Hometime	Charlando Business	National Geographic	Romance"	:	"Gotcha!"	In The PGA Outdoors
	9:30	"	Pee-wee Teen Wolf	Ghostbusters Pd. Puppies	Bugs Bunny And Porky Pig	S. Previews Old House	People Wild Kingdom	Explorer	Inside The NFL	Movie: "Cattle King"	A Gospel	Auto Racing
	10:30	Footur	Galaxy High Circus	Bugs Bunny New Ewoks	Puttin' On	Motorweek Animals	In-Fisherman	Movie: "The Time	Movie: "The	Movie:	Session Movie	Fishing Outdoors
	4 4:00	Main Street	Hulk Hogan	Weekend Health Show	Lifestyles	Painting Vict. Garden	Superman Movie:	Machine"	Longshot" Movie	"Firstborn"	11.	SpoCtr. Tractor Pull
	12:30	J. Houston College	College Basketball	Bandstand Rifleman	Lost in Space	Sesame Street	"The Fighting Kentuckian"	Movie:	"	Movie:	Movie: "Head Office"	LPGA Golf Mazda
	1:00	Okla. at NC	lowa at Michigan	Dukes Of Hazzard	Incredible Hulk	New Literacy New Literacy	Movie:	"Harper Valley PTA"	Movie: "Eddie And	"Beyond The Poseidon	Romances	Classic Third Round
	0:00	State College Basketball	College Basketball	PBA Bowling Los Angeles	Bionic Woman	Write Course Write Course	"Tarzan's Peril"	Auto Racing	The Cruisers"	Adventure" Shirley	Movie: "Beyond The	America's Cup
Ę	3:00	Kansas at	Syracuse at	Open Wide World Of	Battlestar Galactica	Photovision Photovision	Soul Train	Angler	Welcome Movie:	MacLaine	Poseidon Adventure"	College Basketball
	A:00	Bob Uecker	PGA Golf	Sports	Buck Rogers	Kansas Ecology	Good Times It's A Living	R. Martin O. Wilson	"Critters"	Robin Hood	Movie: "Sweet	Virginia at Clemson
	4:30 5:00	Motor Sports Wheel Fortune	Own Backyard CBS News	ABC News Illustrated	Matt Houston	GED GED	Charles Big Family	Wrestling	Movie: "Murphy's	"National Lampoon's	Dreams"	SpeedWeek Scholastic
h	5:30 6:30	NBC News Hee Haw	Mama's Family Country Music	Buddies 9 To 5	Throb Big Family	All Creatures	Country At The Movies	"	Romance"	European Vacation"	A Gospel Session	SpoCtr. Fishin' Hole
er	7:00	Facts Of Life	Outlaws	Sidekicks S. Hammer	Lifestyles	WndrWks.	College Basketball	Movie: "Heaven With	Movie: "The Clan Of	Movie: "Firstborn"	Movie: "Gotcha!"	CBA"
ts .	A:00	Storyteller Golden Girls	Movie: "The Room	Ohara	Movie: "Destry Rides	Austin City Limits	DePaul at LaSalle	A Gun"	The Cave Bear"			Basketball All-Star
es e	9:00	Today At 35	Upstairs"	Spenser: For	Again"	Ctry. Express Bobby Jones	News	Motorweek	Movie: "Apology"	Just For Laughs	Movie: "Best	Game
у	40:00	News	News Solid Gold	News Movie:	M.T. Moore Movie:	Anna Karenina	Twilight Zone Movie:	Night Tracks: Chartbusters	Movie:	Movie: "Scarred"	Revenge" Movie:	Cup SportsCenter
	10:30	Siskel & Ebert	3010 3010	MOTIO.	morns.	Medica	UThe	Night Tracks	"The Park is		"Head Office"	Wrestling

Magnificer

Night Tracks

COUPON EXPIRES: March 15, 1987

12:30

four meals for only $6. So come to your nearest Kentucky Fried Chicken store and save on America's favorite fried chicken.

You can enjoy

or Extra CrispyTM

FOR ONE COMPLETE 2-PIECE PACK

LOTS TO LOVE

40%-70% OFF

Sizes 161/2-321/2, 30-52

1312 Westloop

Mon.-Sat. 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

spec-

Rally 'round Ron

Should President Reagan be impeached? According to the laws which govern this

But let's be real for a minute. This is America, and I'm an American. Thus, I think not (pun intended). After all, the president is the major authority figure of America, the man in charge, our leader.

If one is cruel to oneself and is realistic, one knows that major authority figures are often no more than figures. They may not be reasonable, nor knowledgeable, nor competent — but so what? They're still our leaders.

To impeach President Reagan would deal too grand a blow to the American fairy tale we grew up believing in about the president being perfect and his thus being the representative figure of American perfection general as compared with all those backward foreigners we keep having to bail out of the wars they start.

So please, let's "rally 'round Ron," as the president's streamline conservative faithfuls are urging. If he goes down, we all go down. America has had a record of perfection up to now. Let's not spoil it.

Kale Baldock senior in modern languages

Cavalier attitude

Re: Mark Houston's letter "Just stay out of it" in the Jan. 23 Collegian. Houston's cavalier attitude toward defenseless people would be astounding if it were not so common. It is astounding anyway.

Why is an unborn child "a growth of cells" and a child after birth not? Or should we assume that Houston is also "a growth of cells" that has not yet been removed? Can a few hours or days of maturity make that much difference? Maybe Houston himself is not yet fully mature.

Or is it that the unborn child takes nutrition

and oxygen directly into his or her bloodstream instead of eating and breathing? Then we should not waste money on intravenous feeding and heart-lung machines because the application of these technologies turns people into a "growth of cells" that can be removed at the whim of the benefactor.

Most astounding is that Houston's major is listed as "natural resource management." Does he care more about trees and animals than people? Children are a natural resource; killing them is what is artificial.

No, I am directly involved. All people are responsible for safeguarding the rights of the handicapped, the sick, the blacks, the Jews, the very young. If Houston saw some whites beating a black person or a woman being raped or a child being abused by his parent, would he decide he was "not directly involved...(and) just butt out" or would he do the humane thing and come to the rescue?

If Houston wants to leave the decision to just the people involved, he should at least consider the other person. That "growth of cells" certainly has an opinion in the question of whether he or she lives or dies. We have clinical evidence that unborn children are not suicidal; they prefer to come out when they are ready.

It looks to me like Mark Houston needs a little religion in his soul. His mind is so open his brains have fallen out.

Tom Pittman assistant professor of computer science

Free expression

And Much

More!

I am in my fourth year as a student at K-State, and in those four years I have never had occasion to voice my opinion - positively or negatively - in a letter. A problem, though, has come to my attention which I find upsetting.

Recently I discovered that according to Student Governing Association rules, only recognized campus organizations may post fliers or advertisements on campus. To me, this seems unfair. We, as students, support this University through our tuition and fee payments, and I think it is only right that the kiosks on campus be available to the entire student population.

I am more than willing to consent that the fliers be approved for tact or taste, but they should not be restricted completely. The same policy should be maintained for residence halls as well. A university should be an open forum in which students can exchange information, and as long as this University is student-supported in any way it should not be allowed to censor the free expression of its benefactors.

> Tom Lawrence senior in restaurant management

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Teacher's brother says NASA exploits citizens

By The Associated Press

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. - Christa McAuliffe's brother accused NASA on Thursday of exploiting his sister for the sake of publicity and called on the government to abandon for now programs to put everyday people into space.

"They shouldn't be using the public for something that's mainly for the government," said Christopher Corrigan, whose sister was chosen to be the first private citizen in space.

Corrigan also said he feels his sister was used by the space program "because she thought it was more safe then it was

We

Fr

W€

went

Tyrii

wort

forth

Te

To

Ca Th

Shak

char

lifeti

ed tr

made cent

Shak

imm

tatio

Berg Briti

Thea

Unit are knov

they

Rais

Ten

toni are play

peo.

othe

ing,

in a mer

univ

mai

Ro car

Da

Che

rell

Sa

Po

· Dips

Th

Br

Mà

His comme almost com

relatives

schooltea

with six shuttle C after lifto

Corriga

ments

newspape

for his s

parents s

They hav

the acc

daughter morale o

way the

said he st

cy took a

I think it

publicity

Corrigan

ordinary

space sor

if NASA

issues tha plosion a focus tur

and awa

military;

compute

ministrat

But C

Corrige

He saic

State College, where his sister went to school, added: "I don't think they should go ahead and do anything else for the moment, if ever.'

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has put the space program on hold and has said no ordinary citizen would be on any of the next five shuttle flights and perhaps not on any of the first 20, said Edward Campion, a spokesman in Washington.

"They're not going to put a civilians on until we are comfortable with the design changes that have been made," he said. The astronauts were told a risk was involved in space flight, said

We're A Full Line Brazier Dairy Queen now!!

Serving:

Brazier Burgers

 Cheese Burgers Pork Fritters

· Chicken Breast Sandwich · Chili Dogs

Dairy

Oueen

 BBQ Beef Hot dogs

12th & Moro Aggieville, Manhattan 1015 N. 3rd

Reg. U.S. Pat. Off., Am. D.Q. Corp. Copyright 1974, Am. D.Q. Corp.

We at Hair Westloop are happy to announce that Marcia Khaledi has joined our staff. Marcia is formerly of Crimpers and invites both regular and new customers to call her for an appointment.

en a hard hand

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB (3)	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	J. Kennedy	Jerry Falwell	Jimmy Swaggart	Superfriends Superfriends	Culture Algebra	R. Schuller Heritage	Tom & Jerry And Friends	Movie Cont'd Fraggle Rock	Valen.'s Day Movie:	"Hanky Panky" Cont'd	SportsCente Waterskiing
8:00	L. Lundstrom Robert	Discovery Truth	Kenneth Copeland	Wrestling	Sesame Street	Sunday Mass Porky Pig	Cont'd Andy Griffith	Movie: "Out Of	"Teacher, Teacher"	Movie: "High Anxiety"	Fishin' Hole
9:00	Schuller Jimmy	Oral Roberts Larry Jones	It Is Written David Brinkley	Wild, Wild West	Mister Rogers Special	Bugs Bunny Jem	Good News Movie:	Africa"	Movie: "The Best Of	Movie:	 Scholastic
10:00	Swaggart Meet Press	Sunday Morning	Abb. & Cost.	Maverick	Sesame Street	Cisco Kid Lone Ranger	"Firecreek"	*	Times"	"Real Genius"	SportsCente Sunday
11:30	World Tom. Larry Brown	Face Nation	Wrestling	Star Trek	Perkins Family OWL / TV	Rawhide		Movie: "Purple Rose	Paper Chase	Movie:	SpoCtr. 1982 Final 4
12:30	Forgotten Children	NBA Basketball	Fame	Movie: "Tarzan's New	Wash. Week Wall St. Wk.	Movie: "Hound Of The	Movie: "Dakota"	Of Cairo" Loser Take All	Movie: "Kiss Me	"Xanadu"	LPGA Golf Mazda
1:00	College Basketball	Rockets at Hawks	College Basketball	York Adventure"	Money World Computer	Baskervilles" Movie:	"	Movie: "Vanishing	Stupid"	Newton-John	Classic Final Round
2:00	Kansas State at Missouri	PGA Golf	UNLV at Auburn	Movie: "The	Kansas Literature	"The Girl Most Likely"	Auto Racing	Wilderness" Movie:	Movie:	Movie: "The Fox"	MISL Socce Wings at
3:00	College Basketball	AT&T Pebble Beach	Wide World Of Sports	Old-Fashioned Way"	Firing Line	Movie:	Movie: "Man From The	"Night Of The Comet"	"J. Edgar Hoover"	"	Steamers
4:00	Okla. St. at Neb.	Classic	AFC-NFC Pro Bowl	Movie: "Little Men"	Communidad Espanol	"Matilda"	Alamo" Wrestling	Fraggle Rock	Movie:	Movie: "Ladyhawke"	America's Cup
5:30	Motor Sports NBC News	CBS News News			Heritage	Puttin' On	New Beaver	Movie:	"Mommie Dearest"	"	World Cup Skiing
6:00	Our House	60 Minutes	Movie: "You Ruined	Solid Gold	Wild America Nature Profiles	Fame	Movie: "Billy The Kid"	"A Shining Season"	"	Movie: "My Science	SpoCtr. NHL Hockey
7:00	Movie: "LBJ: The	Murder, She Wrote	My Life"	New Gidget It's A Living	Nature	Lifestyles		Movie: "Out Of	Movie: "The Best Of	Project"	Boston Bruins at Nev
8:00	Early Years"	Designing Women	Movie: "The Man With	Ted Knight Check It Out!	Masterpiece Theatre	What They Want	National Geographic	Africa"	Times"	Movie: "Real Genius"	York Rangers
9:00	"	Hard Copy	The Golden Gun"	Tales Write Songs	Great Performances	News	Explorer		Movie: "Nighthawks"	"	Ski World
10:30	News Throb	News High Q	News	Mama's Family Movie:	TV Classics	Tales Lou Grant	Sports Page Jerry Falwell	Movie: "Fortress"		Movie: "Jagged	America's Cup
11:30	Lon Kruger Community	Big Family Today's	Basketball Mannix	"The Pope Of Greenwich	Japan Tony Brown	Charles	J. Ankerberg	Paul	Movie: "Stick"	Edge;"	Live coverage from
12:30	Gene Scott	Business	Fame	Village"		At The Movies Fame	Jimmy Swaggart	Rodriguez Movie	"	"Holcroft Covenant"	Australia

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	Today	CBS AM News Morning	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Tom And Jerry	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Roller	Movie: "Just The Way	Movie Cont'd "Where Do We	Business SportsCenter
8:00		Program	n n	Defenders Brady Bunch	Sesame Street	Heathcliff	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	Boogle"	You Are"	Go From Here?"	LPGA Golf Mazda
9:00	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance	Mork & Mindy Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Falcon Crest	"Where Were You When The	Movie: "Better Off	Movie: "The Angel	Movie: "Summer Of	Classic Third Round
10:00	Jeopardy Scrabble	Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Webster	Mary Tyler Moore	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Hillbillies Odd Couple	Lights Went Out?"	Dead"	Wore Red"	'42"	Golf SportsLook
11:00	Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched Soap	Literature Algebra	H's Heroes Twilight Zone	Perry Mason	Movie: "Casey's	The Golden Honeymoon	Movie: "Diane"	Aerobics Getting Fit
12:30	News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke Hillbillies	Sesame Street	News	Centennial	Shadow"	Movie: "Out Of	"	NHL Hockey Boston
1:00	Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	For Daddy My 3 Sons	Nature	Dick Van Dyke Andy Griffith	"	Movie: "Mommie	Africa"	Movie: "Friendships.	Bruins at New York Ranger
2:00	Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Nature Profiles McLaughlin	Beaver Bugs Bunny	Tom & Jerry And Friends	Dearest"		Secrets and Lies"	" "
3:00	Happy Days	Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurfs	We're Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Blunders	J.'s Journey Winkler Meets	Movie: "Savage	America's Cup
4:00	Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flintstones Jetsons	Square 1 TV 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Rocky Road	Family Of Strangers	Shakespeare Movie:	Harvest" The Movies	Skiing Sports
5:00	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Facts Of Life Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life WKRP	New Beaver Safe At Home	Movie: "Dreamchild"	"Man From Button Willow"	Movie:	SportsLook SportsCente
6:00	News Wheel Fortune	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Jeffersons	Sanford Honeymooners	Fraggle Rock	Robin Hood	Wednesday"	College Basketball
7:00	ALF Amaz. Stories	Kate & Allie My Sister Sam	MacGyver	Barnaby Jones	Planet Earth	H's Heroes College	Movie: "A Gathering	Movie: "Better Off	Movie: "Out Of	Movie: "Wildcats"	Illinois at Ohio State
8:00	Movie: "Convicted: A	Newhart Cavanaughs	Movie: "Tonight's The	Movie: "The Maltese	American Playhouse	Basketball N.C. St. at	Of Eagles"	Dead"	Africa"		College Basketball
9:00	Mother's Story"	Cagney & Lacey	Night"	Falcon"	Ossie & Ruby Change Habits	DePaul News	This is	Movie: "Mommie		Movie: "Creator"	Georgetown at St. John's
10:30	News Best Of	News Dating Game	News M*A*S*H	Late Show	Nature Profiles Business Rpt.	Magnum, P.I.	America WomanWatch	Dearest"	Movie: "Just The Way	"	Cup SportsCenter
	Carson David	Night Heat	Ask Dr. Ruth Nightline	News Twilight Zone	MacNeil / Lehrer	Movie:	National Geographic	Movie	You Are" Movie:	Movie: "Personal	One On One Fishin' Hole
10:00	Letterman Gene Scott	Movie: "Honeyboy"	700 Club	Hitchcock Movie		"Suddenly, Last Summer"	Explorer		"Protocol"	Best"	Coorte

Friday, January 30, 1987

"not be meres seen?

Museum cost to determine future plans

By JENNIFER LINDSEY Staff Writer

Pending the results of a feasibility study, plans for the proposed K-State art museum may materialize, said Arthur Loub, KSU Foundation president.

"After the feasibility study, a recommendation will be made as to whether to proceed or not," Loub said.

No decisions can be made on the museum until the study is completed in April, he said. The study is being done by the Community Service Bureau Inc., Dallas.

If the recommendation is made to go ahead with the project, he said, a plan will be made to raise funds in order to begin construc-

About $300,000 to be used for the museum has accumulated from contributions to the University Art Foundation. Most of the money, however, comes from a single contribution made to the Foundation a few years ago specifically for the construction of an art museum, Loub said.

The museum steering committee is optimistic and discussing possible sites for the art museum, including an existing building on campus, said steering committee member Sally Traeger.

Ruth Ann Wefald, committee chairwoman, said it was a consensus of the committee to also consider the empty lot near University Inn, 17th Street and Anderson Avenue, as well as sites near Nichols Hall and McCain.

In addition to discussing museum locations, the committee did some research on how it should be operated.

To get a feel for how other university art museums worked, several committee members visited the Spencer Gallery in Lawrence and the Sheldon Gallery in Lincoln, Neb., Wefald said.

"We can learn a lot from other's success," she said.

Attention was paid to how the museums were funded, how the administration operated, the ratio of storage space to gallery space and even various loading methods.

Rally 'round Ron

Should President Reagan be impeached? According to the laws which govern this

But let's be real for a minute. This is America, and I'm an American. Thus, I think not (pun intended). After all, the president is the major authority figure of America, the man in charge, our leader.

If one is cruel to oneself and is realistic, one knows that major authority figures are often no more than figures. They may not be reasonable, nor knowledgeable, nor competent - but so what? They're still our leaders.

To impeach President Reagan would deal too grand a blow to the American fairy tale we grew up believing in about the president being perfect and his thus being the representative figure of American perfection in general as compared with all those backward foreigners we keep having to bail out of the wars they start.

So please, let's "rally 'round Ron," as the president's streamline conservative faithfuls are urging. If he goes down, we all go down. America has had a record of perfection up to now. Let's not spoil it.

Kale Baldock senior in modern languages

Cavalier attitude

Re: Mark Houston's letter "Just stay out of it" in the Jan. 23 Collegian. Houston's cavalier attitude toward defenseless people would be astounding if it were not so common. It is astounding anyway.

Why is an unborn child "a growth of cells" and a child after birth not? Or should we assume that Houston is also "a growth of cells" that has not yet been removed? Can a few hours or days of maturity make that much difference? Maybe Houston himself is not yet fully mature.

Or is it that the unborn child takes nutrition

and oxygen directly into his or her bloodstream instead of eating and breathing? Then we should not waste money on intravenous feeding and heart-lung machines because the application of these technologies turns people into a "growth of cells" that can be removed at the whim of the benefactor.

Most astounding is that Houston's major is listed as "natural resource management." Does he care more about trees and animals than people? Children are a natural resource; killing them is what is artificial.

No, I am directly involved. All people are responsible for safeguarding the rights of the handicapped, the sick, the blacks, the Jews, the very young. If Houston saw some whites beating a black person or a woman being raped or a child being abused by his parent, would he decide he was "not directly involved...(and) just butt out" or would he do the humane thing and come to the rescue?

If Houston wants to leave the decision to just the people involved, he should at least consider the other person. That "growth of cells" certainly has an opinion in the question of whether he or she lives or dies. We have clinical evidence that unborn children are not suicidal; they prefer to come out when they are ready.

It looks to me like Mark Houston needs a little religion in his soul. His mind is so open his brains have fallen out.

> Tom Pittman assistant professor of computer science

Free expression

I am in my fourth year as a student at K-State, and in those four years I have never had occasion to voice my opinion - positively or negatively - in a letter. A problem, though, has come to my attention which I

Recently I discovered that according to Student Governing Association rules, only recognized campus organizations may post fliers or advertisements on campus. To me, this seems unfair. We, as students, support this University through our tuition and fee payments, and I think it is only right that the kiosks on campus be available to the entire student population.

I am more than willing to consent that the fliers be approved for tact or taste, but they should not be restricted completely. The same policy should be maintained for residence halls as well. A university should be an open forum in which students can exchange information, and as long as this University is student-supported in any way it should not be allowed to censor the free expression of its benefactors.

Tom Lawrence senior in restaurant management

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Teacher's brother says NASA exploits citizens

By The Associated Press

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. - Christa McAuliffe's brother accused NASA on Thursday of exploiting his sister for the sake of publicity and called on the government to abandon for now programs to put everyday people in-

to space. "They shouldn't be using the public for something that's mainly for the government," said Christopher Corrigan, whose sister was chosen to ha the first private

Corrigan also sister was used gram "because more safe the His comm almost con relatives schoolte with six shuttle (after lifte Corriga ments newspap for his s parents ! They hav the acc daughter He said morale o way the said he st cy took a "These I think it publicity Corrigan

Corriga ordinary space sor if NASA issues the plosion & focus tur and awa military But C comput ministrat

> Ro car Do Che Dip:

> > reli

citizen in space.

space program on hold and has said no ordinary citizen would be on any

State College, where his sister went to school, added: "I don't think they should go ahead and do anything else

for the moment, if ever.'

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has put the of the next five shuttle flights and perhaps not on any of the first 20, said Edward Campion, a spokesman in Washington.

"They're not going to put a aissiliane on until we are comfortable

We're A Full Line Brazier Dairy Queen now!!

Serving:

Brazier Burgers

 Cheese Burgers Pork Fritters

 Chili Dogs BBQ Beef

Dairy

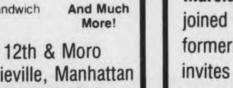

Oueen

· Hot dogs

Chicken Breast Sandwich

1015 N. 3rd Manhattan

Reg. U.S. Pat. Off., Am. D.Q. Corp. Copyright 1974, Am. D.Q. Corp.

Aggieville, Manhattan

joined our staff. Marcia is formerly of Crimpers and invites both regular and new customers to call her for an appointment.

539-6001 1318 Westloop

Shakespeare On Campus

Rehearsal

This week at the University, as in the days of olde, traveling performers brought their acts to the public arena.

The performers — five British actors — and the arena — K-State classrooms and stages - slipped into the worlds of Shakespeare, Pinter, Donne and others from the land where the sun never sets on classic

Trevor Baxter, Bruce Alexander, Sarah Berger, George Raistrick and Tom Mannion are members of a company coordinated by the Alliance for Creative Theatre, Education and Research (ACTER), University of California, Santa Barbara.

The actors said Manhattan proved to be an interesting first date on their tour.

"The Tempest," to be presented at 8 p.m.

today and Saturday in McCain Auditorium, will be staged in a minimalist fashion, using few props and relying solely on the acting ability of the cast, in which each actor will be performing several roles, they said.

Except for a performance in London, it will be the first time the actors have done the play in this manner before an audience.

"It is unusual to play more than one part in a production," Alexander said, adding that it will be quite a challenge. Baxter said "actors have a lazy streak," and this will cause them to work harder at their craft. "You must pay more attention if playing more than one part," he said. The play is clearly written, but playing more than one part demands more concentration. The parts were fairly easy to keep separate because they are very distinct parts, Alexander said.

Another difference for the actors is that this project has no director.

"The information we gather (from audience reaction) will be invaluable," Baxter said. "We will watch how they respond and we will bring more colors to the play based on

"There is a strong chance some have never seen or read 'The Tempest' before, it is an exciting opportunity," Alexander said.

Mannion said, "By doing work in the classroom, the students will be able to see if we practice what we preach in our performances...it is the practice of acting rather than the theory of acting."

Baxter said the students can help the actors see new things in the passages. "They may illuminate a passage grown obscure through the passage of time.'

British actor Tom Mannion directs the movements of students in a stage movement class taught by Kate Anderson, associate professor of speech, Wednesday in Nichols

The Cast

The five actors, in residence at K-State this week, and where they have studied.

Trevor Baxter Royal Academy of Dramatic Art

Tom Mannion Royal Scottish Academy of Music and Drama

prospec-

ents

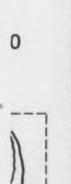

Rally 'round Ron

Should President Reagan be impeached? According to the laws which govern this

But let's be real for a minute. This is America, and I'm an American. Thus, I think not (pun intended). After all, the president is the major authority figure of America, the man in charge, our leader.

If one is cruel to oneself and is realistic, one knows that major authority figures are often no more than figures. They may not be reasonable, nor knowledgeable, nor competent — but so what? They're still our leaders.

To impeach President Reagan would deal too grand a blow to the American fairy tale we grew up believing in about the president being perfect and his thus being the representative figure of American perfection in general as compared with all those backward foreigners we keep having to bail out of the wars they start.

So please, let's "rally 'round Ron," as the president's streamline conservative faithfuls are urging. If he goes down, we all go down. America has had a record of perfection up to now. Let's not spoil it.

Kale Baldock senior in modern languages

Cavalier attitude

Re: Mark Houston's letter "Just stay out of it" in the Jan. 23 Collegian. Houston's cavalier attitude toward defenseless people would be astounding if it were not so common. It is astounding anyway.

Why is an unborn child "a growth of cells" and a child after birth not? Or should we assume that Houston is also "a growth of cells" that has not yet been removed? Can a few hours or days of maturity make that much difference? Maybe Houston himself is not yet fully mature.

Or is it that the unborn child takes nutrition

and oxygen directly into his or her bloodstream instead of eating and breathing? Then we should not waste money on intravenous feeding and heart-lung machines because the application of these technologies turns people into a "growth of cells" that can be removed at the whim of the benefactor.

Most astounding is that Houston's major is listed as "natural resource management." Does he care more about trees and animals than people? Children are a natural resource; killing them is what is artificial.

No, I am directly involved. All people are responsible for safeguarding the rights of the handicapped, the sick, the blacks, the Jews, the very young. If Houston saw some whites beating a black person or a woman being raped or a child being abused by his parent, would he decide he was "not directly involved...(and) just butt out" or would he do the humane thing and come to the rescue?

If Houston wants to leave the decision to just the people involved, he should at least consider the other person. That "growth of cells" certainly has an opinion in the question of whether he or she lives or dies. We have clinical evidence that unborn children are not suicidal; they prefer to come out when they are ready.

It looks to me like Mark Houston needs a little religion in his soul. His mind is so open his brains have fallen out.

Tom Pittman assistant professor of computer science

Free expression

Editor.

And Much

I am in my fourth year as a student at K-State, and in those four years I have never had occasion to voice my opinion - positively or negatively - in a letter. A problem, though, has come to my attention which I find upsetting.

Recently I discovered that according to Student Governing Association rules, only recognized campus organizations may post fliers or advertisements on campus. To me, this seems unfair. We, as students, support this University through our tuition and fee payments, and I think it is only right that the kiosks on campus be available to the entire student population.

I am more than willing to consent that the fliers be approved for tact or taste, but they should not be restricted completely. The same policy should be maintained for residence halls as well. A university should be an open forum in which students can exchange information, and as long as this University is student-supported in any way it should not be allowed to censor the free expression of its benefactors.

> Tom Lawrence senior in restaurant management

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Teacher's brother says NASA exploits citizens

By The Associated Press

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. - Christa McAuliffe's brother accused NASA on Thursday of exploiting his sister for the sake of publicity and called on the government to abandon for now programs to put everyday people into space.

"They shouldn't be using the public for something that's mainly for the government," said Christopher Corrigan, whose sister was chosen to be the first private citizen in space.

Corrigan also said he feels his sister was used by the space program "because she thought it was more safe than it was."

His comments ended a year of almost complete silence from relatives of the Concord, N.H. problems with the shuttle schoolteac

with six f shuttle Ch

after liftof Corriga ments V newspape for his si

parents sl

They have the acci

daughter.

morale of way the p

said he sti

cy took ac

I think it's publicity

Corrigan,

ordinary

space som

if NASA c

issues tha

plosion a:

focus turn

and awa;

military p

But Co

compute

ministrati

23

Rou

carv

Doo

Che Dips relis

Sal Pot

Corriga

These

He said

State College, where his sister went to school, added: "I don't think they should go ahead and do anything else for the moment, if ever.'

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has put the space program on hold and has said no ordinary citizen would be on any of the next five shuttle flights and perhaps not on any of the first 20, said Edward Campion, a spokesman in Washington.

"They're not going to put a civilians on until we are comfortable with the design changes that have been made," he said.

The astronauts were told a risk was involved in space flight, said Campion. But, he said, he did not know whether they had been told about any of the previous technical

We're A Full Line Brazier Dairy Queen now!!

Serving: Brazier Burgers

 Cheese Burgers Pork Fritters

 Chili Dogs · BBQ Beef

Dairy

Oueen

Hot dogs

Chicken Breast Sandwich

12th & Moro Aggieville, Manhattan 1015 N. 3rd Manhattan

We at Hair Westloop are happy to announce that Marcia Khaledi has joined our staff. Marcia is formerly of Crimpers and invites both regular and new customers to call her for an appointment.

Friday, January 30, 1987

ospec-

The Production

To the memorie of M. W. Shake-speare. Wee wondred (Shake-speare) that thou went'st so soone

From the Worlds-Stage, to the Graues-Tyring-roome.

Wee thought thee dead, but this thy printed worth,

Tels thy Spectators, that thou went'st but To enter with applause. An Actors Art,

Can dye, and liue, to acte a second part. That's but an Exit of Mortalitie; This, a Re-entrance to a Plaudite.

- I.M. (From "The Complete Pelican Shakespeare") Many critics believe that the process of change during William Shakespeare's lifetime, the questioning of the old established trends which produced social tensions, made possible his great tragedies of the 17th

Whatever the reason for his success, Shakespeare's works have indeed become immortal. Time, place and manner of presen-- tation no longer matter.

Bruce Alexander, Trevor Baxter, Sarah Berger and Tom Mannion — four of the five British members of the Alliance for Creative Theatre, Education and Research at the University of California, Santa Barbara are currently on campus to share their knowledge of the stage. Earlier this week, they discussed the works of the master Bard.

The four, who with fellow actor George Raistrick will perform Shakespeare's "The Tempest" in McCain Auditorium at 8 p.m. tonight and Saturday, agreed that his plays re a true universal commodity.

"You meet real people in Shakespearean plays. Just as they did in the 17th century, people are still falling in love...seducing each other...and there is still political backstabbing," the actors readily agreed, one chiming in after the other to add additional comments. To them, Shakespeare is "always iniversal, always relevant."

"They are all wonderful stories...Just telling the stories is the important thing...Too many get hung up on the concepts," Alex-Baxter continued, "The inessentials can vertake the meaning of the production. It is easy to get hung up on originality, but you still need it...the play is fed by originality." Baxter said "clarity and intention" makes good Shakespearean works. "You must know specifically what you aim for."

The group said many put off reading they believe it is Shakespeare because something similar to a foreign language. "It's a new style one has to learn," Baxter

Alexander said it would be better for one to ignore the "hocus pocus" Elizabethan language and concentrate on the story.

The group did agree that Shakespeare has changed with time. Baxter explained that the plays were written in the mode of the time.

"In Victorian England, they didn't like unhappy endings so the stories were rewritten," he said. He also said the play they will be performing — "The Tempest" — has been written in different versions for different time periods. It was a "very fashionable" play during the 18th century, Baxter said.

The actors said Shakespearean works are different from other 17th-century English classics in that they are better.

There is something to be said for "the fact that they are still done after four centuries...There is always a Shakespearean play being done somewhere in the world," Berger said.

"Shakespeare is a timeless writer," Mannion added. 'The productions have become very international in style," Baxter said, explaining that Shakespearean works do not have a unique quality to the country in which they are performed. Mannion continued, "It is like the color blue, no one looks at it and sees the same thing... Everyone describes it as something different."

The actors have a varying interest in favorite Shakespearean works, everything from the work they will perform tonight and Saturday night — "The Tempest," a happyending romance involving vengeance, fantasy and love among a group of shipwrecked voyagers on a magical island - to "Othello," a tightly constructed tragedy of unusual forcefulness and emotion with a brilliant opening and tragic close. The actors discussed the Shakespearean work they will perform in McCain in more

With minimal props, the five British actors, in residency at K-State this week, practice Thursday afternoon in Nichols Theatre for their production of "Pinter This Evening."

detail. Baxter said the play has "perfect shape and development.' Alexander added, "It has the weight of a tragedy, but it ends very happily...That is unique. "It was a remarkable statement for Shakespeare to make at the end of his life...It was an absolutely positive statement," Bax-

"It (the ending) means one is capable of changing one's life; the aspect of Prospero giving up his magic is very political," Alex-von Bismark couldn't let go of their power, but in the end Prospero let go of his power his magic. "His works are universal. The Midwest is no more remote than London...In some ways, it is nearer linguistically as a small provincial town," Baxter said comparing Manhattan with the late 16th- and early 17th-century London where Shakespeare lived and work-

It shows a "greater wisdom," Baxter said, adding that many of the great political figures such as Winston Churchill and Otto

Photos by Brad Fanshier and Gary Lytle Stories by Teresa Temme

Sarah Berger Guildhall School of Music and Drama

Bruce Alexander Oxford University

George Raistrick London Academy of Dramatic Art

Rally 'round Ron

Should President Reagan be impeached? According to the laws which govern this

But let's be real for a minute. This is America, and I'm an American. Thus, I think not (pun intended). After all, the president is the major authority figure of America, the man in charge, our leader.

If one is cruel to oneself and is realistic, one knows that major authority figures are often no more than figures. They may not be reasonable, nor knowledgeable, nor competent - but so what? They're still our leaders.

To impeach President Reagan would deal too grand a blow to the American fairy tale we grew up believing in about the president being perfect and his thus being the representative figure of American perfection in general as compared with all those backward foreigners we keep having to bail out of the wars they start.

So please, let's "rally round Ron," as the president's streamline conservative faithfuls are urging. If he goes down, we all go down. America has had a record of perfection up to now. Let's not spoil it.

Kale Baldock senior in modern languages

Cavalier attitude

Re: Mark Houston's letter "Just stay out of it" in the Jan. 23 Collegian. Houston's cavalier attitude toward defenseless people would be astounding if it were not so common. It is astounding anyway.

Why is an unborn child "a growth of cells" and a child after birth not? Or should we assume that Houston is also "a growth of cells" that has not yet been removed? Can a few hours or days of maturity make that much difference? Maybe Houston himself is not yet fully mature. Or is it that the unborn child takes nutrition and oxygen directly into his or her bloodstream instead of eating and breathing? Then we should not waste money on intravenous feeding and heart-lung machines because the application of these technologies turns people into a "growth of cells" that can be removed at the whim of the benefactor.

Most astounding is that Houston's major is listed as "natural resource management." Does he care more about trees and animals than people? Children are a natural resource; killing them is what is artificial.

No, I am directly involved. All people are responsible for safeguarding the rights of the handicapped, the sick, the blacks, the Jews, the very young. If Houston saw some whites beating a black person or a woman being raped or a child being abused by his parent, would he decide he was "not directly involved...(and) just butt out" or would he do the humane thing and come to the rescue?

If Houston wants to leave the decision to just the people involved, he should at least consider the other person. That "growth of cells" certainly has an opinion in the question of whether he or she lives or dies. We have clinical evidence that unborn children are not suicidal; they prefer to come out when they are ready.

It looks to me like Mark Houston needs a little religion in his soul. His mind is so open his brains have fallen out.

Tom Pittman assistant professor of computer science

Free expression

I am in my fourth year as a student at K-State, and in those four years I have never had occasion to voice my opinion - positively or negatively - in a letter. A problem, though, has come to my attention which I find upsetting.

Recently I discovered that according to Student Governing Association rules, only recognized campus organizations may post fliers or advertisements on campus. To me, this seems unfair. We, as students, support this University through our tuition and fee payments, and I think it is only right that the kiosks on campus be available to the entire student population.

I am more than willing to consent that the fliers be approved for tact or taste, but they should not be restricted completely. The same policy should be maintained for residence halls as well. A university should be an open forum in which students can exchange information, and as long as this University is student-supported in any way it should not be allowed to censor the free expression of its benefactors.

Tom Lawrence senior in restaurant management

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Teacher's brother says NASA exploits citizens

By The Associated Press

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. - Christa McAuliffe's brother accused NASA on Thursday of exploiting his sister for the sake of publicity and called on the government to abandon for now programs to put everyday people into space.

"They shouldn't be using the public for something that's mainly for the government," said Christopher Corrigan, whose sister was chosen to be the first private citizen in space.

.. L. faala hie

Corrigan al sister was use gram "becaus more safe than

His comme almost com relatives of schooltea with six f shuttle Cl newspape for his si parents s They have the acci daughter. He said cy took at I think it's publicity

Corriga ordinary space son if NASA (issues tha plosion a: focus turr and awa military r But Co

compute

ministrati

after liftor

Corriga ments V morale of way the r said he sti

Corrigan,

State College, where his sister went to school, added: "I don't think they should go ahead and do anything else for the moment, if ever.' The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has put the space program on hold and has said no ordinary citizen would be on any of the next five shuttle flights and perhaps not on any of the first 20, said Edward Campion, a spokesman in Washington.

"They're not going to put a civilians on until we are comfortable with the design changes that have

We're A Full Line Brazier Dairy Queen now!!

Chicken Breast Sandwich

Serving:

Brazier Burgers

Cheese Burgers

· Chili Dogs · BBQ Beef

happy to announce that Marcia Khaledi has And Much joined our staff. Marcia is formerly of Crimpers and invites both regular and new customers to call her for an appointment.

We at Hair Westloop are

27 1. 12.12. 20 2 12 200

Friday, January 30, 1987

The Tor communication of the latest and the latest

Film Review

Estevez fails director test in latest film

By ANDRE KELLEY Collegian Reviewer

Have you ever seen a film so bad that you leave the theater with your head covered? If you see the new film "Wisdom" you may just do that.

Wisdom" is the pet project of brat-pack star Emilio Estevez. Better known for his roles as the troubled jock in "The Breakfast Club" and the love-struck fanatic in "St. Elmo's Fire," Estevez has definitely proven himself as more than a flash-in-the-pan actor.

The same goes for his co-star and real life fiancee Demi Moore. She also played in "St. Elmo's Fire" as a drugged-up yuppie, in addition to her fine performance in last year's "About Last Night." Neither of these two had any business in "Wisdom" even though it was written and directed by Estevez.

The film opens with 23-year-old John Wisdom having breakfast with his parents, whom he refers to as "Lloyd and Samantha," played by Tom Skerrit ("Top Gun") and Veronica Cartwright ("E.T.").

Having a previous felony conviction, John finds it very tough finding a job and when he finally does (as a janitor) his boss fires him for being "too good for this kind of work."

So he decides to become "what society's always wanted him to become - a criminal. But I won't become a criminal against the people," he says, "I'll become a criminal for the people."

Reluctantly, he decides he's going to need some help so we're introduced to his girlfriend Karen Simmons. They joke and play with each other so sweetly you'll get cavities.

We're suppossed to care about this half-baked relationship, but when they look deeply into each other's eyes and say "I love you," it has about as much kick as flat generic soda.

Nice girl, this Karen, but she has absolutely no clue. During his first heist, John shoots the cameras after they take his picture, reads a pre-written speech on the back of a grocery list

See WISDOM, Page 7

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	"	CBS AM News Morning	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Tom And Jerry	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo _{.,}	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "American	King Arthur Movie:	Movie: "Sweet	Business SportsCente
8:30		Program	"	Defenders Brady Bunch	Sesame Street	Heathcliff	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	Dreamer"	"Summer Rental"	Dreams"	LPGA Golf Mazda
9:30	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance	Mork & Mindy Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Falcon Crest	Movie: "Who's	Movie: "The	Movie: "Kiss Me	Movie: "Out Of	Classic Final Round
10:30	Jeopardy Scrabble	Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Webster	Mary Tyler Moore	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Hillbillies Odd Couple	Minding The Mint?"	Oklahoma City Dolls"	Kate"	Africa"	Skiing SportsLook
11:30	Password Wheel Fortune	Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched Soap	Write Course Culture	H's Heroes Twilight Zone	Perry Mason	Movie:	Shirley MacLaine		Aerobics Getting Fit
12:30	News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke Hillbillies	Sesame Street	News	Centennial	Longshot" Movie:	Movie:	Movie: "Zulu Dawn"	College Basketball
1:00	Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	For Daddy My 3 Sons	Masterpiece Theatre	Dick Van Dyke Andy Griffith	"	"Critters"	"Falling In Love"	"	Georgetown at St. John's
2:30	Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Mod. Maturity Living	Beaver Bugs Bunny	Tom & Jerry And Friends	Rocco's Star No Big Deal	The Elf	Movie: "Teen Wolf"	World Cup Skiing
3:30	Happy Days	Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurts	We're Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	"	The Almost Royal Family	Movie:	America's Cup
4:30	Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flintstones Jetsons	Square 1 TV 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Rocky Road	Movie: "Raintree	Young King Arthur	"The Zoo	NBA Today Scholastic
5:30	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Facts Of Life Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life WKRP	Hillbillies Andy Griffith	County"	"	Movie:	SportsLook SportsCenter
6:30	News Wheel Fortune	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Jeffersons	Sanford Honeymooners	"	Paper Chase	"Trancers"	College Basketball
7:00	Matlock	Wizard	Who's Boss? Growing Pains	Barnaby Jones	Nova	National Geographic	NBA Basketball	Movie: "Man With One	Movie: "Falling In	Movie: "Out Of	Prov. at B.C.
	Hill Street Blues	"Guilty Of Innocence:	Moonlighting	National Geographic	Frontline	National Geographic	Celtics at Hawks	Red Shoe" The Talk Show	Love"	Africa"	College Basketball
9:00	Remington Steele	The Lenell Geter Story"	Jack And Mike	National Geographic	Tenko	News	Movie:	Movie: "The	Brothers G. Shandling	"	Syracuse at Seton Hall
	News Tonight Show	News Dating Game	News M*A*S*H	Late Show	Nature Profiles Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	"Alvarez Kelly"	Longshot" Movie:	Movie: "Runaway	Movie: "Sweet	America's
1 1:00	David	Simon & Simon	Ask Dr. Ruth Nightline	News Twilight Zone	MacNeil / Lehrer	Movie:	Movie:	"Critters"	Train"	Dreams"	Cup Live coverage
10:00	Letterman Gene Scott	Movie: "Matt Helm"	700 Club	Hitchcock Movie		"Gold"		Movie:	Shirley	"Secret	from Australia

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	нво	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	"	CBS AM News Morning	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Tom And Jerry	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Body Rock"	Movie: "The River"	The Movies Movie:	Business SportsCente
8:30		Program	"	Defenders Brady Bunch	Sesame Street	Heathcliff	Down To Earth I Love Lucy		Cont'd	"That Forsyte Woman"
9:30	Hour Magazine	Pyramid Card Sharks	Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance	Mork & Mindy Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Falcon Crest	Movie: "Bringing Up	Movie: "Threshold"	Movie: "Come Fill	Movie:	" "
10:30	Jeopardy Scrabble	Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Webster	Mary Tyler Moore	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Hillbillies Odd Couple	Baby"	:	The Cup"	"French Lesson"	NBA Today SportsLook
11:30		Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched Soap	Literature Algebra	H's Heroes Twilight Zone	Perry Mason	Movie: "Funny Lady"	Movie: "Night Of The	"Animals Are Beautiful	Aerobics Getting Fit
12:30		Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke Hillbillies	Sesame Street	News	Centennial	"	Comet" Movie:	People" Movie:	College Basketball
1:00	Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	For Daddy My 3 Sons	Nova	Dick Van Dyke Andy Griffith	" "	Movie:	"Lady Jane"	"Street Hero"	Syracuse at Seton Hall
2:30	Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Heritage	Beaver Bugs Bunny	Tom & Jerry And Friends	"Purple Rose Of Cairo"	"	Movie:	Truck And Tractor Pull
3:30	Happy Days	Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurfs	We're Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Wow Wow Wibble	Movie: "Dusty"	"Casino Royale"	America's Cup
4:00	Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flintstones Jetsons	Square 1 TV 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Rocky Road	Survival	Velvet. Rabbit	"	One On One Horse Racino
5:30	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Facts Of Life Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life WKRP	Hillbillies Andy Griffith	Movie: "A Flash Of	Jilting Of Granny	Movie: "The Story Of	SportsLook In PGA
6:00	News Wheel Fortune	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller College	Sanford Honeymooners	Green"	Van Halen	Will Rogers"	SportsCenter NHL Hockey
7:00	Highway To Heaven	New Mike Hammer	P. Strangers Head Of Class	Barnaby Jones	Discover	Basketball La Salle at	Movie: "Scara-	Movie: "The Boy In	Movie: "Commando"	Movie: "Ghost-	Washington Capitals at
8:00	College Basketball	Magnum, P.I.	Dynasty	College Basketball	Eyes On The Prize	Notre Dame H's Heroes	mouche"	Blue"	Movie:	busters"	New York Rangers
9:00	Kansas at Kansas State	Equalizer	Hotel	Kansas at Kansas State	The Words It's Your Turn	News.	Movie:	Paul Rodriguez	"Night Of The Comet"	Movie: "Wildcats"	Swirmwear
10:30	News Tonight Show	News Dating Game	News M*A*S*H	Late Show	Nature Profiles Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	"Dr. Jekyll And Mr. Hyde"	Movie: "Clan Of The	Movie: "C.H.U.D."	"	Cup SportsCenter
11:30	David	T.J. Hooker	Ask Dr. Ruth Nightline	News Twilight Zone	MacNeil / Lehrer	Movie:	"	Cave Bear" Don Johnson's	"	Movie: "Tuff Turf"	In PGA Mark Sosin
	Letterman Gene Scott	Movie: "Spasms"	700 Çlub	Hitchcock Movie		"Murder Is Easy"	"Bunny Lake Is Missing"	Heartbest	Movie: "Lady Jane"	"	Outdoors NBA Today

bearing concentration and the contration and the co

USE THE COLLEGIAN COUPONS!!

prospecnts

m.

DEO REO

LLE nds)

EEEE

on 1 to arn

3333

Rally 'round Ron

Should President Reagan be impeached? According to the laws which govern this

But let's be real for a minute. This is America, and I'm an American. Thus, I think not (pun intended). After all, the president is the major authority figure of America, the man in charge, our leader.

If one is cruel to oneself and is realistic, one knows that major authority figures are often no more than figures. They may not be reasonable, nor knowledgeable, nor competent - but so what? They're still our leaders.

To impeach President Reagan would deal too grand a blow to the American fairy tale we grew up believing in about the president being perfect and his thus being the representative figure of American perfection in general as compared with all those backward foreigners we keep having to bail out of the wars they start.

So please, let's "rally 'round Ron," as the president's streamline conservative faithfuls are urging. If he goes down, we all go down. America has had a record of perfection up to now. Let's not spoil it.

Kale Baldock senior in modern languages

Cavalier attitude

Re: Mark Houston's letter "Just stay out of it" in the Jan. 23 Collegian. Houston's cavalier attitude toward defenseless people would be astounding if it were not so common. It is astounding anyway.

Why is an unborn child "a growth of cells" and a child after birth not? Or should we assume that Houston is also "a growth of cells" that has not yet been removed? Can a few hours or days of maturity make that much difference? Maybe Houston himself is not yet fully mature.

Or is it that the unborn child takes nutrition

and oxygen directly into his or her bloodstream instead of eating and breathing? Then we should not waste money on intravenous feeding and heart-lung machines because the application of these technologies turns people into a "growth of cells" that can be removed at the whim of the

Most astounding is that Houston's major is listed as "natural resource management." Does he care more about trees and animals than people? Children are a natural resource; killing them is what is artificial.

No, I am directly involved. All people are responsible for safeguarding the rights of the handicapped, the sick, the blacks, the Jews, the very young. If Houston saw some whites beating a black person or a woman being raped or a child being abused by his parent, would he decide he was "not directly involved...(and) just butt out" or would he do the humane thing and come to the rescue?

If Houston wants to leave the decision to just the people involved, he should at least consider the other person. That "growth of cells" certainly has an opinion in the question of whether he or she lives or dies. We have clinical evidence that unborn children are not suicidal; they prefer to come out when they are ready.

It looks to me like Mark Houston needs a little religion in his soul. His mind is so open his brains have fallen out.

> Tom Pittman assistant professor of computer science

Free expression

And Much

More!

ESPN

Business SportsCente

SportsLook

Rangers

America's

Mark Sosin

SportsLook SportsCente

Louisville at Virginia Tech

UNC at NC

America's

Australia

Live coverage

Ski World

12th & Moro

Aggieville, Manhattan

MAX

Cont'd Movie:

The Wedding Movie:

"Obsession

Ambassador'

Movie: "Stand Alone

"Final Justice"

"Sunday

I am in my fourth year as a student at K-State, and in those four years I have never had occasion to voice my opinion - positively or negatively - in a letter. A problem, though, has come to my attention which I

Recently I discovered that according to Student Governing Association rules, only recognized campus organizations may post fliers or advertisements on campus. To me, this seems unfair. We, as students, support this University through our tuition and fee payments, and I think it is only right that the kiosks on campus be available to the entire student population.

I am more than willing to consent that the fliers be approved for tact or taste, but they should not be restricted completely. The same policy should be maintained for residence halls as well. A university should be an open forum in which students can exchange information, and as long as this University is student-supported in any way it should not be allowed to censor the free expression of its benefactors.

> Tom Lawrence senior in restaurant management

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Teacher's brother says NASA exploits citizens

By The Associated Press

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. - Christa McAuliffe's brother accused NASA on Thursday of exploiting his sister for the sake of publicity and called on the government to abandon for now programs to put everyday people in-

to space. "They shouldn't be using the public for something that's mainly for the government," said Christopher Corrigan, whose sister was chosen to be the first private citizen in space. Corrigan also said he feels his sister was used by the space program "because she thought it was more safe than it was." His comments ended a year of almost complete silence from relatives of the Concord, N.H. problems with the shuttle schoolteau THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1987 with six f shuttle Ch after liftof Corriga ments V newspape for his si parents sl They have the acci daughter. He said morale of way the p said he sti cy took ac "These I think it's publicity Corrigan, Corriga ordinary space son plosion a: focus turr and away military p But Co compute ministrati

> Rou can

Doo

· Che

· Dips

relis

Boi

Sal

Pot

. $1

if NASA c

issues tha

State College, where his sister went to school, added: "I don't think they should go ahead and do anything else for the moment, if ever.'

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has put the space program on hold and has said no ordinary citizen would be on any of the next five shuttle flights and perhaps not on any of the first 20, said Edward Campion, a spokesman in Washington.

"They're not going to put a civilians on until we are comfortable with the design changes that have been made," he said.

The astronauts were told a risk was involved in space flight, said Campion. But, he said, he did not know whether they had been told about any of the previous technical

KTKA

Good Morning America

Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance

Fame Fortune

General Hospital

Ghostbusters

ThunderCats G.I. Joe

People's Court ABC News

M*A*S*H

Our World

The Colbys

20 / 20

News M*A*S*H

700 Club

Ask Dr. Ruth

WIBW

Program

Price Is Right

Midday As The World

Guiding Light

Magnum, P.I.

Donahue

News CBS News

Shell Game

Simon & Simon

Knots Landing

News Dating Game

Movie

CBS AM News

KSNT

9:00 Hour Magazine

12:00 News Days Of Our

2:00 " Santa Barbara

3:00 Happy Days

4:00 Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life

5:00 3's Company NBC News

6:00 News Wheel Fortune

7:00 Cosby Show 7:30 Family Ties

8:00 Cheers Night Court

10:00 News Tonight Show

9:00 L.A. Law

1 1:00 David

12:00 Letterman Gene Scott

We're A Full Line Brazier Dairy Queen now!!

Serving:

KTWU

Special Mister Rogers

New Literacy New Literacy

We're Cooking

Square 1 TV 3-2-1 Contact

Sesame Street

MacNeil / Lehrer

Heartache in The Heartland

A.C. Clarke S. Previews

MacNeil / Lehrer

Nature Profiles Business Rpt.

KSHB

Defenders Brady Bunch

Mork & Mindy Day At A Time

Dick Van Dyke

My 3 Sons

Munsters Zoobilee Zoo

Scooby Doo Smurfs

Flintstones Jetsons

Facts Of Life

Barney Mille

Barnaby Jones

Movie: "Escape Fron

New York"

Late Show

Hitchcock Movie

WKRP

Mary Tyler Moore

WGN

Falcon Crest

Hillbillies Odd Couple

H's Heroes

Andy Griffith

G.I. Joe Transforme

Facts Of Life WKRP

News

"Force 10

- Brazier Burgers
- Cheese Burgers Pork Fritters
- Chicken Breast Sandwich
- Chili Dogs

 BBQ Beef Hot dogs

Dairy Oueen

SHOW

Movie Cont'd Movie

"Irreconcilable

Differences

Teacher"
J.'s Journey

Movie: "Irreconcilable

Differences'

Movie: "The Best Of Times"

Just For Laughs

"One Night...Only

Stages Movie

We at Hair Westloop are happy to announce that Marcia Khaledi has joined our staff. Marcia is formerly of Crimpers and invites both regular and new customers to call her for an appointment.

539-6001 1318 Westloop

ill prospec-sk

IDEO

EREO

ILLE

BEEE

ands)

19 on

1 to

?rn

udents

HBO

Shadow

Africa"

Blunders Platypus Cove

Movie: "Murphy's

Romance

"Mad Max Beyond

Movie: "Missing In

Movie: "Out Of Africa"

Action 2: The dome'

WTBS

Down To Earth I Love Lucy

Tom & Jerry And Friends

Scooby Doo Flintstones

Rocky Road

Andy Griffith

Honeymoo

Movie: "The Dirty

"Captain Nemo And The

"Badman's Territory"

Dozen"

Friday, January 30, 1987

Wisdom

Continued from Page 6 and blows up the bank records on home and farm mortgages. (He's a crusader for the farm crisis.) He gets outside only to find his getaway car is gone. But did the girl smarten up? Of course not. Turns out she went to get yogurt.

It isn't until they're an hour down the highway with money hanging out his pocket and a gun in his lap that she figures out he robbed a bank. After a heated argument in the middle of a desert, Karen agonizes for a whole 30

So off they go romping through the Midwest, this Bonnie and Clyde

Its theme of a 23-year-old's search for direction is believable but with Estevez's flat narration and overloaded background elevator music it soon becomes a bad mix between "Ferris Bueller"

The title of the film is "Wisdom" and its certainly advisable to use o.m.

seconds and decides to join him.

of Twinkies and Tofutti with their new-found conviction and not even a toothbrush.

and "Rambo."

some, and stay home.

All shows starting before 6 p.m.—all seats $2.50 Movie info. 539-1291 Tuesday is bargain night!

OUTRAGEOUS FORTUNE

DAILY AT 7 AND 9 MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 3 AND 5 RATED R

WESTLOOP

Crocodile DUNDEE Look who's 7 - 9:30 into town! & Sun.

PG-13

at 2

LITTLE SHOP OF HORRORS DAILY AT 4:30-7-9:30

MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2 RATED PG-13

WANTED

DEAD OR ALIVE

DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:20

MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2:10

RATED R

THE GOLDEN CHILD DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:20

MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2:10 RATED PG-13

KINDRED DAILY AT 4:45-7:20-9:25 MAT. SAT. AND SUN. AT 2:20 RATED R

ALLAN QUATERMAIN AND THE LOST CITY OF GOLD

DAILY AT 4:45-7:20-9:25 MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2:20 RATED PG

Rally 'round Ron

Should President Reagan be impeached? According to the laws which govern this

But let's be real for a minute. This is America, and I'm an American. Thus, I think not (pun intended). After all, the president is the major authority figure of America, the man in charge, our leader.

If one is cruel to oneself and is realistic, one knows that major authority figures are often no more than figures. They may not be reasonable, nor knowledgeable, nor competent — but so what? They're still our leaders.

To impeach President Reagan would deal too grand a blow to the American fairy tale we grew up believing in about the president being perfect and his thus being the representative figure of American perfection in general as compared with all those backward foreigners we keep having to bail out of the wars they start.

So please, let's "rally round Ron," as the president's streamline conservative faithfuls are urging. If he goes down, we all go down. America has had a record of perfection up to now. Let's not spoil it.

Kale Baldock senior in modern languages

Cavalier attitude

Re: Mark Houston's letter "Just stay out of it" in the Jan. 23 Collegian. Houston's cavalier attitude toward defenseless people would be astounding if it were not so common. It is astounding anyway.

Why is an unborn child "a growth of cells" and a child after birth not? Or should we assume that Houston is also "a growth of cells" that has not yet been removed? Can a few hours or days of maturity make that much difference? Maybe Houston himself is not yet fully mature.

Or is it that the unborn child takes nutrition

and oxygen directly into his or her bloodstream instead of eating and breathing? Then we should not waste money on intravenous feeding and heart-lung machines because the application of these technologies turns people into a "growth of cells" that can be removed at the whim of the benefactor.

Most astounding is that Houston's major is listed as "natural resource management." Does he care more about trees and animals than people? Children are a natural resource; killing them is what is artificial.

No, I am directly involved. All people are responsible for safeguarding the rights of the handicapped, the sick, the blacks, the Jews, the very young. If Houston saw some whites beating a black person or a woman being raped or a child being abused by his parent, would he decide he was "not directly involved...(and) just butt out" or would he do the humane thing and come to the rescue?

If Houston wants to leave the decision to just the people involved, he should at least consider the other person. That "growth of cells" certainly has an opinion in the question of whether he or she lives or dies. We have clinical evidence that unborn children are not suicidal; they prefer to come out when they are ready.

It looks to me like Mark Houston needs a little religion in his soul. His mind is so open his brains have fallen out.

Tom Pittman assistant professor of computer science

Free expression

And Much

I am in my fourth year as a student at K-State, and in those four years I have never had occasion to voice my opinion - positively or negatively - in a letter. A problem, though, has come to my attention which I find upsetting.

Recently I discovered that according to Student Governing Association rules, only recognized campus organizations may post fliers or advertisements on campus. To me, this seems unfair. We, as students, support this University through our tuition and fee payments, and I think it is only right that the kiosks on campus be available to the entire student population.

I am more than willing to consent that the fliers be approved for tact or taste, but they should not be restricted completely. The same policy should be maintained for residence halls as well. A university should be an open forum in which students can exchange information, and as long as this University is student-supported in any way it should not be allowed to censor the free expression of its benefactors.

Tom Lawrence senior in restaurant management

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Teacher's brother says NASA exploits citizens

By The Associated Press

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. - Christa McAuliffe's brother accused NASA on Thursday of exploiting his sister for the sake of publicity and called on the government to abandon for now programs to put everyday people in-

"They shouldn't be using the public for something that's mainly for the government," said Christopher Corrigan, whose sister was chosen to be the first private cit'

sig gr

m sc wi sh af

m ne fo:

pa Tł

th

m

WŁ

iss

pk

for an mi

co

State College, where his sister went to school, added: "I don't think they should go ahead and do anything else for the moment, if ever.'

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has put the space program on hold and has said no ordinary citizen would be on any of the next five shuttle flights and perhaps not on any of the first 20, said Edward Campion, a spokesman in Washington.

"They're not going to put a civilians on until we are comfortable

We're A Full Line Brazier Dairy Queen now!!

Chicken Breast Sandwich

Serving:

- Brazier Burgers
- Cheese Burgers Pork Fritters
- Chili Dogs
 - BBQ Beef

12th & Moro · Hot dogs Aggieville, Manhattan Dairu

We at Hair Westloop are happy to announce that Marcia Khaledi has ioined our staff. Marcia is formerly of Crimpers and invites both regular and new customers to call her for an appointment.

539-6001 1318 Westloop

1 for all prospec-

ed students

t 2 p.m.

NS

VIDEO

STEREO

IEVILLE

33333333 ent brands)

The

ask

am

Friday, January 30, 1987

Rent By Phone!

Campus Rent-All: it's the hot line to your rental needs. Just dial our number and we'll deliver your rental request and contract to your home in record time. So let your fingers do your renting. Call Campus Rent-All for fast service, wide selection and big savings!

· VCR's and VCP's

winner for Best Picture!

Meryl Streep and Robert Redford star in this sweeping love story set in colonial Africa.

SHOWTIME

- · Over 1000 VHS titles to choose from · AX-10 typewriters with lift-off
- correction
- Televisions, stereos, etc.

COME OUT OF YOUR SHELL

There's no reason to be a hermit at Nautilus Fitness Club. Our specially trained staff will get you started in the most complete exercise program in the area.

There's even room to dance in our shell. Over 25 Aerobic classes every week, with video-taped classes available to match your workout only take 90 minutes a week to reach peak. Deep in our shell, beyond the free wts., dressing and shower room you'll find the relaxation of the sauna and whirlpool

Enter our shell this spring for only $9950. Expires May 15

AND INTO OURS Nautilus* Total Fitness Club

776-1654

Community Health Care

Surgery
DayStay Surgery
Laser Surgery
Intensive Care
Obstetrics

Birthing room, Birthing chair, X-ray services

Level II Intensive Care nursery Mammography
Nuclear medicine
C.T. scanning
Respiratory Therapy
Physical Therapy
Ourable Medical Equipment Center

EMERGENCY CARE CENTER 913-776-3300 Full Physician Coverage

Weekends and Holidays

Working together for a healthier you

SUNSET AVENUE AT CLAFLIN ROAD, MANHATTAN, KS

Manhattan Cable 776-9239

KSDB's NEW WEEKEND SCHEDULE

Start the weekend off with Rock of Ages Fridays 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

WEEK	SAT.	SUN.
6:00 JAZZ IN	JAZZ IN THE MORNING
9:00 THE MORNING	TUNE—FUSION	SUNDAY CLASSICS
12:00	REGGAE	SUNDAT CLASSICS
3:00	METAL HEAD	DR. DEMENTO
5:00 NEW 6:00 ALBUM		CROSS POINT
8:00 ROCK	JAM THE	AFRICAN BEAT
10:00	BOX	THE "TOUR"

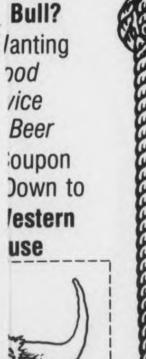

Don't Miss SPORTSCENE with Dick Warren Mondays at 6:30

VALENTINE BALLOONS

THE PROPERTY OF THE PERSON OF

Rally 'round Ron

Should President Reagan be impeached? According to the laws which govern this

But let's be real for a minute. This is America, and I'm an American. Thus, I think not (pun intended). After all, the president is the major authority figure of America, the man in charge, our leader.

If one is cruel to oneself and is realistic, one knows that major authority figures are often no more than figures. They may not be reasonable, nor knowledgeable, nor competent - but so what? They're still our leaders.

To impeach President Reagan would deal too grand a blow to the American fairy tale we grew up believing in about the president being perfect and his thus being the representative figure of American perfection in general as compared with all those backward foreigners we keep having to bail out of the wars they start.

So please, let's "rally 'round Ron," as the president's streamline conservative faithfuls are urging. If he goes down, we all go down. America has had a record of perfection up to now. Let's not spoil it.

Kale Baldock senior in modern languages

Cavalier attitude

Re: Mark Houston's letter "Just stay out of it" in the Jan. 23 Collegian. Houston's cavalier attitude toward defenseless people would be astounding if it were not so common. It is astounding anyway.

Why is an unborn child "a growth of cells" and a child after birth not? Or should we assume that Houston is also "a growth of cells" that has not yet been removed? Can a few hours or days of maturity make that much difference? Maybe Houston himself is not yet fully mature.

Or is it that the unborn child takes nutrition

and oxygen directly into his or her bloodstream instead of eating and breathing? Then we should not waste money on intravenous feeding and heart-lung machines because the application of these technologies turns people into a "growth of cells" that can be removed at the whim of the

Most astounding is that Houston's major is listed as "natural resource management." Does he care more about trees and animals than people? Children are a natural resource; killing them is what is artificial.

No, I am directly involved. All people are responsible for safeguarding the rights of the handicapped, the sick, the blacks, the Jews, the very young. If Houston saw some whites beating a black person or a woman being raped or a child being abused by his parent, would he decide he was "not directly involved...(and) just butt out" or would he do the humane thing and come to the rescue?

If Houston wants to leave the decision to just the people involved, he should at least consider the other person. That "growth of cells" certainly has an opinion in the question of whether he or she lives or dies. We have clinical evidence that unborn children are not suicidal; they prefer to come out when they are ready.

It looks to me like Mark Houston needs a little religion in his soul. His mind is so open his brains have fallen out.

> Tom Pittman assistant professor of computer science

Free expression

I am in my fourth year as a student at K-State, and in those four years I have never had occasion to voice my opinion - positively or negatively — in a letter. A problem, though, has come to my attention which I find upsetting.

Recently I discovered that according to Student Governing Association rules, only recognized campus organizations may post fliers or advertisements on campus. To me, this seems unfair. We, as students, support this University through our tuition and fee payments, and I think it is only right that the kiosks on campus be available to the entire student population.

I am more than willing to consent that the fliers be approved for tact or taste, but they should not be restricted completely. The same policy should be maintained for residence halls as well. A university should be an open forum in which students can exchange information, and as long as this University is student-supported in any way it should not be allowed to censor the free expression of its benefactors.

> Tom Lawrence senior in restaurant management

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Teacher's brother says NASA exploits citizens

By The Associated Press

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. - Christa McAuliffe's brother accused NASA on Thursday of exploiting his sister for the sake of publicity and called on the government to abandon for now programs to put everyday people in-

'They shouldn't be using the public for something that's mainly for the government," said Christopher Corrigan, whose sister was chosen to be the first private citizen in space.

Corrigan also said he feels his sister was used by the space program "because she thought it was more safe than it was.'

His comments ended a year of almost complete silence from relatives of the Concord, N.H. schoolteacher, who was killed along with six fellow astronauts when the shuttle Challenger blew up shortly after liftoff Jan. 28, 1986.

Corrigan, who made similar comments Wednesday to a local newspaper after a memorial service for his sister, said he believes his parents share some of his feelings. They have declined to comment on the accident that killed their daughter. He said the program did boost the morale of teachers and improve the way the public viewed them, but he said he still believed the space agency took advantage of his sister.

These teachers, these journalists, I think it's really using them for the publicity in a negative way," said Corrigan, 35, of Framingham.

Corrigan said he thought perhaps ordinary people could be sent into space sometime in the distant future, if NASA deals with the many safety issues that came to light after the explosion and if the space program's focus turned more toward discovery and away from commercial and military projects, "like Star Wars."

But Corrigan, who works with computers used by the administrative staff at Framingham

FREE

TGIF

BUFFET

Round of beef

carved to order

Cheese & crackers

ALL YOU

CAN EAT

SHRIMP

Boiled shrimp

Potato & Bread

Salad Bar

$11.95

Doo-dahs

· Dips, chips,

relishes

State College, where his sister went to school, added: "I don't think they should go ahead and do anything else for the moment, if ever.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has put the space program on hold and has said no ordinary citizen would be on any of the next five shuttle flights and perhaps not on any of the first 20, said Edward Campion, a spokesman in Washington.

"They're not going to put a civilians on until we are comfortable with the design changes that have been made," he said.

The astronauts were told a risk was involved in space flight, said Campion. But, he said, he did not know whether they had been told about any of the previous technical problems with the shuttle.

He said teacher in space and journalist in space programs "were not public relations stunts." Rather, he said, NASA thought an ordinary person who had not spent years flying high performance jets would have "a fresh mind" and could help many citizens appreciate the space ex-

"If Christa McAuliffe had done what she was supposed to and spoke to millions of educators and children, who's to say that wouldn't have had a beneficial impact on society," Campion said. "She was flying with a purpose, with a mission, she was not just

"Sometimes part of the pain of this whole thing is that you're constantly wondering what might the impact have been."

We're A Full Line Brazier Dairy Queen now!! Serving: Chicken Breast Sandwich And Much Brazier Burgers · Chili Dogs Cheese Burgers BBQ Beef Pork Fritters

12th & Moro Hot dogs Aggieville, Manhattan 1015 N. 3rd Dairy Queen Manhattan

We at Hair Westloop are happy to announce that Marcia Khaledi has joined our staff. Marcia is formerly of Crimpers and invites both regular and new customers to call her for an appointment.

539-6001 1318 Westloop

SEASON II

"OUR RESPONSE TO THE LORD'S CALL"

Sign-up Sunday: February 1st Renew Begins: February 22

> St. Isidore's 711 Denison

ASK US!

An important information session for all prospective student senators and interested students TOPICS INCLUDE:

- University Funding Issues
- State Work Study Program
- Student Financial Aid
- Excellence in Education

K-State Union Big Eight Room Sunday, February 1 at 2 p.m.

Sponsored by the Associated Students of Kansas

FRIDAY & SATURDAY STOREWIDE BARGAINS

ACCESSORIES

CAR STEREO TAPES

CASSETTES

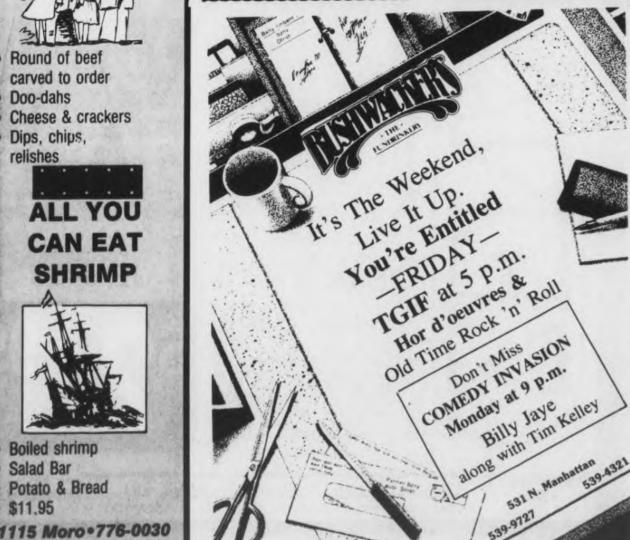

VIDEO HOME STEREO

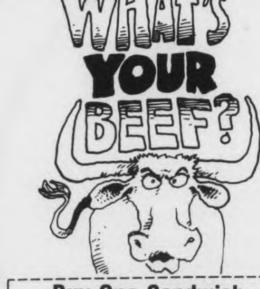

THE SOUND SHOP

1204 MORO

AGGIEVILLE

(You can't make a good decision if you don't have a choice-Sound Shop carries 50 different brands)

Tired Of The Same Old Bull?

If You're Wanting Cheap Food Poor Service And Stale Beer Bring This Coupon and Ride on Down to

The Great Western Smokehouse

Buy One Sandwich, Get One FREE (with coupon)

The Great Western Smokehouse 901 Seth Childs Rd.

Village Plaza Shopping Center Manhattan, KS 66502 776-0300 Offer Expires Feb. 15, 1987

PERSONAL PROPERTY OF THE PROPE

Project continues 1987 area promotion

By SUE DAWSON Managing Editor

While many merchants are still recovering from the busy Christmas season, the MainStreet Project's second year of presentations and promotions is under way for 1987.

Brenda Spencer, project manager, said now that the project's annual report for 1986 is finished, the group is in full motion for the coming year.

A "downtown, self-help revitalization project," MainStreet's goal is to prepare the existing area for competition with the Manhattan Town Center mall, scheduled to open this fall, Spencer said.

Oral presentations were made to the city and county commissions, Spencer said, requesting further funding for 1987. Both commissions agreed to continue financing the pro-

The annual report listed estimated expenditures for this year to be $106,667, and the total available funds are estimated at $111,600.

The first promotion this year is Winter Dog Days, continuing today through Saturday, when winter merchandise will be put on sale.

"It's a citywide event that's set by the Chamber of Commerce," she said.

Shoppers will be able to register at the merchants' stores for a shopping

In February, two promotions have been planned. The first, Sweetheart Days, will feature a Valentine's package, probably including a getaway weekend and roses, Spencer said. For the President's Day promotion, she said, "we will walk up to people, ask them to identify the that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat!

> Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville president (pictured) on a bill." If answered correctly, the shopper will get to keep the money.

The National MainStreet Real Estate Analysis Conference Thursday and today in Hutchinson involved all the MainStreet projects throughout the United States. In order to become a MainStreet city, states apply to the National MainStreet Center. After a state is chosen cities are designated to participate in the program.

The conference had general training sessions in the areas of business recruitment, retention and promo-

The five original Kansas MainStreet cities are Lawrence, Independence, Hutchinson, Winfield and Manhattan. Two more, Dodge City and Fort Scott, were added this Manhattan's program will now look toward finding new businesses to open stores in the downtown area. 'We've spent more time planning the recruitment program and getting the foundation ready," she said.

'We're primarily contacting strong retailers who might be interested in expanding their business to Manhattan," she said, not trying to take businesses away from their present locations.

target for recruitment are Topeka, Lawrence and Salina.

"We've got a lot of stores...that are joint city. We haven't really made the contacts," she said. Spencer would not comment on which of the merchants from these areas would be contacted.

In addition to focusing on preparing the downtown area for the opening of the mall, the project's plans include developing new ways to promote Manhattan as a regional shopping center, increasing community and merchant involvement and conducting marketing surveys.

Tentatively, there are plans for a business strategy class to help with a marketing study of the downtown area, she said. Fred Rice, director of the Small Businesses Development Center, has given his students a list of 13 projects designed to aid small businesses with marketing problems. He said the students will choose projects to work on, and groups will be formed within the next week.

"This is a project where the students are trying to identify the types of businesses and stores that people leave Manhattan for," Spencer said. The survey will try to identify what is missing downtown,

The three cities Manhattan will and she said the students will be able to expand on the information.

"You've got to have a well-rounded mix (of stores) in order to attract people to the area," Rice said. The involvement with real-life projects gives students hands-on experience which can be listed on a resume, he

Spencer said they are trying to get more students involved in the marketing and advertising aspects of the MainStreet project.

She said the project has worked with students from the Department of Architecture and Design on site studies, but only for educational pur-

On the advisory board from the University are Mark Lapping, head of the Department of Architecture; Kenny Mossman, administrative assistant in the Department of Inter-collegiate Athletics; Wayne Norvell, professor of marketing; and Bob Krause, vice president for institutional advancement.

BARBIZON cuddleskin gowns J CHRISTOPHER nightshirts MISS ELAINE robes & gowns Selected teddies, bras, panties THURS.-FRI.-SAT. 1224 Moro Aggieville Open Mon.-Fri. 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m., Thurs. 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Sat. 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

VALENTINEWS/BULLETIN

WE DELIVER

STARTING AT 11 A.M. Family Buffet 5-9 M.-Th. Luncheon Buffet 11-2 Everyday

Open 7 Days/Week 11:00 A.M. till 10:00 P.M. Sunday thru Thursday 11:00 A.M. till 12:00 Midnight Friday & Saturday

537-4350 3019 Anderson Village Plaza Shopping Center

DERBILTS

1016 W. 6th 238-6101 Junction City

ROCKY MOUNTAIN BONKERS presents

DOW JONES & the INDUSTRIALS

TONIGHT 10 p.m.-2 a.m.

SATURDAY 10 p.m.-2 a.m.

PARTY AT BONKERS

of artists such as STEVIE NICKS EMERSON, LAKE, AND POWELL Enjoy smooth, creamy NU SHOOZ Frozen Yogurt ALCATRAZZ BRYAN ADAMS STEWART COPELAND And many more at -- FREE SAMPLES--I Can't Believe It's YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores SOUND SHOP OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily 1204 Moro

1208 Moro in Aggieville

537-7555

The casuater aure & gals 10-8:30 THURSDAY

OPEN 1-5 SUN.

SUPER CLOTHING SALE

Register for

FREE POSTERS!

PRINCE

LEE JEANS...... 1/3 to 1/2 OFF SELECTED JEANS...... $999 SWEATERS...... V2 OFF BLOUSES...... 1/2 OFF

* FOR GUYS

WINTER COATS..... 1/3 to 1/2 OFF SPORT COATS....up to 70% OFF SLACKS......20% to 50% OFF LEE JEANS......$1699 FASHION JEANS ONE GROUP. 1/2 PRICE FASHION JEANS & CORDS... $999 SWEATERS.....up to 1/2 PRICE PLUS OTHER SPECIAL PRICES

COME TO THE MOVIES

TONIGHT

7:30 p.m.

1021 Denison WE'LL WATCH "POWER" STARRING RICHARD GERE, JULIE CHRISTIE AND GENE HACKMAN, HAVE POPCORN AND DISCUSS THE MOVIE.

HOPE TO SEE YOU THERE! Another program of Ecumenical Christian Ministries. The Campus Ministry of:

The Church of Brethren, The United Church of Christ, The Presbyterian Church (USA); The United Methodist Church

'Cats agree MU is vicious at home

Chievous paces Big Eight scorers

By DAVE WAGNER Sports Writer

K-State's men's basketball team will attempt to scar Missouri's 3-0 record at home against Big Eight Conference opponents Sunday when the Wildcats journey to Hearnes Center in Columbia to face the

The game, televised by the Raycom Sports Network, is slated to start at 1 p.m.

Missouri, 14-7, soundly defeated Nebraska Wednesday, 87-71, and is one of three teams in the Big Eight with perfect records in league play at home. The other two are Oklahoma and Kansas.

K-State extended its record to 14-4 after an 11-point, 88-77 victory Wednesday against Oklahoma State in Stillwater. Missouri and the 'Cats are 4-1 in conference play and tied with Oklahoma for second place behind Kansas.

Coach Lon Kruger said his team, 5-2 on the road this season, is looking forward to playing the Tigers and isn't intimidated by the prospect of playing in front of a tough Hearnes Center crowd.

"We're excited about playing in Hearnes Center," Kruger said. "It is a great place to play. The crowd really gets into the game and we're looking forward to playing there."

This year's Missouri team is short on experience, with only two juniors and no seniors on the roster. Tigers' coach Norm Stewart said he has been pleased that his team has showed maturity this season.

But he is realistic in understanding this isn't always possible with such a young team.

"We only have two juniors and you don't always get that (aggressive play from all our players)," Stewart said. "I keep seeing it in practice (and) keep hoping for it (in games)."

What Stewart "keeps hoping" to see in games was viewed clearly by Oklahoma in Missouri's upset win over the Sooners in Columbia in the conference opener for both squads. Since that victory, the Tigers have been recognized as a viable contender for the conference crown.

Leading the Tigers offensively is honorable mention All-American selection Derrick Chievous. Chievous, a 6-foot-61/2 junior forward, leads the Big Eight in scoring, averaging 24.7 points a game.

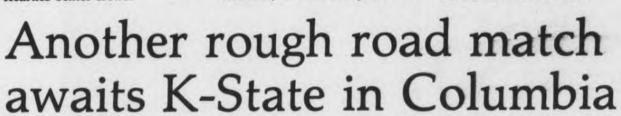

In the four games previous to the Tigers' ousting of Nebraska, Chievous hit 39 of 53 attempts from the field for 74 percent. His hot shooting also gave him the scoring lead in conference games with an average of 29.8 points a contest.

Chievous has a strong supporting cast in freshman Nathan Buntin -13.6 points per game and 5.7 rebounds - and Lynn Hardy, a 6-2 junior guard who averages 10.9 points and 2.1 rebounds.

Kruger said he is optimistic about Sunday's game, but isn't taking anything for granted.

"Missouri is...a tough, quick ball team, especially at home," Kruger

NOTES: 6-11 freshman center Howard Bonser has officially quit the team for personal reasons, Kruger said Thursday. Early in the season, Bonser had mononucleosis and a back ailment and had not played in any of the team's 18 games this season...Ron Meyer (bruised thigh) and Lynn Smith (ankle) will most likely miss Sunday's game due to injuries.

By CHASE CLARK Sports Writer

Road trips have been bumpy for the K-State women's basketball team this season. The Lady Cats have suffered their only four defeats on the road this season, including Big Eight Conference losses to Oklahoma and Oklahoma State.

K-State, on the second and final game of its current road trip, will attempt to snap that streak Saturday against the Missouri Lady Tigers in the "unfriendly confines" of the Hearnes Center in Columbia,

Tip-off is set for 7:30 p.m. and the game can be heard on WIBW-radio,

"It's really tough to win at Missouri." said Lady Cat senior forward-center Carlisa Thomas. In her four years on the team, K-State has not defeated Missouri at Columbia. K-State's last win there came during the 1981-82 season.

In their previous outing Tuesday, the Lady Cats were defeated by Oklahoma State in Stillwater, 75-67.

With the loss, K-State, 15-4 overall, fell into a five-way tie at 4-2 for the conference lead.

Missouri, after losing Wednesday to Nebraska, is 13-6 and 3-3.

"We're really excited to play Missouri," said Lady Cat Tracey Bleczinski. "Ever since we lost to Oklahoma that's been our big goal to beat Missouri.

"Maybe what happened the other night against Oklahoma State is we just overlooked them. Everybody was looking toward MU," she add-

Six starters are returning from last year's Lady Tigers' squad, including 1985-86 Big Eight Player of the Year, Renee Kelly. The 6-foot-1 senior center leads the conference in scoring with an average of 26.2 points per game. Kelly was ranked No. 4 nationally among majorcollege women in scoring.

Kelly is Missouri's second-leading career scorer - men's statistics included - with 1,878 points. At her current pace she will surpass the all-time scoring leader Joni Davis, who had 2,126 in her career as a Lady Tiger.

"I'm just counting on getting on her and my help side (defense)," said Bleczinski on her plans of stopping Kelly if she is chosen to guard Kelly by K-State Coach Matilda Mossman. "Our help side defense is always really good.'

Bleczinski was named Tuesday the Big Eight player of the week.

Sue Leiding is pacing the Cats in the scoring department with 15.1 points a game. Susan Green is netting 12 points a game and Carlisa Thomas is hitting for 11 points a

During the Oklahoma State game Tuesday both Thomas and Green recorded personal victories. Thomas became the Lady Cat's career rebounding leader and Green handed out three assists, moving her into fourth place on the Lady Cat's career assists chart.

The Lady Cats return home next week for a Wednesday night conference matchup with Oklahoma. Earlier in the season, Oklahoma routed K-State, 70-47.

1986 file photo

K-State will try to stop the scoring punch of University of Missouri forward Derrick Chievous in a conference game Sunday at Hearnes Center in Columbia, Mo. Chievous leads the Big Eight with an average of 24.7 points per game overall, and a 29.8 average in conference contests.

It's no mistake, poll ignores Lady Cats

How quickly things can change in a

Last week, K-State's women's basketball team was riding high on the success of a four-game home sweep. In that same time period, the Lady Cats also discovered in the Jan. 18 Associated Press women's college basketball poll they had received enough votes to spot them 25th on the survey.

But woe was K-State — the Rodney Dangerfields of the women's basketball world. Two other Big Eight Conference teams also appeared in the poll, when Oklahoma and Missouri were placed in the 22nd and 23rd spots, respectively.

K-State and its fans were thrilled to hear the news. But neither could be blamed if they believed it was a hideous crime to rank the Lady Sooners and Lady Tigers ahead of

Not to be discouraged, K-State won

CHASE CLARK Writer

at Colorado, 71-61, and emerged victorious over Kansas at Ahearn Field House, 71-65, in overtime. In the meantime, Oklahoma was decisively beaten by Oklahoma State, and Missouri met its match in Columbia against Colorado. The two losses gave the Lady Cats a temporary lead in the conference.

Looking at the above results, it seemed obvious enough to me what was going to happen in the next AP poll that came out Jan. 25 - K-State should rise above slumping Oklahoma and Missouri in the poll. How could K-State not receive more votes after winning both of their contests that week? More importantly, how could Missouri and Oklahoma remain higher in the poll than the Big Eight-leading Lady Cats?

Alas, the sports writers who vote on the rankings don't seem to have the same sense of logic as I do. When the poll came out Tuesday, sure enough, Oklahoma fell to 27th and Missouri plummeted to 33rd, but K-State was nowhere to be found.

After reading the poll several times and even carefully looking it over with a magnifying glass to make sure I didn't miss the words "Kansas State," reality hit me - the people who made this poll must have made a terrible mistake and accidentally left K-State out.

So I checked with the K-State's Sports Information Office to find out the truth behind this unforgivable crime. But personnel at the office sadly said it was true. The Lady Cats had not received one meager vote in the latest poll.

Now I would like to know what was going through the minds of these people while they were making this poll. How can a team that continues to win games drop in the poll? Did the Lady Cats not defeat their opponents by enough points to satisfy these people? Or perhaps the pollsters made the unforgivable mistake of overlooking K-State.

Possibly they didn't feel like taking the time to sensibly rank the teams, and instead put the names of all the teams into a hat and drew names for the spots on the poll. At first glance, this seems like a fair method, even though it's not.

Whatever the excuse is, I don't believe the Lady Cats deserved to fall completely out of the poll.

Kick return specialist swaps fire for pigskin

By The Associated Press

HONOLULU - Vai Sikahema gave up fire dancing, he says, because it was too dangerous.

So now Sikahema makes a living by standing motionless, his eyes raised, virtually defenseless as more than a ton of hostile humanity comes thundering down on him.

He's a punt and kickoff return specialist for the St. Louis Cardinals.

He's also one of only three rookies named to play in Sunday's Pro Bowl. "I guess the danger of fire dancing doesn't really compare to what I do now," said Sikahema, a native of Tonga. "But football pays better."

Sikahema said he began fire dancing - a South Seas ceremony that involves twirling burning torches - to make spending money when he was a student in Arizona.

"We performed at luaus and stuff like that," he said. "But I got burned a couple of times and, needless to say, gave it up.'

Sikahema has done well in his new undertaking, fielding kicks and dancing around and through the opposition on the football field.

Sikahema led the NFC with a 12.1-yard punt return average, including two returns for touchdowns.

K-State's track teams to challenge Big Eight competition at Missouri

By JEFF RAPP

Sports Writer K-State track coach John Capriotti said the men's and women's track teams will almost be at full strength when they compete at the Missouri Invitational Saturday in Columbia.

"We've got a couple of key peo-ple out, but for the most part we're going to be pretty much back to full strength," Capriotti said. Capriotti was referring to K-State's last meet, the Nebraska Invitational in Lincoln Jan. 17. In that meet, both teams were greatly hindered by a lack of healthy athletes, but still managed two second-place finishes. Injured Wildcats unable to go to Missouri are sprinter Jeff Reynolds, distance runner Alysun Deckert and pole vaulter Jeff Holmes. Although it is a nonscoring meet, Capriotti has set some competitive goals for the

"We have to stack up, and we have to compete well against some of the other Big Eight teams,"

Capriotti said. 'We have to look like we're going to beat some of those teams. We have to show (the other Big Eight schools) we can run at or above their level, and I think we

K-State's women will compete against Missouri, Kansas, Wisconsin, Arizona, Arkansas State and Memphis State. The men will battle Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas State, Memphis State, Iowa State, Oklahoma State and Southern Il-

Capriotti said he especially looked forward to competing against perennial rival KU.

"I'm not going to make any bones about it. I don't like them and I hope they don't like us. I can't wait to run against Kansas.

"We're not at full strength, but I expect to beat them heads-up without all of our athletes there,"

Cup finals to begin Saturday thoroughly researched weather patterns in this Indian Ocean port and how they change from October through February, the period for the

"We spent lots of time on statistical analysis of about 15 years of Fremantle weather," Stars &

Stripes design coordinator John Mar-

Cup competition.

By The Associated Press

FREMANTLE, Australia - Stars & Stripes sets sail Saturday on the final leg of a mission never asked of a U.S. boat: bring back the America's

The San Diego yacht, skippered by Dennis Conner, will meet Kookaburra III, defender of the trophy the Australians brought home

The forecast for the opening race calls for winds out of the southwest at 17 to 19 knots, in the moderate to heavy range.

As the best-of-seven series progresses, the winds are expected to moderate, as they usually do in February.

The U.S. challenger's planners

Stars & Stripes, known as a heavyweather boat, could be just as dangerous in those lighter winds.

handle on conditions you race in." Modification work to adapt the boat to conditions specific to a partcular time period has gone on during the Cup races, which began Oct. 5. The boat was excellent in strong winds through the three round-robin series. In the challenger semifinals in late December and early January, Stars & Stripes swept USA 4-0 in primarily moderate conditions. In the challenger finals, Stars & Stripes eliminated New Zealand 4-1.

In Thursday's practice, with light winds, Conner's crew sailed on Stars & Stripes '85, a heavy-weather yacht, while Stars & Stripes '87, which will meet Kookaburra III, stayed on land for some finishing touches.

Kookaburra III and Kookaburra II worked on racing tactics against each other.

"We don't know as much about them as we'd like to," Conner said of shall said. "You have to have a good Kookaburra III. John Bertrand, skipper on Australia II when it beat Conner and Liberty in 1983 in Newport, R.I., said, 'It would appear from the feedback we've had that in strong conditions, 22 knots plus, Stars & Stripes may have a technical edge in terms of straight-line speed.

"Possibly in lighter conditions, 16 knots, the Kookaburra syndicate may have superior straight-line

By KRISTI BARANCIK Collegian Reporter

A K-State professor Thursday was awarded a $165,000 grant from the American Cancer Society for his promising research on cancer cell division.

"We want to understand what regulates normal cell division in order to find a potential way to inhibit cancer growth," said Terry C. Johnson, winner of the grant and director of the Division of Biology.

Johnson said there are two general areas of cancer research on cellular division. The first is the study of growth factors. This is based on the hypothesis that certain factors stimulate cells that are presently arrested in growth to begin dividing again.

The second area, which Johnson's research is based on, is the study of growth inhibitors.

"Growth inhibitors keep cells in arrest so they don't divide abnormally," Johnson said. "To our knowledge, this is the first bona fide cell inhibitor that has been purified and characterized chemically."

If the inhibitor is added to cancerous cells, the cells will receive a message to stop dividing and growth will be ar-

"All tumors, whether benign or malignant, have somehow escaped normal growth regulations. They are making decisions to abnormally divide," Johnson

A tumor cell is a normal cell that has been mutated in such a way that the cell can no longer respond to normal growth regula-

"The inhibitor is a polypeptide molecule that has sugars associated with it. We have isolated it from the surface of ordinary cells," Johnson said. "We can overcome growth factors with this inhibitor.'

Johnson conducts his research at the Center for Basic Cancer Research. Seven graduate and undergraduate students are involved in the research.

Johnson sent the grant application to the ACS last March. The application acceptance was based on reports of research that has been conducted and the plans for future development on data from preliminary studies.

Dr. Pete Crane, president of the Riley County chapter of the American Cancer Society, and Joe de la Torre, volunteer chairman of the Riley County Service and Rehabilitation Committee for the American Cancer Society, presented Johnson with the first installment of the grant Thursday afternoon at a reception in Ackert

MCC reduces debt, boosts enrollment

By KELLY LAMBORN Collegian Reporter

Manhattan Christian College is breathing a wary sigh of relief enrollment is up; two new buildings are finished; and the debt has been reduced from $3.2 million to $1

MCC still needs to retire the $1 million debt, said David Smale, MCC director of public relations.

Gary Edwards, MCC vice president for development, said MCC is attempting to expand its donor base from primarily oil- and farm-related donors. The $1 million debt will be retired through current income, he

"We're going to kick off a major endowment program for equipment and other new facilities between April and June," Edwards said.

"Corporations, foundations and individuals will be contacted."

In 1982, an MCC board of trustees policy was created to avoid any future deficit spending, Smale said. No new buildings can be built until funds are in place to pay for them. This covers all aspects of the college, including equipment, personnel and

The recently completed J. Donald Coffin Memorial Hall houses administrative offices and classrooms. The $1 million structure was funded by a donation from Coffin's widow, Bertha, of Council Grove. Empire Development Co.

Denver developer Floyd Sack, of Empire Development Co., purchased land from MCC for $600,000 and built the new Student Service Center, Smale said. Smale said MCC's fall enrollment was up 9 percent — to 187 students — from its spring 1986 enrollment. The final spring count will be taken after the 20th day of classes Feb. 10, but administrators say they don't anticipate much of an increase or decrease from the fall figures.

In October 1985, MCC faced a $3.2 million debt and foreclosure proceedings.

Land acquisitions and hard economic times contributed to MCC's large debt, Smale said. In the 1960s, enrollment was steadily increasing, and the college, founded in 1927, started looking at expansion and improvement. Long-term bonds were issued to allow land purchases to create a four-block campus area.

During the 1970s, inflation, problems in the oil and farm industries, high interest rates and declining enrollment set in. These problems continued, and MCC faced a $3.2 million debt, Smale said.

In 1985, MCC fell 10 months behind on second-mortage payments to the Christian Church Extension Foundation in Denver. CCEF filed foreclosure papers against MCC on Oct. 4 that year.

Smale said MCC embarked on an "MCC Miracle Trust" fund-raising drive. In 93 days, MCC received $1.6 million from more than 4,000 donors. This fundraising effort enabled MCC to pay the CCEF debt and avoid foreclosure.

MCC proceeded with plans to sell property to help reduce its debt. The Manhattan City Commission had approved the college's zoning request in August 1985, following a signature petition drive and compromises with Aggieville merchants.

KANSAS CATHOLIC COLLEGE STUDENTS

Convention: Feb. 20-22, 1987 Interested? Want more info? Informal social meeting for information and registration

Sunday, Feb.1, 6 p.m. Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison

> Bring your dinner if you want and your friends too!

Home Cinema

1 Yr. Anniversary Special

2 Movies for $2.50

FREE All Day Saturday

Balloons

Our way of saying "Thank You" to our patrons for making this possible!

Hours: Mon.-Thurs. 10-9, Fri.-Sat. 10-10, Sun. 12-7 537-1115 South Addition-Village Plaza Shopping Center

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

•4¢ self-service copies Full service copy center Resume service

OPEN DAILY Sun. 12-9 Denison & Claflin

THE GUTHRIE THEATE

George Bernard Shaw's witty portrait of the eternal love triangle

McCain Auditorium

Wednesday, February 11, 1987 8 p.m.

Tickets and Information (913) 532-6425

Mastercard/Visa accepted This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and by the National Endowment for the

Classifieds

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication; noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-118)

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski destinations. South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauderdale, Mustang Island/Port Aransas, Galveston Island and Fort Walton Beach, Call Sunchase Tours Central Spring Break Toll Free Hot Line today for

LIFE and Tittes

HELP CHILDREN learn. The Friendship Tutoring Program needs more tutors! Please call 776-6566 if you are willing to volunteer to help a child on Thursday evenings. (86-90)

ONE CHOIR scholarship available for tenor voice. Call First Lutheran, 537-8532. (86-88)

PIKE LIL' Sisters: don't forget important meeting Sunday night at 7 p.m. Mandatory for pledges starting initiation. (88)

PINGA PARTIERS: Bring friends to party, Saturday, January 31st. (88) LOOK YOUR best in '87! Now available on campus-Avon! Makeup, jewelry, cologne, gifts. Contact Kara, 532-3291. (88)

ATTENTION

01

CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry. Need 100 overweight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drugs, no ex-100% guaranteed. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

02

HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT distributor. See us for products. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

TO GIVE AWAY: FREE MONEY The $1,017

Cold Cash Giveaway Listen to KMKF 101.7 FM for details.

ENGLAND, SCOTLAND, and Ireland for under $1,300. Travel to Europe for 11 days; includes airfare, meals, sightseeing and lodging. Leaving Kansas City May 18. Call right away for more informaGOVERNMENT SURPLUS!! Overcoats, field jackets, camouffage clothing, wool gloves and socks, cold weather boots, Carhartt workwear, much more!! Just 28 miles east on highway 24. Open Monday -Saturday, 9-5. St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437. 2734. (86-95)

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

FOR RENT, two-bedroom mobile home, $200 month plus deposit. 537-7622. (85-93)

64

FOR RENT—APTS

TWO BEDROOM luxury duplex: Fireplace, garage west of campus, $450. Call 539-4294 or 776-2536.

FREE RENT in January. Large two-bedroom, nicely decorated, dishwasher, disposal. No pets. $300, deposit required. 539-1465. (85-88)

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS

Leasing for June Studio, 1 & 2 Bedroom

Apartments and Townhouses Close to campus

area. Call 776-9124. (78tf)

539-4447 ONE-BEDROOM, two-bedroom apartments, furnished or unfurnished, (new furniture). Westloop

ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month. Gas, heat, and water included. Lease and deposit requ Call 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (78-88)

by Doug & Dick

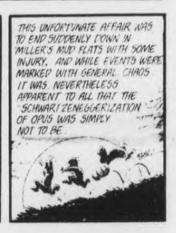

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

Garfield

By Jim Davis

eanuts

HI, WOULD YOU MIND IF SAT HERE AND HAD

season

my day"

4 Singing voice

feature,

6 Cloak's partner

7 Medicinal

8 Pen point plant for short

5 VCR

- , make

45 Thin layer 2 Seine

47 Fail.

business-

wise

sight

52 Wrath

53 Period

54 Lawyer

Louis 55 Basking

shade

to be

DOWN

Boot'

(movie)

57 Designer's concern

56 Used

17 Of late

19 Actress

Eve

21 Dunder-

24 Health

26 Inn

resort

28 Madison worker

Koppel

30 Newsman

Ave.

head

22 Minuscule

By Charles Schulz

close to campus new furniture

1 Bedroom

new paint $270

call 539-1642 or

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, gara

537-4567

west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294. (78tf) LARGE TWO-bedroom, partially furnished basement apartment close to campus, 1411 Vista Lane. Own entrance, no pets, parking for two cars. Deposit plus rent, available now. Pay own electricity. Phone 235-3550, Topeka. (79-88) LARGE, WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five blocks from campus. No pets. $300. Call 776-0181. (79tf)

ADJACENT TO campus, 1224 Bertrand. Nice, twobedroom with garage, washer and dryer. We pay water, trash. Asking $350. Call 537-1745 or 537-4422. (82-90) TWO BEDROOM apartment, partially furnished,

close to campus with air conditioning. Rent $255. Call 539-7253. (83-88)

NEAR KSU, quiet, clean, one-bedroom, furnished, laundry, air conditioning, parking. Available June 1. Call 776-7814 or 539-3803. (85-104) NICE TWO-bedroom apartment, furnished, laundry facilities. Near campus. Free February rent. 776-8707 (after 8 p.m.). (86-88) ROOMMATES WANTED-share nice apartment across from Ford Hall. $125/month and few utili ties, 1230 Claffin, apartment three, Call 537-0857.

TWO-BEDROOM-two blocks from campus, $230. Call 539-1349. (88-92) ONE-BEDROOM-one-half block from campus,

$210. Call 539-1349. (88-92) FOR RENT: Large two-bedroom. Laundry, pets. $295. Call 539-4994. (88-89)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294

SHARE THREE-bedroom house close to campus. $113 plus low utilities. 776-2450. (86-88)

BIG. ROOMY, eight-bedroom house. Central air, three baths, two kitchens. Available for 1987-88 school year. One and one-half blocks from campus. Phone 537-7087. (88-92)

FOR SALE-AUTO 1986 FORD F150 4 x 4, 351 V8 4B, supercab, Low mileage. Best offer. 539-7409. (81-91) 1976 GRAND Prix, excellent condition, power brakes, steering, locks, windows, sun roof, 537

9282 after 6 p.m. (86-90) TOYOTA PICKUP, 1984, clean, excellent condition, five-speed, long bed, topper, 776-0529. (87-93)

1967 MUSTANG-very good condition-make offer. Gall Jim, 537-4211. (87-88) FOR SALE, 1976 Ford Moverick, V-8, automatic, air, reclining seats, 50,000 miles, 1-485-2268 (87-88)

1981 DODGE Omni for sale. Four-door, yellow. Call 532-3818. (87-89) 07

FOR SALE-MISC

EX-60 SILVER Reed typewriter, Best offer, 539-7409.

(81-91)

ELEVEN-PIECE drum set for sale. Stingerland 11cw, nine toms, one kick, snare and hi-hat. Five cymbal stands. Includes cases for everything. Also one AKG D12F hass drum micros SM58, and one Sure PE 75L 776-2446 - Darren (86-

SUN SUN CONNECTION 5 sessions

LARGEST TANNING SALON IN MANHATTAN

for $15

1126 Laramie 776-2426

JVC CAR stereo, digital, auto reverse, fader, $120, or best offer. Call Bob. 776-0234. (86-88) CORONA PC, dual disks. 128K, IBM compatible, SC 3. multimate. Priced to sell 537-7226. (86-90)

Hayes House of Music DOD Effects 30% Off 327 Poyntz 776-7983

COMMODORE 1541 disk drive, used about six months. Excellent condition. Offer. Contact Leon, 532-4886 (86-88)

RCA 13 inch, black/white T.V. 537-9629. (86-88) CENTREX STEREO complete with speakers, turntable, AM/FM, cassette player. 537-9629. (86-88)

SHOTGUN-FOX 12-gauge, double-barrel, side-by de. Excellent condition. Case included. $250. Call 539 1371. (86-88)

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword

ACROSS 1 Famed French

artist 6 Newsman 49 Mirror Rather 9 One time

12 Bikini, 13 Actress MacGraw 14 Marsh

15 Treaty org. 16 Lose all one's cash 18 Tribute 20 Flat

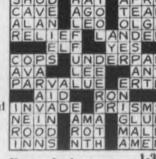

21 Reverence 23 Mine output 24 Perfume

datum 27 Curtain 29 Calm 31 Peril 35 Rattler's

25 Ticket

poison 37 Oz visitor 38 Challenged IN 41 Average

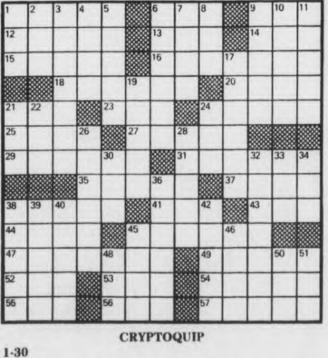

43 Islet 44 Frankenstein's aide

Yesterday's answer

9 Superior 32 Lose one's marbles 10 Subway 33 Schedule fare 11 Ten-34 Dale's percenter husband 36 Verdi Solution time: 25 mins. works 38 Finger 39 Marketplace

40 City of France 42 Controls 45 Miles of film 46 Radiate 48 Grass moisture 50 Toothpaste type 1-30 51 Before

WCRGMRCT UCGPGUZ101'

KGROHZRCT

RCMIPCOOCW

CWWGWI OGNGUWHNFZKHP Yesterday's Cryptoquip: SAYS OLD, HUMBLE BIGAMIST: "I GUESS I HAD ONE TOO MANY."

Today's Cryptoquip clue: U equals G

BASKETBALL-SEASON ticket, best offer Call 537-

REFRIGERATOR, MID-SIZED, great for dorms. $110 or best offer. Call Phil, 776-7794. (88-92) FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES YAMAHA 225, three-wheel ATV. Flectric start, shaft

3807. (87-90)

full suspension, good condition. $800. Call 539-FOUND 10

FOUND-SET of keys on a Bon Zilla key chain. Call to identify or claim, 537-4113. Ask for Deanne. (86-

HELP WANTED EARN $480 weekly-$60 per hundred envelopes stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed for company project stuffing envelopes and assembling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to JBK Mailcompany, P.O. Box 25-52, Cas-

taic. California 91310. (76-102) AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer. Career! Good pay, Travel. Call for guide, cassette, newsser vice! (916) 944-4444 Ext. #58. (76-135)

THE KANSAS Cooperative Extension Service has an opening for student computer programmers. The position is for 20 hours per week, flexible schedule. Applicants should be familiar with one of the following languages: Pascal, C, or PL/I. Summe employment is a possibility depending on per formance. For more information contact Dr. Steve Welch or Mary Knapp at 211 Umberger, phone: 532-7019. Application blanks are available from the above individuals or in the Computer Science Of fice and will be taken during business hours through February 6, 1987. (83-92)

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT at Camp Lincoln/Camp Lake Hubert — Minnesota resident summer camps. A strong commitment to working with children required, along with activity skills and teaching experience. Specific job information and applications are available at Career Placement Office—Holtz Hall. Sign up. in advance, for personal interviews to be held on campus. Tuesday, February 3rd, and Wednesday, February 4th, 1987

WAITRESSES, MUST be 21. at Bonkers, 1216 Laramie. 537-9591. (86-90)

TYPIST NEEDED, 50-55 words per minute, knowl edge of Wordstar preferred. 10-15 hours per week $3.35-$3.75 per hour. Work study preferred. Call Dora at 532-6842. (87-90)

STUDENT OFFICE help-Department of Forestry Office and computer experience necessary. Hours: Tuesday and Thursday 1-5 p.m. Monday. Wednesday, Friday, 8 a.m.-noon. Call Pat or Sandy at 532-5752. Pays $3.35/hour. (88-89)

COULD YOU be a Boston nanny? Are you a loving nurturing person who enjoys spending time with children? Live in lovely, suburban neighborhoods enjoy excellent salaries, benefits, your own living quarters and limited working hours. Your round trip transportation is provided. One year commit ment necessary. Call or write: Mrs. Fisch, Child care Placement Service, Inc. (CCPS). 149 Buckminster Rd., Brookline, MA 02146 (617) 566-

BABY-SITTER NEEDED on Mondays and Tuesdays 776-0573. (88)

LOST

LOST: GOLD chain necklace with angel charm. If found, please call Debi at 537-1570 (84-88)

CAMOUFLAGE WALLET. Wednesday in Union TV room. Important IDs. Reward offered. Call Britt. 784-3180. (87-88) LOST: WOMAN'S silver, angular linked bracelet on 28

January. Please contact (1) 784 3032 after 7 p.m.

NOTICES 15 NEED MONEY for college? Let us match you with scholarship and grant money for which you can qualify. For more information write Student Financial Aid Services, 1613 S.W. Chelsea Drive, Topeka. KS 66604, (82-91)

VW REPAIRS done right the first time. J & L Auto Serce. 1-494-2388 Drive a l

PERSONAL

PINGA PARTIERS: Come out and get ready to party with the Pinga's. See Announcements. (88)

THETAS JENNY and Jill-Congratulations! You've made your moms proud. Soon you'll be part of the active crowd. We know you can't wait for the time drawing near, but tonight's the night initiation is here!! We love you. Jennifer and Janel. (88)

THETA DEBBIE: I want you to know I am very proud of you and excited for you. Tonight's one you'll always remember and cherish. Love. Mom. (88)

TIM C.—Celebrate your 21st with a great Aggie bash—and feel it in the morning! Happy B-day.

Beth. (88) CHI-O Becky J. Congrats! You're almost finished

It's been fun! Love. Mom Julie. (88) PINGA PARTIERS: Let's party on Saturday night at the house (88)

AXO ANGELA: I'm excited you finally made it and I'm real proud to have you as my daughter Congratulations. Love, Mom Elizabeth (88) THETA, JILL Keever, Tonight will be very special!

You've been the best pledge daughter! Love ya, Nancy. (88) THETA DINA. The time has come for you to see just how special Theta can be. So look out girly, tonight will be greata, and finally you'll know all about Theta. Love, Melinda. (88) THETA KAREN: I hope you know how much I care, so be sure to wear black underwear! Love. Mom. (88) THETA AMY—Your pledgeship may be ending, but your days as a Theta are just beginning! Congratulations! Love-Mom. (88)

THETA LORRAINE-Congratulations! You were a great pledge and will be a wonderful active. I'm very proud of you! Love -- Morn. (88) THETA BECCA, The time is coming, it's drawing near.

when you will know the secrets of our Theta so dear. Love, Mom Stacy (88)

THETA COLEY—I'm very proud of you—you're a spe-cial Dot! (Sorry I can't rhyme!) Love—Mom. (88) THETAS KATHY L. and Leanne G .- With love and affection we've given you care, despite boy trouble and flaming red hair. And now to discover the secrets we share, you'll have to don black underwear. Love, your Morns. (88) ATTENTION RAINMANS Rugrat: Roses are red, violets are blue; I hate making poems, but I love you!! Thanks for the poem—I loved it! Congrats on a great semester—I'm very proud of you. Theta

Love-Mom. (88) ELI ... SAM. (88)

J. DORSCH-Congratulations! I knew you could do it. D. Tour. (88) J DORSCH-I'm so proud of you. You're going to be great! Teff. (88) THETA CINDY M .- You're almost there, the end is near. But don't worry, don't fear, becoming a Theta active, you're in the clear! Love ya lots, Meers!!! DEANIMAL MOM - I wouldn't have made it through If it wasn't for you. Thanks for giving so much to me, and showing me how special Theta can be. Having your friendship every day, means so much more than my words could ever say. "Wild Grill" doesn't know what he's missing!! Theta Love—

Deanimal Baby (88) THETA RIMA-Thru the laughter, thru the tears, we can make it thru the years. Because we have something strong—which is known as the Theta bond. Soon you will see all that she entails. Love, Casan-

KLAUS-OUT of sight, but not out of mind (or heart!). Hang in there! Love -- Michelle. (88)

AX ANNE-Congrats kiddo! I know you'll be an awesome active. Love, Ter. (88) JANET B.—Just want you to know I'm proud of you.
The best is yet to come! Mom. (88)

THETA STACEY-What a proud dot you've made me! Congrats on your initiation! - Mom. (88) ROOM 720F of 1985-86 Roomie - Congrats on initiation! The "brainwashing" worked! -Roomie. (88) TO K.S. - Hope this brightens your day. Your friend, D.S. (88)

AXO DOT Andrea: The time draws nigh, when you will become an Alpha Chi. Everyone's proud, especially me. What a fine active you will be. AX Love.

SUSAN T.: Congrats on initiation! Because of your thought and consideration, you've been a fabulous dot. Theta Love, Mom. (88)

KRISTIN O. I don't mean to rush you, but this waiting is making me heart-broken. See you next Friday. Luv Ya Grapes, Me. (88)

ALPHA GAM pledges: The actives are anxious for Valentine's Day; so call our dates without delay. We know that we'll have fun in the sun, cuz AGD pledges are #1! Crew KT. (88)

THETA HEATHER-Twin stars, kites, black and gold. will be with us always 'till days of old. Because you are one of Theta's chosen few, tonight will be very special for you. Love, your proud mom. (88) THETA CAROL, I won't hide this time! Hope it's awesome. You're an incredible dot. Debbie. (88 ANDREW-TO my best friend-Happy 6th! I love you. Lon. (88) THETA PLEDGES: Guided by the Kite and Twin Stars, you've worked toward tonight and you have come far. We're so proud of you. Love. The Actives. (88)

THETA LINDY: You've been the best daughter and I know you'll be a great active. Congrats! Love, Gi-

"PLEDGES IN the dining room," no more! Congratulations! Love, Jill and Sheri. (88)

THETA SUSAN S. Initiation is here, it's special and fun. Congratulations! Theta Love "Mom." (88)

THETA AUDREY. My ugly baby is turning into a pretty active. Right before my eyes! Your mom is proud

THETA CINDIE—You're a great pledge Dot— Congrats, you're almost there! (88) ROOMMATE WANTED

17 MALE ROOMMATE needed-Across street from campus. $135/month plus utilities. 776-9369. (76-

ROOMMATE TO share a two bedroom partially furnished apartment. Close to campus with air cond tioning, rent and utilities, $150. Call 539-7253. (83-MALE ROOMMATE across street from campus at 1230 Vattier. Ground floor, private room, washer, dryer, fireplace. $135/month, plus utilities. 776-9369. (84-93) FEMALE TO share two-bedroom apartment. Lots of room! $130/month—split utilities. Call 776-5265 after 6.30 p.m. (85-88)

MALE ROOMMATE wanted: $133 plus utilities, own room, quiet, nice home 776-1986 Ask for Lee, (85-ROOMMATE—RENT negotiable, own room, laundry facilities, next to campus. Call 776-3833, keep try-

NONSMOKING FEMALE-large house, sundeck washer/dryer. Utilities paid, own room. $175/ month, 539-6628 (86-95) RESPONSIBLE MALE to share two-bedroom house in Keats (8 miles west of Union). $100 deposit. $100 rent, one-half utilities. 539-8541 after 7 p.m. (87-91)

FEMALE ROOMMATE: Huge bedroom, laundry pets.

SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help Free preg-

$148/month, 539-4994 (88-89)

ing (86-90)

nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180 103 S. Fourth St , Suite 25. (11f) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf)

Courtesy Demonstration

18

by Appointment 9:30-5:30 Monday-Saturday MERLE NORMAN

308 Poyntz EXPERIENCED TYPIST—$1.10/page. Disc storage letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537-9205, Dorinda (78-88)

TYPINGINORD processing Data sheets, resumes. etters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Bur den 539-1204 (80-89) QUALITY TYPING for $1 per page. Contact John, 539

5839. (81-90) QUALITY TYPING at economical prices. Disserta-tions. Resumes. Theses, etc. Call Caron at 532-6294 or 776-2279, (86-95) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processor. 1011

Juliette, 537-3314. Term papers, theses, disserta-tions, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. (87-89) 20 SUBLEASE SUMMER SUBLEASE-three-bedroom, one and one-half bath, close to campus, $465. Call 776-5379 (86-90) 21 WANTED

perience. The re-organization of Alpha Kappa Lambda, Room 207, K-State Union, 7 p.m., February 3. (87-91) WANTED TO BUY 22

WANTED: A few good KSU men to share a unique ex-

WANTED: JUDO gi suit call 532-4802 ask for Ri-HELP!! NEED one KU-K-State ticket. Call Mike at

WELCOMES 23 WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115 Courthouse Plaza. Church School 9.45 a.m.: Wor-ship 8:30 and 11 a.m. Ministers: Ben Duerfeldt. 539-8685: Sue Amyx. 776-0025. Transportation to church - 776-8790 after 9 a.m. (88)

CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont, Sunday

School, 9:45 a.m.; Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m. Evening Service, 6 p.m. Prayer Service, Wednes day 7 p.m. (88) ST. LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod). Sun set and North Delaware welcomes students to services: Saturday at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 8 and 10:45

p.m. (88)

TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN — Worship Service 10:45 a.m., Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips. 537-8478 or the church office. 539-3921 (88) WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley Blvd invites you to worship with them Sunday at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m. Sunday School classes, 8:30 a.m. Bible classes, 9:30 a.m. Sunday, Fellowship, 6 and 10:30 a.m. College class meets at 9 a.m. at University Inn. lower level. For College Care Cell and Bible Studies, contact 539-5369. For any additional information, call 537-7173, (88) WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:30 a.m. for worship at the Ecumen

2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Worship Service, 8:30 and 11 a.m. and Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Bob Burton, teacher. Evening Service, 6 p.m. Horace Brelsford, Pastor, Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor, 537-8565. For transportation daytime call 776-0424. (88)

Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.; Saturday eveng at 5 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:30 p.m. (88) COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church SBC, 2221 College Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a.m. Sunday Worship, 8:15 and 11 a.m. Church Training.

MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison, day Evening Prayer Service, 7 p.m. Phone: 537-7744. (88) FIRST LUTHERAN, 930 Poyntz (537-8532). Welcome

6 p.m. Sunday. Evening Worship, 7 p.m. Wednes

ST. PAUL'S Episcopal Church—6th and Poyntz. Com-munion is celebrated on Sunday at 8 a.m. (Rite t) nd at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call 776-9427. (88)

St. Francis Episcopal Sundays 5 p.m. Danforth Chapel (Anglican)

ical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison (the white building with the two red doors). (88) WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church, students to worship service at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday School 9:40 a.m. (88)

BLUE VALLEY Memorial United Methodist Church, 835 Church Avenue. Sunday School, 9:15 a.m. Morning worship, 10:30 a.m. 539-8790. (88)

537-0593

Fee

Continued from Page 1 Students' Attorney Dianne Urban

said the fee would not automatically terminate if the terms of the contract are breached.

"The Board of Regents must approve the fee initially and unless the fee is for a limited period of time, the Board must take action to terminate the fee," Urban wrote.

Urban also added that confidentiality of student records could be a problem in gaining access to records to determine if the athletic department was complying to the terms of the contract.

Senate unanimously passed an amendment to the bill requiring an assessed fee to be in effect for three years, subject to Senate review. If Senate voted to terminate the fee, it would remain in effect for a one-year grace period.

Calling the fee figure a "compromise," Task Force Chairman Doug Folk, junior in electrical engineering, said the amount the group decided on was less than originally expected. The original plan was to fully fund non-revenue sports scholarships, he said.

The $6.50-a-semester fee for fulltime students and $3-a-semster fee for part-time students will fund about 40 percent of those scholar-

Questions were raised about the athletic department's intentions behind requesting the fee.

athletic department," said Steve Regents.

Ligon, task force member and senior in animal sciences and industry. "It's to upgrade our non-revenue sports in the Big Eight."

K-State athletics have always been underfunded, Travis said.

"They didn't care," he said, "and that's bad. If we want to stay where we're always last in the Big Eight, then we could get by without this kind of help. But if we want to improve it, then we need some help."

When asked if increased ticket sales could take care of the deficit, Travis said it would help, but "not overnight.'

"Is this a short-term problem or a long-term one?" he said. "How do you know?'

The issue of whether to skip second readings next week went to a vote at 12:10 a.m. Most senators were concerned that waiting until second readings next week would not allow enough time for Senate committees to prepare the bill for referendum before elections and for students to make their decisions.

Travis said if the National Collegiate Athletic Association decided to cut the number of allowed scholarships, he would return to Senate and request a change in the fee amount.

"I'd be willing to put that in some kind of deal," he said. "That would be only fair.'

Folk said the $6.50 fee was stable and would not be increased. "Down the road, if the athletic department isn't holding up its end of the agreement, Senate could repeal the fee," he said. "Then it would have to go "The bill isn't to bail out the through the president and the

> Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

You Name It . . . We've got it!

Find out how you can get it. Information on the re-organization of a 57-year-old KSU Fraternity.

> Tuesday, Feb. 3, 7 p.m. Room 207 K-State Union

The New Fraternity of Alpha Kappa Lambda

Feb. 4, 5 & 6 in Call Hall to show in the LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL Entry Fee: $4.50 Show date: March 28 1 p.m.

B'nai B'rith Hillel at K-State would like to invite you to Shabbat Services Saturday 10 a.m. Manhattan Jewish Congregation 1509 Wreath Ave.

Sunday at 5 p.m. FREE meal at the temple with meeting to follow.

All student Hillel members urged to attend!

Profits

Continued from Page 1

sidiaries in Grand Cayman which disbursed it to the Nicaraguan resistance."

Secord, Clines and Shackley are private citizens, and Secord, a retired Air Force major general, refused to testify to congressional panels, citing his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination.

The report said this information "was based on sources of unknown reliability" and the committee was unable to verify it.

In addition, the committee received testimony that "private funding for the Nicaraguan resistance generally was funneled through offshore bank accounts in the Cayman Islands and Panama controlled by (Contra leader Adolpho) Calero."

'However, the committee received no direct testimony regarding the actual receipt of specific amounts of money by the Nicaraguan resistance," the report added. "According to testimony by the CIA task force chief who was responsible for monitoring the financial status of the Nicaraguan resistance, there was no unusual infusion of funds to the Nicaraguan resistance in 1986."

Reacting to the release of the report, David Abshire, Reagan's special counselor on the Iran-Contra problem, said: "The president has consistently urged the release by the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence of its report on the Iran matter and the alleged diversion of funds to the anti-Sandinista forces and is pleased that this has now occurred.

"The committee's report is an important step toward getting to the bottom of this matter, as the president has promised," the statement said. "Toward this end, the president will continue to work with the select committees in Congress, the Tower board (commission headed by former Sen. John Tower) and the independent counsel."

Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, the committee's vice chairman, said the panel did not reach any conclusions about the testimony by White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan and CIA director William Casey.

'What it does point out is what information was conveyed by Casey and Regan to the committee. We leave it up to readers to decide," he

At a news conference, Boren emphasized that the report by the Intelligence Committee was only "preliminary" and said that "it's impossible at this time to draw conclu-

The Oklahoma Democrat described the report as a summary of testimony and documents the intelligence panel received during its investigation during December and earlier this month. The report was a revision of an earlier draft, which was leaked.

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENTIAL DEBATE

Come hear the presidential candidates discuss the current campaign issues!

Sunday, Feb. 1st 8 p.m. Putnam Hall Living Room

Co-sponsored by KSUARH and Putnam Hall

Kansas State University

Univ. of Calif.—Santa Barbara present

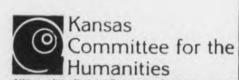

5 Actors From The London Stage

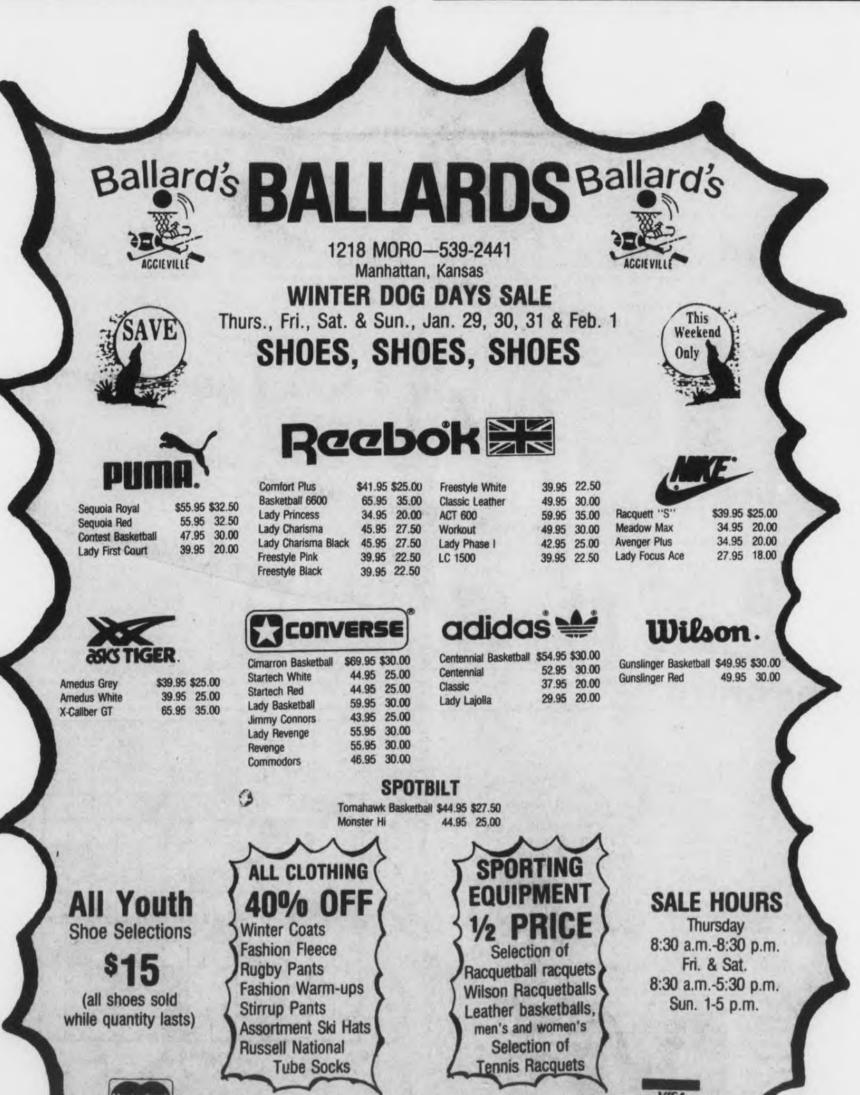

Fri. & Sat. Jan. 30 & 31

The Tempest by William Shakespeare McCain Auditorium 8 p.m.—$8/$4

For Tickets Call 532-6398 Mon.-Fri. 12-5 p.m.

Declawed

REMERENTATION OF THE RESERVE STATE OF THE SUBIZ

Mansas State Minturical So-Topeka, KS

> K-State drops its second conference game Sunday to the Missouri Tigers, 68-64. See Page 6.

Kansas Collegiam State Collegiam

Monday

February 2, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 89

Candidates discuss sports fee during debate

Staff/Rob Squires

Student body president candidates Michelle Benoit, junior in agriculture economics, and Kent Bradley, right, junior in nutrition science, listen as candidate Brett Bromich, senior in marketing, answers a question during a candidate forum Sunday at Putnam Hall. About 50 people attended the debate.

By CHRIS DOLL Staff Writer

The student referendum enhancement bill and the proposed athletic fee were the main sources of disagreement at the student body presidential debate at Putnam Hall Sunday night.

Three of the four candidates who have filed for the presidency joined the hour-long debate co-sponsored by Putnam Hall and Kansas State University Association of Residence Halls. Stephen Bell, sophomore in nuclear engineering, was not present Candidate Brett Bromich, senior in marketing, said the proposed athletic fee would help the athletic department, but it will not solve the real problem.

"It bandages the wound but doesn't take the knife away," he

He said the problem is the revenueproducing sports are not generating enough money to sustain a Big Eightlevel athletic program that would support both revenue and nonrevenue programs. "Students must be more involved in basketball and football," he said. He suggested selling beer at games and letting the band play "songs that make the game enjoyable when the game itself isn't enjoyable."

Candidates Michelle Benoit, junior in agriculture economics, and Kent Bradley, junior in nutrition science, said they favored the proposed athletic fee, but would support the outcome of the student referendum.

"When it comes to the point of voting on student issues, I think it is important that students are allowed to make their own decisions," Benoit said. "We are all educated people."

"I don't mind paying the money," Bradley said. "But like any other student here I have one vote. As student body president you can't simply represent your own views. You're representing the student body's

Bromich asked Benoit how she justified the student body paying for the scholarships of 35 non-revenue sport athletes.

"The non-revenue sports are important to maintain Big Eight standing," she said. "That means just a little bit more than if we were in an independent league."

The candidates favored studying different student representation systems. Bradley, however, said if more students participated in elections, the current system may not need to be changed.

The key to more participation, he said, was increasing the number of polling places on campus to make it easier for students to vote. Currently, all students except veterinary must vote in the Union.

He said it was a myth that all students go to the Union every day.

"I remember living in Haymaker as a freshman and putting on all my heaviest clothes to go to the Union to vote and not getting anyone else to go with me," Bradley said.

Benoit asked Bradley if he thought student senators responded to bills as representives of their colleges or their living groups.

"Their (the student senators) views are certainly affected by the people they are around, but they should actively solicit views of the people they represent," Bradley said.

Leaders aim to ensure negotiator's safe return

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Intensive "hush-hush" negotiations involving Syria, Iran and Lebanese militia leaders have started to determine the fate of missing hostage negotiator Terry Waite and to ensure his safety, a senior militia official said Sunday.

"These hush-hush talks are in high gear," said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity. "The parties concerned are burning up the (telephone) wires trying to ensure Mr. Waite's safety. Plenty of Syrian and Iranian emissaries are shuttling back and forth."

Waite, personal emissary of Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, flew to Beirut Jan. 12 on his fifth trip to Lebanon to win freedom for foreign hostages.

The Anglican Church envoy has not been seen publicly since he left the Riviera Hotel in west Beirut on Jan. 20, presumably to negotiate with Islamic Jihad, a pro-Iranian Shiite faction that holds Americans Terry Anderson and Thomas Sutherland. Both men were abducted in 1985.

Various reports have said Waite may have been taken prisoner.

"The lack of direct word from Mr. Waite since his disappearance two weeks ago has alarmed all sides concerned and every effort is being made to find out about him," said the knowledgable militia source.

Iran is believed to wield influence with some of the groups in Lebanon that have claimed responsibility for abducting Western hostages. Syria is the main power-broker in Lebanon and has about 25,000 soldiers in north and east Lebanon under a 1976 Arab League peacekeeping mandate.

Druse leader Walid Jumblatt, whose militia was in charge of Waite's security, offered himself as a hostage Saturday to replace Waite if reports of his abduction were true.

But the Church of England said Robert Polhill a lecturer Mithileshwar professor of native and leg United States.

Waite left strict instructions forbidding any rescue mission, ransom payment or substitution of hostages if he was kidnapped.

A church statement about Waite's message was issued after London's Sunday Express reported that "Beirut terrorists" were demanding a ransom of $4 million for Waite's Runcie also said Sunday he had no "fresh news" about Waite. "I have had some contact yesterday (Saturday), indirectly. I am very anxious about where he is," he said.

Eleven foreigners, including three Americans, two West Germans, an Indian and a Frenchman, have been kidnapped in Moslem west Beirut since Waite's arrival.

An underground group threatened late Saturday night to kill the three Americans and the Indian unless Israel freed 400 Arab prisoners and flew them to Syria on a Red Cross plane within one week.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin on Sunday rejected the group's demand, saying Israel will not act as an "international bank" for terrorists.

The threat to kill hostages came in a handwritten note signed Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine. It was delivered to a Western news agency and a Beirut newspaper along with photos of two American captives among four educators kidnapped at Beirut University College on Jan. 24.

The pictures showed Jesse Turner, 39, of Boise, Idaho, a visiting professor of mathematics and computer science; and Alann Steen, 47, a native of Boston, a communications instructor.

They were kidnapped along with Robert Polhill, 53, of New York City, a lecturer in accounting; and Mithileshwar Singh, 60, a visiting professor of finance, an Indian native and legal resident alien of the United States.

Staff/Rob Squires

Catching rays

Harvey Friesen, Manhattan, leans out an apartment window to talk with Scott Johannes, Manhattan, and John Lupo, sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine, while working on their tans Sunday atop their roof. Warm weather is expected to continue today with temperatures nearing the 60s.

evidence.

McFarlane, Regan argue arms transfer

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — In assessing

White House involvement in secret arms sales to Iran, the Senate Intelligence Committee was unable to resolve conflicts in testimony between former national security adviser Robert C. McFarlane and others in President Reagan's inner circle.

The best known conflict involves testimony by McFarlane and White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan on whether the president gave "oral" approval, in advance, for Israeli shipments of U.S. arms to Iran.

McFarlane has said Reagan did

Contradicting testimonies continue give the project his verbal blessing. But the chief of staff has testified the president did not.

The committee said McFarlane, testifying in private, said the arms transfer was supported by Regan and by Vice President George Bush and CIA Director William Casey.

McFarlane said it was opposed by Secretary of State George Shultz, who had earlier called the idea "perverse," and by Secretary of Defense Caspar W. Weinberger, who had dismissed it as "absurd."

"Although there is no written record of a decision at this time, McFarlane testified that the president informed Shultz, Weinberger and Casey of his decision," the committee said.

An earlier draft of the committee report said McFarlane's testimony was much more specific and convincing than Regan's. The report was prepared late last year while the panel was still in Republican hands but was never officially authorized for release.

The final report makes no such comment.

But it does lay out a number of other conficts in testimony between McFarlane and others and between McFarlane's testimony and other

McFarlane's attorney, Leonard Garment, was asked for reaction to the committee's characterization of his client's testimony but did not immediately return a reporter's phone call.

The committee, for example, said McFarlane testified he was never told by the CIA that it had reports Israel had shipped non-U.S. arms to Iran as early as 1981.

It quoted McFarlane as saying that

See CONFLICT, Page 8

Administrators outline goals in effort to improve K-State

By CHAD L. SANBORN

To make K-State one of the nation's top schools, the administration is working with individual colleges to prioritize the University's academic strong points and maintain core curriculum quality.

Staff Writer

core curriculum quality.

The strategic planning document, written by University President Jon Wefald, the Deans' Council and the Strategic Planning Committee, outlines the educational and financial goals of the University for the next five years.

The main goals include emphasizing the traditional quality programs at K-State, such as agriculture and engineering, raising private funds and reallocating old ones, and expanding teaching through telecommunications.

Wefald said the entire University has made great progress toward narrowing the direction of K-State.

"Since July 1 (the day Wefald took office), we have come a long way. There has been more serious planning than in the past six years," he said. "The faculty, staff and the students realize we can't be all things things.

"We can't ignore our own history, and we don't want to. But that doesn't mean we can't go in and reshape or eliminate some programs."

Changes in the distribution of funds will reflect the priority placed on different programs, Wefald said.

"We have decided which direction we want the University to go, and we have decided how to allocate the funds funds.

"We could give everybody a 2 percent increase and be mediocre, or we can emphasize certain aspects," he said. "We have chosen to reallocate funds to high priority areas."

Reallocation will be determined, in part, by comparing K-State to peer universities, Wefald said. These schools include Iowa State University, Colorado State University, Oklahoma State University and North Carolina State University.

"Depending on how the program compares, and how high the priority is, we decide how much we want to increase funding.

"For instance, if the agriculture department is a little lower than peer schools, we will probably increase funding in order to maintain leadership in this area.

"If a program with less priority is rated less than a peer program, we may only give it enough funds to equal the peer," Wefald said.

In addition, the document proposes increased use of private money to ease the burden on traditional sources.

funds," he said.

"One of our main goals is to raise money from the private arena to supplement state and (KSU) Foundation

Dropping programs is one proposal for improving education. Although Wefald said it depends on the situation, program elimination has shown some success.

has shown some success.

"Sometimes when you deemphasize a program you do more damage than if you drop it. Dropping a program can allow you to concentrate on other areas," he said.

As an example, Wefald cited the philosophy department, which al eliminated its master's degree program. se "They concentrated their activities while maintaining quality. I think most of the people (in the program) would say they have a better department because of it," he said.

Robin Smith, head of the philosophy department, agreed with Wefald

Wefald.
"By doing away with the master's programs, we eliminated GTAs (graduate teaching assistants)," he said. "We now have a higher quality of education because all our classes are taught by faculty."

See WEFALD, Page 8

INTERNATIONAL

U.S. Navy ships depart for Gulf

PALMA DE MALLORCA, Spain - Four U.S. Navy ships, including the carrier John F. Kennedy, left ports in Spain over the weekend for operations in the Mediterranean, Spanish officials said Sunday.

The movements coincide with increased tension in the Middle East and the Persian Gulf region.

Coast guard officials in Palma de Mallorca said the cruiser Harry E. Yarnell left the port Saturday.

The cruiser had arrived at Mallorca, an island off eastern Spain, last Wednesday and had been scheduled to remain until Friday, said the officials who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Four other vessels of the U.S. 6th Fleet that also arrived Wednesday remain docked, the officials said.

REGIONAL

Farmer discovers plane wreckage

TWO BUTTES, Colo. - The bodies of a Kansas couple were recovered Sunday from the wreckage of a twin-engine plane which slammed into a muddy field in southeastern Colorado, the Baca County Sheriff's Department said.

The search for the plane ended Sunday morning when a Baca County farmer discovered the wreckage.

The victims were identified as Dr. James Reynolds Jr., 45, and his wife, Marilyn, 43, of Overland Park, Kan. Officials said the husband Baca County sheriff's deputies said the Federal Aviation Administration's air traffic control center at Denver advised them Saturday night that a plane was missing and possibly down northeast Civil Air Patrol spokesman Deiter Hantschel said the pilot's last radio message was "I lost my gyros."

Gyros are devices that make the navigation instruments in the aircraft work, including the artificial horizon, direction indicator and several other instruments, Hantschel said.

Sheriff's spokesmen said the pilot was last heard from at 8 p.m.

A ground search was immediately launched but muddy conditions and darkness prompted the search to be called off until dawn Sun-

The missing plane, a red Cessna 340, was found nearly buried in a muddy field six miles northeast of Two Buttes, some 15 miles from the Kansas border in southeastern Colorado.

Federal investigators were dispatched to the scene.

Hays couple's son detained in Iran

HAYS - Gerald Seib, a Wall Street Journal reporter who was detained in Iran this weekend, spoke to his parents in this western Kansas city last week to tell them of his plans to leave the country.

Richard and Annette Seib learned their son had been detained in Iran after they received a call Saturday night from his wife, Barbara Rosewicz, formerly of Kansas City, Kan. The two have been Middle East correspondents for the Wall Street Journal since January 1985 and are based in Cairo, Egypt.

Seib, 30, was planning to attend a news conference, fly to West Germany and then rejoin his wife in Egypt, his father said Sunday night.

Hours after Seib's detention, Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency (IRNA) said that a "spy of the Zionist regime" had been arrested after entering the country with a false passport and disguised as a journalist. It did not identify the person by name or nationality.

NATIONAL

Statistics show refugee disparity

WASHINGTON - Iranian refugees in the United States have a better-than-even chance of winning asylum. For Poles, the odds are 50-50. But refugees from El Salvador are approved less than 5 percent of the time, with the other 95 percent facing deportation to their war-ravaged land.

The federal statistics show the disparity, but don't explain it. A dispute over the cause is certain to boil over this year in Congress, when lawmakers take up legislation to grant all Salvadorans a safe

Archbishop Arturo Rivera y Damas of El Salvador wrote members of Congress in November 1985 that U.S. officials "have closed their doors and their hearts" to his flock. A number of lawmakers agree, saying that asylum approvals would embarrass a friendly government that receives U.S. assistance. The Reagan administration vigorously denies that it is using the asylum program to dole out rewards and punishments based on foreign policy interests.

Asylum is a form of amnesty for foreigners with a legitimate fear of persecution in their own countries. Each case is supposed to be considered on its merits; every applicant is to be given an equal

Rep. Joseph Moakley, D-Mass., and Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., have introduced bills that would allow all Salvadorans without legal status to remain in this country for two years, while the General Accounting Office studies conditions they would face if sent

Paper exposes Duvalier income

MIAMI - Former Haitian President Jean-Claude Duvalier, his family and friends pilfered at least $120 million from the nation's treasury and charities in this hemisphere's poorest country, The Miami Herald reported Sunday.

Voluminous documents containing the results of a four-nation inquiry show a paper trail indicating the Duvaliers embezzled money from every state agency and the central bank, the Herald said.

"They behaved as if Haiti were their feudal kingdom, and the coffers and revenues of the state their private property," said Haitian Justice Minister Francois St. Fleur.

One year after Duvalier fled the presidential palace for refuge in France, the financial details of the 29-year Duvalier family rule show "pillage of gigantic proportions," St. Fleur said.

For example, records show Duvalier skimmed $29 million from the department that regulated the sale of consumer goods, collected weekly checks for $1.6 million from the state lottery and exacted 93 cents from the sale of every sack of flour.

"One of the most striking things about what we have learned is the number of different ways the Duvaliers have found to bleed the Haitian economy," said Curtis Mechling, a Haitian government attorney.

Steelworkers settle, return to jobs

PITTSBURGH - United Steelworkers members, ending a sixmonth work stoppage at USX Corp. plants, begin returning to work today under a newly ratified contract that swaps pay concessions for

After a day of counting ballots, union officials announced late Saturday that their members had ratified the four-year contract by a vote of 19,621 to 4,045.

The industry's longest work stoppage ended on its 184th day. "We're pleased that our employees have ratified the contract," said David Roderick, chairman of the nation's largest steelmaker.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

U-LEARN is looking for a few good volunteers for this spring. Don't waste away the spring hours be a U-LearN volunteer. Call 532-6442 or stop

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is now posting sign-up schedules for on-campus employment interviews by Kansas, regional and national employers. All eligible candidates are urged to register and apply.

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in Union Activities Center and are due at 5 p.m. Fri-

CONGRESSIONAL TEACHER SCHOLAR-SHIP PROGRAM information and applications

FACULTY AND STAFF MEMBERS are invited to attend a reception honoring Darwin D. Liverance for his leadership of Personnel Services. The reception will be from 2 to 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Union Sunflower Room

SGA ELECTIONS Pollworkers are needed for elections on Feb. 10-11. If interested, sign up at the SGS office in the Union.

TODAY

SAMS RECRUITMENT COMMITTEE meets

BUSINESS COUNCIL meets at 4 p.m.in Union

SOCIETY OF HISPANIC PROFESSIONAL ENGINEERING meets at 6:30 p.m. in Durland

ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets at 6 p.m. in Union

BETA ALPHA PSI meets at 7:30 p.m. at Valer

ALPHA KAPPA PSI PLEDGES meet at 6 p.m

GRADUATE STUDENT COUNCIL meets at

FARMHOUSE LITTLE SISTERS meet at 9

STUDENTS IN SOLIDARITY WITH CEN-TRAL AMERICA meets at 8 p.m. in Union NATIONAL ORGANIZATION FOR WOMEN

meets at 7:30 in Union 209 STUDENT GOVERNMENT CANDIDATES: pictures will be taken today and Tuesday between 3 and 5 p.m. in Union 208.

TUESDAY

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS BIBLE STUDY

STUDENT ELECTIONS COMMITTEE meets

BLOCK AND BRIDLE officers meet at 7 p.m. in Umberger Williams Auditorium. There will be a general meeting at 7:30 p.m. Student Body President candidates and Agriculture Student Senate candidates are invited to attend and will have the opportunity to give campaign speeches

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

LESBIAN SUPPORT GROUP meets at 7 p.m. For information, call 532-6444 or 532-6442.

MANAGEMENT DEVELOPMENT

The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City is seeking qualified candidates with businessrelated majors for positions as full time management development analysts and summer interns.

ANALYSTS AND INTERNS

Qualified candidates should enjoy working in a project-oriented environment and demonstrate good oral and written communications skills, strong analytical and leadership ability, creativity and initiative.

We will be available for campus interviews:

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 24

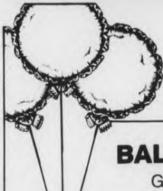

For more information, please contact your placement office or:

Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City Attention: Personnel 925 Grand Avenue Kansas Lity, Missouri 64198

(816) 881-2463

2KAPresident

Paid for by K-Staters to elect Bradley

at Brother's

6:30 p.m.

BALLOONS TO BUST MS

Get involved in "BUST MS" Month throughout February.

Your chance to win a trip for two and more prizes.

February 5 at 3 p.m. - at the island between the Union and Seaton.

$1 tickets available at the SAMS table in the Union.

Rockalike contest applications available at the contest and in the SGS office. Contest is Feb. 28.

Bar:

INVASION Every Monday at 9 p.m.

9 p.m.

Billy Jaye

along with Tim Kelley Office: 539-4321 539-9727 531 N. Manhattan

DAYTONA

we $229 you $149

Sign up and receive 3 FREE tans from Southern Sun (must be used by 2/28/87)

- · Round trip transportation to beautiful Daytona Beach via modern highway motor coaches.
- Seven nights accommodations at Dayton's Holiday Inn Surfside. Free pool deck parties with music and refreshments.
- Special discounts from Daytona Beach Merchants. Special car rental prices for all students 18 years and older.
- All taxes & tips included.

Call Tom at 539-5499 or Rex at 776-8060. Sponsored by Designers

Monday 2-For-1's Buy Any

Pizza and Receive One of Equal Value

FREE!

539-3830

1127 Moro

Aggieville

Experiment stations celebrate 100th year

By STACEY NANNINGA Collegian Reporter

One hundred years ago this year, Kansas became the first state to establish agricultural experiment stations and fulfill the requirements for a land-grant university.

In 1887, the federal government established a provision for agricultural experiment stations at land-grant universities in each

Kansas was the first state to accept the provisions of the Hatch Act, which provides for a combination of federal and state funding for research work in agriculture.

During the last century, the goal of the Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station has been "to aid in acquiring and diffusing among the people of the United States useful and practical information on subjects connected with agriculture and to promote scientific investigation and experiment."

From a small beginning of 12 scientists, the KAES now has more than 200 full-time scientists working on more than 600 pro-

The KAES is administered through the University.

Kurt Feltner, associate director of the KAES, said funding for research projects comes from state and federal monies and from private industry grants.

He said many researchers solicit funds from private donors because state and federal funding is limited. A scientist who is workwithin certain guidelines established by the donor.

The KAES is about the same size as other experiment stations in other states. It has four branch experiment stations and 11 experiment fields across the state. Twenty eight departments at K-State are involved in research for the experiment station.

Among the projects that are currently being researched. Feltner said 60 percent have to do with the efficiency of agriculture enterprises. Ten percent deal with conservation of natural resources, and 10 percent deal with basic research that adds to the store of knowledge for applied research.

He said that the remaining research projects deal with human nutrition, rural and family issues, marketing, farm financial management and community im-

To celebrate 100 years of research, an appreciation dinner will be held Feb. 16. The dinner is for agencies, farm groups and individual agriculture commodity groups who have provided support to the KAES throughout the

"We are planning to have around 350 people attend the event," Feltner said.

"Each person attending the event will receive a special medallion commemorating 100 years of agricultural research as a result of the 1887 Hatch Act," he

Feltner said the KAES is structured to change with a changing world. KAES responds to the Seminar focuses on growth of industry

By LORI LINDSTROM Collegian Reporter

Despite a strained state economy, the small business operation is a "pure growth industry," said Sam Brownback, Kansas secretary of agriculture, Saturday at the 16th annual Midwest Meat Processors Seminar.

More than 100 people attended the seminar in the Union to learn about new ideas and technologies to improve owner-manager meat businesses.

Melvin Hunt, professor of animal sciences and industry, said most participating members of the Kansas Meat Processors Association are small meat processors from throughout the state. The members come to the seminar hoping to find ways to improve their business, Hunt said.

Meat processors need to "recognize the difficulties, but look positively" toward agriculture, Brownback said.

Brownback encourages meat processors to look at potential that is available to help Kansas grow and to look toward more specialization of their products.

Dave Schafer, professor of animal sciences and industry, said the private meat processor has many options to improve his business and raise profitability.

The main idea is to expand the volume of the business by looking for variations of current products already on the market and establish new products or new services, Schafer said.

Tom Mann of Viskase Corp., Chicago, discussed different methods of making a product that will give consumers the convenience they want. Mann said meat processors need to try to create a demand for new product ideas.

ship before the hysterectomy, and many times the operation is not the

Another fallacy about hysterectomies is that they cause weight

real cause of problems

gain, Wigglesworth said.

The group also learned how the Kansas State Board of Agriculture is developing programs to make Kansas products more visible on the market with the use of signs and information made available to the consumer.

The Kansas Beef Council made a presentation of new beef promotion ideas through the use of media advertising

Other new ideas and technologies presented to the participants were the potential of processing buffalo meat or the option of expanding one's business to include a catering ser-

Doctor advises on hysterectomies

By The Collegian Staff

"Am I still going to be a sexual person after a hysterectomy?" - a question women commonly ask was addressed by an area gynecologist and obstetrician at Friday's Focus on Women.

'Some do have a sex problem, but with proper counseling it can be circumvented," said Dr. Anne Wigglesworth. The hysterectomy is frequently accompanied by depression, feelings about aging and doubts about sexual appeal, she said.

Wigglesworth spoke about 'Hysterectomies: Number One

Surgery" at noon in the Union. A hysterectomy - the removal of the uterus and cervix - is performed to treat tumors, abnormal growth and bulging of the uterine walls, according to "Hysterectomy: Taking Part in the Decision," a pamphlet distributed at the lecture.

Some symptoms of conditions that may require a hysterectomy include abnormal bleeding, frequent urination, spotting and heavy menstrual periods, Wigglesworth said.

The hysterectomy is an advance in medical knowledge that can improve the quality of life for women who suffer from these symptoms, she said. Women in previous centuries suffered without corrective surgery, she Wigglesworth said one of the fears that women have about having hysterectomies is that their partner will lose sexual interest in them. She said much depends on the relation-

SCHOOL

University of Arizona offers more than 40

courses: anthropology,

art, art history, bilingual education, folk music and folk dance.

history, journalism, political science, Spanish language and literature and intensive Spanish.

Six-week session. June 29-August 7, 1987.

Fully accredited program. Tuition $480.

Room and board in

Write

Guadalajara

Summer School

Education Bldg., Room 434

University of Arizona Tucson, AZ 85721

(602) 621-4729 or

621-4720

EEO/AA

Mexican home $520.

Dr. Paul E. Bullock Optometrist GUADALAJARA SUMMER Come in with brown eyes

Now Available-Soft Contact Lenses-that let you change from brown to baby blue in a wink of an

walk out with blue

•Our newly opened eyeglass department has a large selection of the latest style frames.

 Eyeglasses warranted against breakage for one year.

·As always, we provide professional care and management of the contact lens patient.

 Most contact lenses available same day.

'See your Eyecare Professional Annually' Payment Plans Available 404 Humboldt Prof. Bldg. Manhattan, KS 776-9461 local

> Toll Free 1-800-432-0036

THE GULHRIF THEATE

George Bernard Shaw's

witty portrait of the eternal love mangle

McCain Auditorium

Wednesday, February 11, 1987 8 p.m.

Tickets and Information (913) 532-6425 Mastercard/Visa accepted

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and by the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

emerging needs of the world. ing with a private grant must stay

This year you could be on

WAIKIKI BEACH HAWAII

(5 days/4 nights for 2 adults) May 1987 Graduates Qualify Weekly WINNERS will be announced in Monday's Collegian. For Entry Form CALL 537-8717

Mon.-Fri. 1-9 p.m. WINNERS

Shirley Buttinger Paul Lammert Jay Gehring

YOU DESERVE A 2nd CHANCE!! Sign Up Before It's Too Late!

Don't Miss the DAYTONA BEACH BASH with Lynn & Brenda

Tuesday at Brother's p.m.

*FREE Bud Light visors to the first 50 people

★FREE Pizza from Falsetto's

DEAL S129 + $99 = Complete Package

For more information call Lynn or Brenda at 776-5957 Sign up and receive the following special benefits:

WITH PURCHASE

SESSION WITH

CAMPUS

RENTAL WITH PURCHASE

BUD LIGH

50 FREE VISORS AT EACH PARTY

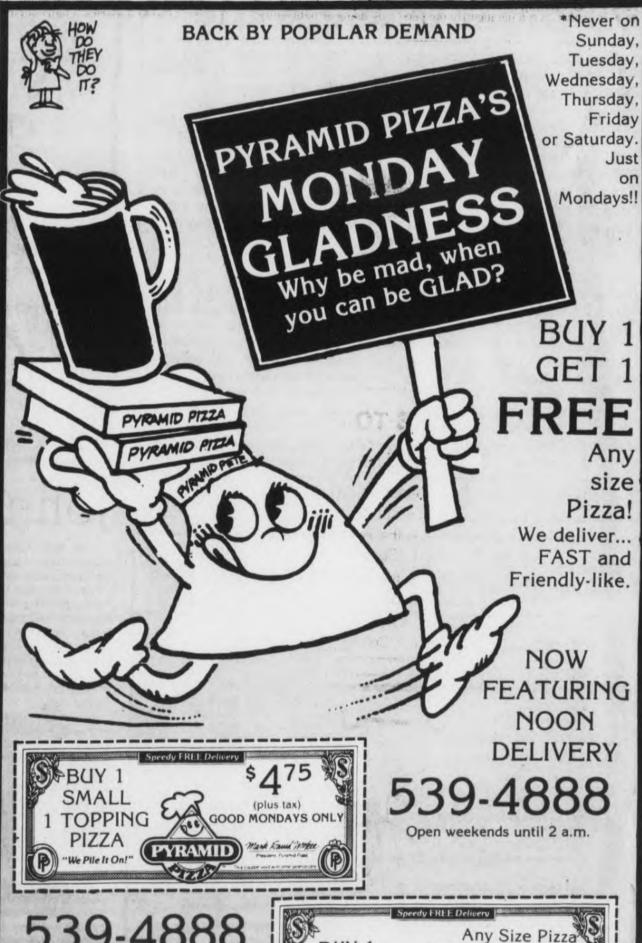

FREE PIZZA SLICE

PARTY T-SHIRT

707 N. 12th In Aggieville Now Serving Coca Cola Products

BUY 1

GET 1

FREE

539-4888

Surveillance by police raises ethical question

Brother can be seen in the form of the campus police department. department uses surveillance photography to observe groups of students who speak out on political issues.

The department does, however, have an explanation for this surveillance: It is taking pictures to have solid evidence of any crime - such as a physical or verbal assault - that might be committed during such demonstrations. It also claims it takes photos of all events, regardless of their political nature. These photographs are kept in a confidential investigative file for future use.

These actions are questionable, however. Is the department taking pictures to "protect" the protesters, or is it compiling files on campus "troublemakers" for future use? Pictures of a disturbance might prove to be useful evidence, but these sorts of actions promote suspicion as well. How long are these pictures kept on file? Five years? 10 years? After a period of time these pictures lose any value they might have had as possible evidence. If campus police are going to take these sorts of pictures, it should have a time limit on how long to keep them.

Why are these pictures kept in a confidential investigative file? There has been no crime committed, and therefore no investigation is being undertaken. But no a way.

Even at K-State, a hint of Big one can look at these files, even if people were to request to look at photos taken of themselves. These photos should be made available for the public to see, and not stuck in some secret file.

> Where are these photos being sent? It is known some of the pictures were sent elsewhere when it was disclosed that some illegal aliens were identified using campus police photos taken at a Landon Lecture.

> And since it is impossible to see these photos, there is no way of knowing if the department really does take pictures of all events. Is there a political bias to their coverage? Are certain groups being "spied" on more than others? These questions can only be answered by opening the files.

> In addition to the ethical question prompted by this observance, there is a practical one as well. It seems very impractical for the department to take photos at every event, as it claims it does. Unless there is strong reason to believe there will be a disturbance, the department is needlessly spending a lot of money on personnel who take a lot of unneeded photos.

While everyone has the right to take pictures at these events, the use of pictures by police departments for political intelligence should be condemned. A public agency supported by our tax dollars should not be used in such

It's no fun being a legal alien

Before the rumors spread any further, I think it would be best to confess one of my most embarrassing secrets. Are you ready? I am a legal alien. For nearly nine years, I've carried around this title without even some of my closest friends finding out about it. But last year when applying for financial aid, a secretary left a message at my house that I needed to prove I was a legal alien in order to receive aid. And thus my nightmare began, for my secret was out.

This most definitive of titles was bestowed on my family and me in 1978 when we moved to Kansas from Sydney, Australia. My father had spent six months proving to the American government that his employment in this country was not taking away an American job. And so after all the paperwork was done, we had given up kangaroos, beaches and Paul Hogan for buffaloes, prairies, Jimmy Carter and legal alien

As a permanent resident, I am classified as a legal alien. Legal aliens are citizens of other countries who are given permission to reside in the United States. But it has always been beyond my comprehension to imagine how the expression "aliens" became a part of this term. To be "alien" according to Webster's is to be "wholly different in nature, incongruous, unsympathetic." Who was responsible for this title, Sen. Joe Mc-Carthy?

All aliens must possess a green card. Yes, I also have a green card, and this is beginning to feel like a therapy session. But besides this demeaning little card which includes a mug shot and fingerprints, no one ever has to know you are a legal alien. Of course my conspicuous accent gave me away for a couple vears until it faded away. For some very peculiar reason, it only returns when its owner is under the influence of alcohol support for the argument that Australians speak the way we do because we are usually under the influence of alcohol.

PATRICK MUIR Collegian Columnist

The truth is that my life as a legai alien (I should write headlines for the National Enquirer) has been quite fun. When I first arrived and still had an accent, I enjoyed relying on others' ignorance. I met people who thought they were being proper in assuming that I must be enjoying the higher standard of living in America. I often replied that indoor plumbing was a real thrill, and they thought I was serious.

But all that was soon to end when Australia, drawing on its soon-to-bediscovered technological potential, ended the largest expression of sport's egotism America's domination of the America's Cup. And my pride and patriotism could no longer let my secret life as an Australian alien lie

With the finals of the America's Cup beginning Saturday, this alien is being persecuted in the middle of Kansas. I apologize if that sounds redundant. First of all, the fever this contest is raising caused some individuals in my fraternity house to pick up my little Datsun and place it parallel between two diagonally parked cars.

Then, several friends, relying on my patriotism, backed me into a bet that I will perhaps eternally regret. If Australia wins, I will receive a case of Foster's Lager. But if weather plays a larger part than I am expecting and chance becomes more important than skill and the United States wins, then I owe a case of Miller, "Made the American Way," High Draught Beer. All that seems fair, but if America wins then I must also sing "The Star Spangled Banner" at Wednesday night dinner in front of 60 people. If my friends have any sense of compassion for their ears and my ego, then perhaps it will

But neither my respect nor the respect of my country is on the line this week. By ending the domination of this little boat race, Australians experienced more national pride than any war victory ever precipitated. This pride was a tribute to the United States as well, because the defeat of the most developed nation in the world made us relish the victory even more.

And yet, I feel this message is not being communicated to the American people. The media and advertisers in this country are making the race solely a question of patriotism. It never was a question of patriotism when the New York Yacht Club had enough money to win it for themselves. I think it is important to take note of the pride that Australia's first victory generated. Great Britain had to attack Argentina in order to make its people proud for the first time since the decline of the Empire. Australia's victory cost no lives, just a few

If Stars and Stripes defeats Kookaburra III this week, I hope the enormous expression of Australian pride of four years ago is not ignored because it challenges U.S. patriotism. That expression was a sign of hope that a country does not have to go to war to assert itself on the international scene. One day perhaps we will think of a country in terms of its achievements in regard to the human spirit and less on its ability to demonstrate

After all this is over, perhaps I can return to my former life as a closet alien. But until then, I better learn the words to "The Star Spangled Banner," just in case.

Man's tragedy merits his right to cease life jerk. He must wear diapers.

This is not a description of a which Hector Rodas must live his others to keep them alive.

As a result of drug abuse seizure in February 1986 which suicide. left him paralyzed. In January, a Colorado court ruled that he was ment withheld.

himself to death.

human being has the ultimate ability to lead a full life. choice on what to do with his life. both emotionally and financial- humane existence.

He cannot move but his eyes. ly - but is competent, then he His head and hands twitch and should have the right to choose the course of his existence.

But the court decision does not newborn, but rather the state in extend this right to everyone. An amputee often faces a period of life. But both require the help of devastation and loses the will to live. A person diagnosed with cancer may feel there is no cure Rodas used cocaine and am- for him and his life has no purphetamines - he had a brain pose. Both might consider

Whether or not suicide is immoral is not in question. The difcompetent and could make the ference between these two decision to have medical treat- scenarios and Rodas' case is that Rodas could not kill himself even So, since Jan. 22, Rodas has if he wanted to. He is not capable refused food in hope of starving of doing for himself. The others, while faced with a difficult period This ruling sets a legal prece- of adjustment and adaptation to dent: although suicide is illegal, a different activities, have the

This ruling must only be used in And if a person cannot care for the most desperate of situations himself, is a burden to his family - people confronted with an in-

Guide To The Marcos Loyalists In The Recent Revolt Idealist Pragmatist who understands who hasn't forgotten Sentimentalist Manager that the 7,221 votes who misses the the vital need of the he personally cast bygone era of Manila for bribes for Marcos Ladies looting the and kickbacks Shoe were thrown out public till Emporium CIPBY THE BUFFALD NEWS FOOT SOLDIER

Johnson's veto deserves veto

Pat Muir Patti Paxson

Julie Thompson

Steve Wolgast

Judy Lundstrom

Margaret May Scott Miller

Andy Nelson Patti Paxson

Jeff Tuttle

EDITOR MANAGING EDITOR NEWS EDITOR EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR CAMPUS EDITORS Pat Hund PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR BUS./AGR./GOV'T. EDITOR FEATURES EDITOR SPORTS EDITOR

Kansas

ARTS/ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR Sarah Kessinge COPY EDITORS Valerie Johnson STAFF WRITERS

Jeff Bielse Chris Doll Judy Lundstrom Chad Sanborn Judy Goldberg Becky Howard Teresa Temme SPORTS WRITERS Jennifer Chaulk Chase Clark Jeff Rapp David Wagner

REVIEWERS

Gary Johnson

Steve Rasmu EDITORIAL BOARD Kirk Caraway Erin Eicher Judy Goldberg

Chris Stewart Sarah Kessinge ADVERTISING MANAGER

COLUMNISTS

Ron Honig Scott Miller

CARTOONIST

Kirk Caraway

Richard Broadfoot

PHOTOGRAPHERS

Brad Fanshier

Brett Hacker

John LaBarge

Gary Lytle

ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER CAMPUS ACCOUNTS/TEARSHEET REP. Jada Allerheiligen SALES REPRESENTATIVES

Bill Sherbert Barry Steffen Bill Todd Judy Haefele ADV. GRAPHIC ARTISTS Greg Crawford Alex Menez

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

"You don't have to agree with this proposal to support it. All you're doing is letting the students decide what they want.

Last Thursday, this Student Senate battle cry enabled the Athletic Fee to go to referendum, and six weeks ago Senate passed a different referendum bill: Representation Enhancement. The only difference is that you'll actually be able to vote on the athletic fee. Student Body President Steven Johnson decided the issue of representation for you by Obviously, there are criteria which set referendum bills apart from others or there wouldn't be a need for Student Senate - the student body would decide every issue.

The first and most distinctive criterion is that the bill must propose an idea that the student body is uniquely qualified to decide. The athletic fee meets this because there is considerable dissension on this issue within each college so that a senator would be unable to accurately vote for his constituen-

The representation enhancement bill proposes to change the nature in which senators run and are elected. Any outcome of a vote by the existing Senate would be dubious because they would be inherently biased toward the system that elected them.

Another major criterion is that any bill to be sent to referendum must be proven workable. The athletic fee is easy; if it passes, add $6.50 to your tuition. Student Senate was also provided with a draft of the proposed contract that would bind the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics to the agreement that all student monies would go to scholarships for non-revenue sports.

SALLY HOWARD Guest Columnist

There are still some legal aspects of the contract that need to be ironed out, but in general it is workable. The fine tuning needed to ensure that the fee will be correctly assessed according to a student's classification or to enable the collection of these funds to run smoothly would be worked out after the outcome of the referendum.

The representation enhancement bill is slightly more complex. If it were to pass referendum, then half of our senators would represent their living groups (residence halls, greek, off-campus) and half would represent their colleges. No senator could run in both categories. A voter would be given two ballots in the new system - one for living group and one for college. The total number of senators would remain the same. Under the present system, all senators represent their college.

Sponsors of the representation enhancement bill demonstrated that the method of voting was workable and that the number of senators would be workable. Areas that would take more work to enable the system to run effectively are a fast, efficient way of determining a student's living group and filling vacated seats. This would also be done pending the outcome of the referendum.

Each of these bills provides benefits to the students that they should prioritize. The athletic fee would improve the quality of our non-revenue sports. The representation enhancement bill would guarantee each living group a minimum number of seats in Senate. Only through a referendum can we gauge what premium the student body places on these benefits.

However, before you can vote on student representation, Johnson's veto must be overturned. A petition drive is currently under way. Signatures from 10 percent of the students must be collected before the Feb. 10-11 elections. It's your privilege and indeed your right to vote on an issue of this magnitude. If you want to contribute your signature to "Veto the Veto," there is a table today and Tuesday in the Union.

Sally Howard is a senior in secondary education and is a senator for the College of Education.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters.

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to Kedzie 103.

By JEAN TELLER Collegian Reviewer

It isn't every day one is privy to a performance such as "The Tempest." Only on occasion are we able to see a performance of any of William Shakespeare's works, let alone one performed to such perfec-

Play Keview

Five actors from London graced the stage of McCain Auditorium Friday and Saturday evenings with a somewhat unorthodox portrayal of "The Tempest," a Shakespeare comedy. It was a performance worth seeing and one worth remembering.

The cast used no large props and no costumes. They were dressed in everyday clothing, and each portrayed at least three characters in the fantasy.

The audience laughed and stared

AUntie

Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE

Monday

HIGH

ROLLERS

Any Call or

Premium Drink

only

$1.75

616 N. 12th 539-9967

You Name It . . .

We've got it!

Find out how you can get it.

Information on the re-organization of a 57-year-old KSU Fraternity.

Tuesday, Feb. 3, 7 p.m.

Room 207

K-State Union

The New Fraternity

of Alpha Kappa Lambda

show the intricacies of the plot without sacrificing believability. Whether through the use of a sweater slung over the shoulders or a slight change in posture or voice, the five made us realize which character was speaking without different faces or costumes. It was amazing to see the ability of these actors as they showed us different characters in the space of a few seconds.

in wonder as the five managed to

"The Tempest" is something of a revenge tale. The Duke of Milan, Prospero, and his daughter, Miranda, were exiled to an island 12 years earlier. Now, with the help of Prospero's magical powers, those responsible for the exile have landed on the shores of the island.

From there the plot thickens. Several subplots make for a comedy of errors and normally would make it difficult for such a small cast to portray the numbers involved.

One subplot involves Miranda and Prince Ferdinand of Naples. She has

TONITE

$2.50 Pitchers

75¢ Draws

Tomorrow

"Quote Night"

The best quote of the night receives a free keg courtesy of.

Southern Sun!

Applicants must be of age.

never seen a man (except for her father) and she immediately falls in love with the handsome prince. The feeling is mutual and leads to a happy alliance at the end of the play.

Several other plots allow Prospero to take his full measure of revenge against his brother and the King of Naples, who were responsible for the

The amazing part of this performance was the cross-casting.

The roles of Prospero and his brother were portrayed by Trevor Baxter. Miranda and the spirit, Ariel, were portrayed by Sarah Berger, and Tom Mannion took on the roles of the prince, Ferdinand, and the brother of the King of Naples. The king was played to royal perfection by George Raistrick. The slave, Caliban, and the royal adviser, Gonzalo, were both portrayed by Bruce Alexander

The five carried off the swift change in characters with an aplomb to make anyone jealous. The audience showed its amazement and appreciation for the subtlety and grace of the performance with laughter and enthusiastic applause.

Among the highlights of the performance were the scenes involving Mannion as a jester, Raistrick as the drunken sailor and Alexander as Caliban. The three plotted to become rulers of the island much to the audience's amusement.

The Actors From The London Stage are part of the Alliance for Creative Theatre, Education and Research from the University of California in Santa Barbara.

The cultural offerings supported by this University are vast and continue to amaze.

Introducing

New rigid gas permeable contact lenses that offer sharp vision, long-term comfort and the convenience of daily or extended wear—to anyone who can wear contact lenses, even those with astigmatism. They are firm and easier to handle than soft lenses and will last longer and save you time and money.

DAMAGRE

Drs. Price, Young, Odle, and Horsch, P.A.

1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan, KS 66502 (913) 537-1118

537-1118

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE NEW DELTA SIG INITIATES

Breck Barnhart

Kevin Carr

David Cox

Mike Fall

Mike Hesser

Dave Huey

Tim Jeans

Dave Johnson

Troy Meyers

John Mogusar

Chad Niehoff

Kyle Nolan

Jeff Todd

John Zehner

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN, Monday, February 2, 1987 GUITAR & AMP SALE Hayes House of Music Guitar and Bass Guitar Lessons Available 327 POYNTZ, MANHATTAN 776-7983

Godfather's Pizza Coupon Specials

1118 Laramie In Aggieville by Mini-Mart 539-5303

Now's your chance to satisfy your pizza craving with great savings! Invite the gang over for a Giant 16" special pizza loaded with toppings. Or treat yourself to a delicious Hot Slice™. You'll love the taste, and the savings. But hurry, offer ends soon!

Hot Slice only 99°

Mon.-Fri. 11:30-1:30 Dine-in or Carryout only

Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit Valid only at: 1118 Laramie

Offer expires 3/15/87.

Good for TWO Giant 16" special pizzas (The Super Pepperoni or The Four Topper) for only $14! Or, ONE for $9!

On Sunday, your choice use this coupon or take advantage of our free drink offer Sorry can't do both! Not valid with Tapper or other promotional offers. Add $1 for delivery Offer expires 3/15/87.

GODF THERS
WHAT ARE YOU WHATTING FOR? PIZZA Valid only at: 1118 Laramie / 539-5303

Hot Slice[™]only 99¢

with this coupon Mon.-Fri. 11:30-1:30 Dine-in or Carryout only

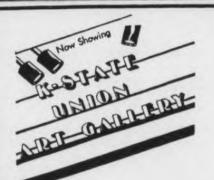

Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit. Valid only at: 1118 Laramie

Offer expires 3/15/87.

GODE THEIS

Monday, February 2, 1987

For more information on any UPC events, call 532-6571

RETROSPECTIVE PRINTS AND LITHOGRAPHS

by James Butler K-State Union Art Gallery Today through February 20

8 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday

k-state union

GET INVOLVED ON CAMPUS WITH THE UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL Volunteers Wanted: Individuals interested in serving for the '87-'88 year as committee benefit of the KSU community. Union Program Council is a student volunteer organization consisting of approximately 100 students who select, plan and promote 500 programs (films, trips, entertainers and more) each academic year. UPC is broken up into nine committees: Promotions, Travel, Special Events, Outdoor Recreation, Kaleidoscope Films, Issues and Ideas, Feature Films, Eclectic Entertainment, Arts.

chairs to coordinate social, recreational, educational and cultural programs for the President-Presides over the UPC Executive Council, sits on the Union Governing Board, coordinates events and activities that involve the total UPC membership. Our highest leadership position. Arts-Coordinates Union Art Gallery exhibitors, print sales, art rentals, the Arts and Crafts Sale, the Photo Contest and Mid-Day Arts. Eclectic Entertainment-Provides the best in live entertainment, professional comedians, singers and student entertainment. Issues and Ideas-Selects, organizes and publicizes lectures highlighting current events or popular topics of interest. Organizes the "Let's Talk About It" series. Kaleidoscope Films-Selects and publicizes innovative, artistic and international films on Wednesdays and Thursdays in the Union. They also show weekend matinees and Outdoor Recreation - Offers a wide variety of outdoor-related trips and programs based on a "cooperative wilderness adventure" structure. Travel-Coordinates and publicizes winter and spring break trips for the K-State community. Sells an International Student I.D. card and maintains a Travel Resource Feature Films—Selects and publicizes popular films every Friday and Saturday night in the Union. They also show weekend matinees and midnight films.

Special Events-Selects coordinates and publicizes desired events or activities that do not fall under another committee area, including dances, the Activities Carnival, "Late Night at the K-State Union" and some types of live entertainment.

Promotions-Deals withthe visual image of the entire council. Pastes up Collegian ads. Publishes the "Programmer" calendar and other publications to promote UPC. Applications for Leadership (Committee Chairs) are now available. Deadline: 4 p.m.

Friday, February 6th. Applications may be picked up and submitted in the Activities Center, 3rd floor of the K-State Union. For more information, call 532-6571.

k-state union program council

PHOTOGRAPHY CONTEST

Enter the 12th Annual UPC Photography Contest. Information and contest rules are now available in the Union Activities Center, 3rd Floor, K-State Union. Entries accepted starting Monday, February 16-Friday, February 27. Cash prizes will be given.

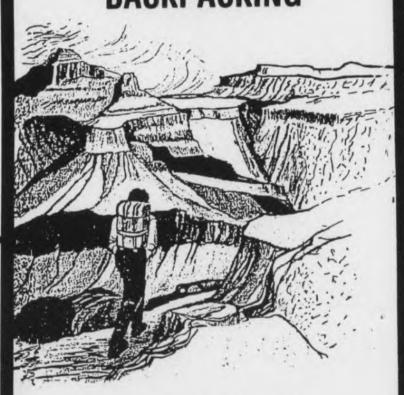

Ingmar Bergman's stunning allegory of man's search for meaning in life. A knight, after returning home from the Crusades, plays a game of chess with Death while The Plaque ravages medieval Europe. An exceptionally powerful film, it is a work of awesome scope and remarkable visual pleasures.

Wednesday, February 4, Forum Hall, 7:30 p.m. & Thursday, February 5, Little Theatre, 3:30 p.m. & Forum Hall, 7:30 p.m.; $1.75, KSU ID required.

k-state union

GRAND CANYON BACKPACKING

GO HIKE THE CANYON SPRING BREAK MARCH 13-21, 1987

INFO MTG: 7 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 10 Union Room 206

SIGN-UP: Begins Wed., Feb. 11 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Union Activities Center

Wk-state union

ONLY $46

Poor outside shooting kills 'Cats at Missouri

By DAVE WAGNER Sports Writer

COLUMBIA, Mo. - Weak performances by K-State's men's basketball players were evenly matched by the performance of the Missouri Tigers, which made for an interesting Big Eight Conference matchup.

If either team had been playing to its potential, there would have been a definite rout. But that wasn't the case Sunday in Missouri's Hearnes Center.

On paper, the Wildcats and Tigers were even throughout the ball game with K-State hitting a dismal 33 percent from the field, matched to Mizzou's 39 percent.

It was that extra 6 percent, though, that made the difference for Missouri as it stole a 68-64 victory. The Tigers improved their record to 15-7 overall and 5-1 in conference play and now stand tied for first place in the Big Eight with Oklahoma and Kansas.

K-State fell to 14-5 and 4-2. "We didn't shoot well at all today," said K-State Coach Lon Kruger. "I give Missouri a lot of credit for making us play badly.

"We shot a little quick and didn't get very good ball movement. We were happy to be tied at the half after playing the way we started out. In the second half we came out and didn't improve at all.'

"It was a great win," Missouri Coach Norm Stewart said. "Great effort by our team...A great defensive effort. We thought all along that our defense had shown it can really sparkle and be part of our ballclub. We got some quick buckets to open a 10-point lead, but then we made a couple of sparkling plays.'

There was a glimmer of hope for the 'Cats with 1:40 left in the game when William Scott nailed a three-pointer that was unanswered by Missouri. Richmond then drew a foul off Tiger Lee Coward that took him to the line for two shots. He hit both, bringing the 'Cats to within five with 1:26 remaining.

K-State's hopes were quickly diminished as Coward drew fouls from Scott and Bledsoe and hit four of four from the line to ensure the win. A last-ditch effort by Richmond from the three-point range was successful, but not enough, as time ran out and the Tigers came out on top.

"Missouri took control of the boards, especially in the second half," Kruger said. "They did a good job defensively. They kept us out of our rhythm. Plus, we stood around a little too much.

Norris Coleman paced the 'Cats offensively with 20 points and Nathan Buntin paced Missouri with 20 points as well.

In the first half, K-State controlled the tipoff, but couldn't convert and failed to score for the first four minutes of the game. It was William Scott who finally broke the ice for the 'Cats hitting a three-point shot with 15:57 left in the half.

K-State tied the game at 8-8 with 14 minutes left in the half, but then went cold again and watched Missouri jump out to a 23-12 lead. But Coleman, Mitch Richmond and Mark Dobbins combined for 11 unanswered points and evened the score at

In the second half, the game became a more evenly matched scenario as each team responded to one another's shots and exchanged leads until about the 8:40 mark in the game with Missouri leading 52-48.

From then on, it was K-State trying to come from behind. It was with little success, though, as Missouri hit seven unanswered points to go ahead by 10.

K-STATE	MIN	FG	FG-3	FT	R	F	TP
RICHMOND	37	5-18	3-9	5-5	7	4	18
COLEMAN	38	7-20	0-4	6-8	10	2	20
BLEDSOE	21	3-7	0-0	1-4	11	4	7
HENSON	36	1-3	1-2	0-0	3	5	3
SCOTT	37	5-16	3-10	1-2	5	3	14
Nelson	5	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	1	0
Simmons	8	0-0	0-0	0-0	2	3	0
Dobbins	18	1-2	0-1	0-0	3	2	2
Totals		22-66	7-26	13-19	43	24	64
MISSOURI	MIN	FG	FG-3	FT	R	F	TF
BUNTIN	29	7-10	0-0	6-9	6	4	20
BOTHE	38	3-5	0-0	2-2	9	2	8
CHURCH	34	2-8	0-0	1-2	5	0
CHIEVOUS	36	6-13	1-2	4-5	13	2	17
HARDY	26	1-10	0-0	3-4	5	4	5
Coward	30	4-12	1-2	2-5	4	2	11
Sutton	2	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Lanana d	5	1-3	0-0	0-0	3	0	2
Leonard							68

Turnovers: Missouri 13, K-State 15 Field goal percentage: Missouri 39.3, K-State 33.3 Attendance: 10,945

K-State forward Lance Simmons battles University of Missouri forwards Greg Church (33) and Mike Sandbothe (42) for a rebound during the 'Cats 68-64 loss to the Tigers Sunday at Hearnes Center in Col-

Late technical call aids Lady Tigers

By CHASE CLARK Sports Writer

COLUMBIA, Mo. - The Lady Cats can certainly say they will be happy to play at home again.

Road trips have taken a heavy toll on the K-State women's basketball team this season. K-State, 5-5 on the road, was defeated Saturday by the Lady Tigers of Missouri, 78-74. A questionable technical foul call on K-State's Susan Green in the closing seconds provided two free throws to the Tigers, enabling Missouri to ice the win.

For Missouri's women, it was their second controversial game this season. At home against Oklahoma last month, the two teams ended the game with a bench-clearing brawl still under investigation by the Big Eight

K-State, now 15-5 overall and 4-3 in the Big Eight, has lost three of its last four road games - all of which were conference mat-

"It came down to an official's call at the end that put Missouri at the free-throw line," said K-State Coach Matilda Mossman. "There's not much defense you can play against a team shooting free throws. It gave them a chance to win at the end.'

K-State held the lead through the first 10 minutes of the second half, but Missouri came back strong and tied the game at 53-53 with 7:39 remaining.

On a three-point conversion by Renee Kelly with less than six minutes left, the Lady Tigers took the lead, 58-57, for the first time in the second stanza.

Missouri extended its lead to seven points with 2:26 left in the game. But the Lady Cats came back with a run of their own and tied the game at 74-74 on a free throw by Green with 36 seconds left on the clock.

Then the trouble started.

After a K-State foul, Monique Lucas went to the line for Missouri with 13 seconds left. Lucas hit the first of the one-on-one. Then Green was slapped with the technical while trying to attract the referee's attention.

'One of Missouri's players (Lucas) came up and put her finger in Susan's face and Susan was just trying to get the official's attention to let them know what was happening," Mossman said. The official "reacted offensively and he called the techincal foul," Mossman added. "It's not Susan Green's fault by any means, she was just trying to get someone's atten-

Lucas missed the second shot from the line, but made the technical shot to give Missouri a two-point lead and the ball.

K-State fouled Renay Daughtery with eight seconds left. She hit both of the free throws and the Lady Cats were unable to get

See LADY CATS, Page 7

K-STATE	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
BLECZINSKI	29	6-13	2-3	7	3	14
THOMAS	34	7-12	0-0	3	4	14
LIEDING	36	7-11	3-4	8	3	17
GREEN	30	6-18	7-9	3	3	19
FITZPATRICK	23	2-7	0-0	3	4	4
Smith	4	0-1	1-2	1	0	1
Madsen	3	0-0	0-0	0	1	0
Funk	23	0-4	0-0	3	1	0
Davidson	6	0-2	2-2	1	1	2 3
Lane	12	1-4	1-1	9	2	3
Totals	-	29-72	16-21	43	22	74
MISSOURI	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
PROPHETT	22	4-10	0-0	1	5	8
DOZIER	36	4-8	0-0	5	2	8
KELLY	33	9-11	6-9	13	4	24
JORGENSON	14	1-4	0-0	0	1	2
LeVALLEY	18	5-8	0-0	5	2	10
Daughtery	24	2-4	4-6	1	2	8
L. Ellis	17	2-7	2-2	2	3	6
Bax	3	0-0	0-0	1	2	0
Lucas	17	3-8	4-5	3	0	10
St. Clair	8	0-3	0-0	0	1	0
T. Ellis	8	1-2	0-0	4	1	2
Totals		31-65	16-22	41	23	78
Ittaia			0.000	0.0

Halftime score: Missouri 32, K-State 39 Turnovers: Missouri 18, K-State 18 Field goal percentage: Missouri 47.6, K-State 40.3

'Cat track teams combine for 5 first-place showings

By DAVE WAGNER Sports Writer

COLUMBIA, Mo. - Teams attending the Missouri Indoor Track Invitational Saturday got a glimpse of what is yet to come from the Wildcat track teams.

K-State's men's and women's track teams combined for five first-place finishes in just the second meet of the in-

Though no team scores were kept, the meet left Coach John Capriotti feeling optimistic about how his teams will fare the remainder of the season.

"I think we stacked up pretty well today against the other Big Eight teams, Capriotti said. "Missouri's a team I'm worried about (on the women's side) and we ran them pretty tough today. It was a pretty good meet (overall), not bad at Several individual performances highlighted the Wildcats' showing, including the return of K-State's world class NCAA triple-jump champion Kenny Harrison who easily captured the men's long jump with a leap of 25 feet, 51/2 inches just a half inch short of the NCAA national qualifying mark for the indoor champion-

This was the first time Harrison had competed in the long jump since last year's NCAA outdoor championships. Nevertheless, he leaped Saturday's distance despite feeling a bit withdrawn from the competition.

"I really felt flat," Harrison said. "I really couldn't get up for (the meet). I kept trying to, but I couldn't.'

Also competing for the the first time this season was K-State high jumper Brad Spears, who had been out for the early part of the season with torn ankle ligaments. Spears showed no signs of injury, though, as he captured first place

See TRACK, Page 7

COUPON

38 Days Till Break

- ★6 Private Tanning Rooms
- ★Using Wolff Bulbs
- ★Body-Cooling Fans For Each Bed

10 Sessions for $25

(Offer expires Feb. 8)

776-7874

1214C Moro (behind Aggie Ski & Sport)

50% off

p.m. Haircut Appointments with coupon

Monday through Friday expires 2/27/87

THE FEUD GOES ON K-State vs. K.U.

Get your "original design, feud goes on," t-shirt or sweatshirt at "Wildcat Spirit.

Help cheer the Cats to victory by filling the stands with purple pride Bring this coupon by

Wildcat Spirit and receive

20% off any KSU

OPEN 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Mon.-Sat 716 N. Manhattan

Aggieville

"Wildcat Spirit"

ERIKSON SPORTS MEDICINE CLINIC

WE PROVIDE:

★Evaluation, Diagnosis, Treatment, Rehabilitation of sports-related injuries and problems

ANNOUNCING THE OPENING OF

- ★Determine Body Fat Percentages
- ★Heat Stress Information
- ★Information and advice on Fitness, Injury Prevention, Health Effects of Exercise
- *Much, Much More

CLINIC OPEN TO EVERYONE WALK-IN CLINIC-8-9:30 a.m. Monday-Friday 1-2:30 p.m. Monday only 1-2 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday, Friday APPOINTMENTS AVAILABLE TO SHORTEN WAIT—CALL 532-7880 COME SEE WHAT WE ARE ALL ABOUT anything to fall through the hoop on their last possesssion.

Lady Cats

Continued from Page 6

"This was definitely a tough road trip," Mossman said. "We knew that coming in here.

"I'm disappointed and the kids are disappointed that we couldn't at least get one of these. We've just got to bounce back and get ready for Oklahoma," she added.

Behind the 12-point scoring effort of Green in the first half, the Lady Cats went into the locker room with a seven-point lead, 39-32. Freshman center Stephanie Lane paced the Cats on the boards, with seven rebounds

K-State capitalized on 13 of 18 attempts from the free-throw line in the first half. Missouri only received three chances from the charity stripe, but made two of them. In foul trouble for Missouri were Sandie Prophete and Renee Kelly, each with three fouls.

Four Lady Cats scored in double figures in the game. Green paced the squad with 19 points, Sue Leiding netted 17 and Carlisa Thomas and Tracey Bleczinski each had 14.

Lane grabbed nine boards in the game as K-State outrebounded Missouri 43-41. Leiding had eight boards and Bleczinski collected

As a team, the Lady Cats hit only

40 percent from the field, 29 of 72, while the Tigers hit 47.6 percent of their field goals. Missouri center Kelly Renee, the leading scorer in the Big Eight, was held to 24 points — two points below her average - but she grabbed 13 rebounds. The Lady Cats return to action Wednesday night in a conference matchup with Oklahoma in Ahearn

Field House.

Becky Ives, second in the 1,000-yard run; and Anne Stadler, second in the Zwahlen summed up the winning performances quite well Saturday after setting a personal record in the

"Every time you do something good it instills confidence in you which helps you work harder to im-

Nationally ranked KU, OU record non-conference wins

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - For the Big Eight's two big-timers, it was a very good weekend indeed.

Oklahoma and Kansas, the league's only nationally ranked squads, both were on the road. Both were up against prestigious opponents. And both brought home a victory that seems certain to enhance their rankings in this week's Top Twenty.

Kansas ventured to Kentucky, to take on the defending national champions, the Louisville Cardinals. With a boost from two freshmen, the 20th-ranked Jayhawks pulled out a 62-58 conquest for their sixth straight vic-

Oklahoma was at North Carolina

State and the 10th-ranked Sooners raised their overall record to 17-3 by handing the favored Wolfpack an 86-82 setback.

Elsewhere in the Big Eight Saturday, Illinois slipped past Colorado 69-65. On Sunday, Bill Jackman scored 15 points, including three last-minute free throws, as Nebraska held off Oklahoma State 73-66. Nebraska is now 2-4 in the Big Eight and 12-7 overall, while Oklahoma State drops to 1-5 and 5-14.

Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri are all 5-1 in the conference while K-State's loss dropped the Wildcats to second place at 4-2.

Oklahoma raced to a 22-point lead over its hosts from the Atlantic Coast Conference but had to hold on for dear life at the end.

Illinois led Colorado almost the entire game but had to gather its forces to halt a Buff rally that closed the deficit to four points with 20 seconds to play. "I'd like to think we could take this game tonight and build off of it." said Colorado Coach Tom

Miller. Kansas freshman Kevin Pritchard scored 14 points for the Jayhawks and said he was energized when Louisville's Pervis Ellison broke Jayhawk center Mark Pellock's nose in the first two minutes of play. Another freshman, Keith Harris, replaced Pellock in the lineup and led Kansas with 15 points as the Jayhawks won their sixth straight game in front of 19,428 Louisville with a 7-foot jump.

Track

Continued from Page 6

"I was going for a school record of 7 feet, 2 inches," Spears said.

In other men's competition, the trio of Ron Stahl, Brian Zwahlen and Jan Jonsson finished third, fourth and fifth, respectively, in the mile. Aaron Roberson, finished second in the 600-yard dash and David Keller took second in the two-mile run.

On the women's side, Pinkie Suggs once again dominated the shot put, setting a personal and Hearnes Field House record with a heave of 53 feet, 81/2 inches.

Bloom County

JPM DAV95 2-2

Sitting out a year of competition to work on her strength and technique

LIFE and Cinter

FRONTIER ... THE BASTION

OF HUMAN LEARNEDISM.

COLLEGE ... THE FINAL

I'M ABOUT TO

GO IN AND VISIT

LOLA IN HER

Garfield

STUDIO.

has apparently paid off - Suggs has thrown in four meets and has qualified for the NCAA national indoors in all four.

"I really didn't expect to throw far here at all. I was tired the first three throws, and then on the fourth I threw 52 (feet) 6 (inches) and that made me feel relieved," Suggs said.

Other winning performances for the women's team came from Kim Kilpatrick, first place in the 60-yard hurdles, and Joy Jones, first in the 60-yard dash.

Placing in the top three for the women were Chris Vanatta, third place in the mile run with a time of 4:53.63; Kelly Abernathy, third in the shot put; Dimita Jones, second in the 600-yard run; Kim Kilpatrick, second in the 440-yard dash; Karen Brown, third in the 300-yard dash;

I GET GOOSE PIMPLES

JUST THINKING OF

MINDS THAT MAY HAVE

SAT IN THIS VERY ROOM.

SOME OF THE GREAT

HOWEVER, THERE'S

LAND MINE APPROACHING

ANOTHER ROMANTIC

ON THE PATH OF

OUR MATURING

YEP ... THIS IS EDUCATION

AT IT'S BEST. I'll JUST

SIT AND SOAK UP THE

IT'S DANGEROUS ... EVEN

HA! REVENGE!

REVEN6E!!

HEE! HEE! HEE

HEE!HEE!HEE!

WORKING

ON MY

LATEST

PAINTING.

MORE POTENTIALLY

CATASTROPHIC THAN

FROM LAST WEEK!

KNOWLEDGE ...

880-yard run in her first meet back from an injury.

mile with a time of 4:12.49.

prove," he said. Others placing in the meet for K-State were Marge Eddy and Nancy Hoffman in the mile; Anita Isom and Karen Brown in the 60-yard dash; Amy Dryer in the shot put; Karen McGaughey in the 300-yard dash; Jenny Faunce in the 1,000-yard run; Kelly Green in the 880-yard run; Dan Myers in the shot put; and Bryon Lopez in the two-mile run.

by Doug & Dick

By Berke Breathed

TELL ME

IF YOU

By Jim Davi

GARFIELD!

SPEAK TO ME!

By Charles Schulz

AREN'T YOU KIND OF

WEIRD FOR ME ?!

AUNTY EM?

THINK IT'S

WONDERFUL

WELCOME TO APPRECIA-

TION' OF MODERN MUSIC

TODAY WE'LL BE

USTENING TO THE

THE HONEST

OPINION !

YEEK!

"STONES." CRANK

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper. Student Publications will not be responsible

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per

ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi capped accessible. (76-118)

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski desti-nations. South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauder-dale, Mustang Island/Port Aransas, Galveston Isinformation and reservations-1-800-321-5911!

HELP CHILDREN learn. The Friendship Tutoring Program needs more tutors! Please call 776-6566 if you are willing to volunteer to help a child on

ALOHA-CHECK display ad in this issue for free Waikiki stay. Seniors only. (89)

ATTENTION

CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry. Need 100 over weight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drugs, no ex-ercise, 100% guaranteed. Call 776-5114 or 776-

02

03

HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT distributor. See us for products. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

ENGLAND, SCOTLAND, and Ireland for under $1,300. Travel to Europe for 11 days; includes air fare, meals, sightseeing and lodging. Leaving Kansas City May 18. Call right away for more information. 539-2883. (85-89)

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS!! Overcoats, field jackets camouflage clothing, wool gloves and socks, cold weather boots, Carhartt workwear, much more!! Just 28 miles east on highway 24. Open Monda Saturday, 9-5. St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437

to all of Europe from St. Louis. Call (314) 727-8888.

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and non-12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

Correctable typewriters for rent on a daily, weekly or monthly basis. See us for all your typing needs.

511 Leavenworth, across from post office FOR RENT, two-bedroom mobile home, $200 month

776-9469

By Eugene Sheffer

assifieds

cents per word over 15.

Deadline is noon the day before publication;

for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

ANNOUNCEMENTS 01 MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour prod-land and Fort Walton Beach. Call Sunchase Tours Central Spring Break Toll Free Hot Line today for

Thursday evenings. (86-90)

SUMMER IN Europe $299. Lowest Scheduled Fares

correcting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North

Bussells

rossword

eanuts

DID YOU KNOW THAT OUR

TEACHER WANTS YOU AND I

TO WORK TOGETHER ON

A SCIENCE PROJECT?

1 Ending for sand or handle 4 One type 46 Prolonged of can

ACROSS

7 Small 50 Remedy 53 "I do." branch 11 Soviet river 13 River in for nose 56 Affirm Brazil 14 Tortoise's 57 Summer rival in Paris 15 Zola novel 58 Barbecue 16 Demented dish

17 Cheese 60 Defeat from Holland 18 Decorates 61 "Let us 20 Track event

22 Actress Dawber 24 Packed 28 Played for time

32 Cognizant 33 Pueblo Indian 34 Card game 36 Blue or

White 37 Arrange in a row 39 Built

41 Interlocked 43 The heart Yesterday's answer

44 Tweedle-DOWN 1 Baseball Tweedleploy 2 Sandarac tree dee, to dum

attack

for one bridge

REALLY? BUT AREN'T

FOR ME?

YOU KIND OF YOUNG

3 Punjab princess 4 Goal 5 Swindle 6 Abode of the dead

19 Actor

21 Airport

abbr.

23 Blanc or meals 26 Author

paper

27 Legal

Brooks

Gardner

28 Counterfeit

metalware

29 Enameled

30 Sacred

bull

31 Jane or

John

35 Grampus

38 "- Girl

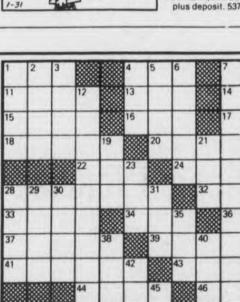

Mineo

55 Anagram 7 Colonial newsman 8 Roll of bills? 9 Kind of 59 Charts acct. 10 Precious stone 12 City employees do or -!" of yore in Town' 40 Dawn Solution time: 27 mins. goddess 42 Emulates Greg Louganis 45 Observe 47 Arthurian lady 48 Asian

49 Being 50 Wheel part 51 Grape 52 D.C denizen 54 Moist

CRYPTOQUIP

2-2

JQJHIPXIY JKGIJ-

UFYFJI ZIJEIY-UKP

XKZ; VI BKJ VIGX Yesterday's Cryptoquip: THE RENOWNED GEOLO-GISTS' NEWSLETTER CONTAINED TOPOGRAPHICAL

Today's Cryptoquip clue: J equals S

FOR RENT-APTS

4422 (82-90)

TWO BEDROOM luxury duplex: Fireplace, garage, west of campus, $450. Call 539-4294 or 776-2536. (69tf) ONE-BEDROOM, two-bedroom apartments, furarea. Call 776-9124. (78tf) ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month, Gas, heat and water included. Lease and deposit required. Call 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (89-98) TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294. (78tf)

LARGE, WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five blocks from campus. No pets. $300. Call 776-0181. (7911) ADJACENT TO campus, 1224 Bertrand. Nice, twobedroom with garage, washer and dryer. We pay water, trash. Asking $350. Call 537-1745 or 537-

NEAR KSU, quiet, clean, one-bedroom, furnished, laundry, air conditioning, parking. Available June 1. Call 776-7814 or 539-3803. (85-104)

ROOMMATES WANTED-share nice apartment across from Ford Hall. $125/month and few utili ties. 1230 Claffin, apartment three. Call 537-0857.

TWO-BEDROOM-two blocks from campus, $230. Call 539-1349. (88-92) ONE-BEDROOM-one-half block from campus, $210. Call 539-1349. (88-92) FOR RENT Large two-bedroom. Laundry, pets. $295.

> MONT BLUE APARTMENTS Leasing for June

•Studio, 1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments and Townhouses

 Close to campus 539-4447

FURNISHED, SPACIOUS two-bedroom, nicely decorated. Dishwasher, disposal. Short-term lease available. No pets. $300 deposit required. 539-1465. (89-108) FOR RENT—HOUSES

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage, west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294. (78tf)

BIG. ROOMY, eight-bedroom house. Central air, three baths, two kitchens, washer/dryer. Available for 1987-88 school year. One and one-half blocks from campus. Phone 537-7087. (89-92) FOR SALE-AUTO

1986 FORD F150 4 x 4, 351 V8 4B, supercab. Low mileage. Best offer. 539-7409. (81-91) 1976 GRAND Prix, excellent condition, power brakes, steering, locks, windows, sun roof, 537

9282 after 6 p.m. (86-90)

TOYOTA PICKUP, 1984, clean, excellent condition, five-speed, long bed, topper, 776-0529, (87-93) 1981 DODGE Omni for sale. Four-door, yellow. Call 532-3818. (87-89)

07 FOR SALE-MISC EX-60 SILVER Reed typewriter. Best offer. 539-7409.

ELEVEN-PIECE drum set for sale. Slingerland 11cw nine toms, one kick, snare and hi-hat. Five cymbal stands. Includes cases for everything. Also one AKG D12E bass drum microphone, one Sure SM58, and one Sure PE 75L. 776-2446—Darren. (86-

CORONA PC. dual disks, 128K, IBM compatible, SC

Sub of the Week HAM & cheese The Best Submarine Joint in Aggieville

AL'S DEL South of Baskin Robbins

REFRIGERATOR, MID-SIZED, great for dorms. $110 or best offer. Call Phil, 776-7794. (88-92) LIKE NEW, ladies leather and quilted coats, new Bapaperbacks. 776-1861. (89-91)

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES

YAMAHA 225, three-wheel ATV. Electric start, shaft full suspension, good condition, $800, Call 539-3807, (87-90)

HELP WANTED

EARN $480 weekly-$60 per hundred envelopes stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed for company project stuffing envelopes and assembling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to JBK Mailcompany, P.O. Box 25-52, Castaic, California 91310. (76-102)

AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer. Career Good pay. Travel. Call for guide, cassette, newsser-vice! (916) 944-4444 Ext. #58. (76-135)

STUDENT OFFICE help-Department of Forestry. Office and computer experience necessary.
Office and computer experience necessary.
Hours: Tuesday and Thursday 1-5 p.m. Monday.
Wednesday, Friday, 8 a.m.-noon. Call Pat or Sandy at 532-5752. Pays $3,35/hour. (88-89) WANTED: COUNSELORS, riding and waterfront instructors (WSI and lifeguards). June/July 1987, live in, camp setting. If interested in an interview on March 4, contact Career Planning and Placement Center. (89-93) SUBJECTS NEEDED for thermal comfort research $10 for 2-hour test. Sign up at the Institute for Envi ronmental Research, basement of Seaton Hall, en-

THE KANSAS Cooperative Extension Service has an opening for student computer programmers. The position is for 20 hours per week, flexible sched-ule. Applicants should be familiar with one of the following languages: Pascal, C, or PL/I. Summer employment is a possibility depending on performance. For more information contact Dr. Steve Welch or Mary Knapp at 211 Umberger, phone: 532 7019. Application blanks are available from the above individuals or in the Computer Science Office and will be taken during business hours through February 6, 1987 (83-92) SUMMER EMPLOYMENT at Camp Lincoln/Camp

Lake Hubert-Minnesota resident summer camps. A strong commitment to working with children required, along with activity skills and teaching experience Specific job information and appli-cations are available at Career Placement Office-Holtz Hall. Sign up, in advance, for personal interviews to be held on campus. Tuesday, February 3rd, and Wednesday, February 4th, 1987.

WAITRESSES, MUST be 21, at Bonkers, 1216 Laramie, 537-9591 (86-90) TYPIST NEEDED, 50-55 words per minute, knowledge of Wordstar preferred, 10-15 hours per week.

$3.35-$3.75 per hour. Work study preferred. Call Dora at 532-6842 (87-90) 14 LOST

LOST: WOMAN'S silver, angular linked bracelet on 28.

January. Please contact (1) 784-3032 after 7 p.m. (88-89) NEED MONEY for college? Let us match you with scholarship and grant money for which you can quality. For more information write Student Financial Aid Services, 1613 S.W. Chelsea Drive, Topeka, KS 66604 (82-91) VW REPAIRS done right the first time. J & L Auto Service, 1-494-2388. Drive a little and save money. (86-95)

PERSONAL

THETA, NI's: Theta love and knowledge is now yours to hold, while proudly wearing the black and gold tives (89)

DELT NEW Initiates-Congratulations on your initiation-by the way. What time is it? -Love, Squid. (89) KATHRYN-CONGRATS on your initiation. These

Your Dog Lover. (A.K.A. Mikey). (89) MIKEW - How do I love thee? Let me count the ways Happy Birthday! Love. Ann. (89) L.J. and Annette: Finally the search is over! Congrats last few months have been wonderful. I love you.

on your engagement and good luck in Florida. Cindy (89) TO TALL, dark, and handsome meal-time crush. I'm still watching you. The woman who stares at you in Derby (89) JON, THE past 18 months have been magic! I Love U.

ROOMMATE WANTED MALE ROOMMATE across street from campus at 1230 Vattier. Ground floor, private room, washer/ dryer, fireplace. $135/month, plus utilities. 776-ROOMMATE-RENT negotiable, own room, laundry facilities, next to campus. Call 776-3833, keep try-

ing. (86-90) NONSMOKING FEMALE-large house, sundeck washer/dryer. Utilities paid, own room. $175/ month, 539-6628. (86-95)

RESPONSIBLE MALE to share two-bedroom house in Keats (8 miles west of Union), $100 deposit, $100 rent, one-half utilities. 539-8541 after 7 p.m. (87-91) FEMALE ROOMMATE: Huge bedroom, laundry, pets.

$148/month. 539-4994. (88-89) MALE ROOMMATE to share four-bedroom apartment. Own room, washer and dryer, close to cam pus and Aggieville. $137.50 plus one-fifth utilities. Marlene—539-2356. (89-93)

SERVICES 18 PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg

Fourth St., Suite 25. (1tf)

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence 913-841-5716 (39tf) EXPERIENCED TYPIST-$1.10/page. Disc storage letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537-9205, Dorinda (89-98) TYPING/WORD processing. Data sheets, resumes. letters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Burden, 539-1204 (80-89)

QUALITY TYPING for $1 per page. Contact John, 539-Courtesy Demonstration > by Appointment 9:30-5:30 Monday-Saturday

MERLE NORMAN 308 Poyntz

tions. Resumes, Theses, etc. Call Caron at 532 6294 or 776-2279 (86-95) MARTIE'S TYPING Service. Word Processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Term papers, theses, disserta-tions. 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. (87-89)

QUALITY TYPING at economical prices. Disserta

READY FOR graduation? We compose/type re-sumes, data sheets and letters. Resume Service. 1211 Moro, Aggieville. 537-7294. (89-91)

5379. (86-90)

SUBLEASE

JMMER SUBLEASE—three-bedroom, one and one-half bath, close to campus, $465. Call 776

22

HELPII NEED one KU.-K-State ticket. Call Mike at

WANTED: A few good KSU men to share a unique ex perience. The re-organization of Alpha Kappa Lambda. Room 207, K-State Union, 7 p.m., Febru-

WANTED TO BUY

SUMMER SUBLEASE-three-bedroom,

Continued from Page 1

when he asked Casey if news reports about such shipments were correct, he was told they were false.

The committee noted that McFarlane said that if he had known the Israelis had previously shipped arms to Iran, he would have been less responsive to later Israeli proposals to resume arms shipments.

"However, in his first cable to Shultz in the matter, he stated that it was obvious to him that the Israeli channel into Iran had existed for some time," the intelligence panel

There was also disagreement between witnesses about whether McFarlane told Reagan about the use of controversial Iranian arms dealer Manucher Ghorbanifar as a go-between with high Iranian officials during conversations in Reagan's hospital room in July 1985.

It said McFarlane "categorically denied any discussion of Ghorbanifar with the president," saying that it wasn't until December that he became aware of Ghorbanifar's

But the panel added that McFarlane told Shultz in a July 14 cable that one of the Iranians he had in mind was "an adviser to the prime minister named Ghorbanifar.'

The committee also noted a "divergence of views" on whether presidential approval of Israeli shipments of U.S. missiles to Iran came at an August 1985 meeting or

The report said Regan testified the president declined to authorize the Israeli shipment "because of misgivings about Ghorbanifar's credentials and influence in Iran" and because other participants agreed it was premature to get involved in arms sales to the Iranians.

"McFarlane, on the other hand, testified that Ghorbanifar's name never came up at the August meeting," the committee said.

Wefald

Continued from Page 1

However, Smith said it is more expensive without GTAs. The salary of one faculty member is about the same as those of two GTAs.

Besides emphasizing traditional programs, the document proposes advancements in new areas, such as the expansion of the educational satellite communications center. "We are looking to expand off-

 4¢ self-service copies •Full service copy center Resume service

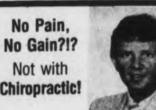

Sat. 9-5 Sun.12-9 FirstBank Center Denison & Claflin 776-3771 campus services. We are in a position to build our telecommunications programs. They will enable us to deliver programs to the entire state," Wefald said. "In turn, this will enable us to do a better job with non-traditional students.

Despite emphasis on technical programs, Wefald said the liberal arts curricula will not be ignored.

"Traditionally, we have a strong liberal arts program," he said. "Many of our Rhodes and Truman scholars were in the liberal arts.

"In the past six months we have

Regain your health without pain: call 537-8305 Dr Mark Hatesohl 3252 Kimball Ave.

If You've Never Heard Of It,

Ask Your Folks.

made great progress in promoting the liberal arts. We have been going to schools, reminding people how good the program is. However, due to the state's economic problems, Wefald said money resources are scarce and choices have to be made.

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt

that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

Wichita. Family Planning Inc.

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours. 3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

HUNAM EXPRESS

Open 7 days a week

Free Delivery 11 a.m.-1 a.m. Call 539-8868 or 537-0886

FREE Winds

Wendy's Single with purchase of 8 Gallons of gas or more. Only at Manhattan Derby

720 N. 3rd St.

Open Rush

February 8-23, 1987

The participating sororities are: ALPHA CHI OMEGA ALPHA GAMMA DELTA ALPHA XI DELTA KAPPA DELTA SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

* Register with Greek Affairs in Holton Hall 203 by Feb. 6.

Friday

8C 6am - 11pm P 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm Closed for Kans. Inv 6:30 - 7:15am

6am - 11pm 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30 - 10pm 6:30 - 7:15am

Noon - 12:45pm

INTRAMURAL WRISTWRESTLING

RC 6am - 11pm P 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30 - 10pm A 6:30 - 7:15am Noon - 12:45pm

6am - 11pm 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm

7:30 - 10ps A 6:30 - 7:15am Noon - 12:45pm ORC 4 - 6pm

DEADLINE 5pm

INTRAMURAL POWERLIFTING

13

RC P

* $5 Registration Fee

Thursday

D
RC Aam - 11pn
P 6 - 7:30am
11:30am-3:30pm
7:30 - 10pm
A 4:30 - 5:15pm
5:30 - 6:15pm
AQF 7:30 - 8:15pm

PC 6am - 11pm* P 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-1:30pm 7:30 - 10pm A 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm AQF 7:30 - 8:15pm

INTRAMURAL POWERLIFTING

RC 6am - 11pm P 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30 - 10pm* A 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm AQF 7:30 - 8:15pm

INTRANURAL WRISTWRESTLING *Diving Well Closed 7:30-8:30p.m.

RC 6am - 11pm P 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-3:30 pm 7:30 - 10pm A 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm AQF 7:30 - 8:15pm

19

Rec Gym Closed 6:15-11pm

FEBRUARY REC REPORT

If They Won't Tell You About It, Then You Know It Must Be Great.

Purple Passion. Out of the bathtub, into the can, and onto the shelves of your favorite store. Discover it for yourself. Busted for World Wide Dratified Products Company By Beverage Cancepts. SI Louis Mo 63108 15 Proof

ACTIVITIES CALENDAR

14

28

Saturday

RC 9em - 10pm P CLOSED FOR

RANSAS INVITATIONAL 9:15 - 10am

RC 9am - 10pm P CLOSED FOR 1-70 BOYS SWIM MEET

9:15 - 10am

RC 9am - 10pm P 1 -5pm

1 -5pm 7 - 10pm 9:15 - 10am

9am - 10pm 1 -5pm 7 - 10pm 9:15 - 10am

ORC CLOSED

Have you resolved to LOSE WEIGHT and INCREASE PHYSICAL EXERCISE?

Our NUTRITIONAL COUNSELOR can help you with your questions

- Am I exercising enough to accomplish my goals?
- Am I eating the right things?
- Do I have too much body fat?
- My current eating habits . . . will they hurt or enhance my performance in sports?

SIGN UP NOW!!

in the Recreational Services office or phone 532-6980

1/2 hour sessions by appointment only! Nutritional Counselor: Elizabeth Addington, Mondays 4-6 p.m.

> lifeline SWIMMMING CHALLENGE

DEADLINE:

5 p.m. Monday, Feb. 2

COST: $3.00

CHALLENGE: 15 miles within the month of February

Rec Services office 532-6980

Rec Complex (Court Reservation)

532-6951

Recreational Services

Noon - 11pm*

1 - 5pm 7 - 10pm

*COMBATIVES AREA OF RC CLOSED 5:45 - 7:15pm

Noon - 11pm

1 - 5pm 7 - 10pm

*COMBATIVES AREA OF RC CLOSED 5:45 - 7:15pm

RC Noon - 11 mp P 1 - 5pm CLOSED FOR

CODES

POOLS

AQF . . AQUA FITNESS

ORC . . OUTDOOR RENTAL

REC COMPLEX

AEROBICS

LIFEGUARD TRAINING

15

22

RC

16

23

Monday

6am - 11pm 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-1:30pm

7:30 - 10pm 6:30 - 7:15am Noon - 12:45pm 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm

FEBRUARY, 1987 Tuesday 6am - 11pm 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-1:30pm 7:30 - 10pm 6:30 - 7:15am Noon - 12:45pm 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm

Wednesday

6am - 11pm 6 - 7<30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30 - 10pm 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm 7:30 - 8:15pm 44 RC 6am - 11pn P 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-1:30ps Closed for 85 gaine A 6:30 - 7:15am Moon - 12:45pm 4:30 - 5:15ps 5:30 - 6:15ps

18

25

RC P

RC 6am - 11pm P 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-1:30pm Closed for 88 game A 6:30 - 7:15am Noon - 12:45pm 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm

6am - 11pm 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm 7:30 - 10pm 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm RC P AQF 7:30 - 8:15pm

17 6am - 11pm 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm RC P

6am - 11 pm 6 - 7:30 am 11:30 am - 1:30 pm 7:30 - 10 pm 6:30 - 7:15 am Noon - 12:45 pm 4:30 - 5:15 pm 5:30 - 6:15 pm Closed for 88 game A 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm AQF Cancelled

RC 6am - 11pm P 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-3:30pm Closed for UB game A 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm

6am - 11pm 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-1:30pm 7:30 - 10pm 6:30 - 7:15am Noon - 12:45pm 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm LIFELINE POINTS DUE

Phone Numbers Rec Check . . 532-6000 Intramural Hotline 532-6292

Rec Complex: Equipment/ Courte . 532-6951 Rec Services 532-6980

P 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-1:30pm 7:30 - 10pm A 6:30 - 7:15am Noon - 12:45pm 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm MARCH FACILITY USE CARDE GO ON SALE CARDS GO ON SALE

6am - 11pm 6 - 7:30am 11:30am-1:30pm 7:30 - 10pm 6:30 - 7:15am Noon - 12:45pm 4:30 - 5:15pm 5:30 - 6:15pm

NOTICE THE OUTDOOR RENTAL CENTER IS CLOSED UNTIL FEB. 27. RESERVATIONS HAY BE MADE THEOUGH THE OFFICE WITH 48 HOUR ADVANCE NOTICE

AEROBIC EXERCISE Monday, Wednesday, Friday 6:30 - 7:15 a.m.

Monday, Wednesday, Friday Noon - 12:45 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday 4:30 - 5:15 p.m.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday 5:30 - 6:15 p.m. Saturday

9:15 - 10 a.m. Aqua-Fitness (at the pools) Tuesday, Thursday

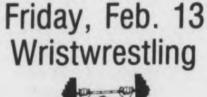

7:30-8:15 p.m.

Outdoor Rental Center 532-6894

Rec Check 532-6000

Intramural Hotline 532-6292

INTRAMURAL DEADLINES THIS MONTH Friday, Feb. 6 Powerlifting

Knopp on Top

Rep. Joe Knopp's election as the majority leader in the Kansas House of Representatives came as no surprise to him. See Page 3.

Partly Sunny

Partly sunny today, high in low- to mid-50s. Winds easterly to southeasterly 5 to 10 mph.

Sports

Topeka, KS

Rising Star

 DIGIT 6661Z

164 5/1/87 mm 8 Kansas State Mistorical So

K-State forward Tracy Bleczinski has been a force in making the Lady Cats contenders for the Big Eight title. See Page 6.

Kansas State

Tuesday

February 3, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 90

Abductors vow to kill if attacked

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Pro-Iranian kidnappers said Monday they will kill Americans Terry Anderson and Thomas Sutherland, who have been hostages since 1985, if the United States makes a military attack on Lebanon.

Lebanon's justice minister said the kidnappers had "arrested" Terry Waite. The Church of England envoy left his Beirut hotel Jan. 20 to negotiate for the freedom of the two Americans and other foreign captives in Lebanon.

Another group made the same threat last week against three American teachers and an Indian faculty member taken from Beirut University College on June 24. The abductors have said since that they will kill the four men unless Israel releases 400 prisoners by midnight

The official press of Syria, which supports pro-Iranian groups, has accused the United States of planning a military attack on Lebanon after 11 foreigners were kidnapped in 12 days. U.S. naval forces in the Mediterranean have been strengthened.

A typewritten statement in Arabic delivered to the office of a Western news agency Monday made the death threat against Anderson and Sutherland in the name of the Shiite Moslem group Islamic Jihad. Accompanying it was a photograph of Anderson, 39, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press.

"Any military attempt against the Moslems in the region, particularly in Lebanon, will result in the death of the captives and America's interests in the region," the statement said. "Our answer will be cruel. We shall have no mercy.'

The black-and-white photograph showed Anderson with a moustache, wearing a dark striped shirt. He was looking at the camera and was not wearing his glasses.

Islamic Jihad generally accompanies its statements with a photo of a captive as evidence of authenticity.

Staff/Greg Vogel

Afternoon jugglin'

Wendy Herdman, sophomore in theater, juggles while walking across campus Monday near the Union. Herdman said she practices her new-found hobby between classes to avoid using study time to perfect her skill.

Gates assumes top CIA post

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Robert Gates, a CIA official who reportedly urged disclosure of secret arms sales to Iran before they were revealed, was picked by President Reagan on Monday to replace the ailing William J. Casey as director of the spy agency.

73-year-old Casey, recuperating from surgery seven weeks ago for a brain tumor, was invited to become a counselor to the president when and if he can return to work

Gates, 43, has been the No. 2 official at the CIA since 1982 and has been running the agency in Casey's

A 20-year veteran of service in the CIA and the White House National Security Council as a Soviet affairs expert, Gates is widely respected on Capitol Hill and likely will not have difficulty winning Senate confirma-

However, he is certain to be grilled about the CIA's role in the secret sale of arms to Iran and the diversion of profits to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels. A report by the Senate Intelligence Committee said Casey, in testimony about the affair late last year, "was general in nature" and left many questions unanswered.

"I particularly look forward to working with Robert Ga professional in this field and for whom I have high regard," said Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-Rhode Island, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

A longtime friend of the president, Casey became director of the CIA in 1981 after managing Reagan's White House campaign.

He suffered a seizure last Dec. 15 a day before he was to appear before the Senate Intelligence Committee - and underwent surgery three days later for removal of a cancerous tumor.

According to an associate, Casey's last words before being wheeled into surgery were, "I hope Dave Durenberger doesn't think I'm copping out on him." Durenberger, a Minnesota Republican, was the chairman of the Intelligence Committee at the time.

The committee's report, released last week, said a CIA analyst went to Gates last Oct. 1 and said he was concerned that money from the secret arms sale to Iran were being diverted to Central America.

'Gates was surprised and disturbed and told the analyst to see Casey,' the report said. It quoted the analyst as saying he and Gates did not discuss whether or not a diversion would be illegal.

Gates on Oct. 15 directed the CIA's general counsel to review all aspects of the Iran deal to make sure nothing was being done that was illegal. The counsel later reported there was nothing amiss from the CIA standpoint.

According to Gates' testimony in the report, he and Casey urged thennational security adviser John Poindexter to have Reagan make the Iran initiative public, rather than have it leak out "in dribs and drabs." At that time, they warned there might have been some diversion of funds, the report said.

The arms-sale deal was revealed Nov. 3 by a pro-Syrian publication in Lebanon.

Casey testified to the Senate Intelligence Committee on Nov. 21 but did not mention the possibility of funds being diverted.

Gates said later information about the diversion "was based on analytical judgment of bits and pieces of information by one intelligence officer and that they (Casey and Gates) didn't consider that very much to go on, although it was enough to raise our concerns to the point where we expressed them to the White House.'

Casey offered his resignation during a meeting in his hospital room with White House chief of staff Donald Regan and Attorney General Edwin Meese last Thursday. A day later, Reagan talked with Gates in an unannounced meeting in the Oval Office, offering him the job.

Professor says tale of Groundhog Day 'bunch of hogwash'

By Staff and Wire Reports

Punxsutawney Phil, the nation's most prominent four-legged prognosticator, ambled out of his heated burrow at sunrise on Monday, saw his shadow in the overcast dawn and proclaimed that spring is at least six more weeks away.

The story of the groundhog has nothing to do with our weather, said Dean Bark, professor of physics and self-proclaimed cynic of Groundhog Day.

The tale is an "amazing bunch of hogwash" that has survived through the years, Bark said. Since Feb. 2, is no more than two-thirds of the way through winter, we will have one month or six more weeks of winter whether the groundhog saw his shadow or not, he said.

The story has a lot of unanswered questions, such as does Feb. 2, count as the first day of the six more weeks of winter or not? Does the six more weeks of winter mean that all of the days are going to be bad? These questions punch holes in the age-old lore that possibly began with Candlemas Day, Bark said.

The idea of Candlemas Day: Purification of the Virgin Mary, was known in several different parts of the world according to "Weather Lore," a book by Richard Inwards.

However the tale got started in America doesn't matter in Punxsutawney, a western Pennsylvania town of 7,000. This was the 100th, the 101st or the 102nd time that the world's best known groundhog made his annual fearless forecast of spr-

In Punxsutawney, the minor details of how long the groundhog has been making his prediction doesn't matter either.

"You don't shoot Santa Claus," said William Null, director of the Punxsutawney Chamber of Commerce. "A lot of this is tongue-incheek stuff. It's a myth and we try to promote it. It puts Punxsutawney on the map.'

Punxsutawney Phil is supposed to look for his shadow when he is pulled from his electrically heated den into the winter cold and the artificial glare of television lights on Gobbler's Knob outside of town.

But, in reality, the elite Inner Circle of the Groundhog Club is believed to decide the question days before the event.

The question of whether this is the centennial of groundhog predicting in Punxsutawney depends on how you count it.

Null, a member of the 14-man Inner Circle, claimed this is the 100th time "The Seer of Seers" will emerge from his burrow since, he said, the first forecast was Feb. 2,

To mark the centennial, the club has planned a four-day weekend bash.

By almost anyone's reckoning, Monday's forecast was the 101st if the first came in 1887. And if the first forecast was on Feb. 3, 1886, which the club's own handbooks claim, then this year's prognostication was the Null insists the 1886 forecast was "unofficial," and, by his figuring, Phil has made 99 predictions with Monday's being his 100th.

New liquor laws bring continuing changes to Aggieville

Number of bars admitting under-21 patrons drops

By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

Bar hoppin', jiffin', quarters and freshmen are fading from the Aggieville bar scene as more and more bars have closed their doors to students under 21 in response to the current liquor law revision.

Brother's, Aggie Lounge and Aggie Station are the three remaining Aggieville drinking establishments open to students under 21 years of age.

Brother's, 1120 Moro St. and Aggie Lounge, 712 N. 12th St., are the only taverns left in Aggieville where students born before July 1, 1966 can drink 3.2 beer.

Aggie Station, 1115 Moro St., is a private club and admits club card holders or guests under 21 but does not serve them any type of

Faced with the threat of losing federal highway funding two years ago, state others held out a semester. legislators opted to turn Kansas into a 21 state. The three-phase process began on July 1, 1985 when the legal drinking age for 3.2 beer changed from 18 to 19. One year later the age requirement rose to 20 and by July 1, 1987 Kansas will become a 21 state.

With the advent of the revised law came a substantial decrease in the number of legal drinkers under 21 and in the number of drinking establishments available to them.

By the beginning of the spring semester Kite's Bar & Grille, 619 N. 12th St., The Dark Horse Tavern, 619 N. Manhattan Ave., Last Chance, 1213 Moro St. and Mr. K's, 710 N. Manhattan Ave. had discontinued service to 3.2 beer patrons.

Food service at Kite's and Last Chance remains open to the public during certain

Kite's became a 21 club last summer; the

During winter break, Dark Horse converted to a country-and-western private club, and Mr. K's closed. Last Chance no longer reserves a special section for beer drinking patrons under 21; it became a private club during winter break as well. A modern rock private club will replace Mr. K's in February, said Jan Ray, wife of Terry Ray who owns the establishment.

One alternative to shutting out students under 21 is to admit them on the condition they do not drink. While Aggie Station adheres to the policy, three other clubs followed suit but abandoned the practice by the end of the fall semester.

John Lamb, director of the Kansas Alcoholic Beverage Control Agency, said anyone, regardless of age, can enter a

See MINOR, Page 8

Poll finds unawareness of rules

By BILL LANG Collegian Reporter

In a Collegian poll of 50 freshmen students, 33 said they did not know what the penalties are for drinking underage or possessing a false identification in an attempt to purchase alcoholic beverages.

Ten people said they had some vague idea of the consequences, while two said they knew what would happen.

To Bill Arck, director of Alcohol and Other Drug Education Services, this is not all that surprising. "Every year, we hand out pamphlets on penalties dealing with alcohol and drug abuse," Arck said. "And a majority of the time, they just end up in the trash. "That's really too bad because last semester alone we had 45 people from K-State arrested for DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol)." In the fall semester of 1984, 44 students were arrested for DUI. However, during the spring semester of 1985 the number caught dipped to 32.

The statistics for the Manhattan/Riley County area show 350 people were arrested for DUIs in 1985 - down from 475 in 1984. The 1985 statistics reveal that about 90 were students from

The conviction rate for the Riley County Police Department during this time has been 97 percent. The mandatory jail sentence is served in Riley

"We here at K-State are trying to inform the students what they are risking," Arck said about his department's role. "Most people are unaware of the penalties. Ultimately, it is up to

See LAWS, Page 8

INTERNATIONAL

Filipinos back leader, constitution

MANILA, Philippines - President Corazon Aquino won a decisive victory Monday as Filipinos overwhelmingly endorsed her proposed constitution and another 51/2 years of her leadership, unofficial returns showed.

Filipinos backed the draft charter by a 4-to-1 margin nationwide, according to the unofficial count by the private National Movement for Free Elections. Only in the northern Luzon Island stronghold of former President Ferdinand E. Marcos did a majority of voters appear to have rejected the proposal.

Final, official returns from the Commission on Elections were not expected before next week.

The private vote-count showed an approval margin of more than 80 percent — 5,374,617 to 1,294,656 — with 27 percent of the 86,703 precincts reporting nationwide.

Partial, unofficial returns from seven northern Luzon provinces showed about 54 percent in the region were opposed to Aquino's proposal. Opposition also was strong in Manila area precincts at military installations.

Author of popular war novels dies

 ${\bf MUNICH,\,West\,\,Germany-British\,\,novelist\,\,Alistair\,\,MacLean,}$ whose popular thrillers of war and adventure included "The Guns of Navarone" and "Ice Station Zebra," died Monday in a Munich hospital. He was 64.

William Collins and Sons, the writer's publisher in London, said MacLean suffered a stroke three weeks ago while visiting a friend in Munich and died in a hospital of heart failure.

MacLean wrote 29 books, beginning with "HMS Ulysses," based on his five years of wartime sea duty with the Royal Navy. His novels sold in the millions of copies and many were made into films, including "Where Eagles Dare," "Breakheart Pass," "When Eight Bells Toll," "Puppet On a Chain," and "The Guns of Navarone."

Although he was one of Britain's best-selling writers, he once said: "I'm not a novelist, I'm a storyteller...There's no art in what I do, no mystique. It's a job like any other."

He allowed, however, "I'm good at my job."

REGIONAL

Pari-mutuel alliance breaks down

TOPEKA - The breakdown of the alliance of Kansas pari-mutuel supporters became evident during a House committee hearing Monday, when a member of a statewide greyhound owners group denounced an idea to reduce the proposed tax to be levied on dog rac-

Gordon Davis Jr., spokesman for the Kansas Greyhound Owners for Economic Development, said the proposal amounted to using the more profitable pari-mutuel dog races to "subsidize" construction of dual purpose horse and dog tracks planned for Wichita and the Kansas City area.

Davis made the statement to the House Federal and State Affairs Committee as he responded to a plan offered last week by Kansans for Pari-Mutuel Inc. The committee is reviewing a measure that would implement a constitutional amendment voters approved in November to legalize pari-mutuel wagering.

Jonathan Small, an attorney for pari-mutuel group, told the panel Thursday that cutting the state tax for regular wagers on dog races from 5 percent to 3 percent would increase Kansas' chances to land a major racing facility.

NATIONAL

Attorney urges paternal custody

HACKENSACK, N.J. - The court-appointed attorney for "Baby M" urged a judge Monday to grant custody of the infant girl to her biological father and deny visitation rights to the surrogate mother who gave birth to her.

The surprise recommendation came during the emotion-packed opening of the second phase of the trial that will test for the first time the legality of surrogate parenting.

The custody phase of the trial began with William Stern testifying that the baby he fathered is "the most important person in my life" and the lawyer for the surrogate mother contending that she can provide the most loving home.

Attorney Lorraine Abraham, appointed by the court to represent the infant's interests, said she recommended against visitation rights for the surrogate mother "at this time." However, she did not say the surrogate mother should be denied all parental rights.

Abraham told the judge her decision was based on findings by a psychiatrist, social worker and psychologist who interviewed the surrogate mother, Mary Beth Whitehead, her husband, Richard, and Stern and his wife, Elizabeth.

Locals, tribe try conciliatory effort

FORT DUCHESNE, Utah - A Supreme Court decision that quadrupled the size of the Ute Indian reservation is forcing the tribe and local governments into a rare and wary stab at conciliation.

Both sides, drained by expensive and time-consuming litigation, hope their first meetings in years will resolve jurisdictional questions raised by the court-restored boundaries of the Uintah and Ouray Reservation, now the second-largest in the country.

"I think we've got to work with them and not fight them. We fought for a number of years and it didn't work," said Duchesne County Commissioner Lee Nelson.

Overcoming decades of suspicion and animosity won't be easy in eastern Utah's oil-rich Uintah Basin, where 18,000 non-Indians reside on 3 million acres restored to the reservation Dec. 1 when the Supreme Court left intact a 1985 decision by the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

In a related issue not decided by the Supreme Court, the tribe plans to go to court this spring, seeking exemptions from millions of dollars the state collects in severance taxes on oil and gas produced on the reservation.

In fiscal 1985-86, Utah collected $46.4 million from the severance tax, with about 22 percent of that coming from reservation land, then only 1 million acres.

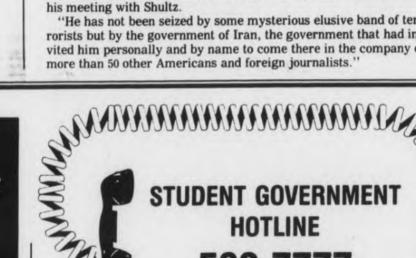

Journal calls for reporter's release

WASHINGTON - Wall Street Journal Chairman Warren H. Phillips said Monday the detention by Iranian authorities of Journal reporter Gerald F. Seib was a "dreadful mistake," and he called for the correspondent's immediate release.

Phillips spoke to reporters after conferring with Secretary of State George P. Shultz on the efforts that the Journal and the State Department are making to obtain Seib's freedom.

"We believe that a dreadful mistake has been made in the detention and we fervently hope that the government of Iran realizes it has made a mistake and will set him free," Phillips told reporters after his meeting with Shultz.

"He has not been seized by some mysterious elusive band of terrorists but by the government of Iran, the government that had invited him personally and by name to come there in the company of

QUESTIONS? PROBLEMS? CONCERNS? OPINIONS?

532-7777

A DIRECT LINE TO YOUR STUDENT SENATOR Mon.-Fri. 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Mae's Parlor

TONITE $2 Pitchers 'Quote Night''

Best quote of the night receives a free keg courtesy of Southern Sun! Last week's winner: "When the load gets tough, the tough get loaded."

-ANDY-The Clique Thurs. & Fri.

AGGIEVILLE Tuesday

AUntie

Import Beer Night Featuring bottles of Mae's favorite beers from across the seas. Only

$1.25

616 N. 12th 539-9967

MANAGEMENT DEVELOPMENT ANALYSTS AND INTERNS

The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City is seeking qualified candidates with businessrelated majors for positions as full time management development analysts and summer interns.

Qualified candidates should enjoy working in a project-oriented environment and demonstrate good oral and written communications skills, strong analytical and leadership ability, creativity and initiative.

We will be available for campus interviews:

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 24

For more information, please contact your placement office or:

Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City Attention: Personnel 925 Grand Avenue Kansas City, Missouri 64198

(816) 881-2463

N.26 - FEB.7 k-state union

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

U-LEARN is looking for a few good volunteers for this spring. Don't waste away the spring hours be a U-LearN volunteer. Call 532-6442 or stop

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is now posting sign-up schedules for on-campus employment interviews by Kansas, regional and national employers. All eligible candidates are urged to register and apply.

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in Union Activities Center and are due at 5 p.m. Fri-

CONGRESSIONAL TEACHER SCHOLAR-SHIP PROGRAM information and applications in Bluemont 017.

SGA ELECTIONS: Pollworkers are needed for elections on Feb. 10-11. If interested sign up in the SGS office in the Un

TODAY

FACULTY AND STAFF MEMBERS are invited to attend a reception honoring Darwin D. Liverance for his leadership of Personnel Services at the University from 2 to 4 p.m. in the

ECONOMICS CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Waters

CHRISTIAN EDUCATORS BIBLE STUDY

STUDENT ELECTIONS COMMITTEE meets

BLOCK AND BRIDLE officers meet at 7 p.m. in Umberger Williams Auditorium. There will be a general meeting at 7:30 p.m.

AMATEUR RADIO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

LESBIAN SUPPORT GROUP meets at 7 p.m. For information call 532-6444 or 532-6442.

GERMAN CLUB meets at 4 p.m. in Union 209.

COLLEGE OF HUMAN ECOLOGY OPEN HOUSE COMMITTEE meets at 7 p.m. in CHE dean's office conference room in Justin.

ENGINEERING AMBASSADOR EX-ECUTIVES meet at 6:15 p.m. in Durland 152.

ALPHA CHI SIGMA meets at 7 p.m. in Willard

GERMAN TABLE meets at 11:30 a.m. in Union

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

You Can't Pay More than $44.95!

Complete Eyeglasses

BIFOCALS

Our only Extras: Cox Coating (scratch guard)-$10 and Photo Grey Extra (lenses that darken)-$10.

Payless Optical Outlet

M-F 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. Sat. 10 a.m. - 2 p.m.

ONLY 60 SEMESTER CREDIT HOURS

If you have 60 accredited semester hours, and can achieve a high score in a special aptitude test, you could be just 22 weeks from earning the gold bars of a second lieutenant in the Army Reserve. And ready to take on your first Reserve leadership assign-

Qualify, and you'll attend an 8-week Basic Training Course, then go on to a 14-week Officer Candidate School (OCS) which will challenge you both mentally and physically. When you graduate, you'll receive your commission as an officer in the Army Reserve, and continue training in a branch Officer Basic Course. Then you'll return home to serve in a nearby Reserve unit-usually one weekend a month and two weeks annual training.

It's a great opportunity to gain the skills and begin the practice of the kind of leadership and management prized so highly by civil-

You need not have completed your degree, just have 60 semester hours and a lot of ability and confidence, to qualify. If you're interested in OCS,

CALL: 776-8551

ARMY RESERVE. BE ALLYOU CAN BE.

THREE SIZES OF SAVINGS

FREE DELIVERY NOW FEATURING NOON DELIVERY

539-4888 707 N. 12th AGGIEVILLE, USA

Speedy FREE Delivery TOPPING PIZZ Mark Lauri moter PYRAMID

PLUS 2 FREE COKES ONLY $6.50 "We Pile It On!" SAVE

Speedy FREE Delivery PLUS 3 FREE COKES ONLY MED. TWO-TOPPING PIZZA Mark Faul moter

PLUS 4 FREE COKES ONLY $9.95 "We Pile It On! SAVE

LUNCH TIME SPECIALS

- One mouthwatering slice plus one medium soft drink for only $1.25. Two enticing slices plus one medium soft drink for only $1.99.
- Three taste tempting slices, two medium or one large soft drink for
- only $2.99.

Stressful job enjoyable, Knopp says

Rep. Joe Knopp, R-Manhattan, newly elected majority leader of the Kansas House of Representatives, tries to provide guidance on issues such as budgets and taxes while playing a key role in formulating party policy.

dlabal feltner

general dentistry

J. DENNIS DLABAL, D.D.S.

BRITT C. FELTNER, D.D.S.

· Evening and Saturday appointments available

We see emergencies

(and other people, too)

NIGHT ALL

YOU CAN EAT just $3.95

BBQ BEEF RIBS & FRIES

BAKED BEANS

 Next to campus 'We cater to cowards' By CHAD L. SANBORN Staff Writer

Rep. Joe Knopp, R-Manhattan, was not surprised when he was elected majority leader in the Kansas House of Representatives in November by his fellow Republicans. But, he said, a lot of people watching the election were.

"Because Speaker of the House Jim Braden (R-Clay Center) is from Clay Center, some people thought there would be a problem with geographic balance," Knopp said in an interview Thursday in Manhattan. "Luckily, I convinced them otherwise.'

After the last session of last year, Knopp decided to run for majority leader. He began talking with Republican members of the House, asking for their support.

Knopp said he expected seniority to play a bigger role in the majority leader election than it did.

"It (the election) is based more on competence and ability, rather than how long you've been here," he said. As majority leader, Knopp has various responsibilities.

He assists the speaker in all formal assignments, such as deciding when bills are brought before the House. He also serves on the Reapportionment Committee, which is in charge of realigning representative districts, he said.

Knopp's input is also a main factor in formulating party policy. He said he tries to provide guidance on such issues as budgets and taxes.

Although he and Gov. Mike Hayden agree philosophically on most things, they do have their dif-

"One of my jobs is to find compromises that are consistent with the Republican (party) position," he said. "However there are issues that aren't just a Republican/Democrat debate. For instance, the governor and I differ on the death penalty."

One area they don't disagree on so strongly is the recent state budget cuts, Knopp said.

"There are things I like about it, and there are things I don't like about it. From an objective standpoint, I think the cuts were made about as fairly as can be done," he

Besides dealing with the death penalty and budget cuts, Knopp said the Legislature has been "scurrying around" trying to get a lottery push-

"We are anxious to get the lottery through," he said. "The people have spoken, and we want to get it in place. The longer it takes us to get it in place, the longer it will take to start bringing in revenue."

Knopp said he enjoys his job. Even though it is stressful, it gives him a chance to put his political talents to work. However, he said he sometimes gets too wrapped up in

"I get really intense on some of these issues. When I get back to Manhattan, it puts things back into perspective," he said. "Although the issues are important, a trip home helps me to see the big picture."

Despite his position, the former K-State student body president doesn't see himself as a career politi-

"I want to be known as a good lawyer. Public service is just an avocation, a sideline," he said.

But Knopp has not ruled out the possibility of political advancement. "I want to do well in my political service," Knopp said. "If I do well this year and next, and better political opportunities arise, I might take advantage of them. But there are a lot of variabilities.

Workers to repair canopy

By The Collegian Staff

Repairs are scheduled for the canopy above the east entrance to Ackert Hall to stop chunks of concrete from falling off the building's surface.

Although there has been a problem for some time, Fred Ferguson, director of physical facilities, said no one has been injured

Ferguson said the loose pieces are parts of the original surface that never anchored to the 17-year-old building. Although he was not sure how long there had been a problem with the surface, he said it has existed in his six years as director.

Jerry Weis, associate professor of biology, said repairs are scheduled for this fiscal year. The Division of Biology reported the problem to Physical Facilities for the past two years and received approval for repairs last spring.

Water collecting underneath the surface caused the stucco compound to fall, Weis said. When the problem started, Physical Facilities workers chipped away the big chunks and sealed the rest to prevent it from falling.

The main obstacle holding back repairs was not money but finding a solution agreeable to everyone, Ferguson said.

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

THE FONE'S CRISIS Open 7 days a week Free Delivery

The Fone Crisis Center is an agency dedicated to helping people through their tough times; sometimes, this means suicide intervention. To do this. we need volunteers.

> PLEASE HELP! Attend Volunteer training Sat., Feb. 7, 9 a.m. Union Stateroom #3 Call 532-6565 to register A Life May Depend On It!

Coach Kruger and the students of ICAT invite you to a pep rally and scouting report for the upcoming KU game.

Join us . . . Beat KU

Wednesday, Feb. 4 12:30 p.m. Union Courtyard

hair designs

We have a great offer for you! 50% off reg. salon price of Haircuts to introduce you to our new salon! Ask for Karen or Kellie to receive this offer. Reg. price men $14 ladies $16 (includes shampoo-cut-style) good through Feb.

537-9825 1140 Westloop Place

Westloop Shopping Center

CALVIN CLUB

Sweatshirts

on

SALE

Union Tuesday, Wednesday & Thursday

ONLY!

Falsetto's PIZZA

2 Large One-Topping Pizzas $14

2 Med. Two-Topping Pizzas $12.25 Plus a FREE Quart of Pepsi

Buy a 10" Supreme, Receive One FREE!

We Have Expanded to serve you quicker & better.

FREE DELIVERY 539-3830

1127 Moro-Aggieville

ANNOUNCING THE OPENING OF ERIKSON SPORTS MEDICINE CLINIC

WE PROVIDE:

HUNAM EXPRESS

THE ICE CREAM

SOCIAL

1439 Anderson

Student Services Center

Stop By And

See Our New Store!

537-7079

TONIGHT

All

Mixed Drinks

$1.50

Any name

Any brand

539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

WE'VE

MOVED

1116 Moro 537-0886

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8868 or 537-0886

Collegian Classifieds

Where K-State Shops

- ★Evaluation, Diagnosis, Treatment, Rehabilitation of sports-related injuries and problems
- ★ Determine Body Fat Percentages ★Heat Stress Information
- *Information and advice on Fitness, Injury Prevention, Health Effects of Exercise
- ★ Much, Much More

CLINIC OPEN TO EVERYONE WALK-IN CLINIC-8-9:30 a.m. Monday-Friday 1-2:30 p.m. Monday only 1-2 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday, Friday APPOINTMENTS AVAILABLE TO SHORTEN WAIT—CALL 532-7880 COME SEE WHAT WE ARE ALL ABOUT

DON'T FORGET TONIGHT Daytona Beach Bash 7 p.m. at Brother's

*FREE Bud Light visors

*FREE pizza from Falsetto's

If you are unable to attend or would like more information call Lynn or Brenda at 776-5957.

Reagan's stance weak on elderly health plan

Before President Ronald Reagan's State of the Union address on Tuesday, it was unclear what approach Reagan would take on catastrophic health insurance. Now, many wish it was still a mystery.

Reagan made a brief comment on the topic in his speech, stating that he would soon submit legislation to help the elderly pay expenses medical catastrophic illness.

Documents issued by the White House indicate Reagan's proposals would deal mainly with the cost of long hospital stays, rather than nursing home care.

However, at hearings conducted last Wednesday, lawmakers from both parties charged that Reagan's proposals fell far short of what was needed.

Instead, they showed support for Health and Human Services Secretary Otis Bowen, whose proposal to expand Medicare would cover virtually all medical costs past the first $2,000 in any given year. Bowen's plan has been denounced by conservatives both ministration.

The administration denounced the plan on the belief that "it would replace a competitive don't get solved by nonprivate market with a government monopoly" on certain types of health insurance.

Bowen rejects this argument on the basis that under his proposal, insurance companies could still offer coverage for goods and services not generally covered by Medicare, such as prescription drugs, eye examinations, dental care and nursing home care.

Of the 28 million people 65 and over covered by Medicare, 1.4 million will incur personal costs for acute care of $2,000 or more in

The amount of support in Congress suggests that a program at least patterned on the Bowen plan is likely to pass with or without White House support. However, it would be nice if Reagan would actually follow through with his promise to do something about health insurance for the elderly. Reagan's plan, which relies on private insurance, offers little relief to the elderly for catastrophic medical

If Reagan is truly sincere about inside and outside the Reagan ad- solving problems, he should not get hung up on his administration's policy of non-interference with the private sector. Problems interference.

Another regents board portends only red tape

troduced in the Kansas House would allow for yet more bureaucrats to be added to the state payroll.

The bill would create two seven-member boards of higher education under the control of the Board of Regents. One board would govern the state university system and the other would oversee community colleges and vo-tech schools.

Both boards would then report to the Regents, who would have the final say.

Several problems with this type of system can be easily foreseen. Although regulation of community colleges could improve their quality and increase the chances for two-year students to further their education at a four-year institution, taking away local control of community colleges goes against the grain of the Kansas spirit.

Often, state officials become so

An education bill recently in- removed from the reality of what works and what doesn't they couldn't possibly make an informed evaluation.

Removing local control and therefore ending the community colleges' capability to respond to local needs could be disastrous for the institutions. The purpose of a community college is as its name implies - it serves that community in which it is located with the education the community needs to improve itself.

If Gov. Mike Hayden is determined to do something about regulating community colleges and vo-tech schools, the residents of Kansas would be better served by a board whose responsibility it is to evaluate program quality in all Kansas institutions of higher education and improve on those programs.

There is no need, however, for two seven-member boards to be added to the Regents system of government.

Athletic fee lacks justification

After nearly two years of floating around this University, the issue of an athletic fee is finally going to be decided by a vote of the student body.

Being involved in this issue as a member of the Athletic Fee Task Force, I have had to remain somewhat silent on this subject. But now that the task force has finished its job, I can speak freely about this controversial

There are actually two issues dealing with the athletic fee, which is now officially called the Non-Revenue Sports Scholarship Fee. There are the issues of the fee itself and the way in which this issue came to be. There were several flaws in both areas.

First, there is the fee itself. This can be approached both from the side of those who want to improve K-State athletics and from the side of those who believe there are more important projects to consider, such as academics. I feel this fee is a highly questionable undertaking for people of either group. It just doesn't make sense.

Most of the sports fans on campus are probably cheering this fee on. But they should hold off on celebrating until they find out who this fee is going to help and how much it is going to cost.

This fee is going to go strictly to nonrevenue sports, such as golf, tennis and track. Some people have questioned why we are not spending the money to help the revenue sports of football and men's basketball. The answer to this is simple. This is what the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics asked for. It believes a winning (or at least a well-funded) non-revenue sports program will help K-State's image. However, I believe people will have to weigh whatever benefits (if any) we will receive from non-revenue sports against the cost of the program and determine if there are better places to put our money.

We must also consider the cost of this fee from the sports junkie's point of view. Now, there are two ways the athletic department can raise money. It can increase ticket prices or obtain a student fee. The last thing a sports junkie wants to see is ticket prices go up, but we should look at some figures

Using last year's attendance records for football and men's basketball (one of the more dismal years for attendance in K-State athletic's recent history), an average increase of 83 cents a ticket would raise the same amount of money as the proposed athletic fee. If the athletic department was to raise season ticket prices about 50 cents a game and general admission tickets $1, the increase would be around the 83 cent figure cited above

KIRK CARAWAY Collegian Columnist

If season ticket prices were to increase this much, the total increase for a person who purchased both football and basketball season tickets (the sports junkie) would be $10.50. This is below the $13 they will be paying if the athletic fee is instituted.

A ticket price increase of this kind was never discussed by the Athletic Fee Task Force because at the time ticket prices were discussed, the amount of the proposed fee ranged between $30 to $60 dollars a year instead of the current $13 proposal. Considering also that K-State has the lowest ticket prices in the Big Eight, the prospect of raising money by increasing ticket prices sounds like the best deal for everyone.

We can also look at the athletic fee issue from the perspective of the people who have little use for athletics. Many people at this University see education as their first priority, not K-State sports. It is not that these people want to see our athletic program eliminated, it's just that there are more important things that could be done with student money. K-State's athletic department may have the smallest budget in the Big Eight, but we also have the smallest library. The question is, which is more important to a university?

There is also a question of students being able to afford this fee. K-State students are already facing a tuition increase, a possible increase in the student activity fee, higher student loan interest rates and fewer grants. There is also a tightening up of the eligibility requirements, which means fewer people will be able to get financial aid. And if President Ronald Reagan gets his way, federal student aid could become nearly non-

But you say $13 a year isn't that much, right? Well, it really isn't in itself. But with that kind of thinking, another $13 wouldn't be that much, and another and another. You just can't apply this type of thinking to a situation such as this or you might price a college education right out of reach of everyone.

There were also several flaws in the process by which this fee proposal came about. First, there was the Athletic Fee Task Force. This was a case of good intentions being swept away by bad policy. The mission of the task force was never very well defined, which led to much confusion. It was a group of nine people with no clear mission and no direction. It was a wonder we got as much done as we did.

When the athletic fee finally made it to Student Senate, another critical error was made. Instead of going through the normal procedure of first readings, with debate and voting to occur the following week, the bill was moved special orders and voted on the same night it was introduced.

This week of time between first readings and the vote is normally provided so senators can do some research and consult their constituents on the issue. But on this bill — the most important piece of legislation for Student Senate to deal with this year - it was decided to leave caution to the winds and rush it through in one night

Michelle Benoit, who made the motion to move the bill special orders, said everyone on Student Senate already knew enough about the athletic fee to vote on it that night. But did it really know? Student Senate voted on this issue before the Athletic Fee Task Force had even compiled its final report and fact sheet on the subject.

Task Force Chairman Doug Folk did give a three-minute oral summary on the five months of investigations by the task force. The fact sheet, which will soon be made available to the students, could have said a lot of things Student Senate didn't know about.

The report could have said an athletic fee wasn't needed and Student Senate wouldn't have known until it was too late. The Athletic Fee Task Force was created by Student Senate to gather information and present it to Student Senate so it could make a decision about the athletic fee. Yet Student Senate made its decision without the information.

But even after all this, there is still room for hope. The final decision is up to you, the voters. So take your time and find out the facts. And most important is to vote. It is your money and you have the power to do with it what you please. Don't let someone else make that decision for you.

Israeli lobby's tactics forceful

Once in a while, I come across a book, movie, painting or the like which moves me so deeply that images and thoughts of the particular work are imprinted in my mind forever. A work of art or literature might stir my emotions because it has touched a feeling inside of me either long forgotten or very sensitive. Often, I am moved by the beauty of the interplay of words or images in a particular piece. But once in a while - and it's a rare moment indeed - I am really taken aback by a piece that I have read or seen. In the past year, I have found an eye-opener such as this in a book called "They Dare to Speak Out.'

Written by former congressman Paul Findley, R-Ill., the book is full of welldocumented information the average American would be very shocked, if not angry, to discover. Findley served as a congressman for 22 years until 1982. It was during his last decade as a legislator that he slowly began to see the unleashing of what he calls "the pre-eminent power in Washington lobbying" - the American Israel Public Affairs Committee. This is the topic of Findley's shockingly informative book.

Findley has witnessed many Americans or American institutions challenge AIPAC and subsequently he has seen them lose time and time again. Writing of such experiences in his book, Findley is one of the few people who has successfully been able to expose the truth about AIPAC and its ruthless tactics.

AIPAC is a lobby group that is relatively small in numbers, but it is very powerful, well-organized and well-financed. AIPAC is comprised primarily of American Jews, but many of its active members are Americans who are not Jewish, but simply are committed morally to the survival of Israel. Not only is AIPAC dedicated to the preservation of Israel, but it also does not tolerate any criticism of Israel. Additionally, it does not tolerate the passage of any referenda in Congress that will not give Israel free reign with American-Israeli interests.

As Findley points out in his book, AIPAC is openly supported by Israel via the Israeli embassy in Washington as well as through

PATTI PAXSON Collegian Columnist

Israeli consulates in America's larger cities. Additionally, Israel's foreign intelligence service, Mossad, operates in clandestinely throughout the United States in support of AIPAC's activities.

The New York Times has called AIPAC "the most powerful, best-run and effective foreign policy interest group in Washington," and indeed it is. The pressure AIPAC puts on America's policy-makers keeps the direction of foreign policy especially when it concerns the Middle East - under the guidance of AIPAC. If a congressman dares to vote against any kind of aid or support of Israel - even if it is in America's best interest - that congressman will find his or her career in jeopardy. Former Speaker of the House "Tip" O'Neill expressed concern when the House leadership opposed the wishes of AIPAC: "Nobody in the leadership will say no to the Israeli lobby. Nobody." One of AIPAC's most intimidating tools to keep Americans from speaking out against support of Israel is its publication of its "enemies list." This 154-page paperback is titled "The Campaign to Discredit Israel" and was first published in 1983. The book is a directory of about 39 individuals and 21 organizations that have, for one reason or another, not been supportive of Israeli interests. Important American leaders such as former Undersecretary of State George Ball, former Sen. James Abourezk and retired ambassadors Talcott Selye, Andrew Killgore, John C. West and James Akins have all graced the pages of this McCarthyism-type publication.

Findley points out that most congressmen resent the pressure put on them by the Israeli lobby because, more often than not, Israel's interests win out over America's interest when it comes to any legislation dealing with Israel. An Ohio congressman described the situation on Capitol Hill to Findley: "What distresses me is the inability of American policy-makers, because of the influence of AIPAC, to distinguish between our national interest and Israel's national interest. When these converge - wonderful! But they don't always converge.

Besides putting restraints on America's policy-makers, AIPAC's activities also inhibit academic freedom and free speech on America's college campuses. "The AIPAC College Guide" is another blacklist the Israeli lobby publishes. The guide profiles 100 campuses that tend to have a substantial amount of what is described as "anti-Israel" activities, students and instructors.

Letters to the editor of college newspapers critical of Israel's policies are kept track of by branches of AIPAC. Courses that tend to be pro-Arab or pro-Islam and professors known for criticizing Israeli policy or American policy toward Israel are all kept track of by AIPAC. Students who are activists in various student organizations which tend to be critical of Israel or American policy toward Israel are also blacklisted by the Israeli lobby.

Findley's book is a real shocking piece of documentation. He has filled up 332 pages with evidence that the interests of Americans are not being heard. Not only is the Israeli lobby the dominant force behind foreign policy-making, but it has incredible influence on American economics, trade, labor and academia. A forum of free debate does not exist in this country if it is unsupportive of Israel's interests. The nation's policymakers, scholars and business people must fear for their livelihoods if "they dare to speak out.'

Those of us who love the United States and want what's best for its people cannot be politically active if that action is constantly stifled by a lobbying group whose heavyhanded tactics direct the course of constitutional freedoms in this country.

Kansas

EDITOR Jonie Trued MANAGING EDITOR Sue Dawson NEWS EDITOR

Erin Eicher

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Deron Johnson PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER

Sheila Hutinett

EDITORIAL BOARD: Susan Baird, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Judy Goldberg, Ron Honig, Pat Hund, Deron Johnson, Sarah Kessinger, Judy Lundstrom, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Andy Nelson, Patti Paxson, Julie Reynolds, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued. Unsigned editorials represent the majori-

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Illegal parking

I was in the Union about 2 p.m. recently and proceeded to come out of the east door only to find, to my chagrin, a car parked in front of the ramp. Initially, I was very upset but was then infuriated to discover that the car had a "service vehicle" placard sitting on the dashboard. I have never seen such a flagrant misuse of privileges as parking in front of a curb cut just because you were running an errand for some University office and assumed you would not get a ticket. I don't know who this person was, but they should have gotten ticketed at the very least. I have no idea how long the car had been parked there or the number of people this person had inconve-

Unfortunately, this is a growing problem on this campus. I have not just had this problem at the Union, but also in the Farrell Library parking lot as well as at other places. I don't know where certain individuals get the idea that when they see a curb cut it's OK to park there because it will make it easier for them. I've heard "But, I'll only be a minute.

Unfortunately, this excuse doesn't hold water with me. The idea behind the curb cut is to give mobility-impaired individuals accessibility to a certain structure (not implying of course that the curb cut makes the buildings accessible) OR its purpose is to make carrying heavy equipment easier. Of course, even if a person is using the ramp or curb cut it doesn't give them the right to block its use for others, i.e., ME.

Yes, the mobility-impaired do use the curb cuts and ramps here, even though a good number more are needed. The curb cut or ramp should signal to an able-bodied person that a mobility-impaired individual has used it or will use it at some point.

In closing, I would just like to say to the person who inconvenienced me on Jan. 23: I realize that the parking on this campus leaves a great deal to be desired, but surely you could have found a better place to park than in front of the curb cut! Michael E. Nolting president, Students for Handicapped

University library feels effects of cuts

By STACEY CAMPBELL Collegian Reporter

Mandated budget cuts in state funding "may be devastating to the library and students," said Brice Hobrock, dean of University libraries.

Due to Gov. Mike Hayden's 3.8 percent budget reductions, the library lost $99,890, which was allocated for the book budget and equipment and supplies, he said.

In addition, students employed at the library but not on work-study have been limited to a maximum of 10 hours per week since the first of December.

With the work-study program, the state pays 20 percent of the wages while the federal government pays 80 percent. For students not on work-study, the library uses state monies to pay their total

Because of budget reductions, the library would have to supplement the wages of the non-work-study Hobrock said. "Our policy was not students from its operating account. Maintaining the same number of non-work-study employees and the amount of hours they worked would have left a $40,000 deficit in student salaries,

The best solution was to employ the same number of students but reduce their hours, he said.

Hobrock said.

Patricia Anderson, senior in speech pathology and audiology, has worked four years in Farrell Library, but her hours will be reduced to an average of five hours each week.

"I worked every summer and over breaks," Anderson said. "Last semester, I worked 20 hours.'

"I had been told that my hours would be cut before," Anderson said. "But I had worked there so long that (library administrators) would make an exception — it was discouraging when it happened."

"We wanted to protect all jobs," to lay off any employees - this included students.

But the proposed cuts in workstudy funding in President Ronald Reagan's budget pose another threat to student employment.

"Next year, it will be devastating if work-study is cut," Hobrock said. "I worked more than 10 hours

last semester." said Tresa Garber, sophomore in elementary education. "I plan my budget for the year and then it got cut in the middle of the year, and I'm still stuck with the same bills - and not enough

The library employs 280 students, three-fourths of whom are on workstudy, Hobrock said. Last year, Farrell Library spent $365,000 on student employment, $205,000 of which was provided by work-study,

In addition, Hayden's budget cuts that took place two weeks ago have affected funding for supplies and

We had hoped to protect the book budget, but when added up it couldn't be done." Hobrock said. "We were forced to take $24,890 out of the book budget and $75,000 from supplies and equipment. Due to the book-budget reduction, Hobrock said the library will not be able to honor the 200 requests for new periodicals used primarily for faculty research.

The budget cuts will prevent the library from purchasing three replacement photocopiers. In addition, it will eliminate the retrospective conversion operation, which converts library catalogs to computer format, and reduce reimbursement for staff travel, Hobrock

"Some of the poorest paid faculty in our University will have to pay 100 percent of their travel expense out of their pockets." Hobrock said.

'The library will not be able to make progress," Hobrock said.

Wool judgers' ranking creates 'shear' delight

By STACEY CAMPBELL Collegian Reporter

Wool judging team members are not concerned with corrals, live animals and messy boots as other K-State animal sciences and industry judging teams are.

The team members never see live sheep - they just judge wool, said Clifford Spaeth, associate professor of animal sciences and industry and wool judging team coach.

In fact, at the National Western Intercollegiate Judging Contest in January in Denver, the wool team's judging contest took place inside a hotel room.

The wool judging team placed third out of 11 teams at the contest.

'We were the most consistent team as far as scoring goes," Spaeth said. "We missed first place by only eight points.'

The wool team members graded 15 fleeces, evaluating each fleece on six components which reflect the commercial value of the wool.

The team also judged two breed classes, ranking each fleece on its characteristics of that breed, and gave two sets of oral reasons, Spaeth

"The contest went well as far as our team placing," said Brad Gillmore, senior in animal sciences and industry. "We usually don't have the opportunity to look at fleeces like we judged there. Team members who participated in the Denver contest were Gillmore; Bryan Rein, senior in pre-veterinary medicine; Gerald Woodard, junior in animal sciences and industry; and Donice Kahrs, junior in animal sciences and industry. Stan Bartley, senior in animal sciences and industry and Jeff Ruckert, junior in animal sciences and industry were team alternates.

Gillmore was seventh high individual overall, ninth in placing and oral reasons and eighth in grading the 15 fleeces. Rein was ninth high individual overall and third in grading the 15 fleeces.

"The purpose of wool judging is very similiar to livestock or meat judging," Spaeth said. "The students identify outstanding wool-producing sheep evaluated on what their fleece looks like.

Team members are required to take a class offered in the fall, Spaeth said. The students workout during the fall semester and over winter break

"We are fortunate to have a commercial wool warehouse in Hutchinson," Spaeth said. "I get 25 fleeces that have variety, and I bring them back here for the students to grade and place. Later in the semester, we go to Hutchinson and workout in the plant.

On their trip to Denver, the team visited the University of Wyoming. Laramie, and Colorado State University, Fort Collins, to judge wool produced in those areas, Spaeth said.

"The type of wool we see at Hutchinson is Midwest wool," Spaeth said. "Out West, we are exposed to a higher quality wool. It's cleaner and higher yielding.

Spaeth said the majority of the wool for the Denver contest comes from the Western states

"I was pleased with the team's placing," said Don Good, head of the Department of Animal Sciences and Industry. "It is a wonderful experience to attend the National Western Livestock show.

The contest assists team members in leadership skills, oral and written communication, and confidence,

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

Israelis to conduct arms sales hearings delivery of 500 U.S.-made anti-tank

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM - A parliamentary committee announced Monday it will conduct hearings on whether Israel promoted American arms sales to Iran and had a role in diverting profits to rebels in Nicaragua.

Testimony in a 64-page U.S. Senate report indicated Israel initiated the U.S. arms sales to Iran and played a role in funneling profits to the Contras fighting the Nicaraguan government.

The Israeli government on Sunday denied such findings

Abba Eban, chairman of the Knesset's Defense and Foreign Affairs Committee, said he wrote a letter to Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir asking that the government provide a written explanation of its role in the arms scandal.

"Israel's official statements have only been reactions and do not give a positive, contiguous account of Israel's actions and the principles that guided it," Eban said in a statement distributed to reporters.

Eban said he asked for a "detailed document that will explain the government's actions and rationale on the subject of (selling) weapons to Iran."

Committee member Simcha Dinitz told The Associated Press that a sixmember subcommitte on intelligence services would begin closed-door sessions Tuesday by questioning two Israeli officials named in the Senate report.

He identified them as Amiram Nir, the prime minister's adviser on antiterrorism, and David Kimche, former director-general of the Foreign Ministry. They acted as liaison to Washington in the arms deals. The Senate Intelligence Committee report published Friday listed Nir and Kimche as initiators of some of the sales. The report said Nir and Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin suggested diverting funds from the sales to the Nicaraguan rebels. Nir has made no public comment since the arms scandal broke in November. Kimche denied he proposed arms dealings with Iran, and Rabin rejected allegations that he had authorized shipments of arms to Contra rebels. "Not only did I not propose, neither I nor any authorized Israeli, proposed that Israel help the Contras directly in any way," Rabin said on Israel Army Radio on Sunday.

"On the contrary, I rejected a request by an American member of the National Security Council who proposed this to Israel. Dinitz said the Senate allegations required further response. He said the committee wanted to give Israeli officials "an opportunity to respond to our satisfaction to these allegations. The legislative committee began hearings in November when the weapons deals became known. The Senate report has triggered new concern that the scandal could harm Israel's ties with the U.S. Congress. Israel counts on Congress for essential foreign aid, which totalled $3 billion last year.

The hearings will be secret and closed to the press, Dinitz said.

Senior Israeli officials have said Israel also has agreed to provide the Senate panel headed by Daniel K. Inouye with written testimony from Nir, Kimche and two Israeli arms dealers involved in the weapons

Dinitz said Inouye, D-Hawaii, asked Israel for the information last week and the 25-member Israeli Cabinet has agreed.

Shamir summoned one of the arms dealers, Yaacov Nimrodi, for questioning on Sunday, an Israeli source said. Nimrodi, 60, a wealthy businessman and former Israeli intelligence chief in Iran, arranged the 1985 shipments of U.S. weapons to Nimrodi served for 14 years as head of the Israeli Mossad intelligence in Iran.

Nimrodi, now a wealthy businessman and arms trader, secured the financing for the STUDENT BODY ELECTION

POLLWORKERS!

1981, some of them directly and others through third countries and international weapons dealers. Former Defense Minister Ariel Sharon confirmed news reports in

TOW missiles in August and September 1985, as well as for the supply of 80 Hawk ground-to-air missiles, some of which were returned by angry Iranian officials who

Israel has been supplying arms and spare parts to Iran since late said they did not work.

1982 that Israel had sold Iran arms but said Israel stopped doing so at the request of the United States. However, persistent news reports said shipment of spare parts and light weapons shipments were resumed soon after.

Tuesday BURGER Every Tuesday 4-7 p.m.

H.P. Burgers All You Can Eat

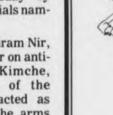

75¢ Draws CILUIB

way a good haircut does-they show you care about yourself!

Call the professional nail technician at Pazazz

1140 Westloop Place Westloop Shopping Center

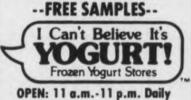

Quit smoking.

American Heart Association

WERE FIGHTING FOR

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat!

Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

Introducing

Sign up in the SGS office and attend one of the following meetings:

★Sunday, Feb. 8th, 4 p.m. Union Big 8 Room

★Monday, Feb. 9th, 6:30 p.m.

Union 206

New rigid gas permeable contact

lenses that offer sharp vision, long-term comfort and the convenience of daily or extended wear-to anyone who can wear contact lenses, even those with astigmatism. They are firm and easier to handle than soft lenses and will last longer and save you time and money.

Drs. Price, Young, Odle, and Horsch, P.A. 1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan, KS 66502 (913) 537-1118

537-1118

BARRETTES AND BOWS - lots of them available in red nav We carry the largest selection of hair skin and nail supplies with licensed hair stylists to explain how to use them. style shop beauty supply 718 % H. MANHATTAN AVE.

ROCK-CHALK-CHICKEN-HAWK-AEAT-K.U.

Stampede Yourself In And Try the Chicken-Hawk Special At the Great Western Smokehouse Let's Smoke Those Turkeys!

1/2 Chicken (Hawk) (Smoked, BBQ, Rotisserie) with Baked Beans & Potato Salad only $2.50 The Great Western Smokehouse

901 Seth Child Rd. Village Plaza Shopping Center 776-0300

Road wins are difficult in Big Eight

By JENNY CHAULK Sports Writer

"On the road again. Just can't wait to get on the road again."

Though it is debatable, the fact that road games are tougher than home games perpetuates in college basketball.

The completion of Wednesday night's Big Eight Conference games marks the end of the first half of the conference season. To date, Big Eight teams have a combined 7-17 record when playing against each other on the road.

"It's tough (playing on the road)," said first-year University of Nebraska coach Danny Nee. "It's unrealistic to think you can win all your games on the road."

Nee said the Cornhuskers are struggling right now. They are 2-4 in conference play, and have yet to chalk up a road victory, losing to K-State, Iowa State and Kansas. The 'Huskers are not alone in this

Colorado is winless in four road outings, while Iowa State has been defeated in all three of its road contests. K-State and Oklahoma have fared better. Both squads have won two road games and lost one. Kansas and Missouri are 1-1 on the road, and Oklahoma State is 1-3.

"I've coached in the Pac-10 and the Atlantic Coast Conference," Kansas coach Larry Brown said, "and playing on the road in those conferences is no tougher than this conference. Big Eight crowds are great and real supportive of their teams. They're also pretty courteous."

Brown said the Jayhawks, who will travel to K-State Wednesday to resume their bitter rivalry with the Wildcats, don't do anything special to prepare for road games.

'We try to take the kids to tough places to play non-conference games," Brown said. "That way, when we do get to the conference schedule, we have experience. We try to do this so they aren't shocked when they go into Ahearn (Field House) or Gallagher Hall."

Oklahoma State coach Leonard Hamilton, another newcomer to the Big Eight, echoed Brown's sentiments

"We try to treat road games like we treat home games" Hamilton said. "It's important for players to develop the ability to tune out the crowd, the noise etc."

Crowds and noise are two of the most bothersome elements to a visiting team, especially in the Big Eight where almost every game has some history of a big rivalry behind

"We've played in Manhattan, Lawrence and Ames," Nee said. "Each one of these places has its own personality. There's great tradition in Manhattan, and possibly the best pep band in the Big Eight in Lawrence."

"Whenever you go on the road and the atmosphere is good, it helps the road team," K-State coach Lon Kruger said.

"I like all the places in the Big Eight; I really enjoy Ahearn,' Brown said. "We have a hard time on the road anywhere. But I don't think it's so much the fans or the atmosphere. What matters is if you have a good team."

Starting role suits Bleczinski

By CHASE CLARK Sports Writer

CHARLES NAMED A

Two weeks ago, K-State's Tracey Bleczinski didn't even know there was a Big Eight Player of the Week chosen for women's basketball.

But last week all that changed when she was notified that she had outstanding player for her performances against Colorado and Kan-

Bleczinski, a 5-foot-8 sophomore forward, was instrumental in the 71-65 win against Kansas Jan. 24 at Ahearn Field House. She sank two free throws in the final 19 seconds been named the conference's of the game to send it into overtime and scored five points in the extra stanza. She also netted a team-high 16 points and grabbed eight re-

> "It was great," Bleczinski said about the award. "I was glad to be (chosen)

"I've been doing well as far as the Big Eight, but I'm glad, because earlier in the season around Christmastime, I kind of got into a slump. But now I'm getting out of it," she said.

And come out of her slump she has. In K-State's last four games, she has averaged 15.5 points, 8.8 rebounds and shot 80 percent from the free throw line, helping the Lady Cats compile a 15-5 overall record.

Bleczinski is also heading for a possible mention in the Big Eight's postseason honors. After only averaging 1.7 points and 1.6 rebounds per game as a reserve last season, the Shawnee Mission product has responded to her starting role this season by averaging 10 points and 6.1 rebounds per outing.

Being a starter means Bleczinski realizes how tough conference play can be.

"The conference this year is so tough," Bleczinski said. "All the teams are good. Usually every year you expect KU, Oklahoma and Missouri to be the strong teams, but this year everybody is strong, so its tough to stay on top.

"It makes it exciting because every game counts, and you have to be ready for every game," she add-

PLAYER PROFILE TRACEY BLECZINSKI K-STATE

Although she is the only player on the Lady Cat squad to receive the Big Eight's weekly honor, she said she doesn't believe it makes her any better than the rest of the players.

When asked who she thinks is the best player on the Lady Cats, she responded in typical team-related fashion which characterizes many of K-State's athletic squads.

"I don't think there is one because some games one person will be high scorer, and next game it will be another person. Some games its not even one of the starters."

The K-State women, while playing only .500 on the road, have recorded a 13-game winning streak at home, dating back to the last two games of the 1985-86 season. Bleczinski said it is much easier to play in the "friendly confines" of Ahearn than anyplace else. "When you play at home you're not as tired and your sleeping in your own bed rather than in a hotel," Bleczinski said.

After the many problems of last season's Lady Cat team which included some of the players quitting the team, she said they have finally gotten everything together and she doesn't look for anything to upset the balance of the team.

How far does she think the Lady Cats can go?

"I think we can win the Big Eight and then I'd like for us to go there (the NCAA tournament) and see how far we can go," she said. "It will just depend. We'll have to see how we're playing and how the teams we're playing are playing."

Americans capture 3-0 lead in Cup

By The Associated Press

FREMANTLE, Australia - Stars & Stripes moved to within once race of bringing the America's Cup home, pulling away to a 3-0 lead over Kookaburra III Monday by beating the Australian boat easily in the moderate winds the Aussies had wanted.

The end of the best-of-seven series could come Wednesday. U.S. skipper Dennis Conner, expecting stronger winds than Tuesday, called a lay day, which also gave Aussie skipper Iain Murray a chance to fine-tune his golden-hulled boat and his crew's gray spirits.

It was a move that only seemed to delay the inevitable - a return of the silver trophy to its homeland of 132

Stars & Stripes' one-minute, 46-second victory was so easy that the American boat's crew members, acted as if they were on a pleasure cruise rather than on a chapter in yachting history. They joked and took snapshots of each other and at one point, Conner gave tactician Tom Whidden a chance to steer the

But nothing they did kept them from controlling the race for the third straight day. Not even moderate winds of 12 to 18 knots the speed Murray sought - stood in their way

"We do seem to be peaking now," Whidden said.

Few obstacles remained in Conner's path toward vindication for his 1983 loss to Australia II, the only time America didn't win the America's

On the last leg, the beaten Aussies got another jolt. A Kookaburra chase boat sped alongside the 12-meter yacht to tell the crew a bomb threat had been received by Sydney police.

Syndicate chief Kevin Parry said the crew was given the option of evacuating the boat, even though he was told the call almost certainly was a hoax. The members decided to continue and Murray kept his sense of humor.

He said he decided to continue the race, "since we were well behind and we didn't think if a bomb went up it was going to affect the result."

The boats hit the starting line at the same time Monday and, in a rare development, Kookaburra III went in front. It was ahead when they crossed four minutes into the race and when they crossed again 11 minutes later.

The next meeting was an unpleasant one for the seemingly defenseless defenders of the Cup.

It came about six minutes later as the boats sailed toward each other, Stars & Stripes coming from the right and Kookaburra III from the left. The Americans were in front by about two boat lengths and the Aussies tacked to the left rather than trying to pass under Stars & Stripes'

They had a good view of that stern the rest of the day as they never led

As it had in each of the first two races, Stars & Stripes led at every mark Monday. In the series, it has won 10 of the 12 upwind legs, four of the six downwind legs and four of the K-State forward Tracy Bleczinski has averaged 15.5 points and 8.8 rebounds in the Lady Cats' last four games and was named the Big Eight Player of the Week two weeks ago for her efforts against Kansas and Colorado.

Fans' support crucial to 'Cats

In the last two years since Larry Travis has taken over as athletic director, the University's athletic program has undergone a major

The coaching staffs of K-State's "major" sports - football, basketball, baseball and track - have all brought new faces, styles, strategies and techniques to their respective fields of competition.

In football, we saw the hiring of Stan Parrish who, in his first season, doubled the number of wins from last season from one to two. Not impressive by anyone's standards, but a start in the right direction. Parrish is boasting a strong recruiting class for next season, so I guess that will be the real tell-tale.

Baseball and track have undergone a new look as well and they are headed in a winning direction, too. And it doesn't take an expert to see this basketball season under the guidance of former Wildcat star Lon Kruger is shaping up to be one of the best K-State has seen in this decade.

A lot of this make-over, as I said before, is due to the outstanding work of Travis. He has devoted himself to making K-State athletic teams winners for the students, alumni and administration of this University.

Now I'll be the first to agree that organized their own activities to get

DAVE WAGNER Sports Writer

having a winning program is nice. It makes my job as a sports writer much more enjoyable and makes the fans of K-State athletics proud to say that they are just that.

Thus comes the difference in the new athletic program that I feel Travis has greatly encouraged - the fans, in particular the support and participation of the student body.

In the past two years, there has been a noticeable increase in athletic-team sponsored, student body oriented activities. For example, the kickoffs at the beginning of the last two school years were organized to promote both school spirit going into a brand new semester and competition for our sporting teams. This was a great idea that has been received well among the students. What I've noticed more of - and feel is most encouraging for K-State athletics - is the individual teams that have the students involved.

Coach Parrish was looking for ways to fill 10 positions on his kickoff team so he decided to give the student body a shot by initiating the "12th man" squad. This concept was similar to one employed by Coach Jackie Sherill at Texas A&M. All interested K-State students were invited to the tryout and the turnout overwhelmed Parrish. Approximately 170 prospects turned out for the initial tryout. "It exceeded my wildest expectations," Parrish said.

The baseball team created the "Diamond Girls" with the goal of fulfilling a commitment to make K-State baseball something everyone could be proud of. Although the concept drew some scrutiny, about 20 girls are now part of the baseball team through that program.

Finally, and most recently, there was the unveiling of Kruger's version of Wildcat basketball at "Midnight Madness." The early morning session came in the first minute the NCAA would allow it's member schools to conduct basketball prac-

Prior to the start of the scrimmage, each of the K-State players was introduced to the fans. The corwd noise generated impressed the new 'Cats and brought back some memories for Lon Kruger.

"We told these players when we recruited them that we had the best fans anywhere and they walked in and saw that. It makes them feel awfully good," said Kruger.

It is quite obvious that the effort being made by K-State athletic teams is to tap their most valuable supportive resource - the student body. They realize that a large part of a team's motivation to win (especially on the major college level) is brought on by their supporters. Ask any coach or athlete and I'd bet they would agree.

So I challenge each student to get involved in K-State athletics, be a part of the team, share in the victory and the defeat. Even if it's just wearing a purple and white jersey to a game you'll be displaying that purple pride that is so much a part of the K-State tradition.

And, if any inspiration to get involved has been aroused, here's the perfect chance. In preparation, and anticipation, for the matchup of K-State and intrastate rival Kansas Wednesday night in Ahearn Field House, there will be a pep rally sponsored by ICAT beginning at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Courtyard. Attending will be Coach Kruger and members of the Wildcat squad. All are welcome and encouraged to attend.

KC's pitcher Leonard announces retirement

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - Pitcher Dennis Leonard, who did what many thought was impossible when he played for the Kansas City Royals last season after a severe knee injury, retired from baseball Monday.

Leonard, 35, who ended nearly three years of rehabilitation by pitching a three-hit shutout in his first start last April, said his retirement was a mutual decision with Royals General Manager John Schuerholz.

"I felt I was an important part in their (the Royals) development," Leonard said at a news conference at Royals Stadium. "I think I've accomplished a lot in my career."

Leonard, a right-hander, said he had grown very close to his family - he has two sons - during his rehabilitation. He also said a bad second half last season and the fact that he might not be a starter next season entered into his decision to retire.

Leonard, who will be 36 on May 5, was one of the winningest pitchers in Royals history and won in 1977.

the most games of any American League pitcher from 1975-82. He won 20 or more games three times, the only Royals pitcher to do it more than once, compiled a 144-106 record in 12 seasons.

Leonard and the Royals had been unable to agree on a contract for the 1987 season after the club exercised an option by buying out his contract for $300,000. The two sides disagreed over whether the payment should be counted as part of his pay for 1987 or if it should count for 1986.

He suffered a crippling knee injury May 28, 1983 while pitching to Cal Ripken of the Baltimore Orioles when he stumbled off the mound and tore the tendon below his left knee in the fourth inning.

Four knee operations later, Leonard strode to the mound at Royals Stadium before a national television audience on April 16 last season to make his first start since the injury He threw a three-hitter at the Toronto Blue Jays in a 1-0 Kansas City victory.

Leonard holds Kansas City records with 21 complete games

Works show 'American' idea

By SANDRA M. SIEBERT Collegian Reporter

Many people may be impressed when they discover that K-State's permanent art collection contains works by Pablo Picasso, Salvador Dali and Henri Matisse.

But according to local art buffs, the works of these famous European artists are not the most significant nor the most valuable pieces in the art collection.

The focus of the K-State collection is on American regional art, said Charles Stroh, head of the Department of Art. The names of the major artists in this collection - Thomas Hart Benton, John Steuart Curry, Grant Wood - may not be on the tip of everyone's tongue, but they are familiar to those who know the history of American art.

Benton, Curry and Wood were a driving force behind the American regionalism movement that began in the early 1930s, Stroh said. The purpose of the movement was to give credit to the American artist tired of apologizing for being American. It celebrated American art and focused on the art of the Midwest, thought to be the epitome of what was uniquely American, he said.

The first pieces of art for the collection were purchased in 1929 through the efforts of John Helm, who was then a member of the Department of Architecture and Applied Art, Stroh said.

The pieces were two oil on canvas paintings done by American artist Birger Sandzen in 1926, said Jessica Reichman, curator of the K-State collection of artwork.

Throughout the years, Helm has been instrumental in obtaining a majority of the pieces in the collection. Stroh said. In 1934, Helm and Russell Thackrey, who was then a member of the Department of Journalism, established Friends of Art, an organization dedicated to raising funds for the purchase of art. Funds are raised through membership fees, Reichman said. Not only are many American artists represented in the collection, but many of them are represented by more than one piece.

The collection is valuable in dollars and uniqueness because of its focus on American regional art, Stroh said. The collection not only contains pieces in the different media the artists work with, but collections of major works by American regional artists as well.

"We could never own major pieces by Matisse, but we can own major pieces by Benton," said Stroh.

While it is the major focus, there are other facets to K-State's art collection besides American art. The collection contains pieces by Kaethe Kollwitz, Max Beckmann and Karl Hofer, important artists in the German expressionist movement of the first half of the 20th century.

A large number of prints by contemporary East Indian artists were obtained in 1985 when Stroh went to India on a grant to study Indian print making. This collection will eventually be assembled into a traveling exhibit.

Gordon Parks donated a collection of 125 of his photographs, titled "Moments Without Proper Names." Parks, a native Kansan, is a wellknown photographer, poet and Friends of Art recently purchased nine pieces of American art. To do this, a competition was organized in which artists from across the United States submitted slides of their work. The nine pieces were chosen from several hundred entries.

Scattered about the campus, displayed in open areas such as the K-State Union, hanging in private offices or stored in closets, the collection contains an estimated 1,000

If an art center is established at K-State, it would provide a permanent home for the works where they would be available for viewing by the public, said Ruth Ann Wefald, chairman of the K-State Art Museum Steering Committee.

Many letters in support of the art center have been sent to President Jon Wefald's office. Some letters indicated people are willing to donate art to the University but are reluctant to do so because there is no facility to house the pieces, Wefald

by Doug & Dick

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

arfield

By Jim Davis

eanuts

By Charles Schulz

DOWN

1 Docile

2 General

3 Spanish

4 Viper

Bradley

painter

16 Kimono

20 Weaken

21 Butt of sashes practical jokes

22 Sen.'s colleague

23 Aries

24 "- on a

Urn"

26 Doze off

27 Yale man

28 Network

in My

29 "I'll - You

Dreams"

31 Not many

34 Make lace

trunk

Grecian

Photo contest to offer cash prizes

By The Collegian Staff

Shutterbugs will gain a chance to display their skills Feb. 16-27 in the 12th annual K-State Union Program Council Photography Con-

Information for students, faculty and staff is now available at the Union Activities Center. Amateurs, as well as professionals, may enter in several divisions including professional black and white, amateur "buildings and structures," amateur "flowers and plants" and amateur "life at K-State," said UPC Arts Committee Chairwoman Laura Grether, senior in political science.

The winning photo of the "life at K-State" category will appear on the cover of the 1987-88 Programmer, a scheduling calendar sold by the Union.

Grether said the contest always has a good response

"We've always gotten a lot of interesting work, a lot in the landscape category and in the people category," Grether said. "Students and a lot of faculty have shown interest."

Awards for the contest will be for first, second and honorable mention in each division, as well as an award for "Best of Show." Firstplace winners will receive $15, second place $5 and "Best of Show"

Winning photos will be on display in the Union Art Gallery March 9 to April 3. Grether said.

For more information, contact the Union Activities Center 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

assified

01

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15. Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-

Deadline is noon the day before publication, noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-118)

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski desti-nations. South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauder dale, Mustang Island/Port Aransas, Galveston Is land and Fort Walton Beach, Call Sunchase Tours Gentral Spring Break Toll Free Hot Line today information and reservations-1-800-321-5911! (79.98)

HELP CHILDREN learn. The Friendship Tutoring Program needs more tutors! Please call 776-6566 if you are willing to volunteer to help a child on Thursday evenings. (86-90)

ATTENTION

CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry. Need 100 overweight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drugs, no exercise, 100% guaranteed. Call 776-5114 or 776-

HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT distributor. See us for products. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

Student Candidates: Come to Union 208 between 3 &5 p.m. TODAY to get your picture taken for the Collegian.

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS!! Overcoats, field jackets, camouflage clothing, wool gloves and socks, cold weather boots, Carhartt workwear, much more!! Just 28 miles east on highway 24. Open Monday Saturday, 9-5. St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437-

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and non correcting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

Buspelle

Correctable typewriters for rent on a daily, weekly or monthly basis.

See us for all your typing needs. 776-9469

511 Leavenworth, across from post office FOR RENT-APTS 04

FOR RENT, two-bedroom mobile home, $200 month plus deposit. 537-7622. (85-93)

TWO-BEDROOM apartments, furnished or unfur nished, (new furniture). Westloop area. Call 776-9124. (9011) ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month. Gas, heat, and water included. Lease and deposit required Call 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (89-98)

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword

38 Cary ACROSS 1 Forum garb 5 Male swan

8 Castle ditch 12 Minor prophet 13 Eskimo knife 14 Seaweed 15 They're decorated in spring

17 Bring up 18 Epoch 19 Lillie or Arthur 20 Disdain

21 River island 22 Stadium cheer

23 Frolics 26 Huey and Dewey, to Donald 30 Jewish month 31 Dandy 32 Away from the wind 33 Deserved

35 Persuade with money 36 Mandate 37 "Call no man -

Grant's hallmark 41 Trouble 42 Letter after sigma 45 Large

5 Base of sandwich a cut 46 Beetles diamond 48 Part of 6 Olive A.D. genus 49 - pro 7 Kramden's 25 Deface nobis vehicle

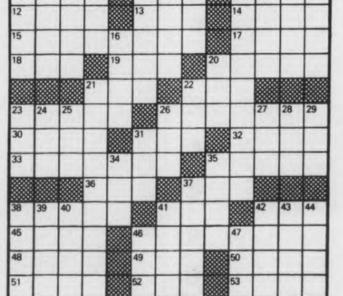

50 Wood 8 Wonderwind land 51 French creature Christ-9 Table mas spread 52 Ending

10 Culture medium 11 Mountain 35 Tree acquit 53 Sacks lake

Solution time: 25 mins, 37 One type ASH TWIG 38 Charlie of filmdom 39 Comedian of exam

Yesterday's answer

ALLED AWARE 40 Sea ex 1 Nimbu 16 NIERECTED 42 Large hore 39 Comedian 40 Sea eagle 41 Nimbus 43 Excited 44 Employs DIE amount 2-3 47 Short haircut

2-3

RTTJGWVBD AJ TJBSVWUBA

CRYPTOQUIP

RLLIBVAVJB LRBISRTAIGUG,

VP CJJLVBD. " "CIPVBUPP Yesterday's Cryptoquip: WHY THE SUSPENDER SALESMAN WAS MOROSE YESTERDAY; HE WAS HELD

Today's Cryptoquip clue: L equals M

west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-429-

LARGE WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five block from campus. No pets. $300. Call 776-0181. (79tf) ADJACENT TO campus, 1224 Bertrand. Nice, twobedroom with garage, washer and dryer. We pay water, trash. Asking $350. Call 537-1745 or 537-4422. (82-90)

NEAR KSU, quiet, clean, one-bedroom, furnished, laundry, air conditioning, parking. Available June 1. Call 776-7814 or 539-3803. (85-104)

TWO-BEDROOM-two blocks from campus, $230. Call 539-1349. (88-92) ONE-BEDROOM-one-half block from campus,

$210. Call 539-1349. (88-92) FURNISHED, SPACIOUS two-bedroom, nicely deco rated. Dishwasher, disposal. Short-term lease available. No pets, $300 deposit required. 539-1465 (89-108)

MONT BLUE APARTMENTS

Leasing for June Studio, 1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments

and Townhouses Close to campus

ONE-HALF BLOCK from campus, one-bedroom, furnished apartment. $220, bill paid. Call 537-7313 or 539-8401. (90-94)

539-4447

ONE-BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Put nam Hall, 1310 N. Manhattan. $210. Call 539-7521 or 776-7045. (90-94)

THREE-BEDROOM, one and one-half bath in a nine plex. Available June 1. Living/dining area and fully equipped kitchen. Water and trash paid. $125 each for four, $150 each for three. 822 Fremont, phone 537-7087. (90-94)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage, west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294 (78tf)

FOR SALE-AUTO 1986 FORD F150 4 x 4, 351 V8 4B, supercab, Low mileage. Best offer. 539-7409. (81-91)

1976 GRAND Prix, excellent condition, power brakes, steering, locks, windows, sun roof, 537 9282 after 6 p.m. (86-90) TOYOTA PICKUP, 1984, clean, excellent condition, five-speed, long bed. topper. 776-0529. (87-93)

1978 HONDA Civic, front wheel drive, backwind defroster, new tires, brakes. $900/offer. 539-6990. (90-93)MUST SELL: 1978 Buick Regal limited, loaded and very sharp. Must see to appreciate. 776-3835. (90-

FOR SALE-MISC

EX-60 SILVER Reed typewriter. Best ofter. 539-7409.

ELEVEN-PIECE drum set for sale. Slingerland 11cw nine toms, one kick, snare and hi-hat. Five cymbal stands. Includes cases for everything. Also one AKG D12E bass drum microphone, one Sure SM58, and one Sure PE 75L. 776-2446 - Darren. (86-

CORONA PC, dual disks, 128K, IBM compatible, SC 3, multimate. Priced to sell. 537-7226. (86-90) REFRIGERATOR, MID-SIZED, great for dorms. $110 or best offer. Call Phil, 776-7794. (88-92)

10 Sessions

(Offer expires Feb. 8) 1214C Moro 776-7874

LIKE NEW, ladies leather and quilted coats, new Bavarian china, bisqueware, finished ceramics and paperbacks. 776-1861. (89-91)

STETSON COWBOY hat, size 71/4. Reasonably priced. Call 537-4689 after 6 p.m. (90-94)

OVATION UK-II Stereo Electric guitar, $500 with tuner. Kustom II powered four-channel mixer with speakers, $175. Sharp dual cassette deck and BSR 10-band equalizer, $100 and $75 or $150 for both. Prices negotiable. David or Michael, 537-1770. (90-

FOR SALE-MOTORCYCLES 09 YAMAHA 225, three-wheel ATV. Electric start, shaft full suspension, good condition, $800. Call 539-3807. (87-90)

13 HELP WANTED EARN $480 weekly-$60 per hundred envelopes stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed for company project stuffing envelopes and assem-bling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed ento JBK Mailcompany, PO. Box 25-52, Castaic, California 91310. (76-102) AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer. Career Good pay. Travel. Call for guide, cassette, newsser vice! (916) 944-4444 Ext. #58. (76-135) THE KANSAS Cooperative Extension Service has an opening for student computer programmers. The position is for 20 hours per week, flexible schedule. Applicants should be familiar with one of the following languages: Pascal, C, or PL/I. Summer employment is a possibility depending on per formance. For more information contact Dr. Steve Welch or Mary Knapp at 211 Umberger, phone: 532-7019. Application blanks are available from the above individuals or in the Computer Science Office and will be taken during business hours through February 6, 1987. (83-92)

WAITRESSES, MUST be 21, at Bonkers, 1216 Laramie, 537-9591. (86-90)

TYPIST NEEDED, 50-55 words per minute, know edge of Wordstar preferred. 10-15 hours per week, $3.35-$3.75 per hour. Work study preferred. Call Dora at 532-6842. (87-90)

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT at Camp Lincol Lake Hubert-Minnesota resident summer camps. A strong commitment to working with chil dren required, along with activity skills and teach ing experience. Specific job information and appli cations are available at Career Placement Office-Holtz Hall. Sign up, in advance, for per sonal interviews to be held on campus. Tuesday

February 3rd, and Wednesday, February 4th, 1987 (84-90) WANTED: COUNSELORS, riding and waterfront in structors (WSI and lifeguards). June/July 1987, live in, camp setting. If interested in an interview on March 4, contact Career Planning and Placement

Center (89-93) SUBJECTS NEEDED for thermal comfort research. $10 for 2-hour test. Sign up at the Institute for Envi nmental Research, basement of Seaton Hall, en ter room 64. (89-93) RIP AND Mo's is now accepting applications for waiters and waitresses, bartenders, door person nel, and cooks. Apply in person at Ray Enterprises. 1203 Laramie. Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-noon, or p.m. to 5 p.m. (90-93) CITY OF Manhattan's Parks and Recreation Depart ment is seeking to fill numerous full and part-time spring and summer positions. Positions include sports, arts/crafts, special population, and swim instructors: scorekeepers, umpires, day camp counselors, lifeguards, pool and concession workers; laborers, qualified theatre director, piano ac companist, vocal coach, puppet theatre staff, set designer and stage, sound and lighting techni-cian. Applicants should be 16 years old for most positions. Applications will be taken until posiions are filled 1986 employees are encouraged to re-apply For full listing and application come to the Personnel Office, City Hall, 11th and Poyntz. Manhattan, EOE—M/F/H (90)

LOST WOMEN'S gold watch and three gold brace lets at Tuttle Lake on February 1st. Please call 532 3423 (90-91) NOTICES 15

scholarship and grant money for which you can qualify. For more information write Student Financial Aid Services, 1613 S.W. Chelsea Drive, Topeka,

NEED MONEY for college? Let us match you with

VW REPAIRS done right the first time. J & L Auto Service, 1-494-2388. Drive a little and save money. (86-

PERSONAL MITCH, I'M waiting! Eithea. (90)

that! Tyrone Wundurfoal. (90)

YO GISEL! Sorry that a couple of Santa Fe's psyched you out. If you had only known (They were under 70!) Love, James. (90)

16

DUDE-WAS in rude mood. Took crude nude. Don't want to be sued. Want something brewed. Prude

TO DARK-HAIRED guy. Which blonde are you lo ing for? Give color of her backpack and sneakers. Reply in Personals. (90) HEY DOE Kelli, you is a fine looking mama. I mean

TRI DELT Lisa D. Happy Birthday!! Just remember handicaps rule forever! Roll on big mama! Love, DS-THANKS for making my day! Your friend, KS

SUZIE - I hope your birthday goes well, and your spe cial day is swell. Ain't this poem cute as hell. Love

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

MALE ROOMMATE across street from campus at 1230 Vattier Ground floor, private room, washer dryer, fireplace. $135/month, plus utilities. 776 9369 (84-93)

ROOMMATE - RENT negotiable, own room, laundry facilities, next to campus. Call 776-3833, keep try ing. (86-90)

NONSMOKING FEMALE—large house, sundeck washer/dryer. Utilities paid, own room. $175/ month, 539-6628. (86-95)

RESPONSIBLE MALE to share two-bedroom house in Keats (8 miles west of Union). $100 deposit, $100 rent, one-half utilities. 539-8541 after 7 p.m. (87-91) MALE ROOMMATE to share four-bedroom apartment. Own room, washer and dryer, close to cam-pus and Aggieville. $137.50 plus one-lifth utilities. Marlene—539-2356. (89-93)

FURNISHED TWO-bedroom apartment, $165/month Offstreet parking Laundry. Campus two blocks.

Inquire at 539-9304 (90-94) OWN ROOM, close to campus, $125 month. 539-9343. (90-94)

ROOMMATE-TO share three-bedroom house, own room. Close to campus. Rent $125/month or nego-tiable. Call 539-0112. (90-103) 18 SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180. 103 S.

Fourth St., Suite 25. (11f) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf) EXPERIENCED TYPIST—$1.10/page. Disc storage, letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537-

> Courtesy Demonstration by Appointment 9:30-5:30 Monday-Saturday

MERLE NORMAN

776-4535

letters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Bur den, 539-1204. (90-99) QUALITY TYPING for $1 per page. Contact John. 539-5839. (81-90)

QUALITY TYPING at economical prices. Disserta tions, Resumes, Theses, etc. Call Caron at 532-6294 or 776-2279. (86-95) READY FOR graduation? We compose/type resumes, data sheets and letters. Resume Service, 1211 Moro, Aggieville. 537-7294. (89-91) SUBLEASE 20

SUMMER SUBLEASE-three-bedroom, one and one-half bath, close to campus, $465. Call 776-5379 (86-90)

WANTED 21 WANTED: A few good KSU men to share a unique experience. The re-organization of Alpha Kappa Lambda. Room 207, K-State Union, 7 p.m., February 3. (87-91)

Call 776-2382. (90-92) 22

BABY-SITTER HAS an opening for weekdays for a

WANTED TO BUY

HELP!! NEED one KU -K-State ticket. Call Mike at

308 Poyntz TYPING/WORD processing. Data sheets, resumes.

9205, Dorinda (89-98)

By SUSAN STAGGENBORG Collegian Reporter

Elmer Heyne, professor emeritus of agronomy, cannot be found sitting in front of a crackling fire or vacationing in Florida at this time of Heyne and his wife, Marjorie, can be found in their kitchen overwhelmed with popcorn. Heyne spends his winters testing varieties of popcorn he has grown in his breeding pro-

Popping the grain is only a small part of the work Heyne does to try and find the perfect popcorn.

It's difficult to find and determine the perfect popcorn, Heyne said.

"Quality is defined by the person who defines it. It is your own opinion," he said. "What is good to one person may be different for Quality is determined by: kernel size, color, popping expansion, tenderness and number and toughness of the hulls. Heyne tests each of these determinants each time he pops a batch of popcorn.

"Absence of the hulls is best," he said. "But you can't get rid of it." In good popcorn, the hull breaks into smaller pieces so it is less noticeable and less likely to get caught between teeth, Heyne said.

Heyne begins planting his popcorn in April. He plants 1,500 plots - each containing 10-20 plants, which is all he can physically handle since he picks all of his popcorn by hand. Heyne plants different populations at different testing sites. He plants some plots near his home, 918 Ratone Lane, but a majority of the testing is done in Doniphan County. He also plants some plots at his brother's farm in Iowa and his son's farm in Heyne retired from the Department of Agronomy in 1982 after 44 years of working with the wheat breeding program. Heyne helped develop wheat breeds such as Newton wheat and some of the older varieties like Pawnee and Wichita.

Heyne uses the same breeding procedures with popcorn as he did with wheat. He takes breeds with outstanding qualities and crosses them with others of a similar quality.

"Any breeding program is a numbers game. The more numbers you use the more chances you have," Heyne said.

'One problem with popcorn is standability of the corn while in the field," he said. "That's why popcorn is crossed with field corn.

'One of the drawbacks of crossing with field corn is the corny taste," he said. "I try to get away from the corn

"The larger the popcorn gets, the more hulls you get," Heyne said. It is difficult to find a breed of popcorn that has all the favorable qualities.

According to kernel size, popcorn is classified as small, medium and large. A large kernel will tend to be tough and have a lot of hulls. The smaller kernel will often be tender but have smaller expansion (popped size), he said.

As with any experiment, exact records and standards are kept. Everything has to be uniform so that a comparison can be made between popcorn populations. While popping different varieties of popcorn, Heyne must keep the heat at a constant temperature. This is one problem Staff/Chris Stewart

Elmer Heyne, retired professor of agronomy, spends the winter testing varieties of popcorn grown in his breeding program. During April, Heyne plants 1,500 plots — each containing 10-20 plants in his quest for the perfect popping corn.

Heyne has with the final testing of the popcorn. Heyne and his wife pop 50 samples of popcorn a day starting in January. The popcorn is dry popped on a plate and wire screen. It is then tested for crispness and volume of the popped Heyne believes the best way to prepare popcorn is to use a little oil and agitate the kernels to distribute heat. If popping begins before 60 seconds, the temperature is too hot. Popping should start in 75 seconds and finish after about 30 seconds, he Heyne's popcorn is not processed the same as those on the market, which makes his a better quality, he said.

Heyne sells what he believes to be quality popcorn through the Kiwanis Club. He also has another brand which he sells as his own for $1.50 for a 2-pound bag.

Heyne has found that working with popcorn is much easier than wheat. One person can do all of the work, he Popcorn is just a hobby for Heyne.

He said he enjoys working with

"It's just a hobby. If I get a hybrid, I may go into seed production, not inbreeding programs and has the knowledge to do it.

to commercial selling," Heyne said. drink and if they do they get in as "It has been a long-time interest."

titous or fraudulently altered or fraudulently obtained identification

It is unlawful to lend or permit the use of one's driver's license or identification card by another person. It is unlawful to, in any way, create a reproduction of a driver's license. Violation of any of the aforementioned laws for the purpose of illegally obtaining beer or liquor (a class A misdemeanor) can result in a fine up to $2,500 or a jail sentence up to one Driving or attempting to drive a motor vehicle while having a blood alcohol content of at least .10 percent is a crime in Kansas.

The police - campus, city and the highway patrol - prior to arrest, can order a preliminary breath or blood alcohol test for a person operating a motor vehicle.

Refusal to submit to the alcohol test can be used as evidence against a person charged with DUI. Refusal to complete required testing to determine the presence of alcohol or drugs will result in automatic supension of the individual's driver's license for six months.

A person convicted of DUI will not be eligible for release on probation or supension until the minimum sentence is served. The sentence will be determined by the sentencing judge.

Minor

penalty.

Laws

Continued from Page 1

students as to whether or not they

According to Kansas drinking laws, those people born on or after

July 1, 1966, will have to wait until their 21st birthday to legally buy,

No person under 21 years of age shall purchase, possess or consume alcoholic liquor - 6 percent beer, wine and distilled spirits, the liquor

Violation of the laws concerning the possession or consumption of alcohol on the premises of a licensed club is a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than $100 and not more than $250 or 40 hours of public

At K-State, rumors flourish - some true, some false - about students using false driver's licenses to enter local bars. Arck said those students are the biggest risk takers.

bars and not drink. That's fine, at least they won't be getting a DUI,'

he said. "That's the most expensive fine of them all and the biggest display or possess a canceled, fic-

State law prohibits any person to

"They may just want to get into the service - or both.

possess or drink 3.2 percent beer.

want to know the information."

Continued from Page 1

private club as long as he or she has a club card or is a guest. He said he does not recommend admitting minors though because monitoring their drinking is difficult.

"It's virtually impossible (to monitor alcohol consumption of minors) to be quite honest," he said.

This fall Bushwacker's, 531 N. Manhattan Ave., Mannequins, 1122 Moro St., and Kite's admitted minors. Kite's quit the practice after one week, Mannequins closed during the semester and Bushwacker's changed its policy Jan. 1.

Owners of Kite's Bushwacker's shared Lamb's opi-

"We found out it was very hard to monitor them," said Rusty Wilson, manager of Kite's

"You can't watch the people under 21 to see if they're drinking or not, and the penalty for it is not worth letting them in," said Rich Kriftewirth, part-owner of Bushwacker's.

Teto Henderson, manager of Aggie Station, said he warns patrons under 21 about the ramifications of drinking illegally.

'We let them know that they can't much trouble as the club does," he

Max Strunk, part-owner of Brother's, said he has two methods for keeping customers under 20 from drinking beer

He said patrons of legal age are stamped on the hand. They must show this mark at the bar to purchase beer. He also has two people check identification at the door.

"We staff extra door personnel to help monitor the minors," he said. He said employees used to stamp underage patrons but stopped when Strunk found out they were washing the emblem off and buying beer. A faint ray of hope remains for students under 21 to be readmitted into the private clubs. Don Ramey, part-owner of Bushwacker's, said if other club owners reinstate the policy he may do the same. "If some of the other bars start letting them in we might," Ramey said.

> Stay in tune. Read the Collegian for local and national news.

Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

•4¢ self-service copies •Full service copy center Resume service OPEN DAILY

Sun. 12-9 FirstBank Center Denison & Claflin 776-3771

 Tacos for lunch & dinner

•$1.25 Margaritas (that's $1 off!)

> 1115 Moro 776-0030

Haircuts Includes Shampoo & Style

539-TAME or 539-8601 404 Humboldt

"Bear" Essentials for Valentine's Day!!! Bears, Bears, and more Teddy Bears are eagerly waiting especially for you! We're all ready for Valentine's Day with over 150 Teddy Bears and gifts for those you love!

Come Cuddle us at...

Mon.-Sat. 10-5:30 2206 Ft. Riley Blvd. COUNTRY GIFT SHOP

539-3854

"East of Holidome"

Smile enhancement by the professionals

Teeth cleaning from $20

ASSOCIATES, DENTAL SAGER 514 Humboldt Plaza Hyglene Department 913-537-8823

Outdoor Dining

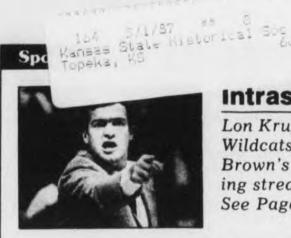

Cooking while enjoying the outdoors does not have to result in food tasting like warmed shingles. See Page

Weather

Cloudy

Cloudy today, high 35 to 40. Winds easterly 10 to 15 mph. Cloudy tonight with a 30 percent chance of light rain.

Intrastate Dual

Lon Kruger and his Wildcats try to end Larry Brown's eight-game winning streak against K-State. See Page 11.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Wednesday

February 4, 1987

Volume 93, Number 91

Reagan aide departs post in frustration

Kansas State University

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Patrick J. Buchanan, President Reagan's combative chief of communications, added his name Tuesday to a growing list of administration resignations, saying he could work for conservative causes more effectively outside the White House.

Buchanan, who announced last month that he would not run for president, has seemed frustrated in his two-year campaign to get the administration to follow a hardline-conservative script. Announcing the resignation, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Buchanan "feels he can better influence the issues and politics of 1988 and the direction of the conservative movement and Republican Party by speaking and writing from a vantage point outside the White House.

He will leave the $77,400-a-year job March 1. joining an exodus of top administration officials departing with two years left in the ad-

Fitzwater said the turnover was healthy. "You get a lot of new blood in... It's good to get new energies in for the last drive.

Some people delayed their departure, Fitzwater said, "because of the Iranian situation and didn't want to leave while there was difficulty." He was referring to the controversy over the secret sale of arms to Iran and the diversion of profits to Nicaraguan rebels.

That affair produced a shakeup in Reagan's National Security Council staff and cost the president his national security adviser John Poindexter - replaced by Frank Carlucci - and a top aide on the NSC, Oliver

In addition, Reagan has lost his longtime spokesman, Larry Speakes and his deputy, Peter Roussel; CIA Director William Casey; political adviser Mitchell Daniels; Cabinet secretary Alfred Kingon; drug-abuse adviser Carlton Turner and the president's doctor, T. Burton Smith. Fitzwater also acknowledged there seems to be "kind of open speculation around town" that Richard Perle, a top administration policy-maker in arms control, is poised to resign as an assistant secretary of defense. However, he said, "I've not received any word or letters or any indication" to confirm

He said that Donald Regan would not resign as Reagan's chief of staff, as has been urged by members of Congress and others in the wake of the Iran-Contra scandal.

Fitzwater said the departures were normal after an election and said Reagan understood the need to move on.

There was no immediate announcement of Buchanan's successor, but Fitzwater said Buchanan, as well as Daniels, would be replaced.

Rumors about Buchanan's resignation had circulated for months as he created an increasingly higher profile as Reagan's chief defender in the White House.

Signs of the times

Nelson Priddy, junior in animal sciences and industry, gets a lift from Doug Base, sophomore in agricultural engineering. Tuesday while tying campaign posters to a campus tree. Tuesday was the first day candidates could post political advertisements for next week's Student Governing Association elections.

Panel introduces disposal site bill

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - A bill introduced Tuesday in the Kansas House would withdraw the state from the Central Interstate Low-Level Radioactive Waste Compact, the second such measure introduced in the Legislature

Rep. Cliff Campbell, chairman of the House Agriculture and Small Business Committee, said his panel decided to sponsor the measure because at least half of its 21 members represent areas that remain under consideration for a disposal site for radioactive wastes generated in a five-state area.

"At this point it is to try to get the facts out on the table," Campbell said of reasons behind the proposal. "We want to stop the rumors and get to the facts."

Campbell, R-Beloit, said many people in his north-central Kansas district are worried the radioactive waste facility might be located somewhere near their homes. He said he has received a lot of telephone calls and letters from concerned constituents.

A draft copy of the compact's secondround exclusionary study shows 18 Kansas counties - mostly in the north-central section of the state - remain under consideration for the site, the most of any of the five states in the compact.

A copy of the study which the Kansas Natural Resource Council obtained last month showed 10 counties remain under consideration in Nebraska, two counties in Arkansas, one county in Louisiana and none

Compact officials have said withdrawal from the organization could not become effective for five years and would guarantee that the withdrawing state would have a radioactive waste dump. That's because federal law requires all states to provide disposal facilities or band together into regional compacts.

However, Campbell said the prospect of Kansas establishing its own waste dump does not worry him as much as the location of a regional facility

"I would rather just have the waste from Kansas than the waste from five states,' Campbell said.

See DISPOSAL, Page 13

Vessels, Marines seen near Cyprus

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - U.S. warships were reported within 50 miles of Lebanon on Tuesday and official sources in Cyprus said civilian aircraft flying near the ships were ordered by radio to veer off

The warships of the 6th Fleet were in international waters

The sources in Cyprus, which lies 100 miles northwest of Beirut, spoke on condition of anonymity.

The United States marshaled a strong battle group in the eastern Mediterranean over the past week in response to rising tensions in the Middle East and following a spate of kidnappings of foreigners in Lebanon.

The kidnappers, and Moslem leaders in Lebanon, warned that any military action by the United States would mean death for the captives

Pentagon sources stressed in Washington on Tuesday that the U.S. battle groups had received no orders to prepare for any military operation.

The sources, who demanded anonymity, said the carriers Kennedy and Nimitz and a Mediterranean Amphibious Ready Group of roughly 1,900 Marines were steaming on a "routine patrol pattern" in the southeastern Mediterranean, south of Cyprus and relatively close to Lebanon.

The force consists of about 22 warships, and 1,900 more Marines were moved out of Spain on Tuesday to join the battle fleet.

Also Tuesday, Iran's Foreign Ministry denied reports that Anglican Church hostage negotiator Terry Waite was held by Iranian Revolutionary Guards in Lebanon.

The fate of Waite, 47, remained a mystery. The 6-foot-7 emissary has not been seen since he left his hotel in Moslem west Beirut on Jan. 20, apparently for a meeting with the Shiite Moslem kidnappers of two Americans held since 1985

Lebanon's justice minister, Nabih Berri, said in Damascus, Syria, on Monday that Waite had been "arrested" by the kidnappers. He did not elaborate.

Unconfirmed reports last week said Waite was spotted in Lebanon's Bekaa Valley, a Shiite stronghold and base for about 400 Iranian Revolutionary Guards

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, quoted a Foreign Ministry spokesman in Tehran as denying a U.S. news media report that Waite was in the hands of the Revolutionary Guards in the Bekaa.

The spokesman said the report was "fabricated by imperialist news media" and stressed that Iran never sanctioned kidnapping foreigners in Lebanon.

The two Americans Waite seeks to free -Terry Anderson, 39, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, and educator Thomas Sutherland, 55 - are held by Islamic Jihad. The group is believed made up of Shiite fundamentalists loyal to Altogether, 26 foreigners now are missing in Lebanon and presumed kidnapped, including eight Americans.

A general strike called to protest the abductions of foreigners paralyzed west Beirut on Tuesday. Hundreds of students marched in the rain, chanting and waving placards to protest the Jan. 24 kidnapping of four teachers. The men, three Americans and an Indian, were taken from the campus of Beirut University College by gunmen posing

Banks, schools, restaurants, shops and other businesses closed in response to the strike call by the college's student council.

"You (captors) have gone too far! It's too much!" the demonstrators chanted as they marched through west Beirut. "Stop kidnapping! We need education!" they shouted.

Parking lot renovation will allow more spaces

By JUDY GOLDBERG

Staff Writer

Just when students thought driving in circles was a prerequisite for finding a parking space on campus, a measure has been approved to add 65 parking spaces as a part of a reconstruction project.

George Miller, vice president for administration and finance, approved Monday the reconstruction of parking lot A-2, located near the intersection of Manhattan Avenue and Vattier Street.

Charles Beckom, superintendent of K-State police, said the three-phase plan was designed about four years ago to give parking spaces to people utilizing Bluemont Hall, built in 1981, and to replace parking spaces that will be lost with the current construction of the chemistry building south of King Hall.

The plan was initiated by former University president Duane Acker. It included adding parking spaces to the lot behind the president's house, which was completed in the summer of 1985, reconstructing A-1, completed last fall, and reconstructing A-2, said Mark Taussig, University architect. A-1 is the connecting lot south of A-2

Taussig said the east side of campus has the lowest parking space to building ratio. "Anything we can do on the east side of the campus to get more parking spaces is going to help," he said.

A-1 lost five spaces when the path connecting it to A-2 was made last summer, said Larry Garvin, director of University facilities planning. He said the 65 spaces that will be added to A-2 will help make up for the

Miller approved the design after hearing from three advisory committees, Garvin. and John Lambert, director of public safety. 'I feel it's a justified project based on the advice I received," Miller said. Miller said the lot was approved not only for the spaces it would add but also because drainage and surface improvements were necessary With the endorsement of Garvin and Lambert, the Landscape Advisory Committee and Long Range Planning Committee favored the project, but the Council of Traffic, Parking and Police Operations Committee advised against it. Some council members said the estimated

$234,000 project seemed unjustified. John Devore, assistant professor of electrical and computer engineering and council member, said although he did see a need for drainage repair, the surface did not seem to be in dire need of restoration. He said he also believes an evaluation should be made to determine whether the funds will be utilized effectively

'If the major benefit is going to be the addition of 65 spaces - a quarter of a million dollars is a lot of money to spend on those spaces," he said.

Lambert said he would not have agreed with construction of the lot if it was in good

'It's taking a pretty well beat-up lot and just adding 65 spaces to it," he said.

The project will be paid for from $250,000 in parking fee funds allocated each year for capital improvements of parking lots.

Faculty petitions legislators to halt death penalty proposal

By SHELLY SHAFFER Collegian Reporter

Sixty-five K-State faculty members have signed and forwarded a letter to Gov. Hayden and the state Legislature opposing reinstatement of the death penalty.

Leon Rappoport, professor of psychology, said he drafted the letter hoping that it will aid in defeating the death penalty bill.

"We think that we can present arguments that might lead representatives to change their votes," he

Time restrictions prevented the letter from being circulated to faculty in all the colleges

Rappoport said he thinks the open letter will carry weight in the legislative level because the faculty is paid to study such issues.

"It is particularly among scholars and religious groups that there is the most opposition to the death penalty," he said. "There are no social scientists, criminologists or psychologists who have done studies and concluded that capital punishment is an effective deterent to

Rappoport said he would like the Legislature to consider alternatives to the death penalty

A better form of punishment, he said, would carry a 30-year mandatory sentence for serious crimes a bill currently being considered by the Federal and State Affairs Com-

Roger Beaman, death penalty coordinator for the Manhattan chapter of Amnesty International, said if the death penalty is passed, the bill will be forgotten. Robin Smith, acting head of the Department of Philosophy, said he signed the letter because it provided him with an opportunity to support his view of the death penalty.

'This is one way citizens have of saying to the Legislature, 'We ought not to do this." he said.

Most states that use the death penalty also have the highest murder person is killed under the death penalty, the mistake cannot be corrected.

David Schmidt, assistant professor of computer science, said he signed the letter "to increase awareness of the impact the death penalty has on society and what kind of society we represent that state conabout that."

Fiendish criminals who are defended by good lawyers and at-rates, Smith said. Also, if an innocent tract media attention have a good chance to avoid the death penalty, he

> "It is a moral issue; moral issues are ones that don't depend on winning or losing," Rappoport said. "What is important is to make an ef-gressmen are sensitive to response through the mail and pay attention when receiving many letters on a

INTERNATIONAL

Soviets hold Brezhnev's son-in-law

MOSCOW - In another move to combat top-level corruption, the Soviet government announced Tuesday the late President Leonid I. Brezhnev's son-in-law had been arrested and accused of taking Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov announced the arrest of Yuri Churbanov, a former deputy interior minister, during a briefing for Soviet and foreign reporters.

The official Tass news agency also carried a one-sentence announcement of the arrest, suggesting the government may be planning to make an example of Churbanov for alleged abuse of his authority.

Neither of the announcements mentioned Churbanov's relationship with Brezhnev, who was Soviet leader from 1964 until his death in November 1982.

But bribe-taking and cronyism during Brezhnev's tenure have come under harsh criticism in the two years since Mikhail S. Gorbachev became Communist Party leader.

Gerasimov said he had been asked by a reporter to confirm whether Churbanov had been taken into custody.

"He has been arrested, an investigation is under way and he is accused of corruption and bribe-taking," Gerasimov said.

REGIONAL

Bill allows statewide branch banks

TOPEKA - Rural communities of Kansas will have a much better chance of keeping their local banks if the Legislature will approve a bill allowing statewide branch banking by acquisition, officials of the Kansas Bankers Association told a Senate committee Tuesday.

"This legislation may well spell the difference between the survival or loss of banking services to thousands of Kansans in communities throughout this state in the coming years," Richard D. Nichols of McPherson, president of the KBA, told the Senate Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee.

"Already many Kansans and some entire communities have been left without banking services due to bank failures, and a continuation of these problems for some period of time is an unfortunate reality.'

The committee heard proponents today of a bill which grew out of the work of the Legislative Commission on Economic Development. It would permit banks to buy other banks within the state and operate them as branches.

A law passed last year permits banks to buy failing or failed banks in towns which have only one bank and operate them as branches. The bill being considered this year would expand that to permit unlimited purchase of banks for operation as branches.

Jefferson City to host film makers

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. - Film makers working on the new Steve Martin movie "Planes, Trains and Automobiles" will be in Jefferson City this weekend to shoot scenes for the new comedy, officials said Tuesday.

The movie, which also stars comedian John Candy, is about two men who are trying to travel from New York to Chicago but get sidelined by bad weather and are forced to stop in Wichita, before being routed through Jefferson City.

"It's about two guys who get stranded out in the middle of nowhere in the middle of Kansas, and about all the trouble they have trying to get to Chicago," said a local official who asked not to be named.

NATIONAL

Legislators override Reagan's veto

WASHINGTON - The House, drawing first blood in the spending battles facing the 100th Congress, voted overwhelmingly today to override President Reagan's veto of popular $20 billion clean water

The action, on a 401-26 vote, came shortly after Reagan made a final plea to GOP members to support his position that the public works legislation is too costly.

The vote sent the issue to the Senate, which is scheduled to take its override vote later this week and where even Republican Leader Robert Dole of Kansas all but conceded defeat on the first major spending question before Congress this year.

House GOP Leader Robert Michel of Illinois urged his Republican colleagues to stand by their president. Michel said that while he had previously voted for the bill, the veto "changes the complexity of the

But the White House got no help from representatives John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., and Arlan Stangeland, R-Miss., who had been among the Republicans most active in drafting the vetoed bill.

"I believe President Reagan has listened to the wrong advice," Stangeland said. "This body needs to send a strong message to the president and the American people that this Congress won't tolerate delays in the cleaning up of American waters.'

Senate approves speed limit boost

WASHINGTON - The Senate today approved a measure allowing states to increase speed limits on stretches of rural interstates to 65 mph, a proposal that could slow billions of dollars in federal transportation aid from reaching the states.

The provision, approved by a 65-33 vote, largely pitted lawmakers from western states against their eastern counterparts.

Westerners argued that states with long, straight sections of rural highway should be allowed to increase the current 55 mph limit, instituted in 1974. But lawmakers from the East countered that the lower maximum speed has saved lives and conserved gasoline.

"I think it has perhaps been valid in certainly fuel consumption and saving of lives," Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., one of 18 western legislators who co-sponsored the measure, said of the current limit. "But where it doesn't fit at all is to recognize the diversity of the United States of America.'

The measure's lead sponsor, Sen. Steven Symms, R-Idaho, said the provision is "a modest, moderate amendment" because it would allow states to decide their own speed limits on parts of interstates.

The provision is an amendment to a $52.4 billion, four-year program that would provide aid to the states for roads and bridges. A $10.8 billion measure that would provide assistance to the nation's mass transit systems was expected to be attached to the highway

AIDS test may be recommended

ATLANTA - Federal health officials, worried by an increase in AIDS among heterosexuals, said Tuesday they may recommend that AIDS blood tests be mandatory for all patients admitted to hospitals and even couples applying for marriage licenses.

The test for antibodies to the AIDS virus now is required only for blood donors.

The federal Centers for Disease Control has invited 250 public health officials to Atlanta for a public hearing to discuss its proposal, said Dr. Walter Dowdle, the CDC's AIDS director.

Those invited to the hearing Feb. 24-25 include members of civil liberties groups, who may oppose the proposal, Dowdle said.

FUNDRINKERY

GOOD LUCK CATS TONIGHT

Watch the game with us on the big screen.

Join us before the game at The Sunset Grille Sunset Grille

Open daily 5-9 p.m. This Week's Special 8 oz. Filet $5.65 includes salad bar, bread & potato

GO WILDCATS! OFFICE 539-4321 531 N. Manhattan

BAR 539-9727

Panhellenic Council

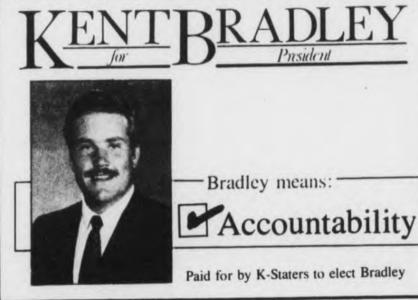

announces

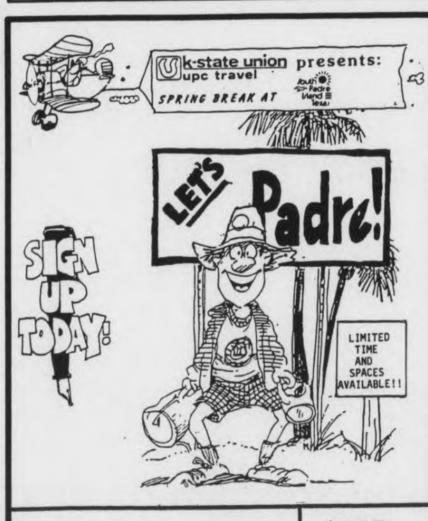

Open Rush

February 8-23, 1987

The participating sororities are: ALPHA CHI OMEGA ALPHA GAMMA DELTA ALPHA XI DELTA KAPPA DELTA SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

- * Register with Greek Affairs in Holton Hall 203 by Feb. 6.
- * $5 Registration Fee

7 nights lodging at delure Sunchases IV Condominiums with fully equipped kitchess, set har, color TT, & washer/dryer. The beach front resort boasts & tennis courts, exercise room, Jacussi, 2 pools and se attached shopping smil.

Velcome party with BJ, music and notivities
Trip staff advisors

Island Club Sports package with unlimited use of sports equipment (windsurfing, snorkeling, beogis boards, volleyball, tesmin & requeshall).

Chance to wis one of sight drawings for 5 FREE tenning sessions!

SUN CONNECTION

Matasoros, Mesico chopping trip Farty on the Inabelia Queen Siver Boat Matasoros, Mesico Sighteleb Tour

$197 -WITHOUT TRANSPORTATION

March 14-20, 1987 ISA & HASTERCARD ACCEPTED

SIGN UP NOW! K-STATE UNION ACTIVITIES CENTER 8:00sm-2:00pm

Expires March 1, 1987 Aggieville

Quit smoking.

AG COUNCIL meets at 6 p.m. in Waters 137.

FMA-FINANCE CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in

ASCE STUDENT CHAPTER meets at 7:40

EATING DISORDERS GROUP THERAPY

STUDENT NATIONAL EDUCATION

PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Trotter 207.

ASSOCIATION meets at 4 p.m. in Bluemont 217

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR SPORTS CLUB COUNCIL meets at 5 p.m. in YOUR LIFE

HUNAM EXPRESS

537-0886

1116 Moro

reggrou & fried rice 990)

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS U-LEARN is looking for volunteers this spring. Call 532-6442 or stop by Holton 2.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is now posting sign-up schedules for on-campus employment interviews by Kansas, regional and national employers. All eligible candidates are

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in the Union Activites Center and are due by 5 p.m.

CONGRESSIONAL TEACHER SCHOLAR-SHIP PROGRAM: Information and applications

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL sign-up today through Friday in Call, Waters or the Union.

TODAY

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA meets at 6 p.m. in

THURSDAY

Open 7 days a week Free Delivery 11 a.m.-1 a.m.

1304 Westerno 539-8888

Call 539-8888 or 537-0886

We're In To Something Good

1101 Moro

RESTAURANT

Aggieville

WINTER CLEARANCE

ALL FALL AND WINTER MERCHANDISE

Mon.-Sat. 10-5:30 Thurs. 10-8:30 Sun. 1-5

1222 Moro Aggieville 539-6323

tintillating

Oh, the things we create with Redken® haircolor. What excitement, what drama experience altogether because actually good for your hair.

A new

Extraordinary results brought to you in living color. By Redken.

Special—$5 off Any Color Service Sun Bath Your Hair at 776-4455

Falsetto's

2 Large One-Topping Pizzas $14

PIZZA

2 Med. Two-Topping Pizzas $12.25 Plus a FREE Quart of Pepsi

Buy a 10" Supreme, Receive One FREE!

We Have Expanded to serve you quicker & better.

FREE DELIVERY 539-3830

1127 Moro-Aggieville

Tax modifications influence stock market, professor says

By The Associated Press

Committee sponsors

two-lane freeway bill

TOPEKA - A bill which would authorize construction of about 740 miles of super-two lane freeways over the next five years at a cost of about $784 million was introduced Tuesday in the Senate.

The brainchild of Sen. Bill Morris, R-Wichita, the bill was sponsored by the Transportation and Utilities Committee.

It calls for an independent management team to establish priorities and construct the highways on a "first and foremost basis." The roads would be modern super-two lane freeways financed by the sale of revenue bonds which would be repaid from income generated by a 5 cent increase in the state gasoline tax.

"The governor has proposed a study panel that would take about six months to study the proposals," Morris said. "I would hope their contributions could be made much quicker than that. The window of opportunity is here right now, with current bond prices and gasoline prices. We can't afford to wait six months."

Morris was referring to the current market for bonds and the fact they can be sold now at relatively low interest rates.

Thanks to the oil crisis and drop in the price of crude, gasoline is selling at its lowest levels in recent years, making it more attractive for lawmakers to tack a 5-cent increase to the current 11-cent state gas tax.

The bill has a little something for just about every area of the state. It lists as possible projects:

-A 160-mile southeast highway from Wichita to Joplin running through Augusta, Fredonia, Neodesha, Parsons and Pitt-

The southeast highway plan includes a six-mile leg on U.S. 75 linking Independence; a 21-mile leg on U.S. 169 linking Coffeyville and a 45-mile supplemental improvement on U.S. 166 from Arkansas City to Sedan.

-A 181-mile southwest highway from Wichita to Liberal via Pratt with a 167-mile leg splitting off at Bucklin and traveling north through Dodge City, Garden City to the Colorado border.

-A 149-mile northwest passage from Wichita to Hays, via Hutchinson, Great Bend and Russell.

-A 10.5 mile bypass around the northeast side of Wichita between Interstate 135 to the north and U.S. 54 to the east which is estimated to cost $65 million.

-A $12 million interchange between I-70 and I-470 northwest of Only Sen. Joe Norvell, D-Hays, expressed concern about the measure, saying he wanted assurances all projects would be started and completed at the same time.

"I'm concerned that one route would be started now and another wouldn't be started for five years or so," Norvell said. "The Legislature may not have the same commitment to highway construction then and that worries me. I want to make sure that if we set forth to construct three proposed highways that we make sure all three highways start at the same time.

Norvell also worried that one new road might get a higher priority than another.

'There's not any one road that's given preference," Morris said. "And I don't know that it all could be completed on the same

Morris said the bill follows the recommendations of an $800,000 feasibility and design study commissioned by the 1986 Legislature. The feasibility report said none of the proposed roads would support a turnpike fee arrangement, meaning other financing methods would be necessary.

The report also recommended construction of super-two lane highways rather than limited access four-lane roads because of the cost involved. The super-twos, as they are called, are limited access roads designed for 70 mph speeds and make extensive use of passing lanes.

Morris said he plans to hold hearings in his committee on the bill Feb. 17-19. He did not speculate what kind of reception the proposal might get.

By DORI WITHERS Collegian Reporter

Since President Ronald Reagan took office in 1980, the Dow Jones has tripled - escalating from 700 points to more than 2,100 points.

Recent market gains have largely resulted from stockholders selling at the end of 1986, said Paul Koch, associate professor of economics.

This "mass selling" took place because the 1987 tax rate increased the tax on capital gains made from investments in 1986. Before this rate was increased, the tax on capital gains from investments was a much lower rate, he said.

Many stockholders sold their shares before the tax increase went into effect Jan. 1. They are now rebuying because the stocks are still profitable.

Koch said economists have two theories to explain the direction of the 1987 stock market. First, the market may reach new highs because the business economy still "looks good," Koch said.

The second theory proposes that new wealth caused by the market tripling in value may have fueled more buying of stocks, which in turn could have driven prices artificially

The stock market gains have been impressive," Koch said, "and the market's volatility has been frightening."

He cited a recent 110-point swing in the stock market. On Jan. 23, the index rose 66 points yet ended the day 44 points lower than it began.

"We are seeing bigger price swings than ever before. One reason that is typically given is that now the Dow Jones is at a much higher level, so larger price swings are consistent with the same percentage changes as

Another reason for the instability is that computers are now used to monitor minute-to-minute movements in the stock market, he

Koch said the stock market is difficult to predict, but the relationship between the market and the economy is easier to understand by observing past market patterns.

Generally the stock market is a leading indicator of the economy, he said. Gains in the market usually precede economic gains. On the other hand, the stock market will decrease before a recession.

"It is best to buy stock when the economy is bottoming out because look good, and consumer demand is "But then again a lot depends on what the Federal Reserve System does with the money supply and what Congress does with the federal budget deficit."

this is when the market prices are while the economy is going up, and sell them before it (the economy)

Koch said the market has had a

'Those who spread their funds out in the market should have done very well, in comparison to those who invested all their funds in one stock,"

He said although the overall market is doing well, individual stocks, such as those in the agricultural and energy sectors,

Market gains in 1986 were the Economists are predicting a fairly decent year for the market, although there might be a slight increase in in-

"I'm optimistic about this year's market," he said. "Corporate profits

flation and interest rates.

result of lowered inflation and in-favorable impact on stockholders.

"The idea is to hold the stocks lower," Koch said.

starts falling.

have suffered.

terest rates

Florida officials expect drivers' license conflict

By The Associated Press

SANFORD, Fla. - Red would signal "no sale" under a proposal to color-code the licenses of drunken drivers and thus cut down on their consumption of alcohol.

Law enforcement officials and legislators praised the idea, but predicted heavy lobbying against it by vendors of alcoholic beverages.

Under the proposed legislation, the brainchild of probation officer Derek

Gallagher and Assistant State Attorney Steven Igou, everyone ordering a drink at a bar would have to show his driver's license. Those holding red licenses would be refused service, by law.

The law would give a judge the right to enter anyone convicted of an alcohol-related crime into the program as a condition of probation. The offender then would get his driver's license exchanged for a red

FRIDAY & SATURDAY "The Davis Sisters" 9:30 p.m.-1:30 a.m. Cover charge $1 for members essent specification of the $2 for guests

Class B Private Club Open 1 p.m. daily Three miles East on Manhattan Hwy. 24

gos sals the state of

"WE CARE" about your health

*Outpatient Clinic

*Lafemme (GYN) Clinic

*Allergy Clinic

*Mental Health Clinic

*Laboratory

*Physical Therapy Department

*Pharmacy

*X-Ray Department

*Dietary Counseling

*In-patient Hospital

*Sports Medicine Clinic *Wart Clinic

*Clinic Hours: 8-11:30 a.m. 1-4:30 p.m.

*24 hour, 7 days a week health care services *Time-saving Appointment System

Call 532-6544 for an appointment

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"Your Medical Facility"

WELCOME KAZOO KORPS $2 pitchers Thursday SDAZES —This Weekend— Live Band "YYZ" (formerly the Catz) FREE SET FRIDAY AFTERNOON 539-9619 1800 Ctaflin

Shopping for a diamond ring is a special occasion. Holiday Jewelers makes it even more special by allowing you to pick out the exact diamond you want, then mounting it onto the setting of your choice. Our diamond setter will even do it while you wait.

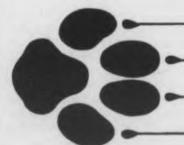

Just a few of the supporters of Michelle Benoit

Kevin Eickmann Deb Benoit Steve Packebush Bret Fox Jimmy Allan Jill Kennedy Stan Dubbert John Bullock Marabeth Mugler John Bayouth Shelly Wakeman Susan Sommers Kim Buethe Pat Muir Jim Garrison Lori Shellenberger Jeff Ochampaugh Debbie Fields

... On The Right Track

Chris Veering

Joan Caldwell

Stacey Campbell

Doug Folk

Teri Ginter

Gary Olson

Steve Ligon

Stacy Smith

Lana Hammer

Angie Rowland

Shawn Bracken

Luis Montaner

Billie Roberts

Paul Kolbeck

Amy Carter

Ed Nickel

Wally Brockhoff

Gretchen Wagner

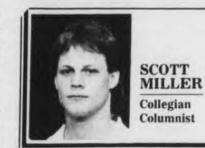

Paid for by the Benoit for President Committee

Hysterics inflate extent of drug 'crisis'

For about six months now, I've watched with some interest as a barrage of media hype and self-serving comments from the men and women in Washington managed to convince otherwise intelligent people that this country is in the middle of a wildly escalating drug crisis.

President Reagan has informed us of the serious threat posed by people who use and sell illegal drugs, claiming they are "as dangerous to our national security as any terrorist or foreign dictatorship." On another occasion, the president referred to drugs as "one of the most serious challenges we've ever faced." A number of times he has spoken of the drug problem as a "national crisis" and called for an all-out war on drugs.

With all the hysterics, someone should remind Reagan to look at a study conducted by his own administration. Released last October, this study found the number of Americans using marijuana has decreased by five percentage points since 1982. It also found the percentage of heroin users has remained constant since 1982. This hardly sounds like the increasingly serious threat to society that Reagan, Congresspersons and the media have portrayed.

But what of cocaine and "crack" - that deadly drug which seems to be on everyone's mind, as well as on the cover of every other issue of Time and Newsweek? Hasn't the number of cocaine users dramatically increased in recent years, especially among young people?

According to the study, the percentage of Americans using cocaine and crack has increased in the last 5 years - by less than one percentage point. Furthermore, this increase has been spread evenly throughout the different age groups surveyed, not wholly concentrated among youth. Is this the crisis that threatens national security?

To be sure, America has a drug problem cocaine consumption has increased from 18 tons in 1976 to almost 100 tons in 1986. In light of the federal government's findings, however, it appears that while users are snorting more coke, their numbers are not increasing significantly in comparison to the number of non-users. There is a drug problem, a problem which needs a solution. Drug use is not, however, a wildly escalating crisis threatening to destroy the country.

Unfortunately, the Reagan administration and Congress have resorted to a state of siege mentality and asked for "national mobilization" in the war on drugs. Like most wars, this one comes complete with various repressive measures at the home front. On Sept. 15, Reagan signed an executive order authorizing mandatory drug tests for federal employees in "sensitive jobs." This covers 2.2 million people - about half of the federal work force.

If Attorney General Edwin Meese and his Department of Justice lackies place any value in the United States Constitution (perhaps a shaky assumption), then they will have to issue more than two million search warrants to comply with the Fourth Amendment protection against illegal search and seizure. I wonder if the founding fathers ever envisioned their words protecting two million urine samples from government con-

But we can forget about protection against invasions of privacy, Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination and a presumption of innocence. The president is determined to start a urine sample collection and he's willing to tap into his bureaucratic underlings to do it. A number of businesses have followed suit by implementing their own random drug testing programs, and before long we might all be demonstrating our patriotism at the porcelain altar.

JOB APPLICATION

PART ONE
(Please fill out completely)

One of the few encouraging developments in this affair came Nov. 12 when a federal court issued a permanent injunction barring the government from conducting random drug tests on 120,000 Customs Service workers. Judge Robert Collins called Reagan's drug testing plan "a degrading procedure that so detracts from human dignity and self-respect that it offends this court's sense of justice.'

But for all the concern about Constitutional rights, there has been one aspect of drug testing that has gone largely unnoticed - the unreliable results of drug tests. The Federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta recently conducted a study of 13 laboratories

"mistakes" - they were clear violations of the law. Congress alone has the power to appropriate money to the Contras, and they have also banned the selling of arms to states who sponsor terrorism. Iran has long been on

It disturbs me that the people of this country do not find it highly disturbing that our president feels he only has to respect laws which don't interfere with his policies. There are some who feel that this recent violation of law would have been legitimized had we been successful in freeing hostages. In the not too distant past, people in this country were lynched by mobs who felt that justice could be served by ignoring the laws of the land, namely the Fifth Amendment and due

The U.S. Constitution was built on the principle of separation of powers which specifically limits each branch's power. If we allow Reagan to overstep the bounds of this fundamental principle, we will be setting a precedent for years to follow which dicsenior in political science serving 262 methadone treatment centers in the United States. The FCDC added measured amounts of various drugs to urine samples and then asked the labs to analyze the samples. The results were not encourag-

In various tests involving 11 to 13 labs, only one of the labs detected barbiturates, one detected cocaine, two detected codeine, one found morphine, six discovered methadone and one of the labs detected amphetamines in the samples. The rates of error were comparable to those of other studies. The study also found that labs are often unable to detect drugs at levels called for by their contracts.

What comes as no surprise is that the president is willing to risk the jobs of so many people on a procedure with such questionable reliability. The president's intelligence has always been - well, underwhelming. But what IS rather odd is that so many Americans are also willing to risk their jobs by submitting to degrading and unreliable testing procedures.

Salaries of faculty still distressingly inferior

Although some recommenda- represent a major problem for all to address the problem of salaries at K-State.

Currently, K-State faculty salaries are the lowest in the Big Eight Conference, according to a recent Faculty Senate survey. The Big Eight average is 5.3 percent higher than K-State's. In the 1985-1986 academic year, the average faculty salary at K-State other seven was $33,779.

These low faculty salaries one of faculty as well.

tions made by Gov. Mike Hayden the Kansas regents schools. The in his Jan. 23 State of the State ad- Board of Regents has recomdress are a major step forward mended an 8 percent salary infor the University, some are not crease, and that request is realistic. One was his proposed reasonable. Low salaries are 2.5 percent salary increase for making it more difficult for the faculty. That proposal does little universities to attract and retain quality instructors. If something isn't done soon, more instructors will follow their peers on a money route right out of Kansas.

Hayden made it clear in his address that education would be his top priority. If he is sincere, he should not overlook faculty as part of that concern. We already was $32,074 - the average for the have a "brain drain" of top-notch students. Let's not let it become

Lectures will promote University's offerings spreading mission. Some of the University's most noted professors and researchers will participate in the new Presidential Lecture Series, speaking on a variety of topics at high schools and community colleges across Kansas.

While recruitment would seem the logical motive for the series, Marilyn Trotter, director of New Student Programs and coordinator of the lecture series, said recruitment will be an added benefit.

She said Wefald's primary reason for initiating the lecture may well follow suit.

President Jon Wefald has series is to expose students to started K-State on a wing- learning on the university level. A secondary purpose is to make Kansans more aware of the quality and diversity of resources available at K-State.

> Whatever Wefald's intentions, there is the potential for a related rise in enrollment. If the series results in persuading only a few students to put down the flipping coin and make the decision to come to K-State, the University will avail.

> Wefald should be congratulated for creating the Presidential Lecture Series. As K-State's reputation rises, enrollment figures

Letters

Crowd control plan

Re: "Merchants form 9-point crowd control plan" in Jan. 29 Collegian. I feel that the merchants of the Aggleville area have done a lot of groundwork toward finding an answer to the K-State-University of Kansas football game problem. I would like to give my support to a few of their ideas.

One of the most sensible ideas, and I hope Union Program Council also agrees, is to find an alternative to Aggieville. How about a concert? I know there are quite a few students who can't get to Kansas City or Topeka for concerts. Maybe we could bring a band here.

Another encouragement goes to the K-State administration and student judicial board. Are our penalties tough enough to offenders? In Manhattan's judiciary system, offenders are fined and have to do community services or even jail time. Could we adopt some of these ideas (fines, community time)?

My last thoughts go toward the encouragement of all of us supporting our law officers. We need to acknowledge them in their jobs.

I wish to conclude with a thanks to the Collegian for running Aggieville's story, and encourage the paper to keep us abreast of new information pertaining to this matter.

Tracee Anderson

sophomore in pre-medicine 'Intelligence file'

Re: "Protesters face surveillance, investigator says" in Jan. 28 Collegian. The fact the K-State Police Department deems it necessary to photograph students at protests and demonstrations and then places those photographs in an "intelligence file" upsets me greatly. When a student cannot freely express his or her political views without "Big Brother" looking over their shoulder (and then keeping a dossier on them), that person lives in fear of where that information (i.e.

I would suggest the University do away with this policy, which is an embarrassment to this institution as well as an infringement on the constitutional right of free speech we all have. In the future, the K-State Police Department should concern itself with maintaining order and quit involving itself in the photographs) could possibly end up.

Tonight marks the first sense of sportsmanship. meeting of the season between Leave the chickens at home. the K-State and the University of Surely, they would much prefer Kansas men's basketball teams. to do whatever chickens normal-Based on the intense competition ly do than be thrown to the floor between the rivals and the of Ahearn Field House when caliber of year both teams are Jayhawk players are introduced. having, the game promises to be Also, fans should stifle one of the most exciting matobscenities before they flow from chups of this or any other season. their mouths or from the spray

Fans obligated to act responsibly at Ahearn

While fans should allow this expaint can to the backs of T-shirts. citement to propel the 'Cats to In short, portray K-State in the victory, they should not forget to manner in which you hope it is act responsibly at the same time. viewed. After all, our team This is not an attempt to dash the travels to Lawrence in two enthusiasm of the fans. Not at all. weeks. How do we want to be It is simply an appeal to the fans' treated?

tates that a president is not responsible to the law of the land, which is, in essence, the peo-Sally Gingerich

Disappointing fans

I was very disappointed Saturday afternoon, Jan. 21. Not because K-State did not beat Oklahoma (although I wish they would have) but because of the way some students behaved. I admit I was unhappy with some of the calls made by the referees and, of course, we all want our team to win, but this does not give us the right to behave the way we did.

After the time ran out, many students began to shout obscenities and "give the bird" to the Oklahoma team and its coaches. It is too bad we have a team that is doing so well but fans who are not very sportsmanlike. Not only were we on live television, but there were many young future Wildcats with their parents watching our "good" example.

Maybe next time, we can use our extra energy to let our players know proud of them we are!

I would like to thank the whole basketball team for all the excitement and entertainment that has come along with my season ticket. And also for making me proud to be a Wildcat.

KEEP IT UP

Madonna L. Letourneau junior in elementary education

Greg Brungardt

senior in history

We, the students of K-State, are here to pursue our higher education. With the moral support of our family and friends, we look forward to our graduation.

Unfortunately, that moment could be quite

Mind you, the generality of the diploma applies to both undergraduate and graduate levels. Specifications like Master of Science in Computer Science, Ph.D. in Computer Science, etc., would definitely clarify the field of study in which the graduate has suc-

Since earning a degree is a pretty lengthy process which needs a lot of sacrifices, hard work and determination, I strongly believe specifying the field of study must be in the content of a diploma. Furthermore, each graduate deserves the opportunity to pridefully hang up his/her diploma displaying his/her field of study

Thus I hope the responsible administrators will look into this matter so that they will not be swarmed by prospective graduates about the matter.

Hongyau Chua graduate research assistant, Department of Computing and Information Sciences

Harsh, cruel world

Re: Tom Pittman's letter "Cavalier attitude" in the Jan. 30 Collegian. Of course, Mark Houston's attitude toward abortion is common; it only makes sense. When he referred to the human fetus as a growth of cells, was he not correct? We are all a growth of cells.

Pittman's use of the "intravenous feeding and heart-lung machines" was hardly related to the subject of abortion. I do, of course, feel that the use of such lifeprolonging machines is often ethically wrong, but that is another problem altogether. Majoring in natural resource management, I fail to share Pittman's opinion that people are a natural resource.

In the area of natural resource management, one quickly realizes that the vast number of humans inhabiting this planet is an enormous problem. Our job will be to offer people the chance to experience recreation in the most natural setting possible. With this in mind, I have chosen to implement the infamous latex barrier between my 23 applicable chromosomes and the inevitable uteral scraping that ensues such animalistic behavior. I feel that this justifies my "direct involvement.'

As to your equating the plight of the handicapped, blacks, Jews and the young to the problem at hand, I feel that you may have topped the previous example of intravenous feeding and heart-lung machines. If we want to talk about the opinions of the fetus, what evidence do you have that he/she wants to come out when ready? Why does the newborn cry? Is it the fact that the baby discovers the reality of a harsh, cruel, cold world replacing the comfortable warmth of the womb?

I think Mark Houston does have some religion in his soul. He most likely has some form of sympathy for unwanted children in this society, something which the system and Pittman have no space for. I value life very dearly. I enjoy the challenge that God, evolution or whatever has spread in front of me. I have not however had to endure this 25 years with the feeling that my parents did not want

Kipp Walters senior in natural resource management

EDITOR Jonie Trued MANAGING EDITOR Sue Dawson NEWS EDITOR Erin Eicher

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Deron Johnson PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER

Sheila Hutinett EDITORIAL BOARD: Susan Baird, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Judy Goldberg, Ron Honig, Pat Hund, Deron Johnson, Sarah Kessinger, Judy Lundstrom, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Andy Nelson, Patti Paxson, Julie Reynolds, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued. Unsigned editorials represent the majori-

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 929) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Respect for law

"undercover" activities.

We are taught in this country that we must respect the law. Those who break laws in following their own brand of justice are punished. Thus it disturbs me when the president of the United States comes before our nation and refers to the Iran scandal and related incidents as "mistakes" and "failures." Reagan stated that the government tried something that it felt was in the best interest of this country.

That is a very noble idea. However, if indeed he was referring to attempts to sell U.S. arms to Iran through Israel and divert money to the Contras, these were not sour if one pays attention to the actual words on the diploma. The sourness arises from the very general wording, such as, "so and so has been conferred the degree of Bachelor of Science," Bachelor of Arts, etc. It is very general, with no specifications to the field of study (major) the graduate has been confer-

Sour graduates

Letters

Student assessment

I am writing this letter in objection to the athletic fee the students are going to be saddled with. Sure, it's nice for the athletes that the University gives athletic scholarships. However, I do not feel that we, as fellow students, should have to cover for the athletic department allotting too many scholarships.

I have a hard enough time paying for my own tuition, which I understand is going to be raised, without having to help someone else pay for theirs. I certainly don't benefit from helping out with athletic scholarships, nor does well over half the student population.

I believe the students should have a voice in the matter as a whole, not as a select fee. Nobody is raising money to help me through school, why should I have to help others? It seems that any time there is a need for money somewhere, the answer is always "assess the students." We pay plenty

If there is that much of a deficit in the scholarship fund, perhaps the athletic department should re-evaluate its scholarship program.

Brenda Halinski junior in education

Fork frustration

Editor,

Strolling back from class the other day, my wondering eyes focused on two decaying snowballs. These snowballs had been curiously stationed beside what appeared to be a gigantic fork formed from petrified whipping cream. Many of you know what I'm referring to, but if you don't cruise by King Hall and check it out. Anyhow, I stopped to ponder this white marvel of mankind when I began to wonder...

What is this artsy structure supposed to represent? Is it really just a fork, as it is commonly referred to, and if so, why place it here? Could it be that this spot was once the feasting ground for a tribe of wildcats? That did it, I had to know. I found my stroll had increased to a trot, from there it went to a run and then to a sprint. I found myself bounding up the residence hall steps. My key was ready for the door three flights early. When I got the door of my room open, I dashed for the phone and dialed U-LearN, coat and books still hanging from my body. I quickly explained my dilemma to the volunteer. He suspected it had something to do with the chemistry department and might be the Greek symbol "psi."

He then put me on hold while he called the chemistry department. The time ticked slowly by as I anxiously awaited the answer. 'What! The chemistry department doesn't know? Well, give me the art department's number and I'll try to get through.'

Click went the receiver, beep beep beep beep went the phone and ring - yes, that's right ring - now answer please. Without so much as a hello, I stated my question only to be connected to someone who might know. Again I started my quest, but this time I heard a voice of knowledge.

The gentleman explained that this work of art, as well as most of the art on campus, was created as part of a student related sculpture program 12 years ago. He, however, was unsure what this specific structure was trying to depict. He did say he knew of someone who might know what it was, but I was too distressed to bother.

I clapped the receiver down and stumbled into the hall to express my bewilderment to my neighbors. I stated my dilemma to the first person I saw, who replied, "Why, it's a

"A claw?," said I. "You know, a K-State wildcat claw," said

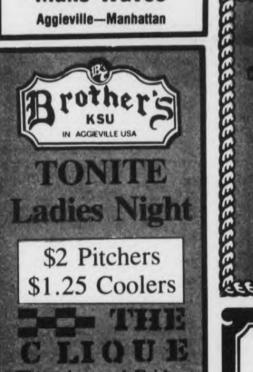

"Ahhhhh," said I. I slept very peacefully that night.

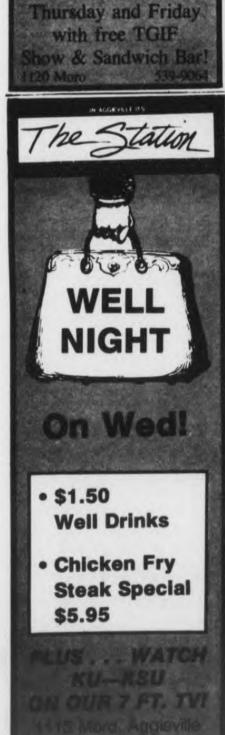

Jay C. Shannon junior in mechanical engineering

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

Aggieville-Manhattan

Books & Copies

4¢ self-service copies •Full service copy center Resume service Denison & Claffin FirstBank Center

776-3771

Drop off laundry service One-day dry cleaning " color T.V. Pool table 2048 TUTTLE CREEK BLVD. 7:30-9 M-F Sat. 8-7 Sun. 8-9

Valentines Feb. 14, 1987 Balloons Cards

Stuffed Animals Candy from

704 N. Manhattan In Aggieville OPEN Evenings and Sundays

Applications Available

Arts & Sciences Council Elections

Eisenhower Hall rm. 116 DUE Feb. 13th

Wildcat Pride!

Before, after, or even during the KSU-KU basketball game, show us your purple and receive a medium soft drink FREE!

"(Offer good Wed., Feb. 4, from 5 p.m. til close) 1219 Bluemont 539-3166 Open Daily at 11 a.m.

Get a copy in red and use it for posters (up to 11 × 17) transparencies, letter head and two tone copies

BLACK

Regular, everyday price + quantity discount

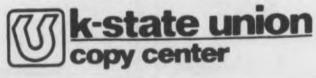

+ no collating charge

MORE SERVICES

including diazo, MERLIN lettering, variable enlargement-reduction, laminating, binding,

ZENITH COMPUTER & IBM "QUIETWRITER" PRINTER

typewriters at no charge Located on 3rd floor of the K-State union open 7 days a week

for STUDENT SENATE COLLEGE of ARTS and SCIENCES

QUALIFICATIONS AND EXPERIENCE:

- *Residence Hall Leadership
- *General Scholarship Committee
- *Concerned. Hardworking and Enthusiastic

Representation *Maintaining Student Control over Fees *Teacher and Classroom Instruction

*Continued Evaluation of Senate

SOME ISSUES HE

CONSIDERS IMPORTANT

ROCKY MOUNTAIN BONKERS

is the place to celebrate after the 'Cats

DISMANTLE

them 'Hawks! TONIGHT

$1.50

WELL DRINKS

Godfather's Pizza Coupon Specials

1118 Laramie In Aggieville by Mini-Mart 539-5303

Now's your chance to satisfy your pizza craving with great savings! Invite the gang over for a Giant 16" special pizza loaded with toppings. Or treat yourself to a delicious Hot Slice™. You'll love the taste, and the savings. But hurry, offer ends soon!

Hot Slice only 99°

Mon.-Fri. 11:30-1:30 Dine-in or Carryout only

Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit. Valid only at: 1118 Laramie

Offer expires 3/15/87.

Good for TWO Giant 16" special pizzas (The Super Pepperoni or The Four Topper) for only $14! Or, ONE for $9!

On Sunday, your choice use this coupon or take advantage of our free drink offer Sorry, can't do both! Not valid with Tapper or other promotional offers. Add $1 for delivery

GODF THERS
WHAT ARE YOU WHATTING FOR? PIZZA

Valid only at: 1118 Laramie / 539-5303

Hot Slice only 99°

Mon.-Fri. 11:30-1:30 Dine-in or Carryout only Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit Valid only at: 1118 Laramie

Offer expires 3/15/87.

Larger GSLs may help fewer students

By TED MCFEETERS Collegian Reporter

Guaranteed Student Loan eligibility changes enacted by President Ronald Reagan in October 1986 could decrease the number of students eligible for GSLs, but at the same time allow those eligible to borrow more.

Of the 5,000 K-State students currently receiving GSLs, as many as 2,000 may no longer qualify to receive a loan of the same size or be eligible for any loan in 1987-88 under the new tightened eligibility requirements, said Christy Crenshaw, associate director for student financial assistance.

Students still eligible will be allowed to borrow up to $4,000 a money for school.

year as compared to $2,500 prior to the changes, Crenshaw said. This change is to cut down on loans not actually needed by students and to allow those who do have a need to borrow an amount that will allow them to attend school for a full

The amount a person receives is based on the financial need of the applicant, she said.

Crenshaw described the changes in GSL requirements as "burden vs. opportunity." For college graduates, it means graduating with a large loan debt that could be a burden, she said. However, the changes provide an opportunity to receive a good education to those who would not necessarily have the

Because the University decides the eligibility of applicants for National Direct Student Loans, the new laws will not affect recipients of these loans, she said

Approximately $19 million in student aid was given to K-State students in 1986-87, she said. When broken down, 33 percent went toward grants and work-study and 67 percent to student loans.

After the projected 1987-88 extrapolations, the University will have about $12.5 million with which to work, she said. Of this amount, 28 percent will be used for grants and work-study and 72 percent for student loans

This situation has raised many questions and issues, one of which is what will happen to the U.S.

economy if college graduates have a debt load that prohibits them from buying homes, cars and other large consumer purchases.

Michael Oldfather, associate professor of economics, said he feels this will not hamper the economy. "Education is an investment," Oldfather said, "and if they service the debt, the purchasing and buying power should not be hampered.' "All of life is a risk and very few people make it without borrowing money," Crenshaw said.

Student loans are an investment toward the future, she said. People borrow money to enrich their lives, and education does that. Crenshaw said the purpose of financial aid is to assist students regardless of their families' financial situation.

Problems will damage Soviets, educator says

By STEVE LAWRENCE Collegian Reporter

The Soviet Union has many social and economic problems that might require sweeping changes by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, said Joseph Hajda, professor of political

"Every single possible problem you can imagine. Gorbachev has had to handle," he said.

Haida spoke to a crowd of about 50 at the International Activities monthly luncheon Tuesday in the Union. There needs to be an overhaul of the Russian economy and society, he Some of the main areas that need to be addressed are social alienation, discipline, alcoholism, corruption, mismanagement, poor planning and economic thought Hajda said the overhaul, which the Soviets call restructuring, will require a great amount of momentum to change. "The image is not good in Russia, and an overhaul is urgent," he said. "Gorbachev is painting a picture of what he wants to do and how he wants to do it.

"If you look at the first three years (under Gorbachev) compared with the officials before him, he is like a ball of fire." Hajda said.

However, to successfully carry out the changes, Hajda said Gorbachev will have to have the support of the general public.

'The Soviet society is a close society, and a sweeping change is a difficult task that requires extraordinary effort," he said.

Hajda said the possibility the general population will completely agree with Gorbachev's changes is Another problem facing Gorbachev is that 18 million of the 19 million members of the Communist Party are people who do not have a great commitment to the party. Instead, they are associated with the Communist party mostly to benefit economically, Hajda said.

The 18 million (members) are not going to be the decisive force to overhaul the problems," he said. "There are three-quarters of a million members who are the government bureaucracy.

If any changes in the Soviet system are to succeed, they will have to be administered over a number of years, he said.

"It remains to be seen if Gorbachev will succeed in an overhaul," Hajda said.

He said that if the transformation of Soviet society does succeed, the question that must be asked is, "Will Vernon C. Larson, assistant provost for international programs, said the monthly luncheon series is open to the public.

THE GUIHRIE THEAT

George Bernard Shaw's

McCain Auditorium

Wednesday, February 11, 1987 8 p.m.

Tickets and Information

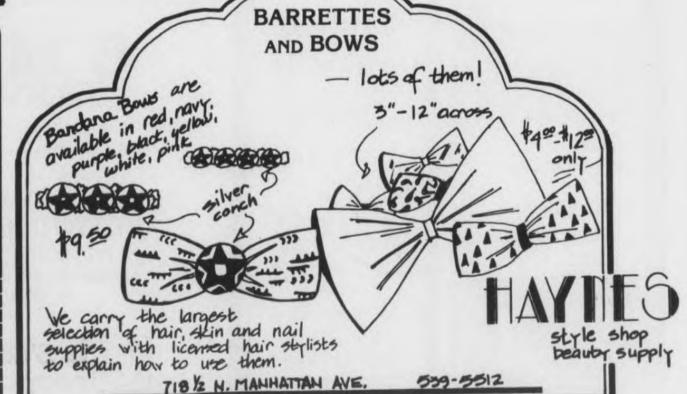

(913) 532-6428

Mastercard/Visa accepted This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and by the National Endowment for the

DEDICATED

Arts, a federal agency.

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Educator argues effectiveness of death penalty

BAKERY SCIENCE CLUB

BAKE SALE

Cookies

Monster

others

Breads

Raisin

Multi-Grain

All varieties of donuts!

Shellenberger Hall, Room 105

Wed., Feb. 4, 3:30-5:30 p.m.

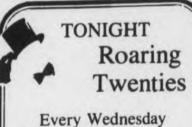

By JENNIFER LINDSEY Staff Writer

"The quality of life in America has sunk to an all-time low, and capital punishment is related to this low," in Putnam Hall. Kingsley, full-time faculty member in the College of Education's Midwest Center for Race Desegregation Assistance Program, told a group of 20 people that he has two reasons for opposing the reinstatement of capital punishment in Kansas. "I think my main reason for opposing the death penalty is moral opposition. I oppose the death penalty, taking a life or killing people in any sense of the word," he said.

The Eighth Amendment to the Constitution states that a person shall not suffer cruel and unusual punish-

 $1.50 drinks Shelled peanuts and popcorn (on the floor, please)

25¢ dawgs Meal of Fortune (win a meal)

4-9 p.m.

Hair Affair

465 E. Poyntz 776-5488

•Haircuts $6.00

Sebastian Products

evenings

AUTO TRIM

Tailor Made Seat Covers Tanneau Covers Boat Covers Convertible Tops Vinyl Tops Complete Auto, Truck & Boat Upholstery 201 Sarber Lane (behind Wal-Mart) Manhattan, Kansas 66502

ment, Kingsley said. "I think it (capital punishment) is cruel and unusual," he said.

The three states with the highest crime rates - Texas, California and Florida - also practice capital punishment, Kingsley said. said David Kingsley Tuesday night ·

In contrast, Iowa has one of the lowest crime rates in the United States and does not have the death

Kingsley said the death penalty does not cause the crime rate to increase. However, having a death penalty does not lower the state's crime rate, as many people believe.

Capital punishment is also morally wrong because innocent people are often executed, Kingsley said. "It's not just a possibility that innocent people can be executed, it's a

Seven thousand people have been sentenced to death in United State's history, Kingsley said. Three hundred and forty-three of them were proven innocent; and 23 of those proven innocent had already been ex-

Kingsley's second main reason for opposing capital punishment is that it discriminates against particular classes, races and unpopular political groups.

For example, about 500 men were executed for rape in 1930 when the United States began compiling statistics, he said. Four out of five of these men were black.

"If you think four out of five rapes were committed by black men, you are sadly mistaken," he said.

"I challenge anybody to name one person of any means of affluence that has ever been executed in our society," he said.

Kingsley said because of the discrimination in the system, capital punishment in America is "almost a human lottery

"Some people are going to make it through the system and some are

"Purple and White" Swirl CONES and CUPS at

Can't Believe It's Frozen Yogurt Stores

(on purple & white swirl cones and cups excluding waffle cones)

TODAY to Everyone Wearing Something Purple!

BRETT

Enjoy the taste of Ice Cream but with one-fifth the fat and half the calories

GO CATS!

We'll be cheering you on to victory against KU

FREE SAMPLES EVERY TIME YOU COME IN

Open 11 a.m.-11 p.m. daily Noon-11 p.m. Sunday 705 N. 11th Nautilus Towers, Aggieville

Town East Center

Walk-ins Welcome

Open Mon.-Sat.

Wed. & Thurs.

GOODSON

Phone 776-7679 Res. 776-7614

Coach Kruger and the students of ICAT invite you to a pep rally and scouting report for the upcoming KU game. Join us . . . Beat KU

> Today 12:30 p.m. Union Courtyard

Rib Eye Steak Dinner (reg. cut)

Includes entree, potato and all you can eat from our Freshtastiks Food Bar including Soft-Serve Dessert. expires Feb. 18, 1987

BONANZA

BONANZA Burger

Includes entree and all you can eat from our Freshtastiks Food Bar including Soft-Serve Dessert. expires Feb. 18, 1987

13

Dining in the Great Outdoors

Woods and mountains are not ideal places to prepare gourmet meals but that does not mean that outdoor fare has to taste like boiled cardboard.

Whether vacationing on the ski slopes or hiking in the wilderness, food is essential to maintaining energy and eating the right kind of food can make outdoor activities more enjoyable.

Many vacationing Americans stop at nearby fast-food restuarants to grab a burger, chicken sandwich, slice of pizza or a bag of fries. However, outdoor trips require planning ahead and more creativity to ensure healthy and well-balanced

The time it takes to buy and prepare snacks and meals before a camping trip will be beneficial in the long run. "Cost is the most obvious advantage, and (the food) can be more nutritious," said Dave Colburn, manager of The Pathfinder in Aggieville. Although the cuisine at most ski resort restuarants is healthy and salt-free, a skier can spend $4 for a hot dog and drink and at least $15 to $20 for a nice meal, he said.

One day of skiing or hiking will burn approximately 4000 to 6000 calories, Colburn said. The human body needs larger meals to replenish the energy lost during outdoor recreation.

"Hiking away from civilization is not a time to diet," Colburn said. A person becomes tired and make mistakes which could result in injuries, he said.

rhohydrate meal ag a hig!

is important. It is ideal to fix a meal high in carbohydrates the night before a day of exercising because the meal is completely digested and ready to provide the body with energy throughout the day.

Carbohydrates are a perfect energy source for refueling the body during outdoor exercise. Another important tip is to drink plenty of fluids to reduce dehydration, Colburn said.

Loss of strength, dizziness, and extreme body warmth similar to a fever are three signs of dehydration a hiker or skier should watch for, he said. While exercising, drink a gallon to two gallons of liquid a day, Colburn said.

"If you're thirsty, (soft drinks are) self-defeating," Colburn said. Drinks high in sugar content block the body's ability to replenish water, he said. Sport drinks, fruit juices and water are good.

Snacking also is an essential part of a skier or hiker's routine. "If you're hungry — eat," Colburn said. Snacking perks up the body, curbs hunger and helps energize the body until the next meal. This minimeal is a great treat if chosen wisely by staying away from foods heavy in sugar, Colburn said. Wise, nutritious foods that constitute high-energy snacks are roasted peanuts, sunflower seeds, dried apples, sesame crackers, peanut butter, raisins and cans of juice.

Other quick energy boosters to munch on include apples, bagels, bananas, carrot and celery sticks and oranges. Bananas and fruits are good for active sports because they have extra minerals, Colburn said.

If a day without chocolate is like a day without sunshine, then sweets also are acceptable. Try choosing a candy bar with raisins or nuts. Raisins and nuts are sources of energy and will give a candy bar some nutritional value.

The secret to cooking in the wild is preparing food in advance. All that is needed for outdoor feasts are the right ingredients. Food and extra ingredients brought from home can be stored in plastic storage bags or a tightly sealed container.

Dried foods are becoming popular and are available in an amazing variety of different meals.

"They're (dried foods) are almost a necessity because wet foods are too heavy to carry," Colburn said. Extra ingredients to consider packing on a trip are grains and pasta, grated Parmesan or Romano cheese (avoid blue cheese, moist and hard cheeses because they tend to get oily after a few days), meat and fish (pack in foil), fruits and vegetables (potatoes, cucumbers, cabbage, carrots, etc.), and sauces and seasonings, Colburn said.

With some experimentation, a person can learn the demands of his or her body under circumstances such as hiking or skiing.

"If you know your bodies, you will understand their needs," Colburn

Well-nourished and well-planned meals can help the vacationer feel better and enjoy the trip to the fullest.

When vacationing outdoors this winter or spring, try preparing these recipes beforehand. This beverage tastes wonderful after exercising in the cold. Cider is a high-carbohydrate beverage. If it is fortified, a good source of Vitamin

HOT FRUIT PUNCH

2 lb. dried fruit mix 3 qt. water 1 cup honey or to taste 8 cinnamon sticks

20 cloves, whole 1 tsp. nutmeg 6 oranges, sliced

6 lemons, sliced 1/2 gal. cider

In a large pot, cook dried fruit with water for 15 minutes. Stick the cloves into a whole orange. Add to the fruit. Combine remaining ingredients. Heat for 15 minutes. (11/2 gallons) "C-FC Band Parent's Cookbook" by Ray Hutton.

Granola and party mixes are excellent energy boosters to help refuel on the trials or slopes. Just fill up a baggie and go.

GRANOLA 4 cups rolled oats 11/2 cups shredded coconut 11/2 cups ground nuts 1 cup wheat germ 1/2 cup sunflower seeds

1/2 cup whole wheat flour 3/4 cup honey

3/4 cup veg. oil 2 tsp. vanilla

Pre-heat oven to 200 degrees. Mix oats, coconut, nuts, wheat germ, sunflower seeds, and wheat flour in large bowl. Heat honey, oil and vanilla. Stir until well blended. Pour over dry ingredients, mix well. Spread in two large greased pans. Bake for three to four hours, stirring two to three times. Store in air-tight container. Makes about 10 cups.

PARTY MIX

4 cups pretzel sticks 4 cups Cheerio's

4 cups Rice Chex

4 cups Corn Chex 2 cups peanuts or mixed nuts

1 lb. butter

2 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce Melt half the butter, add one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Pour this over two cups of pretzel sticks, two cups of each cereal, and a cup of nuts. Mix well. Melt the other half and add it to the remaining ingredients. Mix well and sprinkle with a little salt. Roast in a 200-degree oven for two hours, or until crisp. Stir every 15 minutes.

"Natural Cooking — The Prevention Way" edited by Charles Gerras.

Story by Erin Mulcahy Photo Illustration by Jim Dietz

Committees look for applicants to fill University positions

Facilities will be responsible for directing the operation of more than 350 employees engaged in all phases of maintenance and operation of Physical Facilities, extensive renovation and construction projects, and a variety of campuswide

"The person must be very knowledgeable about facilities and also have a feeling for the academic environment," Rathbone said.

Moreover, the individual should be aware of the University and its services.

By SALLY NEARY Collegian Reporter

Search committees are currently looking for a director of the Fred Bramlage Coliseum, General Manager of University Facilities and Director of Personnel Services.

New appointees for general manager and personnel services director will be replacing Fred Ferguson and Darwin Liverance, respectively.

Liverance will leave K-State Feb. 16 for Auburn University in Auburn, Alab., while Ferguson will retire at the end of May Formed before the end of the fall semester, the coliseum committee has not met yet, said Roberta Flaherty, director of continuing education conferences and committee member.

The coliseum director will be responsible for the total operation of the coliseum, including promotion, personnel finances, maintenance. With a seating capacity of 13,500, the coliseum will be K-State's primary facility for basketball, mass entertainment, conferences and exhibitions.

'The coliseum will be an important resource for cultural, intellectual and recreational activities," said George Miller, vice president for administration and finance.

He said the new director will be responsible for writing appropriate operating policies and procedures, and scheduling entertainment

"It's important to make contact with organizations and agencies involved in touring events" that would want to come to K-State, Miller said. The full-time position will be available July 1, but the building will open October 1988. This will allow the director more than a year for planning and promotion. The position of coliseum director should be filled after the beginning of the next fiscal year, Miller said. The positions of personnel director and general manager of Physical Facilities will be filled sometime in

The six-member search committee for the general manager of Physical Facilities has received some applications for the position and will begin reviewing them next week, said Donald Rathbone, dean of the College of Engineering and committee chairman.

The general manager of Physical needs.

The new manager will control an annual budget of more than $12 million and is responsible for more than 80 buildings on the 320-acre campus. His staff includes two directors, an administrative officer, a financial manager, a maintenance requirements analyst and a maintenance engineer.

After two meetings, the sevenmember search committee for a personnel services director has received 10 applications, said James Coffman, dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine and committee chairman.

The personnel director will have the overall responsibility for providing the leadership and direction for the personnel program. Specific functional responsibilities include employment, position management services, staff training and development, employee benefits and records, employee relations and information management.

Advertisements and letters concerning the availability of the positions have been mailed to other universities, and ads have been plac-

· SOFT-EXTENDED

· SOFT BIFOCAL

WEAR FOR SLEEPING

OR DAMAGED LENSES

taining to each position.

Nominations or applications with resume for all positions must be submitted by March 2.

Fred Bramlage Coliseum - The committee members are: Flaherty; William Stamey, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and committee chairman; Robert Snell, professor in civil engineering; Becky Blake, director of the Convention and Visitors Bureau in Manhattan; John will get the job done! Student Senate

See SEARCH, Page 13

HOWELL

Paid for by students to elect Howell for Senate

College of Arts and Sciences

New rigid gas permeable contact

Introducing

lenses that offer sharp vision, long-term comfort and the convenience of daily or extended wear—to anyone who can wear contact lenses, even those with astigmatism. They are firm and easier to handle than soft lenses and will last longer and save you time and money.

Drs. Price, Young, Odle, and Horsch, P.A. 1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan, KS 66502 (913) 537-1118

537-1118

Drs. Price, Young, Odle & Horsch, P.A.

. FAST REPLACEMENT OF LOST

Optometrists

All Types of Contact Lenses

• SOFT-TINTED TO ENHANCE YOUR EYE COLOR

SOFT FOR ASTIGMATISM

• FLEX-OXYGEN PERMEABLE FREE CONSULTATION

PAYMENT PLANS AVAILABLE 537-1118

1119 WEST LOOP PLAZA

Welcome Basketball Fans!

Come to scrumpdillyishusland pdillyishusland Dairy Queen treats
ter the game. ntil midnight.

een Brazier

o Aggieville
d Manhattan

Open 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.
Til Midnight Fri. & Sat. for all your favorite Dairy Queen treats before and after the game. We're open until midnight.

Dairy Queen Brazier 12th & Moro

1015 N. 3rd

Til Midnight Fri. & Sat.

Feb. 12

CONTEST

starts 9 p.m.

Come out and strut your stuff

THE THE WALLES

Sign-up begins today!

Sign up in Call Hall, Waters Hall and the Union to show in the

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL

an All-campus Livestock Showmanship Contest

Entry Fee $4.50

Show Date: March 28

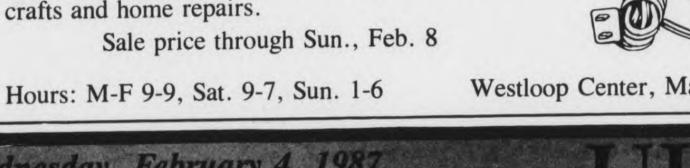

Class B Private Club Open Daily 1 p.m. Three miles East of Manhattan Hwy. 24 539-4989

enforces perfection

Reg. 18.99

Heavy Duty Glue Gun. Ready in 3 minutes . . . twice the glue capacity of other guns! Great for crafts and home repairs.

Westloop Center, Manhattan

Wednesday, February 4, 1987 For more information on any UPC event, call 532-657

GET INVOLVED ON CAMPUS WITH THE UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

Volunteers Wanted: Individuals interested in serving for the '87-'88 year as committee chairs to coordinate social, recreational, educational and cultural programs for the benefit of the KSU community. Union Program Council is a student volunteer organization consisting of approximately 100 students who select, plan and promote 500 programs (films, trips, entertainers and more) each academic year. UPC is broken up into nine committees: Promotions, Travel, Special Events, Outdoor Feature Films, Eclectic Entertainment, Arts.

JPC Executive Council, sits on the Union Governing Board, coordinates events and activities that involve the total UPC membership. Our PRESIDENT-Presides over

ARTS-Coordinates Union Art Gallery exhibitors, print sales, art rentals, the Arts and Crafts Sale, the Photo Contest and Mid-Day Art ECLECTIC ENTERTAINMENT-Provides the best in live entertainment, professional comedians, singers and student entertainment ISSUES AND IDEAS-Selects, organizes and publicizes lectures highlighting current events or popular topics of interest. Organizes the "Let's Talk About It" series. KALEIDOSCOPE FILMS-Selects and publicizes innovative, artistic and international films on Wednesdays and Thursdays in the Union. They also show weekend matinees and

OUTDOOR RECREATION-Offers a wide variety of outdoor-related trips and programs based on a "cooperative wilderness adventure" structure TRAVEL—Coordinates and publicizes trips for the K-State community. Sells an International Student I.D. card and maintains a Travel Resource Center FEATURE FILMS—Selects and publicizes popular films every Friday and Saturday night in the Union. They also show weekend matinees and midnight films SPECIAL EVENTS-Selects, coordinates and publicizes desired events or activities that do not fall under another committee area, including dances, the Activities Carnival. 'Late Night at the K-State Union' and some types of live entertains PROMOTIONS—Deals with the visual image of the entire council. Pastes up Collegian ads. Publishes the "Programmer" calendar and other publications to promote UPC.

Applications for Leadership (Committee Chairs) are available in the Activities Center, 3rd Floor of the K-State Union. Deadline is 4 p.m. this Friday, February 6.

> k-state union program council

For the past ten years, James Petersen has been writing "The Playboy Advisor" column. He has given advice to millions of readers of Playboy magazine. Every month, "The Playboy Advisor" receives an average of 500 letters on topics ranging from food and wine, to dating etiquette and, of course, love and sex. Mr. Petersen's lecture is informative, witty and always controversial. In addition, the audience is invited to submit their questions to "The Playboy Advisor" in advance. The lively question and answer session, an event in itself, always results in packed auditoriums. Send your questions (anonymous, if you wish) to:

> "Playboy Advisor" Activities Center 3rd Floor K-State Union Manhattan, KS 66506

or look for the box marked "Playboy Advisor" in the Activities

Then, come to the lecture, February 23 and you might get an

JAMES R. PETERSON

the PLAYBOY ADVISOR

This Swedish film stars Ingmar Bergman in a stunning allegory of the search for the meaning of life.

THE SEVENTH SEA

Today, 7:30 p.m., Forum Hall, and tomorrow, 3:30 p.m., Little Theatre & 7:30 p.m., Forum Hall. $1.75, KSU ID Required, Unrated.

GREGORY HINES BILLY CRYSTAL RUNNING SCARED

Come see Gregory Hines and Billy Crystal star as a pair of fast-talking crime-fighting cops who thrive on chasing bad guys and dodging bullets on Chicago's mean streets.

Friday, February 6, and Saturday, February 7, 7 & 9:30 p.m., all shows in Forum Hall. $1.75, KSU ID Required, Rated R.

CROSS COUNTRY SKIING February 14, 1987 Noon-5 p.m. Warner Park, Manhattan, KS

13.50 Includes ski rental, refreshments, and how-to demonstration by an experienced instructor. Sign-up continues in the Activities Center, Union 3rd Floor, through February 12, or until all spaces are filled.

Commission decides favorably on 3 Quality of Life issues City confirms park improvement measures Board approves pool, Linear Park projects

By RICHARD BROADFOOT Collegian Reporter

Three proposals for the improvement of Manhattan's park system have received final approval from the Manhattan City Commission.

The Commission approved the plans for the Cico Park and Northview swimming pools as well as a master plan for the Linear Park project at Tuesday night's meeting.

The Linear Park project, which received preliminary approval by the Manhattan Parks and Recreation Board Monday night, consists of a series of pedestrian and bicycle trails that will eventually encircle the city. Due to its enormity, the project has been divided into phases that the city plans to tackle one at a time.

Plans for Phase 1 of the project were presented by Ken Brooks of the Land Design Collabrative, Manhattan. Phase 1 consists of construction of a trail running atop the river levies from South Manhattan Avenue to Casement Road.

Construction is expected to begin in mid-March. Further phases will begin as additional land for the project is acquired.

Construction at the Cico Park and Northview pools is also expected to begin in mid-March. The Cico Park pool is expected to be completed late this summer, and it is hoped the pool can be completed in time for a short swim season.

The existing Northview pool will be renovated this spring and summer while the pool is in use.

In other business, the commission has declared Feb. 8-14 as Vocational Education Week in Manhattan.

The special week has been set up to recognize the Manhattan Area Vocational Technical School. Activities for the week include tours of the facility by area middle and high school students, and an open house from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Tuesday,

The school's director, Bill Berry, was on hand to accept the proclama-

The commission also declared February 1987 Bust Multiple Sclerosis Month in Manhattan.

Ladenna Russell, senior in biology, accepted the proclamation on behalf of Students Against Multiple Sclerosis.

SAMS is planning activities on and around campus throughout the month, including a balloon launch and a lip sync contest.

A proposal by Donovan M. Kundiger to purchase five acres of cityowned property in the Manhattan Industrial Park was sent to the city manager's office for price negotiations. A request that the property be divided into smaller plots was given tentative approval. Kundiger plans to resell the property to small businesses planning to locate in Manhattan.

A prposal to enter negotiations with the Riley County Health Board for a city/county animal control and shelter program was also approved.

A large valentine was presented to the commission on behalf of sixthgrade students at Seven Dolors Elementary School. The valentine is to be displayed in the lobby of the ciBy The Collegian Staff

The Manhattan Parks and Recreation Advisory Board has approved measures that will allow construction on Manhattan's Quality of Life project to begin in March.

Plans approved at Monday night's meeting were for the Cico Park and Northview swimming pools as well as Phase 1 of the Linear Park pro-

The plans for the swimming pools, presented by Ken Ebert of Ken Ebert Design Corp., Manhattan, call for the construction of a new pool at Cico Park and extensive renovation of the existing Northview pool.

Cico Park will have an olympicsize swimming pool with 3- and 1-meter diving boards. Also included will be a wading and instructional pool that will feature a large fountain. Concession and changing areas are to be housed in a sky-lit bathhouse.

The Northview pool, after renovation, will be barely recognizable from its present form. The bathhouse will be more than doubled in size, and the pool and deck areas are to be radically remodeled. The wading pool will also double in size and will feature a small waterfall.

Phase 1 of the Linear Park project involves the construction of a pedestrian and bicycle trail that will follow the river levies along the south and east borders of Manhattan. The trail, made of crushed limestone, will be about 412 miles.

Later phases of the project may include trails that will eventually encircle the city. This proposed trail system will connect nearly all of Manhattan's Park and Recreation facilities, including City, Griffith, Cico and Warner parks. Manhattan Town Center, K-State, the East Industrial Park and the Tuttle Creek river pond area will also be included in the trail system.

Completion of the Phase 1 of the Linear Park project is set for midsummer. The swimming pool projects are expected to be completed by late summer.

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt

that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

dlabal feltner general dentistry

J. DENNIS DLABAL, D.D.S. BRITT C. FELTNER, D.D.S.

- · Evening and Saturday
- appointments available We see emergencies
- Next to campus

'We cater to cowards'

(and other people, too) 537-8484

SAFEWAY

222 N. Sixth 3011 Anderson (Village Plaza)

New Store Hours 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. 7 days a week

Half-Price Sale

Guy's Potato Chips..... 6.5 oz. bag

Golden Delicious Apples 39¢ lb. Swift's Brown & Serve Sausage . . 79¢ 8 oz. pkg.

15¢ Tomato Soup. Townhouse 10.5 oz. cans

59¢ Ohse Wieners..... 12 oz. pkg.

ATTENTION 1987-88 SENIORS

Applications for BLUE KEY SENIOR HONORARY are available in Anderson Hall, Room 122 and are due by 4 p.m. Friday, February 6

QUESTIONS? PROBLEMS? CONCERNS? OPINIONS?

A DIRECT LINE TO YOUR STUDENT SENATOR Mon.-Fri. 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Catch

1445 Anderson Avenue

Double Cheeseburgers

1/4 lb. Polish Sausage or 1/4 lb. Hot Dog

no limit

All Specials Good Through Sun., Feb. 8

Student's design wins K.C. landmark contest

By KELLY LAMBORN Collegian Reporter

The mission: develop renovation plans for a "shell of a building" in the Kansas City, Mo., River Quay area. Turn the basement and first floor of the 1891 historical landmark into retail spaces. Design the remaining three floors as studio and loft apartments.

Last semester, 15 K-State students in the Interior Architectural Design Studio V accepted this challenge.

"The design five studio has two areas of emphasis: renovation projects, where students work with existing structures, and projects dealing with buildings in a historical context," said James Dubois, assistant professor of interior architecture.

Dubois said the River Quay building, located north of downtown Kansas City and south of the Kansas River, matched the emphasis of the course. In addition to concentrating on interior renovation, the students developed exterior renovation plans to keep the building facade intact.

The design project was completed in two phases. During the first three weeks, students interviewed the building's owner, Mel Mallin, in Kansas City before making drawings, gathering measurements and researching local and state building and safety codes, he said. Students spent the rest of the semester developing their renovation design.

Each student made a three-minute presentation to Mallin and a "jury" of three professional architects in Kansas City in December, Dubois said. A slide show featuring all of the designs and individual conferences with judges followed.

Mallin awarded Chad Moor, senior in interior architecture, $100 for his first-place design. Second place and $50 went to Sharon Beaver, fifth-year senior in interior architecture. The remaining 13 students each received a $20 gift certificate for the Union

Bookstore, Dubois said. "I tried to include as much potential activity and light in my design as possible," Beaver said.

Dubois said Mallin plans to hire an architecture firm and have the firm incorporate the best student ideas to develop the final renovation plan.

Mallin is renovating the building in an attempt to revitalize the River Quay area and has already renovated another building.

K-State got involved in the project when Mallin contacted George Thompson, director of College of Architecture and Design/Kansas City.

This "branch office" of the College of Architecture and Design opened in January 1986, Dubois said. The center conducts seminars for Kansas City architects, offers design classes and serves as a contact point for potential students.

"The college design center increases K-State's visiblity in the Kansas City area," Dubois said.

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

We have shaped ice cream cakes for your special Valentine

537-7079 1439 Anderson

Chiropractic... For the HEALTH

New Location

Call 537-8305 Dr. Mark Hatesohl 3252 Kimball Ave.

Aggieville location returns to family

By JUDD ANNIS Collegian Reporter

Like father, like son, Greg Taylor is setting up shop exactly where his father did 23 years ago.

By the end of February, Greg and his wife, Faith, are planning to open a full-service bakery at 1217 Moro St. The building was most recently the site of Country Ritz, but has since been sold back to part of the Taylor family.

"When I was a kid, my dad owned a laundry there called the Spic-N-Span laundry," Greg Taylor said.

Greg Taylor, a 1979 K-State graduate in restaurant management, is currently working on his ment. A Manhattan native, Greg gained experience with restaurants by working for McDonald's for 10 years, and by starting EeGee's Restaurant & Ice Creamery in Ag-

"The possibilities with this type of business are endless. For a long time I worked for McDonald's and everything was so cut and dried, and that's the only way you did it,' Greg Taylor said. "It's so much more fun being in a business where you're flexible. You can do anything you want."

"We'll have, among other things, a pie-in-the-eye special," Faith Taylor said. "This will be a pie shell full of meringue, which we will not deliver for obvious reasons. For one thing, I can't run that fast."

"Other neat little surprises will include anatomically correct ginger bread people, sold in pairs, and tea time for two with a pot of tea and goodies in the afternoon," Faith Taylor said.

"We call it a full-service bakery as opposed to just having doughnuts because we hope to do a lot of custom orders and decorated cakes as well," Greg Taylor said.

"We would like to put tables outside in the summer because a lot of people like sitting and eating outside," Faith Taylor said.

"We won a trip to New Orleans from McDonald's and one of the we were there was to sit outside at the Cafe Du Monde and eat French Beignets (a type of French pastry). We're going to try to build that sort of thing in the afternoons with the environment down in Aggieville."

Although construction within the store is still going on, the Taylors said they have already named their

"We plan to name it the Queen of Hearts," Faith Taylor said. "Some friends gave us an antique plate, and it has the queen of hearts in a baker's cutfit carrying the tray of tarts. The plate has the poem on the side of it, and that's where we took the name.

Wichita Family Planning Inc.

Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services

Free Pregnancy Testing

Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours.

3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

LAFEMME (GYN/FAMILY PLANNING) CLINIC

Available Services:

- *Birth Control Information & Prescriptions
- *Pregnancy Counseling & Referrals
- *Pregnancy Testing
- *Routine Gynecological Exams
- *Self Breast Exam Instruction
- *Sexuality Information
- *Sexually Transmitted Disease Information (must come into clinic to make appointment)

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"Your Medical Facility"

VOTE FOR:

GARY HEADRICK

STUDENT SENATE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Sponsored by the Committee to Elect Gary Headrick

If you need abortion or birth control services, we can help.

Comprehensive Health can help with free, confidential pregnancy testing and safe, affordable abortion services by qualified physicians. We offer birth control, gyn exams and treatment for sexually transmitted diseases.

No age requirement. We accept insurance, as well as VISA and MasterCard. A Kansas licensed facility, Comprehensive Health has been providing quality health care to women since

Comprehensive Health Associates

4401 West 109th (1-435 & Roc) Overland Park, Kansas

For information and appointments (913) 345-1400

PREGNANT? NEED HELP? For confidential help, call

Mae's Parlor

103 S. Fourth 537-9180

WEDNESDAY

BLENDED DRINKS

$1.00 DRAWS

GREEN HAWKER PUNCH

AGGIEVILLE

HOUSE DRINKS $1.50

$2.00 WINE

75¢

$1.00 616 N. 12th

539-9967

Sandwich Shop

•13 Varieties of Submarine Sandwiches •Grilled Philadelphia Steak Sandwiches 12th & Moro . Aggleville DINE-IN . CARRYOUT

BALLOONS TO BUST MS

Get involved in "BUST MS" Month throughout February. Your chance to win a trip for two and more prizes. February 5 at 3 p.m. - at the island between the Union and Seaton.

$1 tickets available at the SAMS table in the Union.

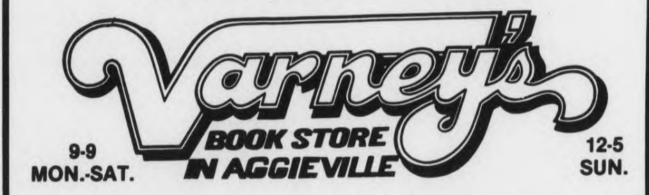

Rockalike contest applications available at the contest and in the SGS office. Contest is Feb. 28.

RECORD—TAPE SALE

Now In Progress!

CLASSICAL ROCK FOLK JAZZ COUNTRY

Records start as low as $1.98! Cassette tapes as low as $2.98!

On the edge of campus, in the heart of Aggieville.

'What A Unique Valentine!"

Publish Your Love Notes

This year The Collegian has a way to make Valentine's Day extra special!

We're offering onecolumn-by-two-inch Valentine ads for only $6 each, complete with art, a border and your special sentiments!

The Valentines will run in the Friday, Feb. 13 Collegian. For more information and to place your order stop by the table in the Union Thursday, Feb. 5 or Monday, Feb. 9, or come to Kedzie 101 before Feb. 10!

MID WEEK COMMUNION

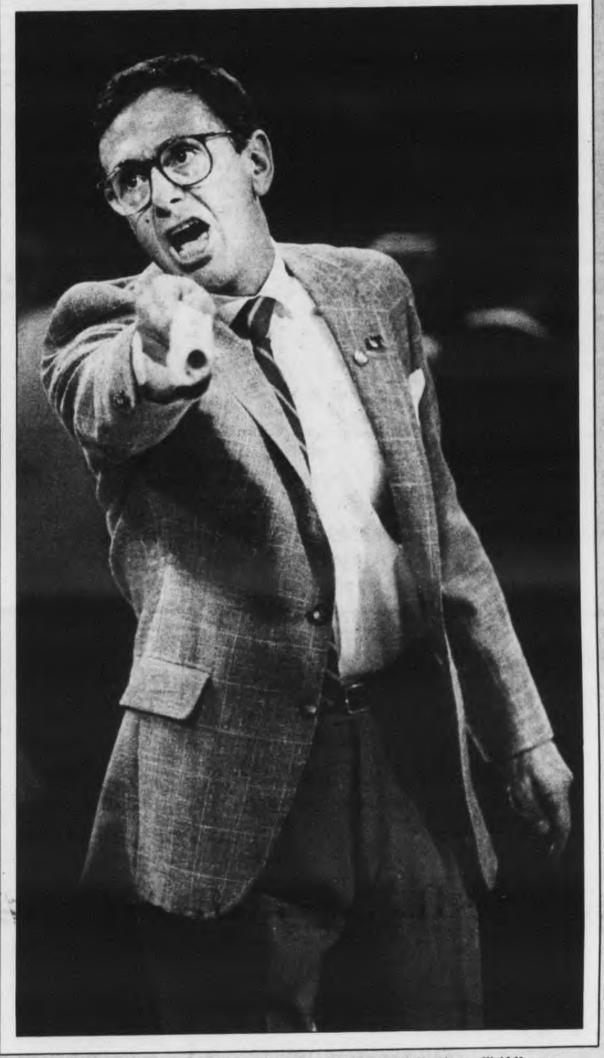

JOIN US ON WED., FEB. 4 AND FEB. 18 FOR COMMUNION AT DANFORTH CHAPEL

The Presbyterian Church (USA), The United Methodist Church, The United Church of Christ, The Church of the Brethren

TODAY AT NOON

K-State head coach Lon Kruger will try to end University of Kansas mentor Larry Brown's eight-game winning streak against the Wildcats when the pair battle for the first time tonight in Ahearn Field House.

It's the opening round: Kruger vs. Brown

By JENNY CHAULK

Sports Writer

Kansas Coach Larry Brown, in his fourth season at KU, is 8-0 against K-State. That's three wins in Manhattan, three in Lawrence and two victories in postseason play.

This is the same coach who last season took KU to its first Final Four appearance since 1978 and guided the Jayhawks to their first Big Eight Conference regular season championship since 1978.

But Brown has yet to face K-State's version of "Mr. Basketball" — Lon Kruger, who is writing his own success story in his first season at Manhattan.

Kruger's Wildcats will try to put the skids on that eight-game losing streak against Kansas tonight at Ahearn Field House. The 8:05 p.m. contest will be televised on the Raycom Sports network and will be broadcast worldwide on the Armed Forces Radio Network.

To beat the Jayhawks, ranked 18th by The Associated Press, the 'Cats will need much-improved play over what was exhibited in their weekend loss to Missouri. K-State shot a mere 33 percent from the field in a 68-64 loss.

"We didn't play well at all," Kruger said. "We're going to bounce back and play well after that. The kids are anxious to get back on the court."

KU, 15-5 overall and 5-1 in Big Eight Conference play, slipped by the defending national champion Louisville Cardinals Saturday at Louisville, 62-58.

"I'm just proud of all the kids," Brown said. "We try awfully hard. We've been playing a lot of freshmen lately."

Two of Kansas' five freshmen were instrumental in the Jayhawks' win over

Keith Harris, a 6-foot-5 forward, replaced sophomore Mark Pellock in the lineup after Pellock received a broken nose courtesy of Louisville's Pervis Ellison. Harris led the Jayhawks with 15 points, while freshman guard

Kevin Pritchard added 14.

"Pritchard and Harris are playing well for them," Kruger said. "KU is really good in the transition game, and they are starting to play with much better confidence. We'll try to slow them down a little bit offensively."

Other probable KU starters include second-team All-Big Eight guard Cedric Hunter and forwards Chris Piper and second-team All-American Danny Man-

Manning, last season's Big Eight Player of the Year, leads the Jayhawks in scoring and rebounding, averaging 21.2 points and 9.6 caroms per game.

"He's (Manning) a great player and he's hard to stop," Kruger said. "But you have to be careful not to give so much attention to him that you make their other players better."

Probable starters for the 'Cats are guards Will Scott and Steve Henson, forwards Mitch Richmond and Norris Coleman and center Charles Bledsoe.

Brown has tremendous respect for K-State's attack.

"(K-State) has brought in some super kids — Bledsoe, Scott and Richmond — who have done a great job," Brown said. "Usually, it takes a little while for them to make the transition from juco ball. Henson's done a tremendous job at the point, which is a tough position no matter how old you are.

"Norris is a tremendous player. Any time you have a player like that, you are going to do well. If we're ranked, they certainly should be," Brown added.

K-State, 14-5 overall and 4-2, received only five votes in this week's AP poll. Last week, the 'Cats received 18 votes.

"We'd like to be in better shape than we are now," Kruger said. "We'll just have to concentrate hard on the games ahead. It's always great to play KU. The excitement and build-up is always special."

Kruger said it is unlikely center Ron Meyer, who is recovering from a bruised thigh, will play in the game. Guard Lynn Smith, who missed the Wildcats' last four games, "will be able to go," Kruger said.

NOTES: The last 'Cat victory in the series, which KU leads 126-82, was in 1983 when K-State won 70-63 in Lawrence... 'Cat guard Will Scott leads the Big Eight Conference in four categories: free throw percentage (88.9), three-pointers made (50), three-pointers made per game (2.8) and three-point field goal percentage (59.5). He is second in the nation in field goal percentage, behind Stephen F. Austin's Eric Rhodes (64.6)...Pellock will wear a mask to guard his broken nose and will see action against the 'Cats.

Fans don't have to be vulgar

K-State vs. Kansas. Need anyone say more?

The bitter intrastate rivalry; the invasion of Manhattan by those hated Jayhawks is Wednesday in Ahearn Field House at 8:05 p.m.

To say there is enthusiasm for this contest would be a gross understatement. Granted, things have changed since Oct. 18, when the football Wildcats downed KU, 29-12, in KSU Stadium. After the football team's 17-0 loss to Division 1AA opponent Northern Iowa, a win against Kansas was the only feasible solution to salvaging the season.

But both K-State and KU are faring well on the hardwoods, clipping along with 14-5 and 15-5 records, respectively.

respectively.

The coaches have taken different attitudes to the Sunflower State battle. While football coach Stan Parrish made clear his emotions with his "I hate KU" comments, both K-State basketball coach Lon Kruger and Kansas' Larry Brown have treated the issue with kid gloves.

TOM MORRIS Sports Editor

Kruger doesn't excite easily, and sports writers aren't apt to find the first-year 'Cat coach full of humorous anecdotes, as they might with North Carolina State's Jim

And Brown has been in the Big Eight Conference long enough to recognize the importance of this game, but also realizes the sun will still rise the next day if K-State happens to snap its eight-game losing streak against the 'Hawks Wednesday.

But to the fans, this is The Game. This year's Game, by the way, will attract even more attention than usual since — in addition to being televised by the Raycom Sports Network — it will be broadcast worldwide on the Armed Forces Radio Network.

"I'll say a million people will watch or listen to this game," said Larry Travis, K-State athletic direc-

The Game has been a sellout for quite some time now, but this doesn't diminish the fact that rabid Wildcat fans have flocked to the gates of Ahearn Field House in numbers well above last year's average.

"Ahearn is back and rocking again. It brings back pleaseant

See FANS, Page 13

K-State, Oklahoma is a big deal if one considers all of the details

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER Sports Writer

K-State's Lady Cats will challenge the Oklahoma Sooners in Ahearn Field House tonight before the big Kansas-K-State men's

No big deal, right?

Wrong, especially when one takes into consideration all of the details concerning the game:

First of all, both teams face somewhat must-win situations to maintain position near the top of the Big Eight Conference standings. Nebraska, which K-State defeated earlier this season, leads the Big Eight with a 5-2 record. The Lady Cornhuskers are followed closely by five other teams, including Oklahoma and K-State, at Second, the Sooners soundly defeated the Lady Cats, 70-47, earlier in the year in Norman, Okla. So, needless to say, K-State has a matter of revenge to settle.

— There are other factors as well, such as K-State has not defeated Oklahoma in two years and the Lady Cats will put their perfect 9-0 record at home on the line. Also, the K-State women will attempt to stop its current twogame losing streak.

Lady Cat Coach Matilda Mossman doesn't like to think of Wednesday's matchup as a mustwin, but does admit the game is an important one.

"We talk about this at the beginning of every year," Mossman said. "The key to winning the Big Eight is winning at home, so in that sense we need to win to maintain our position."

Even though the Lady Cats have lost their last two ballgames — a 75-67 loss at Oklahoma State and a tough 78-74 loss at Missouri — Mossman said her team is still playing well playing well.

"We still played extremely well, but it was just a matter of being on the road and getting things to go our way," Mossman said. "We continued to shoot the ball well and

See LADY CATS, Page 13

Experts join department head in efforts to better products

By BILL LANG Collegian Reporter

Experts from around the world team with Kenneth Klabunde, head of the Department of Chemistry, to experiment with catalysts - the ultimate in high tech efficiency - in an effort to create improved and more versatile products, from metals to plastics to fabrics. To get an idea of how catalysts work, Klabunde said to imagine the atoms in a piece of metal as marbles in a glass jar.

Only the marbles visible from the outside of the jar are useful. The marbles inside the jar that cannot be seen are not useful unless they are removed from the jar.

During a catalytic conversion, all the marbles are taken out of the jar and placed on a flat surface where they can all be used.

are doing with metals - finding innovative ways to use all the atoms, thus improving the metal.

"Catalysts are involved in so many processes in this country that about 20 percent of our gross national product is dependent upon them," Klabunde said. "The making of fabrics, the conversion of crude oil to gasoline and other fuels, the making of plastics and all kinds of products

This is what Klabunde and his staff like paints and many others are dependent on catalysts."

Used in crude oil refining, catalysts have helped to keep the price of gasoline down by making the product more efficient. Catalysts allow refiners to take heavy, dirty crude oils and convert them to cleaner-burning fuels like gasoline.

In addition to being more efficient, the fuels are also much more economical. Catalysts have similar efficiency roles in hundreds of other products from plastics to fabrics.

In Klabunde's research, efforts are made to improve the strategic metals used in catalytic conversions or to find a substitute for them.

"That might mean using platinum more efficiently or finding substitutes for it," Klabunde said.

However, the catalysts in use are now dependent on strategic metals like platinum, which is very hard to obtain. The reason for the difficulty of obtaining the metals is because they are found in only two countries, South Africa and the Soviet Union.

"What makes our research unusual is we start with the atoms of the metal," Klabunde explained. "Using platinum as an example, we evaporate platinum at high temperatures, then separate it into its basic components - the atoms. Then we trap those atoms on supports - structures that can trap the atom and hold it there.'

Klabunde has a patent on metal vapor chemistry work he has done with cobalt metal, and he is preparing a patent application for his platinum work.

"We've developed some new ideas that may lead to improved products in the future," Klabunde said. "This laboratory conducts basic research, and it is up to private industry to pursue the knowledge to the point of pro-

"The potential is there to make billions of dollars, but industry would have to spend millions to develop the technologies," added Klabunde.

There is evidence the interest may be there. Several major companies are closely watching the results of Klabunde's research.

Klabunde's work has resulted in a constant stream of mail from scientists around the world who want to come to K-State and study in his lab.

A shortage of American scientists involved in this high level of chemistry means Klabunde must select many foreign personnel for his laboratory staff.

Klabunde said there is some concern about giving away America's high technology secrets and getting

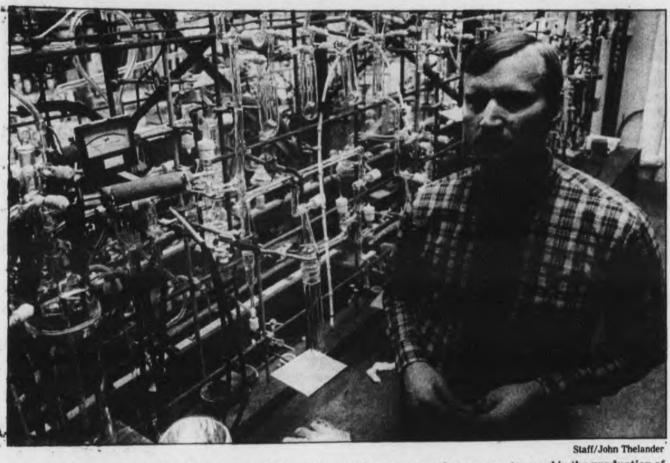

"We select from several applications each week," Klabunde said. 'We try and select only those who can bring new knowledge to exchange for the training we'll give

"We are both (Klabunde and the foreign entourage) trying to learn from each other," he added. Two people who are sharing their knowledge are Professor Vagif Akhmedov from Baku State University in the Soviet Union and Fazlul Hoq, graduate student in chemical science from the University of Pittsburgh, via Bangladesh. "We are in the same field, and when I started reading some of Klabunde's literature, I wanted to work with him and share some of my

See CATALYST, Page 13

Kenneth Klabunde, head of the Department of Chemistry, stands near a metal vapor reactor used in the production of catalysts - the ultimate in high tech efficiency - used to create improved and more versatile products.

36 Days Til Break

- ★6 Private Tanning Rooms
- ★Using Wolff Bulbs
- ★Body-Cooling Fans For Each Bed

10 Sessions for $25

(Offer expires Feb. 8)

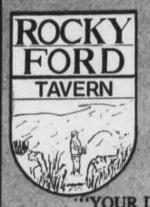

776-7874

1214C Moro (behind Aggie Ski & Sport)

INTRAMURAL POWERLIFTING MEET

Thursday, Feb. 12 at the Rec Complex

Entries taken today through Feb. 6 in the Rec Services office DEADLINE: Friday, Feb. 6 at 5 p.m.

TONIGHT $2 Pitchers

On Tap

Coors Light-Budweiser-Old Milwaukee Light

OUR DISCOUNT BEER BARN" Go North on Tuttle Creek Blvd. then on the back road to the Rocks

The Finest Little Tavern by a Dam Site!

Sign up in the SGS office and attend one of the following meetings:

★Sunday, Feb. 8th, 4 p.m. Union Big 8 Room

★Monday, Feb. 9th, 6:30 p.m. Union 206

The Fone Crisis Center is an agency dedicated to helping people through their tough times; sometimes, this means suicide intervention. To do this, we need volunteers.

> PLEASE HELP! Attend Volunteer training Sat., Feb. 7, 9 a.m. Union Stateroom #3 Call 532-6565 to register A Life May Depend On It!

537-3133

ANHATTAN

Manhattan Area Vocational Technical School

OPEN HOUSE Tues., Feb. 10, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

Manhattan Area Vocational-Technical School invites you to attend an open house to view the latest in modern training

Vo-Tech provides training and technical assistance to combine education, industry and business for the betterment of student and community

The week of February 8-14 is National Vocational Education Week. Come see what we have to offer.

3136 Dickens • Manhattan, KS • (913) 539-7431 • 1-800-358-3079 •

College Lazer Tag Leagues Now Forming Have your group or organization form a team TODAY!

3, 5, or 7 member teams

Open competition 4:30-7:30 Sat., Feb. 7

Contact: Star Systems 913 S. Washington, Junction City 238-1774

An arena now exists to play the game of the future!

AVOID A DUI IN ONE EASY STEP

Call a cab.

537-2080

is our number and we'll get you home safely after the game with absolutely no cost to you within the Manhattan city

Paid for by city of Manhattan Special Alcohol Funds

B.A.D.D.

Take This Coupon To Wendy's

ALL YOU CAN EAT SALAD BAR SPECIAL

412 N. 3rd Street

3006 Anderson

We'll be on campus February 17

Qualified college students are invited to meet with us and explore the career opportunities ... the innovative technology ... the industry leadership that is Motorola's Semiconductor Products Sector. Engineering and other professional openings exist for:

Electrical Engineers Mechanical Engineers Physicists Computer Scientists Chemical Engineers Materials Scientists Finance and Materiels Specialists For more information, stop by your College Placement Office or write to Manager. College Recruiting at the appropriate address below.

Arizona Opportunities Motorola's Semiconductor Products Sector 725 South Madison Tempe. AZ 85281 (602) 994-6812

Texas Opportunities Motorola's Semiconductor Products Sector 1112 W. Ben White Blvd., Suite 200 Austin, TX 78704

An Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer

Search

Continued from Page 8

Keller, professor in regional and community planning; Cornell Mayfield, director of Human Resources of Manhattan; and Steven Johnson, junior in agricultural economics and student body presi-

University Facilities - The committee members are: Rathbone; Helen Cooper, management analyst II in facilities planning; Robert Dahl, professor in architectural engineering and construction science: Dick Hayter, director of the Division of Cooperative Extension; John Moore, assistant vice president of administration and finance; and Jack Watson, physical plant supervisor III in Physical Facilities.

Personnel Services - The committee members are: Coffman; Sally Vander Velde, personnel officer I in Personnel Services; Thomas Frith, director of the Department of Housing: Kurt Feltner, associate director of agriculture experiment stations; Reba Snavely, personnel officer II of Physical Facilities; Luann Ingersoll, library assistant II in Farrell Library; and Veryl Switzer, assistant vice president of educational and student services.

Disposal

Continued from Page 1

A similar bill was introduced in the Senate a week ago and two other proposals have been submitted in the House to limit the location of radioactive waste disposal facilities. The Legislatures of Nebraska and Arkansas also are considering measures to withdraw from the compact.

The five states signed the compact agreement in 1982 and hired an environmental consulting firm to identify areas in the region suitable for a disposal facility capable of holding 5 million cubic feet of low-level radioactive waste.

LIFE and Cintrs

CECIL ... THIS IS

IT. MY FIRST

TAXIDERMY

PROSECT

A host state is scheduled to be named by January 1988 and the final version of the second-round exclusionary study is due out later this month, officials said

Other bills introduced today would:

- Lower the annual interest rate charged on delinquent taxes from 18 percent to 14 percent.

Make the addition of foreign material to any grain that is intended to be sold a felony offense, punishable by up to five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

Require all security guards hired by the Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services to become certified by the Kansas Law Enforcement Training Center by Ju-

Catalyst

Continued from Page 12 knowledge and learn some of his knowledge," Akhmedov said. "I wrote him telling that I was going to be in the United States. I mentioned that I wanted to see his studies and then I decided to apply for a position on his staff.

"I like what I'm doing, but I still have a problem with my English," Akhmedov said.

Hog came by a different route than that of Akhmedov. Hoq left his native country of Bangladesh to come to school in America, earning his bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh.

"I came here because the chances of me succeeding are much better in America," Hog said. "The chances of getting into a university in my country are very small.'

However, Hog heard about Klabunde's experiments the same way Akhmedov did. "I started reading some science journals, and it was very interesting to me. I applied (to work in Klabunde's lab), and now I am working toward my Ph.D."

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

by Doug & Dick

GOOD MORNING CLASS. KNEW THAT MY DESTINY OUR PROJECT BEGINS WITH GUTTING AND - SKINNING . WARDING OCCUPATION...NO -SCALPELS AT THE READY!

Bloom County

By Berke Breathed

I'VE BEEN WAITING

FOR THIS DAY EVER

SINCE I FIRST SAW

THE MOOSE HEAD THAT

STUFFED TO

FOR MOM'S

BIRTHDAY

I LOOKED AT IT AND

WAS THE RICH AND RE-

ARTFORM, STALL

OF TAXIDERMY.

Garfield

By Jim Davis

eanuts

59 Feudal

DOWN

1 Labels

2 Border

3 Skeletal

4 Examines on part

5 Raged

7 Fabric

8 Violent attack

of gray

sword

9 Shade

10 Fencing

11 Marsh

grass

6 Biblical vessel

colorists

flunky

16 Wry face

20 High note

cousin

friend

25 One who

27 Ear-like

projec-

29 Piece out

32 Horse

34 Deline-

37 Crude

39 Place

ated metal for a stone?

30 - Buttons

shelters

makes revolvers

23 Sen.'s

24 French

By Charles Schulz

(i) 1987 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

APARTMENTS Leasing for June •Studio, 1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments and Townhouses

539-4447

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword

38 Obtain

40 Played card

41 Teasdale

43 Enemy

45 Distinct

part

52 Armed

47 Palm off

51 Seed coat

vessels

54 Appraise

55 Scotch mist

oath

Saxon

letters:

57 Anglo-

var.

58 Finale

56 Early

the first

ACROSS 1 Like a tightrope

5 Unhappy 8 Teen follower 12 Competent

13 Endeavor 14 Stage extra: colloq.

15 Popular TV western 17 Dagger

18 Fixed part in a dynamo

19 Tapered 21 Total 22 Turn on a pivot 23 Joplin

opus 26 Deep sea shocker?

28 Change 31 Aussie birds 33 Bomb that bombed' 35 "[1] Romance 36 Kind of pony

Solution time: 24 mins. 42 Debate COB MOA

44 Form of lyric 45 Filly's mom 46 Part of q.e.d. 48 Paddles 49 "The Man' 50 Italian noble house 2-4 53 Footed vase Yesterday's answer

49 55

CRYPTOQUIP

58

2-4 LXBE

LGBRITBGR DCFE

MGUDB IXBUG MCRI (G B

RJGB TJRBGR CGB Yesterday's Cryptoquip: ACCORDING TO CONFI-DENT AMMUNITION MANUFACTURER, "BUSINESS IS BOOMING.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: F equals N

Fans

Continued from Page 11

memories," Travis said. But for approximately two short hours Wednesday, Manhattan will be the focal point of worldwide attention. And Travis, the Collegian and myself have a message for those fans attending tonight's festivities.

"We want the students to be as enthusiastic and as supporting as can be. That is the personality of Ahearn," Travis said. "People don't want to come here and play.

In fact, K-State's athletic department is considering installing a noise meter similar to the one shown on national television during the Oklahoma-North Carolina State clash Saturday at Raleigh.

So, Wildcat fans, make noise. Be as loud as you want - just don't be abusive or vulgar.

"We want people to think that we plaints because some people have had problems getting a clear view of games. It's not rotten seating, it's because of fans who stand the entire

Travis also said he's received com-

class act."

K-State's AD is not asking 'Cat fans to tone down their act or to even take a seat. Travis said a feasible solution would be for the fans who want to stand should stand on the footboards instead of seats. Just a simple case of respect for the fans in

"Bob Uecker territory. In other words, in light of the Aggieville incident in October following the last KU-K-State clash, this is a chance for the University to regain some respect.

There is a difference between visibly supporting a team and acting like a horse's derriere just to get attention.

ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month. Gas. heat.

Call 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (89-98)

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage

west of KSU. Available now $425. Call 539-4294 (78tf)

LARGE, WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five blocks

NEAR KSU, quiet, clean, one-bedroom, furnished

from campus. No pets. $275. Call 776-0181. (91tf)

laundry, air conditioning, parking. Available June 1. Call 776-7814 or 539-3803. (85-104)

TWO-BEDROOM-two blocks from campus, $230.

ONE-BEDROOM-one-half block from campus

FURNISHED, SPACIOUS two-bedroom, nicely deco-

ONE-HALF BLOCK from campus, one-bedroom, fur rated. Dishwasher, disposal Short-term lease available. No pets, $300 deposit required. 539-nished apartment. $220, bill paid. Call 537-7313 or 539-8401. (90-94)

ONE-BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Put-nam Hall, 1310 N. Manhattan, $210. Call 539-7521

THREE-BEDROOM, one and one-half bath in a nineplex. Available June 1. Living/dining area and fully equipped kitchen. Water and trash paid. $125 each

LARGE TWO-BEDROOM, partially-furnished base

Phone 235-3550, Topeka. (91-100)

collect, (816) 765-0153. (91-95)

FOR RENT-HOUSES

FOR SALE-AUTO

(90-93)

6 p.m. (91-93)

FOR SALE-MISC

ment apartment close to campus, 1411 Vista Lane. Own entrance, no pets, parking for two cars. Deposit plus rent, available now. Pay own electricity.

MOBILE HOME for rent. Utilities paid, washer/dryer.

Mature student or married couple, no kids, no pets, non-smoker. $225/month, unfurnished. Call

NICE, ONE-BEDROOM apartment. Water, trash, two-

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294

HREE BEDROOM, near City Park, available immediately, 776-0605 or 539-4226, (91-95)

1986 FORD F150 4 x 4, 351 V8 4B, supercab. Low

TOYOTA PICKUP, 1984, clean, excellent condition.

five-speed, long bed, topper, 776-0529 (87-93)

1978 HONDA Civic, front wheel drive, backwindow defroster, new tires, brakes $900/offer 539-6990.

MUST SELL: 1978 Buick Regal limited, loaded and

1978 FORD Fiesta-Great m.p.g. Call 776-1930 after

VW-RED 1970 Bug. New paint and tires. Runs good! Wamego 456-7654 or 456-9989 (91-95)

SUN N

CONNECTION

NOW SELLING

5 sessions

for $15

1126 Laramie 776-2426

REFRIGERATOR, MID-SIZED, great for dorms. $110

LIKE NEW, ladies leather and quilted coats, new Ba-

STETSON COWBOY hat, size 71/4. Reasonably or best offer. Call Phil, 776-7794. (88-92)

priced. Call 537-4689 after 6 p.m. (90-94)

very sharp. Must see to appreciate 776-3835 (90-

mileage. Best offer, 539-7409. (81-91)

thirds gas paid. $260/month. Nice for couple or graduate student, 539-2482 after 4 p.m. (91tf)

our, $150 each for three. 822 Fremont, phone

Call 539-1349. (88-92)

1465. (89-108)

or 776-7045. (90-94)

537-7087 (90-94)

$210. Call 539-1349. (88-92)

water included. Lease and deposit required have a first-class group of students here," Travis said. "When the fans act abusive, it makes them a second-

Lady Cats Continued from Page 11 play good defense, we just didn't get the breaks we needed. However, Mossman is hoping that a return to Ahearn Field House will help her Lady Cats turn the tables on the Sooners, who had a relatively easy time of things in the first meeting between the two.

'Down there (in Norman), we didn't shoot the ball that well, and we gave up a lot of easy baskets. We got outscored by 20 points just in layups," said Mossman, who is in her third season at the K-State helm.

Oklahoma, along with having an explosive transition game, also boasts a powerful inside game. The Sooners' front line consists of three seniors, all more than 6 feet tall, and all average more than 11 points per game.

assifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15: Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless client has an established account with Student Publi-Deadline is noon the day before publication:

noon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised

FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555. Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour prod-ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-118)

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski desti-nations. South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauder dale, Mustang Island/Port Aransas, Galveston Island land and Fort Walton Beach. Call Sunchase Tours Central Spring Break Toll Free Hot Line today for information and reservations-1-800-321-5911!

SPRING BREAKERS: Don't forget, Daytona Beach sign-up party, Wednesday, February 4 at 6 p.m. at Brother's, More information—Tom, 539-5499, (91)

02

03

ATTENTION

CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry. Need 100 overweight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drags, no ex-ercise. 100% guaranteed. Call 776-5114 or 776-

HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT distributor. See us for products. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS!! Overcoats, field jackets, camouflage clothing, wool gloves and socks, cold weather boots, Carhartt workwear, much more!! Just 28 miles east on highway 24. Open Monday-Saturday, 9-5. St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437-2734 (86-95)

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

Buyyells

Correctable typewriters for rent on a daily, weekly or monthly basis. See us for all your typing needs. 776-9469

511 Leavenworth, across from post office FOR RENT, two-bedroom mobile home, $200 month plus deposit. 537-7622. (85-93)

FOR RENT-APTS

MONT BLUE

Close to campus

TWO-BEDROOM apartments, furnished or unfurnished, (new furniture). Westloop area. Call 776-9124. (90tf)

Lee's Western Wear Clearance Sale

1/2 REGULAR PRICE (21/2 Miles E. Hwy. 24) 776-6715

OVATION UK-II Stereo Electric guitar, $500 with tuner. Kustom II powered four-channel mixer with speakers, $175. Sharp dual cassette deck and BSR 10-band equalizer, $100 and $75 or $150 for both. Prices negotiable. David or Michael, 537-1770. (90-

Hayes House of Music DOD Effects 30% Off 776-7983 327 Poyntz

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08 1981 14 x 70 Detroiter, Excellent condition. In a nice park. 239-3708 or 539-7308 Monday-Friday-evenings. Ask for Carol. (91-95)

13 HELP WANTED EARN $480 weekly-$60 per hundred envelopes stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed for company project stuffing envelopes and assem-

bling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to JBK Mailcompany, P.O. Box 25-52, Castaic, California 91310. (76-102)

AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer. Career! Good pay. Travel. Call for guide, cassette, newsser vice! (916) 944-4444 Ext. #58. (76-135) THE KANSAS Cooperative Extension Service has an opening for student computer programmers. The position is for 20 hours per week, flexible schedule. Applicants should be familiar with one of the following languages: Pascal, C, or PL/I. Summer employment is a possibility depending on performance. For more information contact Dr. Steve Welch or Mary Knapp at 211 Umberger, phone: 532 7019. Application blanks are available from the above individuals or in the Computer Science Office and will be taken during business hours through February 6, 1987. (83-92)

WANTED: COUNSELORS, riding and waterfront instructors (WSI and lifeguards). June/July 1987, live in, camp setting. If interested in an interview on March 4, contact Career Planning and Placement Center. (89-93)

fort research. $10 for 2-hour test. Sign up at the Institute for Environmental Research, basement of Seaton Hall, enter room 64. (91-93) RIP AND Mo's is now accepting applications for waiters and waitresses, bartenders, door person nel, and cooks. Apply in person at Ray Enterprises. 1203 Laramie, Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-noon, or 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. (90-93)

RESORT HOTELS, cruiselines, airlines, amusement parks, now accepting applications. For more infor mation and an application; write: National Colle giate Recreation Service, P.O. Box 8074, Hilton

RESIDENT CAMP Director—minimum age 25. Resi dent camping experience necessary. Send resume to Camping Services Director, Wichita Area Girl Scout Council, 2009 N. Woodlawn, Wichita, Kan sas 67208. EOE. (91-92)

6531). EOE (91-92) NEED SOME cash on the side? Home workers needed to stuff envelopes. Earn as much as $480 weekly-$60 per hundred, guaranteed. Send self addressed, stamped envelope to BF Mailing Company, PO. Box 1762-1, Manhattan, KS 66502 before

LOST LOST WOMEN'S gold watch and three gold brace lets at Tuttle Lake on February 1st. Please call 532 3423. (90-91)

NEED MONEY for college? Let us match you with scholarship and grant money for which you can qualify. For more information write Student Finan-Aid Services, 1613 S.W. Chelsea Drive, Topeka

VW REPAIRS done right the first time J & L Auto Service, 1-494-2388. Drive a little and save money (86

PERSONAL

PIPHI PAULA — You were almost too late, your tactics I didn't appreciate. My name's not Bob and I don't drive a Saab, but I'll go with you at any rate - Party Favor. (91) EX-60 SILVER Reed typewriter. Best offer. 539-7409.

MALE ROOMMATE across street from campus at dryer, fireplace. $135/month, plus utilities 776-9369. (84-93) NONSMOKING FEMALE—large house, sundeck.

month, 539-6628. (86-95) RESPONSIBLE MALE to share two-bedroom house in Keats (8 miles west of Union), $100 deposit, $100 rent, one-half utilities, 539-8541 after 7 p.m. (87-91)

MALE ROOMMATE to share four-bedroom apart-ment. Own room, washer and dryer, close to cam-pus and Aggieville. $137.50 plus one-lifth utilities. Marlene — 539-2356. (89-93)

Offstreet parking. Laundry. Campus two blocks. Inquire at 539-9304. (90-94) OWN ROOM, close to campus, $125 month 539-tiable. Call 539-0112. (90-103) HOUSEMATES TO share beautiful new townhouse Fireplace, private patio, three-bedroom, baths. Rent negotiable. 776-3191 or 776-8005. (91-apartment. $150/month, plus utilities. Call 537-9555. (91-101)

nancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25, (1tf)

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf) EXPERIENCED TYPIST-$1.10/page. Disc storage letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537-9205, Dorinda. (89-98)

by Appointment

9:30-5:30 Monday-Saturday

308 Poyntz 776-4535 TYPING/WORD processing. Data sheets, resumes den. 539-1204. (90-99)

tions, Resumes, Theses, etc. Call Caron at 532-6294 or 776-2279 (86-95) READY FOR graduation? We compose/type re-

SUBLEASE SUMMER SUBLEASE-three-bedroom, one and

WANTED: A few good KSU men to share a unique experience. The re-organization of Alpha Kappa Lambda. Room 207, K-State Union, 7 p.m., February 3 (87-91) BABY-SITTER HAS an opening for weekdays for a child 18 months or older. Free, nutritious meals

Call 776-2382. (90-92)

SUBJECTS NEEDED, females only, for thermal com-

PART-TIME help. Ag background helpful. Apply Nelson Poultry Farms, East Highway 24 or call 776

Head, S.C. 29938. (91-101)

RESIDENT CAMP Counselors - A variety of post tions available at Girl Scout Camp Wiedeman Contact Camping Services Director (316-684-

16 February (91-95)

15 NOTICES

KS 66604. (82-91)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17

1230 Vattier, Ground floor, private room, washer washer/dryer. Utilities paid, own room. $175/

FURNISHED TWO-bedroom apartment $165/month

9343 (90-94) ROOMMATE-TO share three-bedroom house, own room. Close to campus. Rent $125/month or nego-

varian china, bisqueware, finished ceramics and paperbacks. 776-1861. (89-91) FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share basement

> 18 SERVICES PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg

> > Courtesy Demonstration

MERLE NORMAN

letters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Bur QUALITY TYPING at economical prices. Disserta-sumes, data sheets and letters. Resume Service, 1211 Moro, Aggieville. 537-7294. (89-91) 20

5379. (91-95) WANTED 21

one-half bath, close to campus, $465. Call 776-

e coupons

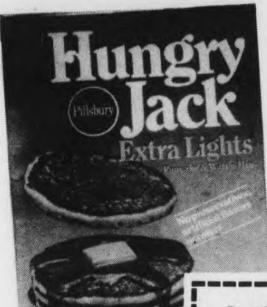

Double Your Savings On All Manufacturer's "Cents Off" Coupons Up To And Including 50¢ In Value.!

-Bonus Special-

24 oz. Btl.

Food Club

-Bonus Special-

32 oz. Box

Pilisbury Complete

Regular Or Buttermilk

Additional Purchases

Limit One Box With Coupon

Limit One Coupon

Per Customer Please.

Coupon Good Feb. 4-10,

1987. Coupon Not Included

In Double Coupon Program

32 oz. Box Regular or Buttermilk Pillsbury Complete

Pancake Mix

With This Coupon

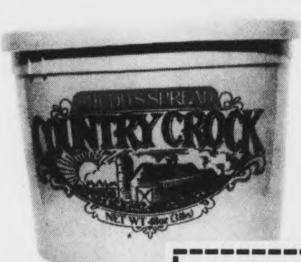

Super Conbony

Limit One Btl. With Coupon Limit One Coupon Per Customer Please. Coupon Good Feb. 4-10, In Double Coupon Program

24 oz. Btl. Food Club Syrup

With This

Coupon

-Bonus Special-

3 Lb. Tub

Country Crock Spread

Additional Purchases $149 3 Lb. Tub

Super Conbour

Limit One Tub With Coupon. Limit One Coupon Per Customer Please.

Coupon Good Feb. 4-10,

1987. Coupon Not Included

In Double Coupon Program.

3 Lb. Tub Shedd's Country Crock Spread

-Bonus Special-

89¢ 24 oz. Btl.

Sausage

Regular, Hot or Bacon

Additional Purchases 99¢ 16 oz. Pkg.

Emba Conbour

Limit One Pkg. With Coupon Limit One Coupon

1987. Coupon Not included

Coupon Good Feb. 4-10,

Farmland Sausage

16 oz. Pkg., Hot or Bacon

With This Coupon

With This Coupon

-Bonus Special-

7-Up, Diet 7-Up, RC, Diet Rite, Cherry RC. Diet Cherry RC

"Book Of The Week" From The New York Times Best Seller List... Suggested Publisher's Retail____$18.95 "Windmill Of The Gods"

By Sidney Sheldon

-Bonus Special-

Shampoo & Conditioner Milano, Cypress, Capture, Ember Musk Or Siam 12 oz. Btl.

-Bonus Special-

From Our Seafood Shoppe...

-Bonus Special-

Orange Roughy Fillets

-Bonus Special-

From Our Deli & Cheese

Shop...
Hot Dogs, Hot Links, Polish Sausage

Ready To Eat-Fully Cooked

Hershey Candy And Granola Bar Bonanza!

-Bonus Special-

Milk Chocolate, Almond, Krackel, Mr. GoodBar, Rolo, Kit Kat, Whatchamacallit, Reeses Pieces, Skor, Grand Slam, Reese Peanut Butter Cup, Regular or Crunchy, Kisses, Granola Bars, Peanut Butter, Cocoa Creme, Almond Butterchip or Cookles'N Cream

Mix or

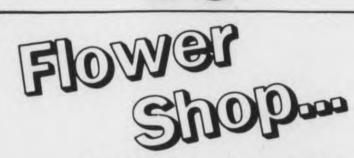

Take home a fresh salad tonight! Make it right in the store at our new self-service Salad Bar. We have over 40 ingredients to choose from, including 5 Marie's salad dressings. Take the chill off a cold day & warm yourself & your family with some of our fresh hot soup from the Salad

Available Only In Stores With Salad Bars.

Salad Bars Not In These Towns: Salina, Dodge City, Emporia, Hays, Wellington, Augusta, Pratt, Arkansas City, Greensburg, El Dorado, Winfield, Larned, Derby, Mulvane, St. John or Sterling.

> Prices Effective Feb. 4-10, 1987. (Ad Not Effective in Pittsburg, Ks.) Limit Rights Reserved.

Free Deliveries On Minimum Orders Of $12.50 Or More Within Our Delivery Area. No Minimum On Hospital Deliveries.

-Bonus Special-

Good Show

Deni Good was selected as a finalist for the University/Resident Theatre Association national auditions at Northwestern University. See Page 3.

Light Snow

Snow likely this morning becoming partly sunny late in day, high 35 to 40. Total snow accumulations of 1-2 inches possible.

Touy. Loss

The University of Kansas Jayhawks pull out a double overtime victory over the Wildcats, 80-75. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Thursday

February 5, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 92

U.S. increases Mideast force

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A second amphibious force of Marines continued to sail eastward in the Mediterranean toward a flotilla of U.S. warships stationed off the coast of Lebanon on Wednesday as the White House sought to dampen speculation that a military strike was in the off-

Pentagon officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said 1,900 Marines aboard five ships that left Spain on Tuesday would link up with U.S. forces already in the area by Friday.

The sources also disclosed the Navy force already on station is slightly larger than previously thought - including 21 warships, three Marine amphibious ships and four ammunition and oiler support vessels - and that several smaller warships had moved to within 50 to 100 miles of the Lebanese coast.

The sources said the main aircraft carrier battle groups were maintaining a standard patrol farther out to sea. The carriers Nimitz and Kennedy were conducting routine air operations with their jet fighters remaining in the skies over the carriers and not venturing toward land.

reporters he could not rule out the possibility of a military strike, but he went out of his way to discourage talk of such action.

"I can't speculate on any future course of action," he said. "We always do have substantial forces in the area but I would urge (you) not to speculate along those lines. Over the past two weeks, the Pentagon has marshalled its battle force in the Mediterranean in response to rising tensions in the Mideast and new hostage-takings in Lebanon, repeatedly describing the moves as only precautionary.

Fitzwater, when asked about rumors of military action if any hostages were killed, replied: "I would urge a little downgrading of the speculation in that area. Our forces are there on what in many ways is normal activities and opera-

"The forces are there to protect our strategic interests and to support our friends in the region," he added. "But we would not urge you to jump to any conclusions about any military activities."

The arrival of the Marine's second Mediterranean Amphibious Ready Group, or MARG, will bring to eight the number of amphibious ships in the region with roughly 3,800 spokesman Marlin Fitzwater told Marines aboard, the sources said.

0

The intrastate battle between K-State and the Jayhawks brought out the Downes Wednesday in Ahearn Field House. The sellout game had fans on narketing and Dennis the brink of a Wildcat win but the Jayhawks were victorious, 80-75.

The

- R ... should be the daily companion of anyone who enjoys pizza, pasta, deli salads and, for that matter, anyone who enjoys eating at all. ?? - Thyme Magazine
- R Very, very good. Their dictionary feeds the mind, whets the appetite and tingles the tummy. 🤧 - Anchovy Illustrated
- ?? A winner. Fascinating. . . simply delicious. . . and so easy to use. This excellent dictionary should go off to college with every freshman. ?? - The Manicotti Guardian
- Captures the reader on the first page. An incredible dictionary that's great to curl up with on those cold winter evenings. ?? - Judith Crust
- The best delivery dictionary available. Period. ?? - N. Webster
- Yeah. That's the ticket. >>

- Anonymous

Ristorante

NOW USED IN THOUSANDS OF HOMES AND OFFICES

Described by many as the Italian Food Delivery resource, the Valentino's Delivery Dictionary has become a vital tool for hungry, winter-weary folk at home or in the office. This handy reference guide features over thirty mouth-watering entries. plus hundreds of other tasty combinations—and how to order them. Just choose your favorite items from the menu and pick up the phone. Valentino's will deliver them hot to your door.

Good Show

Deni Good was selected as a finalist for the University/Resident Theatre Association national auditions at Northwestern University. See Page 3.

Weather

Light Snow

Snow likely this morning becoming partly sunny late in day, high 35 to 40. Total snow accumulations of 1-2 inches possible.

Touy. Loss

The University of Kansas Jayhawks pull out a double overtime victory over the Wildcats, 80-75. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Thursday

February 5, 1987

Volume 93, Number 92

U.S. increases Mideast force

By The Associated Press

Kansas State University

WASHINGTON - A second amphibious force of Marines continued to sail eastward in the Mediterranean toward a flotilla of U.S. warships stationed off the coast of Lebanon on Wednesday as the White House sought to dampen speculation that a military strike was in the off-

Pentagon officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said 1,900 Marines aboard five ships that left Spain on Tuesday would link up with U.S. forces already in the area by Friday.

The sources also disclosed the Navy force already on station is slightly larger than previously thought - including 21 warships, three Marine amphibious ships and four ammunition and oiler support vessels - and that several smaller warships had moved to within 50 to 100 miles of the Lebanese coast.

The sources said the main aircraft carrier battle groups were maintaining a standard patrol farther out to sea. The carriers Nimitz and Kennedy were conducting routine air operations with their jet fighters remaining in the skies over the carriers and not venturing toward land. presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater told reporters he could not rule out the possibility of a military strike, but he went out of his way to discourage talk of such action.

"I can't speculate on any future course of action," he said. "We always do have substantial forces in the area but I would urge (you) not to speculate along those lines.'

Over the past two weeks, the Pentagon has marshalled its battle force in the Mediterranean in response to rising tensions in the Mideast and new hostage-takings in Lebanon, repeatedly describing the moves as only precautionary.

Fitzwater, when asked about rumors of military action if any hostages were killed, replied: "I would urge a little downgrading of the speculation in that area. Our forces are there on what in many ways is normal activities and opera-

"The forces are there to protect our strategic interests and to support our friends in the region," he added. "But we would not urge you to jump to any conclusions about any military activities."

The arrival of the Marine's second Mediterranean Amphibious Ready Group, or MARG, will bring to eight the number of amphibious ships in the region with roughly 3,800 Marines aboard, the sources said.

Staff/Greg Vogel

Guide to the Dictionary

Listed below are the most commonly used terms, in alphabetical order, that apply to the delicious world of Valentino's Delivery. Please refer to them for all the pertinent information you'll need. And remember...like all reference tools, the Valentino's Delivery Dictionary works best when you use it on a regular basis. Enjoy!

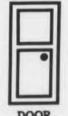

ad-dress (ad' res) n. The location at which you are (usually home or office) when Valentino's delivers your order (see door).

cold (kold) n. A condition of low air temperature outside, making it more desirable to stay inside your home and order a meal from Valentino's.

de-liv-er (di-liv'er) v. -ered, -ering, -ers. 1. To take to the intended recipient. 2. The act of Valentino's putting a delicious meal on your table.

dis-claim-er (dis-kla'mer) n. Limited time to take advantage of a great money-saving Valentino's coupon.

door (dor) n. The entranceway to your home that opens when the Valentino's delivery person arrives with your piping hot order.

hun-ger (hung'ger) n. A strong desire or craving for mouthwatering Italian food, best satisfied by ordering Valentino's (see menu) in-gre-di-ent (in-gre'de ent) n. Something added or required (mainly quality) in all of Valentino's recipes.

mon-ey (mun'e) n. What you save when you take advantage of Valentino's coupons.

or-der (or'der) v. To call the phone number listed at the bottom of the menu (see next page) and request your food selections for delivery.

phone ('fon) n. Instrument on wall or table that transmits urgent requests for pizza. pasta and salad to Valentino's.

quality ('kwal et e) n. The Valentino's commitment from our kitchen to your home.

Valentino's (val en 'te noz) n. (see quality, variety, menu, hunger, ingredient) variety (ve 'ri et e) n. The quality or state of having a menu that offers many mouthwatering, Italian choices (see menu).

Val-en-ti-no's Men-u n.

A listing of the Italian dishes to be delivered for your dining pleasure. Order a complete meal! Choose from delicious salads, award-winning pizza, exquisite pasta and sauces, beverages and tempting desserts (see below).

Double Crust Deluxe Pizza

Valentino's newest pizza. Mouthwatering double crust pizza pie stuffed with cream cheese, sausage, cheese, mushrooms, Canadian Bacon, pepperoni. onion and green peppers. Baked to perfection. Small only

(See other double crust pizzas below) Baked Primavera Casserole

Calling all veggie casserole lovers! Special pasta noodles blended and baked with cheese, cauliflower and broccoli. Individual . $4.50 Family $6.75

PIZZA

Hamburger • Onion • Pepperoni • Shrimp Mushroom • Italian Sausage • Canadian Bacon Ham . Anchovy . Black Olive . Green Pepper Green Olive . Tomato & Cheese . Pineapple MINI SMALL MEDIUM LARGE (4 pieces) (6 pieces) (8 pieces) (16 pieces)

SINGLE INGREDIENT $6.00 $7.80 $10.10

SPECIAL PIZZA (Hamburger, Sausage, Ham, Pepperoni, Mushroom) $3.50 $7.40 $9.70 $12.10

VAL'S SPECIALTY PIZZAS

(BBQ, Meatball, Cheeseburger, Taco) $3.50 $7.40 $9.70 $12.10 Please add for each additional ingredient $.50 $.80 $1.10 $1.40

DEEP DISH AND DOUBLE CRUST Double Crust available in small size only

Single Ingredient $6.80 $ 8.90 $11.50 $8.20 $10.80 $13.50 Please add for each additional ingredient: $.50 $.80 . $1.10 $1.40

Fresh Deli Salads	Pint
Macaroni & Cheese	$1.95
Spinach Noodle & Salami	$2.50
Cole Slaw	$1.95
Six Bean	.$1.95
Sliced Potato & Egg	.$1.95
Spinach Pasta
Pistachio Nut

BEVERAGES

Large 32 ounce.....$.99

PASTA

Lamba beaught out the Downes Wednesday in Ahearn Field House. The sellout game had fans on

SPAGHETTI, MOSTACCIOLI, RAVIOLI Individual Family Meatless (with sauce)......$2.95 $3.95 Meatless (with mushrooms) ... $3.95 $5.50 Heavy meat sauce......$3.95 $5.50 Heavy meat sauce and mushrooms......$4.10 $6.30 Meatballs......$3.95 $5.50 Extra Meatball.....$.65 each

BAKED LASAGNE AND MOSTACCIOLI CASSEROLES

Individual Family Meatless (with sauce)......$3.90 $5.95 Meatless with mushrooms$4.50 $6.75 Heavy meat sauce......$4.50 $6.75 Heavy meat sauce and mushrooms......$5.10 $7.55 Val & Zena Casserole....$5.30 $7.95 BAKED MANICOTTI

	Individual
Meatless (with sauce)	$4.25
Heavy meat sauce
Heavy meat sauce
and mushrooms	$5.35

SALADS

Individual Family Creamy Italian, French. 1000 Island, Italian.....$1.50 $2.95 Creamy Bleu or Dry Bleu$1.95 $3.25 Insalata.....$2.25 $3.95 Spinach Salad.....$2.50 $4.50 Garlic or Cheese Roll.....$.75 Salad Bar (build yourself)....$2.40 $3.95

ITALIAN SANDWICHES

Italian Sausage.....$2.95 Meatball.....$2.95 Hot Combo.....$2.95

Dessert Pizza

Top off your order with a treat! Special flakey dessert crust with a fruit topping. Small $3.95 Medium.....$5.95

CALL FOR DELIVERY OR TAKE-OUT

Fort Riley, Building 2600 Annex #2, NCO Club 784-2400

Manhattan 3019 Anderson 537-4350

Junction City 1016 West 6th 238-6101

cou-pon n.

A detachable part of a Valentino's Delivery Dictionary entitling the bearer to an incredible offer.

DELI SALAD

Choose from any of the Deli Salads listed on the menu or from any of our New Deli Salads in our store deli

> Not valid with any other discount or coupon

DESSERT PIZZA

DESSERT PIZZAS A great way to top off any meal

- · Apple Cinnamon
- · Cherry Delight
- · Peach Crumble
- Strawberry
- Blueberry Crumble

Mini (6") Small (10") $1.95 $3.95 Medium (12")

> $5.95 Net valid with any other

Good Show

Deni Good was selected as a finalist for the University/Resident Theatre Association national auditions at Northwestern University. See Page 3.

Light Snow

Snow likely this morning becoming partly sunny late in day, high 35 to 40. Total snow accumulations of 1-2 inches possible.

Touy. Loss

The University of Kansas Jayhawks pull out a double overtime victory over the Wildcats, 80-75. See Page 7.

Kansas State

Thursday February 5, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 92

U.S. increases Mideast force

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A second amphibious force of Marines continued to sail eastward in the Mediterranean toward a flotilla of U.S. warships stationed off the coast of Lebanon on Wednesday as the White House sought to dampen speculation that a military strike was in the off-

Pentagon officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said 1,900 Marines aboard five ships that left Spain on Tuesday would link up with U.S. forces already in the area by Friday.

The sources also disclosed the Navy force already on station is slightly larger than previously thought - including 21 warships, three Marine amphibious ships and four ammunition and oiler support vessels - and that several smaller warships had moved to within 50 to 100 miles of the Lebanese coast.

The sources said the main aircraft carrier battle groups were maintaining a standard patrol farther out to sea. The carriers Nimitz and Kennedy were conducting routine air operations with their jet fighters remaining in the skies over the carriers and not venturing toward land.

At the White House, presidential reporters he could not rule out the possibility of a military strike, but he went out of his way to discourage talk of such action.

"I can't speculate on any future course of action," he said. "We always do have substantial forces in the area but I would urge (you) not to speculate along those lines.

Over the past two weeks, the Pentagon has marshalled its battle force in the Mediterranean in response to rising tensions in the Mideast and new hostage-takings in Lebanon, repeatedly describing the moves as only precautionary.

Fitzwater, when asked about rumors of military action if any hostages were killed, replied: "I would urge a little downgrading of the speculation in that area. Our forces are there on what in many ways is normal activities and opera-

"The forces are there to protect our strategic interests and to support our friends in the region," he added. "But we would not urge you to jump to any conclusions about any military activities."

The arrival of the Marine's second Mediterranean Amphibious Ready Group, or MARG, will bring to eight the number of amphibious ships in the region with roughly 3,800

The intrastate battle between K-State and the Jayhawks brought out the Downes Wednesday in Ahearn Field House. The sellout game had fans on

Iranians to banish American reporter

By The Associated Press

NICOSIA, Cyprus - Iran said Wall Street Journal reporter Gerald F. Seib will be expelled today, five days after he was arrested and accused of spying for Israel while visiting the country by government invitation.

Its official Islamic Republic News Agency quoted an Information Ministry official Wednesday as saying the decision to free and expel the 30-year-old American came after "a judicial probe into his case ended."

The official, who was not identified, said Seib was "permanently banned from returning to Iran," the agency reported.

Three other Westerners held by Iran on espionage charges remain in prison. American telecommunications engineer Jon Pattis, Canadian engineer Philip Engs and British journalist-businessman John Cooper were arrested last year.

IRNA gave gave no details of the Seib investigation or findings, but he apparently was cleared of the allegations. The report did not say where today's flight would take the journalist, who is based in Cairo.

Premier Hussein Mussavi told Tehran radio Wednesday, without elaboration: "After being questioned, the issue has been clarified."

Shortly before the IRNA report, he said Seib would be expelled in two or three days. Asked in a Tehran radio interview why a foreign reporter was detained, Mussavi said he was "engaged in certain investigations and collecting intelligence at the front."

Seib was among 57 foreign correspondents and photographers invited to Iran for a tour of the border battle zone where Iranian forces have pushed into Iraq toward its southern capital, Basra. The Persian Gulf neighbors have been at war since September 1980.

He had been in Iran for 10 days when seized Saturday outside his Tehran hotel. The other journalists were allowed to leave.

After Seib's detention, IRNA said a 'spy of the Zionist regime" was arrested after entering the country with a false passport in the guise of a journalist.

Paul Seib, the journalist's brother, said at the family home in Hays that relatives were "upbeat and elated but also reserved because we don't take anything for granted until the Wall Street Journal tells us he's definitely been released."

The newspaper said it was awaiting confirmation of the release and would have no comment.

At the White House, spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Reagan administration officials had "no independent confirmation on Gerry's release at this point."

State Department spokesman Charles E. Redman said Swiss diplomats interceded, but beyond enthusiasm in Sandy Crow, Raegan Crow, senior in marketing, and Dennis the brink of a Wildcat win but the Jayhawks were victorious, 80-75. 'Cat fans go from ecstasy to agony

See EXPEL, Page 10

Faithful followers cheer, cry as victory hovers, 'Cats fall

By BECKY HOWARD Staff Writer

An enthusiastic crowd never gave up hope.

As the neck-and-neck rivalry game between the K-State Wildcats and the University of Kansas Jayhawks neared its final moments, the fans wearing purple packed into a hot and steamy Ahearn Field House continued to hold onto the hope that the 'Cats would win. Those hopes, however, vanished as K-State lost to KU, 80-75, in double overtime.

Still, it was a game filled with the rise and plateau of excitement until the very end. As the last minutes of regulation play ticked away, K-State fans cheered, slapped hands and hugged each other with the hope that a win was in their team's grasp.

Then a tied score at the buzzer left them almost still with wonder and anticipation as to what the next five minutes would bring.

Their energy and excitement reached another high as the clock began to signal the end of the overtime. Yet again the crowd's anticipation was left unfulfilled as the 'Cats and the Jayhawks tied once again sending the game into the second overtime.

At that point, one K-State fan remarked "This double overtime was all a big plan so we would be here late and there wouldn't be a

When the game ended in defeat, a dejected crowd left Ahearn, waiting for the Feb. 19 rematch with the 'Hawks in Lawrence.

Throughout the game, the Ahearn audience continued the tradition of being a "wild and crazy crowd" as spectators stretched their creative abilities to express enthusiasm for the home team and disgust toward their arch-rivals.

After booing Jayhawk fans taking their seats for the game, the student sections of the field house created a waving ocean of newspaper as the fans showed boredom and indifference toward the entrance of the Jayhawks. Then, they crumpled the newspapers and tossed them into the air as 'Cats took the floor.

In one section of the field house, a group of spectators waved sheet

Jim Gewecke, sophomore in marketing, hugs his mother Kay Gewecke, Russell, goodbye after the 'Cats' loss to the Jayhawks.

banners - one with the Ghostbuster's insignia bearing the title "Beakbusters" - toward television cameras. Other sections threw live chickens and billowing rolls of toilet tissue toward the basketball court. Some fans swung rubber Jayhawks in circles and bounced them like yo-yos into the

Even as the game announcer requested that spectators stay seated during the game, K-State fans remained standing, and they stood for

See FANS, Page 10

Administrator calls for destruction of surveillance photos

By JUDY GOLDBERG Staff Writer

University investigators were told Wednesday morning to refrain from taking surveillance photographs at campus events and to destroy existing photographs and negatives on Friday. George Miller, vice president for administration and finance, called for the destruction of the "intelligence file" and Charles Beckom, superintendent of K-State police, ordered the temporary halt of police photography during campus events, in response to complaints made after the publication of an article in the

Jan. 29 Collegian. The article stated that campus police were taking pictures at a peaceful demonstration sponsored by Students in Solidarity with Central America.

Investigator Richard Herrman said the campus police had taken photographs of participants and audience members at most campus events, including protests and Landon Lectures, and videotaped University basketball and football

The pictures were taken as a preventative measure in case violence would erupt or a related incident would occur in the future, Herrman said. However, he said the film was not developed unless necessary.

Miller said he did not believe administrators were aware of the practice before publication of the article. After hearing complaints from students concerned about infr- harm somebody later on and it ingments on their right to freedom of speech, Beckom said he decided to stop the practice and evaluate the current policy.

Some students have seen existing file photos and others have requested to do so in accordance with the Kansas open records law, said Dorothy Thompson, associate University at-

The photos will not be destroyed until Friday so that those who have made a formal written request will be able to see them, Miller said.

Some students said they believe the photo policy served as a form of prior restraint, and if reinstated will dissuade people from participating in protest events for fear of reprisal.

These photos might be used to smacks of Big Brother," said Kirk Caraway, senior in political science. Beckom said he wanted to make a policy with which students would agree, but said students should understand the pictures were taken "for their protection." "I want people to be able to stand up and say what they feel without being victim to someone who doesn't like them and (does something to harm that person) - that's my concern," Beckom said.

Caraway said he opposes keeping photos or negatives for a long period of time. Developed pictures and slides in the file date back to 1983.

"It just seems that they shouldn't have to keep these things forever supposedly for the purpose of our protection," Caraway said.

The legality of keeping photos on file is unclear because the Supreme Court of the United States has never ruled on a case involving police surveillance, Thompson said.

Detective James Tubach said the photos have been useful in the past although he could only remember one specific incident.

Sister Cindy, who he described as a radical preacher who spoke at various campuses, had a pie thrown in her face during a presentation she gave a few years ago. With the use of pictures taken, he said he was able to identify the culprit of the act.

'This is the reason pictures are taken," he said. Miller said while the University promotes "open expression," there may be times when monitoring by police is justified.

"The problem is I have no idea when those circumstances should arise," he said.

Miller has therefore asked John Lambert, director of public safety, and Beckom to propose a list of situations where they deem photography justified.

The list will be presented to the Council on Traffic, Parking and Police Operations, Miller said. The council, scheduled to meet at 3:30 p.m. Monday in Union 203, will be asked to submit its evaluation of the proposal to Miller.

In the Collegian story, Herrman said pictures taken during a Landon

See PHOTOS, Page 10

Briefly

INTERNATIONAL

Shiite Moslems intend to try Waite

LONDON - Missing hostage negotiator Terry Waite has been taken before a drumhead court of radical Shiite Moslems and ordered "detained," the Independent Television network reported

Correspondent Brent Sadler said from Nicosia, Cyprus, that "a usually reliable Moslem source" reported that several Shiite fundamentalists appeared in the unofficial proceeding as witnesses against Waite, the personal envoy of Archbishop of Canterbury

There was no corroboration, and the Church of England said it had no confirmation that Waite, who dropped out of sight in Beirut Jan. 20 to negotiate with kidnappers of foreign hostages, had become a

The West German cable station SAT 1 said Waite was being held in the Lebanese capital by Hezbollah, or Party of God, and the radical Shiite group intended to try him. SAT 1 gave no sources and did not specify the charges.

It said Waite was being kept in Bir al Abid, a southern suburb of Beirut, and had never been taken to the Syrian-occupied Bekaa Valley of east Lebanon, as has been reported.

Cocaine baron faces U.S. charges

BOGOTA, Colombia — Soldiers captured cocaine baron Carlos Lehder Rivas at a rural mansion early Wednesday and immediately extradited him to the United States for trial.

A Defense Ministry statement said Lehder, described by U.S. officials as a billionaire cocaine trafficker who began as a teen-age marijuana dealer in New York, was put on a U.S. Air Force plane at 5 p.m. EDT.

It said he was flown to the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo Bay in Cuba, about three hours away. Why he was taken there rather than Miami, where he faces charges, was not explained.

Defense Minister Rafael Samudio had said earlier in the day that Colombia would extradite Lehder, 37. The arrest is considered the government's biggest blow to the drug trade so far.

REGIONAL

Regents, legislators clash over cuts

TOPEKA - Spokesmen for faculty at Kansas Board of Regents universities clashed Wednesday with the chairman of the Senate budget committee over a proposal to cut by 3.8 percent the salaries of all state employees earning more than $50,000 annually.

The confrontation occurred after Stanley Koplik, executive director of the Regents, warned the Senate Ways and Means Committee that lawmakers were in danger of demoralizing university faculty and driving them to organize in trade unions.

"I frankly see more harm than good coming as a result of this bill," Koplik said in testimony on the bill. "I ask you to consider the probable outcomes and weigh that against the possible outrage in higher education circles.'

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Robert Frey, R-Liberal, would implement salary reductions against all elected state officials in the executive branch of government, all justices and judges in the judiciary, all 165 members of the Legislature, cabinet officers, university presidents, along with regulatory board members and state police.

Sun.12-9

EEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE

THURS

PLUS $1.50 PREMIUM POUR

IIXED DRINKS!

ND FRIES

Denison & Claflin

DLAFLIN Books & Copies

Vodka

Drinks

•4¢ self-service copies

Resume service

FirstBank Center

M-F 8-9

•Full service copy center

NATIONAL

By The Associated Press

Congress passes anti-pollution bill

WASHINGTON - Congress handed President Reagan a major domestic spending defeat Wednesday as the Senate joined the House in overwhelmingly overriding his veto of the $20 billion clean water

The popular anti-pollution measure, criticized by Reagan as too costly in times of huge budget deficits, became law on an 86-14 Senate override vote, with 32 Republicans joining 54 Democrats in shooting down the veto.

The action, long predicted by the bill's supporters, came a day after the House cast a 401-26 override vote in what Reagan called "the first great battle of the (budget) deficit in the 100th Congress."

The fight, however, was a mismatch as Republicans on both sides of the Capitol joined with Democrats to defeat a White House that did little work to muster the one-third margin needed to save the veto.

"The president's decision to veto...was a serious mistake," said one of the new law's chief architects, Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I. "I am saddened that the president missed an opportunity to join the Congress in taking an important step toward meeting our common goals of assuring cleaner lakes, rivers and streams."

Doctors find light slows cancer

BOSTON - In a new approach to fighting cancer, doctors say they have used light to activate a powerful drug in the bloodstream and apparently vaccinate cancer victims against their own disease.

The technique has produced remarkable remissions in some people with a relentlessly fatal form of blood cancer who had not responded to ordinary treatment.

The therapy appears to marshal the body's own immune defenses to zero in on cancer and destroy it. It seems to do this without causing nausea, hair loss or any of the other common side effects of chemotherapy or radiation.

"It's a very early stage in the development of something very exciting," said Dr. Richard Edelson, who created the treatment. "I don't want to overestimate where we are, but with a single disease we've got some strong concrete data."

He says his approach may become the standard treatment for cutaneous T-cell lymphoma, a disease that probably strikes more than 10,000 Americans. It may also provide a new technique for attacking other forms of blood cancer as well as disorders ranging from arthritis to organ transplant rejection.

The therapy combines two rapidly emerging approaches for managing cancer and other diseases: manipulating the body's immune system and switching on medicines with light

"For the first time, a drug that has no activity by itself has been activated by light in the blood of patients as their blood was being routed outside the body," said Edelson, who is chief of dermatology at Yale Medical School.

Liberace dies after cardiac arrest

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. - Liberace, the unequaled king of glitter who dazzled audiences for four decades with romantic piano flourishes and outrageous costumes, died Wednesday. He was 67.

The entertainer died at 2:05 p.m. PST, surrounded by family, his manager, housekeepers and friends, said Denise Collier, his spokeswoman in New York.

The cause of death was cardiac arrest due to congestive heart failure brought on by subacute encephalopathy, a general term for a degenerative disease of the brain, said Dr. Ronald Daniels.

Bradley means:

IXED DRINKS

Dependability

Paid for by K-Staters to elect Bradley

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

U-LEARN is looking for volunteers this spring. Call 532-6442 or stop by Holton 2.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is now posting sign-up schedules for on-campus employment interviews by Kansas, regional and national employers. All eligible candidates are

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in Union Activities Center and are due by 5 p.m. Fri-

CONGRESSIONAL TEACHER SCHOLAR-SHIP PROGRAM: Information and applications

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL: sign up today and Friday in Call, Waters or the Union. BLUE KEY SENIOR HONORARY membership applications are available in Anderson 122 and are due by 4 p.m. Friday.

PRE-VET CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Trotter 207. AG COUNCIL meets at 6 p.m. in Waters 137. FMA-FINANCE CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in

ASCE STUDENT CHAPTER meets at 7:40

STUDENT NATIONAL EDUCATION

EATING DISORDERS GROUP THERAPY meets at 7:30 p.m. in basement of Lafene Studen Health Center.

COLLEGIATE 4-H meets at 7:30 p.m. in Union

LITTLE SISTERS OF THE GOLDEN ROSE meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Beta Sigma Psi house.

RODEO CLUB meets at 7:30 p.m. in Ackert 221

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION meets at 7 p.m. at the Baptist Campus Center, 1801 Anderson Ave ICTHUS CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP meets at

PHI KAPPA TAU LITTLE SISTERS meet at 8

GAY AND LESBIAN RESOURSE CENTER will show a film on AIDS narrated by Rae Don Chong at 7:30 p.m. in Holton 2. Enter through east side-door because the building is locked at night.

NATIONAL SOCIETY OF BLACK ENGINEERS meet at 6 p.m. in Durland 161.

FRIDAY

RILEY COUNTY COUNCIL OF SOCIAL AGENCIES meet at noon at Kennedy's Claim

AGRICULTURE AND THE LIBERAL ARTS AGRICULTURE AND THE LIBERAL ARTS PROGRAM will be held from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Shellenberger 311, North East Kansas Farm Advocate Network will present "Weathering the Current Farm Crisis: The Search for Viability."

Series features music faculty

By The Collegian Staff

Throughout each semester, Department of Music instructors take the stage to present their skills in the Faculty Artist Series.

Sara Funkhouser, associate professor of music, who will present a recital March 24, said the small concerts during the semester are a good way for students to see their instructors perform.

"We're performers and in order to be considered as such it's essential to keep up on the field," Funkhouser said.

Instructors are in charge of their own recitals, given in All Faiths Chapel. Performances are free of admission and usually begin at 8 p.m.

"The music that is played spans all of the different periods of music, going as far back as the Renaissance. There is some 20th-century music, some doing more popular ones," she

The audience usually consists of students, faculty and others from the Manhattan community, usually with a good attendance, she said.

The series for the spring 1987 semester began last week with a vocal recital by Jennifer Edwards, assistant instructor of music. The next concert will be an organ recital by Mary Ellen Sutton, associate professor of music, at 8 p.m. Tuesday. Other upcoming recitals include the faculty wind trio on Feb. 17, and the Walker Trio on March 26.

Looking For A

Place To Have A

GOOD TIME?

ROCKY MOUNTAIN

J. DENNIS DLABAL, D.D.S. BRITT C. FELTNER, D.D.S.

· Evening and Saturday appointments available We see emergencies

 Next to campus "We cater to cowards"

(and other people, too) 1834 Claflin 537-8484

TONITE - THE CLIQUE

$2 Pitchers $1.25 Coolers

Friday

"The Clique" with free TGIF show and sandwich bar

NIGHT on Thurs!

$1.75 AII Premium Drinks

•$2.95 AII

1115 Moro · Aggleville 776-0030

Professor discovers perfect love potion

After 23 years of research, Dr. Rufus T. Valentine, noted romanceologist, has discovered the perfect love potion.

Said Dr. Valentine, "The FTD® Sweetheart™ Bouquet is a perfect combination of flowers and a heartshaped potpourri in a ceramic powder jar. Lab studies have shown it to have a powerful, romantic effect on both sender and recipient.

"However," Dr. Valentine warns, "the effect seems to peak around February 14. And you must make sure to go to an FTD Florist. Otherwise," he added, "you may find yourself spending Valentine's Day alone in a most unromantic place-the

PREMIUM

Burgers

Old Milwaukee Light and Pickled Eggs It Just Doesn't Get Any Better Than This!

OUR DISCOUNT BEER BARN" Go North on Tuttle Creek Blvd. then on the back road to the Rocks

The Finest Little Tavern by a Dam Site!

537-3133

FRIDAY & SATURDAY Live Band: (formerly the Catz)

FREE SET FRIDAY AFTERNOON Denison & Claflin 539-9619 FirstBank Center

Staff/John La Barge

Deni Good, graduate student in theatre, was chosen as a finalist for the Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. Good believes a good audition University/Resident Theatre Association national auditions Feb. 18-22 at could earn him roles in major theatrical productions.

Student actor reaches au

By KIM GREER Collegian Reporter

Deni Good realizes that a good audition in front of producers and directors in Evanston, Ill., could earn him a role in a Broadway production, a soap opera, a Shakespeare festival or summer theater touring company.

The audition "could open a lot of doors," he said.

Good, graduate student in theater, was named a finalist for the University/Resident Theatre Association's national auditions that will be from Feb. 18-22 at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. He is the only Kansan to make it in the category of acting.

Representatives from graduate schools, Shakespeare festivals, summer theaters and professional production companies will attend the final auditions. If they are impressed with Good, they might offer him a contract.

However, he almost did not make it past the preliminary auditions because of an illness.

"I'm epileptic, and I was sick. I called New York several times to ask if I could send a videotape. They finally agreed," Good said. He will leave Feb. 19 for his audition on Feb. 20.

He said he was worried that a taped audition would pale in comparison with live auditions. The judges did not seem to have the same idea, for they chose Good for the final auditions.

To demonstrate his versatility, Good will act, sing and dance at the audition.

He will take two monologues, one serious and one comical. The serious monologue is taken from "The Normal Heart," a play which recently won a Pulitzer Prize for its sensitive handling of the subject of AIDS. The comedy piece is from "The Relapse." He will also sing and dance his own choreography to 16 bars of "I Got Plenty O' Nuttin" from the opera, "Porgy and Bess."

Good said his love for the theater began during his high school years in Louisburg. He acted in several high school plays and musicals before he received a bachelor of music education from Emporia State University.

Good's collegiate success and artistic achievements reinforce his confidence. He performed the first graduate recital in music theater at K-State to complete requirements for his master's degree. He sang, danced, played the piano and acted in scenes from "Hamlet" and "The Normal Heart."

Good has played leads in several campus productions, including zance.

Because he wants to be a star, Good said he is more than willing to work hard to "make it." He studied his craft in London, and he has traveled Europe with an Emporia State a capella choir, a choir that sings without accompaniment.

People have so many misconceptions about Kansas. They ask me about Dorothy and Toto. You deal with a lot of that.'

-Deni Good

After graduating from Emporia State, Good danced professionally in Las Vegas. He said his exposure to the drugs and hardcore parties that many people associate with show business caused him to lose touch with his values.

"Everything you hear on the movies and from Joan Rivers is true," Good said. He returned to the state because he felt he was losing his "roots and values of Kansas." "I love Kansas. I love the tornadoes and all that (Wizard of) Oz business. People have so many misconceptions about Kansas.

"Godspell" and "Pirates of Pen- They ask me about Dorothy and Toto. You deal with a lot of that,"

Good said. Good said he will probably complete his master of arts this semester.

If he is not offered a contract at the Evanston audition, Good said he will probably look for a college that offers the master of fine arts degree in musical theater because the degree is not offered at K-State.

Harold Nichols, head of the speech department, said Good will probably have to go out of the state to find a school that offers an MFA.

"I think (Good) has a very good chance of doing well at this audition," Nichols said. How does Good feel about his chances? "I think I can do it. I know I can,"

Once he reaches his goal of stardom and gets his share of the limelight, Good said he wants to return to teaching. He currently teaches speech classes at K-State.

As with his acting ability, he has no doubts about his teaching abili-

"I've earned the right to be confident. I know what I can do with a class," he said. "Sometimes teachers can get into a rut where they quit educating and only

House Democrats seek halt in nuclear testing

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON -Democrats, angry about a nuclear test this week under the Nevada desert, called Wednesday for halting funds for weapons tests, postponing further explosions and pursuing immediate test ban negotiations with the Soviet Union.

The resolution denouncing Tuesday's test and urging President Reagan to seek the nuclear test ban was approved unanimously by more than 130 lawmakers at a meeting of the House Democratic Caucus.

Leaders of the effort said the show of unity reflected mounting frustration and fundamental disagreement with Reagan's arms control policy and could result in a congressional standoff with the White House. "No matter what the president's saying, I think his policy is an all-out arms race," said Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., chairman of the caucus and a prospective presidential candidate. "We intend to fight him on these issues. We're not content to stand by and allow him to drive the policy in another direction."

The Soviet Union has not detonated weapons since August 1985. But Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev said in December that he would end the unilateral moratorium after the first U.S. test explosion of this year. The official Soviet news agency Tass said after Tuesday's blast that it could push the Kremlin to resume test explosions "with redoubled force." Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., who with Gephardt has introduced a bill similar to the resolution, called the test "the ultimate in bad faith....The opportunity (for a test ban) has been lying around for 18 months. It's growing whiskers."

Schroeder said the frustration level is such that moderate Democrats have now joined with liberals to seek funding restrictions that would, for all practical purposes, end nuclear testing.

"There's been a real turnaround," she said.

Gephardt and Schroeder said they fully expect a presidential veto of their bill, which has 140 co-sponsors and will be introduced in the Senate soon. As an alternate strategy, they said they will attach the measure to the defense authorization bill scheduled to come up this spring.

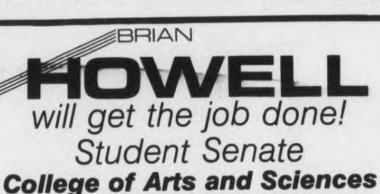

1116 Mora 537-0886

reggroll & fried rice 99¢

Open 7 days a week Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Call 539-8868 or 537-0886

Paid for by students to elect Howell for Senate

عادل إمام في النيم الكبير حتى لا منطفى الدخام "كوسيي، اجتابي" البة 7/2/7 ، الساعة 30:30 K- State Union ف 212 في خانه في الله عنه تعديم جمعية لحلبة فلسطئ والمنطقة الطلبة الوب العضول مانا للعضاء الجعسى و 1 الله لعنر الاعصاء

A great film-"Until the smoke is not extinguished"-a social comedy Sat., Feb. 7, 5:30 p.m., Union Rm. 212. Presented by the Arab and Palestinian Students Ass'n. Free to members- $1 for non-members.

RADIO AUCTION

RETAIL MIN.

VALUE BIDS

$47.00 $24.00

$119.00 $55.00

$59.95 $30.00

$100.00 $55.00

$190.00 $90.00

$148.00 $74.00

$25.00 $11.00

$25.00 $13.00

$75.00 $37.00

$29.99 $14.00

$50.00 $25.00

$25.00 $12.00

$17.20 $8.00

$50.00 $25.00

$25.00 $13.00

$254.95 $125.00

$46.00 $33.00

$13.36 $7.00

$250.00 $120.00

$12.45 $6.00

$20.00 $10.00

$57.00 $28.00

$48.88 $24.00

$17.99 $8.00 $65.00 $32.00

$59.00 $29.00

$75.00 $37.00

$28.99 $14.00

$400.00 $195.00

$360.00 $175.00

The items listed below will be auctioned to the highest bidder this Saturday from 8:05 a.m. to noon. Visit the sponsors . . . inspect the merchandise . . determine your bld. Keep your radio on KMAN 1350 and your hand near the phone. Just call in and bid on the KMAN auction line: 776-1333. AUCTION DATE: FEBRUARY 7, 1987

Pair of ladies SAS shoes: BROWN'S SHOE FIT 10 KT. yellow gold ring: DIAMOND CONNECTION Makita Jigsaw: WATERS TRUE VALUE HARDWARE $100 merchandise cert.: DUERFELDT'S JEWELERS 3-month membership: COTTONWOOD RACQUET CLUB $115.02 $50.00 15" X 30" sunroof installed: DARRELL'S CUSTOM

Medicine cabinet: STANDARD PLUMBING $25 Certificate: GLAMOUR WORLD BEAUTY SUPPLY $25 Certificate for greeting cards: THE PALACE Wooden framed cannister set: HIGHFIELD COTTAGE Hasbro shuffle town school: MAN. HOBBIES & TOYS Certificate on guttering plus installation: WILDCAT EXT. $50 Merchandise certificate: GHERE'S $25 Dinner certificate: LA CASA DE LOS VERAS Fisher Price Great Gonzo Muppet Doll: MAN.

HOBBIES & TOYS $50 Merchandise certificate: MANHATTAN CARPET $25 Merchandise certificate: HIGHFIELD COTTAGE Eureka Upright vacuum (2086): B & L VACUUM 30 lb. beef bundles: ROEPKE'S PROCESSING Top sirloin dinner for two: MR. STEAK $250 certificate attic or sidewall insulation: WILD-CAT EXT.

Vacuum cleaner tune-up: B & L VACUUM $20 drycleaning certificate: CINDERELLA CLEANERS Robotix R1500 motorized builder system: MAN. HOBBIES & TOYS

65 mo. Cordovan 12v battery: THIRD STREET

Fisher Price bubble mower: MAN. HOBBIES & TOYS $65 sunglasses certificate: AGGIE SKI & SPORT 4' X 6' fringed area rug: MANHATTAN CARPET Floral arrangement: BEN FRANKLIN CRAFTS Master Mechanic brazing torch: WATERS TRUE VALUE HARDWARE

$400 cert. on aluminum carport or patio cover: WILDCAT EXT.

Fisher Price "My Friend Beck" doll: MAN. HOBBIES & TOYS

$22.20 $11.00

Watch for 45-inch Zenith color TV to be auctioned the 28th of February

THE LOU DOUGLAS 1987 -

LESTER THUROW "U.S.—JAPANESE ECONOMIC RELATIONS" 7:30 p.m., FEBRUARY 10, FORUM HALL PRE-LECTURE FORUM "IS JAPAN NUMBER 1?"

Professor Wayne Nafziger, Economics, Moderator Professor Ali Fatemi, Finance Ms. Carol Lopez, International Trade Institute Professor Lincoln Deihl, Management Professor Joseph Belizzi, Marketing 7:30 p.m., FEBRUARY 5. UNION 209 Sponsored by U.F.M., Department of Economics, Pre-Law Club, and others.

at SPEEDWASH

Wash It In AGGIEVILLE

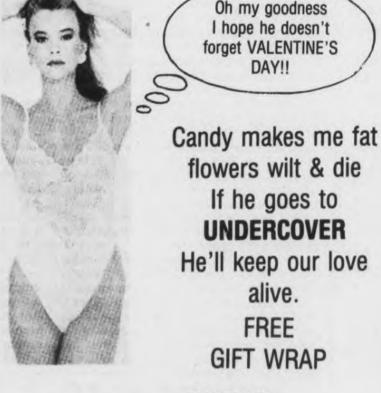

"Free Parking" Visit our back room for special prices.

Open Sun.-Thurs. 24 Hours Daily Fri.-Sat. 4:30 a.m.-Midnight

1118 Moro

featuring: WARNERS .. Red Teddies Red Camisole & Tap Pant Sets Red Half Slips

1224 Moro Aggieville

Open: Mon.-Fri. 10-5:30 Thurs. 10-8, Sat. 10-5

Johnson's work brings prestige to University

even greater benefits.

Division of Biology, has been awarded a $165,000 grant from the American Cancer Society on behalf of the significant strides he has made in cancer research.

Despite the economic hardships that have financially depleted the state, it is encouraging to know that Johnson's promising research in cancer will continue. That the grant came from such a prestigious organization reinforces the far-reaching implications his research could have on mankind.

Johnson's research deals with cancer cell division and further disease. His noble efforts reflect undoubtedly falter.

Great accomplishments reap his commitment to the elimination of cancer, and they also Terry Johnson, director of the stress the significance of continued research at the Universi-

> Johnson's efforts should be apcontinued plauded as breakthroughs in cancer and other fields of research bring prestige and honor to the University, community and state. At the same time, they better human

> It should be noted that the money donated by people in the community and throughout the state to the American Cancer Society is being funneled to support cancer research at K-State.

Without continued financial knowledge in this area could help support, promising research proimpede the advances of the grams such as Johnson's would

Shultz makes attempt to deal with apartheid

When Secretary of State George Shultz recently met with Oliver Tambo, leader of the African National Congress, some of America's more conservative leaders condemned Shultz for it.

Tambo was touring the United States in an effort to drum up support for the ANC's struggle against apartheid in South Africa. Shultz met with Tambo at the Department of State, thus showing a willingness to address the role the ANC plays in South Africa.

So what was wrong with that? Apparently, there was something very wrong about Shultz's Dole, R-Kan., for example, went against British domination. so far as to say the meeting could use of armed struggle.

Last July, just before Shultz agreed to meet with Tambo, President Ronald Reagan condemned the ANC saying it was responsible for "acts of terrorism inside of South Africa." Who in this world is not a terrorist in Reagan's eyes? Is every nation that struggles for freedom from oppression a terrorist nation? And what of Reagan's do-nowrong Nicaraguan Contras why aren't they referred to as terrorists?

The ANC is a legitimate organization of people struggling for the abolition of apartheid in South Africa. After all, American meeting with Tambo. Sen. Bob colonists once took up arms

Shultz should have been praissymbolize approval for "ter- ed for his meeting with Tambo. rorism," referring to the ANC's At least, it's a step in the right direction.

Statistics offer details on American honesty

Contrary to the popular adage, honesty apparently is not always the most advantageous policy in the business world.

According to the results of written honesty tests conducted by the Stanton Corp. of Charlotte, N.C., 18 to 31 percent of the nearwere untrustworthy.

Unfortunately, this is a trustworthy individuals. substantial increase from the 10 to 12 percent in the mid-1960s.

Although the tests are controversial among psychologists, Paul Sackett, a psychologist at the University of Illinois, said they can help companies reduce theft.

With a claimed accuracy rate moted to project managers? of 87 percent, test results showed the following:

men 56 percent to 48 percent; - Minorities score slightly better than whites:

waiters score near the top of the worth thinking about.

- Office workers were a close second at 86 percent.

Other scores included controllers and bank tellers, 76 percent; engineers, 66 percent; and salespersons, 61 percent.

It seems ironic that some of the positions society deems the most ly 3 million job-seekers surveyed important are filled by people who apparently aren't the most

> Does this mean we should feel safer checking wallets in with our coats at the entrance to a restaurant than depositing their contents in the friendly neighborhood bank?

Should engineers be relegated to the dishpan and waiters pro-

Either this survey's accuracy is questionable or Americans - Honest women outscored have distorted views of who's really telling the truth.

If the survey is not accurate, it can be pitched aside onto the pile - Honesty increases with age; of other useless questionnaires. If - Busboys, dishwashers and it is accurate, it's something bank teller with your money?

After all, would you still trust a honesty pyramid at 88 percent; and

EDITOR Jonie Trued MANAGING EDITOR Sue Dawson NEWS EDITOR Erin Eicher

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Deron Johnson PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER Sheila Hutinett

EDITORIAL BOARD: Susan Baird, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Judy Goldberg, Ron Honig, Pat Hund, Deron Johnson, Sarah Kessinger, Judy Lundstrom, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Andy Nelson, Patti Paxson, Julie Reynolds, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued. Unsigned editorials represent the majori-

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Political views simple to spot

I have come to realize there is a wide range of personalities in this world and it is interesting how society has categorized them. We have decided the people who take longer to make decisions and take showers are conservative. Those who change their mind and possibly their name easily are liberals.

After taking a close look at myself, I have come to the conclusion that I fit into the conservative category quite easily. Someone who studies politics may have their own idea of criteria met by both sides. I, not being of the political origin, have my own way of recognizing the differences.

Let's talk about conservatives first. These are the people who watch reruns of "Gilligan's Island." OK, I admit it. We like "Magnum P.I." and enjoy watching the weather. Favorite cartoon: "Bugs Bunny."

Our cars are American made, our motorcycles in need of repair. We drive cautiously, more from lack of skill than ambition.

Our houses are white and so is our underwear. The shirt we have on is usually closed to the second button and skirts are never seen above the knee. We are seen in more brown than pink and our shoes are well worn. Personally, I don't wear boat shoes. Oh, I want to, but I don't do it.

A conservative may be seen eating pizza with a fork or cutting up their spaghetti. We drink more beer than wine and get drunk less than our counterparts.

People of the calmer nature go on less dates and rarely kiss unless kissed upon, if that can happen. We hold doors for ladies and are not bothered by the strange looks we

We may read slower than most and find pleasure in reading maps. We read more Benchley and less King. Bending the corner of the page is against our code.

At ballgames, our fingers are in our pockets and not in the air. The loudest thing we shout: "Is this my seat?!"

The liberal, on the other hand, is motivated

RON HONIG Collegian Columnist

to a wider range of activities and attitudes. They can be found in places not patronized by conservatives: Picket lines, anti-Reagan demonstrations and Derby Food Center.

They sit in the Union with their backs to the wall and sort their mail with a metal detec-

The length of their hair varies and so does the color. Torn jeans are not uncommon, sometimes substituted by a white suit. Socks may come in a variety of patterns or not at

A liberal will honk at you if you take too long at a stop sign. It is probably liberals who write on restroom walls and leave gum wrappers in the library.

Their cars are usually faster than ours and have less tread left on the tires. They are more apt to beat you out of a parking spot and less likely to take your seat in church.

We could catch them watching "Dynasty" but probably not Disney. They enjoy more video games and less computer programm-

They bring bananas, oranges and vodka to games instead of umbrellas. They do, however, throw money to visiting high school bands. Unfortunately, they throw it as hard as they can.

Liberals may either sit in the back of the class or the front, depending on what the class is and the sex and looks of the instructor. They enjoy majors like political science and nuclear engineering, whereas conservatives go into library science and plant pathology.

A liberal may want to study Central America. Personally, I prefer Utah.

Quiche is consumed more than fried chicken and hacky sack is prefered over

Liberals may be a Democrat rather than a Republican and are unlikely to spend Nov. 4 in a duck blind in New England.

A liberal person might bet his wife in a poker game and then fold.

I realize the average person would not use these exact criteria, but I have found many of them to work in certain cases. Like all of us, my actions vary from quite polite to a mobile harrassing unit. I cut loose and risk composure once in awhile, but only to regain it and think, "Oh, I shouldn't have done that."

Many people don't fit either category but just fluctuate from radical to worry. They say things like, "I need to go out with the boys tonight," or "I will never do that again."

Sometimes what we consider conservation is simply a selection of outside influences like paranoia, fear and nervousness. Have you ever walked through the Union and thought the entire cafeteria was watching you, waiting for you to shake your water over the edge of the glass?

Many times in high school I sat quietly waiting to see the principal. I wasn't being conservative - I was scared. I was the most nervous person in six states whenever I would be preparing to call for a date, often making up excuses not to, such as four-hour naps and seven consecutive Swannies runs.

The two classes seem to clash every now and then causing tempers to flare, at least some of the tempers. I'm glad we have this variation in personalities. If everyone was like me, a basketball game would look like a P.E. class.

Students forgotten

The drive and the promotion started early, as it should, to fill Ahearn Field House for the Wildcat basketball season. The cry went out to the students to return in mass to support their team. The plea was heard from the University president, athletic director and head coach to "make Ahearn rock like it used to." The students once again responded and Ahearn is indeed rocking like the days of old. All's well you say?

Not quite. Have you as a student tried getting a ticket to the post-season tournament? Forget it! K-State's allotment of tickets is gone and something's wrong. If you call the ticket office, they will tell you the tickets went to donors. I understand we must keep the donors happy. I understand tickets are expensive. I also understand each Big Eight school was allotted 250 tickets, after which each school could purchase as many as it wanted in the upper level.

Also, the decision to purchase more tickets was made as early as April and by the time we saw a questionable year turn into a traditional year, Kemper was sold out. What I don't understand is how the administration has missed the point. The students were forgotten. Just a handful of tickets from the allotment would have been a token gesture to show that "yes, we need your support, yes, we appreciate your support and no, we did not forget you." The other school in this state which will be at Kemper in March has tickets available for its students. I'm sure our new student-minded president understands this point. I'm sure if it were up to our head coach, who shows a great understanding for the importance of student participation, the student would not have been forgotten. That leaves our AD. I'm not trying to put undue pressure on the athletic director. Larry Travis has been doing a commendable job, but the students should have been given at least a chance at a few tickets.

Someone or some group in the administration has failed to see the importance.

Yes, the donors are important. The students recognize this, and the donors should recognize the students as a key factor. The students are donors themselves with $7 million of their money going to the new col-

> Terry J. Rethman December graduate in leisure studies

Miller should stay

Like many other members of the faculty of K-State, I am saddened by the news of Steve Miller's departure from his post as associate athletic director. While I am a member of the arts community and do not know Miller personally, it is clear to me that Miller is one of the University's best assets. I am upset that the athletic department let him go apparently so easily.

The major question to ask in the Miller instance is this: What kind of administrator would let a person of Miller's caliber go without fighting to keep him here? Where is the committee of local bankers and citizens that got together to raise extra money to keep Larry Travis here? Why wasn't such a committee mobilized for Miller, a man who not only contributes greatly to the University, but to the Manhattan community as well? Was Miller let go because he was outspoken in his idealism because he believed we could be No. 1 in all sports?

With continuing budget cuts and declining salaries, it is all the more important for administrators to make Herculean efforts to provide positive reinforcement and hope in order to keep good faculty and staff. How many more people will be missed "after it's too late?" The truth is that most high-quality people are outspoken and forthright, and they more often than not refuse to play political ball. The administrator who is afraid of such faculty members should step

What really discourages me, though, is the idea that Miller's loss is only symptomatic of a deeper disease at K-State, one that the Board of Regents made more virulent recently when it affirmed the University of Kansas as the flagship university. I'm afraid that the handling of Miller's resignation is typical of a larger syndrome present at K-State, a syndrome which is responsible for the loss of status and current demoralization felt by many members of the faculty and staff. It is the "K-State-Second-Rate-Syndrome," and it infects all departments.

So, perhaps Miller is leaving because his manner did not mesh with others in the athletic department. Perhaps he wanted to be asked to stay and, given the "Second-Rate-K-State" syndrome, nobody bothered.

These are Spartan times at K-State. Where is our Olympian spirit?

Charlotte MacFarland instructor in theater

McCarthyism

As a student at K-State with some degree of social conscience, I would like to express a protest against police officers taking pictures of the anti-Contra aid demonstration in front of the Union Jan. 28. The demonstration was peaceful, as are all the other SISCA (Students In Solidarity With Central America) events, and the police's actions seem unnecessary and very suggestive of McCarthyism. In my opinion, we need to ask ourselves certain relevant questions. First of all, why were these pictures taken in the first place? What is going to be done with these photographs? Who can these pictures be viewed (used) by? And, are all protests or only anti-government policy ones being photographed?

Michael A. Nichols sophomore in political science

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN, Thursday, February 5, 1987

Students master secrets of study habits

By RITA GRAVES Collegian Reporter

Exceptional students can earn extra money by teaching the secrets of their good study habits.

But, many of the students who get involved in teaching a learning skills seminar do it more for the educational experience and the chance to help other students than for the salary they receive.

"It's a challenge for me to help students become better students, said Tonie Rohrbaugh, senior in psychology and learning skills instructor.

Each semester students have the opportunity to become a learning skills instructor at the Academic Assistance Center in Holton Hall.

The instructors teach the seminars primarily to help freshmen, returning students and students on proba-

"Many of the students apply for learning skills instructor because it allows them to practice their teaching skills and because they want to help," said Cliff Schuette, seminar coordinator and counselor in the Counseling Center.

"Taking this course sharpened my learning abilities and helped me find better techniques in studying for tests," said Kelly Williams, freshman in computer science.

The challenge for some of the instructors is teaching unmotivated students who really do not want help from the instructors

"It's a great feeling when one of your less-than-enthused students comes up to you at the end of the course and tells you that they really learned something," Rohrbaugh

For a returning student, it is a good reminder of how to study, said Alexis Asbury, freshman in home economics

The instructor has two parts in teaching the student how to become a better student. In the first part, the instructor stresses the tools of a successful student. Students learn to improve note-taking and reading skills. They also learn the benefits of time management and how to study for different types of tests.

The second part involves lab instruction. The instructor has to sit in on one of the social science classes in which their students are enrolled. This enables the instructor to help tutor the students in these classes and evaluate how the students take notes on that subject.

A study skills instructor spends around 12 hours a week teaching this course. This includes the lecture, lab, grading and attending meetings.

Before students are allowed to teach the course, they must pass a three-credit-hour course, "Guidance for Para-Professionals." This course teaches qualified applicants study skills methods and techniques that can be used to teach to students.

"Most of the students who teach study skills are good students but they didn't know why," Rohrbaugh said. This course not only helps the undergraduate students examine their study techniques but also study habits of other people, she said.

Schuette, who is involved in the selection of study skills instructors, seeks undergraduate students who have a good background in social sciences, math and chemistry because these are courses which trouble many students.

In order to teach this course, the interested student must send letters of recommendation and participate in group interviews. The group interview includes having the students solve any potential problems they might have while tutoring.

By giving the students a problem to solve, Schuette said he can observe their communication skills, leadership skills, and interpersonal skills on a broad level as well as their knowledge of the University.

Currently, six learning skills instructors work in the program. Last fall, 14 were employed because of the large number of incoming freshmen.

"In the spring, we tend to get the older students and sometimes the more difficult students, which can make it harder on the instructors," Schuette said.

"The program is really good," Rohrbaugh said. "It's too bad more people don't know about it."

WANTED

Radio Announcers Part and Full Time DJ applications being accepted for night and day shifts.

KMAN KMKF 2414 Casement Rd., P.O. Box 1350, Manhattan, KS 66502

Prior experience necessary. EOE.

Introducing

New rigid gas permeable contact lenses that offer sharp vision, long-term comfort and the convenience of daily

or extended wear—to anyone who can wear contact lenses, even those with astigmatism. They are firm and easier to handle than soft lenses and will last longer and save you time and money.

537-1118

Drs. Price, Young, Odle, and Horsch, P.A.

1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan, KS 66502 (913) 537-1118

BALLOONS TO BUST MS

Get involved in "BUST MS" Month throughout February.

Your chance to win a trip for two and more prizes.

Today at 3 p.m.—at the island between the Union and Seaton.

$1 tickets available from any SAMS member.

Rockalike contest applications available in the SGA office. Contest is Feb. 28.

Sunday, Feb. 8 5:30-7:30 p.m. 711 Denison $2.50

> Sponsored by Newman

WHEN YOU PURCHASE A

PITCHER OF SOFT DRINK

OR BEER

Piñata Restaurante

1219 Bluemont

in Aggieville

539-3166

One coupon

per visit

Offer good through 2-15-87

only at:

Grants provide facility studies, repairs

By TOM DENZEL Collegian Reporter

Although federal grants and loans are getting harder to acquire, University Physical Facilities has had almost $500,000 worth of success in securing energy conservation grants during the last three years.

The Energy Conservation Program, initiated in 1978 as an incentive to encourage organizations to save energy during the energy crisis, funds grants available only to nonprofit organizations, said Fred Ferguson, general manager of Physical Facilities.

In an effort to balance the federal budget in 1981, the Reagan administration decided to phase out the Energy Conservation Program over a five-year span. But in 1982, Congress enacted Public Law 97-377, known as the Warner Amendment, which provided the framework for the collection and distribution of petroleum overcharge funds to support this program.

Although grants have been available since 1981, K-State did not receive any until 1985. Ferguson said in 1985 he learned that the applications submitted by K-State were being overlooked by the Department of Energy because they did not find the studies conducted by the University feasible for energy conservation grants.

"Although the law was enacted over a decade ago, this is the first time K-State has received a grant for renovating buildings through the energy conservation program," Ferguson said.

Energy conservation studies were conducted in 14 academic buildings on campus being considered for the installation of energy conservation systems, he said. From August 1985 to March 1986, the $92,626 grant was used to conduct studies on King, Cardwell and Shellenberger halls and Ahearn Field House. In 1986, $201,000 was used in studies and actual work done in Ackert Hall to install a high-efficiency air conditioning system, Ferguson said.

Although not yet officially approved by the government, a grant valued at $197,000 has been unofficially approved for K-State in fiscal 1988 by the Kansas Corporation Comment analyst for Physical Facilities. This grant will be used for studies and actual work done on Waters and Seaton halls, Farrell Library and the Natatorium, McGill said.

In recent years, the Viron Corporation, an engineering consulting firm located in Kansas City, Mo., has won the bids for the energy conservation projects at K-State, Ferguson said.

These studies and the ensuing energy conservation renovations are not included in the budget of the University or the physical facilities department, he said.

The state of Kansas was awarded about $30 million in restitutionary funds resulting from petroleum price overcharges incurred between 1973 mission, said Joel McGill, requireand 1981, McGill said.

The Fone Crisis Center is an agency dedicated to helping people through their tough times; sometimes, this means suicide intervention. To do this, we need volunteers.

THE FONE'S CRISIS

PLEASE HELP! Attend Volunteer training Sat., Feb. 7, 9 a.m. Union Stateroom #3 Call 532-6565 to register A Life May Depend On It!

Council Elections Eisenhower Hall rm. 116 DUE Feb. 13th

Applications Available

Arts & Sciences

LAFEMME (GYN/FAMILY PLANNING) CLINIC

- *Pregnancy Counseling & Referrals
- *Routine Gynecological Exams
- *Self Breast Exam Instruction

Hair Dimensions

Maxine (Max) has joined our staff. She was previously employed at Crimpers and is now at Hair Dimensions.

She welcomes regular and new customers.

717 N. 11th in Nautilus Towers Building in Aggieville

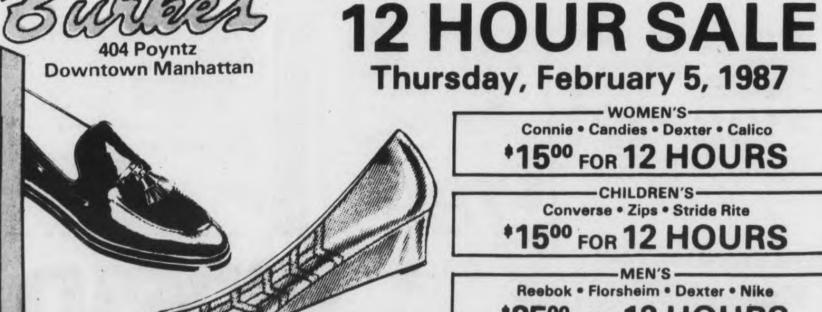

539-8920

Available Services: Birth Control Information & Prescriptions

- *Pregnancy Testing
- *Sexuality Information
- *Sexually Transmitted Disease Information (must come into clinic to make appointment)

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER "Your Medical Facility"

OPEN SUNDAY 1:00-5:00

Thursday, February 5, 1987

Connie • Candies • Dexter • Calico *15⁹⁰ FOR 12 HOURS

CHILDREN'S. Converse • Zips • Stride Rite

*1500 FOR 12 HOURS

Reebok • Florsheim • Dexter • Nike *25° FOR 12 HOURS

WOMEN'S -Bandolino • Bass • Nina • 9-West • Gloria Vanderbilt *2500 FOR 12 HOURS

SALE SHOES ONLY

Send a message straight from your heart. The FTD® Hearts 'n' Flowers " Bouquet. $25.00 Call or visit us today. MANHATTAN FLORAL CO. Flowers Say It All 630 Poyntz Ave. Manhattan, Kansas 66502 PHONE 913 - 776-8801

* Registered trademark of FTDA.

Electronic advertising service connects clients to customers

By KIM GREER Collegian Reporter

Doctors, babysitters and car dealers in the Manhattan area now have something in common. They can advertise their services through Telefind.

Telefind, a new electronic advertising service, offers services to both private citizens and businesses.

Telefind clients can list services or products on a computer data base used by the general public to find goods or services for sale or rent.

Joe Vide, co-owner of Telefind, 227 Southwind Place, completed his master's degree in computer science at K-State in the summer of 1986. He describes his service as "a kind of electronic classified ads section."

Michelle Bennett, Manhattan, bought a listing with Telefind in the babysitting category. She received several calls within two days from prospective employers. She accepted a job from her second caller babysitting four children.

Bennett was pleased with the results of her Telefind listing. She said the printed ad that Telefind distributes is "much bigger" than most printed ads, and the service is "a lot cheaper than a newspaper."

"People feel like they're talking to someone who has more experience. (Telefind) gives people more securi-

People searching for a particular item or service, such as a car or a babysitter, can call the Telefind of-

A computer operator asks callers for their specific information needs, searches through the data base for listings and gives the caller the information free of charge.

Vide and his partner, Keith Davey, opened Telefind in November 1986. Vide said they thought they were filling a need for a computerized advertising service providing quick, specialized advertising information. They currently have nearly 1,000 listings on the data base.

"Life is so much easier with a computer," Vide said.

Telefind offers listings of goods for sale, as well as home services such as plumbing and home repair. Some doctors and businesses also use Tele-find to list services The largest listing category is car dealerships. Vide said the dealers use Telefind because they think it is cheaper than advertising in the newspaper.

The listings are printed every two weeks and distributed through area Mini Marts.

Vide said many Telefind advertisers feel they are getting more ex-posure for less money because the data base listings are printed and distributed.

Telefind does not check their advertising customers' qualifications. Instead, the operator asks the advertisers if they have references available upon request. The actual reference checking is left to the con-

In February, houses and apartments for rent and help wanted ads will be listed.

Senate to consider amendments

By The Collegian Staff

If Student Body President Steven Johnson has his way, Student Senate will approve his constitutional revision tonight allowing a student body president to be eligible for re-election.

Johnson, junior in agricultural economics, said the revision is necessary because a student body president uses most of the term to become familiar with the number of groups and issues met in the position. The experience of one

Candlewood Shopping Center

term in office would make a candidate more effective in articulating student needs and concerns during a second term, he

Although Johnson is the sponsor of the bill, he said he has no plans to seek another term. In other issues, Associated Students of Kansas has approved its platform and is seeking approval from Senate.

The issues with which ASK will be dealing are release of fees, enrollment adjustment and state

Patty Hipsher, senior in political science and campus ASK director, said ASK representatives from five Board of Regents schools decided these three issues were most important.

Senate will vote on whether to require a two-thirds vote to change any fee over which the legislative body has jurisdiction. The Student Governing Association Constitution currently requires a twothirds vote by Senate to change the student activity fee.

776-8830

36 HOUR

BURGER

M-Th 6:30 a.m.-1-a.m. F-Sat 6:30 a.m.-2 a.m. Sun. 7:30 a.m.-Midnight

Hours:

99¢ Double Cheeseburgers

regularly $1.45 Limit 5

DRIVE UP WINDOW NOW OPEN EXPIRES 2-16-87

NO DOWN PAYMENT*
NO PAYMENTS TILL MAY

THE TCECREAM SOCIAL

cakes for your

Enjoy smooth, creamy

I Can't Believe It's YOGURT

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

THURSDAY

Happy Hour

We have shaped ice cream special Valentine New Location 537-7079 1439 Anderson

Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--

Frozen Yogurt Stores

 $T \bullet N \bullet T$ 4-7 p.m.

3 Tacos for $1 99¢ Margaritas

AUNDRYLAND

7 8 9 10 11 12

Wash 12 "superloads" and get your "Lucky Load" FREE!

Drop off laundry service One-day dry cleaning

25" color T.V. Pool table 2048 TUTTLE CREEK BLVD. 776-1939 7:30-9 M-F Set. 8-7 Sun. 8-9

Panasonic

features a 28 function wire-less remote with direct access patible digital tuner, plus 14 day 4 event programming. Model FVH-906. tuning, and 99 position cable-compatible tuner. Model PV-1461.

one! Features auto focus, 6 to 1 power zoom, plus auto white balance. Model CMR-200 factory preset automatic color and 100% solid state chassis. Model AM-1301 tuning Model CF-916

26" STEREO

on-screen time and channel display and broadcast stereo Model GMR-851 or GMR 859

CODE:A:PHONE

¾ FISHER

Fisher Dual Cassette Deck

= 15/21

programmable timer and 15X high speed video search Model VC-6730.

SHARP

SONY

Remote Capable Audio/-Video Receiver leatures a direct access quartz tuner with 10 station memory Model

Trimline Telephone has universal dialing for use with all phone systems. Also with phone Answering Machine features Toll Saver to let you

AM/FM Stereo Headphone Radio features convenient one piece collapsible design.

Cassette Recorder has great sound to go anywhere! Model P-400 has a lifetime warranty. Model CREII-90

FREE SPEAKERS!

BASE BASF 90 Hi-Bias Chrome 90 Min-ute Audio Cassette Tape > car stereo cassette for only $69

ed with any other offer Good thru 2 8 87.

AUntie Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE THURSDAY $2 Pitchers $1 Drinks 50¢

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Draws

3 Way Floor Standing

Loudspeaker with titanium

We have the Lowest Prices QUARANTEED! We won't be under-sold Our 45 day pince protection guarantees you the lowest prices. Please ask for details Mo Lomons, Quaranteed!* Any equipment backed by World Radio's extended warranty program is covered by our NO LEMONS, GUARANTEED* policy! If the product needs repair more than 3 times during this extended warranty period, we will replace it FREE!

STRAV-380

Our Professional Car Stereo Installation GUARANTEED for long as you own the car' Available at many rid Radio locations, see below for the one

Experience in Electronics! You cabinet included. Model CHARGE

IT!

30

NO

120

Top Quality

~Panasonic

Apply for your World Radio Charge Card today

MANHATTAN  11th & Moro in Aggieville 537-4190

The Right Store.

"Professional car alereo installation available at these locations.

"No down payments with approved credit. Sales tax of 4% included. Monthly payments based on our revolving charge. Monthly payments. A P.R. and sales tax will vary from state to state. Interest accrues from date of purchase. Void where prohibited by law.

A crying shame: KU dumps Wildcats, 80-75

Hawks win in 2nd OT paced by Manning's 29

> By JENNY CHAULK Sports Writer

The 209th meeting between K-State and Kansas on the basketball court Wednesday night in Ahearn Field House had it all.

It took two, five-minute overtime periods for Kansas to hand the Wildcats their third conference loss in their last four outings,

The loss marks the first time this season the 'Cats have been defeated after leading at halftime, and the second loss K-State has suffered at home this season.

"You gotta hate losing," K-State Coach Lon Kruger said. "Yet, I enjoyed the battle. The thought of the losing will slowly overtake the joy of the battle. Maybe, not so slowly."

"The game had to be joy to watch," KU Coach Larry Brown said. "What can I say it was a helluva game.

"I never thought that it would go into double overtime. I can't think of any game more significant since I have been at KU. I am just happy we came out of here with a win.'

The game had to be joy to watch. What can I say - it was a helluva game.'

- KU Coach Larry Brown

Poor K-State shooting from the field and the free throw line, combined with a 29-point, 10-rebound performance from KU's secondteam All American forward Danny Manning, proved to be too much for the 'Cats to over-

K-State shot a miserable 31 percent from the field and 67 percent from the charity

"It was a very, very tough ballgame," Kruger said. "Both teams had opportunities to get away from each other. Neither could

The 'Cats had a chance to win the game in regulation play when Norris Coleman hit a 10-foot turnaround jumper in the lane with three seconds left and tying the score at 61-61. In the process he was fouled by KU's Cedric Hunter, but could not connect on the

"I feel bad that I missed the free throws that I did," said Coleman, 8 of 13 from the line. "I thought (the one I missed at the end of regulation) was good when it left my hand."

So did Kruger.

"I thought he'd hit it," Kruger said. "It just didn't go down.'

Both teams traded baskets the entire game, as pressure man-to-man defense applied by both squads made it difficult to get or make good shots.

For everyone, that is, except Manning. He scored 14 of the Jayhawks' last 16 points in

"He flat took it over with about 12 minutes to go," Kruger said. "We didn't do what we had to to stop him."

Manning fouled out of the contest with 59 seconds left in regulation play which gave K-State an extra boost of confidence. But the 'Hawks managed to prove they aren't a one-

"We felt real good going into the overtime," Wildcat guard Steve Henson said. "We were getting the ball inside well at the end of the game, and with (Manning) out, I thought we could keep getting in there and

"With or without Manning, they are a good ball club," Kruger said. "They made the plays they had to make."

"Some people say we are a one-man team," Manning said. "Obviously, we showed that isn't true tonight."

K-State took an early lead in the first overtime, but KU's Mark Pritchard hit the Jayhawks' only three-point shot of the night with 2:06 left, putting KU up 67-65. Mitch Richmond's layup with 54 seconds remaining in regulation tied the score and sent the game to a second overtime.

The 'Cats led once in the second overtime, 70-69, before KU pulled away 74-70. Kruger said this was the turning point in the game. K-State pulled within three, 78-75, with 11 seconds left on a three-point shot by Will Scott, but KU's Hunter answered with a layup in the closing seconds to seal the vic-

Hunter scored 22 points in the game, collected eight rebounds and dished out six

"He did a great job," said Kruger of Hunter. "He makes them go and creates a lot of opportunities for them. His experience really showed down the stretch." "Hunter is about as good as they come,"

K-State's Henson said. Kruger said one bright spot in the game for the 'Cats was improved rebounding. K-State out-rebounded KU 49-39. With the loss, K-State drops to 14-6 overall and 4-3 in Big Eight conference play. KU improved its marks to 16-5 and 6-1. Kruger and the 'Cats haven't lost hope, however. "There's a lot of season left," Kruger said.

We're going to swing away. "We'll just have to bounce back and try to have a good practice tomorrow," K-State center Charles Bledsoe said.

"We've all got to pull together and get it going again," Scott added.

By far, this is my biggest disappointment at K-State," Coleman said. "It's a big setback, especially when we had a chance to get back in the (conference) race. We lack a killer instinct when we have a chance to put a

KANSAS	MIN	FG	FG-3	FT	R	F	TP
PIPER	44	3-5	0-0	0-0	5	4	6
MANNING	37	13-16	0-0	3-4	10	5	29
PELLOCK	13	0-0	0-0	2-2	3	5	2 9
PRITCHARD	36	4-9	1-1	0-1	3	0	9
HUNTER	46	9-17	0-0	4-7	8	4	22
Turgeon	19	1-2	0-0	2-2	1	3	4
Newton	10	0-1	0-0	0-0	2	0	0
Harris	40	3-6	0-0	0-2	5	2	6
Totals		33-57	1-1	13-20	39	24	80
K-STATE	MIN	FG	FG-3	FT	R	F	TP
RICHMOND	40	4-20	0-3	3-5	7	4	11
COLEMAN	44	7-22	0-0	8-13	13	2	22
BLEDSOE	31	1-6	0-0	1-2	10	5	13
SCOTT	39	7-14	3-6	2-3	2	3	19
HENSON	45	2-10	1-4	2-2	3	3	7
Smith	10	1-2	0-0	0-0	0	2	2
Simmons	23	2-5	0-0	2-2	7	1	6
Dobbins	18	2-4	1-2	0-0	1	1	5
Totals		26-83	5-15	18-27	49	21	75
	Commence Com	-

Halftime score: Kansas 29, K-State 30 Turnovers: Kansas 17, K-State 12 Field goal percentage: Kansas 57.9, K-State 31.3

University of Kansas guard Cedric Hunter soars past guard Will Scott House. Hunter scored 22 points for the 'Hawks and Scott had 19 points in the first half of the Big Eight game Wednesday in Ahearn Field for the 'Cats, but KU won the two-overtime battle, 80-75.

game fans, players will never forget

By DAVE WAGNER Sports Writer

Fifteen years ago, in 1972, K-State's men's basketball team did to intrastate rival Kansas what the Jayhawks inflicted on the Wildcats Wednesday in Ahearn Field House defeated them in double overtime on their home court.

At that time, Wildcat head coach Lon Kruger was still in high school and most of K-State's team were picking up their first basketball, neither dreaming that a game such as last night's contest would ever come their way.

Up to this point in the season, this was the game fans and team members alike had been waiting for. Anticipation and anxiety for the match-up had reached a peak.

Students camped out for three days to get the best seats. The first pep rally of the year was held. And what spectators saw was a game that won't soon be forgotten.

"We knew coming in that K-State would be tough," said Kansas forward Danny Manning. "They have the loudest fans here than anywhere in the country and some great players. We're just glad we won." K-State hadn't defeated Kansas since 1983, but this year things were different: - Kansas lost three of its key performers in Greg Dreiling, Ron Kellog and Calvin Thompson. Head coach Larry Brown had been relying on Manning and second-team All-Big Eight guard Cedric Hunter to fill the shoes of these men while he nurtured along a talented freshman class. - K-State had seen the resignation of the legendary Jack Hartman and the beginning of a new era under Kruger, a two-time All-Big Eight

Player of the Year. - Also, Kruger spent little time in recruiting and struck gold by signing junior college stars who have made for an impressive first season, holding their own in conference and non-conference games.

With this, it seemed as if the scene was set for a Wildcat victory.

Before fouling out with less than a minute left in the second half, Manning was the cornerstone for the Jayhawks. Up to that point he had kept Kansas in the game, scoring all but two of KU's points in the last 10 minutes of play in the second half.

"This was the biggest game in my career," Manning said. "With me fouling out and then the team going on to win proved that we're not a oneman team.'

After Manning departed the game with his fifth personal foul, it looked as if K-State would nab the victory when Norris Coleman tossed up a bank shot from underneath to knot the game at 61-61 and drew a foul from Cedric Hunter.

See OVERTIME, Page 8

Jayhawk head coach Larry Brown celebrates with Danny Manning near the end of the second overtime.

K-State head coach Lon Kruger gives his team instructions before the beginning of the first overtime period. The contest marked the first time since 1972 that the Wildcats have forced Kansas into double overtime.

Carlisa Thomas' night enables K-State to nab share of Big Eight lead

By DARAN NEUSCHAFER Sports Writer

It was Carlisa Thomas night Wednesday in Ahearn Field House, when K-State's Lady Cats pounded the Oklahoma Sooners, 80-69.

Thomas, a 5-foot-9 senior forward, recorded her second triple-double of the season as she scored 12 points, pulled down 16 rebounds and handed out 13 assists.

Before the start, Thomas was awarded a ball in recognition of her becoming K-State's all-time leading rebounder. The pre-game hype seemed to excite Thomas and her enthusiasm carried over into the game.

"When Carlisa plays within herself like she did tonight, she is a great player," Lady Cat coach Matilda Mossman said. "Her emotion tends to carry over to the other players, and I think that was a big plus for us tonight."

Although Thomas has been playing consistent basketball this season, she said Wednesday's performance was probably the best allaround game of her collegiate career.

"I've had good games before, but this was probably my best all-around game," Thomas

The win improved K-State's record to 16-5, and 5-3 in the Big Eight Conference. Combined with Nebraska's loss to Kansas, K-State is now tied for first place in the Big Eight with three other teams.

Even though Mossman wanted to shut down Oklahoma's potent transition game, it was when the Lady Cats were on the run that Thomas and the rest of her teammates got things going.

"We have the people to run, but lately, it seems that we haven't been running that much," Thomas said. "But tonight, we kind of had to run a little, and it was kind of fun."

Things were not all fun and games for the Lady Cats on this night, as K-State knew they were going to be in a battle. And that is exactly what they got. The game started out rather sluggish and remained that way until the Lady Cats went on a 24-10 run to open up a 13-point margin, 31-18, with 4:41 left in the half.

K-State's lead grew to as much as 15 points before things began to get a little physical, bringing both coaches to their feet. K-State held onto a 39-24 lead when Mossman was hit with a technical foul for arguing a call on "That was the first time I have ever been hit with a technical for asking 'why," Mossman said.

Oklahoma's Lee Brock made one of the free throws and then canned two additional charities before teammate Toni Campbell connected on a 15-foot jump shot to pull the Sooners within 39-29 at the half.

The Sooners, who had been unable to get their explosive running game going in the first half, lit the fire in the second half by installing a full-court press. The defensive move worked, as the tempo quickened and the Sooners put their transition game in mo-

The Lady Cats watched their lead wilt as the Sooners went on an 18-10 run and managed to cut the lead to 59-57 with more than five

At that point, Mossman called a timeout to try to stop the Sooner's momentum. But sophomore forward Tracey Bleczinski never felt the Lady Cats were going to lose.

"All I was thinking about (during the timeout) was that there was no way they were going to win this one - not in our gym,' Blecinski said.

And she was right. After two unsuccessful attempts to tie the game, the Sooners watched their hopes fade as K-State went on a 19-4 run to put the game out of reach.

Bleczinski led K-State's balanced scoring attack with 16 points. All five of the Lady Cat starters finished in double figures. Sue Leiding scored 15 points, and guards Susan Green and Theza Fitzpatrick each added 14 and 12, respectively.

Oklahoma was led by Lisa Allison, who threw in 17 points. The Sooner center also pulled down eight rebounds to lead the team in that department. K-State extended its home-court winning streak to 12 games dating back to last

Oklahoma dropped to 16-5 and 4-4.

The Lady Cats will return to action Saturday when they travel to Ames, Iowa, to take on the Iowa State Cyclones. K-State won the first meeting this season, 63-56.

Game Statistics

OKLAHOMA	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
PHILLIPS	17	1-5	0-0	1	5	2
MOSLEY	25	5-11	3-4	6	0	13
ALLISON	31	5-10	7-9	8	3	17
ROGERS	27	1-8	0-0	6	3	2
BROCK	22	1-7	1-3	6	4	3 0 6
Zachary	4	0-2	0-0	0	0	0
McKeon	28	3-10	0-0	2	2	6
Campbell	20	5-10	0-0	2	4	10
Ivy	14	5-10	4-5	1	3	14
Callan	12	1-4	0-0	3	2	2
Totals		27-75	15-21	40	25	69
K-STATE	MIN	FG	FT	R	F	TP
THOMAS	36	6-9	0-0	16	3	12
BLECZINSKI	35	5-8	6-10	6	2	16
LEIDING	32	6-12	3-3	5	4	15
GREEN	36	6-9	2-2	1	0	14
FITZPATRICK	29	4-9	44	3	1	12
Matteucci	1	0-0	0-0	0	1	0
Smith	3	0-0	2-5	0	1	2
Madsen	2	0-0	1-2	0	1	1
Funk	10	0-2	2-3	2	1	2
Kuebelbeck	1	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Davidson	5	0-2	0-1	3	1	0
Lane	10	3-3	0-2	3	2	6
Totals		30-54	20-32	47	17	80

Turnovers: K-State 26, Oklahoma 23 Field goal percentage: K-State 55.6, Oklahoma 36.0

K-State guard Theza Fitzpatrick goes for a layup as University of cond half Wednesday in Ahearn Field House. The Lady Cats won the Oklahoma center Lisa Allison attempts to block her shot during the se- contest 80-69 to grab a share of the Big Eight lead.

Overtime

Continued from Page 7

But Coleman failed to convert a free throw with three seconds left in regulation play, which would have given K-State the win.

'By far this is my biggest disap-

77

eman said. "We just made some untimely decisions in both overtimes."

After the game, Brown and members of the Kansas team uncharacteristically pranced back to the visitors' locker room - cheering like they had just won their first game of the year.

They talked that way too. Many said this win was by far the biggest victory of the season. For some, the biggest of their careers.

"I am just glad we came out of here with a win," Brown said. "I can't think of any game more significant since I have been at KU.'

"Without a doubt (this was our biggest victory)," said Kansas senior guard Mark Turgeon. "It really means a lot to me (being my last season.)" "When Danny came out we knew day, February

rmation on any UPC event.

we had to pull together," said Jayhawk senior Cedric Hunter. "(This was) about the toughest game

I have ever played in." While the 'Hawks were exalting their victory, there was a more solemn mood in the K-State locker

"It's a tough game to lose," K-State guard William Scott said. "A couple of breaks our way and we could have won this game." Kruger carried a shadow of disapabout the rest of the season. "It was a close game," he said. "We struggled with learning how to get over the hump, we are getting our share of experience. We have a pointment, but remained optimistic

lot of season left and we will keep plugging away." NOTES: It has been seven years since a Wildcat men's basketball team had carried a game into double overtime. The scene was Ahearn Field House during the 1979-80 season against Big Eight Conference foe Nebraska. The 'Cats won 66-64...Kansas has won five of the seven overtime contests it has been involved in with K-State...The Wildcats will have a chance to avenge their loss Feb. 19.

pointment at Kansas State," Col-

SKI WARNER PARK FEB. 14. 1987

Time: 12:00 noon - 5:00 PM

Includes ski rental, refreshments, and how-to demonstration by an experienced teacher.

k-state union upc outdoor rec.

TODAY! Little Theatre, 3:30 & Forum Hall, 7:30 p.m.

Igmar Bergman's stunning allegory of the search for the meaning of life. You don't want to miss this one.

k-state union upc kaleidoscope

THE SEVENTH SEAL Janus Films and Films Incorporated

GRAND CANYON BACKPACKING

SPRING BREAK MARCH 13-21!

INFO MTG: Tuesday, Feb 10, 7 p.m., Union Rm. 206 SIGN-UP: Wed., Feb. 11: limited to K-State students only Thur., Feb. 12 -

March 3: Open to students. faculty, and the general public Union Activities Center, 3rd Floor 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

SCARED

Gregory Hines and Billy Crystal star as a pair of fast-talking, crime-fighting cops who thrive on chasing bad guys and dodging bullets on Chicago's mean streets.

Friday and Saturday, Forum Hall, 7 & 9:30 p.m. $1.75, KSU ID required

k-state union upc feature films

GET INVOLVED ON CAMPUS WITH THE UNION PROGRAM COUNCIL

Volunteers Wanted: Individuals interested in serving for the '87-'88 year as committee chairs to coordinate social, recreational, educational and cultural programs for the benefit of the KSU community. Union Program Council is a student volunteer organization coinsisting of approximately 100 students who select, plan and promote 500 programs (films, trips, entertainers and more) each academic year. UPC is broken up into nine committees: Promotions, Travel, Special Events, Outdoor Recreation, Kaleidoscope Films, Issues and Ideas, Feature Films, Eclectic Entertainment and Arts.

President-Presides over the UPC Executive Council, sits on the Union Governing Board, coordinates events and activities that involve the total UPC membership. Our highest leadership position. Arts—Coordinates Union Art Gallery exhibitors, print sales, art rentals, the Arts and Crafts Sale, the Photo Contest and Mid-Day Arts.

Eclectic Entertainment—Provides the best in live entertainment, professional comedians, singers and student entertainment.

Issues and Ideas—Selects, organizes and publicizes lectures highlighting current events or popular topics of interest. Organizes the "Let's Talk About It" series. Kaleidoscope Films—Selects and publicizes innovative, artistic and international films on Wednesdays and Thursdays in the Union. They also show weekend matinees and midnight films. Outdoor Recreation—Offers a wide variety of outdoor-related trips and programs based on a "cooperative wilderness adventure"

Travel—Coordinates and publicizes winter and spring break trips for the K-State community. Sells an International Student I.D. card and maintains a Travel Resource Center. Feature Films—Selects and publicizes popular films every Friday and Saturday night in the Union. They also show weekend matinees and nes the "Programmer" calender and other publications to promote UPC. Applications for Leadership (Committee Chairs) are available NOW Deadline: 4 p.m. Tomorrow.

Special Events—Selects coordinates and publicizes desired events or activities that do not fall under another committee area, including dances, the Activities Carnival, "Late Night at the K-State Union" and some types of live entertainment. Promotions-Deals with the visual image of the entire council. Pastes up Collegian ads.

Applications may be picked up and submitted in the Activities Center, 3rd floor of the K-State Union. For more information, call 532-6571.

m k-state union

By SANDRA M. SIEBERT Collegian Reporter

To draw attention to women in religion, the Women's Resource Center is sponsoring activities focusing on women's spirituality during Susan B. Anthony week, Feb. 9-13.

The week is set aside to honor Susan B. Anthony, one of the most vocal of the early women's rights activists.

A woman's place in religion is often ignored, said Katherine Parker, assistant director of the Women's Resource Center. She is expected to be no more than an inconspicuous member of the congregation, she said.

Women want to know what their place in religion has been in the past and where their place is in the present, Parker said.

Considered saints and mystics by some faiths, women such as Joan of Arc, Catherine of Siena, Margery Kempe and Julian of Norwich were labeled "mad" in their days. Elaine Kruse, professor of history at Nebraska Wesleyan University, Lincoln, will speak about these women and others at 12:30 p.m. Monday in Union 206.

The Rev. Anne Cleavenger, an Episcopal chaplain at the University of Kansas, will speak about women in the clergy at 8 p.m. Thursday in

IT'S MY

TAXIDERMY

PROJECT

FIRST

GREAT!

WHAT IS IT?

A MOOSE HEAD?

A DEER HEAD?

LIFE and Cimes

I BELIEVE IT'S ABOUT

THAT POINT IN OUR

THE DREADED

AT ANY MOMENT

BIG CONFESSION

Garfield

MAYBE SEEING OPIE WILL JOG YOUR MEMORY

eanuts

I COULD HAVE HAD

AN OLDER SISTER TO LOOK UP TO ..

WHAT A SWELL

LOOKING POG. PUT

RELATIONSHIP WHERE

I SHOULD BE EXPECTING

WHAT THE.

On Friday, the film "Moon Goddess" will be shown during a noon luncheon in the Union Cottonwood Room. Made by prominent feminist filmmaker Barbara Hammer, the film portrays two American Indian women searching for their feminine spirituality.

Reservations are $5.50 and must be made through the Women's Studies office in Eisenhower 22 by Monday.

Concluding the week's events will be a women's coffeehouse from 8 p.m. to midnight Friday in the University for Man Fireplace Room. Two short films by Hammer will be shown, and the Women of the Heartlands Chorus of Manhattan will perform. Spinster's Books, a feminist bookstore in Lawrence, will

During the coffeehouse, Marlene Howell will lead a discussion about the roles of women in the old religions and their roles in the traditional religions set up by white men. Howell is a member of the board of directors of the National Coalition

There will be a $2 charge for

During the week WRC will have "Mirror of Venus," the center's available at a table in the Union.

Classifieds

ANNOUNCEMENTS

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski destinations. South Padre Island, Daytona Beach Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauder-dale, Mustang Island/Port Aransas, Galveston Island and Fort Walton Beach. Call Sunchase Tours Central Spring Break Toll Free Hot Line today for information and reservations—1-800-321-59111

Congratulations

SILVER WINGS

on becoming a campus organization

ALPHA KAPPA Psi Members: Please sign up at the announcement board in Calvin Hall, 1st floor to work credit card table February 10, 11, 12 in the UnMARY KAY Cosmetics—Skin care—glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi

ATTENTION

CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry. Need 100 overweight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drugs, no exercise, 100% guaranteed. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

02

FMA/FINANCE CLUB

Officer Elections Thursday, Feb. 5 7:30 p.m.

Union 213 New Members Welcome!

HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT distributor. See us for products. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

Courtesy Demonstration by Appointment 9:30-5:30 Monday-Saturday

MERLE NORMAN 308 Poyntz

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS!! Overcoats, field jackets, camouflage clothing, wool gloves and socks, cold weather boots, Carhartt workwear, much more!! Just 28 miles east on highway 24. Open Monday

FOR RENT-MISC

2734. (86-95)

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th. Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

Saturday, 9-5. St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437-

FOR RENT, two-bedroom mobile home, $200 month plus deposit. 537-7622. (85-93)

FOR RENT-APTS TWO-BEDROOM apartments, furnished or unfur nished, (new furniture). Westloop area. Call 776-9124. (90tf)

ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month. Gas, heat, and water included. Lease and deposit required. Call 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (89-98) TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294

LARGE, WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five blocks from campus. No pets. $275. Call 776-0181. (91tf) NEAR KSU, quiet, clean, one-bedroom, furnished laundry, air conditioning, parking. Available June 1. Call 776-7814 or 539-3803. (85-104) TWO-BEDROOM-two blocks from campus, $230.

Call 539-1349. (88-92) ONE-BEDROOM-one-half block from campus

$210. Call 539-1349. (88-92) FURNISHED, SPACIOUS two-bedroom, nicely decorated. Dishwasher, disposal. Short-term lease available. No pets, $300 deposit required. 539-

ONE-HALF BLOCK from campus, one-bedroom, furnished apartment, $220, bill paid. Call 537-7313 or 539-8401. (90-94)

ONE-BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Put or 776-7045. (90-94)

THREE-BEDROOM, one and one-half bath in a nine plex. Available June 1. Living/dining area and fully equipped kitchen. Water and trash paid. $125 each ur, $150 each for three. 822 Fremont, phone 537-7087. (90-94)

LARGE TWO-BEDROOM, partially-furnished basement apartment close to campus, 1411 Vista Lane. Own entrance, no pets, parking for two cars. Deposit plus rent, available now. Pay own electricity. Phone 235-3550, Topeka. (91-100)

MOBILE HOME for rent. Utilities paid, washer/dryer. Mature student or married couple, no kids, no pets, non-smoker. $225/month, unfurnished. Call collect. (816) 765-0153. (91-95)

NICE, ONE-BEDROOM apartment. Water, trash, twords gas paid. $260/month. Nice for couple or graduate student. 539-2482 after 4 p.m. (91tf)

Early Bird Special Leasing for June $50 OFF

1st month's rent Studios & 2 Bedroom Apartments and Townhouses Close to Campus MONT BLUE APTS.

539-4447 TWO-BEDROOM, furnished apartment, one block from Aggieville with air conditioning. $190/month. Available now, call 539-7253. (92-95) FALL LEASE? Nearly new, well designed and built one, two, three and four bedroom apartment complexes, or regular houses. Most close to campus easonably priced. Available now, summer and fall. Please call 537-2919 or 537-1666. (92-108)

By Eugene Sheffer

FOR RENT-HOUSES

TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage, west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294.

THREE-BEDROOM, near City Park, available immediately. 776-0605 or 539-4226. (91-95)

FOR SALE-AUTO

TOYOTA PICKUP, 1984, clean, excellent condition, five-speed, long bed, topper. 776-0529. (87-93) 1978 HONDA Civic, front wheel drive, backwindow defroster, new tires, brakes. $900/offer. 539-6990.

MUST SELL: 1978 Buick Regal limited, loaded and very sharp. Must see to appreciate. 776-3835. (90-

1978 FORD Fiesta-Great m.p.g. Call 776-1930 after 6 p.m. (91-93)

VW—RED 1970 Bug. New paint and tires. Runs good! Warnego 456-7654 or 456-9989. (91-95) CAN YOU buy Jeeps, cars, 4 x 4's seized in drug raids for under $100? Call for facts today. 602-837-3401. Ext. S 744. (92)

1982 CHEVY S-10 long-bed pickup. Loaded, sharp. Call Daryl Folkerts, 539-0900 after 6 p.m. (92-94) FOR SALE: 1970 Ford F-100 360 4V, 3-speed, camper shell, radial tires, spoker wheels, 98K, sliding rear cab window. Reliable. Asking $1,200. Call 539-

PICKUP—1975, V8, one-half-ton, automatic, power steering and brakes. Runs good. 539-4818. (92-94)

FOR SALE-MISC

REFRIGERATOR, MID-SIZED, great for dorms. $110 or best offer. Call Phil, 776-7794. (88-92)

Hayes House of Music DOD Effects 30% Off

327 Poyntz

03

776-7983

STETSON COWBOY hat, size 71/4. Reasonably ced. Call 537-4689 after 6 p.m. (90-94)

Edelaine's Weddings Plus TUX SPECIAL $39.99

on tuxes ordered by 2-28-87 for any occasion-anytime

776-4498 421 POYNTZ

OVATION UK-II Stereo Electric guitar, $500 with tuner. Kustom II powered four-channel mixer with speakers, $175. Sharp dual cassette deck and BSR 10-band equalizer, $100 and $75 or $150 for both. Prices negotiable. David or Michael, 537-1770. (90-

Edelaines Weddings Plus Wedding Dresses 20-50% off

421 POYNTZ

ROYAL PORTABLE typewriter. Manual, with case,

Lee's Western Wear Clearance Sale

OFF 1/2 REGULAR PRICE (21/2 Miles E. Hwy. 24) 776-6715

MAKO BASS guitar, case, strap, extra strings. Must sell. $90 or best offer. 776-1925. (92-96)

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08

1981 14 x 70 Detroiter, Excellent condition. In a nice park. 239-3708 or 539-7308 Monday-Friday-evenings. Ask for Carol. (91-95)

FOUND

FOUND: FERRET, 17th and Laramie. Identify to claim. 539-5559. (92-95)

10

HELP WANTED

EARN $480 weekly—$60 per hundred envelopes stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed for company project stuffing envelopes and assem-bling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to JBK Mailcompany, P.O. Box 25-52, Castaic, California 91310. (76-102)

AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer. Career! Good pay, Travel, Call for guide, cassette, newsservice! (916) 944-4444 Ext. #58. (76-135)

THE KANSAS Cooperative Extension Service has an opening for student computer programmers. The position is for 20 hours per week, flexible sched-ule. Applicants should be familiar with one of the following languages: Pascal, C, or PL/I. Summer employment is a possibility depending on performance. For more information contact Dr. Steve Welch or Mary Knapp at 211 Umberger, phone: 532-7019. Application blanks are available from the above individuals or in the Computer Science Office and will be taken during business hours through February 6, 1987. (83-92)

WANTED: COUNSELORS, riding and waterfront instructors (WSI and lifeguards). June/July 1987, live in, camp setting. If interested in an interview or March 4, contact Career Planning and Placement

SUBJECTS NEEDED, females only, for thermal com-fort research. $10 for 2-hour test. Sign up at the Institute for Environmental Research, basement of Seaton Hall, enter room 64. (91-93)

RIP AND Mo's is now accepting applications for waiters and waitresses, bartenders, door personnel, and cooks. Apply in person at Ray Enterprises. 1203 Laramie, Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-noon, or 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. (90-93) PART-TIME help. Ag background helpful. Apply Nelson Poultry Farms, East Highway 24 or call 776-9401. (91-92)

RESORT HOTELS, cruiselines, airlines, amusement parks, now accepting applications. For more information and an application; write: National Colle-giate Recreation Service, P.O. Box 8074, Hilton Head, S.C. 29938. (91-101) RESIDENT CAMP Director—minimum age 25. Resident camping experience necessary. Send resume to Camping Services Director, Wichita Area Girl

Scout Council, 2009 N. Woodlawn, Wichita, Kansas 67208. EOE. (91-92) RESIDENT CAMP Counselors—A variety of posi-tions available at Girl Scout Camp Wiedemann. Contact Camping Services Director, (316-684-6531). EOE. (91-92)

NEED SOME cash on the side? Home workers needed to stuff envelopes. Earn as much as $480 weekly—$60 per hundred, guaranteed. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope to BF Mailing Company, P.O. Box 1762-1, Manhattan, KS. 66502 before

16 February. (91-95) INDIVIDUAL OR group to deliver a birthday-gram on campus February 12. Call 539-0900. (92-94)

EDITORIAL ASSISTANT. Student to work 15-20 hours weekly, writing, editing, and producing man uals and other user documentation for microcomputer software. Solid command of spelling, grammar and clear writing skills in English essential. Editing experience and knowledge of WordStar word processing desirable. For application form, contact Karen Tryphonas, 211 Umberger Hall. (92-

PYRAMID PIZZA now accepting applications for de livery personnel. Please apply in person. (92-93)

FOUND TUESDAY by Dickens Hall, ladies knit

NOTICES

VW REPAIRS done right the first time. J & L Auto Service, 1-494-2388. Drive a Jittle and save money. (86-

St. Francis Episcopal Sundays 5 p.m. Danforth Chapel (Anglican) 537-0593

FREE DINNER for two when your organization books a banquet or dance at the Cotton Club. 539-9431 (92-97)

PERSONAL

DEAR BLONDES with the Blue Coats: I would like to meet either one of you! Second Dark-Haired Guy with the Grey RX-7. (92) PHOENIX—THOUGHT I could figure you out but I can't! How about another clue. —Pam. (92)

16

KD PLEDGES-You thought you were smart, you thought you were bright. Came to our house on Tuesday night. You came to make such a mess; but you had to settle for something less. We knew about your little plan and we were waiting with bucket in hand. We treated you to a shower and flour; so beware, for the midnight hour. Love, The AKAK's, (92)

MATT B.: I'm proud of you for all your hard work Good luck in the election. Love, Debbie (92)

PIPHI PAULA-Ten new cows you bought, cold as ice you got. The begging wouldn't do. as I ate my shoe. Why'd you have to be such a snot. —Getting

UNCERTAIN BLONDE: OK, ya got me. So I'm not a stickler for details. I don't remember the backpack and you weren't wearing sneakers. If still interested meet me at EE-Gee's, 7:30 p.m. Friday, (92)

... YOUR Beautiful ... 'Sam.' (92)

GIRL WITH algebra troubles: How was your test? Interested person from Union television room on Tuesday wishes he could have helped. Reply in Personals. Guy in Jean Jacket. (92-93)

SNAVELY-HOW'S Felix? And the katy? Thanks for taking me train chasing, I love it and you. Pollyanna. (92) YO JAMES - Maybe two Santa Fe's isn't enough of a challenge?! Sleep is though! I love real challenges and going under 70! Love, Gisela. (92)

TO THE Greek Newspaper Staff: Want to have fun and laugh? Then come to the Union, room 209, at four today and be on time! P.S. Ed wrote this poem. ALPHA XISKI'S and Delta U-ski's. Polish sausage and lots of brewskis. We'll unite to have a blast, for Polish women are said to be fast. The Polish reunion Friday will be, so get psyched for a happy Polish anniversary (92-93)

AZD CINDY-The number to call is 537-3933 for Sat urday plans. Sincerely-Very Excited. (92) SEXY BLONDE in blue sweater studying Physical Anthro — How did it go with your class? CU in the library. (92-94)

ROOMMATE WANTED

MALE ROOMMATE across street from campus at 1230 Vattier, Ground floor, private room, washer dryer, fireplace. $135/month, plus utilities. 776-9369 (84-93) NONSMOKING FEMALE-large house, sundeck washer/dryer. Utilities paid, own room $175/ month, 539-6628 (86-95) MALE ROOMMATE to share four-bedroom apartment. Own room, washer and dryer, close to campus and Aggieville. $137.50 plus one-fifth utilities. Marlene —539-2356. (89-93) FURNISHED TWO-bedroom apartment, $165/month

Offstreet parking, Laundry, Campus two blocks Inquire at 539-9304. (90-94) OWN ROOM, close to campus. $125 month. 539-

ROOMMATE-TO share three-bedroom house, own room. Close to campus. Rent $125/month or nego tiable. Call 539-0112. (90-103) HOUSEMATES TO share beautiful new town ouse Fireplace, private patio, three-bedroom, threebaths. Rent negotiable 776-3191 or 776-8005 (91

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share basement apartment. $150/month, plus utilities. Call 537-9555. (91-101)

FEMALE, NOW or summer, own room, nice house, near campus, $145/month plus utilities 537-8825.

SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg-nancy test. Confidential Call 537:9180, 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25, (1tf) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716 (391f)

18

EXPERIENCED TYPIST-$1.10/page. Disc storage. letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537-9205, Dorinda (89-98)

SUN N CONNECTION

NOW SELLING 5 sessions

for $15 1126 Laramie 776-2426

TYPING/WORD processing. Data sheets, resumes letters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Bur den, 539-1204. (90-99)

QUALITY TYPING at economical prices. Disserta-tions, Resumes, Theses, etc. Call Caron at 532-6294 or 776-2279. (86-95) MARTIE'S TYPING Service, Word Processor, 1011

Juliette, 537-3314. Term papers, theses, disserta-tions. 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. (92-94)

0 Sessions

(Offer expires Feb. 8) 1214C Moro

776-7874

NEED HELP with math or physics? Give me a call. Paul Works, 537-7754. (92-96)

SUBLEASE 20 SUMMER SUBLEASE—three-bedroom, one and one-half bath, close to campus, $465. Call 776-

5379. (91-95)

21

BABY-SITTER HAS an opening for weekdays for a Call 776-2382. (90-92)

- 1 Office 41 Difnote 5 Zhivago's 43 Hymns love
- the red 12 Mideast resident 13 Verve

9 Be in

- 14 Earnest promise 15 Banded moth
- 17 Before 18 Looked villainously
- 19 Frolics 21 Yoked
- beast 22 Blood's partner 24 Press 27 Deceit
- 28 Bosc. e.g. 31 Actress Ullmann
- 32 - time (former) 33 Past 34 Movie distributor
- Marcus 36 Tank fill 37 Early garden
- Yesterday's answer 38 Yank's foe have a display.

Against Sexual Assault.

materials at the coffeehouse. newsletter, and other materials to the meeting February 9. (92-94) by Doug & Dick ONLY THE WELL SENIORS NO ... GET TO WORK WITH THE HEADS. WE USE 4 THE ..

FRENCH KISSED

IN EIGHTH

GRADE!

ARNOLD BLIMPTON

Bloom County By Berke Breathed

By Charles Schulz KNOW THE)

DID I GET?

INSTEAD, WHAT

OR I COULD HAVE HAD

WHO WOULD HAVE LOOKED UP TO ME ...

YOUNGER SISTER

rossword 16 Critic DOWN ACROSS 40 "-

Jupiter'

ferent

51 Author

Deighton

bane structed of 23 Dregs 4 Fairy praise 24 " - Take king 47 Black 5 Lascivor Red 25 Brazilian ious 48 In the resort 6 Actress way

1 Man-

3 Con-

handle

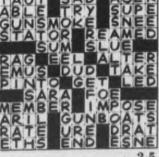

2 Sea eagle

MacGraw

27 Theater paigned 52 Actor 8 Go box Penn 29 Mature fishing 53 "Do others..." 9 Business costs 54 Peculiar 10 Toil 55 Roosters mates mothers 56 Bound Solution time: 24 mins.

7 Cam-

30 Director Howard 35 Tiny 37 Great 11 Cote sight 39 Under-> 41 European capital 42 Used a wood 43 Writes 44 Top-

Reed

45 - bene 46 Word in a telegram 49 Society page word

50 Newsman

Rather

20 Horned viper 22 Student's Romance' 26 Tennis stroke growth 40 Prohibit notch

CRYPTOQUIP 2-5 SNQHPX DPAKZNB PXPNKKW MNX IRXI QNDW RHDX RD IMZ SRBZ Yesterday's Cryptoquip: WHEN MANY WRESTLERS ARE PAST THEIR PRIME THEY ARE SORE LOSERS.

42

XARZD -I H H

Today's Cryptoquip clue: K equals L

WANTED

(pictures)," he said.

Photos

Continued from Page 1

Lecture by Sheikh Ahmed Zaki helped the Federal Bureau of Investigation identify two or three illegal aliens, but Tubach said Wednesday that Herrman was incorrect. He said the FBI was present and took its own pictures.

Caraway said some foreign students were alarmed about possible retaliation against them or their families if their governments gained access to the files. Thompson said she believes

'They've never seen any of our foreign governments could obtain access to pictures and negatives under the Kansas open records law. Tubach said no foreign official has asked to see the file. He said he believes speculation that any would try is unjustified. "Has any of the foreign students here gone home and been killed?" he

Through previous work in the U.S. government, Beckom said, he learned foreign governments have their own photographers and would not use photos on file with the campus

Expel

Continued from Page 1

that "I am not in a position to go into the various channels that have been

Spokesmen at the Swiss Embassy in Tehran, which has represented U.S. interests since 1979, refused comment Wednesday.

Although the taco eaters didn't receive free tickets, some of them enjoyed the opportunity of sharing the game's spotlight.

"I thought it would be a good, crazy college experience that I could tell my kids about - that I was in the taco-eating contest at the K-State-KU game," said Kim Kessler, member of the winning women's taco-eating team, "Taco Tacklers."

Menninger criticizes death penalty return

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA - Dr. Karl Menninger said Wednesday politicians should leave punishment of criminals to corrections experts and not enact a death penalty just because a majority of a misinformed public thinks it wants it.

"The Legislature should refer it to a skillful, intelligent, reliable corrections group," Menninger told a news conference arranged by a group calling itself Religious Leaders Against the Death Penal-said, "is the kind of a question that belongs to experts and not politicians.

Capital punishment, Menninger

"I don't think crime control should be in their hands," added the co-founder and chairman of the board of the Menninger Foundation, a longtime opponent of the death penalty. He met with reporters at his Foundation of-

Menninger, who will be 94 in July, said he is sending a letter to senators before the Senate takes up a bill already passed by the House which would reimpose capital punishment.

Fans

Continued from Page 1

the entire three-hour game, craning necks and standing on tiptoes to catch every bit of the action.

The excitement for the rivalry began even before the game started. Tuesday and Wednesday pre-game anticipation pervaded what looked like a small campground in front of Ahearn Field House

Mark Faul moter

A crowd of about 100 ticketholders for non-reserved seats huddled against the cold and rain in sleeping bags and tents, waiting for an early admittance in order to scramble for the best seating. "It's like a tradition, waiting for the game like this," said Reed Bullinger, junior in crop protection, whose group had been taking turns

539-4888

"We Pile It On!"

waiting in line for more than 24 hours. "Everyone's expecting the game to be a good one - that's why we're here.'

Expectations for the game were so high that some would do almost anything to get in, including becoming the halftime entertainment. Eighteen gaame watchers participated in a taco-eating contest sponsored by Taco Bell and radio station KQLA.

50% off

Speedy FREE Delivery

TWO TOPPING PIZZAS

1 p.m. Haircut Appointments with coupon

Monday through Friday expires 2/27/87

RENT-ALL VIDEOS

RENT 1 — GET 1 FREE

Expires 2/11/87 1122 Laramie 539-8786

Bring in This Coupon & Receive 50¢ OFF!

AL-BASHA

GREEK & MEDITERRANEAN FOOD

1209 Laramie 537-7533 FREE Delivery for orders of $10 or more after 4 p.m.

Offer expires Feb. 11, 1987

GLAMOUR WORLD

Town East 9:30 a.m.-8 p.m East of Food 4 Less 9 a.m. 5 p.m Sun. 1-5 p.m. YOUR NUMBER BEAUTY STOR Devoted Exclusively to Selling Professional Beauty Products

$5 OFF on cleaning or demagnetation of car stereos

CAR STEREO TUNE UP SPECIAL

1126 Moro 776-5507

Expires 2-13-87

FREE MEDIUM SOFT DRINK

with the purchase of any sub 12th & Moro-Aggieville

expires 2-28-87 with this coupon only void with other offers

Cafe LaGrande

Taco, Burrito and Small Soft Drink $1.99

606 N. 12th Aggieville 776-8123 Expires 2/28/87

$3 OFF HAIRCUT reg. $15

$10 OFF REDKEN PERM reg. $40

ANNING SESSIONS $2 Expires 2-28-87

One coupon per person

Buy One Sandwich, Get One FREE

(with this coupon)

The Great Western Smokehouse

901 Seth Child Rd. Village Plaza Shopping Center

Manhattan, KS

Offer Expires Feb. 15, 1987

PERM SALE

Gals Warm & Gentle Apple Pectin Feels So Lively

$30

Curly Body Partial $25 All Perms Include Cut and Style

539-TAME or 539-8601

404 Humboldt

exp: 2/11/87

RECORD—TAPE SALE

Now In Progress!

CLASSICAL ROCK FOLK COUNTRY

Records start as low as $1.98! Cassette tapes as low as $2.98!

On the edge of campus, in the heart of Aggieville.

776-0300

Publish Your Love Notes

This year The Collegian has a way to make Valentine's Day extra special!

We're offering onecolumn-by-two-inch Valentine ads for only $6 each, complete with art, a border and your special sentiments!

The Valentines will run in the Friday, Feb. 13 Collegian. For more information and to place your order stop by the table in the Union Thursday, Feb. 5 or Monday, Feb. 9, or come to Kedzie 101 before Feb. 10!

Video Craze

Although video cassettes can be rented from about 20 outlets in Manhattan, local movie theaters have held a steady audience. See Entertainment Plus.

Weather

Partly Cloudy

Partly cloudy and warmer today, high in upper 40s. Wind northwest 5 to 15 mph. Mostly clear tonight and Saturday.

Sports

Iowa State forward Jeff Grayer will lead the Cyclones against the Wildcats Saturday in Ames, Iowa. See Page 6.

 BIGIT SAGIZ

Kansas State

Friday February 6, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 93

Witnesses report sighting of Waite in Beirut

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Two taxi drivers said they saw missing hostage negotiator Terry Waite walking in a southern Beirut suburb Thursday with an escort of about 10 gunmen and four turbaned Shiite Moslem sheiks.

Waite, the 6-foot-7 Anglican Church envoy, was last seen by reporters Jan. 20 when he left the Riviera Hotel in west Beirut to meet the kidnappers of two Americans. Since then, Waite has not contacted the church or his family.

The taxi drivers, who spoke on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press they saw Waite walking with his escorts in a street close to the Lebanese capital's airport highway at about 3 p.m. Thurs-

"I saw him smiling and waving his hand to onlookers as he walked. He wore a gray raincoat," said one witness. "I stopped my taxicab to watch, but the escorts waved me away, shouting: 'Don't stop. Drive on.' I did."

Waite wore a raincoat when he was last seen by reporters.

Another taxi driver said he saw Waite at the same time in the same procession, smiling and waving his right arm to onlookers on the left side of the street.

Both drivers work in the neighborhood of the Riviera Hotel, where Waite stayed between his arrival in Lebanon on Jan. 12 and the time he dropped from sight Jan. 20.

Waite came to Beirut to try to win the freedom of foreign hostages. A total of 26 foreigners, including eight Americans, are missing and presumed kidnapped in Lebanon. Many are believed held by Shiite Moslem cap-

The taxi drivers said that before Waite's disappearance, they had frequently seen him walking on the beach or traveling in a motorcade.

"I haven't the slightest doubt about his identity. I know him and I saw him this afternoon," one driver

In West Germany, the masscirculation newspaper Bild quoted unidentified "Beirut security circles" as saying Waite was shot and critically wounded after he tried to escape from captivity in Lebanon. The newspaper, in a report prepared for its Friday editions, did not say when the alleged shooting occurred or provide other details.

Shiite and Druse militia officials in Beirut scoffed at the newspaper

"It's absolute fantasy," said one militia official, who also spoke on condition of anonymity.

Also Thursday, police and military officials in Beirut renewed their denial of any U.S. military action anywhere in Lebanon, following rumors that U.S. Marines were landing to attack Shiite guerrillas.

"We have had no report of any such attack anywhere in Lebanon, yet," a police official said. He spoke on condition of anonymity.

The rumors were sparked by the presence of a flotilla of U.S. warships off Lebanon. Some Lebanese politicians and news media said the warship were ordered into the area to put pressure on groups holding foreign hostages. Two of those groups have threatened to kill their captives in response to an attack.

In Washington, sources speaking on condition of anonymity said no attack on Lebanon was planned.

The Reagan administration announced the aircraft carrier USS Kennedy would begin a port call in Israel on Friday and that four of the Kennedy's escort warships had been ordered to sail for home.

The Washington sources said one of two Marine amphibious groups now in the Mediterranean soon would also be allowed to head home.

"We're dropping back a bit because our presence there is being blown out of proportion with rumors of invasions," one U.S. official said.

The naval buildup occurred after the abduction of three Americans and an Indian in Moslem west Beirut late last month and Waite's disappearance.

Professor's artwork on display globally

Artist still receiving awards for enterprise

By DORI WITHERS Collegian Reporter

James Munce, associate professor of art, is a man of many artistic endeavors who continues to receive worldwide honors for his artwork.

His most recent honor came Jan. 30, when he was asked to display his prints and drawings in the Capitol. Munce was one of two Kansas artists chosen to exhibit works for the Kansas Day celebration in Topeka. House majority leader Joe Knopp, R-Manhattan, selected Munce and hosted a Friday afternoon reception in his honor in his House Chamber office. Among his many achievements, Munce has displayed his art in Korea, Japan and cities across the nation including Los Angeles and San Francisco. He said he has had one-man art exhibits in San Francisco and South Dakota. "I try to send work to shows as often as I can. Sometimes I'll be accepted, and other times I'll be rejected," he said.

In 1984, Munce was awarded the Mid-America Art Alliance, a cooperative art grant worth $3,500 to artists in Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Arkansas. He used the grant to purchase an etching press, which he uses to make prints in his basement studio.

The Boston Printmakers Organization holds an annual print exhibit and has presented Munce with an award of excellence for two consecutive years.

Munce said his interest in art can be traced to his youth, when he took high school art classes.

Good teachers throughout school have been inspirational to the artist, particularly an instructor at Indiana University, Bloomington. "Rudi Pozzatti was a first-rate instructor. He had a genuine interest in the art of printmaking," Munce said. Pozzatti's attitude toward printmaking was worth learpressed in the art and his students made a lasting impression on Munce.

Currently, Munce is working on a threeyear project involving images of St. Francis from Nikos Kazantzakis' novel "St. Francis." He is recognized across the nation for his works depicting religious scenes.

"Whatever I am working on at the moment is what interests me the most," Munce said. "After I finish a project, then my interest moves on to my next project." Munce said he is looking forward to ning from, he said. The interest he ex- James Munce, associate professor of art, etches on a copper plate in the early stages of printmaking. Munce was chosen as one of two artists to exhibit works at the Kansas Capitol as part of Kansas Day celebrations.

displaying his work in McCain Auditorium in mid-February with Teresa Schmidt, associate professor of art, in addition to a spring show in Washington, D.C.

He has permanent displays in the Brooklyn Museum, the Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco, the University of Louisville and the American Embassy in London.

As an instructor of drawing and print-making, Munce said he gains satisfaction knowing that he can make an impression on students. Teaching also allows him to dedicate time to his own works.

Munce came to K-State in 1972 after teaching at the University of Hawaii for one year. He received his bachelor of fine arts from the Minneapolis School of Art and his master of fine arts from Indiana University.

Faculty Senate revises policy on incompletes

By CHAD L. SANBORN Staff Writer

In an effort to curb abuse of the University policy for incompletes, Faculty Senate added a time limit for course work to be completed.

The changes were made last October to discourage students from using incompletes as a way to drop classes, said Al Davis, associate professor of human development and family studies and chairman of the Faculty Senate Academic Affairs Committee.

The new policy, effective for the 1987 spring semester, is the same as the present policy ex cept for the time limit. It is not retroactive.

In regard to the time limit, the policy states that taking an incomplete will result in an "I" on the student's transcript. After taking an incomplete, the student has one full semester in residence at the University to complete the course work.

According to the policy, if the class is not completed in the time alloted, an "X" will be placed beside the "I." This is for record keeping purposes and will be computed into the student's grade point average at zero points per credit hour. Records of students with nonresident designation will be treated the same

"A student taking an incomplete in a spring class will have until the end of the next fall semester to complete the class, provided the student is enrolled in school," Davis said.

However, Davis said the "IX" status can be replaced at any time if the student completes the course work. "The incomplete policy was designed to help students when emergencies arose which kept them from completing a class," he said. "But many students were just taking the incompletes and treating them like dropped classes." While reviewing the policy last semester,

Davis said the committee found the registrar's office showed several thousand incompletes. The committee had reason to believe most of those wouldn't be made up, he said.

Provided the class is an elective not in a student's major, he or she can graduate with an incomplete on the transcript. But Davis said he hopes the new policy will motivate students to replace their incompletes with grades.

"We (the committee) felt it was not legitimate for students to misuse the policy. Many students not doing well in a class would take the incomplete and then just forget about the class," Davis said.

Panelists address concerns of U.S., Japanese economics

By JUDY LUNDSTROM

Staff Writer

Americans have done a "sloppy job" of trying to understand international markets, said Joseph Bellizzi, associate professor of marketing, at a forum Thursday in the Union.

Bellizzi and four other panelists conducted the forum in preparation for a Feb. 10 Lou Douglas Lecture at which Lester Thurow, a Massachusetts Institute of Technology professor, will speak about "United States-Japanese Economic Relations.

Addressing the question, "Is Japan Number 1?" the panelists spoke briefly about Japanese economic policies and trade relations and answered questions posed by a group of about

If Japan is not No. 1, Bellizzi said, the United States must admit the Japanese have come a long way since World War II.

Japan is currently tops in motor vehicle production and ranks high in education, said Wayne Nafziger, professor of economics. Some economists compare Japan to the United States of a few decades ago, he said. Between 1945 and 1960, Japan grew faster than any other developed country. "It grew from ashes," he said.

In 1980, the U.S. trade deficit was about $10 billion, said Carol Rose, of the International Trade Institute. In 1986, it was $180 billion. Of that amount, nearly $58 billion was with Some economists say Japan practices 'adversarial trade," Rose said. The Japanese sell, but do not buy in return.

"They are not importing their fair share," she said. The Japanese have been more successful in our markets than we have been in theirs, Bellizzi said.

Video cassette recorders are a good example. Even though the patent originated in the United States, no company in the United States manufactures VCRs, Rose said. One major reason for the Japan's success is that American manufacturers have failed to design their products for Japanese markets. An example of this failure was the manufacturing of Barbie dolls, Rose said. When Mattel Inc. attempted to sell the dolls in Japan, it did

See FORUM, Page 7

Wichita bank closes its doors; Kansas' first failure in 1987

By The Associated Press

WICHITA - The slumping oil economy and unsuccessful lending strategies were blamed for the failure Thursday of the Boulevard

State Bank of Wichita. The bank was purchased by a Wichita bank holding company and was to reopen Friday. Bill Olcheski, a spokesman for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. in Washington, announced the failure, the first in Kansas this year and the 18th nationwide. The FDIC board of directors approved the sale of the bank after it was closed by Eugene T. Barrett Jr., Kansas state banking commissioner. Olcheski said.

The failed facility was purchased by Union Boulevard National Bank, a newly chartered subsidiary of Union Bancshares Inc., Olcheski said. Union Bancshares owns Union

National Bank in Wichita. "The failed bank's four offices will reopen Friday as Union Boulevard National Bank and its depositors will automatically become depositors of the assuming bank, subject to approval by the appropriate court,"

Olcheski said. Greg Coyle, FDIC closing manager, said the bank had been identified as a problem bank as early as July 1985 because of significant loan losses. He said about 32 percent of the failed bank's loan portfolio was in the energy industry. "Several of those ventures apparently went sour depleting the bank's capital," he said.

On Wednesday, rumors circulated that the bank was going under. Depositors withdrew more than $1 million, Coyle said.

"There was a little bit of a run," he said Thursday. "We decided it would be best to close the bank this morning. It was originally scheduled to fail at noon."

Boulevard State Bank had total assets of $99 million when it was closed and the FDIC named receiver. Olcheski said Union Boulevard National will assume about $84.9 million worth of deposits in 19,800 accounts and has agreed to pay the FDIC a purchase price of $2,158,005.

Union Boulevard also will purchase portions of the failed bank's loans and other assets at a price of $58.2 million. To facilitate the transaction, the FDIC will advance $31.2 million to Union Boulevard and will retain some assets with a book value of $40.8 million.

"They start with a clean bank," Olcheski said. "Any shaky loans, we take. We won't get $40.8 million for the assets, but we'll get something for them. The assets could be anything - loans, property - but it's mainly loans."

The FDIC board of directors approved the deposit assumption, which it can do whenever it determines such a transaction will reduce the potential loss to the federal corporation, Olcheski said.

The $2.15 million premium paid by Union Boulevard convinced the FDIC to approve the sale. The FDIC will recover a portion of its $31.2 million outlay through the liquidation of the assets not transferred to the assuming bank.

Olcheski said the FDIC's claims will take priority over non-depositor creditors and shareholders of the

Mike Heitman, deputy state bank commissioner, said Boulevard failed because of the problems in the oil

"The reason for the failure is due to large losses in its loan portfolio related to energy production and energy-related purposes," Heitman

INTERNATIONAL

Train with nuke fuel jumps tracks

GLOUCESTER, England - A train car carrying a 50-ton container of spent nuclear fuel jumped the tracks at a rail yard Thursday, but the car remained upright and there was no radiation leak, officials

The British Rail freight train was carrying a steel cube containing 138 spent nuclear fuel rods from the Oldbury power station in southwest England to the Sellafield nuclear plant on the northwest Cumbria coast for reprocessing, the Central Electricity Generation

The train car and the nuclear container, which has 14-inch thick walls, remained upright after two wheels left the tracks near Gloucester, about 20 miles north of Oldbury, the electricity board

"There has been no damage to the fuel flask....There is no emergency. There has been no evacuation," a board official said, speaking on condition of anonymity. "But we have sent one health physicist to make a thorough investigation."

Seib en route home, officials say

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Airport officials in Tehran said early today that American journalist Gerald F. Seib had left the Iranian capital en route to West Germany.

Seib, a 30-year-old Cairo-based correspondent for the Wall Street Journal, was arrested during a government-sponsored press tour and had been accused of spying.

Officials at the Tehran airport told the Associated Press in a telephone interview from Nicosia that Seib was aboard Lufthansa airline Flight 601 that left the airport at about 6 a.m. (9:30 p.m. Tues-

They said the plane would make a brief stop in the southern Iranian city of Bander Abbas before continuing on to West Germany. No further information was available immediately.

REGIONAL

Lobbyists want 2 teacher contracts

TOPEKA - Lobbyists representing school boards and school administrators urged lawmakers Thursday to change laws that say what duties can be included as part of a teacher's contract. But one lobbyist called a proposal doing that "indentured service."

Lobbyists for the Kansas Association of School Boards and the United School Administrators of Kansas asked the Senate Education Committee to endorse a bill changing the definition of what a primary contract and supplemental contract is.

Under current state law, a primary contract cannot include activities considered supplemental to a teacher's regular classroom duties, such as coaching or taking tickets or acting as a hall monitor. Such duties can be included in a supplemental contract, which can be cancelled or changed independently of the primary contract.

The measure would allow primary contracts to include teachers' classroom duties and any duties related to instruction during the school day, as well as any resulting from their teaching, such as a speech teacher's supervising a debate team. In fact, the board and the teacher could agree to include all duties in a primary contract.

Richard Funk, lobbyist for the school board association, said the measure would protect both boards and teachers.

A board could make sure certain supplemental duties are performed, and the teacher would know exactly what duties he or she is responsible for.

NATIONAL

Woman slates boyfriend in murder

PASADENA, Calif. - A woman charged along with her boyfriend in the motel room murder of a pizza delivery man cried as she told jurors her life was filled with violence, and she witnessed her father stab and shoot her mother.

Ruby Padgett, 21, took the witness stand Wednesday to convince jurors that she was bullied by her boyfriend, Mitchell Sims, 25, and was merely a passive observer in the December 1985 slaying of John Steven Harrigan, 21, of Glendale.

Defense attorney Ray Fountain said he wants to show Padgett had a pattern of complying with violent men.

Prosecutors say Padgett was an active participant in the murder. Harrigan, an employee of Domino's Pizza, was found gagged, tied and drowned in the bathtub of a motel room in Glendale, 10 miles north of downtown Los Angeles, where he had gone to deliver a pizza,

Padgett described Sims to the seven-woman, five-man jury as an alcoholic who beat her when he was drunk and was kind to her when he was sober.

Homosexuals targeted for violence

MINNEAPOLIS - Police and gay community leaders are urging homosexuals to avoid after-hours encounters with strangers following the slayings of eight homosexual men in the past 14 months.

"I think gays are subjected to a good deal of violence in this society and it almost always involves a stranger-to-stranger murder, which sends the whole community into fear," said Police Chief Tony

Most of the dead men were found in their apartments, although one who frequently dressed in women's clothing was found on a bridge. In two cases credit cards and videocassette recorders were taken, and in two other cases the victims were found stabbed to death in a burning apartment.

Although suspects have been arrested and charged in three of the killings and police do not believe the other five are linked, men in the gay community still refer to "the murderer," according to Tim Campbell, editor of the GLC Voice, a Twin Cities gay newspaper.

Agent plans O'Hara, Butler sequel

ATLANTA - Will Scarlett O'Hara find a new love? Will Rhett Butler learn to give a damn?

Some of the greatest unanswered questions in American literature may soon be answered.

The estate of Margaret Mitchell, author of "Gone With the Wind" who adamantly opposed a sequel, is working with a New York literary agent on an authorized novel continuing the story of Scarlett and Rhett.

The book could be published as soon as next year, and a sequel to the blockbuster 1939 movie is likely to follow, said T. Hal Clarke, an Atlanta attorney who sits on a committee that represents the Mitchell estate in decisions concerning "Gone With the Wind."

Clarke said Thursday that Stephens Mitchell, the author's brother, reluctantly agreed before his death in 1983 that the Mitchell family must proceed with a sequel, even though it would go against his

Mitchell, a real estate attorney, knew that if the family did not act, a flood of unauthorized sequels would be released when the "Gone With the Wind" copyright expires in 2011, Clarke said.

Mitchell, who died in 1949 at age 48, probably would support the decision "in light of the present-day circumstances," he said.

Campus Bulletin

ANNOUNCEMENTS

MORTAR BOARD applications are available in Union Activites Center and are due by 5 p.m. to-

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL sign-up today in

BLUE KEY SENIOR HONORARY membership applications are available in Anderson 122 and are due by 4 p.m. today.

AGRICULTURE AND THE LIBERAL ARTS PROGRAM will be held from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Shellenberger 311. North East Kansas Farm Advocate Network will present "Weathering the Current Farm Crisis: The Search for Viability."

final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Saad A.A. Merebah at 3 p.m. in Bluemont 257. The dissertation topic is "Cooperative Learning

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL has scheduled the INTERNATIONAL CLUB meets at 7 p.m. on WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTER meets from

in Science: A Comparative Study in Saud

noon to 1 p.m. in Union 213

SHE DU'S meet at 4:45 p.m. at DU house for rush party. Also, meeting at 9 p.m. Sunday at the

SUNDAY

PHI KAPPA TAU LITTLE SISTERS meet at 8

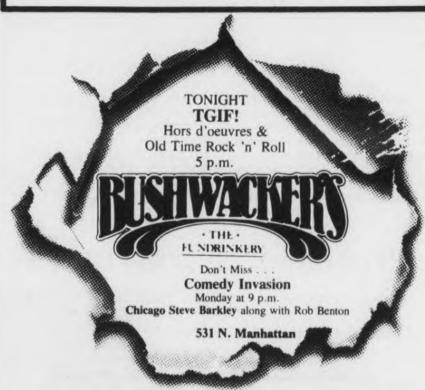

TRAFFIC APPEALS BOARD meets a 10 p.m.

HUMAN ECOLOGY COUNCIL meets at 2 p.m.

Applications Available

Arts & Sciences Council Elections

Eisenhower Hall rm. 116 DUE Feb. 13th

NON SUNDAY, GRILL OPEN ALL YOU CAN EAT SPAGHETTI AND

BREAD!! Only $3.25 TRY OUR HOMEMADE FOOD! -Hand Pattied Burgers -Homemade Onion Rings and Kurly Q's

GARLIC

If They Won't Tell You About It, Then You Know It Must Be Great.

Purple Passion. Out of the bathtub, into the can, and onto the shelves of your favorite store. Discover it for yourself.

Only 37 days until Spring Break!

Start your pre-season party training this weekend at ROCKY MOUNTAIN

We're In To Something Good

1101 Moro

RUNZA DRIVE INN RESTAURANT

Aggieville

SPAGHETTI SERVED FROM 5-8PM SUNDAY.

NOTICE:

MAY GRADUATES

Today is the deadline for filing your application for graduation.

Undergraduates:

File in your Academic Dean's office

Graduate Students:

File in the Graduate School office

Fairchild Hall

Attorney to present mock hazing trial

By The Collegian Staff

A prosecuting attorney will present a mock fraternity hazing trial at the sixth annual Greek Leaders' Retreat Feb. 7 in Union Forum Hall.

Dave Westol, prosecuting attorney for Kalamazoo County in Michigan, will address liability of Greek organizations concerning hazing and alcohol.

His presentation on hazing will begin with the discussion of a fictitious incident and work through a mock trial, said Barb Robel, adviser for Greek Affairs. Westol, the national vice president of Theta Chi,

Greek leaders to learn repercussions has spoken at national conventions for sororities and fraternities.

K-State doesn't have a real hazing problem, but education is necessary to inform students of problems that could arise and the repercussions that could follow, Robel said.

Alcohol liability and hazing are current concerns for the greek system, said Shawn Pine, senior in marketing and a coordinator of the program.

Fewer students are able to drink because of the new alcohol laws, and houses are having to deal with that. Hazing is also a growing concern at

The purpose of the retreat is to help new officers in greek organizations prepare for their coming terms and to educate them about current

K-State, Pine said.

Led by selected greek officers from houses on campus, the workshops at the retreat are designed to help prepare new officers for their coming terms. Robel said past officers were asked to attend to give insight and offer new ideas.

'We have found that it is really effective to have past officers facilitate the workshops because they can relate actual experiences and techniques that have proven successful," Robel said.

To increase attendance, Robel said participation points toward Greek Week will be awarded for greek organizations attending the retreat.

About 300 students have attended previous retreats, but Robel said the points are an incentive for all new and old officers to attend.

Friday Night

Fried Chicken or Spaghetti with Meat Sauce All You Can Eat Only $3.95 with

Salad Bar

Gourmet Specials featuring Prime Rib or

Saturday

Steak & Shrimp only $5.95 Open Sunday 8-3

Serving Breakfast until 1 p.m. Sunday

Valentines Day Special

Sterling Silver . . . the latest thing in jewelry! 14% off all sterling silver heart shaped items

14% off all diamond pendants & stud earrings

Other unadvertised specials-come shop!

Diamond Connection

408 Poyntz Avenue

539-3225

Federal grant to aid in teacher training

By SUSAN STAGGENBORG Collegian Reporter

A recent federal grant of $306,000 will enable three K-State researchers to develop a program to help teachers of learning disabled students.

The proposal for the three-year program was submitted to the U.S. Department of Education and approved by the Office of Special Education Programs.

"The goal of the program is to train teachers in preparing learning disabled students for life after school," said Norma Dyck, associate professor of administration and foundations.

The teachers will learn to incorporate life survival training into their academic instruction.

"Teachers will be instructed in setting up role playing situations and teaching how to accept and give criticism," said Warren White, assistant professor of administration and foundations.

"Learning disabled individuals are normal or above-normal people who have difficulty in a specific academic area that prohibits them from benefiting (from education).

"In early learning disability programs, we thought we could cure the disability, and the individual could slip into the mainstream with everyone else," Dyck said. Instructors assumed the problem was taken care of by the time learning disabled children reached adulthood.

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

According to a study by K-State education researchers, learning disabled adults are not receiving the education necessary to prepare them for life skills. Social skills such as learning to solve problems and occupational skills are the most difficult for learning disabled adults.

"Parents of learning disabled individuals have brought this to attention as the child fits into adult life," Dyck said.

School teachers of learning disabled students focus on the academic skills necessary to function in the school system, Dyck said. Elementary teachers stress these areas

Enjoy smooth, creamy

Frozen Yogurt

that tastes like Ice Cream

but with 80% less fat!

-- FREE SAMPLES--

I Can't Believe It's

YOGURT

Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays

Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

because students are not ready to learn life skills, Dyck said.

Little about basic survival skills is taught, she said. Learning disabled students find holding a job and balancing a checkbook are among the difficult, but essential, tasks necessary to survive on their own.

"Life survival skills include social skills, work skills and everyday living skills," Dyck said. "Our program is to prepare teachers to work with them (learning disabled students) while in high school."

White said the 15 high school teachers of learning disabled students chosen to participate in the program each year will receive a stipend of $1,000.

They will attend classes for three semesters and be able to apply nine hours of credit toward a master's degree in education. The program, however, is designed for special education instructors and will not be available to K-State students.

The first meeting is scheduled for Feb. 21, when teachers will meet and discuss the needs of the program in their area. Teachers from all across Kansas will be asked to participate.

The summer session will be spent instructing the teachers in the area of social skills. Setting up job sites and interacting with possible employers of learning disabled adults is another area that will be covered, White said.

Upon completion of the program, teachers will share ideas and results of the program through the use of teleconferences on the Telenet system, a telephone network with 34 locations throughout Kansas.

WANTED

Radio Announcers Part and Full Time

DJ applications being accepted for night and day shifts. Prior experience necessary. EOE.

KMAN

KMKF

2414 Casement Rd., P.O. Box 1350, Manhattan, KS 66502

REMINDER:

Valentine's Day falls on prise your valentine at school or the office. ORDER EARLY.

Balloon Boutique

619 N. 3rd 539-0106

Saturday.

So if you want to sur-

Hair Dimensions

Maxine (Max) has joined our staff. She was previously employed at Crimpers and is now at Hair Dimensions.

She welcomes reqular and new customers.

717 N. 11th in Nautilus Towers Building in Aggieville

539-8920

1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan, KS 66502 (913) 537-1118

Drs. Price, Young, Odle, and Horsch, P.A.

Introducing

New rigid gas permeable contact

lenses that offer sharp vision, long-term comfort and the convenience of daily

or extended wear—to anyone who can wear contact lenses, even those with astigmatism. They are firm and easier to handle than soft lenses and will last longer and save you time and money.

537-1118

FRIDAY NIGHT SPECIAL!

National Video's Party 6 Pak plus people = FUN!

> Rentals of Your Choice 2 Liter Bottle of Coca-Cola Packet of NEWMAN'S OWN® OLDSTYLE PICTURE SHOW POPCORN

PARTY 6 PAK

Includes:

RENT 4 MOVIES FOR THE PRICE OF 3

RENTAL VCR'S AVAILABLE TOOL OFFER GOOD EVERY SATURDAY IN FEBRUARY!

OPEN DAILY MATIONAL

MEMBERSHIP REQUIRED

1123 Westloop

Odds for U.S. asylum small for Salvadorans

the base of the Statue of Liberty us your poor, your tired, your huddled masses - as long as you're not from El Salvador." This revision would be necessary to bring the famous motto up to date with the current policies of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

ment Accounting Office disclosed some improprieties in the granting of political asylum by the INS. The report showed that Salvadorans received asylum only 2 percent of the time, while Iranians received asylum 66 percent of the time and Poles 49 percent.

These policies have long been criticized by opponents of U.S. policy in Central America. Salvadorans fleeing the political repression and civil war in their country are ignored by the United States because America doesn't

The bronze plaque that adorns want to admit that its policies in Central America are causing peoshould be revised to read "Give ple to leave their homes. They point to the thousands of refugees fleeing Afghanistan and Vietnam as proof of the repression being carried out in those countries, yet they will ignore the repression carried out by their client states, such as El Salvador and Guatemala. This double standard A recent report by the Govern- covers up the fact that it is money, not morals, that guides American foreign policy.

> As a result of this denial of asylum to refugees from Central America, some American citizens have taken matters into their own hands by setting up sanctuaries for those denied help. This is an illegal activity, and several people were arrested last year for providing sanctuary.

> The United States Government needs to change its policy on granting political asylum.

CIA's Director Gates poses threat to media

New CIA Director Robert tional security adviser John that his initial reaction to the Iran Poindexter to make the Iran-Contra affair public before the secret arms deals were revealed, may bring some public accountability to the organization.

A report by the Senate Intelligence Committee stated Gates was "surprised and disturbed" when a CIA analyst approached him Oct. 1 to express concerns that money from the Iran arms sale was being diverted to the Contras.

Had Poindexter and President Reagan followed Gates' advice, the administration might have supplied more complete, honest information about the dealings instead of forcing the press and the House Intelligence Committee to go through a shameful tooth-pulling process to get at the truth which is leaking out "in dribs and drabs."

But Gates may not be the shin-Gates, who reportedly urged na- ing ray of public accountability affair might indicate.

> During confirmation hearings last year for his previous position of CIA deputy director, Gates defended the use of covert activities as "an appropriate instrument of foreign policy, as long as it is taken within a broader con-

He also vowed to curtail leaks of information to the news media which came about because of "a lack of discipline" among staff members. The actions of the country's super spies, which seem to be outside legal control, can only be monitored through public awareness.

Media access is a crucial preventative for the horrible excesses that can occur when power goes unchecked - as it did in Nicaragua.

Promoting abstinence won't benefit children by Secretary of Education William J. Bennett and Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, the controversial issue of AIDS education was given some new - albeit questionable - direction. Their statement suggested young people be taught "abstinence is safest" and that support from parents and the local community is needed by the schools.

In addition, Bennett and Koop implied that AIDS education supporting "safe sex" without stressing the moral issue may be more harmful than beneficial.

Bennett and Koop's views may be too conservative - and thus too unrealistic - for the culture of the younger generations. The importance of stressing morality should not be underplayed, but in schools with high incidences of

In a recent statement released sexual activity, the need for instruction to prevent the spread of sexually transmitted diseases is great. Helpful, and possibly even lifesaving, facts have more value than a sermon.

> Furthermore, if the students have already established a routine of sexual activity, it is too late to stress strictly the moral issue. At this point, health information is necessary. Students are more apt to listen if they believe the information will be helpful to

The last thing they want is more restrictions on their lifestyle. Each school is going to have to make the decision on what is more important preventing sexual activity or preventing the spread of AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases.

Untrue facts thrive about veto

I have followed, with growing displeasure, the development of a number of statements regarding my previous decision on the representation enhancement bill. After having the facts behind the decision aired by members of my cabinet, I have refrained from continuing to reiterate the discussions. I have found out that a number of incorrect comments and conclusions have developed.

First of all, I feel it should be clear that I indeed did not kill the issue of representation enhancement. In fact, I encouraged continued discussion and work on this topic which would involve a wider segment of the campus population in the deliberations through the ad hoc committee.

I did make a decision on the proposal which came to me from Student Senate. I either sign or veto any bill or resolution passed by Senate. I vetoed this bill as I did not feel student government had yet fulfilled our responsibility of developing the best pro-

Secondly, although it may come as a real shock to some of you, I am not antidemocratic or against referendums. I would agree that a referendum is the correct way to decide this issue, and I am certain that the argument of referendum is what initially pushed the proposal through Senate. However, I feel the proposed changes also require some discussion by a representative group. After that discussion is complete, I would feel sending the issue to referendum would be in order.

STEVEN JOHNSON Guest

This leads to another observation which I found to be...interesting. In one of the editorials in the Jan. 29 Collegian regarding the proposal of an athletic fee referendum, reference was made twice to the fact that I had vetoed one referendum and very well could just wipe this puppy out, too. This argument persisted, and I heard it come up numerous other times as well. Again, I support referendums, but I do believe it is our responsibility to try and develop the best possible proposal to present in that form.

I do not say that everyone has to agree with me on all issues, and I think the same is true in reverse. I do what I think is right, but currently my decisions are given (or cursed with, as the case may be) a unique power. Indeed there are a number of individuals who disagree strongly with my decision. The opponents voiced their concern through a petition drive, which is an avenue to check my decisions. My only concern is that you learn all of the facts and ramifications behind both sides of the issue before deciding either way.

Finally, I must commend the individuals who initiated the proposal on their efforts to bring the issue to light. I am aware of the dedication they had, and I am glad to have seen their interest. I hope interest continues, and from what I have heard the candidates for the next student body president term say on this topic, I believe that it will.

Steven Johnson is student body president and a junior in Isolation sometimes necessary

There are times I feel I am someone else. Times when the person the rest of the world sees as me is a complete stranger. It's as if I were viewing the world through another's

The view of the places I should know seems to be distorted at times. Sometimes it's as if I'm on the outside looking in. I look and see but don't recognize where I am. It's like being lost. You know there's a way back to where you belong but you haven't a clue as to the direction to take. The entire world may as well be another planet because nothing, absolutely nothing, looks as it should.

It works the same way with people. There are times when those I call friends may as well be strangers. And times when I'm sure I'm a complete stranger to them as well. Our moods shift and we become different people or my view shifts and I see different people where I once saw friends.

It goes along with my introspective nature but I do disconnect from myself. I have been known to do it on purpose. Usually when I curl up with a good book, or vegetate in front of the television, but most of the time it is entirely involuntary. My mind disconnects from my body and disconnects from the world around me.

I'm not sure if this habit is unique to me or if it happens to others as well. It seems to be a relatively normal behavior for me (I

It's all a matter of sensory overload. It's a result of my need to escape from reality, my means of coping with the world and people surrounding me.

There are times when I'm doing something and I put the mind in neutral and leave the body on automatic. I notice it most when I'm swimming.

Those first few laps I have to concentrate on making the body do what it needs to do. After a few laps, when the body responds the way it's supposed to, I can leave it on automatic and contemplate other things.

JEAN TELLER Collegian Columnist

It's fairly easy to do when swimming. The water and movement cut off all sound and distractions. The only sounds I hear are my own breathing and the splashing of the water as my arms slice through the surface of the pool. It's no wonder water is the means for sensory deprivation experiments. It's another world entirely.

I don't think I could ever disconnect myself as completely as in sensory deprivation. I'm not sure if I'm that introspective. But it is great to be able to cut myself off from the rest of the world. It's just me and the water with no distractions.

I need the time to myself. Sometimes the world starts closing in, the senses begin to overload and I feel as if I'm losing the race to whatever goal I'm heading for. That's when I cut myself off from everyone and everything. Then the walls go back to their original place and I can breath again and everything's all right.

We all need to disconnect on occasion. We're bombarded constantly and it makes all of our senses reel. The world is a noisy place. We have to constantly watch, be on guard against the myriad of problems the world throws in our direction. Our senses of smell and touch are being used every second and our sense of taste is utilized more than it should be - the vending machines scream

When you finish this column, stop and listen to what's around you. Pick out the sounds you know, hear how much noise surrounds you.

Look around you. Look at the people, the different styles. Look at the room you're in, the colors, the arrangement of the furniture. Look at the trees, the grass, the buildings you're walking past. Smell the air, the smell of something cooking nearby, the smell of moisture in the air, the smells in the wind.

Touch the paper, the table you're sitting at or the chair you're sitting in. Feel the material in your shirt or the denim of your jeans. Notice the textures, the ribbing in your sweater. Really taste the gum you're chewing or the candy bar you're gnawing on. The next time you're drinking coffee or the ever-present soda, really taste it. If you're eating, don't swallow until you actually taste whatever is on the menu.

Part of the problem of our everyday world is the fast pace we live our lives. We forget to watch, to listen, to taste, to smell, to touch. We rush through events and past people. We are in such a hurry to get to the next place, we fail to see how we get there.

When we carry that hurry to the extreme we usually do, it's no wonder we have to disconnect. We have to turn the brain off, allow the senses a rest and start over again.

We may forget to listen or taste, but our senses are always open. So the senses close our brains down to recuperate. The faster we hurry through the world, the more we are bombarded with and the more often the brain disconnects.

It's a simple matter of slowing down, something I know I need to do more. It's a cliche but we really should "stop and smell the roses." It would help us live in this complex world, to appreciate the wonders and the people around us.

EDITOR Jonie Trued MANAGING EDITOR Sue Dawson NEWS EDITOR Erin Eicher

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Deron Johnson PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER

Sheila Hutinett

EDITORIAL BOARD: Susan Baird, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Judy Goldberg, Ron Honig, Pat Hund, Deron Johnson, Sarah Kessinger, Judy Lundstrom, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Andy Nelson, Patti Paxson, Julie Reynolds, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 929) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except THE COLLEGIAN (USP'S 29) 29) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Letters

Police photography

I am both shocked and angered to learn K-State students and faculty members, protesting the Reagan administration's support of the Contras in Central America, were photographed by University police. I am told that this has been a common occurrence at protests for a number of years, not only at K-State but at campuses all over the country. The photos taken last week were added to a file in the campus police department.

The department insists it has taken these pictures to protect the protesters from any possible violence by the crowds that gather. If this is indeed the reason, then why not photograph the people in the crowds? This seems much more logical to me. I am not positive, but I will make an educated guess that the police photographers have not taken pictures of the pro-lifer supporters who protest abortion, nor have they taken any photos of the various religious groups that preach on our campus. If I am wrong about this, we have but more cause to be alarmed. Are we not promised in our Constitution the freedom of speech and the right to peaceably assemble?

I have some suspicions I sincerely hope to be false. Is it possible these photographs might someday be used to shatter the personal lives and careers of those pictured? Maybe this is simply a scare tactic being used by the University to discourage students and faculty members, who all possess basis First Amendment rights, from voicing their

Although our rights have not yet been infringed upon, I can't help but see this coming.

For those who find this to be a bit farfetched, open your history books and start reading about a 1950s United States Senator named Joseph McCarthy.

Jim Jesik freshman in architecture

By CHAD L. SANDBORN Staff Writer

Despite an idle Christmas vacation, the K-State debate team is looking to move back into the top-40 rankings. Debate Coach Ed Schiappa, instructor of speech, said his young team's high finishes in post-break tournaments should put them back in the rankings.

'We were inactive over Christmas break because we didn't have traveling money, and we fell out of the rankings," he said. "But we've done well since we've come back (from break)."

The team has participated in four tournaments, with at least one twoman team finishing in the top three at every tournament. Their most recent tournament was in Colorado Springs, Colo. at the Air Force Academy. The team fared well as two K-State teams shared the firstplace honors.

One team consisted of Steve Collins, freshman in pre-veterinary medicine, and Stacey Schwarz, freshman in business administration. Members of the second team were Cathy Doud, freshman in general arts and sciences, and Pat McGranahan, freshman in computer

Schwarz said the teams chose not to debate for first place.

'We beat the University of Utah in the semifinals, and our other team beat the University of Texas-El Paso. But we chose not to debate because we had won first and second place either way," she said.

The teams debate a pre-chosen, national topic which changes every semester, Schiappa said. The current topic is whether or not mandatory drug testing is an invasion of privacy.

Because most of the 14-member team is made up of freshmen, Schiappa said he has been surprised by his team's recent success.

"I looked at this year as a rebuilding year. I figured we'd spend a lot of time learning. Fortunately we've been learning and winning," he said.

Their next tournament is at Missouri Southern State University in Joplin, Feb. 13-15. Schiappa is optimistic about the team's chances.

"I expect us to do well. I don't think this tournament will be any tougher than the others. We are coming on strong...so I expect to do at least as well as at the other tournaments," he said.

Although the debate team has

In other legislative action, Senate

accepted a special $200 allocation to the Student Governing Association to provide for a mailing to prospective

The mailing, financed by the

Reserves for Contingencies account,

students interested in SGA.

already qualified two teams for the national tournament, they are looking to qualify more. Schiappa said qualification is based on a combination of a two-man team's number of wins, losses and points. This April the national tournament will be in Baton Rouge, La.

 Full service copy center Resume service

M-F 8-9 Sat. 9-5 FirstBank Center 776-3771

Live Band

Free set this afternoon

539-9619

4c self-service copies

OPEN DAILY Sun. 12-9 Denison & Claflin

Friday & Saturday

(formerly the Catz)

1800 Claflin

Tanning Beds $2.50 per visit $25 for 12 visits

expires 5/30/87

218 S. 4th

776-5651

SALOON

Class B Private Club Open Daily 1 p.m. Three miles East of Manhattan Hwy. 24 539-4989

...Is Your Complete

Senate passes presidential revision

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate passed a constitutional revision Thursday night allowing a student body president to seek re-election.

Student Body President, Steven Johnson, junior in agricultural economics and sponsor of the revision, said this could bring increased efficiency to the office of the student body president because a two-term president would be more familiar with issues.

Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics, said the student body wants a president who is able to execute the office of the president to his best ability, and this measure would allow a person to do

However, Martin Monto, senior in sociology, said the revision will over emphasize politics and downplay the importance of academics.

The constitutional change could deprive other students of being elected to office.

The revision now needs final approval by the college councils.

To protect the student body from reactionary fee legislation, Senate also passed a revision placing all student fee creations and changes under Senate jurisdiction.

The original student fee bill only allowed Senate to change the student activity fee.

will be sent to almost 2,500 students. Senate heard the first reading of a special allocation that would increase the salary of Jenny Johnston, Secretary I, as part of the state's conversion of all Secretary I positions into a new series.

THE 1987

> LESTER THUROW "U.S.-JAPANESE

Collegian Cl Cheap, but I

dlabal/ general d J. DENNIS DLA

BRITT C. FELTA

· Evening and appointments

· We see emei Next to camp "We cater to co (and other peop

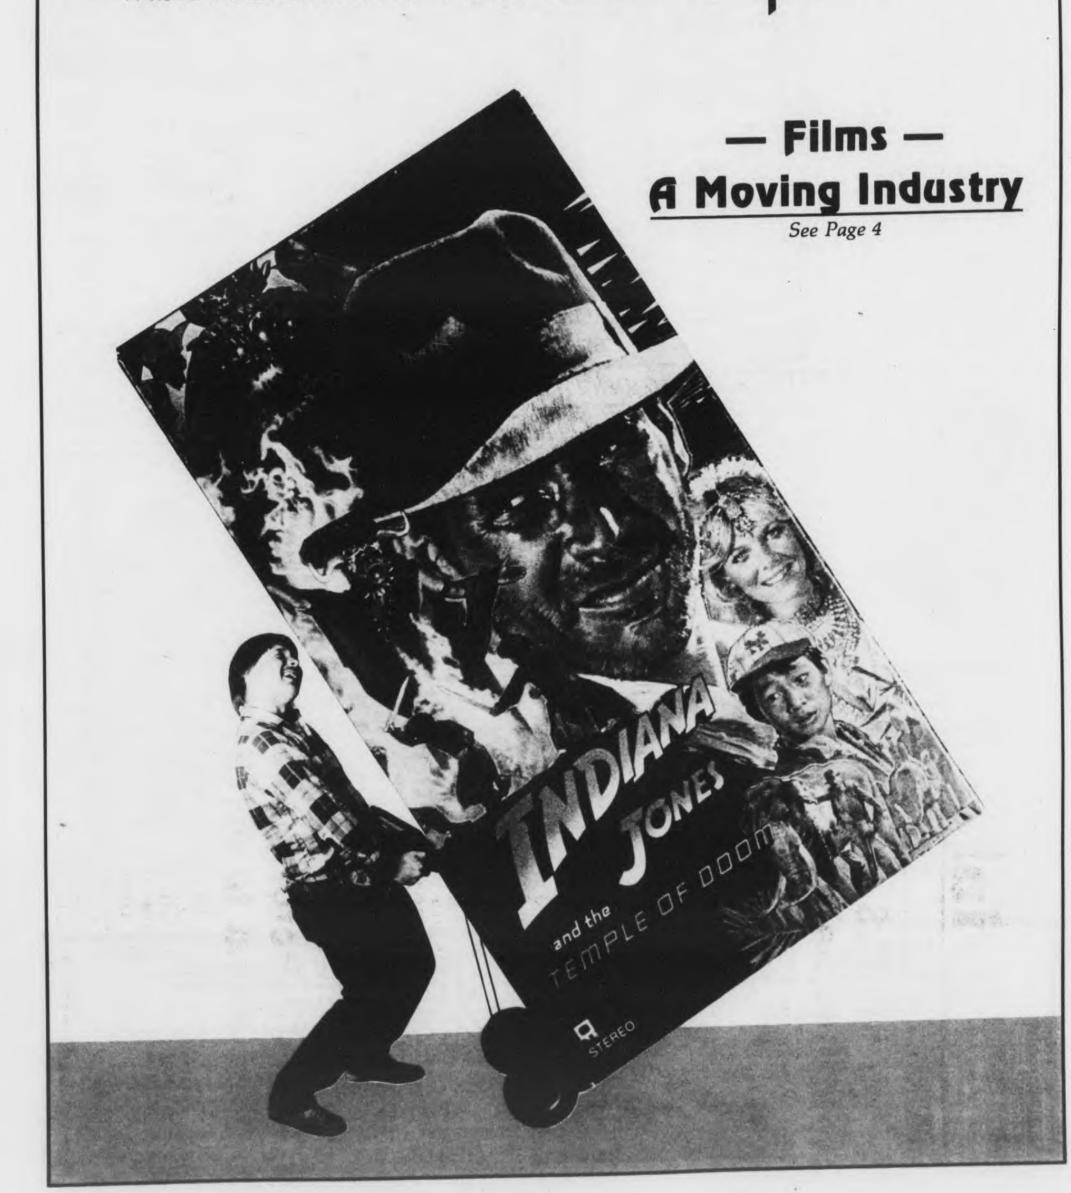

TOD Free T Show Sandwick

1120 Moro

EntertainmentiPl

A Viewer's Guide to Leisure Arts — A Weekly Feature of the Collegian

Friday, Feb. 6, 1987

By CHAD L. SANDBORN Staff Writer

Despite an idle Christmas vacation, the K-State debate team is looking to move back into the top-40 rankings. Debate Coach Ed Schiappa, instructor of speech, said his young team's high finishes in post-break tournaments should put them back in the rankings.

"We were inactive over Christmas break because we didn't have traveling money, and we fell out of the rankings," he said. "But we've done well since we've come back (from break)."

The team has participated in four tournaments, with at least one twoman team finishing in the top three at every tournament. Their most recent tournament was in Colorado Springs, Colo. at the Air Force Academy. The team fared well as two K-State teams shared the firstplace honors.

One team consisted of Steve Collins, freshman in pre-veterinary medicine, and Stacey Schwarz, freshman in business administration. Members of the second team were Cathy Doud, freshman in general arts and sciences, and Pat McGranahan, freshman in computer

Schwarz said the teams chose not to debate for first place.

"We beat the University of Utah in the semifinals, and our other team beat the University of Texas-El Paso. But we chose not to debate because we had won first and second place either way," she said.

The teams debate a pre-chosen, national topic which changes every semester, Schiappa said. The current topic is whether or not mandatory drug testing is an invasion of privacy.

Because most of the 14-member team is made up of freshmen, Schiappa said he has been surprised by his team's recent success.

"I looked at this year as a rebuilding year. I figured we'd spend a lot of time learning. Fortunately we've been learning and winning,' he said.

Their next tournament is at Missouri Southern State University in Joplin, Feb. 13-15. Schiappa is optimistic about the team's chances.

"I expect us to do well. I don't think this tournament will be any tougher than the others. We are coming on strong...so I expect to do at least as well as at the other tournaments," he said.

Although the debate team has already qualified two teams for the national tournament, they are looking to qualify more. Schiappa said qualification is based on a combination of a two-man team's number of wins, losses and points. This April the national tournament will be in Baton Rouge, La.

•4¢ self-service copies •Full service copy center Resume service

OPEN DAILY Sun. 12-9 Sat. 9-5 Denison & Claflin FirstBank Center 776-3771

Live Band

(formerly the Catz)

Free set this afternoon

> 1800 Claflin 539-9619

Hair Design & Skin Care Studio

Tanning Beds $25 for 12 visits $2.50 per visit

expires 5/30/87

Assess should

218 S. 4th

776-5651

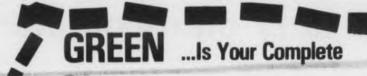

2-STEP DANCE CONTEST

starts 9 p.m.

Come out and strut your stuff

Class B Private Club Open Daily 1 p.m. Three miles East of Manhattan Hwy. 24 539-4989

Senate passes presidential revision

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate passed a constitutional revision Thursday night allowing a student body president to seek re-election.

Student Body President, Steven Johnson, junior in agricultural economics and sponsor of the revision, said this could bring increased efficiency to the office of the student body president because a two-term president would be more familiar with issues.

Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics, said the student body wants a president who is able to execute the office of the president to his best ability, and this measure would allow a person to do

However, Martin Monto, senior in sociology, said the revision will over emphasize politics and downplay the importance of academics.

The constitutional change could deprive other students of being elected to office.

The revision now needs final approval by the college councils.

To protect the student body from reactionary fee legislation, Senate also passed a revision placing all student fee creations and changes under Senate jurisdiction.

The original student fee bill only allowed Senate to change the student activity fee.

In other legislative action, Senate accepted a special $200 allocation to the Student Governing Association to provide for a mailing to prospective students interested in SGA.

The mailing, financed by the Reserves for Contingencies account, will be sent to almost 2,500 students.

Senate heard the first reading of a special allocation that would increase the salary of Jenny Johnston, Secretary I, as part of the state's conversion of all Secretary I positions into a new series.

LESTER THUROW ILL O IADAMPOP

Collegian Cheap, bu

dlabal general

J. DENNIS D

BRITT C. FEI • Evening &

appointm • We see e · Next to c

"We cater (and other 1834 Claflin

Free Show Sandw 1120 Moro

Friday, February 6, 1987

Television Index

Manhattan Cable KSNT (NBC) WIBW (CBS) 2 KLDH (ABC) KSHB (IND) 11 KTWU (PBS) WGN (IND) WTBS (IND) Premium cable:

HBO, Showtime, CINEMAX, ESPN Additional cable channels not listed in guide: Manhattan cable channels 4 (NBC), 5 (CBS) and 9 (ABC) correspond to channels 7, 3 and 2. respectively.

Fintertainment lus

EDITOR Jonie Trued ARTS EDITOR Sarah Kessinger PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER Sheila Hutinett

On Our Cover

The tremendous growth of vide cassette and video cassett recorder sales has evoked some worry within the movie industry Amid reports that VCRs are eating up their business, Manhatta theaters, however, report n decline in ticket sales. Some movi company executives applaud th boost video cassettes and VCR have provided their thriving ir dustry stating it gives movies "second chance" after the ox of fice to gain audience approval. Se Page 4.

Cover by Chris Stewart

EDIDAY FEDDUADY 6 1007

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	Today	CBS AM News	Good Morning America	My Little Pony Tom And Jerry	Special Mister Rogers	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Vanishing	Movie: "J. Edgar	Movie: "The Goonies"	Business SportsCenter
8:00		Morning Program	America "	Defenders Brady Bunch	Sesame Street	Heathcliff	Down To Earth I Love Lucy	Wilderness" Movie:	Hoover"		College Basketball
	Hour Magazine	Pyramid	Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance	Mork & Mindy Day At A Time	Sesame Street	Falcon Crest	Movie: "Tomorrow Is	"Just The Way You Are"	Movie: "Duchess Of	Movie: "My Science	Louisville at Virginia Tech
10:00	Jeopardy	Card Sharks Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Webster	Mary Tyler Moore	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Hillbillies Odd Couple	Forever"	The Talk Show	Idaho"	Project"	SpeedWeek SportsLook
4 4:00	Scrabble Password	Young And	Ryan's Hope	Bewitched Soap	Ecology Ecology	H's Heroes Twilight Zone	Perry Mason	Movie: "Roller	Movie: "Falling In	Movie: "High Anxiety"	Aerobics Getting Fit
1 1:30	Wheel Fortune News	The Restless Midday	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke Hillbillies	Sesame Street	News	Centennial	Boogie"	Love"	Movie:	College Basketball
1:00	Lives	As The World Turns	One Life To	For Daddy My 3 Sons	Mystery!	Dick Van Dyke Andy Griffith	"	Movie: "Better Off	Movie: "Protocol"	"From Here To Eternity"	UNC at NC St.
2:30	130721111	Capitol Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Kitchen Painting	Beaver Bugs Bunny	Tom & Jerry And Friends	Dead"		Newton-John	Trap Shoot Drag Racing
3:30		Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurts	We're Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo Flintstones	Loser Take All Ups & Downs	Valen.'s Day "Aladdin And	Movie: "Xanadu"	America's Cup
4.00	Diff Strokes	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flintstones Jetsons	Square 1 TV 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Gilligan Safe At Home	"	His Magic Lamp"		Waterskiing
4:30 5:30		News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Facts Of Life Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life WKRP	Hillbillies Andy Griffith	Movie:	Movie: "J. Edgar	Movie: "Sylvia"	SpeedWeek
0:00	News	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Jeffersons	Sanford Honeymooners	"Critters"	Hoover"	:	SportsCente Wrestling
7:00		Scarecrow	Webster Mr. Belvedere	Barnaby Jones	Wash. Week Wall St. Wk.	H's Heroes College	Movie: "Fort Apache"	Movie: "Morons From	Brothers G. Shandling	Movie: "Out Of	Top Rank
8:00	Miami Vice	And Mrs. King Dallas	Gung Ho Dads	Movie: "D.C. Cab"	Economics McLaughlin	Basketball Notre Dame	" "	Outer Space" Movie:	Boxing Mark Breland	Africa"	Boxing Michael Nur
9:00		Falcon Crest	Starman	"	Faces Japan Market	at Vanderbilt News	Motorweek	"The Terminator"	vs. Harold Volbrecht	:	vs. Willie Harris
10:00	News	News	News M*A*S*H	Late Show	Nature Profiles Business Rpt.	Magnum, P.I.	Night Tracks - Power Play	Movie:	Movie: "Nighthawks"	Movie: "Wildcats"	Cup SportsCent
1 1:00	"	Dating Game Lifestyles	Ask Dr. Ruth	Movie: "Cyborg 2087"	MacNeil / Lehrer	Movie:	Night Tracks	"Better Off Dead"	n n		Bodybuildin
1 1:30	Countdown Gene Scott	CHIPs	700 Club	"	Collina	"Rosemary's Baby"	Night Tracks	"Lust in The Dust"	"Falling In Love"	Movie: "Screen Test"	World Cup Skiing

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:00	Kissyfur	B'stain Bears Wildfire	Wuzzles Care Bears	Tom And Jerry Kideo TV	Culture Algebra	Farm Report World Tom.	Wrestling	Movie: "Funny Lady"	Movie: "Beyond The	Movie Cont'd Movie:	SpeedWeek Golf
	Smurfs	Muppet Babies	Flintstone Kids	" "	Bodywatch Microwaves	Charlando Business Rpt.	National Geographic	Cont'd Movie:	Forest"	"Trancers"	In PGA Outdoors
0:00	n ande	Pee-wee Teen Wolf	Ghostbusters Pd. Puppies	Bugs Bunny And Porky Pig	S. Previews Old House	People Wild Kingdom	Explorer	"Dreamchild"	Movie: "The Jazz	Comedy Movie:	Skiing Swimwear
10:00	Alvin Footur	Galaxy High Circus	Bugs Bunny New Ewoks	Puttin' On	Motorweek Animals	In-Fisherman	Movie: "Sinbad The	Movie: "Desperately	Singer"	"Hog Wild"	Mark Sosin Outdoors
4 4:00	Tom And Jerry Universe	Hulk Hogan	Weekend Health Show	Lifestyles	Painting Vict. Garden	Superman Movie:	Sallor"	Seeking Susan"	Movie: "Out Of	Movie: "Thomasine &	SpoCtr. Auto Racing
10:00	Forgotten Children	College	Bandstand Rifleman	Lost in Space	Sesame Street	"In Old California"	Movie:	Movie: "A Shining	Africa"	Bushrod"	World Cup Skiing
4:00	J. Houston College	Villanova at	Dukes Of	Incredible Hulk	New Literacy New Literacy	"Tarzan And	"They Died With Their	Season"	" "	Movie: "The Charge	Horse Racin
	Basketball Okla. St. at	Georgetown	PBA Bowling	Bionic Woman	Write Course Write Course	The Lost Safari"	Boots On"	Family Of Strangers	Boxing Mark Breland	At Feather River"	America's Cup
3:00	Kan. College	Basketball lowa at	Open Wide World Of	Battlestar Galactica	Photovision Photovision	Soul Train	Angler	Movie: "Chariots Of	vs. Harold Volbrecht	Movie: "Zulu Dawn"	College Basketball
	Basketball	Arizona				Your Heritage	R. Martin	Fire"	11	11	Maryland at
4:00	Kansas State	Sports Saturday	Sports	Buck Rogers	Ecology Ecology	It's A Living	NBA		Robin Hood		Duke
E:00	at Iowa State Wheel Fortune	Own Backyard CBS News	ABC News	National Geogr.	GED GED	Charles Big Family	Slam-Dunk And Three-Pt.	Movie: "The Pursuit	Movie:	Movie: "Big	SpeedWeek Scholastic
5:30 6:30	NBC News Hee Haw	Mama's Family	Buddies 9 To 5	Throb Big Family	All Creatures	Country At The Movies	Shootout Wrestling	Of D.B. Cooper"	"Johnny Dangerously"	Wednesday"	SpoCtr. Auto Racing
7:00	Facts Of Life	Country Music Outlaws	Sidekicks	Lifestyles	WndrWks.	H's Heroes College		Movie: "F / X"	Movie: "The Delta	Movie: "Hog Wild"	Drag Racing
1:30	227		S. Hammer	Movie:	Austin City	Basketball		n.	Force"		College Basketball
8:00	Golden Girls Amen	Movie: "A Place To	Ohara	"A Fistful Of	Limits	Dayton at	14			Comedy
9:30		Call Home"	Spenser: For Hire	Dollars"	Ctry. Express Bobby Jones	DePaul News	NBA Legends Classic	Bruce Willis	Movie:	Movie: "Silent Rage"	MSU at Bradley
10:00	News	News Solid Cold	News Movie:	M.T. Moore Movie:	Anna Karenina	Movie:	Old-Timers Game	Not News Movie:	"Out Of Africa"		America's Cup
1 1:00	Late Night	Solid Gold	"Sword Of The Valiant"	"The Devil's	Nadine Gordimer	"El Dorado"	Night Tracks: Chartbusters	"The Highest Honor"	"	Movie: "Volunteers"	Live coverage from
12:30		At The Movies News	Rifleman	Solid Gold	Coronino	"	Night Tracks	Movie	"Happy Hooker"	Movie	Australia

FEED 4 FOR §6

You can enjoy four meals for only $6. So come to your nearest Kentucky Fried Chicken store and save on America's favorite fried chicken.

FOR ONE COMPLETE 2-PIECE PACK

Pental Associates

of Manhattan

 24 Hour Emergency Service

 Saturday and Evening Appointments

· Here to serve you when you're away from home

1133 College Ave. Bldg. D Manhattan, KS 66502

(913) 539-7401

By CHAD L. SANDBORN Staff Writer

Despite an idle Christmas vacation, the K-State debate team is looking to move back into the top-40 rankings. Debate Coach Ed Schiappa, instructor of speech, said his young team's high finishes in post-break tournaments should put them back in the rankings.

We were inactive over Christmas break because we didn't have traveling money, and we fell out of the rankings," he said. "But we've done well since we've come back (from break)."

The team has participated in four tournaments, with at least one twoman team finishing in the top three at every tournament. Their most recent tournament was in Colorado Springs, Colo. at the Air Force

By The Collegian Staff

ing a student body president to seek

Student Body President, Steven

Johnson, junior in agricultural economics and sponsor of the revision, said this could bring increased efficiency to the office of the student body president because a two-term

president would be more familiar

Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics, said the student body wants a president who is able to execute the office of the president to his best ability, and this measure would allow a person to do

However, Martin Monto, senior in sociology, said the revision will over emphasize politics and downplay the re-election.

with issues.

Student Senate passed a constitutional revision Thursday night allow-

two K-State teams shared the firstplace honors.

One team consisted of Steve Collins, freshman in pre-veterinary medicine, and Stacey Schwarz, freshman in business administration. Members of the second team were Cathy Doud, freshman in general arts and sciences, and Pat McGranahan, freshman in computer science.

Schwarz said the teams chose not to debate for first place.

"We beat the University of Utah in the semifinals, and our other team beat the University of Texas-El Paso. But we chose not to debate because we had won first and second place either way," she said.

The teams debate a pre-chosen, national topic which changes every semester, Schiappa said. The cur-

Senate passes presidential revision

The constitutional change could deprive other students of being

The revision now needs final ap-

To protect the student body from reactionary fee legislation, Senate

also passed a revision placing all student fee creations and changes under

The original student fee bill only allowed Senate to change the student

proval by the college councils.

importance of academics.

elected to office.

Senate jurisdiction.

activity fee.

Academy. The team fared well as rent topic is whether or not mandatory drug testing is an invasion of privacy.

Because most of the 14-member team is made up of freshmen, Schiappa said he has been surprised by his team's recent success.

"I looked at this year as a rebuilding year. I figured we'd spend a lot of time learning. Fortunately we've been learning and winning, he said.

Their next tournament is at Missouri Southern State University in Joplin, Feb. 13-15. Schiappa is optimistic about the team's chances.

"I expect us to do well. I don't think this tournament will be any tougher than the others. We are coming on strong...so I expect to do at least as well as at the other tournaments," he said.

Although the debate team has

In other legislative action, Senate

accepted a special $200 allocation to

the Student Governing Association to provide for a mailing to prospective

The mailing, financed by the

Reserves for Contingencies account,

will be sent to almost 2,500 students.

special allocation that would increase the salary of Jenny Johnston,

Secretary I, as part of the state's conversion of all Secretary I posi-

Senate heard the first reading of a

students interested in SGA.

tions into a new series.

LOU DOUGLAS

LESTER THUROW

"ILS -JAPANESE

already qualified two teams for the national tournament, they are looking to qualify more. Schiappa said qualification is based on a combination of a two-man team's number of wins, losses and points. This April the national tournament will be in Baton Rouge, La.

Resume service

Live Band

(formerly the Catz)

Free set this afternoon

> 1800 Claflin 539-9619

 4¢ self-service copies Full service copy center

OPEN DAILY Sun. 12-9 FirstBank Center Denison & Claflin 776-3771

LORDJ'n LADY Hair Design ESkin Care Studio

Tanning Beds

seps some sols of

$2.50 per visit $25 for 12 visits expires 5/30/87

218 S. 4th

776-5651

2-STEP DANCE CONTEST

starts 9 p.m.

Come out and strut your stuff

at: SALOON

Class B Private Club Open Daily 1 p.m. Three miles East of Manhattan Hwy. 24 539-4989

techer and a series

...Is Your Complete

Collegian Cl Cheap, but I

dlabal general d

J. DENNIS DLA BRITT C. FELTN

> · Evening and appointments · We see emer

Next to camp

'We cater to co (and other peop 1834 Claflin

Anc

The

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	нво	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
	9	Œ	10	Superfriends	Culture	R. Schuller	Tom & Jerry	Wow Wow	Young King Arthur	"Jim Thorpe: All American"	SportsCenter Waterskiing
7:00	James Kennedy	Jerry Falwell	Jimmy Swaggart	Superfriends	Algebra	Heritage	And Friends	Fraggle Rock Movie:	Arthur "	Cont'd	"
0:00	L. Lundstrom	Discovery	Kenneth Copeland	Wrestling	Sesame Street	Sunday Mass Porky Pig	Cont'd Andy Griffith	"The Best Of	Jitting Of	"Remo Williams: The	Fishin' Hole
O:30	Robert	Truth Oral Roberts	It Is Written	Wild, Wild	Mister Rogers	Bugs Bunny	Good News Movie:	Times"	Granny Movie:	Adventure	Scholastic
9:00	Schuller Jimmy	Larry Jones	David Brinkley	West	Special Sesame Street	Cisco Kid	"King Of	Movie:	"Summer	Begins" Movie:	SportsCente Sunday
10:00	Swaggart Auction	For Kid's Sake Look At Me	Abb. & Cost.	Maverick	Sesame Street	Lone Ranger	Kings"	"A Flash Of Green"	Rental" Paper Chase	"Yankee	SpoCtr.
4 4:00	World Tom.	Auto Racing	Wrestling	Star Trek	Perkins Family OWL / TV	Rawhide		Green	"	Doodle	1981 Final 4 World Cup
1 1:30	Larry Brown	Busch Clash	Dukes Of	Movie:	Wash, Week	Movie:	"	Movie: "Raintree	Movie: "Torch Song"	Dandy"	Skiing
12:30	College Basketball	College Basketball	Hazzard	"Tarzan's	Wall St. Wk.	"Dangerous	Movie:	County"		Movie:	America's Cup
4:00	Va. at UNC	Michigan at Indiana	College Basketball	Savage Fury"	Money World Computer	Money" Movie:	"Knights Of		Movie:	"Out Of Africa"	Billiards
7:00	SportsWorld	NBA All-Star	Notre Dame	Movie:	Kansas Literature	"It Happened One Night"	The Roundtable"		The river	,,	World Oper
2:30		Game	at Kansas	"Six Of A Kind"	Firing Line	"	Movie:	Movie:	Movie:	"	Bodybuildir Mr. Univers
3:00	Elizondo PGA Golf	Live from The Coliseum in	Wide World Of Sports	Three Stooges		"Bad News	"Pride Of The Blue Grass"	"Body Rock"	"Irreconcilable	Movie:	29
4:00	Hawaiian	Seattle.	U.S. Figure Skating	Movie: "Young Mr.	Communidad Espanol	Bears In Breaking	Wrestling	*	Differences"	"The Music	Karate
4:30		CBS News	okating	Lincoln"	Heritage	Training" Puttin' On	New Beaver	Fraggle Rock Movie:	Movie	Mail	Transition in
5:30	NBC News	News	"		Wild America	Fame	Movie:	"Man With One		James Cagney	SpoCtr. Ski World
6:00		60 Minutes	Movie:	Solid Gold	Nature Profiles		"The War	Red Shoe"	Movie:	Movie:	NHL Hocke
7:00		Murder, She	Liberators"	New Gldget	Nature	Lifestyles	Wagon"	Movie: "The Best Of	"Summer	"Yankee	St. Louis
7:30	Valerie	Wrote		It's A Living Ted Knight	Masterpiece	Chicago Auto	National	Times"	Rental" Bizarre	Doodle Dandy"	Blues at Edmonton
8:30	Movie: "The Two Mrs	D. Women Nothing Easy	Movie: "Romancing	Check It Out!	Theatre	Show	Geographic	Movie:	Movie:	"Remo	Oilers
9:3		Hard Copy	The Stone"	Tales Runaway	Great Performances	News	. "	"The Boy In	"Runaway	Williams: The	America's
- 0	0. 11	News	"	Mama's Family	"	Tales Lou Grant	Sports Page Jerry Falwell	Blue" Movie	Train"	Begins"	Cup
10:3	0 News 0 Throb	High Q	News	Movie:	TV Classics	Lou Grant	"		Movie: "Irreconcitable	Movie: "Out Of	Live covers
11:0		Big Family Today's	Basketball Mannix	"D.C. Cab"	Japan Tony Brown	Charles	J. Ankerberg	"Clan Of The	Differences"	Africa"	Australia
1 1:3	O Community	Dueiness		"		At The Movies	Swaggart	Cave Bear"		"	"

12:00 Gene Scott MONDAY FEBRUARY 9, 1987 ESPN MAX SHOW HBO WTBS WGN KTWU KSHB WIBW KTKA KSNT Business SportsCente Movie: "Street Hero Robin Hood Movie: Movie: "Threshold My Little Pony Tom And Jerry Good Morning America CBS AM News Morning 7:00 Today New Sports College "Dusty" Down To Earth I Love Lucy Sesame Street Defenders Brady Bunch Program Heathcliff 8:30 Basketball MSU at Movie: "The Zoo "Love Is Better Than Movie: "American Movie: "Blackboard Mork & Mindy Day At A Time Falcon Crest Sesame Street Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance 9:00 Hour Magazine Pyramid Card Sharks Bradley SportsLook Gang" Dreamer Jungle" Body Electric Hatha Yoga Mary Tyler Moore Fame Fortune Webster Price Is Right Odd Couple 10:00 Jeopardy Scrabble Aerobics Getting Fit Movie: "Vanishing Perry Mason H's Heroes Twilight Zone Literature Algebra Young And The Restless Ryan's Hope Loving 1 1:00 Password Wheel Fortune NHL Hockey Blues at Centennial Dick Van Dyke Hillbillies News Movie Sesame Street All My Children Midday As The World 12:00 News Days Of Our Oilers "The Goonies" Movie: "Night Of The "Morons From Dick Van Dyke Andy Griffith For Daddy My 3 Sons Nature 1:00 Lives Turns Capitol One Life To America's Cup Comet' Tom & Jerry And Friends Flashback Nature Profiles McLaughlin Beaver Bugs Bunny Comedy General Hospital Munsters Zoobilee Zoo Guiding Light 2:00 Santa Barbara CBA Basketball Movie: J.'s Journey No Big Deal Scooby Doo Flintstones We're Cooking Aerobics Scooby Doo Smurts Ghostbusters Dennis Magnum, P.I. 3:00 Happy Days Charleston at Pensacola Idolmaker "Dusty" Square 1 TV 3-2-1 Contact Gilligan Rocky Road G.I. Joe Transformers ThunderCats G.I. Joe Flintstones Movie: Donahue 4:00 Diff. Strokes SportsLook Outdoors Movie: The Bridge Of Adam Rush "Night Of The Comet" Facts Of Life WKRP New Beaver Down To Earth Sesame Street Facts Of Life People's Court ABC News 5:00 3's Company NBC News News CBS News SportsCente College Professionals Barney Mille Jeffersons MacNeil / Fraggle Rock News Newlyweds Benson M*A*S*H 6:00 News Wheel Fortune Barney Miller Lehrer Movie: "Looker Truth About Alex Movie: "Prizzi's Movie: "Death Of A Syracuse at Movie: "Thunderbol Planet Earth Kate & Allie My Sister San Barnaby Jones MacGyver 7:00 ALF .. Pittsburgh College Movie: "Out Of Honor' Gunfighte And Lightfoot" Movie: American Playhouse Movie: "The Last 8:00 Movie: "The Two Mrs. Newhart Cavanaugh 'Body Heat' "Teen Wolf" Basketball Mich. St. at Africa' Movie: "The Wild "Smooth Talk Ossie & Ruby Movie: Fling" 9:00 Grenvilles Cagney & Lacey Ohio St. Movie: "Wildcats "Choose Me North" Nature Profile Late Show News M*A*S*H News Dating Game 10:00 News Best Of Cup Live coverage National Geographic MacNeil / Twilight Zone Hitchcock Rodriguez Ask Dr. Ruth 1 1:00 Carson 1 30 David Night Heat Movie: from Australia "Thunder "Morons From Outer Space" Explorer "Fire!" Movie: "Silencers" 700 Club

Friday, February 6, 1987

Hula's book offers views of fall color

By BRUCE DOLSBERRY Collegian Reporter

For eight years David Hula, instructor of economics, traveled more than 10,000 miles in search of autumn scenery. He is now the author and photographer of a recently published book, "The Beauty of Autumn.' Hula noted in the preface of his book, "Capturing these images was a journey of love; an adventure of discovery, during which I was occasionally frightened, sometimes awestruck, but most frequently comforted by the sights I was priveleged to behold."

Hula's book encompasses a wide range of photographs, most of which depict autumn settings. A self-taught photographer, Hula said his work is an extension of his lifelong interest in nature. Hula started photography to counterbalance the pressures of "I took up photography as a hobby in graduate school to maintain my sanity."

While studying at the University of Wisconsin, he began to seriously pursue nature photography. After two years of photographing various natural landscapes and scenery, he made the decision to incorporate his photos into a book. A major inspiration for his book came from autumn photography trips to the north woods bordering Lake Superior.

In search of autumn settings, Hula's photographic adventures also took him to Nebraska, Colorado, Missouri and throughout Kansas. About half of the photographs were taken in his hometown of Plattsmouth, Neb. Some photos of K-State can be found in his book as well.

Hula took some 500 photos, 120 of which were selected for his book, in his attempt to capture the many colors and moods of autumn.

"The Beauty of Autumn" has been available in bookstores for two months and is expected to be sold nationwide. Hula said he plans on doing other projects of a similar nature in the future.

FREE MEDIUM SOFT DRINK

with the purchase of any sub

12th & Moro-Aggieville

Expires 2-28-87

Void with any offers

By CHAD L. SANDBORN Staff Writer

Despite an idle Christmas vacation, the K-State debate team is looking to move back into the top-40 rankings. Debate Coach Ed Schiappa, instructor of speech, said his young team's high finishes in post-break tournaments should put them back in the rankings.

"We were inactive over Christmas break because we didn't have traveling money, and we fell out of the rankings," he said. "But we've done well since we've come back (from

The team has participated in four tournaments, with at least one twoman team finishing in the top three at every tournament. Their most recent tournament was in Colorado Springs, Colo. at the Air Force Academy. The team fared well as two K-State teams shared the firstplace honors

One team consisted of Steve Collins, freshman in pre-veterinary medicine, and Stacey Schwarz, freshman in business administration. Members of the second team were Cathy Doud, freshman in general arts and sciences, and Pat McGranahan, freshman in computer

Schwarz said the teams chose not to debate for first place.

"We beat the University of Utah in the semifinals, and our other team beat the University of Texas-El Paso. But we chose not to debate because we had won first and second place either way," she said.

The teams debate a pre-chosen, national topic which changes every semester, Schiappa said. The current topic is whether or not mandatory drug testing is an invasion of privacy.

Because most of the 14-member team is made up of freshmen, Schiappa said he has been surprised by his team's recent success.

"I looked at this year as a rebuilding year. I figured we'd spend a lot of time learning. Fortunately we've been learning and winning," he said.

Their next tournament is at Missouri Southern State University in Joplin, Feb. 13-15. Schiappa is optimistic about the team's chances.

"I expect us to do well. I don't think this tournament will be any tougher than the others. We are coming on strong...so I expect to do at least as well as at the other tournaments," he said.

Although the debate team has already qualified two teams for the national tournament, they are looking to qualify more. Schiappa said qualification is based on a combination of a two-man team's number of wins, losses and points. This April the national tournament will be in Baton Rouge, La.

 4¢ self-service copies Full service copy center Resume service

OPEN DAILY Sun. 12-9 Sat. 9-5 Denison & Claflin FirstBank Center 776-3771

Friday & Saturday Live Band

(formerly the Catz)

Free set this afternoon

> 1800 Claflin 539-9619

LORDJ'n LADY Hair Design & Skin Care Studio

Tanning Beds $2.50 per visit $25 for 12 visits

expires 5/30/87

shorts go should be

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN, Friday, February 6, 1987

218 S. 4th

776-5651

Thursday Feb. 12

2-STEP DANCE CONTEST

starts 9 p.m.

Come out and strut your stuff

Class B Private Club Open Daily 1 p.m. Three miles East of Manhattan Hwy. 24 539-4989

... Is Your Complete

Senate passes presidential revision

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate passed a constitutional revision Thursday night allowing a student body president to seek re-election.

Student Body President, Steven Johnson, junior in agricultural economics and sponsor of the revision, said this could bring increased efficiency to the office of the student body president because a two-term president would be more familiar with issues.

Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics, said the student body wants a president who is able to execute the office of the president to his best ability, and this measure would allow a person to do

However, Martin Monto, senior in sociology, said the revision will over emphasize politics and downnlay the

Colleg

Cheap

dlab

gene

J. DENN

BRITT (

1834 Claflin

· EVE app • We · Ne: importance of academics.

The constitutional change could deprive other students of being elected to office.

The revision now needs final approval by the college councils.

To protect the student body from reactionary fee legislation, Senate also passed a revision placing all student fee creations and changes under Senate jurisdiction.

The original student fee bill only allowed Senate to change the student activity fee.

In other legislative action, Senate accepted a special $200 allocation to the Student Governing Association to provide for a mailing to prospective students interested in SGA. The mailing, financed by the

Reserves for Contingencies account, will be sent to almost 2,500 students. Senate heard the first reading of a special allocation that would increase the salary of Jenny Johnston, Secretary I, as part of the state's conversion of all Secretary I positions into a new series.

LOU DOUGLAS

LESTER THUROW

Local theaters 'alive and w

he popularity of the video cassette recorder and video cassettes have some in the film industry scared, but not in Manhattan.

Although video cassettes can be rented in about 20 nooks and crannies in Manhattan, the city is not experiencing any major loss of moviegoers due to the video industry's rapid growth. "I keep seeing articles on how much (video cassettes) are hurting the theater business. I have got news for you. We are alive and well, and making money," said Sharon Ford, manager of Seth Child Cinemas, 2610

Farm Bureau Road. "Locally, our attendance is as good as it has been," said Bob Howard, manager for Manhattan's

Commonwealth Theaters. "(The video business) is overwhelming to me," said Becki Johnson, manager of Video Exchange, 706 N. 11th St. "It seems like we have to be hurting the movie industry a little bit as far as people going to see the big screen." Johnson, whose store houses about 3,000 titles, said price and time are two important considerations people look at before renting a video. "People are in such a hurry to do things and do them on their own time anymore," she said. Manhattan stores can purchase a tape for about $60 and rent them overnight for between $2.50 and

Howard said that although his theaters are not hurting in the "mainstream of business," video cassettes have had some negative affect on one part of his operation. "It has had an impact on the late shows. Those used to be moderately successful. (Watching a video) seems to be easier at midnight for people who five or six years ago might wander out to the theater to see a midnight show. Now they are more inclined to grab (a video) at the store and take it home," Howard

This is especially noticeable in the decline of adult movie showings in Manhattan. Both Howard and Ford partly attribute the falling attendance at X-rated shows to the home video industry.

"(Video cassettes) are easier, more convenient and preferred by that customer," Howard said.

Both Ford and Howard have ceased showings of X-rated movies. Despite the mutual success of theaters and video rental stores in Manhattan, one industry survey indicates a decline in theatergoers.

A three-year survey commissioned by Columbia Pictures Industries shows video rentals moving ahead of movie attendance. About 26.2 million people rented video cassettes in August and September of 1985, compared with a total of 100 million who viewed movies on the big screen during the entire year - down 15 million from 1984.

"This concerns me," Peter Sealey, president of marketing and distribution for Columbia Pictures, said in an interview published in Variety magazine.

"Roughly three-quarters of the movie in a given month," Sealey

The VCR has undoubtedly been the single most influential home appliance to permeate the market in the past decade, and the momentum of VCRs and movies on video cassettes continues to climb. By the end of 1986, about 40 percent of U.S. households had VCRs.

The Electronic Industries Association predicts 15.5 million VCRs will be sold this year, which for the first time would mean more money being spent on video units than on color television sets.

"(VCRs have had) the most staggeringly fast penetration of households by any electronic appliance in history - including television in its halcyon days," Sealey said. Most tend to agree that the film and video industries are mutually beneficial. Mike Finnegan, publicist for Warner Home Video, a division of Columbia Pictures, said videos offer a second chance for films which were not successful at the box office.

"(Video cassettes) are not affecting the movie industry seriously. Good movies will always attract large crowds if they are wellmarketed and well-publicized. More than anything they are enhancing each other," Finnegan said.

"Video cassettes also allow movies which where not great hits at the box office to become video successes," he said. "It also brings to the market those products which didn't quite find an audience in the people in this country do not go to a | theaters, but are worthy of an au- | po

By CHAD L. SANDBORN Staff Writer

Despite an idle Christmas vacation, the K-State debate team is looking to move back into the top-40 rankings. Debate Coach Ed Schiappa, instructor of speech, said his young team's high finishes in post-break tournaments should put them back in the rankings.

"We were inactive over Christmas break because we didn't have traveling money, and we fell out of the rankings," he said. "But we've done well since we've come back (from break)."

The team has participated in four tournaments, with at least one twoman team finishing in the top three at every tournament. Their most recent tournament was in Colorado Springs, Colo. at the Air Force

By The Collegian Staff

tional revision Thursday night allowing a student body president to seek

Student Body President, Steven

Johnson, junior in agricultural

economics and sponsor of the revision, said this could bring increased

efficiency to the office of the student body president because a two-term

president would be more familiar

Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics, said the student body wants a president who is able to execute the office of the president to his best ability, and this measure would allow a person to do

However, Martin Monto, senior in sociology, said the revision will over

emphasize politics and downplay the

re-election.

Student Senate passed a constitu-

Academy. The team fared well as two K-State teams shared the firstplace honors.

One team consisted of Steve Collins, freshman in pre-veterinary medicine, and Stacey Schwarz, freshman in business administration. Members of the second team were Cathy Doud, freshman in general arts and sciences, and Pat McGranahan, freshman in computer

Schwarz said the teams chose not to debate for first place.

"We beat the University of Utah in the semifinals, and our other team beat the University of Texas-El Paso. But we chose not to debate because we had won first and second place either way," she said.

The teams debate a pre-chosen, national topic which changes every semester, Schiappa said. The cur-

Senate passes presidential revision

The constitutional change could deprive other students of being

The revision now needs final ap-

To protect the student body from reactionary fee legislation, Senate also passed a revision placing all student fee creations and changes under

The original student fee bill only allowed Senate to change the student

importance of academics.

proval by the college councils.

elected to office.

Senate jurisdiction.

activity fee.

rent topic is whether or not mandatory drug testing is an invasion of privacy.

Because most of the 14-member team is made up of freshmen, Schiappa said he has been surprised by his team's recent success.

"I looked at this year as a rebuilding year. I figured we'd spend a lot of time learning. Fortunately we've been learning and winning, he said.

Their next tournament is at Missouri Southern State University in Joplin, Feb. 13-15. Schiappa is optimistic about the team's chances.

"I expect us to do well. I don't think this tournament will be any tougher than the others. We are coming on strong...so I expect to do at least as well as at the other tournaments," he said.

Although the debate team has

In other legislative action, Senate

accepted a special $200 allocation to

the Student Governing Association to provide for a mailing to prospective

The mailing, financed by the

Reserves for Contingencies account,

will be sent to almost 2,500 students.

special allocation that would increase the salary of Jenny Johnston,

Secretary I, as part of the state's

conversion of all Secretary I posi-

Senate heard the first reading of a

students interested in SGA

tions into a new series.

LOU DOUGLAS

LESTER THUROW

"U.S.-JAPANESE

Baton Rouge, La.

•4¢ self-service copies Resume service

M-F 8-9 FirstBank Center 776-3771

Free set this afternoon

539-9619

already qualified two teams for the national tournament, they are looking to qualify more. Schiappa said qualification is based on a combination of a two-man team's number of wins, losses and points. This April the national tournament will be in •Full service copy center

OPEN DAILY Sun. 12-9 Denison & Claffin

(formerly the Catz)

1800 Claflin

Hair Design & Skin Care Studio

Tanning Beds $25 for 12 visits $2.50 per visit

de la serie de

expires 5/30/87

218 S. 4th

776-5651

2-STEP DANCE CONTEST

starts 9 p.m.

Come out and strut your stuff

Class B Private Club Open Daily 1 p.m. Three miles East of Manhattan Hwy. 24 539-4989

...Is Your Complete

Collegian Clai Cheap, but I

dlabal/1

J. DENNIS DLA

general d

BRITT C. FELTN · Evening and appointments

· We see emer Next to camp "We cater to co

(and other peop 1834 Claflin

1120 Moro

ence and can now find them on deo." Seth Child's Ford agrees. Because of the income (videos

ve) brought into the film comnies, they are making more and ore movies. Releasing them as a ature is great advertising whether does anything at the box office or t," Ford said. "The video market has opened up Free Ted doors for movies that used to not eak even," she said.

Howard, who has had nearly 20 ars of experience in the movie eater business, said the quality of Sandwich st-run pictures is improving cause the video market has slowed attendance of second-run shows. 'There certainly are people who, ving the alternative choice, want see a movie without anything ecific in mind. Maybe in the past ney) might have come out to the eater, whereas today some of those y 'I'd really like to stay at home id see this movie,' and they go out id rent the cassette," Howard said. The filmmakers usually give at ast a three-month edge to the eaters before releasing the movies the video cassette industry. If a ovie is doing quite well at the box fice, the film may take even longer be produced on video, Howard "If (the picture) is doing very well the theaters across the country, ey're not going to release it until yey feel like it's got its run," bward said. "That's what also akes it successful as a video ssette - its reputation and pularity on the screen." Anot

The P

By CHAD L. SANDBORN Staff Writer

Despite an idle Christmas vacation, the K-State debate team is looking to move back into the top-40 rankings. Debate Coach Ed Schiappa, instructor of speech, said his young team's high finishes in post-break tournaments should put them back in the rankings.

"We were inactive over Christmas break because we didn't have traveling money, and we fell out of the rankings," he said. "But we've done well since we've come back (from

The team has participated in four tournaments, with at least one twoman team finishing in the top three at every tournament. Their most recent tournament was in Colorado Springs, Colo. at the Air Force Academy. The team fared well as two K-State teams shared the firstplace honors.

One team consisted of Steve Collins, freshman in pre-veterinary medicine, and Stacey Schwarz, freshman in business administration. Members of the second team were Cathy Doud, freshman in general arts and sciences, and Pat McGranahan, freshman in computer

Schwarz said the teams chose not to debate for first place.

"We beat the University of Utah in the semifinals, and our other team beat the University of Texas-El Paso. But we chose not to debate because we had won first and second place either way," she said.

The teams debate a pre-chosen, national topic which changes every semester, Schiappa said. The cur-

The constitutional change could deprive other students of being

The revision now needs final ap-

To protect the student body from reactionary fee legislation, Senate

also passed a revision placing all student fee creations and changes under

The original student fee bill only allowed Senate to change the student rent topic is whether or not mandatory drug testing is an invasion of privacy.

Because most of the 14-member team is made up of freshmen, Schiappa said he has been surprised by his team's recent success.

"I looked at this year as a rebuilding year. I figured we'd spend a lot of time learning. Fortunately we've been learning and winning, he said.

Their next tournament is at Missouri Southern State University in Joplin, Feb. 13-15. Schiappa is optimistic about the team's chances.

"I expect us to do well. I don't think this tournament will be any tougher than the others. We are coming on strong...so I expect to do at least as well as at the other tournaments," he said.

Although the debate team has

In other legislative action, Senate

accepted a special $200 allocation to the Student Governing Association to provide for a mailing to prospective

The mailing, financed by the

Reserves for Contingencies account,

will be sent to almost 2,500 students.

special allocation that would increase the salary of Jenny Johnston,

Secretary I, as part of the state's

conversion of all Secretary I posi-

Senate heard the first reading of a

students interested in SGA.

tions into a new series.

already qualified two teams for the national tournament, they are looking to qualify more. Schiappa said qualification is based on a combination of a two-man team's number of wins, losses and points. This April the national tournament will be in Baton Rouge, La.

•4¢ self-service copies Full service copy center

Resume service

OPEN DAILY M-F 8-9 Sat. 9-5 Sun. 12-9 FirstBank Center Denison & Claffin 776-3771

Friday & Saturday Live Band

(formerly the Catz)

Free set this afternoon

1800 Claflin

Tanning Beds $25 for 12 visits $2.50 per visit

expires 5/30/87

aleste sales saleste

218 S. 4th

776-5651

2-STEP DANCE CONTEST

starts 9 p.m.

Come out and strut your stuff

SALOON

Class B Private Club Open Daily 1 p.m. Three miles East of Manhattan Hwy. 24 539-4989

41 2 - - - - V

C .

...Is Your Complete

Senate passes presidential revision

proval by the college councils.

importance of academics.

elected to office.

Senate jurisdiction.

Film Review

activity fee.

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate passed a constitutional revision Thursday night allowing a student body president to seek re-election.

Student Body President, Steven Johnson, junior in agricultural economics and sponsor of the revision, said this could bring increased efficiency to the office of the student body president because a two-term president would be more familiar with issues.

Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics, said the student body wants a president who is able to execute the office of the president to his best ability, and this measure would allow a person to do

However, Martin Monto. senior in sociology, said the emphasize politica

Collegian Cheap, by

dlabal

J. DENNIS

BRITT C. F

Evening

We see

 Next to "We cat

(and off

1834 Claflin

1120 Mor

appoint genera

the memoranian restoration Friday, February 6, 1987

THE

Film's action provided by leading roles

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

Without Shelley Long and Bette Midler, "Outrageous Fortune" might not be worth so much as a glance, but they alone make the movie worth seeing.

Long plays a character similar to her Dianne Chambers on NBC's "Cheers." That means she's pretentious, egotistical and a bit stuffy. By a quirk of fate, she ends up in the same acting class as Bette Midler, who plays a loudmouthed, vulgar actress whose last acting job was a bit part in a movie named "Ninja Vixens." But they have more in common than just this. It seems they've been seeing the same guy (although neither of them realizes this).

After he's killed (or is he?) by a terrorist's bomb, they both go to the coroner's office to view the body. But they both agree the dead man is not the same man they logged many an hour in bed with. Their lover was the kind of guy who wouldn't be ashamed to be seen without his shorts on in the locker room, but the guy in the morgue is, well, underequipped.

So to find their real lover, they embark on a cross-country chase, getting tangled up with the CIA, the KGB, and a plot to extort millions of dollars from the U.S. government. Along the way, their initial hatred for one another slowly begins to turn into respect.

While there is plenty of potential here for some inspired lunacy, the script rarely rises above the level of TV sitcoms. Most of the results are simply preposterous. Last year's "Ruthless People" (also from Touchstone Pictures) was ridiculous as well, but it was packed with truly absurd visuals, garish settings and bizarre color schemes. This perfectly complemented the movie's delightful sense of the absurd. "Outrageous Fortune" merely lurches from one scene to the next, through a seemingly endless series of climaxes.

The movie's director, Arthur Hiller (one of the most consistently mediocre directors working in Hollywood) is primarily an actor's

See FORTUNE, Page 7

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:30		CBS AM New Morning	s Good Morning America	My Little Pony Tom And Jern	Special	Bozo	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie:	Movie:	"From Here T
8:00		Program	"	Defenders Brady Bunch	Sesame Stree		Down To Eart	"A Shining h Season"	"Out Of Africa"	Eternity" Cont'd	SportsCente World Cup
9:30	Hour Magazin	e Pyramid Card Sharks	Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance	Mork & Mindy Day At A Time	Sesame Stree		Movie:	Movie:	Cont'd Movie:	Movie:	Skiing
10:30		Price Is Right	Fame Fortune Webster	Mary Tyler Moore	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Hillbillies Odd Couple	"The Impossible	"Casey's Shadow"	"Kiss Me Stupid"	Hunchback O Notre Dame'	Golf
11:30		Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched Soap	Write Course Culture	H's Heroes	Years" Centennial	Movie:	"	Movie:	SportsLook Aerobics
12:30	News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke Hillbillies	Sesame Street	Twilight Zone News		"Desperately Seeking	Movie:	"	Getting Fit
1:00	Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To	For Daddy My 3 Sons	Masterpiece Theatre	Dick Van Dyke	n	Susan'r Not News	"	"Sunday Dinner For A	College Basketball Syracuse at
2:00	Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Mod. Maturity	Andy Griffith Beaver	Tom & Jerry	Movie:	Movie	Soldier" Movie:	Pittsburgh
3:00	Happy Days	Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurts	Living We're Cooking		And Friends Scooby Doo	Of D.B. Cooper"	Movie:	"Hanky Panky"	Top Rank Boxing
A:00	Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flintstones	Aerobics Square 1 TV	Smurts G.I. Joe	Flintstones	Platypus Cove	"Man From Button Willow"	,	Fishin' Hole
F:00	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Jetsons Facts Of Life	3-2-1 Contact Sesame Street	Transformers Facts Of Life	Rocky Road Hillbillies	Movie:	Movie:	"A Passage To	Scholastic
C:00	News	News	Benson	Gimme Break WKRP	MacNeil /	WKRP Barney Miller	Andy Griffith	"Mommie	Teacher"	India"	SportsLook NBA Today
	Wheel Fortune Matlock	Newtyweds 20th Anniv.,	M*A*S*H Who's Boss?	Barney Miller	Lehrer	Jeffersons	Sanford Honeymooners	Dearest"	Paper Chase	"	SportsCenter Wrestling
/ :30	"	Charlie Brown	Growing Pains	Barnaby Jones	Nova	Movie: "Coogan's	Movie: "Marlowe"	Movie: "House"	Movie: "Protocol"	Movie: "The	"
O:30 E	Hill Street Blues	Movie: "Stillwatch"	Moonlighting	Movie: "Bank Shot"	Frontline	Bluff"		Not News	"	Hunchback Of	College
9:30 8	Remington Steele		Carol Burnett Special	"	Tenko	News	NBA Basketball	Movie:	Brothers	Notre Dame" Movie:	Basketball Georgia Tech
	lews onight Show	News Dating Game	News M*A*S*H	Late Show	Nature Profiles Business Rpt.	Honeymooners Magnum, P.I.	Lakers at	"Fortress"	G. Shandling Movie	"Eleni"	at Maryland In PGA
1:00 p	lavid	Simon & Simon		Twilight Zone	MacNeil /	Movie:	Kings	Movie:		Movie:	SportsCenter Mark Sosin
2:30 6		Company of the compan	700 Club	"Daisy Kenyon"		"Flood!"	Movie: "Chain Lightning"	Movie	Movie: "Scarred"	"Creator"	Outdoors Waterskiing

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1987

	KSNT	WIBW	KTKA	KSHB	KTWU	WGN	WTBS	НВО	SHOW	MAX	ESPN
7:30		CBS AM News Morning	S Good Morning America	My Little Pony Tom And Jerr		Bozo,	Jeannie Bewitched	Movie: "Dreamchild"	Valen.'s Day	"Superman"	Business
8:30		Program	"	Defenders Brady Bunch	Sesame Stree	Heathcliff	Down To Eart Love Lucy		His Magic	Movie: "Real Genius	Ski World
9:00		Pyramid Card Sharks	Ask Dr. Ruth $1 Mil. Chance	Mork & Mindy Day At A Time	Sesame Stree	t Falcon Crest	Movie: "A Patch Of	Movie: "The Best Of	Movie: "Ride.	near Genius	Skiing
10:30	Scrabble	Price is Right	Fame Fortune Webster	Mary Tyler Moore	Body Electric Hatha Yoga	Hillbillies Odd Couple	Blue"	Times"	Vaquero!" Movie:	Movie:	Sports NBA Today
11:30		Young And The Restless	Ryan's Hope Loving	Bewitched Soap	Literature Algebra	H's Heroes Twilight Zone	Perry Mason	Movie:	"Just The Wa	"Big Wednesday"	SportsLook Aerobics
12:30	News Days Of Our	Midday As The World	All My Children	Dick Van Dyke Hillbillies	Sesame Street		Movie: "All The	"Better Off Dead"	You Are" The Almost	Movie:	Getting Fit College
1:00	Lives Another World	Turns Capitol	One Life To Live	For Daddy My 3 Sons	Nova	Dick Van Dyke Andy Griffith		Movie:	Royal Family Movie:	"Rappin"	Basketball Georgia Tech
2:00	Santa Barbara	Guiding Light	General Hospital	Munsters Zoobilee Zoo	Heritage	Beaver Bugs Bunny	Tom & Jerry And Friends	"Just The Way You Are"	"Duchess Of Idaho"	Movie: "High Anxiety"	at Maryland Women's
3:00	Happy Days	Magnum, P.I.	Ghostbusters Dennis	Scooby Doo Smurfs	We're Cooking Aerobics	Ghostbusters Smurfs	Scooby Doo	Ups & Downs	"Aladdin And	Movie:	Tennis Wrestling
4:00	Diff. Strokes Facts Of Life	Donahue	ThunderCats G.I. Joe	Flintstones Jetsons	Square 1 TV 3-2-1 Contact	G.I. Joe Transformers	Flintstones Gilligan		His Magic Lamp"	"Out Of Africa"	Auto Racing
5:30	3's Company NBC News	News CBS News	People's Court ABC News	Facts Of Life Gimme Break	Sesame Street	Facts Of Life WKRP	Rocky Road Hillbillies	Movie:	Valen.'s Day Winkler Meets		Horse Racing SportsLook
6:30	News Wheel Fortune	News Newlyweds	Benson M*A*S*H	WKRP Barney Miller	MacNeil / Lehrer	Barney Miller Jeffersons	Andy Griffith Sanford	"Roller Boogie"	Shakespeare Movie:	The Movies	In PGA SportsCenter
7:00	Highway To Heaven	New Mike Hammer	P. Strangers Head Of Class	Barnaby Jones	National	Movie:	Honeymooners Movie:	Movie:	"Just The Way You Are"	Movie: "Superman"	Rendez-Vous
	Gimme Break The Tortellis	Magnum, P.I.	Dynasty	Movie: "National	Geographic Eyes On The Prize	"The Maltese Falcon"	"Network"	"Uphill All The Way"	Movie:	"	NHL All-Stars vs. U.S.S.R.
9:00	St. Elsewhere	Equalizer	Hotel	Lampoon's Animal House"	Kansas	News		The Talk Show Movie:	"The Delta Force"	Movie:	"
10:00	News Fonight Show	News Dating Game	News M*A*S*H	Late Show	It's Your Turn Nature Profiles	Honeymooners	Movie: "Ned Kelly"	"Just The Way You Are"	"	"Real Genius"	SportsCenter MISL Soccer
4 4:00	"		Ask Dr. Ruth	Twilight Zone	Business Rpt. MacNeil /	Magnum, P.I.	"	Movie:	Movie:		All-Star
1 0:00 L	David etterman	"Take Your	Nightline 700 Club		Lehrer	Movie: "Andromeda	Movie:	Times"	"Too Scared To Scream"	"Secret	Game
12:30	Bene Scott	Best Shot"		"Cold Turkey"		Strain"	"At Sword's Point"	Movie	Bizarre Movie	Admirer" Movie	NBA Today

NHATTAN

Manhattan Area Vocational Technical School

OPEN HOUSE

Tues., Feb. 10, 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

Manhattan Area Vocational-Technical School invites you to attend an open house to view the latest in modern training facilities.

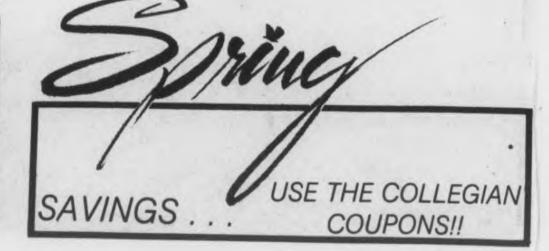

Vo-Tech provides training and technical assistance to combine education, industry and business for the betterment of student and community

The week of February 8-14 is National Vocational Education Week. Come see what we

3136 Dickens

Manhattan, KS 1-800-358-3079

(913) 539-7431

K-State debaters shoot for top honors

By CHAD L. SANDBORN Staff Writer

Despite an idle Christmas vacation, the K-State debate team is looking to move back into the top-40 rankings. Debate Coach Ed Schiappa, instructor of speech, said his young team's high finishes in post-break tournaments should put them back in the rankings.

"We were inactive over Christmas break because we didn't have traveling money, and we fell out of the rankings," he said. "But we've done well since we've come back (from break)."

The team has participated in four tournaments, with at least one twoman team finishing in the top three at every tournament. Their most recent tournament was in Colorado Springs, Colo. at the Air Force two K-State teams shared the firstplace honors.

One team consisted of Steve Collins, freshman in pre-veterinary medicine, and Stacey Schwarz, freshman in business administration. Members of the second team were Cathy Doud, freshman in general arts and sciences, and Pat McGranahan, freshman in computer

Schwarz said the teams chose not to debate for first place.

"We beat the University of Utah in the semifinals, and our other team beat the University of Texas-El Paso. But we chose not to debate because we had won first and second place either way," she said.

The teams debate a pre-chosen, national topic which changes every semester, Schiappa said. The cur-

Academy. The team fared well as rent topic is whether or not mandatory drug testing is an invasion of privacy.

Because most of the 14-member team is made up of freshmen, Schiappa said he has been surprised by his team's recent success.

"I looked at this year as a rebuilding year. I figured we'd spend a lot of time learning. Fortunately we've been learning and winning, he said.

Their next tournament is at Missouri Southern State University in Joplin, Feb. 13-15. Schiappa is optimistic about the team's chances.

"I expect us to do well. I don't think this tournament will be any tougher than the others. We are coming on strong...so I expect to do at least as well as at the other tournaments," he said.

Although the debate team has already qualified two teams for the national tournament, they are looking to qualify more. Schiappa said qualification is based on a combination of a two-man team's number of wins, losses and points. This April the national tournament will be in Baton Rouge, La.

 4¢ self-service copies Full service copy center

 Resume service OPEN DAILY

M-F 8-9 Sun. 12-9 Denison & Claflin FirstBank Center 776-3771

Live Band

(formerly the Catz)

Free set this afternoon

> 1800 Claflin 539-9619

SHOW

HBO

WTBS

MAX

Hair Design & Skin Care Studio

$2.50 per visit

Tanning Beds $25 for 12 visits

expires 5/30/87

of selection of selection

Lordy'n Lady/

218 S. 4th

776-5651

2- STEP DANCE CONTEST

starts 9 p.m.

Come out and strut your stuff

SALOON

Class B Private Club Open Daily 1 p.m. Three miles East of Manhattan Hwy. 24 539-4989

...Is Your Complete

c .

Acete Contractor

ESPN

Friday, February 6, 1987

Fortune

Continued from Page 6

director. In this film, he coaxes excellent performances from his actors, but visually the movie is unimaginative and flat - two things a screwball comedy can't afford to be.

The comedy's momentum is provided by Long and Midler. Their first scenes together are contrived, but once they take off in search of their lover, using their training as actresses to bluff their way from one situation to the next, the results are often hilarious. They're heels to one another, but they so enjoy being heels that they're fun to watch.

In a supporting performance, George Carlin doesn't fare nearly as well. Everytime he's on camera, he mugs shamelessly, rolling his eyes and bobbing his "Outrageous Fortune" is worth seeing for the performances of Long and Midler, but it was desperately in need of a different director and a more inventive screenplay.

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate passed a constitutional revision Thursday night allowing a student body president to seek re-election.

Student Body President, Steven Johnson, junior in agricultural economics and sponsor of the revision, said this could bring increased efficiency to the office of the student body president because a two-term president would be more familiar with issues.

Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics, said the student body wants a president who is able to execute the office of the president to his best ability, and this measure would allow a person to do

However, Martin Monto, senior in sociology, said the revision will over emphasize politics and downplay the

Collegian Classiciana

Cheap, but

dlabal

general d

J. DENNIS DLA

BRITT C. FELTI

Evening and appointment

importance of academics.

The constitutional change could deprive other students of being elected to office.

The revision now needs final approval by the college councils.

To protect the student body from reactionary fee legislation, Senate also passed a revision placing all student fee creations and changes under Senate jurisdiction.

The original student fee bill only allowed Senate to change the student activity fee.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1987

KTKA

accepted a special $200 allocation to the Student Governing Association to provide for a mailing to prospective students interested in SGA. The mailing, financed by the Reserves for Contingencies account, will be sent to almost 2,500 students. Senate heard the first reading of a special allocation that would increase the salary of Jenny Johnston,

Secretary I, as part of the state's conversion of all Secretary I positions into a new series.

THE LOU DOUGLAS LECTURES

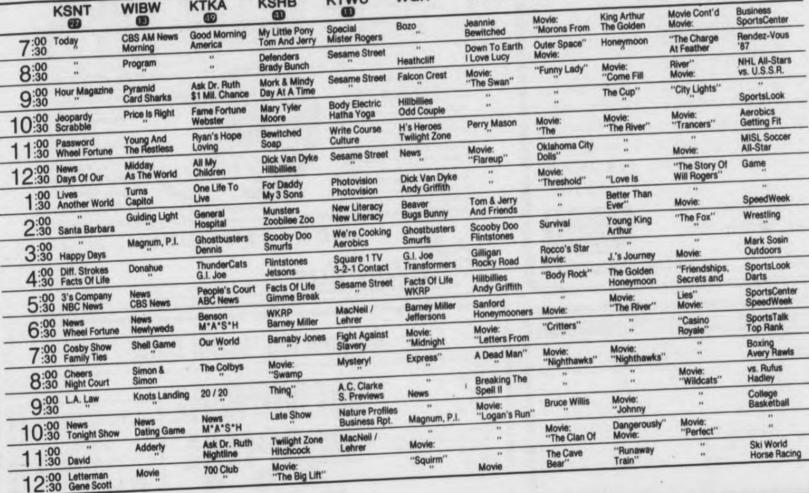

> LESTER THUROW "U.S.-JAPANESE

> > KSHB

KTWU

1120 Moro

WGN

All shows starting before 6 p.m.-all seats $2.50 Movie info. 539-1291 Tuesday is bargain night!

CAMPUS

OUTRAGEOUS FORTUNE

DAILY AT 7 AND 9 MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 3 AND 5 RATED R

Crocodile DUNDEE

Popa

The 6 The Presi

Anothe

Look who's 7 - 9:30 Matinee sneaking into town! & Sun. at 2 PG-13

WESTLOOP LITTLE SHOP OF HORRORS

DAILY AT 4:30-7-9:30 MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2 RATED PG-13

SPECIAL LIMITED ENGAGEMENT

SORRY NO PASSES

OR DISCOUNTS

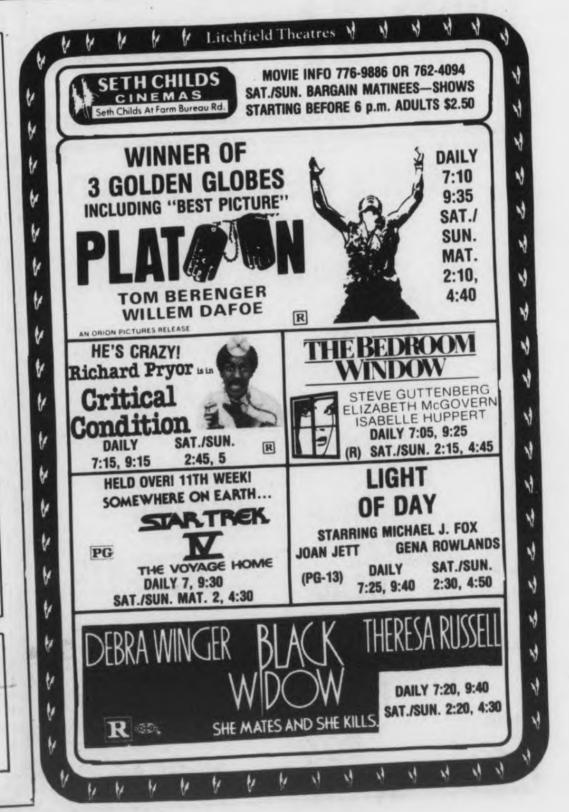

THE GOLDEN CHILD

DAILY AT 4:40-7:10-9:20 MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2:10 RATED PG-13

DAILY AT 4:30- 7-9:30 MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2 RATED PG

FROM THE HIP DAILY AT 4:45-7:10-9:25 MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2:20 RATED PG

ALLAN QUATERMAIN DAILY AT 4:45 AND 7:20 MAT. SAT. & SUN. AT 2:20 RATED PG KINDRED DAILY AT 9:25 ONLY RATED R

By CHAD L. SANDBORN Staff Writer

Despite an idle Christmas vacation, the K-State debate team is looking to move back into the top-40 rankings. Debate Coach Ed Schiappa, instructor of speech, said his young team's high finishes in post-break tournaments should put them back in the rankings.

"We were inactive over Christmas break because we didn't have traveling money, and we fell out of the rankings," he said. "But we've done well since we've come back (from break)."

The team has participated in four tournaments, with at least one twoman team finishing in the top three at every tournament. Their most recent tournament was in Colorado Springs, Colo. at the Air Force two K-State teams shared the firstplace honors.

One team consisted of Steve Collins, freshman in pre-veterinary medicine, and Stacey Schwarz, freshman in business administration. Members of the second team were Cathy Doud, freshman in general arts and sciences, and Pat McGranahan, freshman in computer

Schwarz said the teams chose not to debate for first place.

"We beat the University of Utah in the semifinals, and our other team beat the University of Texas-El Paso. But we chose not to debate because we had won first and second place either way," she said.

The teams debate a pre-chosen, national topic which changes every semester, Schiappa said. The cur-

Academy. The team fared well as rent topic is whether or not mandatory drug testing is an invasion of privacy. Because most of the 14-member team is made up of freshmen, Schiappa said he has been surprised by his team's recent success.

"I looked at this year as a rebuilding year. I figured we'd spend a lot of time learning. Fortunately we've been learning and winning,' he said.

Their next tournament is at Missouri Southern State University in Joplin, Feb. 13-15. Schiappa is optimistic about the team's chances.

"I expect us to do well. I don't think this tournament will be any tougher than the others. We are coming on strong...so I expect to do at least as well as at the other tournaments," he said.

Although the debate team has already qualified two teams for the national tournament, they are looking to qualify more. Schiappa said qualification is based on a combination of a two-man team's number of wins, losses and points. This April the national tournament will be in Baton Rouge, La.

•4¢ self-service copies Full service copy center Resume service

OPEN DAILY Sun. 12-9 M-F 8-9 Sat. 9-5 Denison & Claflin FirstBank Center 776-3771

(formerly the Catz)

Free set this afternoon

> 1800 Claflin 539-9619

LORDJ'n LADYJ Hair Design & Skin Care Studio

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN, Friday, February 6, 1987

Tanning Beds

$25 for 12 visits $2.50 per visit

expires 5/30/87

218 S. 4th

776-5651

Thursday Feb. 12

2-STEP DANCE CONTEST

starts 9 p.m.

Come out and strut your stuff

Class B Private Club Open Daily 1 p.m. Three miles East of Manhattan Hwy. 24 539-4989

COME OUT OF YOUR

SHELL

...Is Your Complete

Our Nautilus machines are designed to only take 90 minutes a week to reach

Senate passes presidential revision

By The Collegian Staff

Student Senate passed a constitutional revision Thursday night allowing a student body president to seek re-election.

Student Body President, Steven Johnson, junior in agricultural economics and sponsor of the revision, said this could bring increased efficiency to the office of the student body president because a two-term president would be more familiar

Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics, said the student body wants a president who is able to execute the office of the president to his best ability, and this measure would allow a person to do

However, Martin Monto, senior in sociology, said the revision will over emphasize politics and

Collegian Clas Cheap, but Ef

dlabal fe

J. DENNIS DLAB

BRITT C. FELTN

Evening and $

· Next to camp

'We cater to co

(and other peop

Free

Show

Sandwi

1120 Moro

1834 Claflin

appointments

• We see emer >

general de importance of academics. The constitutional change could deprive other students of being elected to office. The revision now needs final approval by the college councils.

To protect the student body from reactionary fee legislation, Senate also passed a revision placing all student fee creations and changes under Senate jurisdiction.

The original student fee bill only allowed Senate to change the student activity fee.

In other legislative action, Senate accepted a special $200 allocation to the Student Governing Association to provide for a mailing to prospective students interested in SGA

The mailing, financed by the Reserves for Contingencies account, will be sent to almost 2,500 students.

Senate heard the first reading of a special allocation that would increase the salary of Jenny Johnston, Secretary I, as part of the state's conversion of all Secretary I positions into a new series.

THE -LOU DOUGLAS

LESTER THUROW

Friday, February 6, 1987

Looking for a bargain? Don't Buy.

Save money by renting state-of-the-art equipment, appliances and home entertainment systems at near-piracy rates from Campus Rent-All. No service or repair bills and we deliver to your door come hail or high water. Now that's a 2 free videos with each monthly rental.

1122 Laramie

539-8786

There's even room to dance in our shell. Over 25 Aerobic classes every week, with video-taped classes availa to match your workout

There's no reason to be a hermit at Nautilus Fitness

Club. Our specially trained staff will get you started in the most complete exercis program in the area.

Level II Intensive Care nursery

Birthing room, Birthing chair

C.T. scanning Respiratory Therapy Physical Therapy Durable Medical Equi our peak. Deep in our shell, beyond ne free wts., dressing you'll find the relaxation of the sauna and whirlpool. Enter our shell this spring for only #9950

Expires May 15

1100 MORO AGGIEVILLE MANHATTAN

Don't Miss

A SHOWTIME PAY CABLE EXCLUSIVE Lung Ho East meets West when Japanese industrialists open an auto plant in Pennsylvania. Rollicking fun! Starring Michael Keaton. ONLY ON SHOWTIME NOT ON HBO'!

Manhattan Cable

776-9239

Community Health Care

Think of -

EMERGENCY CARE CENTER 913-776-3300 Full Physician Coverage Weekends and Holidays

Working together for a healthier you SUNSET AVENUE AT CLAFLIN ROAD, MANHATTAN, KS e!

e iter

ind

EE

UP!

S ELEVEN

KSDB's NEW WEEKEND SCHEDULE

6:00 a.m.	SATURDAY	SUNDAY
9:00 12:00	JAZZ IN THE MORNING TUNE	SUNDAY
1:00 3:00	FUSION INTO AFRICA	ANYTHING GOES DR. DEMENTO
5:00 6:00	METAL HEAD
8:00	JAM	CROSS POINT
11:00	THE	THE "TOUR"
1:00 a m	BOX	REGGAE

704 N. Manhattan Ave. • In Aggieville • 539-7654 Mon.-Thurs. 8:30 a.m.-8:30 p.m. • Fri.-Sat. 8:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Sun. Noon-5 p.m.

on) , 1987

g

$2.50 per visit

218 S. 4th

Thursday

Feb. 12

Lordy'n Lady/

Hair Design & Skin Care Studio

Tanning Beds

expires 5/30/87

despessors shaked

K-State debaters shoot for top honors

By CHAD L. SANDBORN Staff Writer

Despite an idle Christmas vacation, the K-State debate team is looking to move back into the top-40 rankings. Debate Coach Ed Schiappa, instructor of speech, said his young team's high finishes in post-break tournaments should put them back in the rankings.

"We were inactive over Christmas break because we didn't have traveling money, and we fell out of the rankings," he said. "But we've done well since we've come back (from

The team has participated in four tournaments, with at least one twoman team finishing in the top three at every tournament. Their most recent tournament was in Colorado Springs, Colo. at the Air Force

By The Collegian Staff

ing a student body president to seek

Student Body President, Steven

Johnson, junior in agricultural

economics and sponsor of the revision, said this could bring increased

efficiency to the office of the student body president because a two-term

president would be more familiar

Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics, said the student body wants a president who is able to execute the office of the president to his best ability, and this measure would allow a person to do

However, Martin Monto, senior in sociology, said the revision will over

emphasize politics and downplay the

Collegian Classifieds

Cheap, but Effective

dlabal feltner

general dentistry

J. DENNIS DLABAL, D.D.S.

BRITT C. FELTNER, D.D.S.

· Evening and Saturday

We see emergencies

"We cater to cowards"

(and other people, too)

C- THE

LIQUE

TODAY

Free TGIF

Show and

Sandwich Bar

120 Moro

Next to campus

1834 Claffin

appointments available

re-election.

with issues.

Student Senate passed a constitutional revision Thursday night allow-

two K-State teams shared the firstplace honors.

One team consisted of Steve Collins, freshman in pre-veterinary to debate for first place.

"We beat the University of Utah in the semifinals, and our other team beat the University of Texas-El Paso. But we chose not to debate because we had won first and second

The teams debate a pre-chosen, national topic which changes every

Academy. The team fared well as rent topic is whether or not mandatory drug testing is an invasion of privacy.

Because most of the 14-member team is made up of freshmen, Schiappa said he has been surprised by his team's recent success.

"I looked at this year as a rebuilding year. I figured we'd spend a lot of time learning. Fortunately we've been learning and winning, he said.

Their next tournament is at Missouri Southern State University in Joplin, Feb. 13-15. Schiappa is optimistic about the team's chances.

"I expect us to do well. I don't think this tournament will be any tougher than the others. We are coming on strong...so I expect to do at least as well as at the other tournaments," he said.

Although the debate team has already qualified two teams for the national tournament, they are looking to qualify more. Schiappa said qualification is based on a combination of a two-man team's number of wins, losses and points. This April the national tournament will be in Baton Rouge, La.

 4c self-service copies Full service copy center Resume service

OPEN DAILY Sun 12-9 Denison & Claffin FirstBank Center 776-3771

Live Band

(formerly the Catz)

Free set this afternoon

> 1800 Claflin 539-9619

starts 9 p.m.

CONTEST

2-STEP DANCE

$25 for 12 visits

776-5651

Come out and strut your stuff

Class B Private Club Open Daily 1 p.m. Three miles East of Manhattan Hwy. 24 539-4989

...Is Your Complete THUMB

Headquarters Free Hamster or Gerbil with purchase of cage Gray Cockatiels $45 Orange Wing Amazon Parrots $14995 Piranha 1-2" $695

2 Fish for $1 Sunsets

Red Platy Red Tux Moon

1445 Anderson Avenue

Catch the Wave!

Buy One Coke 2-Liter for 99¢ and Get a FREE MAX CUP!

Lakeshore

Double Cheeseburgers

100% Beef

only 89¢ each No Limit

1 Order of Nachos

and

1 Chili-Cheese Dog

only $1.09 (with coupon) Offer good at Manhattan, Ks store through Feb.13, 1987 medicine, and Stacey Schwarz, freshman in business administration. Members of the second team were Cathy Doud, freshman in general arts and sciences, and Pat McGranahan, freshman in computer

Schwarz said the teams chose not place either way," she said.

semester, Schiappa said. The cur-

Senate passes presidential revision importance of academics.

The constitutional change could deprive other students of being elected to office.

The revision now needs final approval by the college councils.

To protect the student body from reactionary fee legislation, Senate also passed a revision placing all student fee creations and changes under Senate jurisdiction.

The original student fee bill only allowed Senate to change the student activity fee.

In other legislative action, Senate accepted a special $200 allocation to the Student Governing Association to provide for a mailing to prospective students interested in SGA.

The mailing, financed by the Reserves for Contingencies account, will be sent to almost 2,500 students.

Senate heard the first reading of a special allocation that would increase the salary of Jenny Johnston, Secretary I, as part of the state's conversion of all Secretary I positions into a new series.

LOU DOUGLAS

LESTER THUROW "U.S.-JAPANESE ECONOMIC RELATIONS"

7:30 p.m., FEBRUARY 10

FORUM HALL Sponsored by U.F.M., Dept. of Economics, Pre-Law Club and others

Sunday, Feb. 8 5:30-7:30 p.m. 711 Denison $2.50

> Sponsored by Newman

Kappa Delta Pi will be signing up

VOLUNTEERS for the College of Education

> TELEFUND FRIDAY

8:30 a.m. through 1:30 p.m. In the lobby of Bluemont Hall

COME TO THE MOVIES

TONIGHT

7:30 p.m. 1021 Denison

"SAVING GRACE"

Starring Tim Conti, Edward James Olmos, and Patricia Maucen

Popcorn & discussion to follow! Hope to see you there!

Another program of Ecumenical Christian Ministries. The Campus Ministry of:

The Church of Brethren, The United Church of Christ, The Presbyterian Church (USA); The United Methodist Church,

Wildcats looking to rebound at Iowa State

ISU's Grayer likes to play leadership role

By DAVE WAGNER Sports Writer

When the K-State men's basketball team takes on Iowa State this weekend in Ames, one key to victory will be shutting down the Cyclones' preseason All-American forward Jeff Grayer.

Although the Wildcats won the first matchup, 68-65, Jan. 17 in Ahearn Field House, it wasn't because Grayer didn't pull his weight. The 6-foot-5 junior forward again assumed the leadership role for Iowa State and scored 23 points.

'I do like to play the leadership role, but we have two other guys (seniors Tom Schaefer and Sam Hill) who are coming up as well," he said.

Grayer, from Flint, Mich., compiled an impressive portfolio of accomplishments in his first two years at Iowa State.

He scored 402 points in his freshman year and 684 points (15th highest point total in Big Eight Conference annals) his sophomore season. Grayer became the first player in Iowa State cage history to reach the 1,000-point plateau in two seasons and only one of five in Big Eight history.

These impressive figures garnered Grayer mention from The Associated Press as an honorable mention All-American, First team All-Big Eight by United Press Inter-national, second team All-Big Eight by AP and All-Midwest by Basketball Weekly and Basketball Times.

In the process of making his way onto sports writers' lists of the best, he was named Big Eight Player of the week eight times. Grayer said he is flattered by the honors, but he doesn't let the pressure affect his

"I really don't pay any attention to that (the honors)," he said. "I'm really honored that they picked me to be All-American, but it doesn't add any extra pressure to do well."

So far this season it is apparent Grayer hasn't been affected as he leads the Cyclones in scoring averaging - 22.6 points in all games and 24.8 points a game in conference play. His conference stats rank him second in the Big Eight in Grayer has done this despite a knee injury incurred when he went for a slam dunk early in the season.

"My knee is going to be a problem all season," he said. "It doesn't allow me to cut and move as fast as I would like to. I can't exactly spring up like I'm used to either.

Maybe so, but it hasn't shown yet. K-State Coach Lon Kruger said that in order for his team to contain Grayer they will have to play him tough defensively.

"Grayer is one of the top players in the league, we're quite aware of that," said Kruger. "We'll give him attention defensively (and) we'll probably start with Mitch (Richmond) patched up on him."

Richmond said he hasn't been told specifically by Kruger what the game plan for Grayer will be, but said that he has respect for his play-

"He's a good player. He's very strong and gets the job done," Richmond said. "He's definitely their leader and that's who they look for in tough situations."

Iowa State forward Jeff Grayer has been averaging 24.8 points a game for the Cyclones — second best in the Big Eight. Grayer netted 23 points in the season's first game at K-State, which the Wildcats won 68-65.

Orr only plans on altering finish

By TOM MORRIS Sports Editor

First, the obvious bad news. K-State dropped an 80-75 double overtime loss to Kansas Wednesday in Ahearn Field House.

Now, for more bad news. It isn't going to get any easier.

K-State, 14-6 overall and 4-3 in the Big Eight Conference, begins the second half of conference play Saturday against Iowa State in Ames.

Tipoff is set for 3:10 p.m. and will be broadcast by the Raycom Sports

Look in the dictionary under home advantage, and one might find Iowa State. The Cyclones, 11-9 and 3-4, have yet to be defeated this season at the James H. Hilton Coliseum, and Wednesday the Cyclones dumped visiting Missouri 96-92.

Iowa State may have the most deceiving record in the conference. Six of its losses were at Iowa, Auburn, Michigan State, Kansas, Oklahoma and a 68-65 loss to the Wildcats Feb. 17 at Ahearn Field

Cyclone coach Johnny Orr only plans on doing one thing different this time around against the 'Cats. "We plan on making the result come out different," Orr said. Wildcat coach Lon Kruger said there is too much season ahead to worry about the heartbreaking loss

"We can't get to the point where a frustrating or an emotional loss...blows our confidence in the ball games coming up," Kruger said. "The big test right now is to get up off the mat and sling away."

Iowa State head coach Johnny Orr is trying to get his team back into

If the 'Cats are to steal a victory at Ames and keep alive their conference title hopes, they must cure their outside shooting woes. K-State shot just 33.3 percent from the floor against Missouri and 31.3 percent against the 'Hawks.

"We've got to generally get better shot selection," Kruger said. "We aren't shooting the ball as well now as we were earlier because we're not shooting as high a percentage shot now. I think we have to make just a little bit better decisions."

Forward Mitch Richmond, who hit just four of 20 shots Wednesday night, is a walking definition of a

"This is really one of the worst slumps I've been in since I've been playing basketball and I really don't know how to cope with it right now." Richmond said.

Iowa State is paced by Jeff Grayer (see related story), the Big Eight's second-leading scorer, and senior forward Tom Schafer (18.2 points per game). Sophomore guard Elmer Robinson and senior center Sam Hill have recovered from an ankle injury and the flu, respectively, and combined for 30 points in the win against Missouri.

In other Big Eight action Saturday, Oklahoma State is at Kansas, Nebraska plays at Colorado and Oklahoma hosts Missouri.

Iowa State's lackluster 10-11 mark still concerns Lady Cats' Mossman the Big Eight race.

By JEFF RAPP Sports Writer

Coming off a brilliant evening of basketball that saw the Lady Cats pound the University of Oklahoma, 80-69, Wednesday in Ahearn Field House, K-State returns to the only place where it has lost this season the road.

Specifically, the Lady Cats travel to Ames Saturday to take on the Iowa State Lady Cyclones.

Tipoff is slated for 5 p.m. following the men's contest. Both games will be broadcast on radio station WIBW,

K-State, 16-5 overall, is 5-3 in the Big Eight Conference and tied with Missouri and Oklahoma State for the league lead. Iowa State is win-less in the conference, 0-8, and 10-11 overall.

In spite of the Lady Cyclones' somewhat lackluster record, Lady Cats' coach Matilda Mossman said she has good reason to be concerned.

"We've only won once on the road in the conference and I think that's indicative of how strong the conference is overall and how important it is to win home games for every team," Mossman said.

"I think Saturday night we're going to have our hands full with Iowa State, even though they haven't won a league game. They're still playing on their home floor and they're going to be tough to beat because they're looking for a win right now," she ad-

Mossman's worries are justified. K-State, while a sparkling 10-0 at home this season, is a dim 5-5 overall and 1-3 on the road in conference play.

Mossman said the previous victory against ISU - 63-56, Jan. 17 - probably won't have an effect on the rematch Saturday.

"Now we're in a little bit different situation because we're tied for first with three other teams, and Iowa State is in last place. I think that has to have a dampening effect on them."

The atmosphere on campus and

Not only was the weather

disgustingly damp and rainy, but the disappointment from Wednesday night's men's basketball double overtime loss to the Kansas

Jayhawks was still stinging just

Walking through campus or sitting in class, one could hear things like,

"the 'Cats blew another one," or

"Danny Manning (KU's 'Mr. Basket-

Yes, we lost. Yes, Manning is incredible. And yes, things don't look too good for the 'Cats as far as the Big Eight Conference race is con-

Kansas and Oklahoma, both 6-1, are tied for first. KU has three of its remaining conference games at home, while Oklahoma has four.

Both teams are playing great basketball now, and it's going to be hard for anyone to knock them off. Missouri is about everyone.

ball') is awesome."

around Manhattan Thursday was similar to that of "The Day After."

Jayhawk Invitational ideal place for Cat track squads to buy time

By BILL LANG Collegian Reporter

The Jayhawk Invitational indoor track meet Friday and Saturday in Lawrence, one of the Wildcats' biggest meets this season, is also the perfect opportunity for K-State to buy some time.

According to Coach John Capriotti, the 'Cats have been slowed with flu and injuries.

"Right now we are just wanting to get everybody healthy and ready for the Big Eight track meet," Capriotti said.

"We've got a lot of people out right now with the flu bug and some with injuries. We're hoping that everybody will feel better after this meet is over.'

Sprinter Jeff Reynolds will miss the meet, still nursing a sore groin muscle, and distance runners Jim Knudsen, Bryan Lopez, Pat Hessini and Alysun Deckert will sit out with leg injuries. Pole vaulter Jeff Holmes will also miss the meet with minor back pains. K-State wide receiver John Williams will replace Reynolds in the meet, which has Capriotti a little worried.

"This will be John's first 'big' meet since coming over from football," Capriotti said. "I hope he handles the pressure well. This is a big meet and every point counts."

Thirty teams are scheduled to participate in the meet with Colorado, Nebraska, Oklahoma State, K-State and host Kansas representing the Big Eight Conference.

Long jumper Kenny Harrison, tops in the Big Eight at 25-51/2, will not compete, but will represent K-State Saturday at the Dallas Times-Herald Invitational.

NFL would welcome Sooners' colorful Boz

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY - Brian Bosworth's brash, sometimes caustic, way of doing business should not keep him from being one of the top choices at the National Football League draft.

"We'd be glad to have him," said George Young, general manager of the Super Bowl champion New York Giants, one of the teams the Oklahoma linebacker has listed among his favorites.

"We don't think he's uncontrollable at all. I wish he would be a little bit more even with his behavior, but we've had others who were much more questionable characters," Young said.

America who has twice won the Butkus Award as the nation's top

Bosworth, a two-time All-college linebacker, can make himself available for the April 28 draft even though he has a season of eligibility left.

If Bosworth does make himself available to the NFL, he almost certainly will go early.

Tampa Bay will choose first, followed by Indianapolis, Buffalo, Green Bay and San Diego. All five teams could use defensive help.

Philadelphia Eagles Coach Buddy Ryan, whose team picks ninth, also has said he would like to get the 6-2, 240-pound Bosworth.

Dick Steinberg, director of player development for the New England Patriots, however, said some of Bosworth's actions would definitely concern you if you felt you were going to be in a situation to draft him.

JENNY CHAULK Sports Writer

Armchair coach will enjoy tournament close behind at 5-2.

Meanwhile, K-State is 4-3, and unfortunately the 'Cats have to travel four times, including visits to Lawrence and Norman.

But all was not lost Wednesday night. The fact that K-State's women's team trounced the Oklahoma Lady Sooners, 80-69, was overshadowed by the men's defeat. The Lady Cat victory put K-State in a three-way tie for first place in the women's conference standings.

True Wildcat sports fans can and should take pride in this. Great fan support in the last five minutes of the game helped the Lady Cats pull viewing the action as an armchair away from the Lady Sooners, who had pulled within two points at the time, 59-57.

It can't be disputed that screaming fans had more than a little to do with K-State's victory. It would be nice to see that same enthusiasm at the Lady Cats' remaining three home

As for the men's team, Coach Lon Kruger and the 'Cats have confidence they can rebound from the tough loss and come back to finish strong. There's also the Big Eight conference post-season tournament to look forward to March 6-8 at Kemper Arena in Kansas City, Mo.

That's where the 'Cats need to peak. The winner of the tourney receives an automatic berth to the 64-team NCAA tournament. So fans, don't get discouraged, even if you do have to watch the Big Eight tourney on television instead of in person. That's right. Most students will be coach. Carol Adolph, of the K-State ticket office, said tickets for the tourney were sold out in early December the quickest sellout the tournament has ever had.

K-State, along with other conference schools, received 250 tickets for the tournament. Adolph said purchase orders were sent to K-State contributors Nov. 1, and these contributors had to respond by Dec. 1, whether or not they wanted to purchase the tickets.

Needless to say, 'Cat backers snatched them up. So, unless they had the foresight to order tickets from the Big Eight Conference, students are out of luck.

Those students who were fortunate enough to get tickets will have to cheer overtime to make up for the students who will watch from home. Maybe next year, students who want to go to the Big Eight tourney will get on the bandwagon and order ahead.

Forum

Continued from Page 1 not alter the appearance of the dolls,

and they failed to catch on. "I think we've learned a lot, and we will continue to learn," Bellizzi said. "I think we have done a rather sloppy job of trying to understand international markets, not only in Japan, but also in other parts of the country. Other mistakes the United States has made are demanding instant success, refusing to learn from Japanese ways and allowing the dollar-to-yen ratio get out of hand,

The Japanese may also have other advantages. Japanese workers are more dedicated and more loyal than their American counterparts, Bellizzi said.

"I think they believe more substantially in work as an important dimension of their life," he said. Americans treat work as a means of achieving other goals in their lives, he said. The important question to be asked is not whether Japan is No. 1, but whether the United States can stay in the competitive game, Rose said. "It's not really up to Japan - it's up to the United States," she said. Thurow, a well-known speaker on economics, has written for the New York Times, Los Angeles Times and Newsweek, and is the author of 13 books. He will lecture in Union Forum Hall at 7:30 p.m.

UHH ... JEFFREY?

YOU HAVEN'T

SEEN THE HEAD.

HAVE YOU?

Bloom County

KNOCK .

LINES YET.

LIFE and Times

THIS IS THE WORST.

MIDDLE AGE

I'LL BE IN THE

A SIGN THAT THE RELA

TIONSHIP IS APPROACHING

LOOK, GARFIELD. IT'S POOKY! YOUR FAVORITE POSSESSION AND CLOSEST FRIEND. DO

YOU REMEMBER POOKY?

eanuts

HMM.

Classifieds

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Classifieds are payable in advance unless cli-ent has an established account with Student Publi-Deadline is noon the day before publication;

oon FRIDAY FOR Monday's paper. Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not after the value of the ad.

Items found ON CAMPUS can be advertised.

FREE for a period not exceeding three days. They can be placed at Kedzie 103 or by calling 532-6555.

Display Classified Rates One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

I'M AFRAID

400

BETTER

LOOK. IT'S

OCCUPIED!

BAD NEWS

NO...WHY?

MARY KAY Cosmetics-Skin care-glamour products. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handicapped accessible. (76-118)

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

Att 14 1 1 1 1 1 1

OCCUPIED!

Tell Them To

"STUFF IT"

Say Board of Regents

I JUST

NEED A

KLEENEX

DON'T BE SILLY. I'M A GROWN CAT. WHAT WOULD I NEED WITH A TEDDY BEAR?

02

for President

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski desti

Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauder

nations. South Padre Island, Daylona Beach

dale. Mustang Island/Port Aransas. Galveston Island and Fort Walton Beach. Call Sunchase Tours

Central Spring Break Toll Free Hot Line today for

ALPHA KAPPA Psi Members: Please sign up at the

YOU CAN learn to drive in three weeks! Patient in-

LOOK YOUR best in '87! Now available on campus-

CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry. Need 100 over weight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drugs, no exercise, 100% guaranteed, Call 776-5114 or 776-

HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT distributor. See us for GOVERNMENT SURPLUS!! Overcoats, field jackets, camouflage clothing, wool gloves and socks, cold weather boots, Carhartt workwear, much more!!

Just 28 miles east on highway 24. Open Monday

-Saturday, 9-5. St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437-

by Doug & Dick

OF REGENTS?

By Berke Breathed

By Jim Davis

By Charles Schulz

I'LL THINK OF AN

ANSWER WHEN I

WAKE UP.

STUFF IT?

products. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98)

TAKE IT ...

1 NOW PUT

THE GUN!

THE BIG

FEAR

CASUALNESS"..

DOWN

formation call 539-2715 (anytime). (93-97)

Kara, 532-3291 (93)

ATTENTION

1465. (76-98)

struction at the Little Apple Driving School. For in-

Avon! Makeup, jewelry, cologne, gifts. Contact information and reservations-1-800-321-5911!

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th. Aggieville, 539-1413. (27tf)

FOR RENT, two-bedroom mobile home, $200 month plus deposit. 537-7622. (85-93)

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO-BEDROOM apartments, furnished or unfurnished, (new furniture). Westloop area. Call 776-9124. (901f)

04

ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month. Gas, heat, and water included. Lease and deposit required. Call 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (89-98) TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage, west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294.

announcement board in Calvin Hall, 1st floor to work credit card table February 10, 11, 12 in the Un-NEAR KSU, quiet, clean, one-bedroom, furnished, laundry, air conditioning, parking. Available June 1. Call 776-7814 or 539-3803. (85-104) ion. For more information, check board and come to the meeting February 9. (92-94)

LARGE, WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five blocks from campus. No pets. $275. Call 776-0181. (91tf)

FURNISHED, SPACIOUS two-bedroom, nicely decorated. Dishwasher, disposal. Short-term lease available. No pets. $300 deposit required. 539-

ONE-HALF BLOCK from campus, one-be nished apartment. $220, bill paid. Call 537-7313 or 539-8401. (90-94)

ONE-BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Put-nam Hall, 1310 N. Manhattan. $210. Call 539-7521 or 776-7045. (90-94)

Early Bird Special Leasing for June $50 OFF

1st month's rent Studios & 2 Bedroom

Apartments and Townhouses

 Close to Campus MONT BLUE APTS. 539-4447

STUFF THEM!

VEA NINE HEADS THREE-BEDROOM, one and one-half bath in a nineplex. Available June 1. Living/dining area and fully equipped kitchen. Water and trash paid. $125 each for four, $150 each for three. 822 Fremont, phone 537-7087. (90-94)

LARGE TWO-BEDROOM, partially-furnished basement apartment close to campus, 1411 Vista Lane. Own entrance, no pets, parking for two cars. De-posit plus rent, available now. Pay own electricity. Phone 235-3550, Topeka. (91-100)

MOBILE HOME for rent. Utilities paid, washer/dryer. Mature student or married couple, no kids, no pets, non-smoker. $225/month, unfurnished. Call collect. (816) 765-0153. (91-95)

NICE, ONE-BEDROOM apartment. Water, trash, two-thirds gas paid. $260/month. Nice for couple or graduate student. 539-2482 after 4 p.m. (91tf) TWO-BEDROOM, furnished apartment, one block from Aggleville with air conditioning. $190/month. Available now, call 539-7253. (92-95) FALL LEASE? Nearly new, well designed and built one, two, three and four bedroom apartment complexes, or regular houses. Most close to campus. Reasonably priced. Available now, summer and fall. Please call 537-2919 or 537-1666. (92-108) TWO-BEDROOM, close to city park, utilities paid. No pets. $150 deposit, $295/month. Phone 537-1808.

FOR RENT-HOUSES TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294.

THREE-BEDROOM, near City Park, available immediately. 776-0605 or 539-4226. (91-95) OR SELL two-bedroom house on two acres with horse corrais. Five minutes from campus, 539-

5778. (93-97) FOR SALE-AUTO

TOYOTA PICKUP, 1984, clean, excellent condition, five-speed, long bed, topper, 776-0529, (87-93) 1978 HONDA Civic, front wheel drive, backwindow defroster, new tires, brakes. $900/offer. 539-6990.

MUST SELL: 1978 Buick Regal limited, loaded and very sharp. Must see to appreciate. 776-3835. (90-

1978 FORD Fiesta-Great m.p.g. Call 776-1930 after

6 p.m. (91-93) VW—RED 1970 Bug. New paint and tires. Runs good! Warnego 456-7654 or 456-9989. (91-95)

1982 CHEVY S-10 long-bed pickup. Loaded, sharp.

Call Daryl Folkerts, 539-0900 after 6 p.m. (92-94) FOR SALE: 1970 Ford F-100 360 4V, 3-speed, camper shell, radial tires, spoker wheels, 98K, sliding rear cab window. Reliable. Asking $1,200. Call 539-

PICKUP-1975, V8. one-half-ton, automatic, power steering and brakes. Runs good. 539-4818. (92-94)

FOR SALE-MISC

$50. Call 537-1589. (92-95)

Hayes House of Music DOD Effects 30% Off

776-7983 327 Poyntz

ROYAL PORTABLE typewriter. Manual, with case,

MAYBE

YOU COULD

DONATE

SOME!

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword

ACROSS 1 Museum fill 4 Polaris,

8 "Buffalo Bill" 12 20 Down's successor

13 Ocean movement 14 Bread spread 15 French restaurant dish 17 Bill of fare

18 Sofa 19 King of France

21 Him's partner 22 Cliff wall 26 Fire

29 Radon, 30 Court 31 Brewer's need 32 One type of money 33 "You Belong

34 Keats product

Harbor.

Yesterday's answer

status 24 European capital 25 Bard 26 Pump, for one 27 Brickcarriers 28 Mideast cartel 29 Joke 32 "I'm No Angel' star 33 Sports official 35 Health resort

perhaps 16 Friend 36 Front D'Artagnan 38 Pointer 39 Kitchen or prior Solution time: 24 mins. gadget LARALOWE 42 Burrowing critter 43 "Woe is

IT SAYS HERE THAT

MOST PEOPLE DON'T

GET ENOUGH SLEEP.

1 Deck

4 Fleet

6 Fuss

8 Wit

CITY

11 Puzzle

solver.

10 Lair

toppers

3 Diplomacy

or Wall

7 One kind of 54

Across?

9 Corrida

5 Bengal,

2 Levitate

36 - mignon DOWN

37 Get away

for one

cessed

Cometh"

location

concern

aware spare?

for heir

54 Briton's

55 Ending

45 Distantly

48 Endive

50 Missile

51 Raced

52 Court

53 Was

39 Hoover,

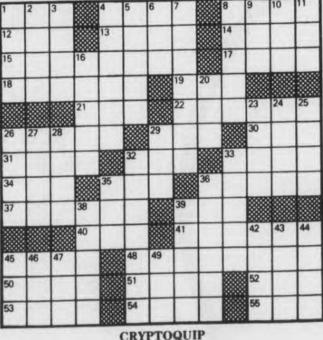

40 Unpro-

41 "The me!" 44 Postprime time offering 45 Invite 46 Fiver

47 Pub order 49 Employee of 20 Down

ZXUWHZWVUJ

MFAVHZWOM'

FAAUTIA RGFZG: FL HIM

OZXUOUGL RGJUWTWZRGJ Yesterday's Cryptoquip: FAMOUS NUCLEAR SCIEN-TIST USUALLY HAS TOO MANY IONS IN THE FIRE.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: I equals A

SUN LONNECTION NOW SELLING

5 sessions for $15

1126 Laramie 776-2426

MAKO BASS guitar, case, strap, extra strings. Must sell. $90 or best offer. 776-1925. (92-96) TWO NEW IBM compatible, near letter quality, dol matrix printers with parallel printer cable for $270 Call 776-6628. (93-97) STETSON COWBOY hat, size 71/4. Reasonably priced. Call 537-4689 after 6 p.m. (90-94) OVATION UK-II Stereo Electric guitar, $500 with tuner. Kustom II powered four-channel mixer with speakers, $175. Sharp dual cassette deck and BSR 10-band equalizer, $100 and $75 or $150 for both. Prices negotiable. David or Michael. 537-1770. (90-

> Lee's Western Wear Clearance Sale

> REGULAR PRICE (21/2 Miles E. Hwy. 24) 776-6715

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08

1981 14 x 70 Detroiter. Excellent condition. In a nice park. 239-3708 or 539-7308 Monday-Fridayevenings. Ask for Carol. (91-95)

10 FOUND: FERRET, 17th and Laramie. Identify to

TEXTBOOK FOUND in Ahearn fieldhouse after KU-KSU game. Call Mike at 537-4180 evenings to identify and claim. (93-95)

HELP WANTED

EARN $480 weekly-$60 per hundred envelopes stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed for company project stuffing envelopes and assem-bling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to JBK Mailcompany, P.O. Box 25-52, Castaic, California 91310. (76-102) AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer. Career

Good pay. Travel. Call for guide, cassette, newsser vice! (916) 944-4444 Ext. #58. (76-135) WANTED: COUNSELORS, riding and waterfront instructors (WSI and lifeguards). June/July 1987, live in, camp setting. If interested in an interview on rch 4, contact Career Planning and Placement

Center. (89-93) RIP AND Mo's is now accepting applications for waiters and waitresses, bartenders, door person nel, and cooks. Apply in person at Ray Enterprises, 1203 Laramie, Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-noon, or 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. (90-93) RESORT HOTELS, cruiselines, airlines, amuseme parks, now accepting applications. For more information and an application; write: National Colle-giate Recreation Service, P.O. Box 8074, Hilton Head, S.C. 29938 (91-101) NEED SOME cash on the side? Home workers needed to stuff envelopes. Earn as much as $480 weekly-$60 per hundred, guaranteed. Send selfaddressed, stamped envelope to BF Mailing Com-pany, P.O. Box 1762-1, Manhattan, KS. 66502 before 16 February. (91-95)

INDIVIDUAL OR group to deliver a birthday-gram on campus February 12. Call 539-0900. (92-94)

EDITORIAL ASSISTANT. Student to work 15-20 hours weekly, writing, editing, and producing man uals and other user documentation for microcon puter software. Solid command of spelling, gran mar and clear writing skills in English essential Editing experience and knowledge of WordStar word processing desirable. For application form, contact Karen Tryphonas, 211 Umberger Hall. (92-

PYRAMID PIZZA now accepting applications for de livery personnel. Please apply in person. (92-93)

NEED TUTOR for Linear Algebra -- 537-0726. (93) SUMMER JOBS: Rock Springs 4-H Center, Junction City. On-campus interviews Tuesday. February 10, KSU Union, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. (93-94)

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED for Fone Crisis Center. ing begins tomorrow. Please help. Call 532 6565. (93)

14 LOST FOUND TUESDAY by Dickens Hall, ladies knit gloves. Department of Geography, ext. 6727. (92-

15

VW REPAIRS done right the first time. J & L Auto Service, 1-494-2388. Drive a little and save money. (86-

FREE DINNER for two when your organization books a banquet or dance at the Cotton Club. 539-9431. SKI BREAK in Winter Park, Colorado. 33 new trails.

Luxury, family condos from $80/night for March.
Special February/April rates. Free X-Country, hot tubs, shuttle. 1-800-443-2781, ext. A50. (93-117) COLLEGE OF Agriculture: Melanie Mainquist would appreciate your support for student senate. (93-96) WANTED: CARING, compassionate individuals to volunteer a few hours a week to help others in need. Please call the Fone Crisis Center at 532-6565. A life may depend on it. (93)

ATTENTION: NEED to catch up on Intro to Philosophy Problems (Tuesday, Thursday 9:30), as I have been sick. Please contact Virginia at 532-3753 or

16 PERSONAL

GIRL WITH algebra troubles: How was your test? Interested person from Union television room on Tuesday wishes he could have helped. Reply in Personals. Guy in Jean Jacket. (92-93) ALPHA XISKI'S and Delta U-ski's, Polish sausage and lots of brewskis. We'll unite to have a blast, for Polish women are said to be fast. The Polish re-union Friday will be, so get psyched for a happy

Polish anniversary. (92-93) SEXY BLONDE in blue sweater studying Physical Anthro-How did it go with your class? CU in the library (92-94)

ALPHA GAMM Pledges: The time has come to remember our Founders one by one. If all else fails it's easy you see, just remember Emily. Love, The Actives (93)

G-PHI SHANNON: Initiation is near and you're first rate, as a G-Phi active you'll be just great! Love, "Mom" Lori. (93) G-PHI'S MARY Beth and Shawna: The night you have been waiting for is finally here. Get excited for a very special initiation night! Love, Tammy. (93) ATO'S-GRAB your lasso, get out your gun, get ready to party and have some fun. So polish your boots, we'll two-step all night, and then you will see, the

Sigmas are out of sight!! (93) KD SARA-Thanks for making this week special. It's great being your little sis. Love, Alayne. (93)

ANGIE, SORRY about Concordia. How 'bout a Blind Date Friday the 13th? Call me! Paul, 628-8919. (93-TO SIGMA Chi, Sig Eps, Delts, and AKAK, Thanks for the memorable evening. KD Pledges. (93) GUY WITH Coors ski team jacket-Saw you again Wednesday in front of Cardwell. Are you available? Girl with long blonde hair. (93-94)

STEADY J. - You make me laugh, you make me smile Just want you to know I like your style! Ring once!

SUSAN O .: Well it's about time! Now when we go out. you can be you—not Renae, Andria or me! Happy 21st Birthday! Is Festus ready to party? Love ya.

Becky. (93) L.E. AND B.B. - Congrats on your engagement and spring-scheduled wedding. I wish you the best of everything! Your L.G.S., R.C.G.S., R.C.J.H.S., R.C.H.S., and finally K.S.U. friend, J.L. (93) PIPHI PAULA-I've really had fun, using many a pun. As the party nears, I have no fears. I know you're the only one—Even Up. (93)

KD STACEY-Congrats. I'm proud of you. Welcome to the circle. AOT Marsha. (93) KD ALAYNE-Congratulations on your initiation tonight. I'm very proud of you! Love and AOT, Sara

MICHELE DAHLING. We want to wish you a simply splendid birthday! But "oh dear," we must "quickly" warn you that Nelson bought you a Honey Bonny" at Dillard's! (or was it Denny's?) "We talk too much. We never shut up! It's not funny!" (ha-ha!) Here's to the great times! Happy 21st! Love. Lydee and Mariann. PS. Isn't that "spe-

G-PHI JOCK, Your party was good, mine will be great. Come next Friday night, with you as my date I know I've been busy, and you have been too. But come Friday night, we're both going to brew! The Hacky Sacker (93)

KD LORI-The minutes grow near and the message is clear ... initiation day is finally here. Congrats

Your big sis, Tammy. (93) KD SUSAN—Congratulations. I'm very proud of you.
All my love, Matthew (93)

KD MINDY-The day you've worked for is finally here. I can't wait till you're part of our circle. Get excited.

AXO DIANE—Joel, get off the baby-sitter Love ya anyway, Your Bud-Lites. (93)

MALE ROOMMATE across street from campus at 1230 Vattier. Ground floor, private room, washing dryer, fireplace. $135/month, plus utilities. 776-

NONSMOKING FEMALE-large house, sundeck, washer/dryer. Utilities paid, own room. $175/ month, 539-6628. (86-95)

MALE ROOMMATE to share four-bedroom apart ment. Own room, washer and dryer, close to cam pus and Aggieville. $137.50 plus one-fifth utilities. Marlene — 539-2356. (89-93)

FEMALE-FURNISHED two-bedroom apartment $165/month. Offstreet parking. Laundry. Campus two blocks. Inquire at 539-9304 (93-94)

9343 (90-94) ROOMMATE-TO share three-bedroom house, own room. Close to campus. Rent $125/month or negotiable. Call 539-0112. (90-103)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share basement

OWN ROOM, close to campus, $125 month, 539

apartment. $150/month, plus utilities. Call 537 9555. (91-101) FEMALE, NOW or summer, own room, nice hou near campus, $145/month plus utilities, 537-8825

NON-SMOKING female to share apartment. 537-9022 after 5 p.m. (93tf) FEMALE TO share very nice apartment. Reasonable rent, low utilities, through May, 776-3134, Michelle

18 SERVICES

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free preg test Confidential Call 537-9180, 103 S Fourth St., Suite 25. (1th) PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in

Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (3911) EXPERIENCED TYPIST—$1.10/page. Disc storage letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537-9205. Donnda. (89-98)

> Courtesy Demonstration by Appointment

9:30-5:30 Monday-Saturday

MERLE NORMAN 308 Poyntz 776-4535

TYPING/WORD processing. Data sheets, resumes letters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Bur den, 539-1204, (90-99) QUALITY TYPING at economical prices Disserta tions, Resumes, Theses, etc. Call Caron at 532 6294 or 776-2279 (86-95)

MARTIE'S TYPING Service, Word Processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314 Term papers, theses dissertations 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. (92-94)

NEED HELP with math or physics? Give me a call Paul Works, 537-7754 (92-96) 20 SUBLEASE

SUMMER SUBLEASE-three-bedroom, one one-half bath, close to campus, $465. Call 776-

5379 (91-95) WELCOMES WELCOME STUDENTS! First Christian Church, 115

Courthouse Plaza Church School 9:45 a.m., Worship 8:30 and 11 a.m. Ministers Ben Duerfeldt, 539-8685; Sue Amyx, 776-0025 Transportation to church - 776-8790 after 9 a.m. (93) CHURCH OF the Nazarene, 1000 Fremont. Sunday School, 9:45 a.m.; Morning Worship, 10:50 a.m.; Evening Service, 6 p.m.; Prayer Service, Wednes

ST. LUKE'S Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod), Sunset and North Delaware welcomes students to services: Saturday at 6 p.m. and Sunday at 8 and 10:45 a.m. Bible classes, 9:30 a.m. Sunday, Fellowship, 6

p.m. (93)

TRINITY PRESBYTERIAN-Worship Service 10:45 a.m., Sunday School 9:30 a.m. For rides to church call Howard Phillips, 537-8478 or the church office. WESTVIEW COMMUNITY Church, 3001 Fort Riley Blvd. invites you to worship with them Sunday at

Bible Studies, contact 539-5369. For any additional information, call 537-7173. (93) WELCOME STUDENTS to the Manhattan Mennonite

(the white building with the two red doors). (93) WELCOME STUDENTS-Grace Baptist Church, 2901 Dickens, welcomes you to Worship Service 8:30 and 11 a.m. and Sunday School, 9:45 a.m. University Class meets at 9:45 a.m. Bob Burton teacher Evening Service, 6 p.m. Horace Breisford. Pastor, Ken Ediger, Asst. Pastor, 537-8565. For

MASSES AT Catholic Student Center, 711 Denison, Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.; Saturday eveing at 5 p.m. Daily Mass at 4:30 p.m. Confessions daily before Mass and Saturday at 3:30 p.m. (93)

COLLEGE HEIGHTS Baptist Church SBC, 2221 College Heights Road. College Bible Study, 9:30 a.m. nday Worship, 8:15 and 11 a.m. Church Training 6 p.m. Sunday. Evening Worship, 7 p.m. Wedne

FIRST LUTHERAN, 930 Poyntz (537-8532). Welcome students to worship service at 8:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday School 9:40 a.m. (93)

ST. PAUL'S Episcopal Church-6th and Poyntz. Communion is celebrated on Sunday at 8 a.m. (Rite I) and at 10:30 a.m. (Rite II). For transportation call

BLUE VALLEY Memorial United Methodist Church, 835 Church Avenue. Sunday School, 9:15 a.m. Morning worship. 10:30 a.m. 539-8790. (93) EVANGELICAL FREE Church - Former Luckey High

First United Methodist Church 612 Povntz 8:45 a.m. Communion first Sunday of the month 9:45 a.m. Church School 8:45 a.m. & 11 a.m. Worship Nursery provided for all services

8:30 and 10:45 a.m. Sunday School classes, 8:30 and 10:30 a.m. College class meets at 9 a.m. at University Inn, lower level. For College Care Cell and Fellowship. We meet at 9:30 a.m. for Sunday School and 10:30 a.m. for worship at the Ecumenical Christian Ministries building at 1021 Denison transportation daytime call 776-0424. (93)

day Evening Prayer Service, 7 p.m. Phone: 537-7744. (93)

School, corner of Juliette and Pierre. Worship ser vice 9 a.m., Sunday School (College-age class available) 10:15 a.m. (93)

John D. Stoneking, Pastor

Love, Linda. (93) ROOMMATE WANTED 9369 (84-93)

(92-96)

Professors research ancient apartments LINDES 76-4704

By KRISTI BARANCIK Collegian Reporter

While some might suspect the advent of apartment living came in modern times, two K-State professors have been researching a Roman apartment complex built nearly 2,000 years ago.

Traveling to Ostia, Italy, Don Watts, associate professor of environmental design and his wife Carol Martin Watts, assistant professor of environmental design, studied an apartment complex dating to 128 A.D.

Ostia is an ancient Roman port city abandoned in the ninth century because the Tiber Delta became unnavigable.

Periodic flooding buried the city's ruins before it was finally excavated

"We don't know the specifics, but historians have inferred that it was a middle- or upper-middle class housing development with fairly large and well-decorated apartments," Carol Watts said. Because Ostia was a port city, most of the occupants were probably traders and merchants, she said.

Watts' research of the Roman apartment complex is the basis of her doctoral dissertation in art history at the University of Texas.

"The dissertation focuses on Roman houses. I spent a year studying to find the best examples before we left," Watts said.

She said the complex they studied was in one of the most interesting parts of Ostia.

"The ground floors of most buildings are still standing," Watts said. Some of the buildings have been restored, but most are now considered substantial ruins.

The complex in Ostia was of particular interest to the Watts because of the planned, modern structures and the geometric pattern that prevailed throughout the design, she

"What made us first look at it was

"It, more clearly than other examples, expresses a very consistent use of the same geometrical system."

The design is created by "taking a square and cutting it with the arc of a circle over and over." Each square is proportional in itself, and within the design as a whole.

This architectural design is called the sacred cut - a term coined by Tons Brunes, a Danish scholar.

Tools used for the design are not necessarily sophisticated. The design can be produced with a compass or even a piece of string with two pegs attached, she said.

The complex was constructed of a continuous series of buildings which kind of development," Watts said. within a garden courtyard. This entire complex - housing from 400 to 700 people - also contained shops.

"We spent 90 days in Italy. We were also studying similar sights in Pompeii and Herculaneum," Watts said. Some of the areas are open to tourists, but access to other areas requires special permission from Italian authorities.

The Watts wrote an article based on their research for the December 1986 issue of Scientific American

"The main reason for the research was for my dissertation. The article was an addition to this," Watts said.

"We are going back to Italy this summer to concentrate on a particular house in the complex we

15% OFF ON ALL AUDIO REPAIR Bring in this ad for 15% all audio repair We service all major brands of TV/STEREO/VCR 407 POYNTZ

MICHIGARIA PARTICIONIA

LAST DAY TO SIGN UP!

Sign up in Call Hall, Waters Hall and the Union to show in the

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL

an All-campus Livestock Showmanship Contest

Entry Fee $4.50 Show Date: March 28 1p.m.

A STOREST OF THE STOR

Quit smoking.

George Bernard Shaw's witty portrait of the eternal love triangle.

McCain Auditorium

Wednesday, February 11, 1987 8 p.m.

Tickets and Information (913) 532-6428 Mastercard/Visa accepted

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and by the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

AUntie. Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE FRIDAY VODKA DRINKS $1.50 DRAWS

75¢ Free Hors D'oeuvres

616 N. 12th 539-9967

Mae's Parlor

AGGIEVILLE SATURDAY

> TONIC DRINKS $1.50

SCHNAPPS $1.00

> 616 N.12th 539-9967

B'nai B'rith Hillel at K-State would like to invite you to Shabbat Services Tonight 8 p.m. Manhattan

Jewish Congregation 1509 Wreath Ave.

Oneg (Food!) to follow For a ride, call 776-1963

Don't forget the progressive dinner on Saturday, Feb. 7

OPEN RUSH

Feb. 8 through Feb. 23, 1987 The participating sororities are: ALPHA CHI OMEGA ALPHA GAMMA DELTA ALPHA XI DELTA KAPPA DELTA SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

- * TODAY IS THE LAST DAY TO REGISTER!
- Register with Greek Affairs in Holton Hall 203.

Vice President, Hardee's Kan-Okla Restaurants

"Your choice: Quarter Pound Cheeseburger or reg. Roast Beef, only

"We make our sandwiches with that good, old-fashioned taste, and now you can get them for a good, old-fashioned price."

Offer good for a limited time.

Offer good at participating Hardee's* Restaurants.

SUNDAY SUPPER

Feb. 8 5:30 p.m.

PROGRAM

"Religious Values and American History" by Professor Robert Linder

> (50¢ donations or free if needed) 1021 Denison Avenue the building with the two red front doors

 DIGIT 66612

164 5/1/87 **

The Wildcats snap a twogame losing skid with a win on the road against the Iowa State Cyclones. See Page 13.

Kansas

Monday

February 9, 1987

Kansas State University

Manhattan, Kansas 66506

Volume 93, Number 94

Taped message requests release of prisoners

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon American hostage said in a videotape dropped off by his kidnappers Sunday that he and three other men, including two Americans, will be killed if Israel fails to release 400 Arab prisoners within 24 hours.

A six-minute videotape showing Boston native Alann Steen, 47, was delivered to a Western news agency in the name of Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine, which kidnapped Steen and three others from the campus of Beirut University College on Jan. 24. The group's other hostages are Robert Polhill, 53, of New York City;

Jesse Turner, 39, of Boise, Idaho: and Mithileshwar Singh, 60, a native of India and resident alien in the United States

Israel indicated Sunday it was willing to discuss the swap of an Israeli airman missing in Lebanon for the release of the 400 Arab prisoners, a proposal advanced Saturday by Nabih Berri, head of the main Shiite Amal militia and Lebanon's justice minister

However, Israeli officials said in Jerusalem they would not respond to an ultimatum and would not conduct such talks in public.

Under Berri's proposal, all foreign hostages also would be released in Lebanon by the various extremist groups holding them.

Berri, meanwhile, backed away Sunday from an earlier weekend statement that Anglican Church hostage-negotiator Terry Waite would be freed by Monday, now saying the release would take more time. Waite has been missing since Jan. 20.

A weary-looking Steen, reading from a statement in a monotone, said on Sunday's videotape: "If our lives are important to America, it must order Israel to release the 400 Palestinians as soon as possible - that is, Monday as a maximum. "We also tell America that if it commits any stupidity, we will be prone to be killed. Besides,

Americans in the whole world will be the victims of our administration's stupidity.'

'They (the captors) do not fear death because they perceive it as the start of their life, in other words, America can't scare them through its military actions." the statement

Steen wore eyeglasses and a small beard grown in captivity. A text of the statement in his own handwriting was delivered along with the tape.

Earlier Sunday, another group holding foreign hostages claimed that Waite had carried a transmitter to pinpoint suspected terrorist hideouts for an American military attack on Lebanon.

Since Waite disappeared nearly three weeks ago, during a mission to seek freedom for foreign hostages, there have been rumors that he was being held against his will. But the Church of England has said it could not confirm that.

The Beirut newspaper L'Orient Le Jour claimed Waite had been released and would surface Sunday in the Syrian-occupied Bekaa Valley in eastern Lebanon. Police said they could not confirm the report.

Secretary of State George Shultz, asked how the United States would respond if American hostages were killed, told ABC-TV: "I'm not going to try to forecast it.

Another group of hostage-holders, the Revolutionary Justice Organization, delivered a statement Sunday to the Beirut newspaper An-Nahar, accompanied by a photograph of American hostage Edward Austin Tracy, who was abducted Oct. 21.

The picture showed a smiling Tracy, 56, formerly of Burlington, Vt., in a dark blue track suit.

The statement said the United States planned an imminent air and sea landing in two residential districts of Moslem west Beirut to seize prominent leaders of Hezbollah, a group of pro-Iranian Shiite extremists, and swap them for foreign hostages.

Staff/Jim Dietz

Ted Geisert, physics lab technician, uses a hammer to break a cinder block resting on Alvin Compaan, professor of physics, as he lies on a bed of nails. Compaan performs the experiment in his Physical World 1 class to show the effects of pressure. Compaan believes classroom demonstrations help students learn about physics.

Demonstrations aid professor in teaching

By TIM STALEY Collegian Reporter

A geography teacher brings a map to class. A math teacher brings a calculator to class. A physics teacher brings a ball-pin hammer, a concrete block and a bed of nails to class.

That's right. A ball-pin hammer, a concrete block and a bed of nails. Alvin Compaan, professor of physics.

gave one of his well-known physics demonstrations Wednesday in the Physical World 1 class. In the demonstration, Compaan lies on a bed of nails and has a cement block broken over his chest by a ball-pin hammer.

"I hope that (the students) will remember some of the things we talk about a little bit more when (we) have a demonstration," Compaan said.

An assistant from the department helps Compaan with the demonstra-

"You don't want the person that swings the hammer to be a golfer," Compaan said. "They have follow-through." According to Compaan some areas of study are better for demonstrations than others

"This part of the course (on pressure) has lots of nice demonstrations," Compaan said.

In addition to the bed-of-nails demonstration, Compaan said he will do a rocket-sled and an angular momentum demonstration.

"Angular momentum is an important concept and students can relate to it because they have experienced a lot of these things in sports," Compaan said. "A diver from the diving platform to the water is able to do various types of somersaults and twists, and it is all utilizing the concept of angular momen-

Compaan cited another example of angular momentum. "Did you ever get into a situation

See PHYSICS, Page 15

where you get a bunch of kids on a

Cease-fire ends; Filipinos to seek new peace talks

By The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines - A 60-day truce with Communist rebels formally expired Sunday without hope of extension, and the government said it would step up military patrols while pursuing peace talks on a regional

A rebel umbrella group urged its members to "wage militant and unremitting struggles on all fronts." Some groups have said they opposed regional talks.

The head of the committee that monitored compliance with the cease-fire urged President Corazon Aquino to intervene to prevent a civil war.

The truce had paved the way for peace talks in January, but the negotiations were suspended indefinitely Jan. 30 after the rebels accused the government of acting in bad faith.

The government responded by saying it would not agree to an extension of the cease-fire unless the rebels agreed to resume "substantial negotiations" to end the 18-year insurrection.

The rebels said new talks would be fruitless because the new constitution, approved last week, imposed too many limitations on what is negotiable.

Since the talks ended, at least 22 people have died in scattered clashes. No reports surfaced of fighting Sun-

In announcing the end of the truce, chief government negotiator Teofista Guingona blamed "a hardline posture of a few Communist leaders." Guingona said he would seek talks with local rebel groups to save the peace initiative, the cornerstone of Mrs. Aquino's policy of national reconciliation.

"The government will keep the door to peace open but will not cede to unwarranted demands. It will pursue reconciliation with honor but will never yield to inordinate conditions," he said.

Bishop Antonio Fortich, head of the cease-fire monitoring committee, said he was pessimistic over prospects for regional negotiations. Rebel groups in Luzon, Mindanao and the central Visayas islands have opposed

"I think it is time for Mrs. Aquino to intervene personally," he said in a telephone interview from Bacolod City, 300 miles southeast of Manila.

The Communist-led National Democratic Front, a rebel umbrella group, said in an advertisement in the newspaper Malaya on Sunday that last week's approval of the "pro-imperialist" and "anti-people" constitution rendered peace talks impossible.

The rebels claim the constitution protects an unjust

See TRUCE, Page 15

Required English test affects teaching assistants, University

Student complaints warrant spoken English test for international instructors

By STEVE LAWRENCE Collegian Reporter

Nine out of 16 international graduate students who took a spoken English test failed and are not able to teach this semester.

Three of the students who failed and two other international graduate students have enrolled in a specialized instructional program this spring to improve their English pronunciation, said Enid Cocke, director of the English Language Program. Cocke said students have been complaining for years because they have not been able to understand their international graduate teaching assistants. The course, "Compton's Pronouncing English as a Second Language." is being offered through the English Language Program.

The program will be taught by Sharon Reagan, instructor in the English Language Program.

'The goal of the program is to improve their pronunciation skills by at least 50 percent," Reagan said.

The program starts with an personal interview and a detailed analysis of the person's speech. Then, the student's voice is taperecorded to determine his particular patterns of English pronunciation.

Based on this analysis, the individual receives a specialized set of practice materials, including cassette tapes that students can use at home to practice. Unlike "Spoken English for the International Student," a class that prepares students for the spoken English test, this new program addresses an individual's pronunciation problems on a one-to-one basis, Reagan said. In this program, the instruction is designed especially for the student's particular needs and goals.

"This is an individualized program," Reagan said. "The students meet for an hour of individualized instruction each week."

For many years, complaints have been voiced about problems undergraduate students have understanding international GTAs, and action has been taken to screen potential international GTAs who have English-speaking deficiencies.

Beginning in the fall of 1985, the Board of Regents required all Regents institutions to administer the Test for Spoken English.

The test is based on four criteria: overall comprehensibility, pronunciation, grammar and fluency.

The students must score 220 out of a possible 300 on the test or they won't be allowed to instruct any undergraduate students for that semester, Cocke said. Students who score from 200 to 240 on the TSE have a general comprehensibility with some errors in pronunciation, grammar and choice vocabulary items.

"The students (who fail the TSE) cannot have any job in the department that involves student contact," she said.

Cocke said that departments at the University had offered assistantships to students before they came to the United States without realizing English pronunciation problems the students might have. Many have had to take the test several times before

"As many as half the students who have taken the test in a sitting have failed it," she said.

"People who have significant language problems have come here. and they might be good in their fields, but they don't have good enough (English) for an American

See PROGRAM, Page 15

By STEVE LAWRENCE

Test may cause students to 'miss out'

Collegian Reporter

K-State may be missing out on some of the best science and mathematical minds in the world because international graduate teaching assistants are required to pass the Test of Spoken English, said Louis Pigno, head of the mathematics department.

The TSE, which international graduate students at K-State must pass in order to have an instructional position at the University, was designated a requirement by the Kansas Board of Regents two years

Almost half of the graduate students in the mathematics department are required to take the test.

"Fifty per cent of the mathematics graduate students are not American students," he said. "That's typical for mathematic departments at (American) universities."

In the two years the TSE has been required, six students have failed on their first try, Pigno said.

"The majority of the graduate students pass the first time," he said. If a student comes to K-State and doesn't pass, Pigno said the math department still has a moral obligation to support them.

'They are given grading duties, but they aren't given instructional duties," he said. The students who fail their first TSE are supported for a year by the department. 'After one year, we expect them to pass the test," Pigno said.

The international students being considered for assistantship positions at the University are notified before they come to this country that they must pass the TSE.

See TEST, Page 16

INTERNATIONAL

Peru accused of rights violations

LONDON - Amnesty International said Monday that Peruvian authorities covered up "gross human rights violations" in quelling prison uprisings near Lima last June.

More than 100 prisoners were killed when troops moved in to halt the revolts in three penitentiaries.

The London-based human rights organization said it had evidence that security forces tortured and killed inmates who had surrendered in the uprising at El Fronton prison.

It also quoted witnesses as saying dozens of other inmates who surrendered were taken into "secet custody," and that troops blew up an El Fronton cell block to cover up the disappearances.

"Amnesty International has concluded...there has since been a deliberate coverup by both the civilian and the military authorities of gross human rights violations that occurred at the time and may still be continuing," the report said.

The allegations were in a 64-page report on revolts June 18-19 at the El Fronton, Lurigancho and Santa Barbara prisons. Many of the inmates had been convicted of being members of the Maoist Shining Path guerrilla movement.

Amnesty International said President Alan Garcia imposed secrecy over the El Fronton events after it emerged that at least 100 of the Lurigancho prisoners were shot to death by security forces after sur-

Iranians release Canadian engineer

ST. CATHARINES, Ontario - A Canadian engineer held in Iran since December on accusations of spying was released Sunday to the Danish Embassy in Tehran and will return home soon, offcials said.

The man, Philip Engs, 29, was arrested on Dec. 2, a day after he returned to Iran from a trip to Canada. He was accused of photographing military installations. Iranian Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani on Jan. 28 told a group of journaists visiting Iran that Engs was being interrogated but would probably be released if he had not committed "serious

One of the journalists, Gerald F. Seib of The Wall Street Journal, was detained by Iranian authorities for six days on allegations of spying, and allowed to leave on Friday. Georges Delanoe, a spokesman for Canada's External Affairs Department, told Broadcast News that Engs was "released at 1:30 p.m. Tehran time. He looks fine, in very good condition."

PEOPLE

Longest marriage to mark 81 years

WEST KITTANNING, Pa. - Almost 81 years after they paid 50 cents for a marriage licence and said "I do," Calvin and Mina Dunmire are calmly accepting the fuss that comes with being named the nation's longest married couple.

"There's no secret to it. We just lived happily together," Dunmire, 105, explained at the couple's southwestern Pennsylvania home, glancing at his wife, silent in her rocking chair.

"Missus just did the housework, and I did the outside work. That was all there was to it," he said Saturday. "It wasn't luck. We just loved each other."

To the best of Dunmire's recollection, he and his wife, who will soon be 101, have never had an argument since their marriage on April 24, 1906, across the Allegheny River in Kittanning.

'We just enjoy each other, that's all," he said.

IN AGGIEVILLE USA

$2.50 Pitchers

75¢ Draws

TOMORROW

"Ouote Night"

Win a keg

courtesy of

Southern Sun

Applicants must be of age

COMEDY

INVASION

TONIGHT

9 P.M.

CHICAGO STEVE BARKLEY

A SURE

CURE FOR

ALL YOUR

DISORDERS

NATIONAL

States argue over English language

NEW YORK - Nearly half the states have considered making English their official language, a move advocates say unifies Americans' diverse cultures but which opponents say fuels racism.

There has been rising evidence that language is becoming a point of social and political division said Lawrence D. Pratt, president of the lobbying group, English First.

"If it is not checked and dealt with and laid to rest, it can produce the kind of divisions that have beset Canada and others in the world The advocates were bolstered by overwhelming approval of an official English voter initiative in California, which they say has aided similar efforts elsewhere, including the U.S. Congress. Fourteen legislatures have proposals before them to make English the official state language and others may take it up this year. Montana, Wyoming and New Hampshire legislators defeated official English proposals this year, while California and Tennessee approved them last year.

Arizona appointments stir interest

PHOENIX, Ariz. - Gov. Evan Mecham, who vowed to shake up the state's bureaucracy, is shaking up legislators as well with some of his appointments, including an education lobbyist who says teachers shouldn't argue with students who think the world is flat.

The maverick Republican began his administration last month amid controversy by canceling a holiday honoring the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

As expected, he is methodically replacing many of the 500 appointed officials who served in the administration of long-time Democratic Gov. Bruce Babbitt.

Some of his choices, however, have alarmed even the Republicancontrolled state Senate, which has decided to hire a private company to investigate some of the 300 nominees who serve subject to Senate Among some of Mecham's more controversial appointments, none of whom has been approved yet by the Senate: -Liquor superintendent nominee Alberto Rodriguez, who is under investigation by the state attorney general's office for his role in the 1953 fatal shooting of a burglary suspect when he was a rookie police officer in Douglas, Ariz.

-Bill Heuisler, Mecham's choice for chief investigator, who had not reported some past convictions when applying for a private investigator's license. He withdrew several days after telling a reporter, "You're lucky I don't break a chair over your head."

Minister distributes condoms

WILLIAMSVILLE, N.Y. - A minister handed out condoms to his congregation at Sunday's service to dramatize the need for measures to stop the spread of the deadly disease AIDS.

We should be having a dialogue about these issues, shouldn't we? But most of us are still squeamish," the Rev. Carl F. Titchener told about 250 people who packed the Unitarian Universalist Church of Amherst.

Acknowledging that some people might call his dramatization a gimmick, Titchener said he hoped to make people more aware about AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases.

Two-thirds of the way through his sermon, Titchener and six ushers dispensed about 125 boxes, each containing three condoms, which he said are symbols of the fight against AIDS.

"It should not be necessary for me to do what we are doing this morning," Titchener said. "But the only ways we have to stop the spread of this dread disease is to abstain, or, if we do not abstain, to use a condom."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

U-LEARN is looking for volunteers this spring. Call 532-6442 or stop by Holton 2.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT is now posting sign-up schedules for on-campus employment interviews by Kansas, regional and national employers.

CONGRESSIONAL TEACHER SCHOLAR-SHIP PROGRAM: Information and applications are available in Bluemont 17.

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL MASTER OF CERMONIES tryouts will be 7 p.m. Thursday in

AG STUDENT COUNCIL officer voting takes place Tuesday and Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in main floor Union or first floor lobby of Waters. Voters must have validated student ID and be enrolled in College of Agriculture to be

STUDENT SENATE FACT SHEETS on the proposed athletic fee to non-revenue sports scholarships are available in the SGS office in the

STUDENTS IN SOLIDARITY WITH CEN-TRAL AMERICA meets at 7:30 p.m. in Putnam

WOMEN'S RESOURCE CENTER meets at

Campus Bulletin ECONOMICS CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union

ALPHA KAPPA PSI PLEDGES meet at 6 p.m.

PHILOSOPHY CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in

TAU BETA PI meets at 7 p.m. in Flint Hills room in Union. ALPHA KAPPA PSI meets at 8 p.m. in Union

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF INTERIOR

MARKETING CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union BUSINESS COUNCIL meets at 4 p.m. in Union

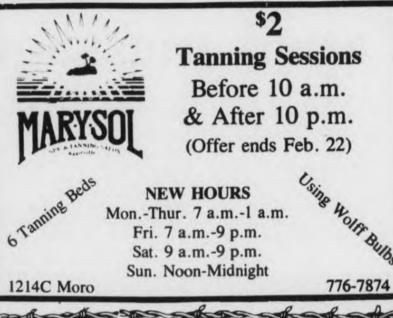

CHIMES meets at 9 p.m. in Union 208.

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL sign up has been extended for one more day. Sign up in Call.

AMERICAN INDIAN SCIENCE & ENGINEERING SOCIETY meets at 4:30 p.m. in Durland 32.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING OPEN HOUSE at 7 p.m. in Durland 152.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA meets at 8:30 p.m. in

2- STEP DANCE CONTEST Thursday Feb. 12 starts 9 p.m.

Come out and strut your stuff

Class B Private Club Open Daily 1 p.m. Three miles East of Manhattan Hwy. 24 539-4989

* Registered trademark of FTDA

K-State Players TOMORROLL

Feb. 12, 13, 14 & 18, 19, 20, 21 Nichols Theatre 8 p.m.

For tickets call: 532-6398 (Mon.-Fri. 12-5)

Applications available for

CAMPUS GUIDES

Part-time work putting K-State's best foot forward!

If you want to be part of an exciting unit, pick up an application in Anderson 119 or in the SGS Office in the Union.

DEADLINE February 23

George Bernard Shaw's

McCain Auditorium

Wednesday, February 11, 1987 8 p.m.

(913) 532-6428 Mastercard/Visa accepted

Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and by the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

dlabal feltner

general dentistry

J. DENNIS DLABAL, D.D.S.

BRITT C. FELTNER, D.D.S.

· Evening and Saturday

· We see emergencies

"We cater to cowards" (and other people, too)

537-8484

Next to campus

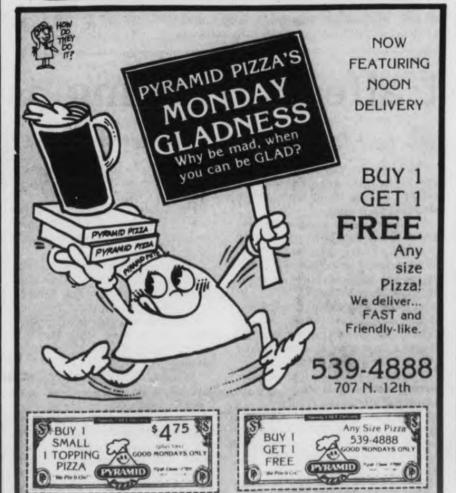

appointments available

THE GUIHRIE THEATER

witty portrait of the eternal love triangle.

Tickets and Information

This program is presented in part by the

Kansans view increase in child abuse deat

By SANDRA M. SIEBERT Collegian Reporter

Twelve child abuse deaths were reported in Kansas during 1986 - an increase of 33 percent from 1985, according to statistics compiled by the National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse in Chicago.

While deaths rose from nine to 12 in the state, fewer confirmed cases of child abuse have been reported in Manhattan and the surrounding vicinity during the same time, according to statistics compiled by the Social and Rehabilitation Services in Riley County.

From January through June 1986, there were 40 confirmed cases of child abuse in the area served by the SRS in Riley County. During the 106 confirmed cases, said Paula Sellens, supervisor of child intake at Social Services. Statistics for the last half of 1986 were not available.

Even though the referrals to Pawnee Mental Health seemed to be down last year, the types of cases received were more complex and serious. There was more sexual abuse in proportion to violent abuse, said John Cook, coordinator of child services at Pawnee Mental Health.

"Complaints about sexual abuse far exceed complaints of abuse and neglect," Sellens said. "Manhattan seems to have an awfully lot (of sexual abuse).

Despite the decrease in the number of confirmed cases, the number reported did not decrease as same time period in 1985, there were dramatically. There were 255 reported cases of abuse and neglect in the first six months of 1985, while 228 cases were reported in 1986, Sellens said.

Although not all cases involve actual abuse or neglect, some of them are potential cases where services can be provided to alleviate a problem and prevent abuse, Sellens

Many reports are totally unfound-

Once Sellens received several complaints that a child was covered with bruises, when in fact it was a birthmark on the child's face, Sellens said. Finally, the mother was requested to take the child to a doctor and have a paper signed documenting it was only a birthmark.

But even these reports are necessary, Sellens said. This shows that people are aware and concern-

Most calls relating to possible child abuse come from concerned school officials and relatives.

"Usually it's marks that they can see - bruises, fractures or watching a parent strike a child (that cause someone to report abuse)," Sellens

Schools may call if a child comes to school inadequately clothed and fed, or if there are behavior problems.

When a call about child abuse is taken by the SRS, the parents are contacted and a social worker is sent to the home. When a child's life might be in danger, the worker may go to the school to speak with the child.

If there is a possibility of the parent becoming extremely violent, a Riley County police officer may accompany the worker to the home. Even parents who are not guilty of abusing their children are often hostile and defensive when confronted, Sellens said.

When a case of abuse or neglect is confirmed, the child is not removed from the home unless the child's life is in danger. Even an unfavorable home environment is better than a false one, Sellens said.

Families are referred to one of many services to help them with their problems: Pawnee Mental Health, Fort Riley Mental Health, the SRS family support group, Parents Annonymous, the K-State Family Center and psychologists and psychiatrists with private practices in Manhattan.

During 1986, 1,291 cases of abuse and neglect were reported in Kansas. Of these, 251 cases were confirmed, 361 were recommmended for services, and 273 are still pending. Nearly one-third of the total, 406 cases, were unfounded, Sellens said.

Economic troubles may be causing some of the increase in abuse cases, but much of the seeming increase probably comes from the greater awareness of people concerning child abuse and their willingness to report unusual behavior, Sellens

Acker maintains University connection

By JENNIFER LINDSEY Staff Writer

Although Duane Acker left his position as K-State president last June, he is still an employee of the University. Acker is listed on the University payroll as a distinguished professor in the Department of Animal Sciences and Industry within the College of Agriculture. His annual salary is $64,575.

He has maintained his association with the University through the Intergovernmental Personnel Act of 1970, which was passed to strengthen the personnel departments of federal, state and local govern-

A provision in this act provides for the "temporary assignment of personnel between the Federal Government and state and local governments for work of mutual concern"

Past president on payroll as professor to both agencies.

Although Acker is currently working in Washington, D.C., as a director of food and agriculture in the Agency for International Development, he is still officially a University faculty member.

"IPA permits me to stay associated with the University, and it provides the federal agency with talent or skills not readily available," Acker said.

Through this act, AID pays the University the total cost of Acker's salary, health insurance, social security and fringe benefits.

AID sends the money to the University every three months, which in turn sends the paycheck to Acker.

Don Good, head of the animal sciences and industry department, said this was an action taken by the Board of Regents before Acker resigned as president.

When he returns from his AID assignment in Washington, he can come back and work in our department," Good said.

The act states that the period of temporary assignment can not exceed four years.

Acker has made no decisions yet about when he will return. "We're thoroughly enjoying our work here now," he said.

Acker said it was his decision to make this arrangement with the University and AID, but he needed the permission of the Board of it this way, and we approved," said Stan Koplick, executive director of the regents. "With this arrangement, he is still part of K-State. His job in Washington is just a temporary Acker said there were a variety of arrangements he could have made when taking the job with AID.

The other options would have been for him to resign his position at the University or take a leave of absence.

Acker chose this option because of his "continued love for K-State" and because he is proud of his association with the University, he said.

Acker also believes his experience with AID will benefit him in teaching agriculture classes when he returns.

Acker's work in Washington focuses on the nutritional status and per capita income of developing countries. He also studies aspects of "He asked the board if he could do foreign aid programs.

President reads speech on behalf of Khomeini

By The Associated Press

NICOSIA, Cyprus - Iran's leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, reportedly sat in silence Sunday while Iran's president read a speech on his behalf. There has been speculation that the 86-year-old patriarch is in poor

Khomeini, in the address read by President Ali Khamenei, made a strong appeal for unity and praised the armed forces. Iran has been at war with Iraq for 61/2

"The advice of our dear imam (Khomeini)...which he asked me to relay from his blessed tongue...is to preserve unity,"

Khamenei said in the address at Khomeini's house in northern Tehran.

The 60-minute ceremony, marking Air Force Day, was broadcast by Tehran Radio and monitored in Nicosia. The broadcast did not give any reason why Khomeini did not deliver the address.

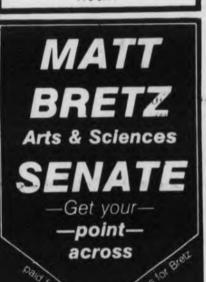

A source in Tehran, the Iranian capital, told The Associated Press that the speech was televised in Iran and that Khomeini could be seen sitting while Khamenei

Iran's Islamic Republic News Agency (IRNA) said that at the end of the ceremony, Khomeini "responded to shouts of enthusiastic support in renewed allegiance to him by the air force

•4¢ self-service copies Full service copy center Resume service

OPEN DAILY Sun. 12-9 Denison & Claffin 776-3771

Announcing .

Shrimp

Night

Shrimp $1 a dozen 2 dz. max. per drink order 75¢ draws

COTTON

418 Poyntz

Every Monday 4-7 p.m.

Feb. 11, 7:30 p.m.

Westview

Community Church 3001 Fort Riley Blvd.

Medical & Veterinary Schools Mexico & Philippines

PhD to M.D. program Schools comply with NEW regulations English programs, loans Live in the U.S.A. Proven Student Service, Box #406, Inwood Station N.Y., N.Y. 10034

> Just a few people not voting for

KADAFFI COBRA COMMANDER THE JOKER BREHZNEV

LEX LUTHOR AGENTS OF KAOS

other Arts & Sciences candidates Paid for by the Good Guy 4 Ruddy

CASTRO

FERDINAND

MARKOS

CHARLES

MANSON

KHOMEINI

DARTH

VADER

BE SMART WEISE WEISENBORN STUDENT SENATE COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

(PAID FOR BY A STUDENT FOR WEISENBORN)

with this coupon receive all perms until Feb. 14

If you're into chocolate, get into this.

Performing

Vivaldi Sinfonia in G Major, R. 146

Corelli Concerto Grosso in E Major, Opus 6, No. 4 Bach Concerto for Flute and Strings No. 1 in d minor, Divertimento for Mozart Strings in F Major, K. 138 Divertimento for Bartók Strings

János Rolla, Concertmaster

Alain Marion, Flutist

Sample Double Dutch Chocolate at your campus bookstore and get a free T-shirt.*

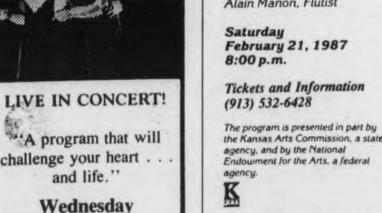

If you love chocolate, you're really going to love new Double Dutch Chocolate from General Foods International Coffees. And now, if you attend a sampling of Double Dutch Chocolate at your campus bookstore, you can get a free Double Dutch T-shirt. So stop by and taste Double Dutch Chocolate for yourself. And find out why the special blend of coffee and rich chocolate is becoming a delicious chocolate obsession. *While supplies last.

General Foods® International Coffees. Share the feeling.

Come to:

Sports scholarship fee merits students' 'yes'

The student body is to have the natural reaction is to put "me revenue sports scholarship fee Tuesday and Wednesday. By referendum, the students will decide whether or not they are to have a direct hand in financially supporting K-State's athletics.

Critics of the bill say a $6.50 per student, per semester fee will not help the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and could be more easily raised through higher ticket prices.

Athletic department officials disagree, citing in-house studies that show patrons will not pay higher ticket prices. They also insist the fee will generate a stable income necessary for support of a non-revenue athletic program.

Whichever side you agree with, and there are plenty of arguments to consider, there remain two outstanding facts regarding the proposal.

If there was a worse time for another fee to be added to a student's bill, it is a time out of mind. Kansas is experiencing its worse economic depression in decades, current levels of financial aid are tight and future financial aid help looks dim.

More students than ever are working almost full-time jobs in addition to attending school, according to statistics, and the show. University itself is laying off student employees to reduce its liability.

tended. They believe their educa- of the angles. tional opportunities are being ed) and when money is scarce the athletic fee.

final crack at the proposed non- first, myself second, and whatever's left over I'll take.'

> The second well-documented fact is that it is the alumni who like to attend basketball, football and other collegiate competitions, and it is alumni who give large amounts of money to the University.

> It is not the chemistry professor retiring with a $50,000 pension plan who presents the University with a check to build a chemistry lab. It is not a graduate from the English department who sentimentally hands over his first year's earnings to establish scholarships for English students.

Alumni are, for some reason, sentimental about their "college days." Maybe college was a heck of a lot better then - time fades all wounds.

These donors also perceive that college with a competitive athletic department is also competitive academically. Maybe believing it will make it true. The athletic department can contend that it brings in more money than it spends - through alumni donations. And it is obvious K-State students benefit (and not just in image) from a strong athletic

What is the role for K-State students concerning the athletic fee? It is always best for in-It shouldn't surprise anyone dividuals to decide for that students who live on a Malt- themselves what their position o-Meal diet are fighting the fee will be. But it would be a mistake with teeth bared and claws ex- to decide without considering all

And, if students consider all the threatened (or at least minimiz- angles, they will vote "yes" to the bill allowing states to raise the speed limit to 65 mph on rural interstate highways. It should be praised for its foresight and realistic perception.

55 mph speed too low on nation's interstates

The higher speed limit would be allowed on interstate highways outside urban areas that have a population of 50,000 or more. By and large, the current speed limit is being ignored and it should be changed. Keeping the speed limit at 55 mph is not only inconvenient, but it is also un-

The bill the Senate passed does not state the speed limit will be changed on every highway, only interstate highways. Increasing the speed limit also doesn't mean that those drivers who choose to

The U.S. Senate has approved a drive at a lesser speed will be punished for doing so.

> The 55 mph speed limit went into effect in 1974 as a tool to conserve gasoline in response to the Arab oil embargo. The current speed limit has saved lives, but because it has been exceeded regularly, raising it would not result in an increase in injuries.

Anyone who has driven on interstate highways recently knows the flow of traffic is usually at a speed higher than 55 mph, and that flow is sufficiently safe on rural stretches of interstate.

The 55 mph speed limit served its duty during a time when it was needed. It is now antiquated, and Congress should give it a muchdeserved retirement.

University 'game plan' failing covered in blood and all torn up. All our best players are leaving, either 'cause of injuries and we don't have the money for medical staff or 'cause we just don't pay enough. Just the other day we lost our first-and second-string players from the Department of Engineering. That safety position is essen-

Guest

Coach: Good question, Jon. As you know, the owner, Mike, isn't a defensive man. He isn't giving any money to pay for players or uniforms for the defensive team. You and the other academics will have to tighten your

Def. Capt.: We have been, coach. But with money hard to get in loans and grants we're not sure what to do. We have rookie students coming in and no coaches or even veteran

Coach: Yeah, yeah. Keep your chin up, Jon.

tial, coach. What do we do?

players to train them.

Columnist

A Tragedy In One Act Coach: All right, men, here's the game plan and you better listen or you'll be benched for good. It's halftime now, and we're really getting clobbered. The score is The Real World 40, K-State 0. Are you guys proud of that score?

Team: No!

Coach: I didn't hear you.

clobber the other team.

Team: No!!

Coach: Then what are we going to do about

Quarterback: Hey, coach, can't we put in Larry? He can bring up the spirits of the crowd. You remember last time when they threw money all over the field?

Coach: Good idea. Travis?! You're in next half. Do what you have to.

Travis (Running back): Sure, coach. It'll be a pleasure. Wide receiver: Hey, coach, we're just students. You put Travis in, he'll just snow us over like he did last time. Coach (With a pat on his head): Son, you do what you have to do. But remember, it's not how you play the game, but whether you

Defensive Captain: Coach? Do you have any tips for us? When the other academics and I get on the field, we're the ones that get clobbered. Look at our uniforms. They're You're a good man. All right, we've only got a little bit left in halftime. We may not have the best team - in fact we're 0-50 - but we're going to rebuild. Team: NO COACH, NOT THAT WORD! CHUCK Coach: Oh, sorry. Well, get out there and KINCAID take on The Real World.

> (After the team leaves) Asst. Coach: Jon was right, coach. We've got problems

Coach: Not you too, Bill. I realize that we have problems, but the only thing that will get us out of this is offense. That's why we're sending Travis out and that's why we may have to sacrifice the students at wide receiver. They have to give 110 percent.

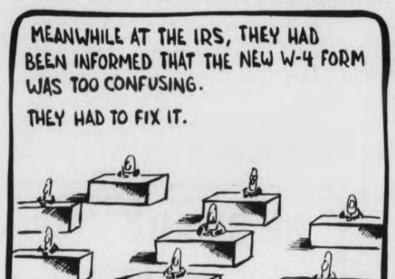

Asst. Coach: Coach, what about Jon? Coach: He's a good guy, but he and the other academics that make up our defense may Asst. Coach: No! They're essential. Without them we don't have a team.

Coach: We'll get by. We have to get by. If it doesn't matter who wins or loses, then why do they keep scoring? The defense will have to go. Besides, they whine a lot.

(Truly) The End Note: Any resemblance to real persons, places or things is probably stranger than you think. Chuck Kincaid is a graduate in statistics.

Fine teachers are hard to find

Over the course of the last 31/2 years, I have experienced the teaching style of many college professors and instructors. Some of them have left their mark on my expression of ideas and thoughts through their dedicated style. On the other hand, some teachers' methods could easily be encompassed in a definition of mental torment.

The profession of teaching should produce individuals with a real desire to share their knowledge to the best of their ability. But in the University environment as it exists today our teachers are positively reinforced to be researchers first and educators second. Their career as a professor is linked to their research and paper-writing ability. Their popularity and skill as an educator, if noticed, might be rewarded with a plaque if there is enough money in the budget.

It is such a surprise in this environment that we do have a spattering of energetic and devoted teachers on this campus. The students know who they are and these teachers receive fulfillment from it. Contrary to the popular belief of their disgruntled colleagues, this fulfillment was not drug-induced by the '60s. Word travels fast about such teachers. These are the ones throughout the campus teaching such courses as Business Finance, Economics I, Sociology and Oral Communications - whose classes fill up first, semester after semester. There are a few examples of classes that fill up first because the word is out that the instructor is teaching a "pud" class. But this excuse is probably aired too often by instructors whose classes are filled up by the unfortunate underclassmen.

These lacking instructors are easy to characterize and their traits are well-known to all of us. One type has been using the same textbook since Nixon was adopting puppies. His notes are from the first edition and you just bought the ninth edition. The entire semester's notes have been placed on transparencies by some secretary shortly after he received the first edition.

This kind of teacher watches reruns of "My Three Sons" for excitement. The University should videotape this type for a semester, pay a modest royalty and replay the tape each semester. At least we could bring popcorn to class to make it a little more

PATRICK MUIR Collegian Columnist

bearable. But as long as he or she is doing research, never fear, for tenure will be their salvation

A slightly more tolerable variety is the instructor who may deliver interesting lectures but discourage questions and interaction between the teacher and student. The incorporation of such discussion in the classroom is a talent. It is very easy to lose control of the class and fail to transfer all the basics. But discussion can lead to a fuller and complete understanding of the basics, not just a short-term memorization.

Of course with the numbers game philosophy running rampant in many departments, class size can prohibit interaction. But when size is compatible with discussion, the instructor should take advantage of it. To those teachers who fear that such interaction may cause the students to lose regard for the instructor, don't worry - that happens anyway when we see your test questions!

The most frustrating type of teacher is the one addicted to mandatory attendance. Most teachers who utilize this pre-adolescent philosophy probably rely on the textbook so much that the word is out that attendance is not a requisite for success in that class. But instead of improving the class or gearing their test more toward their class lectures, they simply make the class mandatory.

But if mandatory attendance seems preadolescent, it has come to my attention an infantile practice where instructors are marking tardies at this University. Yes, there are instructors so concerned with making sure those irresponsible students don't miss a minute of their class that they will sacrifice class time to bother with tardies. Perhaps next semester parent-teacher conferences and detention will be in vogue. With this kind of mentality around, no wonder the drinking age is 21.

It has always been beyond my comprehension why such teachers continue to demonstrate such traits. Have they ever heard of fulfillment, personality or excitement? Come on, guys, get a new textbook. Get outside for a while and get some fresh air. Stop by the Union and notice we really are not morons. You might even get some fashion sense. I can understand how the '60s and '70s might have scared you into reclusiveness but really, we have changed.

I would like to make it perfectly clear that there are many quality teachers at this University who exemplify, above and beyond their salary level, the potential of a teacher. Teachers who actually recruit to create excellent classes. And teachers who go out of their way to make their lectures interesting and current. These are the type of teachers responsible for the many awards bestowed on K-State students. Their nurturing and motivation is invaluable in these efforts.

But in a "publish or perish" environment, these teachers are a threatened breed. Undergraduate students need to make sue that we communicate to their superiors that they are appreciated and demanded. Let's do our part to make this University and its colleges more responsible to its undergraduate program and instructors. It can only help us in the immediate future and the standing of the University in the long run.

Letters Policy

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR pertaining to matters of public interest are encouraged. All letters must be typewritten or neatly printed and signed by the author and should not exceed 300 words. The author's major, classification or other identification and a telephone number where the author can be reached during business hours must be included. The Collegian reserves the right to edit letters.

Letters may be brought to Kedzie 116 or mailed to the Collegian Editorial Page Editor, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

Kansas

MANAGING EDITOR NEWS EDITOR EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR CAMPUS EDITORS PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR

BUS./AGR./GOV'T. EDITOR Julie Reynolds FEATURES EDITOR Tom Morris ARTS/ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

COPY EDITORS Laurie Fairburn Valerie Johnson STAFF WRITERS Jeff Bielser Chris Doll

Chris Stewart

Jennifer Lindsey SPORTS WRITERS Chase Clark Jeff Rapp David Wagner

Kirk Caraway Ron Honig Scott Miller CARTOONIST

Patti Paxson Jean Teller

PHOTOGRAPHERS John Thelander Julie Thompson Jeff Tuttle Brett Hacker John LaBarge Greg Vogel Jeff Weatherly Gary Lytle

EDITORIAL BOARD Judy Lundstrom Margaret May Scott Miller Kirk Caraway Sue Dawson Jim Dietz Erin Eicher Andy Nelson Patti Paxson Judy Goldberg Ron Honig Pat Hund Julie Reynolds Chris Stewart Teresa Temme Jonie Trued

Sarah Kessinger ADVERTISING MANAGER Sheila Hutinett ASSISTANT ADVERTISING MANAGER

Todd Schultz CAMPUS ACCOUNTS/TEARSHEET REP. Jada Allerheiligen SALES REPRESENTATIVES Kim Greenwood Judy Haefele Mark Holly Bill Sherbert Barry Steffen Bill Todd ADV. GRAPHIC ARTISTS

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone $32-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35; semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506. By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - An Israeli official told Vice President George Bush last July that deals for the sale of U.S. arms were being sought with Iranian radicals, a secret memo says, contradicting claims by President Reagan that the administration dealt only with so-called moderates.

"We are dealing with the most radical elements,..." the Israeli told Bush according to the memorandum, first reported in Sunday's editions of The Washington Post. "They can deliver ...that's for sure...we've learned they can deliver and the moderates can't."

The memo, written by a Bush aide, acknowledged that Israeli contacts with Iran were aimed in part at freeing Americans held in Lebanon. And it provides a view of a more active Israeli role than Jerusalem has acknowledged in the U.S.-Iran arms dealings.

Stephen Hart, a spokesman for Bush, would not comment on the memo beyond acknowledging that it is authentic.

In other news related to the sale of U.S. arms to Israel and the diversion of the proceeds to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels:

-William Casey, the former director of the CIA, was closely involved with Lt. Col. Oliver North, the fired National Security Council adviser, in efforts to supply military help to the Contras while such assistance was banned by Congress, according to a report in Sunday's Miami Herald. The newspaper, citing official documents and knowledgeable sources, said Casey and North traveled to the Middle East and Central America during a period from 1984 to 1986 seeking assistance for the rebels.

-North met several times, including over dinner, with a wealthy Connecticut woman who bankrolled at least part of a pro-Contra lobbying drive, the woman, Barbara Newington of Greenwich, Conn., has acknowledged. The meetings suggest a close link between North and the efforts of Mrs. Newington's friend, Carl "Spitz" Channell, to put together a costly public relations blitz.

Channell, through a network of conservative groups he controls, financed speaking trips by Nicaraguan rebels and a television ad campaign of at least $1 million that targeted congressional opponents of President Reagan's plan to give $100 million in military and other aid to the Contras. The source of the funding has come into question, with congressional and federal investigators examining a report in the Lowell (Mass.) Sun that North provided profits from Iranian arms sales for the campaign.

-Robert C. McFarlane, Reagan's former national security adviser, was able to receive classified messages from the White House with a secure telephone hookup and computer in his home for a year after leaving his job, The Baltimore Sun reported Sunday. McFarlane was a key American go-between in the early dealings with Iran. The Sun, quoting a source close to McFarlane, said the former aide received a maximum of six messages at home after leaving his White House job.

The secret memorandum provides details of a July 29 meeting between Bush and Amiram Nir, terrorism adviser to Shimon

Former hostage calls for policy review

By JONIE R. TRUED Editor

SAN DIEGO - In an address Saturday at the Point Loma Community Presbyterian Church, former hostage Benjamin Weir criticized current Middle Eastern policy, stating that it caused more tensions than it cured.

Weir said he was frustrated and angered by Reagan's present policy in the Middle East.

"President Reagan's present policy has not released any hostages and has not helped to alleviate the current tensions there," he said.

The fact that there are more than a dozen hostages from countries other than the United States allows for a fractured situation, Weir said. "They (the Shiites) do not have one grand plan," he said. "We cannot think of this simply as an attack on the American people."

In resolving the problems in the Middle East, Weir called for an immediate review of American policy toward Israel, describing it as unsettling to Israel's neighboring coun-

"One-sided support of Israel is not solving tensions in the area," he

"We should call into question our massive support for Israel with disregard of Israel's neighbors."

Weir also called for action from Americans, saying they were misinformed about their government's policy in the Middle East.

"We must be receptive to Middle Eastern people in our own midst," he said. "We must try to avoid prejudices and learn to work together live together.'

Weir said negotiation envoy Terry Waite's disappearance concerned "Waite tried to address fundamental issues that give rise to these actions," he said.

A more "even-handed" approach to the Middle Eastern countries as a whole would go a long way to stabilizing the tensions among their peoples, Weir said.

He also called for recognition by the American government of moderate leaders within the Palestine Liberation Organization, stating American officials needed to hear all sides of the dispute.

In speaking about his own abduction. Weir said he had two thoughts during the ordeal.

"This is a new experience," Weir said, "and I must be in the hands of God.'

Weir said he was contained in a small, bare room but found some comfort in what he called symbolic images in the room.

The crack in the ceiling, Weir said, reminded him of the picture of God's hand painted in the Sistine Chapel, and the many pieces of wood composing his window shutter came to symbolize the many people waiting his return.

Despite the uncertain future of hostage life, Weir said he talked with his captors about what they hoped to achieve by his capture.

Weir said his captors listed several objectives, the primary one at the time being to force America to make possible the release of 14 Iraqis held prisoner in Kuwait.

According to Weir, his captors were angered over the privations suffered by the Shiites at the hands of the Israelis. A Moslem government was their ultimate objective. Weir said he believes his captors had no idea who he was when they

"They found out from the papers the next morning," he said. "They told me they would treat me with respect for two reasons - because I was a man of God and because I was older than they were.'

Weir, now a denomination moderator for the Point Loma Presbyterian Community Church was released Sept. 9, 1986.

Copple announces write-in candidacy

By The Collegian Staff

And then there were four.

Bob Copple, junior in industrial engineering, said he decided Friday evening to be a write-in candidate for student body president.

"If by some long shot I get elected, I think I'd really enjoy doing it," Copple said.

He said he did not know if he had a good chance of winning, but it would be interesting to see what the election results were.

"If nothing else, (I hope) it'll increase voter turnout," he said. Copple said some of his friends approached him about running for the position and offered to conduct the campaign. They plan to place campaign material around campus - but 'nothing really extravagant."

With a campaign slogan of "No promises. No disappointments,' Copple said he will not have to worry about any flashbacks to promises he made during his campaign.

"In the three years I've been here, I've seen people promise things they know they can't do," Copple said. "There's no point to it.

A resident assistant in Haymaker Hall, Copple said he believed he had an advantage by residing in a living group because he could hear more feedback about the issues

"During the elections, I'd like to get a lot more of the hall residents and the freshmen to vote and take an interest in student governent," he said, adding that he liked the idea of instigating a freshman council.

If elected president, Copple said he wasn't sure if he could retain a staff position in the hall, but he thought he

Copple said his not being involved in student government would be an asset because he would bring a different viewpoint to the position. "I won't get caught up in the petty squabbles and group-think ideas" of those with experience in student government, he said.

Scott Bush, junior in marketing and Election Committee chairman, said if Copple has enough votes to qualify for the run-off election Feb. 18, he will have to turn in an expenditure report no later than 24 hours after being notified of the election

The expenditure limit of $651.25 applies to presidential candidates whose names appear on the ballot and write-in candidates, Bush said.

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

Applications Available Arts & Sciences

Council Elections

2-for-1 haircuts

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday Bring a friend and split the cost with this coupon.

3,070(0)

218 S. 4th

776-5651

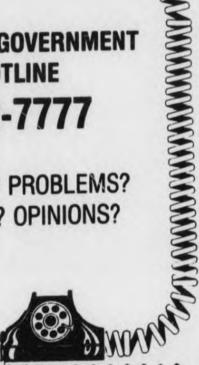

DUE Feb. 13th

STUDENT 532-7777

> QUESTIONS? PROBLEMS? CONCERNS? OPINIONS?

A DIRECT LINE TO YOUR STUDENT SENATOR Mon.-Fri. 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Speech on "The Global Impact of Islam" Wednesday Feb. 11, at 7 p.m. Cottonwood Room, K-State Union

Around the 5th Century, God sent his messenger, "Mohammad," to rescue the stagnant human society. Soon thereafter, influences of satanic powers were reduced and the humanity had a change of direction from darkness to light. For a period of time, people lived in freedom and serenity by the light of Islam.

But, once again, satanic powers in the form of colonialism disrupted the peace of Islam and stripped Muslims of their virtuous values through the imposition of corruption on the society.

Recently however, the Muslims with the help of God, have become aware of the motives of the satanic hands and are moving to free the human society. Through the application of Islamic laws, Muslims aim to create true peace on earth. In fact the word "Islam" means peace and tranquility. Unfortunately, the true message of Islam is being corrupted by the world imperialism and its agents in order to impose tyranny on the people. The speech of Br. Abdul-Alim is meant to be a direct message from the Muslim masses about the true nature and intentions of Islam. In this talk, such issues as misconceptions of Islam and recent events concerning the visit of McFarlane to Iran and the arms deal will be discussed.

Everyone is cordially invited to the program.

Sponsored by Committee on Religious Studies

AGGIEVILLE FLOWERS

12th and Laramie

Visit us early, for the best selection of bouquets, bears and balloons.

537-9549

Sweetheart Roses $200 Cash-n-Carry Long-Stem

Roses $350 Cash-n-Carry

"There is a need for everyone to be involved in the University. If elected. I will work to ensure a student government that works for everyone."

Paid for by Students for Benoit

call early

776-4549

You

Tired of Reading?

(This relief provided by Silver Wings)

1/4 lb. Burger with purchase of 8 gallons of gas or more . . .

Only at Manhattan Derby 720 N. 3rd St.

Wendy's

Introducing

New rigid gas permeable contact lenses that offer sharp vision, long-term comfort and the convenience of daily or extended wear-to anyone who can wear contact lenses, even those with astigmatism. They are firm and easier to handle than soft lenses and will last longer and save you time and money.

537-1118

Attorney addresses hazing in mock trial of student's death

By TED MCFEETERS Collegian Reporter

Saturday morning in Union Forum Hall the president of Gamma Nu Pi fraternity was placed on trial for a hazing incident that resulted in the death of a Gamma Nu Pi pledge.

The hypothetical situation was used as the basis of a mock trial in a presentation by Dave Westol, a prosecuting attorney for Kalamazoo County, Michigan, and national vice president of Theta Chi fraternity.

Westol spoke at the Greek Leaders' Retreat sponsored by Panhellenic Council and Interfraternity Council.

Westol described a fictitous account of the death of "Michael O'Brien," a freshman at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo, Mich., in an effort to draw attention to the dangerous consequences of hazing. Westol used actual experiences he had as a fraternity pledge in his description of Michael's Westol said Michael was going through a part of the fraternity's initiation called "hell week" when he died of suffocation due to induced vomiting of alcohol by the fraternity's members.

During the initiation, Michael wore a burlap bag and was forced to lie on his back while active members dropped raw eggs into his mouth.

He was given a minimal amount of food and sleep and was forced to sleep under a pool table on a cold tile floor with one blanket to share with the 17 members of his pledge class during the initiation.

Active members proceeded to give Michael and the other pledges large amounts of alcohol before forcing them to do calisthenics to induce

Michael collapsed during the exercises. Two members of his pledge class went over to help him but were stopped by two members of the fraternity who said Michael was acting like a baby and just faking.

Michael's body lay on the floor for about 11/2 minutes before the Gamma Nu Pi president rolled his body over. His throat was clogged, and his lips and face had turned purple.

The paramedics arrived and tried to restore life to Michael's limp body, but they were too late. Michael O'Brien had died.

Westol used the hypothetical death and mock trial to impress upon students the reality of what could happen to an officer and a house if hazing got out of hand and led to a

Approximately 250 officers and members of K-State's fraternities and sororities listened intently to Westol as he placed them in the defendant's seat.

Hazing did not exist when greek organizations originated, Westol said. It was an added concept that came along and is still present in some houses.

"It became a concept to work as a pledge and cruise as an active," Westol said.

A person can be hazed as a pledge for a small amount of time and carry the chapter workload before becoming a member and doing a minimal amount of work as an active for about three years, he said.

Westol said he is concerned about the direction fraternity and sorority pledge programs are headed.

'Hazing only creates 'robots' all doing the same thing and does not introduce the idea of individualism within the chapter," Westol said.

Chapter unity is what counts and should be the primary goal of any house, he said. Individualism is the key to obtaining this goal. Barb Robel, Greek Affairs adviser, said she was very pleased with the turnout at the retreat. "He had a good topic and an intense topic," Robel said.

Although K-State does not have hazing of this intensity, Robel said she hoped the presentation made people stop and think about their pledge programs.

Earlier that morning, Westol spoke on "Alcohol Liability Pertaining to Greeks." He said greek organizations should recognize the liabilities and take legal precautions concerning new drinking age laws to cover their own chapters.

Committee says overhaul needed to remedy 'lackadaisical' security

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Despite a flurry of serious spy cases in recent years, the U.S. intelligence apparatus is almost lackadaisical about guarding the nation's most sensitive secrets, according to a new congressional

The House Intelligence Committee, in terms far harsher than those used by its Senate counterpart in a similar report last year, found "a litany of disaster" and called for major overhauls reaching deep into the counterspy bureaucracy.

"Our hope is that the criticisms will be taken as drawing attention to something that needs to be improved," said Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, the new chairman of the committee. "We hope the executive branch will clean up its act."

Among the panel's findings were: Carelessness in hiring for sensitive intelligence posts. For example, the CIA hired Edward Howard, who seriously damaged the agency's secrets to the Soviets, despite "an extensive history of using hard drugs." - Failure to take seriously the implications of the arrests of 27 U.S. citizens for spying from 1984 to 1986.

A relaxation of restraints that should govern the most highly classified information. "There seems to be a widespread attitude within some U.S. intelligence agencies that once an employee has been granted a Top Secret clearance...strict adherence to the 'need-to-know' principle is not required," the panel said.

Relatively indiscriminate issuance of security clearances. Of 200,000 applications for Top Secret status in 1984, only 1 percent were denied. Currently more than 5 million Americans hold some level of security clearance. "The chances of a few spies having received clearances among so many are high," the report states. "The committee does not believe that the U.S. intelligence community damentally sound."

operations in Moscow by giving can go ahead on a business-as-usual basis in the wake of these espionage disasters," said the report issued last week, which was the result of a series of hearings and interviews last

> While the report details many of the same shortcomings cited by the Senate Intelligence Committee four months ago, its tone is far more pessimistic, citing a "disturbing lack of judgment," "staggering, longterm damage to national security" and "serious management failure" in various intelligence areas

> In November, President Reagan began implementing a series of counterintelligence defenses that stemmed from a long study by the National Security Council staff.

And the Senate report, while pointing out areas where improvement was needed, concluded, "As a result of significant improvements in recent years, the nation's counterintelligence structure is funCollegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

Enjoy smooth, creamy Frozen Yogurt that tastes like Ice Cream but with 80% less fat!

-- FREE SAMPLES--I Can't Believe It's YOGURT! Frozen Yogurt Stores

OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

Monty McClain Business Senator

> Paid for by students to elect McClair

VOTE FOR:

GARY HEADRICK

STUDENT SENATE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Sponsored by the Committee to Elect Gary Headrick

Paid for by Students to Elect Scott Cashman

THE -LOU DOUGLAS LECTURES - 1987

LESTER THUROW "U.S.-JAPANESE ECONOMIC RELATIONS"

FORUM HALL 7:30 p.m., FEBRUARY 10 Sponsored by U.F.M., Dept. of Economics, Pre-Law Club and others

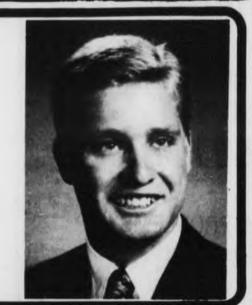

15% OFF ON ALL AUDIO REPAIR Bring in this ad for 15% all audio repair We service all major brands of TV/STEREO/VCR 407 POYNTZ Family Planning Inc. Absolutely Confidential Abortion Services Free Pregnancy Testing Immediate appointments, days, weekends, and evening hours.

3013 E. Central Wichita, KS., 67214 (316) 688-0107

Ag Student Council PRESIDENT

> Proven Leadership for the College of Ag Paid for by students for Kirk

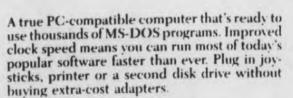

NEW LOW PRICE!

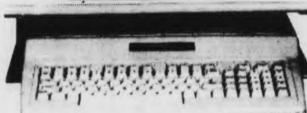

Tandy 1000 EX

Buy America's #1 PC Compatible at its lowest price ever.

- 50% Faster Clock Speed Than the IBM® PC
- Built-In Disk Drive 256K Memory
- Includes Personal DeskMate" Six-in-One Applications Software

Also ask about the Tandy 1000 SX Features 384K memory, two disk drives, five PC-compatible card slots, & Deskmate II".

Was '1199 - now '999 Dual Drive

*CitiLine revolving credit from Citibank. Payment may vary depending upon balance. IBM/Reg. TM International Business Machines Corp. MS-DOS/TM Microsoft Corp. Personal DeskMate and DeskMate H/TM Tandy Corp.

Weekdays 9-6 Saturday 9-5 Closed Sunday

2609 Anderson In Anderson Square 539-6151

Now save up to 45% on your very own Zenith Personal Computer.

Systems-a major supplier of portable PCs-is now offering you special savings on its family of Personal Computers during our Zenith Truckload

Select the Zenith Dual Drive Z-148 PC

Perfect for the office or serious home user, the dual drive Z-148 PC offers you these "total performance"

. Compatibility with virtually all IBM PC* software

· 256K of RAM-expandable to 640K on main board

 Up to 720K of floppy disk storage · Dual speed processing for a response time up to 60% faster than the IBM PC

 And the ability to support most peripherals right out of the box.

(Shown with Z-148 PC above)

high resolution Special

Monitor not included in price

• Less distorted viewing • Sleek ergonomic styling • Zenith's famous

Suggested retail price: $199.00 Ask about the special KSU pricing on our other monochrome and color monitors.

Special pricing offer good only on purchases directly from Zemith Confact(s) loted above by students, faculty and staff for their own rose. So other documes apply 1000 one personal com-puter and one mounter polyndrial in any 11. month period Prices to of to change

Special Price: $1099 Suggested retail price: Includes 1220 Monitor or 1230 Monitor & 512K Upgrade Kit.

Or choose one of these other exciting Zenith PCs! Zenith ZVM-1220 Monochrome Monitor

Zenith Z-158 Enhanced PC Greater internal expandability • Dual speed processing offers a response time up to 60% faster than the IBM PC/XT*.

$1099 Special aggested retail price:

Zenith Z-171 Portable PC

• IBM PC compatibility • Back-lit LCD screen for greater readability • Two 5½" drives • Less than 15 lbs. $1199 Special battery pack and 640K RAM upgrade included.

k-state union

K-State Union Bookstore February 10 & 11

You'll find these special discounts during our Zenith truckload Promotion at: · Most items available for same day carryout.

Student Body President — Vote for 1

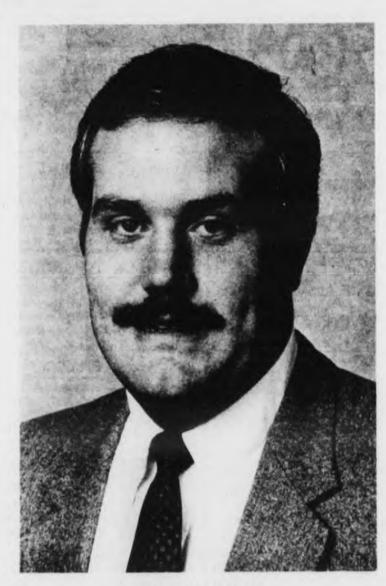

MICHELLE BENOIT Junior in agricultural economics

K-State is going through a very crucial time right now in terms of the issues we are faced with. The role of the student body president will have to become one of an initiator, rather than only an executor, in implementing programs to best serve the students and the University.

The success of such programs will depend on the entire executive branch of student government, including both the student body president and the cabinet. By restructuring the cabinet to incorporate student government, University and community liaisons, the executive branch would have the opportunity to work together effectively.

Two main ideas I would like to see instilled would be to get more students informed and involved. Issue and answer segments in the Collegian and on KSDB would help in keeping everyone informed. Implementation of a Freshman Student Council and, once again, an Off-Campus Council would get more students involved.

We can no longer let an overwhelming majority stay uninvolved with the happenings at K-State. We all have a stake in making sure K-State is providing the best education possible, in order to ensure a reputable degree for all of us.

KENT BRADLEY Junior in nutrition science

The student body president's primary role is representing students' views and concerns, which requires being an effective communicator. This includes not only being able to verbalize opinions well to the faculty, administration, Board of Regents and legislators, but also keeping in touch with and listening to the concerns of those represented.

My extensive involvement at K-State is a strong start toward staying in touch with student opinions. My strong K-State background and serving as Student Alumni Board President has greatly enhanced my ability to represent students and the University. This position has given me valuable knowledge about K-State and experiences promoting K-State to both alumni and prospective students.

A primary concern of mine, which is vital to our education, is maintaining excellence in the classroom. To improve instruction and course design, I propose a team of students be formed to carry out peer evaluations. This constructive evaluation makes K-State accountable to you,

Finally, the most important aspect of the job is being able to respond to issues and situations as they develop during the year. Constantly looking forward to see what we must do and what the resulting implications will be essential. Therefore, an important factor in making your decision of whom to vote for not only includes current issues, but what the person is capable of doing...for you.

BRETT BROMICH Senior in marketing

First and foremost, I see the role of the student body president as a representative of the students to many different organizations, from the Board of Regents to campus committees. It is the student body president's ability to communicate, inform and persuade the individuals on those committees about the concerns of the students that make him/her effective. It is on these committees where the student body president spends the majority of their time.

Along with representing the view of students, the student body president has the opportunity to initiate projects on campus of special interest to students. One such project I would like to accomplish is to guarantee the students a control over the amount and use of student fees. Currently, Student Senate control is only a courtesy given by the University president.

It is also my goal to enhance the academic image of K-State. To do this, I would like to work closely with the college councils and the president's cabinet to gather information al academic programs offered and promote that excellence to potential students as well as potential employers.

To successfully execute the office it takes a great deal of knowledge. It takes time to develop an understanding of the issues and interactions in order to be an effective student body president. For over three years, I have served in many capacities of student government, including Senate Executive Committee. Through this experience I have gained an understanding of the responsibilities of the student body president, and this experience has prepared me to be an effective student leader.

Senate candidates were asked...

Four questions appear; answer only two; answer the two you feel will best represent your concern in the Student Senate. Each answer must be 25 words or less.

- 1. Why did you decide to run for Student Senate? What do you hope to get involved in while you are a senator?
- 2. Representation Issue: What are your thoughts/concerns/feelings about the veto of the representation referendum by Student Body President Steve Johnson and the way senators now represent the student body?
- 3. Activity Fee: What are your thoughts about the proposal to raise the activity fee, which the Union is requesting because it has not received an increase in 10 years?
- 4. Proposed Athletic Fee: What are your feelings/concerns/thoughts about the proposed athletic fee?

Voting Procedures

To vote Tuesday and Wednesday in the Student Governing Association elections, students must present a validated K-State ID. Voting will take place between 7:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. on the Stateroom level of the Union. Veterinary medicine students may vote in the Veterinary Medicine Complex between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

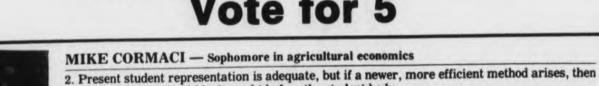

College of Agriculture Vote for 5

KENDALL McMINIMY — Sophomore in natural resource management

2. Students should be able to make this decision for themselves. To make an informed decision, students must be educated about effects of a possible change in representation.

4. In order to maintain our Big Eight standing, we must support our non-revenue sports. A moderate athletic fee would be a favorable way to achieve this.

the new proposal should be brought before the student body. 3. The proposed activity fee increase will help the Union in providing us with a more efficient and fully equipped facility to suit our needs.

PAT MUIR - Senior in agricultural economics

1. With Senate experience, through my student body president's cabinet position, I would like to use this knowledge to best represent the College of Agriculture and its students.

4. The current non-revenue proposal benefits the athletic department more than the students. A revenue sports fee is the only choice to equally benefit both.

DOUG SANDER - Freshman in pre-veterinary medicine

1. To get involved in some of the more controversial issues which face our University and come up with answers which will satisfy everyone involved.

2. I agree with Steven Johnson's veto. I feel the bill, if passed, would lead to friction between the students, thus causing more confusion.

MICHAEL A. KADEL - Senior in bakery science

GARY HEADRICK - Senior in agronomy

also like to express the feelings of my constituents.

1. My objective as a student senator, if elected, will be to represent and inform my constituents on all issues, especially those that directly affect the College of Agriculture. 4. I will support the views of the student body on the athletic fee issue as they are voiced in the

SCOTT SHUEY — Sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine

1. Past leadership experiences have given me knowledge on how to deal with changes coming in the University system because of the proposed budget cuts.

4. I agree with the student athletic fee. Athletic programs can enhance academics by creating more pride and support in the institution from both students and alumni.

THERON KRIZEK — Sophomore in agricultural economics representation is to have a person who will work for you and do a good job.

1. I am running for Senate because of my concern for how student dollars are spent, as well as improving K-State's credibility and outer image. 4. I support the athletic fee as a way of improving K-State athletics. Better athletics will attract public attention, therefore attracting prospective students.

MARY SOBBA — Junior in agricultural economics

1. I would like to represent the College of Agriculture at the University level. With recent budget cuts, I feel it's vital to explore student allocations.

4. I believe the proposed athletic fee, lowest of the fees charged at other Big Eight universities, would benefit the students as well as the athletic department.

MELANIE MAINQUIST - Sophomore in animal sciences and industry

- 1. Student involvement is a key issue for K-State's future. I would work towards increasing participation in University-sponsored activities and toward increasing student feedback.
- 2. Communication between student government and the respective colleges, which most issues concern, is better achieved through college-based Senate representation.

KYLE VANOVER — Freshman in agricultural economics

- 2. I feel that current representation is successful and should be changed only if called for by a stu-
- 4. I support the proposed athletic fee because it will strengthen our athletic programs, which will in turn benefit K-State's image.

College of Arts and Sciences — Vote for 12

KAREN ALLEN -- Sophomore in journalism and mass communications

1. I will work for better communication between senators and their constituents by promoting both the new Senate hotline and monthly off-campus and dormitory visits.

Electing by colleges assures each student equal representation. I do not feel there was enough dissatisfaction in representation to put the referendum to a vote.

JASON MILES — Freshman in political science

DAN OWENS - Senior in economics

1. I hope to become a direct link between students and their government and to voice their opinions whether they be positive or negative.

2. I feel the representation issue can be beneficial to students in the University community and hope to be a part of its implementation.

BRAD BARTH — Freshman in pre-medicine

1. My primary objectives for Student Senate are to keep fees down and to give the University a better image throughout Kansas and the nation.

2. Currently, any full-time student is eligible to run for Student Senate. Therefore, I don't think it is necessary to change the method of representation.

2. Johnson's veto enhanced this issues's debate, however, the representation bill would improve Senate's diversity and visibility. I will promote partial representation by living group. 4. Realistically, success in athletics attracts prospective students and alumni donations, thus improving K-State overall. I support the athletic fee as one means towards these goals.

RON BETHEL — Junior in pre-law

1. I am very interested and concerned about the allocation of the University's money. Student Senate would give me better insight.

4. Athletics is one of the best ways to promote and market a university, thereby resulting in higher

TOM PERRIN — Junior in journalism and mass communications

1. I believe the allocation of student funds to be of utmost importance and want to become involved

2. While I believe that Student Senate representation should be proportional between greeks and non-greeks, the referendum was the wrong way to achieve this balance.

MATTHEW L. BRETZ — Junior in pre-law

1. If elected, I will add my good judgment to the governing body of our University and will represent my constituents' ideas equally and honestly.

4. Athletics here at K-State are an integral part of student life. To ensure their retention and growth, I feel a small increase would be justified.

MATT QUEEN - Senior in chemical science

1. I have the experience to make good judgments on allocations of student's money, and I have ideas I'd like to implement to help students, especially with recruitment of new ones.

4. To ensure quality athletics and in order to help recruitment of new students, the proposed fee is reasonable. It is set up to guarantee that the students' money is used for scholarships.

KIRK CARAWAY — senior in political science

1. My first year on Student Senate was a very good learning experience. I hope to continue representing the views of the students.

2. Student Body President Steven Johnson blatantly abused his power in vetoing a referendum. The students must be heard!

TIM RIDDER — Junior in pre-optometry

1. I am running for senator because I desire to make a better K-State through student government. Being a Senate intern for one year will help me move smoothly into office. 2. I supported Johnson's veto. I feel the status quo best represents students. Dividing up representation will cause discontinuity and confusion as to who is running for what.

ERIC CUSTER — Freshman in political science

1. To get more involved with the University and my fellow students, I would strive to be an effective senator by representing the arts and sciences students well. 2. This issue has been blown out of proportion. I favor the current system but would vote in the direction the majority of the students would want.

FRANCESCA T. ROYSTER — Junior in English

1. As senator, I will work for the needs of all arts and sciences students, including special populations and special interests.

4. I support the proposed athletic fee. The "hands-off" restrictive account would guarantee much needed non-revenue sports scholarships in the face of biting student loan cuts.

TOM DENZEL - Senior in journalism and mass communications

2. The present representation policy held by senators, I feel, is a fair and just policy. Tampering with it may destroy the whole principle of equal opportunity.

4. With only one of our major sports generating a profit, an athletic fee is needed to support those non-revenue sports that in turn will create a competitive athletic program.

DARRIN RUDDY - Senior in journalism and mass communications

2. Students should have the right to choose how they should be represented by their student government. The issue should be well publicized and brought to student attention before a vote. 3. No one wants to pay more money for tuition, but our Union deserves it. The Union was ranked in the top 10 of all students centers by the New York Times.

JULIE K. FRICK — Junior in journalism and mass communications

3. Due to the governor's budget cuts, a fee increase may need to be implemented for the Union, but any proposal should be examined thoroughly.

4. The proposed athletic fee can measurably assist retention and recruitment for K-State, but we must also focus on the quality of our academic programs.

DEBI STEEN - Sophomore in pre-veterinary medicine

3. In 1986, K-State's Union was among the top five in the country, yet every year it loses money. I feel an increase should be allocated to the Union.

4. I realize the necessity of the proposed athletic fee, but I also believe in K-State as an academic institution. I'm concerned about the governor's budget cuts on education.

ROBIN HARNDEN — Junior in journalism and mass communications

1. Every student has chances to make the University experience a positive one — for himself and others. I think it's time to take an active part.

4. Based on the research conducted, it's quite apparent an athletic fee is needed. It's important, however, to remember that our educational concerns come first.

TRAVIS STUMPFF — Freshman in political science

1. Student Senate would give me the satisfaction of being an important part of the University. In brief, I would like to help K-State move forward with dignity.

2. The proposal would have solved some problems but created others. Balance among senators warrants change. Attention directed at the problem will hopefully spark greater participation.

BRIAN HICKMAN — Junior in information systems

1. I am concerned with recent tuition increases and feel that off-campus students are inadequately

CHRIS TEAGUE — Freshman in political science

As representatives, the most pressing issue facing the student senators is that of representation.
 I would hope to help resolve this question.

4. I favor the athletic fee. I believe that it will improve our athletic programs. Increases in Univerde and in enrollment will result from athletic success.

BRIAN HOWELL — Junior in journalism and mass communications

1. I am concerned with the bills currently going through Senate, and I feel they need equal representation from the campus and student body

3. I would sponsor a bill that would increase the activity fees and allocate more funding to meet the needs of today's students.

MARK TOTTEN — Sophomore in pre-medicine

2. I agree with Steven Johnson in that I don't feel it's a problem. I believe the proposed referendum would prevent worthy candidates from being elected. 4. Right now the University isn't appealing to athletic prospects. More money in the program would aid recruitment and create a snowball effect in the right direction.

SCOTT L. KING — Sophomore in political science issue the students of K-State should decide upon.

1. I am running for Student Senate because of my interest in the betterment of K-State. My goal is to get more students on campus involved. 2. I don't necessarily agree with Johnson. Whether or not there should be split representation is an

LAURA TUTTLE - Freshman in pre-veterinary medicine

1. I decided to run for Student Senate because of my concern for the drastic reduction of financial aid to students by the government.

3. Because of the financial problems many students will experience due to President Ronald Reagan's financial aid cutbacks, I do not support raising activity fees at this time.

JENNIFER LEEDS — Sophomore in political science

1. In my previous term as student senator, I became interested in recruitment and retention programs. I would like to continue representing student opinion in this area.

4. Because of other proposed fees and fee increases, tuition increases and financial aid cuts, I am opposed to the proposed athletic fee.

DOUG WASHINGTON — Freshman in pre-law

1. I am running for Student Senate in order to try to ensure that K-State continues to move onward and upward in the future.

2. I'm against Steven Johnson's veto due to its preventing the voters from being heard and feel a split representation system would benefit all.

RON S. MALEK — Sophomore in journalism and mass communications

1. Universities have become too major-oriented. As a senator, I would push for legislation that places a higher emphasis on the liberal arts. 4. I support the athletic fee because it gives the University extra funds to improve our facilities which will attract quality athletes to our school.

JEFF WING — Sophomore in political science

1. I wanted to become further involved in student government. Living in a residence hall, I saw an opportunity to represent another segment of the student body. 2. The representation question must be further evaluated if appropriate representation is to be maintained. For student government to be effective, all students must be represented.

College of Education

Vote for 3

PAM MEYER — Junior in social work

1. I live in the residence halls, and I would like to see the residence halls become more involved in

2. I feel the student representation referendum is an important issue and should be considered in more detail before sent to the student body for a vote.

College of Architecture and Design — Vote for 3

students need an increased awareness of issues concerning student government.

minimal student funding. Therefore, I shall support it along with the students.

JANIE LAUER — Sophomore in elementary education

BECKY GRIEBAT — Sophomore in secondary education 2. Most issues discussed by Student Senate concern the allocation of funds for the various colleges or programs within these colleges; therefore, I support curriculum representation. 3. K-State's Union ranks nationally in student utilization; therefore, I would support an increase in Union funding to help maintain its degree of excellence for the student body.

2. Election by colleges provides best constituent representation for issues and allocations. Living group representation could result in single interest majority and empty Senate seats.

JON BLANCHARD - Senior in landscape architecture 1. An attitude of apathy exists toward student government due to a lack of information. The

2. I agree with the veto. Representation in student government by elected representatives should be based on academic distribution, regardless of living arrangements.

1. Architecture senator seems to be a difficult spot to fill. Due to the large amount of funding, I believe architecture should be involved in representation for these funds. 4. I believe both the revenue and non-revenue sports will benefit from this proposal with only by the athletic department.

4. K-State needs an athletic fee in addition to other supplemental funding. With budget cuts in academic areas, the timing of the athletic fee isn't right.

TROY MILLSAP — Senior in secondary education 3. The activity fee may be a way to keep he services and equipment that may be jeopardized by the cuts made by Gov. Mike Hayden. 4. I would favor the athletic fee as long as it all went for scholarships and no money was pulled out

BUTCH RITTMANN — Junior in architecture

TONY DUNCAN — Sophomore in architecture

1. I would like to introduce legislation to establish a committee whose primary function is to inquire into the possibilities of establishing a student book exchange. 2. The representation issue need not exist. Once elected, student senators must act professionally and do the job without bias, regardless of their organizational loyalties. Exercise your right as a fee-paying student...

WESLEY R. SHERMAN — Junior in elementary education

1. I have been an active member of education council, and I would like to take that knowledge I have acquired andrepresent our college at the University level. 3. Our Union is rated in the top 10 in the nation. I feel a fee is unwise, because there are other areas

SHEAHON ZENGER — Junior in English education that could use improvement more, such as student parking.

1. I would like to find a way to increase student government's role in recruitment and retention. 3. So many people are wanting a piece of the pie that we can only increase it or say no to an increasing number of student groups.

1. I feel Student Senate is the best way to become involved on campus and benefit the College of

4. The athletic fee is the most feasible solution to attract athletes to our University and make

1. I would be an asset to the student body because of my ability to communicate with people. My

4. Non-revenue sports scholarships currently cannot be funded. The revenue generated from an

1. The importance of the amount of money Student Senate allocates has made me realize what a

4. I completely support the current proposals concerning the athletic fee, as a non-revenue sup-

2. Everyone has the same opportunity to be involved on campus. People interested in SGA will find

4. This fee would supply more scholarships, which will provide better recruitment. Accordingly,

1. I've enjoyed being at K-State, and I would like to help it maintain and even excel in these times

2. I felt Steve (Johnson) made the best decision since the referendum was, to me, flawed. The

1. My reasons for running for student senator stem from an inner desire to express the true feel-

2. I feel Steven Johnson's decision to veto the referendum prevented voters the opportunity to

2. The way it currently stands each living group receives equal representation, and I entirely sup-

4. The athletic fee is a must to make possible the recruitment of better athletes, which in turn will

1. I've decided to run for Student Senate so that I may take an active role in meeting the needs of

2. The issues Senate deals with have to do with the academic realm of K-State not the actual hous-

2. I support representation by college because generally the issues discussed in Student Senate are

4. Aiding K-State's athletic department by meeting the NCAA's scholarship quota would bring

K-State up to standards comparable with other Big Eight schools. I support the athletic fee.

athletic fee would assist them and keep K-State competitive in the Big Eight.

difference this position can make for the College of Business Administration.

port, but making sure the funds are appropriately allocated is of utmost importance.

K-State's athletic performances most likely would improve. I'm in favor of this fee.

referendum wouldn't give students but two choices. More options should be available.

voice opinions, and combined college living group representation is advantageous.

DOUGLAS L. OETINGER - Junior in general business of severe budget cuts and important policy changes.

RANDY ORSCHELN - Junior in marketing

ings of the fellow students within my college.

STEVE REID — Junior in general business

bring winning teams back to K-State.

the business college and K-State.

ing, so I agree with the veto decision.

port Johnson's decision of vetoing the referendum.

KYLE ROLFING — Sophomore in finance

CHERYL TRENTMAN - Junior in accounting fund allocations and concerns of the respective colleges.

MONTY McCLAIN - Freshman in finance

K-State more of a contender in NCAA competition.

main goal is to act on students' concerns.

DANIEL A. NOOT — Junior in finance the means to achieve their goals.

Business Administration, especially by allocating funds for it.

JANET NETHERLAND — Sophomore in marketing

DARAN NEUSCHAFER - Sophomore in finance

College of Business Administration — Vote for 8

CINDY BRONSON — Junior in marketing

1. I feel the students of K-State need a say-so in student government. I feel I could represent a wide range of views from students within the College of Business Administration.

4. I believe in an athletic fee that will not only access the students of K-State, but one that will tax the city of Manhattan, for they, too, will benefit from this legislation.

MARK BURNS — Junior in marketing

1. This would give me an excellent opportunity to voice the opinions of others as well as my own in

3. It seems each year more clubs are requesting funds. An increase in the activity fee would enable these clubs to provide better services to students.

SCOTT CASHMAN — Freshman in marketing

1. I want to get involved in the workings of K-State. I also want to represent the students (not myself) in the issues of K-State.

4. The athletic fee is a good idea. It is a sufficient amount which will benefit the athletic department, which in turn benefits K-State.

ERIC CROWELL - Sophomore in business management

2. I feel that a task force, as Johnson has proposed, could benefit the proposal and provide some answers to some of the ambiguity surrounding certain circumstances

3. Our Union is one of the most impressive assets to K-State. I think that a reasonable activity fee would help keep the Union one of the best in the nation.

MARY J. DIAB — Freshman in business administration

1. Being a member of Student Senate means taking an active part in the University. I feel the need to get involved with the operations of the University that deal with and affect the student body. 3. I feel the activity fee should be increased and the new revenue raised should go to the Union. All students reap some benefits from the Union; therefore, I feel the increase would be justified.

DAVE ERDMAN - Junior in marketing 1. I am running for business senator to have the opportunity to express my concerns, as well as those of fellow students, on campus issues.

3. Being on the Student Affairs Committee and familiar with requests to raise the activity fee, I feel the decision will be made on costs vs. benefits.

JILL FYFE — Sophomore in business administration

1. I want to make more students aware of K-State issues, so various programs can be improved to make K-State a better educational institution.

4. Athletics are an important part of recruitment at K-State, and with a fee we can improve the athletic department, therefore, improving K-State's competitive image.

LIESA GITTEMEIER — Sophomore in accounting

3. Due to the new administrative charge on the Union, the activity fee needs to be increased to maintain the programs and services it supports.

4. The athletic fee, requiring the student body to fund athletic scholarships, is not needed to maintain the K-State athletic program.

JOE KENNEDY — Sophomore in marketing

1. I chose to run for Student Senate because I want to help other students become more involved and aware with issues facing the student body.

2. The proposal to raise the activity fee should be re-evaluated. Other areas should be considered first, such as the possibility of newer or better management.

SANDY MARIHUGH — Sophomore in finance

2. It is important that Senate adequately represents the diversity of lifestyles at K-State. Passage of such a bill would guarantee representation from all living areas and colleges.

facts and decide for themselves whether or not they want another fee.

Students to settle athletic fee issue

By JULIE REYNOLDS

Business/Government Editor The non-revenue sports scholarship fee has created a lot of discussion in the past year. The time has come for the students of K-State to vote on whether students should be assessed a $6.50 fee. Students will vote "yes" or "no" Tuesday and Wednesday on the question of whether or not an athletic fee should be created to support the athletic department's non-revenue sports teams. The University's revenue sports are men's basketball and football. Non-revenue sports are baseball, women's basketball, men's and women's golf, men's and women's track and cross country, women's tennis and volleyball. An athletic fee task force completed a study of the finances in the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics with the following results: - The 1985-86 audited budget showed a $400,000 deficit, partially attributed to expenses while changing staff (recruitment, double salaries and benefits), and decreased ticket sales. - The proposed budget for 1986-87 deleted women's softball and men's tennis, and all remaining sports were cut by 6.7 percent. The 1986-87 proposed budget is $5,166,760 as compared to an 1985-86 budget of $5,393,986.16. K-State's non-revenue sports Big Eight standings last year were as follows: Volleyball...5th out of six teams

- Men's indoor track...6th out of eight teams Women's indoor track...2nd out of eight teams - Men's outdoor track...7th out of eight teams Women's outdoor track...2nd out of eight teams - Men's cross country...5th out of eight teams

Women's cross country...2nd out of eight teams Men's golf...8th out of eight

 Women's golf...7th out of eight teams

- Women's tennis...7th out of seven teams

Baseball...7th out of seven

- Women's basketball...6th out of eight teams

A comparison of the athletic fees and ticket prices paid by students in the Big Eight conference shows:

The University of Colorado has a $16.50 per semester athletic fee and $25 football and basketball

- Iowa State University has a $10.50 per semester athletic fee, $28 football tickets and $33 basketball

tickets. - The University of Kansas has a $6.50 per semester athletic fee. $28 football tickets and $35 basket-

 K-State has no athletic fee, $24 football tickets and $30 basketball tickets.

The University of Missouri has no athletic fee, $40 football tickets and $27-$40 basketball tickets, priced by seat location. The University of Nebraska has no athletic fee, $42 football tickets and $18 basketball tickets. - The University of Oklahoma has no athletic fee, $25 football tickets and $20 basketball tickets. Oklahoma State University has about a $7 per semester athletic fee, $36 football tickets and $22 basketball tickets.

The athletic fee task force first met on Aug. 25, 1986, and six members of the task force sponsored the following recommendations to Student Senate on Jan. 29: (1) The highest priority of the administration and coaches for a student athletic fee would be to upgrade the non-revenue sports programs to allow them to offer full scholarships, and (2) (concerning the NCAA rules) a school must maintain a minimum of 12 sports to be classified as Division 1-A with the NCAA. The K-State Department of Intercollegiate Athletics currently has 12 collegiate sports. The NCAA establishes the minimum number of scholarships allowed to collegiate sports. The following is the actual Student Senate Bill (86/87/34) concern-

4. As a member of the task force, my main goal has always been to let the student body look at the ing the non-revenue athletic fee.

A. The referendum proposes to assess K-State students a fee which will provide 40 percent of the non-revenue sports scholarships using the current out-of-state tuition rate

B. A fee would generate about

C. The money would bypass the athletic department (go into a restricted account at the Controller's Office) and be channeled directly to the Office of Student Financial Assistance to be used solely for non-revenue sports

D. The athletic department has agreed to sign a contract with students allowing the following concessions: 1) Funds are only used for non-revenue sports scholarships; 2) The full number of scholarships will be maintained as long as the fee is collected; and 3)

Any student paying this fee will be admitted free of charge to non-revenue sporting events, with the exception of women's/men's basketball double-headers, by showing a current validated ID card. No other free admission or

E. On Jan. 29, Student Senate passed legislation to allow students to vote "yes" or "no" on the following question during the SGA

General Election on Feb. 10 and

Feb. 11, 1987: Shall a fee of $6.50/semester/full-time student and $3/semester/part-time student, collected in the spring and fall semesters, be implemented beginning in the 1987 fall semester for the use of scholarships for non-revenue intercollegiate sports for a period of three years, subject to renewal

according to student fee regula-

F. If passed, the Student Senate

Student Affairs and Social Services

Standing Committee will examine the fee each year, and Student

Senate will review it every third year to decide to discontinue/renew/increase/decrease the discount rates will apply.

$193,000 and fund the equivalent of ($5,444 per year).

35.6 scholarships.

scholarships.

PAMELA EITEL — Sophomore in apparel and textile marketing

College of Human Ecology
Vote for 3

1. As a senator, I would like to become better informed about the allocation of student funds in order to effectively represent students in the College of Human Ecology.

4. The proposed athletic fee has potential of benefiting the school; however, the allocation of these funds must be taken into consideration.

JERRY HEDRICK — Junior in apparel and textile marketing

2. I think the veto was appropriate because there were too many unanswered questions.

3. I believe we either pay now or later. If we don't pay the higher fee now, we'll probably end up paying for it with an increase in Union prices.

LISA KRUZICH — Junior in interior design

1. I have chosen to run for Student Senate to develop leadership skills. I would like to represent the College of Human Ecology in a positive light. 2. I would uphold Student Body President Steven Johnson's veto because I feel that leadership

MARY JO LAMPE — Sophomore in apparel and textile marketing doesn't come from within the living group, but from within the person.

1. I'm running for Student Senate because I want to get involved with the inner workings of the University and with the student lawmaking process. 2. I feel the veto on the representation referendum was in order because it never identified any actual problem with the current method of Senate representation.

JANA LESSMAN — Sophomore in apparel and textile marketing

1. I feel students are a vital part of the University and should be given the opportunity to voice their opinions on issues concerning K-State. 4. Instead of dividing money from revenue sports among non-revenue sports, the athletic fee would increase scholarship money, making K-State more competitive in the Big Eight.

KELLY A. REAMS - Freshman in foods and nutrition science Did not turn in form.

Senators' duties diverse

By JULIE REYNOLDS Business/Government Editor

Student senators do more than campaign, hang posters and put "I was a student senator" on their resumes.

Senators have office hours, serve on Student Senate committees and University standing committees, attend weekly, sometimes biweekly, meetings and participate in the allocation of money to various organizations.

Each senator is required to work one hour a week in the Student Government Services office. The senators man the Student Senate hotline, answering questions and concerns about student govern-

Students and faculty with questions are also welcome to walk into there to assist them, said John DeMars, senior in electrical engineering and student senator.

Senators are required to serve on Senate committees. The six committees are: Academic Affairs, Communications, Student Affairs and Social Service, State and Community Affairs, Finance and Senate Operations.

The committees have individual responsibilities, which range from preparing fact sheets to dealing with the Manhattan City Commission to bringing bills before Student Senate.

Senators are also urged to serve on standing committees. Serving on these committees is not mandatory but is recommended, DeMars said. Members of standing committees deal with issues such as campus parking and library concerns and the SGS office, and a senator will be provide student representation to the Faculty Senate. A senator's biggest job is to allocate student money to various organizations.

The allocation process begins when organizations file a request for money, DeMars said. The filing deadline is Feb. 13.

Senators act as liaisons by working with the person or organization that requests money to make sure the request is presentable and "looks good," he said. The Finance Committee makes recommendations in the form of a bill to the Student Senate in April. Before allocations are made, senators are required to attend two meetings a week, Tuesday and Thursday, to go over requests and amend the recommendations.

College of Engineering — Vote for 8

DAN DEJMAL — Junior in mechanical engineering

1. I think we need a strong Student Senate and strong colleges to maintain a strong University. I plan to represent both in the best way possible.

2. Every student has an equal opportunity to win when he or she decides to run for Senate. I support the veto by Steven Johnson.

RAY OWEN - Junior in industrial engineering

1. I want to serve as a voice for the students of K-State. Improving recruiting techniques and attracting a more diversified student body are my main concerns.

4. Full scholarships attract top athletes which would greatly improve our sagging interest in nonrevenue sports. A well-rounded, successful sports program also recruits more students.

JOHN DeMARS — Senior in electrical engineering

2. As a current senator, I've seen that the wide variety of students' views is not always represented. Some change is needed. 3. Some increase is necessary now that the administration has charged a 3 percent tax on all sales

STANLEY REXWINKLE - Senior in electrical engineering

1. The necessity of economic stability is obvious in these financially troubled times. All programs have cost limits. Only the affordable quality propositions can be considered.

4. In exchange for paying this athletic tax, all students should be given reasonable compensation. White elephants of insufficient supply are all that have been offered.

DOUG FOLK — Junior in electrical engineering

1. I am running for re-election to Student Senate because I feel I have the experience to act on upcoming student concerns.

My desire is that students have the opportunity to vote on a well-defined proposal that they are informed about, regardless of the outcome.

LARS SCOTT — Freshman in engineering

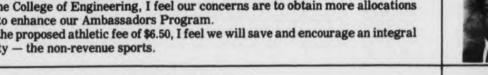

2. I think the College of Engineering needs to keep its fair representation in the Senate. If representation changes, our voice may not be heard.

4. I am for the athletic fee because the fee is a small part of our tuition, and a good athletic program will bring the University together.

ED C. FRANKENBERG — Sophomore in electrical engineering

1. As a senator for the College of Engineering, I feel our concerns are to obtain more allocations for advertising and to enhance our Ambassadors Program.

4. By implementing the proposed athletic fee of $6.50, I feel we will save and encourage an integral part of our University - the non-revenue sports.

JOHN M. SOCOLOFSKY — Junior in mechanical engineering

1. Rather than sit back and accept what happens on campus, I want to take a personal interest in the leadership of our student body.

2. The present representation criteria do not favor one particular living group. Rather, they favor those willing to take initiative and to get involved on campus.

ERIC GROMKO - Sophomore in architectural engineering

1. I decided to run for Student Senate to become more aware of political and government aspects and issues involving K-State.

2. I feel the veto was necessary in order to keep the functionability of Senate. Representation by each college, not changing the membership, broadens new ideas and principles.

MANTHRI SRINATH — Senior in electrical engineering

2. While representation enhancement is imperative, Johnson raised important questions as to how to implement it. I intend to push for enhancement in the next term.

4. If K-Staters wish to pay the fee, they should. Athletics morale will translate into increased enrollment and visibility, from which we all stand to gain.

SCOT KEIMIG — Sophomore in mechanical engineering

CHARLES KNEAVES — Junior in mechanical engineering

1. I hope to get more involved in the pride of excellence which is once again returning to K-State. 2. The current system of representation is the most equitable as it allows those students who have the ability and desire to get involved to do so.

DOUG STEELE — Senior in mechanical engineering

1. I want to improve K-State's image by working with the merchants to prevent another riot situation, and by coordinated recruitment and Ambassador programs.

3. The Union provides many needed services. It should be allocated the funds needed to maintain its quality, and not be weakened by years of inflation.

1. It is important for Student Senate to help continue the current trend of improvement at K-State. This, as well as strong representation for the College of Engineering are my goals.

2. I support the veto by Steven Johnson. The bill was not well prepared at the time, and if a problem is discovered, a well-written bill should be considered.

EIRENE TATHAM — Senior in construction science

2. I cannot justify the veto. There are some problems with the way Senate is represented, and the bill was the first step in correcting them.

4. I do not think an athletic fee is appropriate unless it can foreseeably benefit every student who pays it, such as the coliseum fee.

ERIC LARSON — Senior in electrical engineering

1. As a senator I feel it would be my responsibility to see to it that Student Senate addresses the needs of our campus community.

2. I am concerned about Steven Johnson's recent veto of the representation referendum. I believe students must be allowed to be heard regarding this important issue.

AMY VATH — Junior in industrial engineering

1. As an engineering student, I would like a change in the structure of classes in the math and physics departments. A daily recitation class would meet the students' needs.

2. Senator representation is an equal opportunity for all students. A senator should be elected because of his or her ability to do the job! I agree with the veto!

JOEL MARQUARDT — Junior in architectural engineering

1. After being elected, I will play an active role in the allocation of funds which affect the students

4. The athletic fee will benefit the athletic program, which in turn benefits student retention while having little financial effect on students.

GREG WEISENBORN — Junior in electrical engineering

1. I'm running for Student Senate to give students the representation I feel I have not yet had as a student at K-State.

3. The proposal to raise the Union activity fee is long overdue. Currently, the cultural environment at K-State is quite stale and improvements are in order.

TROY MILLER — Junior in industrial engineering

1. Being a junior, I feel my experience and dedication will help me to better represent the students in the College of Engineering.

3. I don't think the administration should bypass the Student Senate on this decision, but instead use the Senate as a representative body for any increase in fees.

College of Veterinary Medicine — Vote for 1

Graduate School Vote for 6

STU DUNCAN — Graduate student in agronomy

1. I have been a representative on the Graduate Council for the past six months. This has sparked an interest to become involved in policy setting for the entire student body. 4. How are the students of K-State going to benefit if the athletic fee is implemented? I am con-

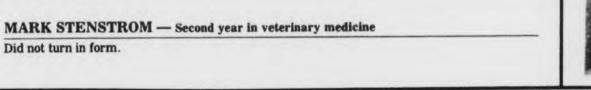

JUSTIN M. SANDERS — Graduate student in physics

2. Johnson was within his rights to veto the bill; however, his reasons for opposing the bill were not

3. I am very reluctant to raise the activity fee but will not rule out the possibility.

cerned about students supporting a department and getting nothing in return.

Did not turn in form.

Board of Student Publications — Vote for 4

WES ALEXANDER Junior in radio and television

One of the best college newspapers and yearbook in the country. Does this sound familiar? Fortunately, at K-State we are able to say that the Collegian and Royal Purple are among the best student publications in the nation. I am proud of our publications; however, things can always be done to improve our publications. As a member of the board, I would be open to any suggestions that could make our publications even better. Being actively involved in the Department of Journalism and Mass Communications for the past three years, I have had the opportunity to see how things operate. My experience in the department and my other involvements at K-State have given me the knowledge to perform this job and represent the student

JADA ALLERHEILIGEN Junior in journalism and mass communications

The Collegian is a part of most K-State students' daily routines, and I would like to see the quality of this tradition remain.

Each year the Board of Student Publications not only oversees major transactions, but also selects an advertising manager and editors for the Royal Purple and the Collegian.

I have had the opportunity to work with all three areas of Student Publications Inc., and I believe my experience would be beneficial to making those deci-

K-State students may not realize we have one of the top newspapers and yearbooks in the United States, but I realize the quality and prestige of our publications. If elected, I would work to preserve this outstanding tradition.

JIM DIETZ Junior in journalism and mass communications

I have worked for Student Publications Inc. for three years, two semesters as Collegian photo/graphics editor. I believe I have the knowledge and experience of working with Student Publications Inc. necessary to contribute to the decisions made by the Board of Student Publications. If elected, I will always represent the desires of the student body when making decisions for the Board of Student Publica-

I believe that Student Publications Inc. provides an excellent base for on-the-job experience prior to graduation. I would strive to make this experience better for not only those working for Student Publications Inc., but also for our readers as well. Any publication must be geared to its readers; if it isn't, its only value is in the material it is printed on.

LAURA JOHNSON Freshman in math education

My qualifications for the Board of Student Publications include extensive experience in high school journalism and more recently serving one year as a Student Publications Inc. employee.

My position is housing and index editor of the Royal Purple. This position has enabled me to learn and understand what makes Student Publications Inc. successful. Although I am not majoring in journalism and mass communications, I feel this is a plus in order to represent a wider variety of students who otherwise might not be represented on the board.

As a board member, I would be open to comments and suggestions from the student body after all Student Publications Inc. serves every K-State student and everyone deserves to be represented.

MIKE RILEY Senior in political science

If elected to the Board of Student Publications I would strive to continue the Collegian's editorial as well as advertising quality. As a board member, I would seek to add more of an ideological balance to the Editorial/Opinion page as well as making it more responsive to the University community's varied views. With the recent 3 percent service charge being assessed to Student Publications Inc., the organization must streamline its operation while becoming more aggressive with advertisement sales. If elected, I would push the Board of Student Publications to

JUDI WALTER Junior in journalism and mass communication

Whether you read the Collegian between classes or grab the Royal Purple to check out a potential date, you have been exposed to one of K-State's pride publications - brought to you by student staffs striving for excellence.

As a journalism student, I've had the opportunity to work with both staffs first hand. Their dedication and concern for details allows K-State to boast two of the top publications in the nation.

But even the best publications have room for improvements. As a member of the Board of Student Publications, I think it will be important to keep an open mind and an active ear while looking toward positive changes. I think my exposure to the inside workings will help me be a responsible member of the board, not someone just filling a chair.

Official asks for deployment

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Secretary of State George P. Shultz said Sunday a decision on early deployment of "Star Wars" would not come soon, although his remarks were made as Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger continued to press for phased deployment of the antimissile shield as quickly as possible.

Shultz, speaking on ABC-TV's "This Week with David Brinkley," said the sophisticated defense system should not be started "until you are clear and confident about what you - where you're going."

"So that's where we stand. And so there isn't any early deployment decision in the offing," Shultz said. Shultz said President Reagan's position on early deployment was that "it's not possible to make any such decision this year or next year." Shultz said he was echoing remarks made by Weinberger in a taped interview with the British Broadcasting Corp.

However, Weinberger's comments in the BBC interview appeared to refer to the actual phased deployment of Star Wars, not the specific decision on early deployment.

"We don't really know," the defense secretary said, when asked about a timetable. "We know we can't do it now. We know we can't do it next year. But we also know that it takes a fair amount of time to plan anything as important and farreaching as that."

Weinberger also repeated his position that "I want to deploy it. I believe the president wants to deploy, just as soon as we can."

Shultz defended a broad interpretation of the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty with the Soviet Union as necessary for further Star Wars testing, which is needed for deployment.

However, Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., reiterated his warning that a unilateral reinterpretation of the treaty by the Reagan administration would jeopardize congressional funding of the missile shield.

Weinberger, in the BBC interview said the United States is not yet ready to make a final decision. During congressional hearings last week, he said the Pentagon was "close to being able to recommend deployment decisions" to President Reagan. He told the BBC that, following the presidential decision, the first phase of Star Wars, formally known as the Strategic Defense Initiative, could be deployed 'somewhere in the 1993-1994 range."

"Two or three years ago, people were talking about the year 2000. That's just an indication of how much more progress we've made on the research program," he said.

Weinberger hailed progress in two areas of research: sensors that could distinguish between real warheads and decoys, and work involving socalled kinetic kill vehicles. Those are rockets that could be fired from a space platform or the ground to hunt down enemy missiles and destroy them by impact.

A transcript of the Weinberger interview, taped late last week in the BBC's Washington studios, was released by the Pentagon on Sunday.

Star Wars is an effort to develop lasers and other types of exotic weapons that could be deployed in space or on the ground to shoot down nuclear missiles fired at the United States or its allies.

Investigations aid infertile couples

By The Collegian Staff

Medical advances have made it possible for the 25 percent to 28 percent of all couples who are infertile to utilize infertility investigations to determine whether fertility can be achieved, said an area gynecologist and obstetrician in Friday's Focus on

In the last seven years, infertility has nearly doubled, said Dr. Maura Welch

"Many couples that can never have children will never know why," she said. Couples can go through an infertility investigation to try and find what the problem might be.

"Infertility investigation is a purely 20th century, primarily American, phenomenon; before, it just wasn't done. All the things

619 N. Manhattan

the last 30 to 40 years.'

However, this medical investigation, which records couples' sexual patterns, is expensive and may be a health risk. The success rate of an infertility investigation is about 60 percent, Welch said.

Endometriosis and delayed childbearing are two reasons infertility is rising in this country, she said.

"Endometriosis is a disease in which the uterine lining grows outside the uterus on tubes and other pelvic structures," she said.

Delayed childbearing allows other factors to become involved that are not present when women are younger, she said. When a woman gets older she ovulates less frequently, lessening the chances of pregnancy.

arts and sciences

senator

JULIE FRICK

Paid for by Arrow Board

Perms, Colors, Design Cuts, Manicures & Nails

2-For-1 Wednesdays

and Thursdays

Bring in a friend and split the cost of a Design Cut on Wed. and Thurs.

with this coupon. Mon.-Fri. 8-8, Sat. 8-5

Falsettos

PIZZA

avoid stereotypes Contest modified

By KARI COMPTON Collegian Reporter

In an effort to eliminate the possibility of stereotyping women, the Agricultural Student Council has done away with the Miss Agriculture Contest and is instead seeking two Agriculture College Delegates - one man and one woman.

In previous years, a woman was selected to represent the college by wearing the crown and banner of Miss Agriculture.

The council decided those involved in the new program should have a professional image rather than a beauty contest image, said Roger McClellan, senior in agricultural economics and vice president of the

Vicki Fernkopf, junior in animal sciences and industry and the 1986-87 Miss Agriculture, said as the role of women in agriculture changes, the program needs to parallel that

With increased enrollment of women in agriculture majors, it became important for the women to be represented in a professional

Three proposals were considered in the 11/2-year search.

"One proposal was to leave the program the same and get rid of the crown and banner as identification," she said. "Another proposal was to do away with the program all together.'

Fernkopf said the council chose to modify the program instead. The duties of the agriculture college delegates will be the same as they were during the Miss Agriculture

'My primary goal as Miss judges, she said.

Agriculture has been recruitment," she said.

The delegates will serve as public relations people for the College of Agriculture. Some of their duties will include attending and speaking at various youth organization activities, attending county fairs, judging exhibits in the summer months, appearing in parades and attending all College of Agriculture activities, Fernkopf said.

All applicants will attend a tea before having individual interviews and giving a speech before the Survey reveals slowing of gas price increases

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - The average price of gasoline at pumps nationwide rose 1.81 cents over the past two weeks, a slower pace than the previous two reporting periods, the Lundberg Survey reported Sunday.

The average retail price of gasoline across the United States was 92.77 cents a gallon as of Feb. 6, said industry analyst Trilby Lundself-service pumps, average

CARAWAY

prices per gallon were: regular unleaded, 85.30 cents; regular leaded, 80.67; and premium, 98.70. At full service pumps, prices were: regular unleaded, $1.1317; regular leaded, $1.0781; and premium, $1.2260.

The previous two surveys saw 3-cent jumps in the average price.

Lundberg acknowledged the slower rate of increase observed in the latest survey, but she warned that "this doesn't mean necessarily that the increases are coming to a

a representative in engineering senate

vote for Lars

Paid for by Students to elect Lars Scott

TAKE A STAND . . VOTE FOR

Paid for by Students to elect Eric Custer

ARTS AND SCIENCE SENATOR

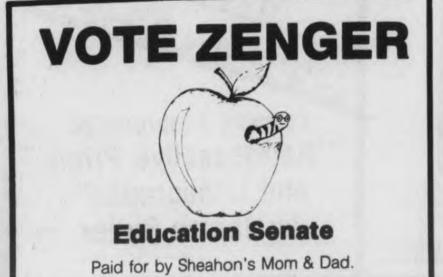

Paid for by Students for Educational Awareness

Today, Union 206, 12:30-1:30 p.m. "Sin, Sickness and Spirtuality: Medieval Women Visionaries" Dr. Elaine Kruse, Professor of History Thursday, February 12, Stateroom #3, 8-9 p.m. "Clergy Couple: She's Priest and Priest's Wife" The Reverend Anne Cleavenger, Episcopal Chaplain susan b. anthony cultural week "women's spirituality

- · Chief of staff—Student Body President's Cabinet · Ag Week Chairman
- Ag Student Council
- Ag Ambassador
- National Agri-Marketing Association—Treasurer
- Lafene Student Health Advisory Board
- Advisory Committee on Campus Development Undergraduate Grievance Board

AGRICULTURE STUDENT SENATOR

"Experience . . . that's what counts" Paid by Students for Kadel

PARSONS SCHOOL OF DESIGN Special Summer Programs

FRANCE WEST AFRICA ITALY GREAT BRITAIN JAPAN NEW YORK

International programs are offered for students, teachers and working professionals. Courses include: archaeology; architectural history; art history; clay and textile design; decorative arts; drawing; fashion; graphic design; painting and photography. Undergraduate and graduate credits are available to qualified participants. For more information, please mail the coupon below or call the Parsons Office of Special Programs: (212) 741-8975.

Parsons School of Design, Office of Special Programs 66 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10011 Please send me a brochure on Parsons Special Summer Programs.

Address City_

26

Monday Night Special

2-For-1's

Call

539-3830

for

FREE Delivery

Open at 11:30 a.m. Close at 2 a.m.

1127 Moro

Aggieville

Bennett justifies large cuts in higher education budget

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Education Secretary William Bennett, defending plans to make major budget cuts in higher education, claims that colleges are unproductive because half of all college students drop out.

But educators call his criticisms misleading and inappropriate, and there appear to be no statistics that entirely support Bennett's claim.

We are concerned about productivity. Almost half the students who enter four-year programs...do not complete those four-year programs. We think that's a problem," Bennett told a House Appropriations subcommittee last Wednesday.

A day earlier, after making the same point to the House Budget Committee, he asked, "What kind of movie is it we're running that people want to leave halfway through?"

An incomplete analysis by the department's Office of Educational Research and Improvement indicates that 50 percent to 60 percent of students who started fouryear programs in 1980 graduated

No Pain,

No Gain?!?

Not with Chiropractic! at the end of four years, with others presumably finishing their degrees later.

A consultant hired to analyze the same data found that 42 percent of students who started two- and fouryear programs in 1980 finished them in four years - compared with 51 percent in 1976. And 26 percent had dropped out in 1984 compared with 19 percent in 1976. Jay Noel, a program analyst in the department's planning and evaluation service, said those numbers show a "deterioration of college attendance, graduation and completion" that concerns Bennett.

However, Noel did not have numbers for the four-year programs Bennett mentioned to Congress. Noel also said Bennett may have been thinking of another educational research office study - this one showing that there were 1.9 million first-time college enrollees in 1980 and about half that many bachelor's degrees awarded four years later. The ratio backs up Bennett's completion rate, but not his growing concern - because it has been virtually the same for 30 years.

Re-elect

Educators like to cite another educational research office study, this one of 1972 high school graduates who entered college immediately and finished. The November 1986 study found that 49 percent finished in four years and another 27 percent in five. The rest took six to 11.5 years to earn their

"Very often it relates to financial needs. The aid they're getting is simply not enough," said Bob Hochstein, spokesman for the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. "And with middle-class students, it has to do with having some other enriching experience like traveling or volunteer work.'

The old model of going to college straight out of high school and finishing four years later is "essentially dead when it comes to looking at the reality of campuses today," Hochstein said.

For one thing, he said, the young, elite student body of the past has been altered dramatically by an influx of older and poorer students so-called non-traditional students who would not have attended college 25 or 30 years ago.

Group to present 'Candida,' Shaw's story of love triangle

By The Collegian Staff

The Guthrie Theatre will take the stage with George Bernard Shaw's popular "Candida" at 8 p.m. Wednesday as part of the 1986-87 Mc-Cain Auditorium Performance Series, said McCain director Stephen

"Candida" is based on a lovers' triangle, typical of Shaw's sense of humor, centered around a young woman, Candida.

Riggs said "Candida" is one of Shaw's more palatable plays with a message.

"The Guthrie company is really going for the humor, which makes this production different since most productions go for more of the sen-

In a witty, twisting plot, an 18-year-old poet and dreamer, Mar-chbanks, and Candida's husband, Morell, a pastor, are forced to confront each other in an attempt to win the love of Candida, who must decide between the two. Due to the intellectual approach of Shaw's work, Riggs said the play would probably appeal to those of high school age and older.

The Guthrie Theatre is returning to Manhattan for a second time after last year's performance of "Great Expectations.

The Guthrie is one of the first and best-known of the regional theater companies," Riggs said. "They're well-known for their productions of

Have story or photo ideas?

"I've heard from other places hosting the Guthrie this year that 'Candida' is one of the best productions they've ever seen of the play,' he said, adding that tickets are selling fairly well. Based in Minneapolis and directed by Howard Dallin, the Guthrie is currently on its 23rd tour. Each year the company takes one production on the road complete with original costumes and settings.

Tickets for "Candida" are on sale at McCain box office. Seats range from $11 to $15 for the general public and $7 to $11 for students and senior

AMERICA'S STEAK EXPERT

≣FAST LUNCH SPECIAL A COMPLETE LUNCH AT FAST FOOD PRICES

1 WAITRESS SERVICE

2 STEAK 3. POTATO

4 SALAD 5 BREAD

MON-SAT 11 AM-4 PM

1305 Westloop CAN YOU REALLY JUSTIFY EATING ELSEWHERE

Douglas L. Oetinger For Business Senator

CALL 532-6556

"Make student government your business" Even if you don't vote for me-please vote.

Paid for by Students to elect Douglas L. Oetinger

Regain your health without pain: call 537-8305 Dr Mark Hatesohl 3252 Kimball Ave

Engineering Senator

DOUG FOLK

Paid for by students for Folk

Congratulations Kappa Delta New Initiates!

Julie Basgall Elizabeth Gingrich Sondra Grimm Melissa Herzig Lori Lee Amy Merkel

Mindy Myers

Susan Reimer Joni Vanderbilt

Karla Ward Alayne Ward Stacy Weigel Teresa Weiser

K-State Marketing Club

is proud to present the upcoming presentations this semester:

Feb. 9 Koch Industries Procter & Gamble Feb. 23

March 9

Business Men's Assurance

Anheuser Busch March 30 Valentine Radford April 13 Advertising Firm

Marketing Club is a definite way to enhance your career opportunities. We welcome all majors to participate with us at our meetings and become familiar with the company you may soon be a part of.

We welcome Koch Industries tonight at 7 p.m. in the Union Big 8 Room.

THE STALKER

The story of a Bermuda Triangle-like region called the Zone and the people, called "Stalkers," who can get into it. It is directed by the most highly-regarded postwar Russian director, Andrei Tarkovsky. U.S.S.R.)

Wednesday, February 11, 7:30 p.m. In Forum Hall and Thursday, February 12, 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. In Little Theatre $1.75; KSU ID Regulred; Unrated

k-state union

12th Annual UPC Photography Contest Monday, February 16

Entries accepted 9 a.m.-4 p.m., Mondays-Fridays through February 27, K-State Union Activities Center, 3rd Floor Union

k-state union upc arts

GRAND CANYON BACKPACKING Spring Break, March 13-21!

$46

INFO MEETING TOMORROW 7 p.m. Union Rm. 206

SIGN-UP: Wed., Feb. 11 for K-State students only

Thurs., Feb. 12-March 3 for students, faculty & the general public Union Activities Center, 3rd floor, 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

k-state union upc outdoor rec.

JAMES R. PETERSEN

monday, february 23, 1987 8:00pm forum hall free admission

k-state union upc issues & ideas

"Retrospective Prints and Lithographs" by James Butler

America's Cup fans say Conner 'kicked Aus'

By JUDY LUNDSTROM Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO - It didn't matter whether Dennis Conner arrived on time or not. San Diego was ready to

An estimated 200,000 spectators thronged the pier and spilled onto Harbor Drive Saturday to form a mile-long line as Conner and his crew returned the America's Cup to the waiting city.

Though the parade wasn't scheduled to begin until 3 p.m., a steady stream of fans began arriving as early as 10 a.m. to find a good spot or just to enjoy the carnival-like ac-

American flags and Stars and Stripes shirts and sun visors. Red, white and blue abounded. An Irish setter roamed the crowd wearing an America's Cup sweatshirt. Magicians, mimes, clowns, bands and Sea World characters kept the growing crowd occupied. Beer and soda stands did likewise for the vendors.

By 2 p.m., the natives were getting restless. San Diego Harbor Police patrolled the parade route in a futile attempt to keep fans out of the path of the motorcade.

Spectators had various reasons for attending the festivities.

"I followed the races loyally," said Sandy Tumangan of Chula Vista, Patriotism prevailed in the form of Calif. "This is really very special to

Comparing the atmosphere to that of 1984 when the San Diego Padres won the National League baseball championship, Tumangan said she didn't realize how loyal San Diegans were until the cup was lost to Australia in 1983.

Tumangan, who said Conner was not your "typical" Yacht Club member, had never been down to the docks for a parade in the 36 years she had lived in the area.

"If somebody like me comes out of the house, it's got to be for something good," she said. And that good was Conner and the America's Cup.

Others were equally impressed had to come down."

with Conner.

"President Reagan had to take a back seat today," said Terry Wilson, an Omaha, Neb., native who moved to San Diego in 1979.

According to Wilson, Conner was originally scheduled to fly to Washington for a White House reception before returning to his hometown Feb. 14. The schedule was reversed "to allow Conner to show his appreciation to San Diego," Wilson said.

Other spectators just happened to be in the right place at the right time. "This is great," said Bill Karcich of Price, Utah. "We were on vacation and heard they were coming, so we

At 2:30, the wait was over. A chain reaction rippled through the line as necks strained and people tried pushing, shoving and doubledecking to get a glimpse of the Stars and Stripes' skipper. Minutes later, a band struck up the Stars and Stripes rap song, "What Goes Down Must Come Up," as a tanned and tired Conner approached the stage.

"We Came, We Saw, We Kicked Aus," proclaimed one banner. "Dennis Conner for President," said another. The victory speech was short and emotional. Calling the 1983 defeat a "tremendous blow after 131 years," Conner said he was glad to get the coveted cup "back where it America, for the city of San Diego, for the crew of Stars and Stripes and for Dennis," he said.

Still, Conner refused to take all the credit for the victory.

"All I did was steer the boat these guys did the work," he said, introducing the crew.

With a shaky voice and tear-filled eyes, Conner thanked his dedicated

"Nothing beats coming back here to the United States of America,"

Conner said After a brief press conference, Conner's party continued to Washington, D.C., but the San Diego party continued on the pier.

'Cats dump Iowa State behind trio's 73 points; Sarge's 34 leads K-State

By TOM MORRIS Sports Editor

Norris Coleman, Mitch Richmond and William Scott - alias the exorcists - helped K-State eliminate its poor field-goal percentage demon Saturday in the Wildcats 87-75 victory against Iowa State in Ames. K-State, 16-5 overall and now tied with Missouri for second place in the Big Eight Conference at 5-3, snapped a two-game losing streak after failing to crack 40 percent from the field in both contests. "It was a tough ball game," K-State coach Lon Kruger said. "This was a heckuva game for us to win, coming off an emotional loss to Kansas.' Iowa State, losing for the first time at home this season, dropped to 11-10 and 3-5.

"Kansas State played well," ISU coach Johnny Orr said. "They did a super job of getting (the ball) back after missed shots, and putting it back in."

In addition to outrebounding the Cyclones 41-35, K-State shot 45.3 percent from the floor as Coleman, Richmond and Scott combined for 73 of the Wildcats' 87 points. Coleman scored a season-high 34 points, but the play of Richmond and Scott helped free the "Sarge"

Scott made five of nine field goal attempts, including three of three from the three-point area, and Richmond came back from a dismal shooting performance against Kansas to hit 21 points.

'I have never seen (Richmond) go through a slump before," said assistant coach Dana Altman, Richmond's coach at Moberly, Mo. junior college. "Coach Kruger did an excellent job of getting him...to take shots in the offense.' Jeff Grayer, the Big Eight's secondleading scorer, nailed 28 points to pace the Cyclones. Terry Woods came off the bench and scored a career-high 18 points. His previous best was 12 points against Florida International.

"I hit my first shot and that really helped me. After that, I just kept on shooting. I'd rather come off the bench, because I get a little tired when I have to start a game," Woods

The key to K-State's victory was keeping Tom Schafer, Elmer Robinson and Sam Hill from contributing offensively.

Schafer, who was averaging 18.2 points per game, was limited to 12 points Saturday. Robinson and Hill, who combined for 30 points in ISU's win Wednesday against Missouri, were held to three and four points,

It was K-State all the way from the opening tipoff as the Cyclones failed to score for almost the first four minutes of the game while the 'Cats built a 7-0 lead.

K-State led by as many as 13 points with 6:33 left in the first half before Iowa State pulled to within eight, 39-31, at the intermis-

But Coleman and Richmond combined for the Wildcats' first 18 points of the second half as K-State waltzed to its biggest lead of the game, 53-37, with 16:11 remaining.

This was a heckuva game for us to win, coming off an emotional loss to Kansas.

Coach Lon Kruger

The run was especially important to K-State's momentum because Orr had been baiting the officials for the entire first half, which inspired the 14,486 Cyclone fans much to the displeasure of Kruger, who also began voicing his opinions.

"Every time (the officials) went over (to Orr) to talk, the crowd would go bananas,' Kruger said. "The only thing I was upset with is that Johnny used the officials to get the crowd into the game. I think that's

The Cyclones pulled to within six points three times down the stretch, but K-State nailed nine of 10 free throws for the win. K-State returns home to host Colorado Wednesday. Colorado, 6-15 overall and 0-9 in the conference, lost 68-65 Saturday to Nebraska. The Wildcats pounded the Buffaloes 92-61 in their last meeting.

K-STATE	MIN	FG	FG-3	FT	R	F	TP
COLEMAN	35	12-23	0-1	10-12	9	4	34
RICHMOND	27	9-15	0-1	3-4	4	3	21
BLEDSOE	24	2-6	0-0	3-6	8	3	7
HENSON	29	1-4	1-1	2-2	1	4	5
SCOTT	32	5-9	3-3	5-7	6	1	18
Nelson	1	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	0	0
Smith	19	0-0	0-0	0-1	1	2	0
	15	1-3	0-0	0-0	5	0	2
Simmons	11	0-1	0-0	0-2	1	3	0
Dobbins		0-1	0-0	0-0	î	0	0
Eddie	1				2	,	0
Meyer	6	0-0	0-0	0-0		1
Totals		30-62	4-6	23-34	41	21	87
IOWA STATE	MIN	FG	FG-3	FT	R	F	TP
SCHAFER	29	5-11	0-2	2-2	11	5	12
GRAYER	37	11-24	0-1	6-9	3	4	28
HILL	28	0-4	0-0	4-4	6	4	24
URQUHART	11	0-2	0-0	2-4	3	3	2
THOMPKINS	37	4-7	0-0	0-1	7	2	8
		8-11	2-4	0-0	0	2	18
Woods	23				3	2	3
Robinson	29	1-5	1-1	0-0		3	0
Spinks	6	0-0	0-0	0-0	0	-	75
Water.		20.64	2.8	14-20	35	25	75

Halftime score: K-State, 39, Iowa State 31 Turnovers: K-State 17, Iowa State 20 Field goal percentage: K-State 48.4, Iowa State 45.3 Attendance: 14,486

K-State guard Steve Henson snares a rebound from Iowa State University forward Jeff Grayer during the first half of the Big Eight Conference game Saturday in Ames, Iowa. The Wildcats broke a twogame losing streak with their 87-75 victory over the Cyclones.

Seniors key K-State to 6-point win

By JEFF RAPP Sports Writer

What a way to shake a road jinx. The come-from-behind K-State Lady Cats climbed from a 17-point, second-half deficit to defeat the Iowa State Lady Cyclones, 72-66, Saturday

Lady Cats' coach Matilda Mossman must give an inspiring halftime speech, because K-State trailed 37-24 at the intermission.

"I think it was just a matter of us getting out in the second half and deciding we were going to play a little bit harder and get after them defensively and dictate to them what we were going to do," Mossman said.

K-State, 17-5 overall, extended its winning streak to two games and remained in a three-way tie with Missouri and Oklahoma State for first place in the Big Eight Conference at 6-3. The last 12 minutes of the second half were the key to victory as Susan Green hit four of her 15 points on a layup and then a 15-foot jumper to cut Iowa State's lead to six. Including those two buckets, K-State went on an 11-2 run to bring them within one. With 5:22 left in the game, Sue

See LADY CATS, Page 14

K-State duos capture first, second at meet

By The Collegian Staff

Steve Bietau, K-State women's tennis coach, said for the Wildcats to be successful this spring they have to improve in doubles play.

The Wildcats did show some improvement in that area at the KSU/Pepsi doubles invitational Friday and Saturday at the Cottonwood Racquet Club. K-State's Valerie Rive' and Sigrid Ivarsson took first place defeating teammates Annika Emtell and Kristy Line, 7-5, 6-2, in the finals.

Rive' and Ivarsson were the tourney's No. 3 seeds while Emtell and Line were unseeded. Both duos advanced to the finals without losing a set.

"This was a real good tournament for us," Bietau said. "We achieved a lot of things and we did everything we wanted. I was pleased we played so consisently throughout the tournament.

"The big thing at this point was that we were all anxious to play. We've been practicing since Jan. 10 and we were really looking forward to playing some matches," he add-

Other schools represented at the tourney were Missouri, Wichita State and Creighton.

Wichita State had the top two teams in the tourney but both fell to Wildcat players. Rive/Ivarsson dumped No. 1-seeded Clare Baldwin and Sally Webber, 6-3, 6-2 and Emtell/Line slipped past Gloria Orue and Michelle vanden Heever, 6-4, 6-2.

"One of the things in the back of our minds was when we lost all three matches at WSU this fall. I knew that we would play them much closer, but we played them hard and won the matches convincingly," Bietau said.

K-State was without the services of its No. 1 player, Lena Svennson, who was out with a knee injury. The Wildcats are scheduled to host Texas Tech at 3 p.m. Saturday in

> K-State results First round

Valerie Rive/Sigrid Ivarsson def. Elliott/Heineman, Missouri, 6-0, 6-0. Annika Emtell/Kristy Line def. Allen/Phelps, unattached, 6-1, 6-0. Nancy Ramirez/Debbie Hutchins lost to

Parker/Snook, Missouri, 7-5, 6-2. Second Round Rive/Ivarsson def. Boon/Clark, WSU, 6-1, 6-2. Emtell/Line deg. Orue/vanden Heever, WSU,

Ramirez/Hutchins lost to Aillon/Schilling WSU, 6-3, 6-0. Emtell/Line def. Parker/Snook, Missouri, Rive/Ivarsson def. Baldwin/Webber, WSU, Rive/Ivarsson def. Emtell/Line, 7-5, 6-2.

Valerie Rive' hits a backhand the first round of the KSU Pepsi Doubles Invitational Saturday at the Cottonwood Fitness Center. Rive' and her partner Sigrid Ivarsson won the tournament championship Sunday.

By The Collegian Staff

K-State's John Williams took first place in the 300-yard dash, set a meet mark and almost broke a world record in the process at the Jayhawk Invitational indoor track meet Friday and Saturday at Lawrence.

Williams, a wide receiver on the Wildcats' football team, ran a 30.13 and was less than one second from setting a new world mark, a spokesman in the sports information office said

Also taking firsts for the men were Brad Speer in the high jump — with a K-State record jump of 7-2 — and Ron Stahl in the mile run.

Stahl, with a 4:08.8, was never challenged and finished almost one second in front of Oklahoma State's Stipkon Fury.

"I didn't expect to win this easily," Stahl said. "There were definitely some good runners in there, so it was really surprising. I just thought I would be in the hunt today, no better."

K-State's women were paced by firsts from Pinkie Suggs, Kim Kilpatrick, Chris Vanatta and Dimita Jones.

Suggs set a meet record in the shot put at 55-5 3/4 and Kilpatrick set a school record and qualified for nationals in the 60-yard hurdles with a 7.91. Chris Vanatta established a meet record in the two-mile run at 10:14.35, and Dimita Jones won the 800-yard run with a 2:13.9.

Felicia Carpenter set a school record in the triple jump with a 39-7 1/4 and placed second.

K-State Men's Results
Shot put — 5. Dan O'Mara, 55-10.
High jump — 1. Brad Speer, 7-2 (school record).
Mile run — 1. Ron Stahl, 4:06.8.
440-yard dash — 2. Sean Banks, 46.10.
600-yard dash — 4. Aaron Roberson, 1:10.36.
60-yard dash — 3. John Williams, 6.30.
300-yard dash — 1. Williams, 30.13 (meet ecord).

2-mile run — 4. David Warders, 9:11.13.

Women's Results

Shot put — 1. Pinkie Suggs, 55-5 3/4. (meet record).

60-yard hurdles — 1. Kim Kilpatrick, 7.91 (school record).

2-mile run — Chris Vanatta, 10:14.35 (meet record).

Triple jump — 2. Felicia Carpenter, 39-7 1/4 (school record).

Mile run — 2. Betsy Silzer. 5:00.93; 3. Becky Ives, 5:03.74; 4. Nancy Hoffman, 5:04.6.

800-yard run — 1. Dimita Jones, 2:13.9.
1000-yard run — 4. Ann Stadler, 2:38.92.

60-yard dash - Joy Jones, 6.93 (finals qualifier out withdrew because of injury)

Mossman said Thomas and Green were the key to the Lady Cats' win.

"I think Carlisa is the only one who gave us a complete game scoringwise, and was the key player in our rebounding.

"And Susan Green is a winner and she doesn't like to lose. When we found ourselves in a hole at halftime, she's one young lady who was going to make an effort to get us back in the game. She was the key offensively and had some nice drives. (Thomas and Green) were a big key in getting us back into a tie and finally taking the lead," Mossman said.

Iowa State, paced by Vanessa Ward's 19 points, had four scorers in double figures.

Halftime score: K-State 24, Iowa State 37 Turnovers: K-State 19, Iowa State 26 Field goal pct.: K-State 40.6, Iowa State 50.0 Attendance: 521

SPRING BREAK

Continued from Page 13

Leiding - who had 14 points - scored the go-ahead bucket to give the Lady Cats their first lead of the game, 60-59. It was a lead they would never relinquish as they outscored

the Lady Cyclones 12-7 in the last five

K-State's rebounding ace, Carlisa

Thomas, had a team-high 10 boards

but also led all scorers with 21 points.

Against Oklahoma Wednesday, the 5-9 senior forward had her second triple-double of the season with 12 points, 16 rebounds and 13 assists.

minutes to clinch the win.

This year you could be on WAIKIKI BEACH HAWAII

(5 days/4 nights for 2 adults)
May 1987 Graduates Qualify
Weekly WINNERS will be announced in Monday's Collegian.
For Entry Form CALL

537-8717

Mon.-Fri. 1-9 p.m. WINNERS

NDI

Paul Lammert Jay Gehring Jeffery Reihs

Con

"WE CARE" about your health

- *Outpatient Clinic
- *Lafemme (GYN) Clinic
- *Allergy Clinic
- *Mental Health Clinic
- *Laboratory
- *Physical Therapy Department
- *Pharmacy
- *X-Ray Department
- *Dietary Counseling
- *In-patient Hospital
- *Sports Medicine Clinic
- *Wart Clinic
- *Clinic Hours: 8-11:30 a.m. 1-4:30 p.m.
- *24 hour, 7 days a week health care services *Time-saving Appointment System

Call 532-6544 for an appointment

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

"Your Medical Facility"

HUNGAL EXPRESS 1116 Moro $37-0866 (eggroll & fried (ice 99c)

Open 7 days a week Free Delivery

K-State sprinter Sean Banks runs to a second-place finish in the 440-yard dash at the Jayhawk Invitational track meet Friday in Lawrence.

Free Delivery 11 a.m.-1 a.m. Call 539-8868 or 537-0886 Restaurant
1304 Westloop 539-8888
(100% off with KSU ID)

Staff/Gary Lytle

PERSONALIZE your sentiments with a Collegian Classified

PHONE NUMBER

Cost for your ad is only $3 for 20 words-

15¢ for each extra word

Write your message in the space above, clip the coupon and bring it with your pre-payment to Kedzie 103 anytime before 10 a.m. February 12th.

Ads will run February 13th.

Dirigo Pixeo Pixeo Pixeo Pixeo

Fine Art Reproductions and Laser Photographs

$5.00 each

or 3 for $13.00

Monday-Friday February 9-13
9am-5pm K-State Union
1st Floor Concourse

Cars, Cities,
Animals
Scenery &
Travel Posters,
etc.

Many new prints available!

Hundreds to choose from!

M.C. Escher Picasso Van Gogh Dali

Renoir Seurat and many more

Plastic bags available.

Physics

Continued from Page 1 merry-go-round and everybody jumps to the center at the same time?" Compaan said. "That's great

"When the weight is pulled to the center, the merry-go-round spins faster just like an ice skater. Usually there is one person that is a little slower than the rest and because the merry-go-round is going so fast, that person isn't able to move to the center and he may even lose his grip and get thrown off.

"I should say that if I have any unorthodox style, it is not so much that I've done it by myself," said

Compaan, who has been teaching in the department for 14 years.

'There has been a long tradition in the physics department of interest in teaching the undergraduate courses, particularly the introductory courses, and so a whole series of instructors have built up demonstrations," he said.

"Every once in a while we have a new demonstration. You have to every once in a while think of something different to challenge yourself a little bit."

In the first meeting of one of his classes in the fall of 1985, Compaan said he wanted to try something new and at the same time dispell any beliefs in some of the "bad sciences" that have no scientific backing, such as water witching. In an effort to get the students' attention, he came into class on a pogo stick.

"I had practiced this at home on the sidewalk, but the sidewalk is rather rough," Compaan said. "It turns out I had a defective pogo stick. The rubber pad on the bottom had worn off."

Because it was the first class of the year, the floor was freshly waxed. As he tried to bounce, he slipped and hit his head. "I took a nasty fall, and that wasn't planned," Compaan said.

"I didn't actually realize I had cut my head until a student told me there was blood dripping down my back," Compaan said. "We finished class, and I went to the doctor maybe an hour after that. I haven't tried that one again."

Truce

Continued from Page 1 social order.

Even before the charter was approved, the government said any concessions made to rebels would have to be in line with the contents of the document. About 76 percent of those voting approved the constitution last Monday. The Front said government peace proposals, which included amnesty and rural development, "betrayed its ultimate objective of luring the revolutionary forces to surrender and exchange their long and principled struggle for a few material benefits for themselves."

Test

Continued from Page 1

student to understand them easily," Cocke said.

The new class consists of 13 onehour meetings between Reagan and each student. For the first 12 weeks they meet once a week. On the twelfth week, a second tape-recorded speech analysis is done to determine the degree of improvement.

The final meeting is to review the speech analysis and establish a continuing program of self-practice to maintain the positive changes that occurred through the specialized instruction.

Based on more than 10 years of research, this program was developed by Arthur J. Compton, doctor at the Institute of Language and Phonology in San Francisco.

Reagan received training at the Institute of Language and Phonology to teach the course.

She has a master's in speechlanguage pathology and a certificate in clinical competence from the American Speech, Language and Hearing Association.

Initial diagnostic sessions began on Feb. 3 and 5. Individual sessions will begin Feb. 9 and run through May 12.

Reagan said if there is sufficient interest in the 13-week class format, the English Language Program could possibly offer it again in the

lassifieds

CLASSIFIED RATES

One day: 15 words or fewer, $2.25, 15 cents per word over 15; Two consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $3.25, 20 cents per word over 15; Three consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.00, 25 cents per word over 15; Four consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.50, 30 cents per word over 15; Five consecutive days: 15 words or fewer, $4.75, 35 cents per word over 15.

Student Publications will not be responsible for more than one wrong classified insertion. It is the advertiser's responsibility to contact the paper if an error exists. No adjustment will be made if the error does not alter the value of the ad.

Display Classified Rates

One day: $4.95 per inch; Three consecutive days: $4.75 per inch; Five consecutive days: $4.50 per inch; Ten consecutive days: $4.25 per inch. (Deadline is 4:30 p.m. two days before publication.)

Classified advertising is available only to those who do not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, sex or ancestry.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

THE HORN SECTION FOR

"DEATHTONGUE" APPEARS

SPRING BREAK Hurry! Limited space available at these number one collegiate beach and ski desti-nations. South Padre Island, Daytona Beach, Steamboat Springs, Miami Beach/Fort Lauder-dale, Mustang Island/Port Aransas, Galveston Is-land and Fort Walton Beach, Call Sunchase Tours Central Spring Break Toll Free Hot Line today for information and reservations-1-800-321-5911!

ALPHA KAPPA Psi Members: Please sign up at the announcement board in Calvin Hall, 1st floor to work credit card table February 10, 11, 12 in the Union. For more information, check board and come

STEVE AND BILL

AMNESIA IS WEIRP. THIS GARFIELD IS LIKE A TOTAL

STRANGER TO ME

Peanuts

YOU'RE GOING OUTSIDE

WITH THAT KITE ?!

SUMMONED TO

ucts. Free facial call Floris Taylor, 539-2070. Handi capped accessible. (76-118)

YOU CAN learn to drive in three weeks! Patient instruction at the Little Apple Driving School. For information call 539-2715 (anytime). (93-97)

SUMMER IN Europe $299. Lowest Scheduled Fares to all of Europe from St. Louis. Call (314) 727-8888.

EVERYBODY'S DOIN' it! Sign up to show in the Little American Royal The LAR is a livestock showing contest open to all K-State students. Show univer-sity cattle, dairy cattle, sheep, hogs or horses. No experience? We'll show you how! Today's the last day to sign up in Call Hall. Entry fee is $4.50 (94)

ATTENTION

THEY WERE SUBPOENAED ?

YES. AND WE ALL KNOW

OVER 30.

HOW PAINFUL A PROCEPURE

THAT CAN BE FOR A MALE

THERE'S A TREE OUT

THERE JUST WAITING

FOR YOUR KITE! YOU'

DON'T HAVE A CHANCE!

2 It pre-

3 Table

or cut spread cabinet

Seasons

hit song

(1962)

9 Underground vault

10 Anagram

for rots

11 Palmer

pegs

Hagen

1 Plunder: 17 Actress

Solution time: 25 mins.

4 Trinket

5 Small

6 Macaw

7 Delves

8 Four

"If I don't get your vote, the Lord will call me home Feb. 12."

For Senate Arts & Sciences

Paid for by the committee to elect Tuttle to senate CHOCOLATE, VANILLA, strawberry. Need 100 over-weight people to try new improved herbal weight control program with new flavors. No drugs, no excise, 100% guaranteed. Call 776-5114 or 776-

THEY MUST BE TESTIFYING

AT THE SPECIAL SENATE HEARINGS ON PORN ROCK.

AND PUTTING FORTH

MIGHT HOPE

A GOOD FIGHT, ONE

BUT YOU'RE GOING OUT

THERE ANYWAY, AREN'T

YOU? WHY? WHY?

HERBALIFE INDEPENDENT distributor. See us for products. Call 776-5114 or 776-1465. (76-98) Bloom County

KNOW

NOTHING ABOUT HIM

GOVERNMENT SURPLUS!! Overcoats, field jackets. camouflage clothing, wool gloves and socks, cold weather boots. Carhartt workwear, much more! Just 28 miles east on highway 24. Open Mondi -Saturday, 9-5. St. Marys Surplus Sales, 1-437 2734 (86-95)

FOR RENT-MISC

RENTAL TYPEWRITERS-Correcting and noncorrecting. Typewriter ribbons for sale, service available. Hull Business Machines, 715 North 12th, Aggieville, 539-1413, (27tf)

FOR RENT-APTS

TWO-BEDROOM apartments, furnished or unfur nished, (new furniture). Westloop area. Call 776-9124. (90tf)

ONE BEDROOM apartment, $205/month. Gas, heat, and water included. Lease and deposit required. Cell 537-7794 evenings or weekends. (89-98)

TWO-BEDROOM fuxury duplex, fireplace, garage, west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call,539-4294.

LARGE, WARM, two-bedroom apartment, five blocks from campus. No pets. $275. Call 776-0181. (91tf) NEAR KSU, quiet, clean, one-bedroom, furnished, laundry, air conditioning, parking. Available June 1. Call 776-7814 or 539-3803. (85-104)

FURNISHED, SPACIOUS two-bedroom, nicely decorated. Dishwasher, disposal. Short-term lease available. No pets. $300 deposit required. 539-1465. (89-108) By Berke Breathed

"COOPERATION,"

15 OUR SECOND

THE CREEP PID TO MY BODY

SOLD MY SOUL TO ROCK IN ROLL

By Jim Davis

JAM DAVIS 2.9

By Charles Schulz

A MAN HAS TO DO WHAT

HE HAS TO DO!

MOBILE HOME for rent, Utilities paid, washer/dry Mature student or married couple, no kids, no pets, non-smoker. $225/month, unfurnished. Call

Phone 235-3550, Topeka. (91-100)

ONE-HALF BLOCK from campus, one-be-

or 776-7045. (90-94)

537-7087 (90-94)

03

nished apartment. $220, bill paid. Call 537-7313 or 539-8401. (90-94)

nam Hall, 1310 N. Manhattan, $210. Call 539-7521

THREE-BEDROOM, one and one-half bath in a nine-plex. Available June 1. Living/dining area and fully equipped kitchen. Water and trash paid. $125 each for four. $150 each for three. 822 Fremont, phone LARGE TWO-BEDROOM, partially-furnished base-ment apartment close to campus, 1411 Vista Lane.

Own entrance, no pets, parking for two cars. De-posit plus rent, available now. Pay own electricity.

ONE-BEDROOM furnished apartment, across Put-collect. (816) 765-0153. (91-95) NICE, ONE-BEDROOM apartment. Water, trash, two-thirds gas paid. $260/month. Nice for couple or graduate student. 539-2482 after 4 p.m. (91tf) TWO-BEDROOM, furnished apartment, one block from Aggieville with air conditioning. $190/month. Available now. call 539-7253. (92-95)

FALL LEASE? Nearly new, well designed and built one, two, three and four bedroom apartment complexes, or regular houses. Most close to campus. Reasonably priced. Available now, summer and fall, Please call 537-2919 or 537-1666. (92-108) TWO-BEDROOM, close to city park, utilities paid. No pets. $150 deposit. $295/month. Phone 537-1808. (93-98) AVAILABLE NOW, unfurnished, nice one-bed laundry facility, near campus, no pets. $265 plus deposit, 539-1465. (94-108)

ONE-BEDROOM apartment across campus, one block from Aggieville, $195 per month, utilities paid. Available June 1, Call 539-4318, (94-98)

TIRED OF renting? How about a two-bedroom town-house, maintenance-free, excellent community, for only $202.50 per month? Call Prairie Glen Townhouses at 776-4786 during morning office hours.

FOR JUNE or August, one-bedroom furnished, $240. Call 539-5051 after 1 p.m. or see Dave, 1024 Sunset.

FOR AUGUST, two-bedroom townhouse, furnished one-half block west of campus. Four people at $130 each. 776-4528 or 539-5059 after 7 p.m. or see manager, 1829 College Heights, number 5, (94-98) FOR JUNE, two-bedroom, furnished, 1212 Thurston, $330, 539-5059 after 7 p.m. (94-98)

Early Bird Special Leasing for June $50 OFF

1st month's rent

 Studios & 2 Bedroom Apartments

and Townhouses

 Close to Campus MONT BLUE APTS.

539-4447

FOR RENT-HOUSES 05 TWO-BEDROOM luxury duplex, fireplace, garage west of KSU. Available now. $425. Call 539-4294 (78tf)

THREE-BEDROOM, near City Park, available immediately, 776-0605 or 539-4226. (91-95) OR SELL two-bedroom house on two acres with horse corrals. Five minutes from campus. 539-

FOR SALE-AUTO

MUST SELL: 1978 Buick Regal limited, loaded and very sharp. Must see to appreciate. 776-3835. (90-

VW—RED 1970 Bug. New paint and tires. Runs good! Warnego 456-7654 or 456-9989. (91-95)

1982 CHEVY S-10 long-bed pickup, Loaded, sharp. Call Daryl Folkerts, 539-0900 after 6 p.m. (92-94)

PICKUP—1975, V8, one-half-ton, automatic, power steering and brakes. Runs good. 539-4818. (92-94) 1980 MUSTANG, four-cylinder turbo, four-speed good condition. $2,100 or best after. 537-3697 evenings. (94-98) 1984 CHEVY Cavaller, power steer, power brakes, conditioning, tilt, cruise, two-door hatch, $4,000. Call 537-1038, (94-98)

FOR SALE-MISC 07

STETSON COWBOY hal, size 71/4. Reasonably priced. Call 537-4689 after 6 p.m. (90-94

By Eugene Sheffer

rossword

39 Meadow

42 Testers

dry

45 Dealer in goods

49 Highland instruments

lation round

55 Network

Charles

layers

slang

56 Singer

57 Farm

DOWN

constel-

ACROSS 1 Plod along 41 Dirk 5 Young boy -- free (unpunished)

12 Sly trick 13 Jackie's 2nd 14 Swift rodent

51 Northern 15 "Many Day" (1943 52 Yearn 53 Vestment song) 16 Gem shape 54 It's often

18 Nursery sound 20 Lustrous lead glass 21 Chills and fever 23 Circle segment 24 Cocoon builders 28 Link

31 She was "sweet as apple cider' 32 Supreme

Being 34 Actress Tilly

35 American caricaturist

37 Disposable item

19 "-! that it cedes type were possible..."

22 Arab rulers 24 "Ich - ein Berliner' 25 Political org.

26 Ingrid Bergman film 27 Aids or supports

29 Large parrot 30 Cake ingredient 33 Belgian river 36 Conical combus-

tent: var 38 Physical wellbeing OLEO 40 Meyers of TV 42 Skier's aid

NWAPJO' OJURKO W

NPRKY XUQK: XKBKYUAAD,

ORD'O JVK Yesterday's Cryptoquip: OVERWORKED SILK-WORMS' ILLEGAL UNION: IT WAS AN UNDERGROUND MOVEMENT.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: A equals L.

SUN CONNECTION

NOW SELLING

5 sessions

for $15 1126 Laramie 776-2426

OVATION UK-II Stereo Electric guitar. $500 with tuner. Kustom II powered four-channel mixer with speakers, $175. Sharp dual cassette deck and BSR 10-band equalizer. $100 and $75 or $150 for both Prices negotiable. David or Michael, 537-1770. (90-

Sub of the Week SUPER SUB

The Best Submarine Joint in Aggieville

AL's DELI South of Baskin Robbins

ROYAL PORTABLE typewriter. Manual, with case. $50. Call 537-1589. (92-95)

MAKO BASS guitar, case, strap, extra strings. Must sell. $90 or best offer. 776-1925. (92-96)

TWO NEW IBM compatible, near letter quality, dot matrix printers with parallel printer cable for $270. Call 776-6628. (93-97)

Ski the Summit over Spring Break

4 days of skiing March 17-22 $245 per person includes transportation. 3 nights lodging and lift passes.

For more information call Mary Blogin at 539-8300

Platte Travel Center, Kansas City, MO.

LABRADOR PUPS, quality bloodlines. After 6 p.m. call 485-2843. (94-98)

FOR SALE-MOBILE HOMES 08 1981 14 x 70 Detroiter. Excellent condition. In a nice park. 239-3708 or 539-7308 Monday-Fridayevenings. Ask for Carol. (91-95)

FOUND: FERRET, 17th and Laramie. Identify to claim. 539-5559. (92-95)

TEXTBOOK FOUND in Ahearn fieldhouse after KU-KSU game. Call Mike at 537-4180 evenings to identify and claim. (93-95) FOUND A calculator Tuesday in the Union near the television area. Call Chet, 537-8290 to identify and claim. (94-96)

HELP WANTED 13 EARN $480 weekly-$60 per hundred envelopes stuffed. Guaranteed. Homeworkers needed for company project stuffing envelopes and asser bling materials. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope to JBK Mailcompany. PO. Box 25-52, Cas-

taic, California 91310. (76-102) AIRLINES, CRUISELINES hiring! Summer, Career! Good pay, Travel. Call for guide, cassette, newsser-vice! (916) 944-4444 Ext. #58. (76-135)

RESORT HOTELS, cruiselines, airlines, amusement parks, now accepting applications. For more information and an application; write: National Collegiate Recreation Service, PO. Box 8074, Hilton Head, S.C. 29938. (91-101)

NEED SOME cash on the side? Home workers needed to stuff envelopes. Earn as much as $480 weekly—$60 per hundred, guaranteed. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope to BF Mailing Company, P.O. Box 1762-1, Manhattan, KS. 66502 before 16 February. (91-95)

TUTORS NEEDED Call 776-6566 Volunteer tutors are needed for grades 1-12.

If you enjoy helping children and adolescents, then we would enjoy having you as a tutor. For information call Frank Pritz at 776-6566. The Friendship Tutoring Program is sponsored jointly by the city of Manhattan through the Human Relations Board and the Department of Human Development and Family Studies, College of Human Ecology.

EDITORIAL ASSISTANT. Student to work 15-20 hours weekly, writing, editing, and producing man-uals and other user documentation for microcom-puter software. Solid command of spelling, grammar and clear writing skills in English essentia Editing experience and knowledge of WordStar word processing desirable. For application to contact Karen Tryphonas, 211 Umberger Hall (92-

SUMMER JOBS: Rock Springs 4-H Center, Junction City. On-campus interviews Tuesday, February 10. KSU Union, 8 a.m.-5 p.m. (93-94)

OVERSEAS JOBS. Summer, year round. Europe South America, Australia, Asia, All fields. $900-2,000 month. Sight-seeing. Free informa-tion. Write IJC, PO Box 52-KS2, Corona Del Mar, CA 92625. (94-123) DO YOU like kids? Would you like to be paid to live with California family and help with childcare? Help 4 Parents, 770 Menio Avenue, #219, Menio Park, CA 94025, Call (415) 328-6229, (94-121) CUSTOM HARVESTING. June-mid-August. Truck drivers and combine operators needed. Sign up for on-campus interview at Holtz Hall before February Lee Scheufler, Lyons, Kansas 67554. Phone (316) 257-2508. (94-100)

INDIVIDUAL OR group to deliver a birthday-gram or campus February 12 Call 539-0900. (92-94)

nurturing person who enjc; s spending time with children? Live in lovely, suburban neighborhoods enjoy excellent salaries, benefits, your own living quarters and limited working hours. Your round trip transportation is provided. One year commit-ment necessary. Call or write. Mrs. Fisch. Child-care Placement Service. Inc. (CCPS), 149 Buckminster Road, Brookline, MA 02146. Call (617)

SET YOUR own evening hours. Part-time medical transcriptionist needed. Good typing skills required. Apply at Peterson Lab. 1133 College Avenue. Building B, Manhattan. EOE. (94-96)

SUBJECTS-NEED male right-handed subjects for motor learning research. Call Department of PEDLS (532-6765). Ask for Mrs. Goin. Earn $10 for

LOST

FOUND TUESDAY by Dickens Hall, ladies knif gloves. Department of Geography ext 6727 (92-

14

VW REPAIRS done right the first time. J & L Auto Ser vice. 1-494-2388. Drive a little and save money. (86

FREE DINNER for two when your organization books a banquet or dance at the Cotton Club. 539-9431. (92-97) SKI BREAK in Winter Park, Colorado, 33 new trails tubs, shuttle, 1-800-443-2781, ext. A50 (93-117) COLLEGE OF Agriculture: Melanie Mainquist would appreciate your support for student senate. (93-96) SWEET EXPRESSIONS! Treat your special one to a

16 SEXY BLONDE in blue sweater studying Physical Anthro-How did it go with your class? CU in the library (92-94)

Date Friday the 13th? Call me! Paul. 628-8919 (93-GUY WITH Coors ski team jacket - Saw you again Wednesday in front of Cardwell Are you available and Iggy B. (94) CHRISR - I can see from Friday's Personals that I'm not the only one who thinks you're a gorgeous fox

Carolyn. We've been through it all and have had a ball. Happy Birthday! Love, the gang (94) NATALIE. HAPPY 21st!!! No more falling down on while you can, the days are counting down! Have a great B-day Love. Shari and Pam. (94) KD SONDRA-I'm so happy you are part of our circle and part of our big family. Love and AOT-Julie (94)

TIM. TODAY is the "official" day! Thanks for the last two years-I love you! Claudette (94) tell you earlier but I didn't recognize you after Christmas! Your friend, Angela (94)

ROOMMATE WANTED 17 NONSMOKING FEMALE-large house, sundeck

FEMALE-FURNISHED two-bedroom apartment $165/month Offstreet parking Laundry Campus two blocks. Inquire at 539-9304 (93-94)

ROOMMATE-TO share three-bedroom house, own room. Close to campus. Rent $125/month or nego-tiable. Call 539 0112. (90-103)

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share baseme near campus. $145/month plus utilities. 537-8825. (92.96)

NON-SMOKING female to share apartment. 537-9022 after 5 p.m. (93tf) FEMALE TO share very nice apartment. Reasonable rent, low utilities, through May 776-3134. Michelle room, close to campus. Call 776-0676. (94-98) MALE ROOMMATE wanted -for nicely furnished

6695 or 537-1038 (94-98) MALE ROOMMATES to share large house near campus next year. Approximately $125/month. Call Pat. 776-3323. (94-98)

18 SERVICES

PROMPT ABORTION and contraceptive services in Lawrence. 913-841-5716. (39tf) EXPERIENCED TYPIST-$1.10/page Disc storage

letters, term papers, dissertations, etc. Mrs. Bur den. 539-1204. (90-99) QUALITY TYPING at economical prices. Disserta

6294 or 776-2279. (86-95) MARTIE'S TYPING Service, Word Processor, 1011 Juliette, 537-3314. Term papers, theses, dissertations. 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. (92-94)

Paul Works, 537-7754. (92-96) TYPING-RESUMES, cover letters, research papers. forms, etc. Call 539-2411 (94-98)

SUBLEASE

SUMMER SUBLEASE-three-bedroom, one and one-half bath. close to campus. $465. Call 776-5379 (91-95)

COULD YOU be a Boston nanny? Are you a loving, three one-hour sessions. Tasks are interesting and easy to learn. (94-96)

15 NOTICES

Luxury, family condos from $80/night for March. Special February/April rates. Free X-Country, hot

SWEET EXPRESSIONS: Treat your special one to a Sweet Expression this Valentine's Day Order your Heart shaped sugar cookies, available in small (4/1/2"), you choose the three-word message or large (6/1/2"), you choose one of four designs and your four word message. Also available are tea-size heart cookies by the dozen. Place your orders at the Union Food Service Office until 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, February 11 to be picked up the week of February 9-14, 1987. Call in orders at 532-6580.

PERSONAL

ANGIE SDARY about Concordia How bout a Blind

Girl with long blonde hair (93-94 KD SUSAN-Congrats! Welcome to our circle You're a great lit sis. Love. Cheri (94) DAWN R. - Happy 21st Birthday! Love. Your Roomie

With Just. Blue Eyes. (94) ANKLE POPPIN', Webster hoppin'-Time to take a the ice or feelings of rejection. You can get in now! Enjoy this last month of being fancy-free. Live it up

MICHELLE P. Happy belated birthday! Sorry I didn't

JAN-HAPPY 19thish! Charlie's, Kramer, Tennis, Food-4-Less, Pintos, #10, and SAE Jim wouldn't be the same without you! Sorry this is late, don't you hate it when that happens? -Stephanie (94)

washer/dryer Utilities paid, own room $175/ month, 539-6628. (86-95)

OWN ROOM, close to campus, $125 month, 539. 9343 (90-94)

apartment, $150/month, plus utilities. Call 537-9555. (91-101) FEMALE, NOW or summer, own room, nice house

FEMALE ROOMMATE-Spacious apartment, own apartment, one-half block from campus. Call 776-

PREGNANT? BIRTHRIGHT can help. Free pregnancy test. Confidential. Call 537-9180, 103 S. Fourth St., Suite 25, (11f) letter quality, reports, thesis, etc. 532-5961 or 537-9205. Dorinda (89-98) TYPING/WORD processing. Data sheets, resumes.

tions, Resumes, Theses, etc. Call Caron at 532-

NEED HELP with math or physics? Give me a call 20

Out of luck

Beating Lady Luck is not always the easiest thing to do, as Eddie Fowler, associate professor in electrical engineering, found while shooting craps Friday night at the Old Kansas Night with Diamond Lil in the Union Ballroom. About 150 University faculty and staff attended the event sponsored by the KSU Social Club.

Buy, Sell or Trade in Collegian Classifieds

HOWELL COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCE

PAID FOR BY STUDENTS TO FLECT HOWELL FOR SENATE

RECORD—TAPE SALE

Now In Progress!

CLASSICAL ROCK FOLK
JAZZ COUNTRY

Records start as low as $1.98! Cassette tapes as low as $2.98!

On the edge of campus, in the heart of Aggieville.

WHEN IS ENOUGH ENOUGH!

Special fees should benefit the largest population of students. Is it acceptable to vote in fees totaling more than $190,000 per year that would support less than 36 students?

More than $40.00 per year of our student fees already go toward the support of ATHLETICS.

YOU HAVE A CHOICE.

Student fees do not have to increase!

VOTE "NO" ON THE ATHLETIC FEE

Please vote Tuesday or Wednesday Student Union

Paid for by the Graduate Student Council

Program

Continued from Page 1

It is a big gamble to hire these international students before they come to K-State because of the requirement for passing the TSE, he said.

International students are eager to come to this country because the United States has some of the best mathematics and science professors in the world, he said.

Although they come here to study, many are taking what they have learned and going back to their homeland.

"It's becoming more frequent for international students, after getting their Ph.D., to go back to their own country," Pigno said.

Students who are hired before coming to the University can take the TSE in their own country.

However, there are three problems the international students face when trying to take the TSE in their homeland, he said.

First, the test is expensive. Pigno said the department has sent out letters to prospective GTAs, and some could not afford to take the test.

Another problem is in the lack of frequency that the test is administered, he said.

A convenient location is also needed for all GTAs, he said.

"They may only offer the exam in one major city in any one country," Pigno said.

If these changes don't occur, a lot of good students will apply elsewhere and go to American universities that don't require the TSE, he said.

"Only a small number have been hired directly from their homeland," Pigno said. Most GTAs who are hired attended undergraduate universities in the United States.

MATT QUEEN STUDENT SENATE

COLLEGE OF APTS & SCIENCES

Paid for by Students to elect Matt Queen

KENT BRADLEY President

-Bradley means:-

Accountability

Dependability

Credibility

Sincerity

Paid for by K-Stater's to elect Bradley

For That Successful Interview

Borck Brothers has opened doors for many men by providing them with excellent and tasteful clothing to meet the business world today. The Borck Brothers' standard of excellence is an unbendable tradition to be maintained.

1100 Westloop Place 913-537-8630

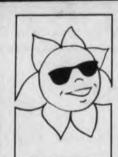

Publish Your Love Notes

This year The Collegian has a way to make Valentine's Day extra special!

We're offering onecolumn-by-two-inch Valentine ads for only $6 each, complete with art, a border and your special sentiments!

The Valentines will run in the Friday, Feb. 13 Collegian. For more information and to place your order stop by the table in the Union or come to Kedzie 101 TODAY.

Sunny

Sunny today, high in low to mid-50s. Variable winds 5 to 15 mph. Mostly clear tonight, low around 30. Fair Wednesday.

Topeka, KS

Persistence

Kansas State Historical Soc

Randy Stange's persistent pursuit of a graduate assistant position with the K-State basketball team finally paid off. See Page 9.

Kansas State Manhattan, Kansas 66506 Kansas State University

Tuesday February 10, 1987

Volume 93, Number 95

Apparent suicide try hospitalizes McFarlane

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Former national security adviser Robert C. McFarlane, who figured prominently in President Reagan's clandestine sale of weapons to Iran, was hospitalized Monday for a Valium overdose that police were treating as an apparent suicide attempt.

McFarlane ingested between 25 and 30 pills, said Detective Lauren Acquaviva of the Montgomery County Sheriff's Office. He said he did not know how many milligrams were in Acquaviva said a police investigation was routine procedure after a report of "an unattended death or death attempt.

McFarlane had been scheduled to testify Monday before a commission investigating the Iran-Contra affair, according to published and broadcast reports.

CBS News, quoting unnamed, informed sources, reported that of sourcing and reporting I've heard hospital officials believed the overdose resulted from a suicide attempt. CBS, citing unnamed friends of McFarlane, also reported that he had been depressed and emotional

But McFarlane's lawyer, Leonard Garment, said "neither I nor the sources of the report can know what

Bud McFarlane's intentions were." Garment called the story "the most irresponsible and obscene piece of in my whole professional life."

The lawyer said he had not talked with McFarlane since last Friday. But, he said, experts on the drug believed it was virtually impossible to commit suicide with Valium.

Bud McFarlane has served his country long and faithfully, and never with greater distinction than by coming forward and being the only one to give a full story, under oath and without access to a single page of his official record, of the Iranian arms sale," Garment said. "I am sure the country will simply wish him well.

McFarlane, 49, was admitted to Bethesda Naval Medical Center about 8 a.m. EST. Hospital spokesman Lt. Rus Sanford said McFarlane was in good condition.

Peter Morgan, one of McFarlane's lawyers, said the former White House official had taken an overdose of the drug, a tranquilizer that is fredisorders and tension resulting from Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater noted that McFarlane is a private citizen and said, "We don't have any information on his condi-

Lt. Gail Fetterman, a spokesman for the hospital, said he knew nothing about the CBS report or about

See OVERDOSE, Page 12

Protesters seek rules for photos

By JENNIFER LINDSEY Staff Writer

Three students and a faculty member recommended to the Council on Traffic, Parking and Police Operations Monday afternoon that no more surveillance photographs be taken at campus events unless requested by legitimate groups.

Michael O'Neil, assistant professor in philosophy who sided with the three members of Students in Solidarity with Central America, said he was concerned that First Amendment rights are being violated.

People might be inhibited from participating in rallies, voicing their opinions or even handing out pamphlets for fear of the repercussions of being photographed," he said.

Charles Beckom, superintendent of the K-State Police, asked members of Students in Solidarity with Central America to submit to him what they believe would be adequate criteria for a policy on police surveillance photographs.

His action is in response to complaints made about photographs taken at a peaceful demonstration sponsored by SISCA Jan. 28. There is currently no set policy on this issue.

SISCA proposed that the requests made by legitimate groups including government agencies would be evaluated and reviewed by a com-

John Lambert, director of public safety, said the committee would probably be comprised of a vice president, the student body president, a student at-large and person from the University attorney's of-

SISCA suggested this policy because students are concerned that police are selective in which demonstrations they photograph, said Janet Weddle, senior in computer science and a SISCA member.

Weddle said all the pictures she saw at the police station were of "radical" campus demonstrations.

"I didn't see any 'Right to Life' protest pictures," she said. "There seems to be an inconsistency in who is photographed."

See CAMERAS, Page 12

Staff/Andy Nelson

the station that a fire Monday in Seaton Hall is extinguished. Fire officials was a discarded cigarette.

Manhattan Fire Department Battalion Chief Steve Burnett radios back to said the probable cause of the fire, which resulted in about $140 in damage,

Cigarette ignites small fire in Seaton

By The Collegian Staff

A lighted cigarette thrown into a custodial cart was the probable cause of a fire in Seaton Hall Monday afternoon, according to a University custodial supervisor and a fire department official.

Steve Burnett, Manhattan Fire Department fire batallion chief, said the cause of the fire has been listed as a probable discarded cigarette.

Somebody probably threw a cigarette in the trash (receptacle)," Burnett said. "It's hard to tell where it might have come from.

The fire filled the hallway with smoke and caused more than $100 in damage to janitorial supplies, said Lovatta Brounfield, University custodial supervisor.

in Seaton Hall, was cleaning a restroom on the second floor when a fire ignited in his custodial cart, which was filled with waste paper.

Yousef said he never saw anyone drop a cigarette or match in the

"I was cleaning inside when someone told me to go look at the trash outside," he said. "When I opened the door, I could feel the heat."

The fire department responded to Nadi Yousef, a custodial worker a fire call at Seaton Hall at 12:31 p.m. but found the fire had been put out with a fire extinguisher, Burnett said.

Upon arrival, firefighters took the cart into the restroom and doused the smoldering trash paper, a cotton mop and other cleaning items on the cart that had caught

Brounfield said the destruction of the cart will have an adverse effect on her budget, which has already been cut this year by 10 percent.

"My budget only runs $133 a week for all supplies," she said.

Replacing the cart and supplies will cost nearly $140, Brounfield said.

Student testifies in fraud case

By JONIE R. TRUED Editor

SAN DIEGO - A K-State student testified Monday at a hearing to determine whether Eric S. Fuller, San Diego, had violated a court order and sold invalid airline tickets to unsuspecting travelers.

Judy Lundstrom, junior in journalism and mass communications and staff writer for the Collegian. testified that she had purchased a ticket from Coupon Bank, one of several companies owned by Fuller, and found that the ticket was issued for a Frequent Flyer coupon.

Frequent Flyers are awards presented by airlines to travelers who have accumulated a certain number of miles. These awards are not transferrable.

Trans World Airlines, for which Lundstrom testifed, had an injunction against Coupon Bank and all other travel companies owned by Fuller, preventing them from selling any reservations on TWA.

Lundstrom said Coupon Bank sold her a ticket to Bombay, India, on TWA airlines in December 1986, an action which would have violated the injunction.

According to other testimony at the preliminary hearing in U.S. District Court in San Diego, Fuller used an umbrella company through which he funneled tickets based on frequent flyer coupons to several travel agencies and coupon brokers. The trial Monday was the result of several month's work by TWA of-

Charles A. Weghorst, passenger sales manager of TWA in San Diego. became curious several months ago when he realized that TWA flight bookings rose significantly with no explanation. Weghorst investigated and found the awards given to Frequent Flyer Club members were being purchased and sold at a discount to travelers looking for a bargain. James Derr, attorney for TWA, said the arrangement results in several million dollars loss to TWA and uncountable losses to several

See TRIAL, Page 11

City's traffic study finds little need for light at intersection

By JEFFREY J. BIELSER Staff Writer

People crossing the street at Denison Avenue and College Heights Road will not be getting any help from a traffic light in the near future.

As a result of a traffic volume survey, city engineers have determined that the intersection does not fully satisfy any of the requirements to warrant installation of a traffic signal, said Todd Thalmann, design supervisor for the city.

Conditions existing at that location "must clearly meet one of the warrants" defined by the Manual on Uniform Traffic Devices, he said.

The latest traffic study, conducted last October, showed traffic and pedestrian volumes at Denison Avenue and College Heights Road only "marginally" met requirements of three of the nine warrants set down by the manual, Thalmann said.

For a warrant to be met, the traffic study must show conditions at the site satisfy the criteria in the warrant for the same hours during an eight-hour period, he said.

Because the three warrants were marginally satisfied, plans for a traffic signal at Denison Avenue and College Heights Road were put into the 1988-1993 Capital Improvements Plan for Manhattan, he said.

Manhattan Mayor Rick Mann said although he had not seen the study, the city of Manhattan continually monitors traffic volumes for any

However, even if there are changes, money to make improvements must be obtained, he

"It all comes back to funding," Mann said. "We try to put those monies where they will do the most

Even though plans for a traffic light at Denison Avenue and College Heights Road are in the next CIP that does not mean a traffic light will be installed.

"It's just a wish book," City Commissioner Gene Klingler said about The "commission has the power to put anything on (the CIP) or push anything back," he said. "This (the intersection) is one we (the commission) will look at," Klingler said about the next CIP hearings scheduled for April, May, June

He said he "envisions a handoperated signal" similar to the ones in place along Anderson Avenue. Nothing will probably be done, however, until after the next commission is seated following the city elections in April, Klingler said. Thalmann said the city engineers try to conduct traffic studies during the middle of the week because they are more "normal" days for traffic

Also, the city tries not to do any studies during the summer when the University is not fully in session because of the effect K-State students have on the traffic flow, he

In the recent study the three warrants that were marginally met - Warrant 1 which "is intended for application where the volume of the intersecting traffic is the principal reason for consideration of signal installation." This means if the traffic volume on College Heights Road justifies installation of a traffic light.

- Warrant 8 allows the combination of two or more of warrants 1, 2 or 3, if they are satisfied at least 80 percent of the values stated in the requirements. If this is the case, then a traffic signal may be justified if other traffic control measures that cause less delay and inconvenience, such as stop signs, have been tried. Warrant 9 requires traffic volumes for any four hours of an average day to meet predetermined levels. According to the study, there were not enough hours when major (Denison Avenue) and minor (College Heights Road) street traffic volumes were met or exceeded during the same hour to satisfy warrant

The combination warrant, warrant 8, is one hour short of being satisfied. This combines warrants 1, 2 and 3, which monitors traffic volume on both streets, interruption of traffic flow on the minor street and pedestrian traffic.

Warrant 9 shows that volumes on the major and minor streets during two of the four hours fall too close to a predetermined curve to completely satisfy the warrant.

Until one of the warrants is met about the best thing that can be done for people crossing at the intersection is awareness, Thalmann said.

"One of the things that might help would be a public awareness campaign," he said. This program would warn people about the dangers of crossing at the intersection and what they can do to protect themselves.

Other than an awareness campaign, other measures to make crossing the intersection safer do not meet criteria or are not covered under current rules.

There are "no standard guidelines for reducing speed at an intersection like that," Thalmann said. Also, "it doesn't have the accident experience to warrant a reduction in speed" along that stretch of road, he said. Accident experience is a sufficient number of accidents occurring during a determined period to justify installation of some sort of traffic control device. 'A crosswalk can almost be more dangerous," Thalmann said. "People think they are protected in the crosswalk.

INTERNATIONAL

Impact of Soviet release unclear

MOSCOW - Dissidents and the West have praised the release of dozens of political prisoners, but those freed are only a small fraction of the total held, and it remains unclear whether Kremlin policy toward dissent is changing.

The action in the past week may have been a gesture to deflect accusations of human rights violations as the Soviets prepare for an international peace conference in Moscow later this week and seek to host a human rights meeting in the spring.

Whatever its purpose, the release is far short of the amnesty for dissidents that has been rumored since Andrei Sakharov and his wife, Yelena Bonner, were freed from internal exile in Gorky just before Christmas

Those said to have been freed by decree of the Supreme Soviet, the nominal national parliament, represent the range of Soviet dissent from a Latvian nationalist to a teacher of Hebrew and a Catholic ac-

Dissidents and diplomats say they are not sure of the Kremlin's reasons for releasing this particular group while leaving others in prison for similar offenses, and they hesitate to predict a softening of its attitude toward organized political opposition.

Bomb explodes, kills 15 in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon - A car bomb exploded in a crowded Shiite Moslem neighborhood Monday, killing 15 people and wounding 80, police said.

The mainstream Shiite Amal militia accused PLO leader Yasser Arafat of engineering the blast.

"It is a gift carrying death from Arafat," an Amal statement said. Four other people were killed and 12 wounded Monday in mortar and rocket duels between Palestinian guerrillas and Shiite militiamen fighting for control of refugee camps near the blast

The car, a white Mercedes-Benz, was laden with 165 pounds of explosives attached to a timing device, police said. It detonated at 2:45 p.m. near a filling station in the Roweiss district, starting fires and damaging about 10 cars in a narrow alley.

It was the first car bomb explosion in Moslem west Beirut this year and the third in the city, which is divided into Moslem and Christian

PEOPLE

Autopsy shows Liberace had AIDS

INDIO, Calif. - Liberace died of a disease caused by AIDS, the Riverside County coroner said Monday, reporting the results of an autopsy on the entertainer.

Coroner Raymond Carrillo said he believed that an opportunistic infection triggered by AIDS killed Liberace, who died Wednesday at age 67 in his Palm Springs home.

"I believe the AIDS virus causes all these. It allows all these microorganisms to develop," said Carrillo.

The report contradicted denials by Liberace aides that he had contracted acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

It was first reported Jan. 24 by the Las Vegas (Nev.) Sun that Liberace was suffering from AIDS. The newspaper attributed the information to unidentified sources.

On Jan. 26, publicist Seymour Heller had said Liberace's anemia was caused by a two-month, weight-loss diet of nothing but watermelons, although Liberace's Las Vegas physician later disputed

NATIONAL

Nuclear command subject of book become one of the largest, as well as one of the most important, targets for a possible Soviet strike, according to a book published

An attack on any of more than 1,500 key points in the system might be misinterpreted as an attack on the whole, triggering a devastating American response, said Ashton Carter, a Harvard professor who helped edit the book and contributed two chapters.

"The distinction between initiation and retaliation would probably become blurred," Carter told a news conference at Brookings, a liberal research institution in Washington.

The book, "Managing Nuclear Operations," finds good and bad in the intricate systems devised to manage superpower nuclear arsenals.

The good news, said contributor Donald Cotter, is that in 40 years of handling nuclear arms, neither the Soviet Union nor the United States has accidentally launched an intercontinental ballistic missile or exploded a nuclear bomb by mistake.

although the weapons can be tested underground without breaking treaties or endangering lives, the operating systems cannot be tried out in conditions resembling war.

Man sought in murder of trooper

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. - Police looking for the killer of a Missouri State Highway Patrol trooper said Monday that they want to question a man wanted for failing to make a court appearance last year on a weapons charge in Kansas City.

Capt. Ralph Biele, the patrol's chief spokesman, announced at a news conference that investigators want to question Glen Paul Sweet, 31, who he said was from a rural area in nearby Douglas County.

No warrant has been issued for Sweet in connection with Sunday's slaying of Trooper Russell W. Harper, 45, of Springfield, an 18-year veteran with the patrol. Biele said he was the 14th trooper to be killed in the line of duty since the patrol began keeping records in 1931. Half of those died in traffic accidents, Biele said, while the others were killed by violent means, including two shot to death in 1985.

Senator proposes rail restoration

TOPEKA - Sen. Roy Ehrlich, R-Hoisington, introduced with strong bipartisan support Monday a bill which could lead to rail

While the bill does not specify restoration of the Kansas City-to-Denver route, Ehrlich said last week his goal, and that of other sponsors, is to have Amtrak passenger service restored between the two cities via the Union Pacific tracks which run through Lawrence, Topeka, Manhattan, Junction City, Salina, Russell, Oakley and

1987

WASHINGTON - The U.S. atomic weapons command system has Monday by Harvard and the Brookings Institution.

The bad news, and the heart of the issue, the book says, is that

REGIONAL

"He is definitely a suspect, a person we're definitely interested in talking to," Biele said of Sweet.

passenger service being restored between Kansas City and Denver.

Ehrlich had 25 co-sponsors for a bill which would enact the "Kansas Rail Passenger Preservation Act." It authorizes the state Department of Transportation to establish a plan for rail passenger transportation in Kansas and to do what is necessary to qualify Kansas for rail service preservation subsidies and other federal assistance needed to restore the service.

Campus Bulletin

Agencies to the control of the contr

CONGRESSIONAL TEACHER SCHOLAR-SHIP PROGRAM: Information and applications are available in Bluemont 17.

LITTLE AMERICAN ROYAL MASTER OF CEREMONIES tryouts will be held 7 p.m. Thurs-day in Call 140.

AG STUDENT COUNCIL officer voting takes place today and tomorrow from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in main floor Union or first floor lobby of Waters. Voters must have validated student ID and be enrolled in College of Agriculture to be eligible

STUDENT SENATE FACT SHEETS on the proposed athletic fee to non-revenue sports scholarships are available in the SGS office in the BUSINESS COUNCIL applications are due Feb. 20 and are available in the dean's office. Elections are Feb. 25-26.

STUDENT ALUMNI BOARD applications are vailable in Hollis House and are due Feb. 16.

SGA ELECTIONS are being held between 7:15 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. today and Wednesday on the first floor of the Union. Voters must present a validated K-State ID. Voting at the Vet-Med will take place between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

TODAY

SPURS meet at 9 p.m. in Union 213.

PHI UPSILON OMICRON meets at 7:30 p.m. in

ALPHA KAPPA PSI members please sign up at announcement board at on the first floor of Calvin to work credit card table Feb. 10-12 in CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION meets at 4:30 p.m. in Danforth Chapel.

dlabal feltner general dentistry

J. DENNIS DLABAL, D.D.S. BRITT C. FELTNER, D.D.S.

- . Evening and Saturday appointments available
- We see emergencies Next to campus

'We cater to cowards' (and other people, too)

537-8484

Drop off laundry service One-day dry cleaning 25" color T.V. Pool table 2048 TUTTLE CREEK BLVD. 7:30-9 M-F Sat. 8-7 Sun. 8-5

Dr. Paul E. Bullock Optometrist

Come in with brown eyes walk out with blue

Now Available-Soft Contact Lenses-that let you change from brown to baby blue in a wink of an

•Our newly opened eyeglass department has a large selection of the latest style frames.

•Eyeglasses warranted against breakage for one year.

·As always, we provide professional care and management of the contact lens patient.

 Most contact lenses available same day.

'See your Eyecare Professional Annually' Payment Plans Available 404 Humboldt Prof. Bldg. Manhattan, KS 776-9461 local

> Toll Free 1-800-432-0036

LESBIAN SUPPORT GROUP meet at 7 p.m For information call 532-6444 or 532-6442.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATOR BIBLE STUDY

AGRICULTURE MECHANIZATION CLUB

AG ECON CLUB meets at 7 p.m. in Union Big

DELT DARLINGS: Delt basketball game at 7 p.m. court 2. ALPHA PI MU meets at 7:30 p.m. in Industrial Engineering Library KAPPA DELTA PI meets at 6 p.m. at Valen-

HUMAN ECOLOGY AMBASSADORS meet at

HUMAN ECOLOGY OPEN HOUSE COMMIT-TEE meets at 7 p.m. in dean's office conference

APPAREL DESIGN COLLECTIVE meets at 7

COLLEGIATE FFA meets at 8:30 p.m. in

APPAREL AND TEXTILE MARKETING IN-TEREST GROUP meets at 6 p.m. in Justin 326

ASSOCIATION OF ADULTS RETURNING TO SCHOOL meets from 11:30 to 1:30 p.m. in Union

TYPESETTING FROM YOUR DISKETTES

Newsletters, directories, reports, manuals, etc. TYPESETTING

McMANIS TYPESETTING 537-8373

Mixed Drinks $1.50 Any name

Any brand 539-4321 531 N. Manhattan 539-9727

George Bernard Shaw's willy portrait of the eternal love triangle

McCain Auditorium

Wednesday, February 11, 1987 8 p.m.

Tickets and Information (913) 532-6428

Mastercard/Visa accepted

This program is presented in part by the Kansas Arts Commission, a state agency, and by the National Endowment for the Arts. a federal agency.

THE LOU DOUGLAS

LESTER THUROW "U.S.-JAPANESE ECONOMIC RELATIONS"

7:30 p.m. February 10 Forum Hall

Sponsored by U.F.M., Department of Economics, Pre-Law Club and others

Cafe LaGrande 🔌

- 20% off any order everyday between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m.
- 49¢ tacos daily 606 N. 12th Aggieville

"Quote Night" $2.25 Pitchers 50¢ Draws courtesy of Southern Sun! Last week's winner: "a kiss is . . . " -Greg-Come down & we'll tell you the rest!

Best quote of the night

receives a free keg

Applicants must be of age EEEEEEEEEEEEEEEEE  2001 BULLFROGS BUSCH

•4¢ self-service copies •Full service copy center Resume service OPEN DAILY M-F 8-9 Sat. 9-5 Sun. 12-9

FirstBank Center Denison & Claffin 776-3771 Enjoy smooth, creamy

but with 80% less fat! -- FREE SAMPLES--I Can't Believe It's YOGURT

Frozen Yogurt

that tastes like Ice Cream

Frozen Yogurt Stores OPEN: 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Daily Noon-11 p.m. Sundays Nautilus Towers-Aggieville

TACO TUESDAY!

Tacos for lunch & dinner

•$1.25 Margaritas

(that's $1 off!) 1115 Moro 776-0030

JOE BUSINESS 1987
KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY 1998 83 195/1088 Francisco SCOTT CASHHAN $1 VOTE CLIECK CASUMAN BUSINESS In Business Memo - what sente 1 VOTE 21011 1987 Paid for by Students to Elect Scott Cashman

Introducing

New rigid gas permeable contact lenses that offer sharp vision, long-term comfort and the convenience of daily or extended wear-to anyone who can wear contact lenses, even those with astigmatism. They are firm and easier to handle than soft lenses and will last longer and save you time and money.

Drs. Price, Young, Odle, and Horsch, P.A.

1119 Westloop Place, Manhattan, KS 66502 (913) 537-1118

537-1118

LAFEMME (GYN/FAMILY PLANNING) CLINIC

Available Services:

Birth Control Information & Prescriptions

*Pregnancy Counseling & Referrals *Pregnancy Testing

*Routine Gynecological Exams *Self Breast Exam Instruction

*Sexuality Information *Sexually Transmitted Disease Information (must come into clinic to make appointment)

LAFENE HEALTH CENTER

Your Medical Facility'

Student ends year as FFA president

K-State student returns home from FFA tour

> By STACEY CAMPBELL Collegian Reporter

Rick Malir, junior in agricultural economics, has returned to K-State after a year of serving as president for the National Association of Future Farmers of America.

Malir, 22, was elected to the office in November 1985 at the National FFA Convention. After his election, he dropped out of school to spend a year traveling and promoting FFA.

The duties of a national officer include giving speeches at banquets and conventions, serving on the national FFA student board of directors and conducting leadership workshops, Malir said.

After his orientation of being president, he traveled to Ohio, where he spent a week on his experience tour. This experience tour allows a National FFA officer to travel an unfamiliar state and interact with state FFA officers and businesses to promote FFA, Malir said.

"States are assigned as experience states," he said. "I had (previously) been to Ohio, but this time I learned a great deal about the agriculture there.

During the tour, Malir visited FFA chapters, businesses, and he helped with Greenhand conferences, which are prepared to benefit first-year FFA members. Malir also spent two weeks on an international tour in Japan.

"Our purpose was to experience international agriculture," he said. "We (the officers) visited the Future Farmers of Japan's national officers, business firms and stayed on farms with Japanese families.

In addition, Malir talked with FFA members at other cahpters in the United States.

"I visited Philadelphia, which has the largest FFA chapter in the

SENATE

TAKIN' CARE

OF BUSINESS

Paid for by students for Reid

Rick Malir, junior in agricultural economics, is back at K-State after spending a year as national president for Future Farmers of America.

nation," he said. "They have over 700 members and not one of the kids come from the farm, but they all study agriculture."

During a conference for all state FFA presidents and vice presidents, Malir said, he met

President Ronald Reagan. "It was thrilling to meet the president of the United States," he said. "I presented him with a plaque, and in his speech to the FFA members, he told a joke on me."

Malir visited 35 states in his effort to promote FFA.

However, he did not spend all of his time traveling from state to state. He said he spent most of last fall planning for the national convention.

"From the end of September, everything was geared toward the national convention," Malir said. "The intense travel and living out of a suit case slowed down."

The FFA program consists of three parts: the vocational agriculture classroom, a work experience program and FFA, he

"FFA is an intregal part of vocational agriculture," Malir said. "Its purpose is to train students for careers in all aspects of agriculture.

He said the vocational agriculture and FFA programs provide excellence in agriculture, especially geared toward high school students.

'Students need biology, chemistry and math," Malir said.

"To pursue agriculture, students need agricultural courses. Our program trains students in those areas.

Some FFA programs have been discontinued because they have not been meeting the community needs, Malir said.

"Before people begin banding to close the programs, they need to look at the real problem - the lack of funding, (and) administration and community support," he said.

Malir said he plans to finish his undergraduate degree, receive his master of business admistration and then pursue a career in agriculture.

"My short-run goals are to learn to study again," he said.

Collegian Classifieds

Cheap, but Effective

Arts & Sciences

-point-

across

Islamic captors extend deadline for prisoners

By The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Moslem kidnappers said in a midnight statement Monday that they had extended "until further notice" their deadline for killing three American and one Indian hostage.

A handwritten Arabic statement signed by Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine said the decision was made in response to pleas from the hostages, their families, nationalist Lebanese organizations and the Indian government.

The statement was delivered to the Beirut office of a Western news agency along with a picture of Robert Polhill, one of the hostages.

Hostage Alann Steen had said Monday that the kidnappers would kill the four at midnight unless Israel freed 400 Arab prisoners

Steen said Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine, which holds the four men, would not reconsider the death verdict or extend the deadline.

"We will be executed at midnight" said Steen, 47, of Boston, in a letter addressed to his wife along with notes from two other kidnapped American college teachers to their

"Until then if you do love us and your hearts beat for us, put pressure on Israel to show good will. Let Israel promise the organization (of the kidnappers) to show good will," Steen

"Let Israel promise the organization plainly and officially that 400 Palestinian mujaheds (holy warriors) will be free. Otherwise, we won't be alive after midnight." The letter implied that an Israeli prisoners would not actually have to be released Monday.

Israel has said it will not yield to terrorist threats. In Jerusalem on Monday, Foreign Minister Shimon Peres said Israel has received no request from the United States to free prisoners. "Nobody has approached Israel on this issue, and Israel won't take any initiative on its own," he Peres said Sunday, however, that Israel is willing to discuss trading Arab prisoners for an Israeli airman downed in Lebanon.

In Washington, the Reagan administration position, as expressed Monday by both White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater and State Department spokesman Charles E. Redman, was once again to rule out concessions to terrorists. Both men said Washington has not approached Israel on the kidnappers' demand.

Steen's wife students and officials of Beirut University College, where Steen and fellow educators Robert Polhill, Jesse Turner and Mithileshwar Singh were abducted two weeks ago, authenticated Steen's handwriting.

Steen is a communications instructor; Polhill, 53, of New York, lectures on accounting; Turner, 39, of Boise, Idaho, is a visiting professor of mathematics and computer science; and Indian-born Singh, 60, a legal resident alien of the United States, is a visiting professor of finance.

The three-page letter was delivered at midafternoon to the Beirut office of a Western news agency with a photograph of Steen, 81/2 hours before the death deadline.

The letter presumed that Israel promise would do and that the must act if Washington dictates.

OUR 2-YEAR COLLEGE PREP COURSE:

MONEY FOR COLLEGE. EXPERIENCE FOR LIFE.

Two years in the Army can bring you a whole lot. Like mental alertness. Physical toughness. Valuable skill training. And maybe most important of all: money for college.

Qualify and enlist for a skill under the GI Bill Plus the Army College Fund, and you can earn $17,000 in college money with a two-year enlistment.

You'll start college two years older, a lot stronger and wiser, and $17,000 richer. It's one college prep course you can build on for the rest of your life.

Call your local Army Recruiter and ask about our special Two-Year Enlistment.

CALL: 776-8551

ARMY. BE ALL YOU CAN BE.

15% OFF ON ALL AUDIO REPAIR Bring in this ad for 15% all audio repair

We service all major brands of TV/STEREO/VCR CONDES

KRUZICH

College of Human Ecology Student Senate

Paid for by committee to elect Kruzich

EVERY TUESDAY NIGHT ALL YOU CAN EAT just $3.95 BBQ BEEF RIBS & FR'ES BAKED BEANS

As a navy officer, pride and professionalism come with the territory. You also develop the potential that you know you have and gain leadership experience that work with highly talented men and ties for postgraduate education.

You'll get a solid starting salary and additional allowances that add even more to your income. Plus. you'll get benefits like free medical In operations and management, in and dental care, thirty days paid scientific and technical fields, you vacation each year, and opportuni-

To qualify, you must be a U.S. citizen no more than 24 years old. have 45 semester hours and pass an aptitude test and physical exam. Get a leadership and management opportunity that makes a big difference in any career. Call Navy Management Programs:

Representative will be interviewing on campus February 17, 18, & 19, 1987. Contact placement officer for an appointment.

NAVY OFFICER.

LEAD THE ADVENTURE.

In quest for money, issues left behind

This campus is inflicted with a deadly disease. Not only is this disease contagious, but it spreads like a wildfire when two or more gather in its presence. I have investigated this disease quite thoroughly since my arrival at K-State 11/2 years ago and have determined the disease is not found just in OUR hallowed halls of learning. Through close contact with my colleagues at other universities, I have found this dreaded disease to be present on other campuses as well. However, K-State is a leading carrier of this disease and, unfortunately, it is found in epidemic proportions here.

The disease I write of is called apathy. I know, right about now every reader is breathing a sigh of relief thinking to themselves, "Geez, I thought she was writing about something really serious!"

Don't be fooled - this is serious. I don't know how or when apathy infiltrated this campus, but it is definitely here. Whether I am at the Union drinking coffee, sitting among students in a classroom discussion or relaxing and talking with a group of student-friends at a local restaurant, I see apathy everywhere.

Because I am not a social scientist, I cannot present an expert analysis of exactly when it was that college students became less involved in the issues of the day. My prediction is that after the Vietnam war ended in the early 1970s, Americans in general decided it was time to become uninvolved with issues of public concern. The war and everything connected to it became an ugly memory for most Americans. People hastily filed it away, hoping never to have to deal with it or anything like it again.

College students became consumed with making a living - and not just an average living. When I was an undergraduate in the late 1970s and early 1980s, the degree programs to be in were strictly the moneymaking degrees. All my colleagues were studying to become lawyers, doctors, stockbrokers, engineers, high-tech managers and the like. At that time, issues of the day were still somewhere at the top of every student's agenda, but they slowly lost out to that time-consuming quest for the almighty dollar.

The character of college campuses has remained in this apathetic state of being ever since the early 1980s and, in fact, the situation is worse. I get very worried when I look around this campus and see hundreds of students who simply just do not know what is happening in the world. Not only do these students not know what's happening in the world, but they don't care what's happening.

I am not saying there are a bunch of ignoramuses walking around this campus. On the contrary, the difficult and rigorous curricula this university offers is evidence enough that it takes a top-notch student who is heavy with gray matter to survive here. However, students here tend to motor through their classes, keeping in mind only one thing — the prized sheepskin that will lead them down the road to success. I truly believe many students never stop to look around at the priceless environment surrounding them

Collegian Columnist

A university is the best place in the world in which to become involved in the issues of the day. This is where many of us will experience tremendous inner growth, both spiritually and intellectually. This is where we will form a foundation to become either future leaders or well-informed, responsible

Many students complain they're not interested in politics. The statement that makes me pull my hair out is, "I'm only one person - what can I do anyway?" This is one of the most dangerous side effects of apathy. Just as apathy is contagious, so is enthusiasm. If you tell your fellow student how concerned you are about the problems in South Africa, for example, and really make an attempt to explain the situation to him or her, then it will get that friend of yours thinking. Your friend might not have known the seriousness or the complexities of the situation in South Africa and he or she just might start looking into the matter. This is how social change begins to occur - from the

In the future, if you walk by a group of protesters outside the Union, don't just keep walking by or make fun of them. Stop and see what they have to say, no matter what issue they are concerned with. If they care enough about something to stand out there, carry signs and share their knowledge with you, then the issue - most of the time - is probably a very important one.

If you think you do not need to be informed about state, national and international politics then you're dead wrong. The nature of American politics today shows many national leaders taking matters into their own hands, without the approval of their constituents (or their president, for that matter). If you want to close your eyes and let the pieces fall where they may, then I suggest you do not complain when America's state of affairs

A good example of what a few people can do to promote change in government policy lies in a University group called Students in Solidarity With Central America. The students of SISCA are so concerned about the damage that U.S. support of the Nicaraguan Contras is doing to the Nicaraguan government and its people that they asked Kansas Rep. Jim Slattery to see the situation for himself. He took their concerns seriously and went to Nicaragua with Manhattanites and University students in tow. Now Slattery is on Capitol Hill trying to rally support from his fellow congressmen in congruence with his constituents' position on Nicaragua.

The only medicine you can use to rid yourself of this disease called apathy is education. If a speaker is scheduled to visit K-State to discuss an important issue, attend that lecture. It's important to find out what's happening in the world, but it's even more important to care. Only a portion of humanity is suffering around the world, but when you look at their plight in the whole scheme of things, their suffering nonetheless affects those living in prosperous times.

It truly is important to care and not be apathetic. If you do care about the state America and the world is in, and if you really try to make an effort to let your voice be heard, you will find the world will be a better place in which to live. I know this all sounds very ideological, but as a man much more articulate than me once said: "You may say I'm a dreamer, but I'm not the only one. I hope someday you'll join us and the world will live as one.

America's leaders have to listen to what you have to say, and though it doesn't always appear this way, they do care about your opinion. So, become informed and let yourself be heard - have something to do with how the pieces fall.

Influence of students illustrated by protests

As a result of student protest sparked by Collegian articles, the administration has instructed K-State police to cease its practice of using surveillance at public photography demonstrations and events. Furthermore, the department's "intelligence file" has been ordered destroyed.

Both orders, made by George Miller, vice president for administration and finance, are wise ones. The deplorable practice was one which should have never been started. Not only was it impractical to begin with, but it also had questionable goals which quite possibly weren't in agreement with the ones stated by the department.

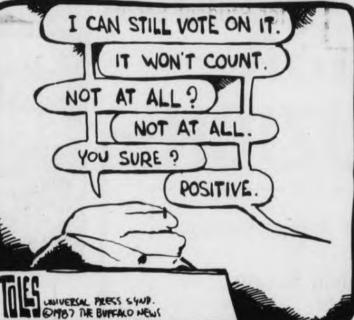

Despite the fact administrators did not know the practice was going on - perhaps another case (although less-famous) of underlings being allowed to act with too lax supervision - Miller's quick and decisive orders were warranted in light of the situation.

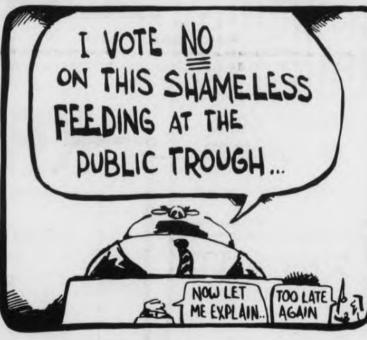

Even more worthy of praise was the students' airing of their opinions, which were justifiably angry and to the point. It's encouraging to know students still have enough concern to protest when their rights are being threatened.

What this episode has illustrated is that students do have a voice when it comes to University policy. They are encouraged to exercise that voice in the future as well.

Hopefully, however, they won't

Symbolic vote against pay raise hypocritical

The House of Representatives last week redefined the definition of hypocrisy with a $12,100 selfappointed pay raise. Although the legislators knew the raise was assured, they symbolically voted against it.

The representatives voted "no" on the issue 16 hours after the raises took effect. It's disturbing - though somehow not surprising - to learn that the vote was taken with full knowledge the decision was meaningless. This allowed congressmen to go on record as voting against the raise, but accept it anyway.

Though most congressmen are financially secure, the increase in salaries is warranted. That is not a contention. After all, the nature of their job and the obligations required of them are financially taxing.

The cost of living in Washington and maintaining a district is not easy to manage.

What is being contended is the way the legislators "pushed" the raise through. Why couldn't they have simply stood up and justified their pay increase to the public? Not only is being straightforward the best course of action, but the lawmakers would most likely have had sympathetic constituents as well.

Obviously, the lawmakers were so concerned with their image that they failed to foresee the political ramifications of their actions. The House would have been far better off if it would have let the automatic pay increase take effect without a show of concern.

Instead of instilling a positive honorable figure in the minds of the people, they only tarnished their image further with their sneaky tactics. This incident displays yet another example of the lack of trust between our place of residence in the home government and the people.

Letters

Due punishment

I have recently undergone a radical change in my stand on the death penalty. For years, I have been against the very concept of a death penalty, but I find this has chang-

I would like to acknowledge, up front, that the application of the death penalty in the past has been more than unfair. It is not applied equally across racial or economic boundaries. I could not support any death penalty statute that did not address these wrongs.

But I could support a death penalty that would be applied equally (if there is such an animal). Here is why. What is the intent of laws to punish those who commit coldblooded acts of violence, heinous crimes? The intent is to remove those people from society so that they may not pose a further threat to the welfare of society. There are certain criminals who should never be allowed to circulate freely in society again. Prison sentences are not likely to change them; indeed, it seems some of them are likely to emerge from prison willing to perpetuate further violence on society and to do so in a manner in which they will not be easy to catch. Others are obviously psychopathic personalities who can never be cured (though perhaps I should not make that assertion, not being a clinical psychologist). I would offer as examples Charles Manson of Helter Skelter fame and David E. Welch, the man who executed six people and wounded two others seriously, including a 3-month-old baby - his own son - because one of them had lost Welch's pit bulldog. I don't want revenge against these people, though I'm sure there are people who do. On the other hand, I would never feel safe if either one of them was allowed to walk free on the streets. So where does that leave us?

It leaves us with the death penalty. The death penalty is described as cruel and inhuman. Personally, I would find rotting in a cell for the rest of my life to be far crueler and more inhuman than a quick death. If I were to have to make the choice between life in prison and execution, I would take execution. That is just one opinion, though. It seems to me we need a death penalty of some type to deal with this aspect of society.

Christian J. Clowers junior in biology

Blue Key exclusion

I came to Kansas State University to receive a rich and varied educational experience. The University, through its traditions and recruiting policies, encourages students of widely differing backgrounds to come to this campus. But I discovered through a column in the Collegian that an organization I belong to stifles this diversity. Blue Key, a senior honorary, requires its members to take an oath upon initiation that "I believe in God." I strongly disagree with the policy of excluding those who would not take this vow. While Blue Key does not openly enforce this portion of its constitution, I appreciate it being brought to our attention so we could give it the thought it deserves. I feel this portion of the oath should be deleted.

Blue Key is not a religious organization and should not select its members on the basis of their religious background. Blue Key should be a forum for a variety of issues and beliefs. Any honorary should not only recognize scholastic and extracurricular activity, but perpetuate the ideals set forth by the University.

Any type of religious discrimination affects a variety of people. Those from other cultures, those of differing beliefs, those who wish to keep their religious beliefs private and those who object to this type of discrimination on principle are all affected. Religious intolerance is not a new problem. Thomas Jefferson expressed his concern about the same issue: "It is the refusing toleration to those of a different opinion which has produced all the bustles and wars on account of religion.'

If we place too much stress on one aspect of our nation's heritage, we can become insensitive to the rights of others. There is a danger in this case even to those who support a profession of faith in God. When freedom of conscience is denied to any citizen, the freedom of all is threatened.

> Laura Garrett senior in consumer affairs

Public record

Recent issues of the Collegian have carried news items and letters referring to photographs taken by police personnel at public events. The publicity centers around requests made to the police to destroy such photographs on the grounds that they may be an invasion of privacy.

From published discussion, it appears the photographs were made at public events. If ABC had covered those events on live TV, would anybody have asked ABC to purge the film from its archives, and would ABC have honored such a request?

The actions of any person participating in a public event become part of the public record, whether that record be remembered, written or recorded on film or tape. Then the public record, by its very definition, can never violate the privacy rights of an individual. If an individual wishes to exclude some action from the public record, he/she should refrain from that action in public. If the action is against the law, he/she should also refrain from it in private.

It is open to debate whether the police, or anyone else, can claim sole ownership of the public record. Certainly, items of public record held by the police should be accessible to the public, but are the police authorized, or even capable, of tampering with public record by purging parts of it?

Maarten van Swaay associate professor of computer science

Kansas

EDITOR Jonie Trued MANAGING EDITOR Sue Dawson NEWS EDITOR Erin Eicher

EDITORIAL PAGE EDITOR Deron Johnson PHOTO/GRAPHICS EDITOR

Andy Nelson ADVERTISING MANAGER Sheila Hutinett

EDITORIAL BOARD: Susan Baird, Kirk Caraway, Sue Dawson, Jim Dietz, Erin Eicher, Judy Goldberg, Ron Honig, Pat Hund, Deron Johnson, Sarah Kessinger, Judy Lundstrom, Margaret May, Scott Miller, Andy Nelson, Patti Paxson, Julie Reynolds, Chris Stewart, Teresa Temme, Jonie Trued. Unsigned editorials represent the majority opinion of the editorial board.

THE COLLEGIAN (USPS 291 020) is published by Student Publications Inc., Kansas State University, daily except Saturdays, Sundays, holidays and University vacation periods. OFFICES are in the north wing of Kedzie Hall, phone 532-6555. SECOND CLASS POSTAGE paid at Manhattan, Kan. 66502. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: calendar year, $40; academic year, $35, semester, $20; summer term, $10. Address changes and letters to the editor should be sent to the Kansas State Collegian, Kedzie 103, Kansas State University, Manhattan, Kan. 66506.

By SANDRA M. SIEBERT Collegian Reporter

The visionary power of some women during medieval times made them capable of taking on roles far above what the Roman Catholic Church defined for women, said Elaine Kruse, professor of history at Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln.

Kruse, who works with the Women's Institute for Theology at NWU, spoke Monday in the Union as part of the activities sponsored by the Women's Resource Center for Susan B. Anthony week

The power these women received through their visions was a mixed blessing, Kruse said. They were allowed to make very bold statements when counseling popes and other high dignitaries, but their lives were based on severe self-denial.

"There is that emphasis on virginity," Kruse said, "and we see that emphasis coming out of the teachings of the church

They lived celibate lives and fasted. Sometimes their ascetic practices brought about severe illnesses, she said. And sometimes they prayed for illness.

These women were of the elite class and had the opportunity in terms of finances and leisure to take on these roles, Kruse said. At this time, the Black Death was ravaging Europe. In those days, when many people were starving, the greatest sin was gluttony, the greatest act of contrition was fasting and the greatest gift was food.

"The religious symbolism of this time was centered around food," Kruse said.

The sacrament of communion was the eating of the flesh and blood of Christ, using two staples of the Mediterranean diet, bread and was the apple which Eve gave to Adam. Women were considered 'carnal reprobates," so one way to gain power and credibility was to deny their carnality, Kruse said. At the age of 15, Catherine of

RE-ELECT

The "symbol of woman's fall"

Siena, a 14th-century Italian saint and visionary, announced to her parents that she would not marry, so she cut off her hair and began a

To convince her she was wrong, Catherine's parents told her she must give up her private room and perform all the household tasks for the family.

Catherine made no complaint. She told her confessor that serving her family was similar to Jesus serving the Apostles.

She began to wear an iron chain around her waist, which left sores on her skin. She beat herself three times a day and took nothing but a little water, the sacrament and an occasional cooked vegetable.

Finally, her parents relented and allowed her to follow a religious

"From this behavior, she became a local celebrity," Kruse said. "People followed her around, people consulted her and gradually her fame spread.'

The extreme fasting of medieval women seems to be a denial of their sexuality, Kruse said.

If a woman's body fat drops to a certain level she stops menstruating, a bodily function thought to be sinful during the Middle Ages. Because of this unclean excretion, women could not be priests, however, a woman who stopped menstruating was particularly revered.

Women visionaries seemed to follow a pattern, Kruse said. First, visions emphasized Jesus' humanity and physicality. Many of them had visions of Jesus as mother, focusing on his nourishing and loving aspects.

Next, women would then have visions of Jesus coming to them as the bridegroom with they usually declaring themselves brides of Christ. Then the orientation was on how much God loved them.

"These women had within them the sense of the fullness of God's love," Kruse said.

Some people might argue that these visions were brought on by the severe fasting and illness in which these women indulged, she said. But they always spoke of their visions as being clear, not coming in a state of ecstacy.

"What I think has made them stand out is the beauty of the vision itself," Kruse said.

Julian of Norwich, 14th-century visionary, had an image of a hazelnut, Kruse said. When she looked at it, Julian realized that God loves it and God loved human beings. Therefore, Julian thought, God is love - God is the hazelnut.

"It has a kind of holistic value in its understanding," Kruse said. "It's so beautiful in its understanding, so far beyond the writings of that time.

"All that appeals to us today is the beauty of the visions themselves," Kruse said. What these women had to say was beautiful and far beyond the teachings of the church at that

The visions of Hildegard of Bingen, a late 13th-century visionary, came in brilliant flashes of light, which caused some people to speculate that she merely suffered from migraines, often accompanied by visual disturbances, Kruse said.

Using what came to her through her visions, Hildegard took the theology of her time and created a cosmology which describes how all are interconnected through God.

Student elections open today

By The Collegian Staff

Now is the time for all K-State students to cast their ballots during the Student Governing Association general election.

Students can vote today and Wednesday by presenting a validated K-State ID at the voting sites. All students, except Veterinary Medicine students, can vote between 7:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. on the stateroom level of the Union.

Veterinary Medicine students may vote in the Veterinary Medicine Complex between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Students will vote for a student body president, student publications board members and student senators. Students will also vote on a non-revenue sports scholarship fee referendum.

Student body president candidates who will appear on the ballot are Michelle Benoit, junior in agricultural economics; Kent Bradley, junior in nutrition science; and Brett Bromich, senior in marketing.

The Board of Student Publications

AIM FOR

consists of four students and four body," said Sally Routson, coorfaculty members, and students will vote for four candidates to fill the student positions.

Student senators will be elected by their individual college constituents; therefore, students will only vote for senators who are running for election from their college.

The athletic fee, which has been discussed for more than a year, is appearing before the students on this

"People that represent the students are important to the student dinator of student activities.

"It's more democratic if more people vote," Routson said. "The students are electing their representatives and they need to take an active role.'

Routson said she encourages all students to vote

"This is your University, and this is your opportunity to your representatives," she said.

Collegian Classifieds Cheap, but Effective

Paid for by students to elect Matt Queen

DAVE ERDMAN

paid for by students to elect Erdman

McCLAIN Monty McClain Business Senator

Paid for by students to elect McClain

Vote for Scott Shuey

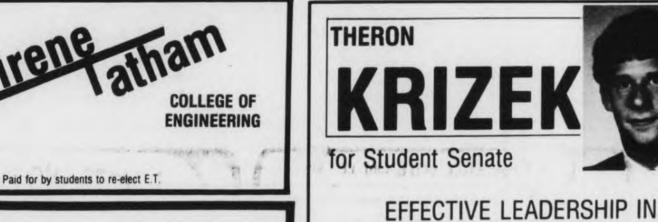

Ag Student Senate

Agriculture, a strong tradition of leadership—continue it!

Paid for by students to elect Shuey

BE SMART WEISENBORN STUDENT SENATE COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

(PAID FOR BY A STUDENT FOR WEISENBORN)

THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE Paid for by the committee to elect Theron Krizek Douglas L. Oetinger For Business Senator

ELECT JOE

"Make student government your business" Even if you don't vote for me—please vote.

Paid for by Students to elect Douglas L. Oetinger

For College of Business Senator Paid for by students to elect Kennedy

Silver Wings is

Choose from an incredible variety of styles See your ArtCarved representative now and save $40 on a great Siladium college ring Every Artt arved ring is backed by a Full Lifetime Warrant Buy now for Spring Graduation

10:00-4:00 Feb. 10-12

'Only $20 deposit needed to order'

Two enticing slices plus one medium soft drink for only $1.99.

Three taste tempting slices, two medium or one large soft drink for

UCLA specialist to perform musical sounds of Near East

By The Collegian Staff

Sounds of a rababah, a daff, a buzuq and several other instruments of the Arab world will fill the K-State

Union Ballroom Thursday evening. A. Jihad Racy, specialist in music of the Near East, will present "Arab Music: A Panorama in Sound," beginning at 7:30 p.m.

"Racy is an accomplished performer and scholar," said Mike Suleiman, professor of political science. "He'll play a lot of different instruments, some not familiar to Westerners, although they are precursors to modern instruments."

Music at the free concert will vary from old Moorish-based muwashshah to folk dance pieces from Lebanese and upper Egyptian

Suleiman said Racy is good at getting the audience to respond to the often fast-beat rhythms of the music. Racy, who will comment on his pieces before playing them, will be accompanied at the concert by Souhayl Kaspar, a performer from Los Angeles who will be playing various Arab percussion instruments.

Collegian advertising has what you need

Earlier in the day Racy will give a lecture-demonstration "Arab Music: Mode and Improvisation" at 12:30 p.m. in McCain Auditorium.

The lecture will focus on the history of Arab music, illustrate various scales and microtones, compare Near Eastern and Western melodic systems and explain improvisation.

Suleiman said Racy has published Arab music and is now writing a book on Arab music. He has performed at the Kennedy Center and Carnegie Hall and wrote the music "Ancient Egypt" to accompany the King Tut exhibit from Egypt that toured the United States

A native of south Lebanon, Racy is currently an associate professor of music at the University of California

K-State to participate in model U.N.

By STEVE LAWRENCE Collegian Reporter

Five K-State students will represent the United Arab Emirates this week at the four day Model United Nations Conference at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln.

Jerry Rosenberg, assistant professor of political science and adviser of UNC, said the conference is organized to expose the students to the United Nations and international relations.

'The students simulate all parts of the U.N.," Rosenberg said. Each school attending the Model United Nations represents a country. The schools choose what country they wish to represent by subhosting the conference, Rosenberg said. "The countries are assigned on a first-come, first-served basis," said Brian Sherwood, senior in political science and president of United Nations Council.

Although they didn't receive their first choice of China, he said they're happy with the United Arab Emirates, a pro-Palestinian nation.

"The United Arab Emirates does not support the United States or the Soviet Union," Sherwood said. "We are a non-aligned country.'

Sherwood said a few members of UNC are usually international students, which is always helpful when requesting a country to repremitting a request to the school sent at the Midwest regional conference.

"Last year, we chose India because we had an Indian student in the United Nations club," he said. "He won an award last year for being one of the top delegates."

But even if the UNC has an international student from the country they represent, the preparation for the conference requires many hours of research.

Sherwood said each delegate researches the country alone before the group discusses what they've learned.

"(In) preparing for the conference, we have met about once a week for the last four weeks," he

They find informational material in the library that shows them how the country has voted on various issues in the United Nations. This gives them a feel for the country's policies, Sherwood said.

Delegates then draft resolutions concerning topics on the General Assembly's agenda. At the conference, they submit the resolutions to those countries affected before debating the contents and

Not only does the preparation require long hours, but the conference itself runs about 12 hours a

"We start about 9 in the morning and go until 9 at night," Sherwood

First There Was Just Say "No" . . . Now, Just Say "YES!"

KNEAVES ENGINEERING SENATOR

Paid for by Students to Elect Kneaves

ATHLETICS or ACADEMICS?

-What are your priorities? With inevitable increases in the cost of your education, is an athletic fee appropriate?

-How much can we afford? More than $40 per year of the "special fees" you must pay already goes toward the support of athletics. Should we give $190,000 more?

YOU HAVE A CHOICE.

Student fees do not have to increase!

VOTE "NO" ON THE ATHLETIC FEE

Please vote Tuesday or Wednesday Student Union

Paid for by the Graduate Student Council

work

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT STUDENTS SUPPORTING BRETT BROMICH

Martin Monto Eirene Tatham John Demars Becky Bromich

Manthri Srinath

John Bayouth Candy Leonard Jeannie O'Connell Carrie Helmke Becky Svaty Matt Queen Kris Tulp Charles Tucker Chris Kemp Lisa Folger Darrin Ruddy Carrie Longwell - Cathy Pierce

Rick Young Dave Tritsch Bruce Cook Michelle Johnson Wendy Wittmer Judy Wolf Brian Ritenour Michelle Thaymer Cheryl Skidmore Tisha Pope

Jim Thorp Erica Anderson Terri Siek Scott Groth Dana Harms

The Zenith Truckload Promotion Is Rolling In Huge Savings For Everyone At KSU!

Now save up to 45% on your very own Zenith Personal Computer.

Zenith Data Systems-a major supplier of portable PCs -is now offering you special savings on its family of Personal Computers during our Zenith Truckload

Select the Zenith Dual Drive Z-148 PC

Perfect for the office or serious home user, the dual drive Z-148 PC offers you these "total performance"

- Compatibility with virtually all IBM PC* software 256K of RAM-expandable to 640K on main board
- Up to 720K of floppy disk storage
- · Dual speed processing for a response time up to 60% faster than the IBM PC
 - And the ability to support most peripherals right out of the box.

Special Price: Suggested retail price: $1499

Includes 1220 Monitor or 1230 Monitor & 512K Upgrade Kit.

Or choose one of these other exciting Zenith PCs!

Zenith Z-158 Enhanced PC · Greater internal expandability • Dual speed processing offers a response time up to 60% faster than the IBM PC/XT*.

Special

Dual Drive * $1099 uggested retail price

Zenith Z-171 Portable PC • IBM PC compatibility • Back-lit LCD screen for greater readability • Two 5 lastriangleright 15 lbs.

upgrade included.

battery pack and 640K RAM

Zenith ZVM-1220 Monochrome Monitor (Shown with Z. 148 PC above) Less distorted viewing • Sleek ergonomic styling • Zenith's famous high resolution Special Suggested retail price: $199.00 Ask about the special KSU pricing on our other monochrome and color monitors.

Monitor not includest in price special pricing offer good only on partchases directly from Zenath 3 onliantest instead above to students. Limite and staff for their own one Noother discounts apply 1,500 on in part and our monitor posterior and part and 2 month period Prices Cost to change

K-State Union Bookstore February 10 & 11

· Most items available for same day carryout.

k-state union

PERSONALIZE your sentiments

Collegian Classified
AME	PHONE NUMBER

Write your message in the space above, clip the coupon and bring it with your pre-payment to Kedzie 103 anytime before 10 a.m. February 12th.

Ads will run February 13th. AND SING DING DING DING

Economist to address trade with Japanese

By The Collegian Staff

Lester Thurow, professor of economics and management at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, will speak at 7:30 tonight in Union Forum Hall.

Addressing "U.S.-Japanese Economic Relations," Thurow will be the first speaker for the spring 1987 series of Lou Douglas Lectures on Public Affairs.

Thurow received his master's degree in philosophy, politics and economics with top honors at Oxford University and his doctorate from Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass.

Thurow has been an economics columnist for The New York Times and the Los Angeles Times and a contributing editor of Newsweek. He is the author of numerous articles and 13 books, including his most recent works,

"The Zero Sum Solution: Building a World Class American Economy" and "The Management Challenge: Japanese Views," which he edited and wrote with nine Japanese

Wayne Nafziger, professor of economics and chairman of the Lou Douglas Lecture Committee, said Thurow's speech would ad-dress the problem of the declining international trade balance and the question of what policies the United States should pursue to improve its competitiveness.

"He will speak about why U.S. manufacturing productivity has not grown as fast as Japan's," Nafziger said.

"He is one of the leading economists in terms of having a presence in the media and speaking to lay audiences. This lecture should be the kind anyone in the University community could pro-

The lecture is free and open to the public.

Radio show's listeners go 'Into Africa'

By KIM GREER Collegian Reporter

A weekend specialty show which first went on the air Saturday takes KSDB listeners "Into Africa.

Dave MacFarland, associate professor of journalism and mass communications, said the program offers African music, which is just as varied as music in the United States.

'Africa has as many varied kinds of music on that continent as we have here," MacFarland said. "We have our country music, our rock 'n' roll, and they have their own kinds of "Into Africa" will not be restricted to a music format. MacFarland said the programmers welcome commentary about events in Africa. Some of the program's music is considered political and protests apartheid.

MacFarland said KSDB can broadcast this type of musical/political show because it is a non-commercial

Elect

"We don't have to worry about (potential or current) sponsors being offended," MacFarland said. Sponsors are also called underwriters.

Because "Into Africa" is geared toward a target audience, it is called a specialty show. MacFarland said KSDB airs specialty shows on weekends because most people have different listening habits.

People listen to the radio on the weekend for the entertainment it offers. On weekdays, they tune into news, weather and information programs, he said. The concept for "Into Africa" came from African students enrolled at K-State. Mohammed Nuru, a fifth-year student in landscape architecture, contacted MacFarland on behalf of the African Student Union.

The ASU had held a program called "An African Night." Nuru said the students giving the program ex-

ELECT

Doug Steele

for a solid K-State ENGINEERING SENATE

Paid for by Doug Steele

TIM

RIDDER

Arts & Sciences Senator

Experience that counts

Paid for by Students to elect Ridder

★ Member Student Affairs & Social Services Committee

pected a turn-out of 70 people. Instead, more than 200 people attended the program, which featured traditional African music, food and dress. Because there was so much interest in the African music, Nuru said he and other ASU officers developed the idea of a campus radio

The development of a specialty show depends on interest and availability of people to produce the show," MacFarland said. Nuru is in charge of production of "Into Africa." Two other students from ASU, Robert Guei, graduate student in agronomy, and Pierra Faa, graduate student in grain science, are the main disc jockeys.

Federal Communications Commission regulations require all licensed operators of audio consoles to be U.S. citizens. Since the African students do not meet this criteria, various KSDB volunteers will run the con-

The African students will concentrate on the music selection and commentary for the show. Regular volunteers have not yet been chosen because the program is still in the early stages of development.

Nuru said most of the music for "Into Africa" is borrowed from other African students. "KSDB has already started a record library for (the show)," Nuru said. Because record companies often send news releases to promote artists, MacFarland said the station will notify them about the new show.

Nuru said he and the DJs were surprised by the number of phone calls about the music and Africa they received during their first program. He said one of the primary purposes of the program is to educate people about Africa.

The FCC indirectly places restrictions on program commentary. Under FCC regulations, KSDB is responsible for all commentary.

MARY SOBBA

Ag Student Senate
Paid for by students for Sobba

PERM SALE

Warm & Gentle Apple Pectin Feels So Lively

$38 $30 E $25 E

539-TAME or 539-8601 404 Humboldt

You Can't Pay More than $44.95!

Complete Eyeglasses

Our only Extras: Cox Coating (scratch guard)-$10 and

Payless Optical Outlet

SANDY

MARIHUGH

For

Student Senate

College of Business

Paid for by students to elect S. Marihugh

* Arts & Sciences Ambassador

★Student Senate Intern

for STUDENT SENATE COLLEGE of ARTS and SCIENCES

QUALIFICATIONS AND EXPERIENCE:

*Residence Hall Leadership *General Scholarship Committee

*Concerned. Hardworking.

and Enthusiastic Paid for by committee to elect Jeff Wing

SOME ISSUES HE

CONSIDERS IMPORTANT *Continued Evaluation of Senate

*Maintaining Student Control over Fees *Teacher and Classroom Instruction

TRAVIS

STUMPFF ARTS AND SCIENCES SENATOR

INVOLVED

* KSU Marching Band, Pep Band * Political Science Major

KSU College Republicans

* KSU Intercollegiate Debate Team * Elected in 1986 Miami County Republican Central Committee

* Ten years Kansas 4-H

KSU Wildcat Battalion, Army * Elected in 1986 Third Congressional District Republican Central Committee

HELP ELECT A QUALITY SENATOR Paid for by Travis Stumpff for Senate Committee

Bradley means:

Accountability

Dependability

Credibility

Sincerity Accessibility

Paid for by students to elect Bradley

Applications Available

Arts & Sciences Council Elections

Eisenhower Hall rm. 116 DUE Feb. 13th

College Lazer Tag Leagues Now Forming Have your group or organization form a team TODAY!

3, 5, or 7 member teams

Open competition 4:30-7:30 Saturdays and Sundays

Contact: Star Systems 913 S. Washington, Junction City 238-1774

An arena now exists to play the game of the future!

Godfather's Pizza Coupon Specials

1118 Laramie In Aggieville by Mini-Mart 539-5303

Now's your chance to satisfy your pizza craving with great savings! Invite the gang over for a Giant 16" special pizza loaded with toppings. Or treat yourself to a delicious Hot SliceTM. You'll love the taste, and the savings. But hurry, offer ends soon!

Hot Slice only 99°

Mon.-Fri. 11:30-1:30 Dine-in or Carryout only

Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit. Valid only at: 1118 Laramie Offer expires 3/15/87.

GODE THERS

Good for TWO Giant 16" special pizzas (The Super Pepperoni or The Four Topper) for only $14! Or, ONE for $9!

On Sunday, your choice use this coupon or take advantage of our free drink offer Sorry, can't do both! Not valid with Tapper or other promotional offers Add $1 for delivery Offer expires 3/15/87

GODF THERS

Valid only at: 1118 Laramie / 539-5303

Hot Slice only 99°

Mon.-Fri. 11:30-1:30 Dine-in or Carryout only

Not valid with other promotional offers. One coupon per person per visit Valid only at: 1118 Laramie

Offer expires 3/15/87.

Retail liquor mark-up laws in violation, Stephan says

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA — Kansas liquor laws which establish a minimum mark-up for bottles and cases of liquor for sale at the retail level are in violation of federal antitrust laws and should not be enforced, Attorney General Robert T. Stephan said Monday.

Stephan told a news conference he believes a Jan. 13 decision by the U.S. Supreme Court which struck down minimum mark-up laws in the state of New York also applies to Kansas laws, which are almost identical.

"The bottom line is that there's such a similarity between New York laws and Kansas laws that I believe the Sherman Act does apply and our minimum price structure is contrary to federal antitrust laws," Stephan said. "I recommend the state no longer enforce its minimum mark-up laws.

HUNAM EXPRESS

1116 More 537-0886

"Simply put, this means retail liquor stores have the right to lower their liquor prices."

Gov. Mike Hayden strongly disagreed with Stephan's conclusion and said the state's minimum mark-up law will continue to be enforced until the Legislature changes it or the courts specifically strike it down.

"I feel as the chief executive of this state it is our job to carry out the laws of Kansas," Hayden told a news conference. "While I may agree with the opinion, I feel it is my job to uphold the law until it is changed.

"I do believe it may spur the Legislature to take it up. I expect it to be moot in a couple months."

to be moot in a couple months."

Hayden said he would speak to John Lamb, director of the Alcoholic Beverage Control, to ensure the law is followed.

Earlier Monday, Lamb said he would notify retail liquor stores of the opinion immediately and planned to stop enforcing the law. In fact, Lamb said Stephan's non-binding legal opinion carried the force of law for his agency.

"I will speak to the director about it," Hayden said. "He has no authority to deviate from (the law) until it's overturned by the Legislature or the courts."

Stephan said it was important the state stop enforcing the law to protect itself from an antitrust lawsuit.

"I believe that if we continue to enforce the statutes and regulations, this state could be subject to the same kind of litigation," Stephan said.

Horror film gives more than gore; veteran actors offer touch of class

By GARY JOHNSON Collegian Reviewer

"The Kindred" is more than just a run-of-the-mill low-budget horror flick.

Film Review

It contains most of the stock elements of any sci-fi/horror story — a mad scientist, an experiment gone awry, plenty of attractive college students — but the film is filled with some genuinely scary moments that rarely degenerate into exploitation (as do so many films in this genre): There's no nudity, and there's little blood (although there are buckets of slime in the movie's gross-out finale).

To give the film some class, veteran actors Rod Steiger and Kim

THE ICECREAM

SOCIAL

shaped ice cream

special Valentine

New Location

cakes for your

537-7079 1439 Anderson

We have

Hunter have supporting roles. As the movie opens, Hunter is on her death bed, pleading for her son, a young scientist (David Allen Brooks), to destroy all the notes and experiments at her private laboratory.

She also talks about "Anthony," calling him her son. But Brooks didn't know he had a brother. Well, he's in for a surprise. It seems his mom grafted some of his own cells onto those of a fish. The results have been busy growing while Hunter was laid up in the hospital.

The early scenes in the movie are quite eerie, particularly when Steiger throws an uncooperative body snatcher into a room full of zombie-like creatures. (It seems Steiger has done some weird experiments of his own.) And when the troupe of young scientists venture to Hunter's home, intent on studying her work (instead of destroying it like she said), the movie becomes a intriguing mystery.

This is the movie's strength: Instead of simply giving us one grossout scene after another, the filmmakers try to create some genuine suspense, and for the most part, they're successful.

But later on, the characters start doing incredibly stupid things. That's how people usually get in trouble in these movies. And as the movie nears its end, Steiger, as the stereotypical mad scientist, must make his final entrance, snarling, sweating and insisting "Anthony" shouldn't be killed.

Unfortunately, when "Anthony" shows up, he's a bit of a disappointment: He's disgusting, yes, but not really scary. "The Kindred" is at its best when we only hear him or catch fleeting glimpses of his tentacles.

Remember to Vote-Today and Tomorrow

MELANIE MAINQUIST

Student Senate-College of Agriculture

Sponsored by Students for Melanie Mainquist will get the job done!

Student Senate
College of Arts and Sciences

Open 7 days a week

Free Delivery

11 a.m.-1 a.m.

Paid for by students to elect Howell for Senate

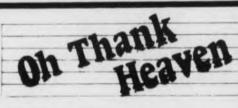

ANNOUNCING THE OPENING OF ERIKSON SPORTS MEDICINE CLINIC

WE PROVIDE:

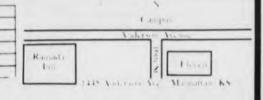

- ★Evaluation, Diagnosis, Treatment, Rehabilitation of sports-related injuries and problems
- ★Determine Body Fat Percentages
- ★Heat Stress Information
- ★Information and advice on Fitness, Injury Prevention, Health Effects of Exercise
- *Much, Much More

CLINIC OPEN TO EVERYONE
WALK-IN CLINIC—8-9:30 a.m. Monday-Friday
1-2:30 p.m. Monday only 1-2 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday, Friday
APPOINTMENTS AVAILABLE TO SHORTEN WAIT—CALL 532-7880
COME SEE WHAT WE ARE ALL ABOUT

1445 Anderson Avenue

Get MAXED

ELEVEN

Buy One New Coke, Caffeine Free Coke, A&W, Sugar Free A&W, Welch's Grape, and

Welch's Strawberry

2-Liter for 99°

Max Headroom cup!

Catch the Wave!

2 Chili-Cheese

Dogs only 89¢

with this coupon

Offer good at Manhattan, KS store through Feb. 13 1987

Buy 1 Super Roy Big Gulp® for only

49¢ with this coupon

WE YOU
LAURIE!

"A few friends, a few strangers, a few drinks . . . trust me, it'll be fabulous."

Laurie Fairburn, Collegian Columnist 3/85

Happy Birthday from the staff

Juniors, Seniors & Grads...

GIVE YOURSELF SOME CREDIT!

APPLY NOW FOR YOUR VERY OWN...

- Bring a photocopy of your School I.D.
- No cosigner required

APPLY NOW ON CAMPUS!

Date: Feb. 10, 11, 12 Time: 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Place: Table outside Union Stateroom

CITIBANCO

e Chicorp, 1986

UNLV retains No. 1 rank in weekly AP poll

By The Associated Press

Nevada-Las Vegas, which has used the three-point goal to go over the 100-point mark 11 times this season, remained No. 1 for the second straight week in the The Associated Press' college basketball poll.

K-State's men, 16-5 overall and 5-3 in the Big Eight Conference, received seven votes in this week's poll. Other conference schools represented in the poll include No. 8 Oklahoma and No. 17 Kansas.

The next seven spots in the rankings released Monday also were the same as last week - Indiana, North Carolina, Iowa, DePaul, Temple, Purdue and Oklahoma.

Nevada-Las Vegas, 23-1, attracted 51 first-place votes and 1,282 points from the nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. The poll includes games through Sunday.

The Runnin' Rebels won both its games last week, defeating Utah State 113-78 and San Jose State 83-74 to stay unbeaten in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association after 11 games.

Indiana, 19-2 and leader in the Big Ten Conference with a 10-1 mark, landed 10 first-place ballots and 1,215 points. The Hoosiers scored conference triumphs over Michigan State 84-80 and Michigan 83-67 on Sunday.

North Carolina, which got the other four No. 1 votes and 1,194 points, beat North Carolina State 96-79 and Virginia 74-73 in overtime Sunday to boost its record to 20-2 and keep the lead in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Iowa received 1,086 points after making its record 21-2 with wins over over Minnesota and Arizona

DePaul, the lone ranked independent, moved to 20-1 with victories over North Carolina State and Dayton and received 987 points.

These are the Top Twenty teams through Feb. 8 in The Associated Press' men's college basketball poll. First-place votes are in parentheses, followed by season records. points and last week's ranking. Big Eight Conference schools are in bold face. 1. UNLV (51) 23-1 1,282 2. Indiana (10) 19-2 1,215 3. N. Carolina (4) 20-2 1,194 21-2 1,086 5. DePaul 6. Temple 7. Purdue 23-1 963 909 18-3 8. Oklahom: 19-3 867 9. Syracuse 10. Pittsburgh 19-4 603

18-5 603

578

16-4 17-4 19-4 555 485 9 454 16 25 19 14. Alabama 16. St. Johns 16-4 17. Kansas 18. TCU 19-4 253 19. Florida 18-5 116

Other teams receiving votes and their points: Memphis State 34; New Orleans 33; Oregon State 22; Kentucky 18; Navy 18; UCLA 14; Western Kentucky 9; K-State 7; Tulsa 7; Notre Dame 6; Ohio State 6; Texas-El Paso 6; Auburn 4; Marshall 4; Michigan 4; Middle Tennessee 4; Virginia 4; Georgia 3; Arkansas-Little Rock 2, Brigham Young 1; Cleveland State 1; Georgia Tech 1; San Diego 1; Southern Mississippi 1.

Temple, 23-2, unbeaten in the Atlantic 10 with victories over Massachusetts, Rhode Island and St. Joseph's last week, got 963 points.

11. Illinois

12. Clemson

Purdue, 18-3, a winner over Wisconsin and Northwestern, received 909 points. Oklahoma, 19-3, which posted Big Eight triumphs over Nebraska and Missouri last week, landed 867 points.

Syracuse, 19-3, one of five ranked Big East teams, advanced two places into the No. 9 spot with 667 points after posted conference wins victories over Seton Hall and Connecticut. Pittsburgh, 19-4, became No. 10 with 593 points - up three places from a week ago - after scoring Big East wins over Villanova and Providence.

Pittsburgh's Charles Smith made two foul shots with eight seconds to play Monday night to give the Panthers a 63-61 victory over No. 9 Syracuse and sole possession of first place in the Big East Conference.

Jerome Lane, the nation's leading rebounder, muscled his way to 21 points - 16 in the second half - and 14 rebounds as the Panthers, 20-4, won their seventh consecutive game despite trailing by as many as seven

Pitt, 9-2 in the Big East, defeated Syracuse for the second time in two weeks. The Panthers won 84-70 in Syracuse on Jan. 26.

Syracuse, 19-4 overall and 8-3 in the Big East, got 19 points from 6-foot-10 center Rony Seikaly and 16 from Sherman Douglas.

Illinois headed the Second Ten. followed by Clemson, Georgetown, Alabama, Duke, St. John's, Kansas, Texas Christian, Florida and Pro-

Last week's Second Ten was Syracuse, Clemson, Pittsburgh, Illinois, Texas Christian, Duke, Providence, Kansas, St. John's and Auburn.

Florida, 18-5, with victories over Georgia and Mississippi State, is back in the Top Twenty for the third time this season. The Gators replaced Southeastern Conference rival Auburn, which lost games to Kentucky and Georgia last week.

Providence. No. 17 last week, slipped to No. 20 spot after losses to Boston College and Pitt.

Randy Stange, a graduate assistant under Coach Lon Kruger, came to K-State after serving as a graduate assistant at Southwest Missouri State University. Stange was a high school standout while playing for Nickerson

Stange's persistence benefits Wildcats

By RON RENO Contributing Writer

Editor's note: This is the first in a series featuring K-State assistant athletic coaches. The series will appear Tuesdays on the sports

Though first-year head coach Lon Kruger has received most of the acclaim for leading K-State's men's basketball team to a 15-6 start, he would be the first to say he hasn't done it alone.

After Kruger accepted the job last spring, not only did he bring in a top-notch recruiting class of players, he also managed to land a capable stable of assistant coaches. One of these is graduate assistant Randy Stange.

Even though Stange said coaching has not necessarily been a lifelong ambition, landing his current job is a testimonial to his per-

Assistant Coaches of K-State

"It started last spring when I was at Southwest Missouri State working as a student assistant. I really hadn't had any definite plans to stay in coaching, but if I did I wanted to coach at a good program on the Division I level," he said.

"When Coach Kruger got the job here, I called him up and asked him if he needed some help and just kept after him. And so finally I was lucky enough to be accepted for the Stange has various duties as a graduate assistant, but said one of the biggest is monitoring academic progress of the athletes. He added that his time under Kruger has been a learning experience for himself as well.

"He's just a great guy to work for," Stange said. "He has so many good qualities - he's personable, he's organized, and he's a step ahead thoughtwise of everybody. He's a well-rounded person.

"There's so many little things (about him), like how he approaches situations. It's not his nature to be impatient and lose control. He's always in control, and that's a strong quality to have," Stange added.

Kruger, for his part, does not regret choosing Stange as his graduate assistant.

"He's extremely conscientious and responsible, and he has an excellent knowledge of the game," Kruger said.

Stange has long been familiar with K-State basketball. He grew

See STANGE, Page 12

Two-year colleges present academic, sport preparation

By RON RENO Contributing Writer

Question: Where would Lon Kruger's Wildcats be this season without the likes of Mitch Richmond, William Scott and Charles

Answer: Probably nowhere near the 15-6 mark they currently enjoy.

Kruger, who was hired as K-State's coach last spring, was at a considerable disadvantage in recruiting because of an late

But the young head coach pulled off a major coup by signing those three from junior colleges after most of the high school talent had already been nabbed.
Some coaches around the country have refused to dip into the unior college ranks for players, but as successes such as K-State's continue to emerge, it's becoming increasingly difficult to ignore the tremendous pool of talent that jucos possess.

"I think that varies from individual to individual according to coaching and what they're look-ing for," Kruger said. "(But) if you go out and recruit quality people, it really doesn't matter where they're from." For many athletes, junior colleges provide an important academic and athletic bridge from high school to college, said graduate assistant coach Randy

"For me it was an advantage because coming out of the high school I graduated from, I really wasn't ready to step in there and play," Stange said.

Stange honed his skills at Hut-chinson Community College before transferring to Southwest Missouri State, where he was an all-conference guard both his years there.

"Playing against better competition made me better, so I was more ready to come in as a junior college player than I would have been," he said.

Assistant coach Dana Altman, who joined Kruger's staff after a successful stint as head coach at Moberly (Mo.) Junior College, agreed. Altman should be an expert on the subject, having coached the likes of former Missouri star Jeff Strong as well as Richmond and Bledsoe while at

"The opportunity to play in 70 or possibly even 80 ballgames in your junior college career is very advantageous for a lot of players, where they might go to a Division I school and spend a year or two riding the bench...Also, the smallness of the situation, for example at Moberly we had 900 students, is a lot easier for them to adjust to.

"Classes are only 26 or 30 peo-ple, so it's a much easier transition for them into the academic life and colle e," Altman said. "Athletically, they gain an advantage playing in all those games, and academically, they gain an advantage with class size and so Many athletes, Stange said, do not need that breaking-in period.

"It depends a lot on the players," he said. "Some players don't need junior colleges academically, physically or even emotionally - that period of growing. That's where I think coaches can tell whether you need a junior college or whether you're ready to make that big step."

Though Kruger has been able to turn around K-State's basketball fortunes in a hurry with the addition of the junior college players, most coaches agree that a program needs the continuity provided by four-year players who come to the university straight from high school.

"Coaches will supplement their programs by picking up a good junior college player, but it's in the high school ranks where you build your program year after year, by recruiting good high school players," Stange said.

Washington ceremony recognizes winners of sailing's prized award

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Stars & Stripes crew brought the America's Cup to the White House on Monday, where President Reagan ribbed a triumphant Dennis Conner as the first man to lose sailing's prized trophy and praised him as the first to win it back.

A beaming Reagan and skipper Conner hoisted aloft the 136-yearold, ornate silver prize as Conner's 11-man crew and Vice President George Bush looked on.

'Today the cup that went Down Under has come back up," Reagan boasted of the Feb. 4 recapturing of the trophy Conner lost to Australia in 1983

The president, sporting a bushman's hat won in a bet with Australian Prime Minister Robert Hawke, called Stars & Stripes' 4-0 win a victory for American technology and competitiveness.

Reagan also praised the crew, which clocked some 1,800 hours of sailing on their quest to restore the cup to its namesake nation.

'No matter how sleek the yacht, it still comes down to what the skipper and crew do with her in the open ocean," Reagan said. Conner - assured behind the helm, but shy before a camera was not at a loss for words in the room packed with press, dignitaries and supporters waving tiny American flags.

"It's really a victory for the American spirit," he said of the two-year, $20-million quest.

Reagan, too, appeared robust a little over a month after his successful prostate surgery

The president and Conner traded quips, after Reagan reported Conner's cool-headed response to a critical sail failure in a crucial race. "You only said, 'Hey, that's too bad," Reagan said.

"That's not all I said," Conner confessed, interrupting. "... All you said that's printable," Reagan retorted.

Conner presented Reagan with a model of Stars & Stripes' novel keel, which champions and challengers credited for giving the 12-meter yacht its speed. Conner also hand-delivered a note to Reagan from Hawke. "My dear Ron," Conner quoted the prime minister, "It's only a temporary possession and we'll be back to get it in 1990.

The ceremony was attended by F. Rawdon Dalrymple, the Australian ambassador to the U.S. Reagan praised the Australians as open, friendly sportsmanlike.

Conner and crew members were here on a victory junket that began last week after the regatta in Fremantle, Australia.

Meyer: K-State's unsung hero

What is a broken heart? That's a good question to ask this time of the year with Valentine's Day right around the corner. It's also an inquiry K-State's basketball fans shouldn't have trouble answering after having their heartstrings tugged at by the Wildcats' opponents this

An appropriate reply to the question would be either:

a) being teased through 39 minutes of basketball in Ahearn Field House, only to lose by three to the Oklahoma Sooners, who have just knocked off the No. 1 team in the nation or;

b) being run through a three-hour emotional ringer of "We Hate Jayhawkism," while watching the 'Cats almost literally run away from the light at the end of the tunnel. It's bad enough losing to the 18th-ranked 'Hawks, but they live too close to let us forget. After the Kansas game, one could vaguely feel the "Old Purple Basketball Pride" slipping unforgivably

Some hearts were partially mended Saturday when K-State convincingly beat Iowa State in Ames, 87-75.

JEFF RAPP Sports Writer

That win came with these comments in mind: "They can't possibly bounce back after such an emotional loss," and "Here we go again, another one of 'those' seasons.'

After the victory, it's time to step back and take a logical look at the situation.

K-State was picked to finish seventh in the Big Eight this season, so the 'Cats have already exceded expectations and disproved doubts. People know they can't expect K-State to be anything but a traditionally solid team, and Kruger is for real as an up-and-coming basketball

All that aside, though, there must have been something missing in the losses to Missouri and Kansas.

There was. His name was Ron Meyer, K-State's unsung hero, who speaks softly and carries an appropriately sized stick. K-State lost to the Tigers and the

Jayhawks by an average of 4.5 points per game. Meyer, who was sidelined with a deep bruise on his left thigh, averages 4.8 points per contest. His input, seldom spectacular but always consistent, would have statistically and theoretically allowed K-State to tame Missouri by five and cool Kansas by four. Of course, statistics are statistics. But it truly arouses thoughts of being nationally ranked, 7-1 in the Big Eight Conference, 18-3 overall, having state bragging rights. Wildcat fans can be happy with their dose of "the cure for the common heartbreak" with a win against Iowa State and some happy times coming Wednesday in Ahearn against Colorado. They can also watch Ron Meyer running around out there with several yards of tape around his severely bruised thigh and think of what might have been. And what could still be.

Cameras

Continued from Page 1

Right to Life is an anti-abortion organization.

Steve Milligan, graduate in chemical engineering and SISCA member, said an abortion demonstration which occurred just one week before the SISCA demonstration was not photograph-

"The abortion protest was less severe," Beckom said. "We have to go by what we've had problems with in the past - those that generate violence."

Investigator Richard Herrman said in a Feb. 5 Collegian article that photographs are taken at campus events as a preventative measure in case violence would erupt or a related event would occur in the

Beckom said some K-State police photographs were used several years ago to identify two groups of Iranian students who were involved in disorderly conduct during a Landon

'We introduced photos of what was taken at the time and the people were identified," he said.

Several other students also expressed their concerns about the surveillance photographs last week to Dorothy Thompson, associate University attorney.

"Many of the students thought it had a chilling effect on their First Amendment right of free speech,"

One repercussion of the surveillance photographs, O'Neil said, would be if the photographs got in the hands of potential employers.

Justin Palmer, senior in philosopy and SISCA president, said the issue is also particularly relevant to students who come from countries with oppressive governments.

"It would be hard to convince them (foreign students) that the surveillance is just for their safety,"

O'Neil stressed that the possible repercussions were not what inhibited free speech.

"Fear itself, whether appropriate or not, is what has the chilling effect," he said.

The suggested policy will be reviewed by Beckom and Lambert and presented to the Council on Traffic, Parking and Police Operations for discussion. The council, scheduled to meet Feb. 23, will submit its evaluation to George Miller, vice president for administration and

FAMILY

HAIR CARE 539-7751

BARBER STYLISTS 776-5197

Looking for an apartment? Check Collegian Classifieds

Happy Valentine's Day from:

Overdose

Continued from Page 1

McFarlane. Fetterman referred all inquiries to Sanford, who he said had left for the day and could not be reached.

Acquaviva, the Montgomery detective, said an ambulance was met on arrival at the McFarlane home by McFarlane's wife, Jonda, and an unidentified neighbor. McFarlane was conscious and able to talk a bit but did not indicate why he had taken the pills.

"He made no statement as to the reason why, although there's every indication it was an overdose," Acquaviva said. "He did not talk - outside of indicating he had taken the Valium...Mrs. McFarlane appeared to be upset but also apparently perplexed about the situation.

The detective said paramedics were able to determine that McFarlane had swallowed between 25 and 30 pills. They did not indicate how long the drugs had been in McFarlane's bloodstream, although "he was described as being in a physically depressed state - the chemicals were already working on his nervous system.' Valium is available in 2, 5 and 10 can have

milligram. tablets. The usual daily dose is between 2 and 10 milligrams taken two to four times daily, according to the authoritative Physicians' Desk Reference.

Symptoms of a Valium overdose can include sleepiness, confusion, diminished reflexes, depressed blood pressure or coma, and treatment includes close observation and administering intravenous fluids, according to medical reference books.

The authoritative Physicians' Desk Reference said that because Valium use can result in physical or psychological dependence, patients should be monitored closely and prolonged use should be avoided. It was not known when McFarlane began using Valium.

John Henshaw, a McFarlane aide, said, "He had apparently an adverse reaction to a prescribed medication he took...He's in good condition. He's awake, under observation.'

McFarlane is a former Marine lieutenant colonel and combat veteran, which permits him to use the Navy's medical facilities near his home in suburban Maryland.

He was the second major figure in the Iran-Contra controversy to be hospitalized. CIA Director William J. Casey underwent surgery for a malignant brain tumor and resigned his post last week.

Stange

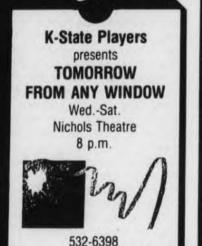

Continued from Page 9

up in Nickerson where he averaged 27 points a game his senior year while leading Nickerson High School to a third-place finish in the state 4A championship.

He then went on to start for Hutchinson Community College before enrolling at Southwest Missouri State where he twice garnered allconference honors at the guard posi-

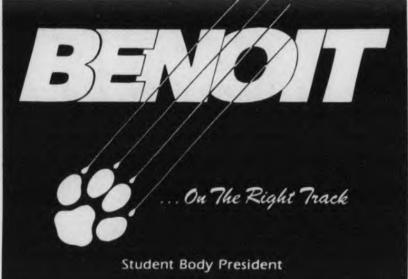

Stange said that while he is not sure how long he will stay in coaching, he is content with his position for the present. Graduate assistants work on a two-year con-

ELECT RANDY ORSCHELN

College of Business Administration Student Senate Paid for by Students for Orscheln

12-5 p.m.

TAKE A STAND . . VOTE FOR

Paid for by Students to elect Eric Custer

VOTE FOR:

GARY HEADRICK ✓

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE Sponsored by the Committee to Elect Gary Headrick

Re-elect KIRK STUDENT SENATE

CARAWAY

Scott

ARTS AND SCIENCE SENATOR

a representative in

Paid for by Students to elect Lars Scott

Have story or photo ideas? CALL 532-6556

engineering senate

vote for Lars

Paid for by Students for Educational Awareness

ENGINEERING

JOEL MARQUARDT arts and sciences senator

JULIE FRICK

Paid for by Arrow Board

Education Senate Paid for by Sheahon's Mom & Dad.

VOTE ZENGER

Ag Student Council PRESIDENT Proven Leadership for the College of Ag Paid for by students for Kirk

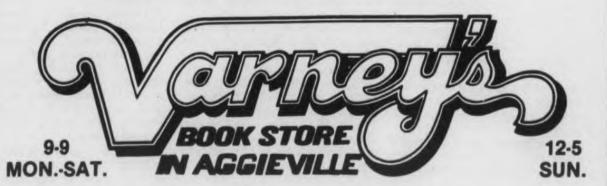

RECORD—TAPE SALE

JOEL MARQUARDT

Now In Progress!

CLASSICAL ROCK FOLK JAZZ COUNTRY

Records start as low as $1.98! Cassette tapes as low as $2.98!

On the edge of campus, in the heart of Aggieville.

AS A NAVY PILOT THE SKY'S YOUR ONLY LIMIT.

Once you've punched through the clouds in an F-14, catapulted off the deck of a carrier, passed the speed of sound twice over. and mastered the aircraft and skills to do it, no challenge will seem too great. You'll be leading the adventure. As an officer and pilot in the U.S. Navy. you'll be getting the kind of experience you need to make your career really take off.

It begins with Navy flight training where you'll learn state-of-the-art navigation, aerodynamics and computer technology. It continues as one of the most thrilling and rewarding careers you can choose. After only four years, you'll be earning at least $35,000. And you'll be receiving an outstanding benefits package with 30 days' paid vacation each year, medical and dental care, low-cost life insurance and tax-free allowances.

